Small Grain Varieties
What new and better oat variety is available? This is the most asked question we get between now and spring planting. While many new varicties are being tested each year, only a few show superior promise.

The varieties recommended in Northeast Nebraska for 1958 planting are: Andrew, Clintland, Jackson, Marion and Mo. 0-205. Mo. 0-205 has the highest five-year average yield in all cropping districts in Nebraska. New varieties which show promise on the basis of 1957 tests are Burnett and Minhafer.

Barley varieties recommended for this area are Custer, Olis and Plains. A comparison of yields, oats versus barley, have been about equal on a pound per acrebasis.
