Carlson and his brother, Irving, participated in the recent dedication of the new $2.4-million music and dramatic arts building on the KU campus. Both played with the Little Symphony and Marlan played with the string trio.

Early Deadline Causes Small Thanksgiving Issue

In order to allow employees to observe the Thanksgiving holiday, it was necessary to hold this week's issue of The Wayne Herald to a minimum number of pages.

For this reason the news items from area correspondents were shorter than usual because of advancing the copy deadline. News from these areas will be carried in full in next week's edition.

They were Supervisor A. Paul Cook, Chief Observer Grace Steele and N. H. Brugger. Presentations were made by Sgt. Juel Parker, West Point, Air Force-Civil Defense coordinator.

Two other local corps members will receive GOC wings at the Dec. 16 meeting.

Warmer Weather Brings Hope of Harvest End

Most of last week's snow melted under warm skies during the past week, bringing returning hope that harvesting could start again.

Nearly 25 percent of the county corn remains to be picked and more than half of the grain sorghums are still in the fields. Farmers have been waiting for fields to dry so they could resume operations.

Only traces of moisture were reported by Weatherman Archie Wert during the week and present forecasts call for continued dry weather.

Much of the corn being picked is still too wet to crib, according to ASC officials.

Temperatures during the past six days, have shown a warming trend despite nighttime lows in the 20's.

Herewith - temperature records for the period Wednesday, Nov. 20 through Monday, Nov. 25:

Day	H	L
Wednesday	38	24
Thursday	30	12
Friday	42	20
Saturday	58	26
Sunday	38	29
Monday	63	27

Temperatures are recorded 8 a. m. to 8 a. m.

Earl Lewis Properties Sold to Hansen, Granquist

The house at 522 East Sixth was sold to Carl Hansen for $1,650. Two lots and 20 feet of another south of the bowling alley on Lincoln street went to Neise Granquist for $600.

Stop Signs Installed on East Tenth Street

New stop signs have now been installed on East Tenth street at the intersections with Logan, Nebraska and Windom streets, city police announced this week.

Postmaster Cites Schedule For Thanksgiving Mail; Lists Mailing Suggestions

No mail deliveries will be made on Wayne city or rural routes Thanksgiving. Postmaster Don Wightman said this week.

However, he added that mail dropped at the postoffice, curb mail box in front of the office or collection boxes at Second and Third streets on Main will be dispatched.

Wightman also reminded patrons to mail early and often for Christmas. He said street addresses and return addresses should be placed on each letter or parcel. Patrons are asked to use only one side for address and return on parcels.

Herald News Columns Sporting New Face

The Wayne Herald news columns got a face lift this week. This issue marks the first use of a new type face for news matter.

In line with its policy to offer its readers as good a newspaper as possible, the new face was purchased to allow easier reading for the subscribers. It features a heavier, blackface for added emphasis. The new face is known as "Corona with Erbar-Bold." It replaces the "Regal with Gothic No. 2" used by the Herald during the past 10 years.

Prepare Charges For Permitting Teen-Age Party

Wayne county officials were preparing charges Tuesday against Glenn Anderson, Wayne, for contributing to the delinquency of minors.

County Attorney Charles McDermott said the charges would probably be filed in County court Wednesday.

The charges allege that Anderson allowed six teen-agers to hold an all-night party at his home south of Wayne last Tuesday. The county further alleges that Anderson permitted the youths to drink beer and remain in his home overnight.

The case came to light last Wednesday when three Wayne teen-agers were reported missing by their parents. The three returned home Wednesday afternoon.

Reorganization Group Elected in Dixon County

A new Dixon county school reorganization committee was elected at a meeting in the Wakefield high school auditorium Friday night.

County Supt. Myrtle Day opened the meeting. Vern Jones, Allen, presided.

Named to the committee were: Walter Schulte and Earl Peterson, Dixon; Carl Wellenstein, Martinsburg; Mrs. Henry Bartling and Frank Kennedy, Ponca; Joe Matz, Wakefield; Dietrick Von Minden, Waterbury; Quinten Erwin, Concord, and Jones.

The program will include election of officers and discussion of revisions in the organization's by-laws and constitution.

Legion Post Meeting Set Wednesday Night

Wayne's American Legion post will hold a regular meeting Wednesday night at the Vets club room. Adjutant Marvin Wehrlich announced this week. Membership committee members are asked to attend and turn in all memberships secured.

Why a Subscription Campaign?

Many times each day, for the next few days, this question is going to be asked, "Why a subscription campaign?"

To save the time of those who ask and those who must answer, we are taking this opportunity to answer in our own words.

Due to our continuing effort to improve The Wayne Herald, we feel there are few, if any, newspapers in Nebraska which so thoroughly covers its trade territory as does The Herald today.

However, new people are always moving into Wayne and surrounding territory who are not acquainted with the local newspaper. If these people reside close enough to Wayne they are usually readers of the newspaper in a short time. If they should reside in the more distant communities, they could go on for years without knowing what Wayne business places have to offer.

We claim our business firms can afford to spend a certain amount of their gross business to let people know what they have to offer. Now we feel it is our just duty to spend just as high a percentage to see that the advertisers' message is in as many homes in the trade area as possible, and to extend the Wayne trade territory in every direction.

Everyone knows there is no money made from the subscription of a newspaper, which pays a very small part of the expense of print paper, collecting news, building, printing and delivering the paper. Still in the face of this, we offer liberal compensation to local people to help us accomplish, for the advertisers, what we want to do.

We realize that a special subscription price will make it much easier for the workers to secure the new subscriptions in the more distant territories, but after consideration we feel it is only right to give the present subscribers the same opportunity. So, in this campaign each and every subscriber has the right to a two-year subscription, saving one dollar at the present rate. Should we be forced into an increase later of only 50 cents per year to stay in line with other papers of the size of The Herald, the subscriber is saving three dollars and this extends right on from the present expiration date.

We hope the people of the Wayne trade territory realize this. The Herald is the only newspaper we know of which has not made a raise in subscription price in the last 10 years.

This offer ends with this drive, and no candidate is permitted to collect more than a two-year subscription from any subscriber. The mailing list is corrected each day so that candidates will know not to call on subscribers who have paid in the campaign.

This limit of a two-year subscription to a subscriber, is being given to protect our subscribers. The wise person gives his subscription to the first one who calls. They have then made their saving and can retain the good graces of each and every one of the workers by telling them they purchased from the first one who called.

15 Prizes from $50-$600, 20% Commission Paid Daily

Only two weeks spare time needed to win the largest of prizes - a limited number of workers will be accepted - larger number of points for new subscribers give workers farther from the office equal chance on prizes.

This week's Herald announces an unusual Trade Expansion campaign on The Wayne Herald offering more than $4,000 in prizes and cash commissions to residents for spare-time help in the program.

This is a circulation campaign for The Wayne Herald and for the benefit of advertisers using this newspaper.

The campaign objective is to place The Herald in as many homes in the Wayne trade territory as possible and to extend the trade territory in every direction.

To attain this objective it is necessary to have the assistance of capable people in each community. To interest this type of person the offer must be unusual since many of those taking part are persons who do not need the money involved.

The assistance of this type of person could not be obtained by salary alone, but the opportunity to earn prizes such as announced today, all in exchange for only two weeks' spare time, should be attractive to anyone.

Candidates will also receive a liberal cash commission each day for every sale on new subscriptions and acquaintances, giving them an opportunity to profit by renewing their subscriptions at this time.

Few spare-time endeavors could be more pleasant than calling on friends and acquaintances to give them, who are already subscribers of The Wayne Herald, an opportunity to extend their subscriptions at an attractive savings and at the same time enrolling new subscribers with a publication that is certain to give a profitable investment for them.

Everyone in the Wayne trade area knows that the subscription price of less than five cents per week for The Herald will be returned to the subscriber many times during the year from the opportunity to profit through the columns of advertising placed by local business firms, farm, stock sales, classified ads, grocery ads, merchandise ads and many other ways.

Subscribers also have all legal publishing privileges, including tax sales and services, which can mean hundreds of dollars to them.

This is not a contest. Each participant will be paid a liberal commission each time he or she reports. The work is also civic in nature since few things can help more to make a good county to reside in than having a good county newspaper coming into every home regularly each week so everyone stays informed on all local happenings.

Those reading this offer today who feel they have a sufficient acquaintanceship to be successful are invited to come to The Herald office to have the plan explained. A number of openings are available but only a limited number of entrants will be accepted.

Each person who takes part in this enterprise will be paid 20 percent cash commission, with each report. In addition entrants See PROGRAM - page 2

Inspection Cites Improved Training by Local Guard

Wayne's National Guard unit underwent its annual inspection Thursday. Inspecting officer was Maj. Mervin Krieger, representative of Fifth Army headquarters, Chicago.

Maj. Krieger said the local unit shows great improvement over last year. He said records and equipment are in very good shape and the training excellent. He also commended the local unit for having 13 men in the "Take Six" program, two in ROTC and one in OCS.

Other officers visiting the local unit during the inspection were Lt. Col. Harlan Raymond, Broken Bow, battalion commander; Capt. Edward Binder, Omaha, battalion training officer, and Capt. Robert Jackson, Grand Island, and Lt. Sgt. Ronald Wagner, Omaha, Fifth Army advisors.

Local Commander Kenneth Whorlow said the unit has now entered a new training program which includes two two-hour and one eight-hour drills each month. The longer drills are held on Sundays.

Wayne Ministerial association has offered to furnish church services during these Sunday drills.

Capt. Whorlow said the unit is in need of two or three desertists with artillery or basic combat training to assist in the new training program.

Santa Claus Due Here Saturday for First Visit of Season

SANTA CLAUS WILL BE HERE Saturday for his first visit of the holiday season, giving NE Nebraska children a chance to make their Christmas wishes known early. The jolly old gentleman will be on the streets of Wayne about 7:30 p.m. with treats for the children and a friendly admonition to mind their behavior between now and Christmas. As last year, Santa will make this trip with his little ponies instead of reindeer. Santa's visit starts the jam-packed Christmas season that includes five Saturday movies for children, a special night for dads to shop, the traditional presentation of Handel's Messiah and other events. Santa's present schedule calls for stops at city auditorium, Fire hall, Second and Main and Third

THANKSGIVING From the forest, cold and murky. Rode the first Thanksgiving turkey. On a Pilgrim far from fat picking arrows from his hat. Mrs. Pierson and the kids fired the kettle, watched the lids. 'Gee,' they said, 'we're glad we're living. This will be a swell Thanksgiving. All they had was corn and turk, indians, winter, prayer and work. Compare our lot with those early Yanks. And every day's a day of thanks. Pierson Insurance Agency Phone 259

November Nebraska Farm Outlook

FARM Review and FORECAST

"Our Roots Are In This Land"

BRIEF and IMPORTANT

GRAIN SORGHUM: Handling this year's record crop continues to be our No. 1 headache. Commercial storage is very tight this fall. Farm storage is risky unless the grain is properly dried. Best financial returns can be obtained by drying to less than 13 percent moisture, storing according to USDA requirements, and taking a CCC loan to get the support price of $1.60-$1.75 a cwt on the farm. Get a copy of CC 159 from your county agent for more information on the economic aspects of marketing, drying and storing of grain sorghum.

CATTLE AND HOGS: Fed cattle prices should strengthen now and hold steady or rise slightly until late winter. The USDA's Oct. 1 cattle-on-feed report shows 11 percent less being fed than a year earlier. Farmers indicated they intend to market 16 percent less in November and 12 percent less in December than last year. With cheap feed it will pay to feed to heavier weights. Competition from pork and poultry will keep the lid on beef prices. Hog prices are near their seasonal low and should gain strength until late February when fall pigs will come to market. Hog profit prospects are good during the first half of '58 but watch out after that!

INCOME TAX-SOCIAL SECURITY: Four district short courses or conferences for tax consultants who help farmers and small businessmen with their federal tax returns will be held next month. The dates and places are: Ogallala, Dec. 3 and 4; Hastings, Dec. 5 and 6; Norfolk, Dec. 10 and 11; Lincoln, Dec. 12 and 13. For more information, call your county agent or write to us.

WHAT CAN YOU PAY FOR FEEDER PIGS?

Each farmer must then determine how much feed he is likely to need. Good records of his own hog operations are the best base.

Mr. Jones is an average hog man. According to his records it takes 12 bushels of corn and 100 pounds of supplement to bring a feeder pig from 35 pounds to 225 pounds.

Many farmers have become interested in feeder pigs because of strong hog prices. That raises the question, What can they pay for feeder pigs?

There is no single answer to this question; each farmer must figure it for his circumstances. The accompanying table gives a simple form for calculations.

THE PRICE a farmer can afford to pay for a feeder pig depends on several factors. The three most important are: (1) the value of the finished hog, (2) the cost of raising the feeder pig to market weight, and (3) the death loss.

The first figure the farmer needs is the probable value or income from the finished hog. To get this, he must estimate the probable time he will sell the hog, and the probable weight and price.

TO ILLUSTRATE: Mr. Jones wants to buy some 35-pound feeder pigs in late November. He plans to have them ready for market at 225 pounds in April. He estimates the price in April to be $17 a cwt. His expected income is $38.25 (225 lbs. x $17); he enters this on the first line of the table. This value is the net value at the farm.

Item of cost	My calculations	Examples
Income	(... lbs. x $...)	$38.25 $33.00
Cost:
Corn	(... bu. x $...)	$13.80 $10.92
Supplement	(... lb. x $...)	$ 5.00 $ 3.25
Other	(...)	$ 3.76 $ 2.83
Total	(...)	$22.56 $17.00
Net	(...)	$15.69 $16.00
Survival rate	(... %)	95% 95%
Possible price	Net x Survival	$14.90 $15.20

This feed requirement is based on experimental results—Calculated from Feed Consumption and Marketing Weight of Hogs, L. J. Atkinson and J. W. Klein, USDA Technical Bulletin 804, July 1945. It also checks closely with the average quantities of feeds used by the members of the Southeast and Southwest Minnesota Farm Management Services.

Mr. Brown also plans to buy some pigs of the same weight. He, however, plans to sell them in late March at 200 pounds. He sizes up the market differently, and expects to get $16.50 a cwt. His expected income from one hog is $33.

THE SECOND STEP is to estimate the probable costs. Of these, feed is by far the biggest. As an average, it will take about 350 pounds of corn and 50 pounds of protein supplement to put on 100 pounds of gain, or 655 pounds (12 bu.) of corn and 100 pounds of protein supplement to bring a feeder pig from 35 pounds to a market weight of 225.

The figures above show what the average farmer will do. Individual farmers will do better or worse. A few will need only 10% bushels of corn and 85 pounds of protein supplement to bring a pig from 35 to 225 pounds. Others will use more than 14 bushels of corn and 120 pounds of protein.

THE FEED NEEDED will vary from year to year for any farmer. Also, it takes more feed to put a pound of gain on a 225-pound hog than on a 200-pound hog.

Explanation

Some May Ask . . . Why The Votes?
The Answer Is This:

If the winners were determined merely by the ones who secured the greatest number of subscriptions, then each one would have to work the full time to see who secured the greatest number, but the big votes explained at the left count for each candidate only during the first two weeks from the day he or she enters the campaign, giving each the opportunity to enter and finish his or her work in the two weeks, while it still gives us the opportunity to have one week to find the right representative in each territory, so that each part of the territory will be worked. This is the most attractive offer ever made in this community and if you do not thoroughly understand the plan, come in at once or Phone 130, and have it explained without obligating you in any way.

Advisory Board

It is the sincere desire of this newspaper to conduct this drive from start to finish in a fair, honorable and impartial manner. Every precaution has been taken to safeguard the interests of participants and absolute honesty in all dealing is guaranteed. However, not all wisdom lies with one man or one institution. For that reason an Advisory Board has been selected whose function shall be to decide any question of sufficient moment that might arise during the campaign and from which a committee shall be selected to act as judges and count the votes the last night of the campaign.

New and Renewal Subscriptions

Any subscription going into a home where The Wayne Herald was going at the beginning of this campaign is counted as an old or renewal subscription and votes will be credited as such even though it is an entirely different name, unless the old subscription is continued and an additional subscription delivered. Any subscriber who was taking The Wayne Herald at the residence address at the beginning of the campaign and should change to the business address, or vice versa, will be credited as an old or renewal subscription unless it is continued at the old address and a new subscription started at the other address. Any candidate or candidates found trying to manipulate a subscription to convert a renewal into a new subscription will forfeit the entire vote on such a manipulated subscription at the discretion of the management.

Punitive Legislation Danger Of State Labor Investigation

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
Lincoln—Observers are keeping a keen eye on a secondary boycott investigation being conducted by a committee of state senators.

The committee, headed by Sen. Ray Simmons, Fremont, is looking into charges that the Teamsters union used the secondary boycott, threats of violence and other means to try to force unionization of all trucks in Nebraska.

Throughout the hearings the name of James Hoffa, president-elect of the International Teamsters, has appeared. Simmons and his committee were told by a parade of truckers that the Teamsters clamped on secondary boycotts—contrary to Nebraska law—to try to make them unionize or quit business.

One of the dangers of any investigation—especially of the type now underway in Nebraska—is that punitive legislation might result—not only harming organized labor, but the state as well.

This is the main problem of those concerned with the labor

In Bookland

EVERYONE KNOWS THE STORY OF THE FIRST Thanksgiving Day—when the Pilgrims feasted and gave thanks for their first bountiful harvest. Today we have much more for which to be thankful and one of the things we should be especially grateful for is books. It should be not only our privilege, but our duty to read and keep ourselves informed so that our nation can celebrate Thanksgiving for generations to come. Who are you? Some say "You are what you eat." Others say "You are what you read." Your reading shows in your conversation. . . in new interests you display. . . in new skills you have learned. Be the person you want to be—make our country the strong nation we want it to be—with the help of books.

OVER 500 YOUNG PEOPLE VISITED THE LIBRARY during Book Week. Many more would have come if the weather had been better. Some adults also came, but we wish more could have come to see how the children flocked around the display devoted to space and air travel. Travel to outer space is no longer science fiction. In earth satellites have been launched. What will be next to you? Read books about it like "The Making of a Moon" or "Rockets Through Space" and find out about what the younger generation already has accepted as part of their life.

WE RECEIVED AN UNUSUAL BIOGRAPHY THIS week which should prove to be very popular. It is too new to rate the best-seller list as yet, and may never make it, but we recommend it as unusually good reading. "All I Want is Everything" by Marlon Mill Freminger is a story of a brilliant and beautiful woman who turned her back on the glitter and gold of international society and followed an inner calling into Africa. She was born in a fairy-tale castle in Hungary. At 18, after a whirlwind marriage and divorce, she became an actress in Vienna. Soon she was the toast of Europe, a success in New York and Hollywood, not only on the stage and screen but also in society. Then, abruptly, she turned her back on all of it to go to Africa where she learned the secret of inner peace working with Albert Schweitzer.

THE LIBRARY WILL BE CLOSED THANKSGIVING Day as usual. We wish you a pleasant and restful day and hope you find some time to spend with a good book.

men skilled in the ways of organizing a state. Many of the truckers said they do not oppose unions and don't object if their firm belongs, and furthermore would not and could not legally prevent them from joining.

But, they said, they were picketed by union men when there was no strike by employees of their firm and intimidated to try to make their own men join the Teamsters when they didn't want to do so.

On the secondary boycott matter, many truckers testified that truck lines refused to handle shipments of goods to a terminal by non-union firms. This caused delays in shipment and many took "unreasonable" lengths of time to arrive at their destination, it was said. Often shipments became "lost" and were found only after extensive search.

In the past Nebraska union leaders have said they do not condone violence in organizing attempts and emphasized that charges the so-called violence was the work of union men have not been proved.

They also point to the fact that "hot cargo" clauses in union contracts permit unions to refuse to handle goods shipped by non-union truck lines.

There were charges at the hearing that National Labor Relations board orders were never obeyed in the matter of secondary boycotts.

But a union attorney told the committee a temporary court injunctions were obeyed. However, attorneys pointed out that orders of the NLRB require supplementary court action to bring about enforcement of them and temporary injunctions cease when a NLRB ruling is made.

But, the truckers told the committee court action is a long process—especially in Federal courts where many had to go because of the interstate nature of their business—and costly.

Tom Coffey, now state purchasing agent, but a long-time Alford, Neb. trucker, told the committee to pick out a few "tough" truckers and make them submit to unionization or "break them financially."

Mentally Retarded

What is the status of Nebraska's mentally retarded release program? This question came when workers in the state who deal with several persons, classified as mentally retarded and institutionalized for years, were not actually mental deficient.

Nebraska Board of Control Vice Chairman Charles W. Leeman said the state has been divided on the problem of screening inmates at Beatrice for the past two years. He praised a program of Supt. M. E. Wyant at the Beatrice State home. Wyant has been systematically going through diagnosis of patients by skilled professionals and has released 13 patients found not mentally retarded. Six more are to be released.

The 13 discharged were between 6 and 65 years old. In addition, 103 mentally retarded patients now are on parole in homes close to their own families. Wyant says there are more patients at Beatrice who could and will be released after due processing and testing.

Related program is going on at the Nebraska Psychiatric Institute, Omaha, headed by Dr. Cecil Wittson, state mental health director. Wittson said about 16 babies and young children declared mentally retarded were checked and half found not to be in need of institutional care.

This testing program is being carried on also in the state mental hospitals. Emphasis in Nebraska has shifted from institutionalization to use of early diagnosis and treatment of persons suffering from mental disorders.

Tax Investigation

State Tax Commission network has been without exception, property taxes are being collected and little more than classified mail.

Agent Lists Battery Tips For Cold Weather Season

Tough on Batteries
At best, cold weather starting is tough on battery because it loses cranking power as the temperature goes down. A fully charged battery loses 1/3 of its power at 32 degrees.

At 80 degrees it has 100 percent cranking power at 32 degrees, 65 percent and at 0, 40 percent. So you can see why those cold zero mornings are critical. Every thing is at its worst. Oil in the air cleaner may choke the engine.

Keeping your battery fully charged is important to protect it from freezing damage. The water in a fully charged battery is 38 1/2 percent and 62 1/2 percent water. As the charge goes down so does the amount of sulphuric acid and the more easily the solution freezes.

Fully charged, battery water begins to freeze at 90 below zero, three-fourths charged it begins to freeze at 82 below zero, half charged at 45 below zero, fully discharged at 19 above zero.

Battery connections must be clean for best performance. On a cold day you need all the contact area there is in good condition. Clean up corrosion with baking soda and water. Tighten connections and coat with oil or grease to prevent or retard more corrosion.

This Changing World
Information now at hand indicates that by 1975 (just 18 years from now) our population will have increased by some 50 million. The demand for goods and services will have doubled over that of today.

As the population grows, so does the demand for clothes, houses, equipment, schools and transport. Not many years ago most working people were either blue-collar or farm workers. And the industries that turned out goods rather than services, for example, farming, manufacturing, construction and mining—provided jobs for the bulk of workers.

That has changed. A steady rise in our standard of living makes us demand more and more professional and business services. The service industries now use more workers than the goods producing industries. The premium today is on training and education. These trends will undoubtedly continue and may be accelerated.

What about farming? The need for farm workers will continue to decline as farms are further mechanized. An example of what is happening in the dairy industry is worth noting. The number of farms selling milk has decreased one-half since 1944 (in less than 15 years). Just 1/4 of the present number could supply present demands for milk and dairy products.

Tested Seed Pays
"Tell 'em to buy 'certified' alfalfa, or take a loss."

Dr. Karl Quisenberry, assistant administrator of USDA's research outfit, puts it this way, based on research in Indiana and Minnesota.

"A farmer who purchases and plants seed of non-certified Range alfalfa has less than a 50 percent chance of getting seed of Range performance."

Even an expert, says Quisenberry, can't tell by looking at alfalfa seed whether they have the improved characteristics that have been built into them by plant breeders such as high yield and seedling vigor in Narragansett, stem-nematode resistance in La-
