Councilmen Face Controversy Over Sidewalk South of Pool

Owners See No Danger to Pedestrians

Controversy over construction of sidewalks south from the new municipal swimming pool provided action for the city council at its regular meeting Tuesday night. Earl Lewis had earlier requested that the sidewalks be built on the west side of Lincoln street south from the pool to join with those already present south of Blossler park.

Mrs. Elsie Micha, permission to move 12x20 house and remodel it at 518 East Sixth. Estimated cost was $1500. Harold Maciejowski, $10,000 residence on West Fourth, just east of the practice football field. J. R. Johnson, $9,000 residence on the west side of Lincoln between seventh and Twelfth.

The opponents said no such hazard was encountered for school children as they could see no reason for adding sidewalks now. They also pointed out that no objections to the lack of sidewalks had been presented by parents of children going to the pool.

A report from Pool Manager Don Hollmorgen showed receipts totaled nearly $4,000 in the first 21 days of operation. After complaints about dust entering the pool, the council decided to close the alley west of the pool to cut off traffic.

What Gives . . . ?

Last Wednesday Governor Victor Anderson said he would defer any work on the proposed relocation of Highway 35 until the State Supreme Court could rule on the constitutionality of LB 187.

Friday Attorney General C. S. Beck said the highway department has no choice but to prepare to adapt the revamped highway system as approved by the Legislature.

Attorney General Beck said that even if the law is found unconstitutional the highway department has administrative authority to relocate highways—even No. 35—and the attorney for the group opposing the relocation agrees!

Sunday Governor Anderson and State Engineer L. N. Riss said they will proceed with all other road relocations EXCEPT HIGHWAY 35.

These statements bring up several questions: IF THE STATE HAS AUTHORITY TO RELOCATE HIGHWAYS, WHY DELAY WORK PENDING A RULING ON THE CONSTITUTIONALITY OF LB 187?

According to Mr. Beck No. 35 can be relocated without authority granted under LB 187, yet work won't be started on this road, Governor Anderson said, until the ruling is given.

IF WORK MUST BE HELD UP ON HIGHWAY 35—UNTIL THE STATE HIGH COURT RULES ON LB 187, HOW CAN WORK PROCEED ON OTHER RELOCATIONS WRITTEN INTO THE SAME LAW?

Governor Anderson said Sunday that since Highway 35 is the only controversial relocation work would continue on the rest of the changes. If relocation of No. 35 is unconstitutional surely relocation of other highways is also unconstitutional.

This seems to be a tale of contradictions. Work is held up on No. 35 awaiting a Supreme Court ruling on LB 187, yet the authority to relocate already rests with the state. Work is held up on No. 35 awaiting a Supreme Court ruling on LB 187, yet work on other relocations under the same law can proceed.

Admittedly the highway department should await the ruling before it begins maintaining the additional 404 miles of highway it acquired under 187, yet that factor has no bearing on relocating No. 35.

Could it be that political expediency is the factor delaying work on Highway 35 rather than the legal aspects of the relocations?

THE READING CLUB PARTY AND AWARDED OF THE prizes will be held this Saturday afternoon at three o'clock. All reading club members and their friends or brothers and sisters are invited. ARE THERE ANY BIRDWATCHERS IN WAYNE? If so we have a book about how to watch birds which should make your hobby more interesting. It explains what a bird watcher is, where to find birds and how to approach and identify them. Also what to feed birds, photograph them and collect their eggs and nests. One of the most interesting chapters is about how birds got their names.

BOXING SEEMS TO INTEREST MOST TEEN-AGE boys so we have found a book by Jon Louis on How to Box. It has pictures of how to train, equipment needed and all the fine points of the art of boxing. We suspect that some of the men will be interested in this book too.

THE LITERARY GUILD SELECTION FOR AUGUST is going to be a good reader. The title is Man in the Gray Flannel Suit and the author Sloan Wilson. It is a picture of marriage in America today, where husband and wife work for the future of their family. It will strike close to the experiences of many people so if you are looking for a good story and want something modern, if you are tired of historical novels, you will enjoy this one.

YOUR LIBRARIAN WILL BE ON VACATION IN BALTIMORE, Maryland for the next two weeks. She will be reading stories to her two grandsons there instead of the children of Wayne. If you have any problems the regular staff cannot handle just save them for a week or so and I will be back.

CAPITOL NEWS

BY MELVIN PAUL Nebraska Press Association Statehouse Correspondent

Lincoln The State Board of Equalization this week began the first hearings on 21 counties called in to explain their tax assessment work this year.

The fact that two of the counties were expected to show clearly that Nebraska has finally settled into a pattern of statewide equalization. But it took six years of court and board action to wrench the state from its former haphazard patchwork of widely varying rates of assessment.

First counties called to appear before the board were the two wealthiest, Douglas (Omaha) and Lancaster (Lincoln). But they are probably going to be little criticism of these two since Douglas showed a $20 million increase and Lancaster a $5 million hike.

In fact Gov. Anderson explained that the major reason these two were called was because the "tax of the state" are on them. Having them tell their story would help with the remainder of the counties, he explained.

The truth this year was that without the house-building boom in Lincoln and Omaha the state total of assessments probably would have been a shade lower. But this factor plus increased railroad and franchise such as pipelines and telephone companies brought the total up about $5 million higher than last year.

Out of a total of $6 billion that doesn't mean too much.

It did mean the taxpayer would get a hike only because of increased appropriations by the Legislature and not because of any fall in the valuation of property statewide. About $113 million more is needed to support government functions, including about $1 million more in the general fund.

It appears now that it will take a state general fund mill levy increase of about 1.50 to 2.00 mills (that's $1.50 to $2 more tax per $1,000 of assessed valuation) for 1955. The total for 1955 would be somewhere between 6.50 and 7 mill. The latest instance was the killing by the 1955 Legislature Education Committee of a bill by Sen. William Puddy, Norfolk, which would have stripped away this power.

Counties Called

In addition to Lancaster and Douglas 19 others were called to "show cause" why their valuations shouldn't be raised or lowered.

Chase, Garfield, Grant, Harlan, Keith, Keya Paha, Scotts Bluff, and Wheeler are being called about their real estate assessments. Some of the counties have cut their valuations and others are being called because their neighbors complained their assessments were too low.

Holt and Franklin, two of the complainers, have also been called in. York County has been asked to appear to show why its assessments of town property are down.

Otoe county is to be asked to explain its downed tax in valuations and Kimball will be questioned about oil property assessments. Business inventories in Dodge, Fillmore and Johnson Counties will be scrutinized by the state Board of Equalization. It had no answer to a letter asking for more information. Garden (as well as Lancaster and Douglas) were brought in because the abstract of assessments was filed too late for letters of query to be sent back.

Balances

Computations made after the June 30 close of the 1953-55 fiscal biennium showed that the Legislature Budget committee badly underestimated how much unexpended balances the state's various agencies would have. The committee estimated the agencies would have $15,082,319 left over. Instead there was $27,638,933 in unexpended balances.

The catch is that the Legislature reappropriated most of these unexpended balances. That means the agencies have a $12.6 million windfall. It means the total state budget is really $237.4 million instead of the $244.8 million the Legislature thought.

Anderson immediately warned the agencies not to feel they could go right ahead and spend this extra money. State Sen. Hal Bridenbaugh, Dakota City, chairman of the Budget committee, said the committee had taken the estimates by the agencies themselves.

The facts appeared to be that most of the agencies made their estimates in September, or 10 months ahead of time. Most guessed low to be on the safe side. Others hoped for just the type windfall they got.

In past sessions the Budget committee has closely watched agency spending, revising the balances upward as it appeared there was going to be more left than the agencies originally estimated. But there is reason to believe that the Budget committee this time, frightened by a budget that had skyrocketed from last session's $197 million to $224.8 million, didn't want anything that would make it bigger.

The only catch to this is that for the general fund alone an "unneeded" $1.8 million will be raised from the taxpayers. The general fund balance was estimated at $5,867,555. So out of that 1.5 to 2 mill increase on all Nebraska taxpayers about 3 mill will come because the budget committee didn't watch those balances close enough.

Redistricting

The State Supreme court apparently has upset the application on school redistricting in the state.

In a Hitchcock county case the high court ruled that the State School Reorganization committee has no power to veto plans submitted under the 55 percent petition plan. This type of plan accounted for about 95 percent of the work of the committee—composed of both educators and non-educators—has had.

For all practical purposes it means the state committee will be confined to plans drafted by county reorganization committees. And there have been very few of these so far.

State Education Commissioner F. B. Cramer immediately labeled the decision one which will "set back restricting in Nebraska by many years."

Decker said that in many areas rural districts will be made into slightly larger districts and erect a rural school. This will be used to block off "larger and sane" redistricting.

The commissioner even quarreled with the courts thinking on the matter. The court said it followed legislative intent. But Decker said the legislature had repeatedly shown it wanted the state reorganization committee to have this fair be taken off Sunday was made by the pastors of Wayne County. . . A few weeks later an "open letter" was published stating why the fair should not be on Sunday. It stated:

"Because we believe that the Sabbath Day is a day to be kept holy as the Bible so states, and because we believe that a County Fair involves all church groups, and because the money for the support of the County Fair is assessed from all residents, many of whom do not believe in the fair we believe that the young people who enter livestock should not have to choose between the fair and the observance of the Sabbath. We hereby ask the Wayne County Fair be changed to start on some day of the week which would not involve Sunday."

Near the official boards and pastors of 19 churches in this county voted written protest. Also sent to the fair board. Many individuals made personal contacts voicing their objection. The directors of Kiwanis asked their county committee to write a letter of protest against Sunday fairs and the Band Mothers voted that the high school band would not play on Sunday. Some businessmen are not displaying their merchandise this year because of the Sunday date. Now several of the 4-H clubs have voted to close all displays for Sunday and enter the livestock until Monday, Aug. 15. Yet it has been published that all entries must be made by 6 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 13 and in place by 9:30 p.m. the same day. All livestock is covered by this provision. . . no entries will be accepted after the specified deadline. . . exhibit buildings opening at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 14. This means that a child who has been taught to follow the teachings of the Bible must either sacrifice his convictions or his chance to place his exhibit at the fair. Since when have we started penalizing a child for his convictions? May God forgive us if the "Almighty-Dollar" has become more important than the spiritual welfare of the youth of our county.

We ask again that no 4-H or school displays be opened on Sunday and that the livestock be allowed to enter in good standing on Monday, August 15. Why have the wishes of a large majority of the citizens of Wayne County been ignored? If the pig entertainment is the drawing card for the fair, let it stand alone without the aid of the 4-H.

Hereford Tour: We have just received the program and routing sheet for the Southeast Nebraska Hereford Breeders tour. W. W. Derrick, livestock specialist at the college of agriculture, will be in charge. The tour's visitors will have an opportunity to see both horned and polled cattle on 21 farms. Any interested persons are welcome on the tour. However, each person should make his own hotel or motel reservation; hotel accommodations will be available at Hebron, DeSmet, Fairbury, Beatrice and Lincoln. Noon lunch will be served on the tour both days. The first day's tour will assemble at 7:00 a.m. in the Chester city auditorium. The second day the tour will assemble at Hallam.

The tour is sponsored by the State and County Extension Service cooperating with Hereford breeders of Southeast Nebraska. Local chambers of commerce and civic organizations and the Nebraska Hereford association are also cooperating. For further information, contact W. W. Derrick, University of Nebraska, College of Agriculture, Lincoln.

Sheep Day: The nineteenth annual Nebraska Sheep day, show and sale will be held Aug. 3 at the state fairgrounds, Lincoln. J. Frank Stigall, Midwest Wool Marketing cooperative, Kansas City, Mo., will be on hand to explain the national wool incentive program and wool classification. Henry Hart, Cozad, champion spring lamb producer for 1955 at the Omaha Lamb show, will discuss his lamb production plans. Dr. George W. Kelley, college of agriculture parasitologist, will speak on sheep parasites. Dr. Paul Q. Guyer, extension animal husbandman, will talk on stillbirth and sheep. W. T. Esary, college of agriculture shepherd, and Tommy Deane, shepherd at Kansas State, will judge 100 rams and 100 ewes on the morning program. In the afternoon, 25 Nebraska breeders will sell their choice rams and ewes at an auction sale. Canada Visit: I have recently travelled to Canada and Edmonton, Alberta, Canada. Items noted which were of interest to us were these: The conditions of grasslands in Western Nebraska, Wyoming and Montana were the best in years. Sheep and cattle are doing well. Perous: business, industry and construction is booming much the same as our area. Grass and hay appeared to be in surplus and prospects were for a good grain crop, which is just now heading out. Farmers told us that winters are often but not severe. Temperature often falls to 40 to 50 degrees below zero. The railroad between Calgary and Edmonton has never used a snowplow in its 50 years of existence. Livestock prices were about 10 percent under ours. About selling on quotas as ours. 40 percent below our prices. United States-made automobiles cost 20 percent over U.S. prices. Lots of European made tractors and machinery offered for sale but U. S. makes are most popular. Roads are difficult to maintain because of frost damage. Most travel to Eastern Canada is made via roads in Northern United States.

Letters to The Editor

Dear Editor: I visited the Wayne county museum at the fourhouse and found it in good arrangement but crowded. I think it would be a good project for Wayne to purchase a building for large house downtown so it could be expanded and advertised. The ladies would appreciate more room and much more could be gathered for display. It is a worth while work. Anyway let's think about it. A Wayne County Resident

Wood Finish, Bath, Open Porch are Top Features of John Einung Home

Split-Level Trend Shows

Mr. and Mrs. John Einung, professional architects, but did a thorough job of planning their new home at 520 West 11th street. Einung did much of the work on the home himself. Einung lived in the basement of the home a year. They moved to the main floor in April.

Overall measurements for the house and attached garage are 52 x 32. The Tullstone blocks are painted a pale green on the exterior to blend with the red Regan brick used for facing.

Three features are particularly attractive: woodwork and cupboards, 10 x 14 bathroom and an open porch of the living room on the north side. Woodwork and cupboards are beautifully finished blond oak. The bath is finished in the popular colors of the year and is arranged for utmost convenience.

Charcoal, plastic terrazzo tile was used in the bath floor. Lower half of the walls is covered with black marbled impasto. The living room has imported Tullstone pink with a white marble top. The kitchen walls are lined with built-in cabinets, a built-in vanity, a built-in desk and built-in vanity. Cabinet and vanity tops are covered with charcoal sky background. Imported Tullstone pink is used on the south wall in front of the lavatory and cabinets.

Cool breezes on a picturesque view of the countryside from the open porch off the living room is a popular place on which to relax.

The Roman brick wall which highlights the entrance continues on the west wall of the 11 x 28 living room. Light gray walls and a gray wood wood carpet add warmth to the room.

A 5 x 5 slab of black and ivory marble at the front entrance protects the carpet from dirt and hard wear.

When you enter the house, the 11 x 11 master bedroom walls are Tullstone pink in a dusty rose color. The large closet has sliding doors on the front and drawers below. A rose-colored extension telephone is stationed on the headboard of the single bed.

A pale yellow nursery measures 10 x 14. The simple design of men and animals on the salicloth drapes gives a real spirit of life to that in the master bedroom. Carpeting is twilight blue.

The 21 x 13 kitchen is lemon yellow with gray terrazzo plastic tile on the floor and aqua Formica on the working surfaces of the sink and cabinets. Mrs. Einung especially likes her built-in stove and wall oven. In the cabinet arrangement there is also a built-in desk with matching telephone. The dining set in the northwest corner of the kitchen is chartreuse.

A basement bath in pine, frosted glass and light ivory affords a stool, shower and lavatory.

A south wall of striated plywood features the bedroom basement. The other walls are light turquoise. Ivory and charcoal tile was laid on the floor with rose carpeting in the dressing area. There is also a large closet and cupboard space.

The basement floor is even with the ground level on the north side of the home. A retaining wall will be built and a patio added.

Einungs have two daughters, Susan and Lisa Ann.

Insulation Means Saving, Comfort

Insulation not only reduces the temperature of the home during the warm weather months, but, over a period of years, it actually pays for itself in fuel economy.

It is estimated that fuel consumption may be reduced from 20 to 40 percent depending upon the kind, amount and completeness of the insulation.

Vinyl plastic tile was used on floors of the kitchen and bathroom. Wall-to-wall carpeting covers the other rooms. Walls throughout the home are colored plaster with a striped design.

The full basement is not completed. It will offer more living space in line with the current trend toward split-level homes.

The entire floor will be tiled with asphalt. Grey and white marbled tile was used in the lavatory room and den. An extension telephone has also been installed.

Background For Beauty

Today's honey-haired character looks for chic in colors when selecting a wardrobe or an interior decorating scheme. She can be sophisticated and smart in soft dark shades, or misty and angelic in fluffy pastels.

Start with the walls. The richness of cafe au lait tones in the walls sets off most blues to great advantage. This flat-tinted coffee-and-cream hue can be found in western red cedar wall paneling, finished to bring out the brown colors in the wood. The best achieved by first rubbing a white paint into the wood grain then wiping off the excess.

The golden-topped decorator will also find a charmingly complementary wall hue in the soft, pale yellow of her paneling. The deeper mocha grain might be accentuated by using the green color in draperies or carpets. The result might very well be the fresh tinge of newly plowed earth which can be achieved with hemlock flooring stained to this rich lush brown. Use scatter rugs of turquoise or wheat yellow if floor area is large to cover your homelike floors with a warm brown carpet or tile.

Ceiling: A pale pale yellow if you want height in your rooms, and to carry out the monochromatic effect using blues shades up to light lemon. Avoid the flat-bodied yellows as they make light hair appear weak in tone. Perhaps you will choose wood beams to top your room backed with the decking.

Accents: The blonde can really play up her fragile femininity with the color splashes in her home. Delphinium blue, one of the blonde's best color friends, with cool chartreuses and shocking whites in draperies and upholstery fabrics sharpens up the monochromatic background if she uses turquoise scatter rugs, however, she might choose to continue this tone theme in lieu of the blue.

Buy Windows For Quality Not Price

What should you look for when selecting new windows?

Price is a consideration, but a bulletin issued by the University of Illinois Small Homes Council lists the important factors that should influence your choice.

First, the windows should let in enough daylight and air. The panes should not seriously interfere with the view. The window unit, both frame and sash, should be economically adaptable to construction techniques used in the house. It should be fitted with hardware that makes operation easy.

Other questions the Small Homes Council advises the homeowner to ask are:

"Is the window weather-tight when closed? Can it be opened without interfering with draperies, blinds or furniture placement? Can it be easily fitted with screen and storm sash?"

"Can it be easily washed and inexpensively maintained?"

Discussing the advantages of wood windows, the Council bulletin observes:

"Wood does not transmit heat readily and does not become as cold as metal or glass; hence, moisture vapor from the air does not condense on it." Absence of condensation means there is no problem of water collecting on window sash and frame and running down to ruin the wallpaper or paint.

All of the Council's recommendations have been accomplished in an experimental solar poultry house at Pennsylvania State university with as little as one square foot of floor space per layer. Ordinarily, three square feet per bird is required in conventional poultry housing.

Sun Heat Helps Solve Poultry House Problems

Major poultry management problems such as wet litter, dirty eggs and ammonia fumes can be solved by using a functionally designed poultry house that is insulated, ventilated and planned to take advantage of the winter's sun heat.

In such a building, Dr. Glenn O. Bressler, nationally known poultry housing authority, told members of the American Poultry and Hatchery Federations, can be kept dry the year around and an average of 80 percent of the eggs can be produced clean. Ammonia fumes, so disagreeable in a poultry house, can be eliminated.

The Wayne (Nebr.) Herald, Thursday, July 28, 1955

During a three-week mating period, with a ratio of one male to 28 hens, 80 percent egg fertility was reported.

This demonstrated that with an appropriate sex ratio of one rooster to 20 hens, fertility in flocks producing hatching eggs would not be impaired by the denser bird population in the solar laying house.

This finding offers new possibilities for hatching egg producers to cut costs. Further work in this area is contemplated to determine the most appropriate breeding flock management for a heavily insulated functionally designed house.

The success of the experimental house is centered around four main features, which Dr. Bressler listed as: (1) insulation; (2) farm buildings-Thermopane windows, solar-oriented; (3) positive fan ventilation and (4) a feeding, watering and roosting of birds over a pit which is cleaned mechanically.

Fixed Thermopane windows having twice the insulating value of ordinary windows reduce heat loss from the building and permit more effective use of solar heat in winter. A sunshade, Dr. Bressler said, helps to keep the house cooler in summer.

Eight fans, each delivering about 750 cubic feet of air per minute, have functioned well as a moisture remover and have kept the air fresh because of two factors:

(1) The house is well insulated and the sun's rays can pour into the house in the wintertime through the insulated windows. This provides a good supply of heat to evaporate the moisture.

(2) Sufficient volume of air can be removed without appreciably lowering the house temperature. An air change can be made every four or five minutes.

Built-in Storage Space for Family

To obtain maximum storage space, while sacrificing a minimum of living area, consider the use of built-in cabinets. They can fill spaces that would otherwise be wasted and can be designed to store almost any item or combination of items.

Strategically located to store equipment in the area where it is used, they can do much to save steps and at the same time reduce room clutter.

Home Quiz Man

Question: When putty is used to cover nail holes, how do I keep the putty from turning lighter than the wood?

Answer: It is not the putty that lightens, but the wood which darkens. To avoid light putty spots on wood paneled walls, saturate the putty with oil paint a few shades deeper than the wood to which it will be applied. This will be unattractive for awhile, but it will not take the wood long to deepen to the same color as the putty.

MAKE RADIATOR COVERS

Attractive radiator covers are welcome projects in many homes.

No over-all dimensions are shown in the drawings; they will depend upon the size of the radiators.

Using 1-inch lumber, cut the side pieces to allow for the base board and molding, and the turnoff valve and pipe.

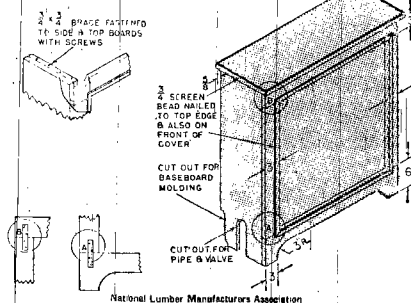

The base panel arch permits air circulation. This panel is fastened to the sides with No. 9 flathead wood screws, 1 1/2 inches long, countersunk.

Add the 3/4 by 3/4 brace strips to the inside top edge of the side pieces. Fasten the top to the strips with screws from beneath.

Then add the top member and two side members of the front frame. The frame is strengthened by strap steel tie braces across each joint as shown in detail A and B.

To avoid light putty spots on wood paneled walls, saturate the putty with oil paint a few shades deeper than the wood to which it will be applied. This will be unattractive for awhile, but it will not take the wood long to deepen to the same color as the putty.
