STATE BUYS NORMAL SCHOOL!

Approve Repairs at State Normal

Aug. 1910 — Some repairs have been recommended for buildings at the State Normal school. State Treasurer L. G. Brian, an ex-officio member of the State Normal board, recently inspected the school at board direction after a request by President U. S. Conn.

Mr. Brian reported to the board's August meeting, recommending minor repairs in the dormitories, removal of the temporary partition in the library, repairing a few of the ceilings, a papering of the halls in the old building, resurfacing of the steps and necessary repairs on the porch, together with a few other minor repairs.

These repairs will cost less than $350.

The board also accepted bids for coal and printing for the new school and approved President Conn's requests for office supplies, blankets and bathtubs.

No Tuition Needed For First Class Enrollment

Sept. 19, 1910 — This is opening day of the Wayne Normal school under state ownership.

Students enrolling in the first class will pay no tuition — by direction of the Legislature — but they will have to pay a $5 matriculation fee, which goes to the library fund. This fee entitles the student to life membership in the institution.

Textbooks will be furnished in all departments for a rental fee of 10 cents a book for each half-semester, but students are being advised to bring any available textbooks from home.

Rooms in the dormitories will cost 50 cents a week, and board will range from $2.50 to $3.25 a week. Bathrooms and laundry are free.

Announce Faculty For Normal's Coming Year

Sept. 1, 1910 — President U. S. Conn has announced the faculty for the State Normal school, which will open Sept. 19. It is gratifying to note that many persons applied for teaching positions.

The faculty will include:

H. H. Hahn, dean and head of the department of education; Prof. C. H. Bright, mathematics; I. H. Britell, physical science; Prof. H. H. Hickman, biological department; J. G. W. Lewis, history and civics; Prof. J. T. House, English; Elsie Piper, Latin and preceptress; Elizabeth Kingsbury, German and preceptress; Sara J. Killen, drawing; E. J. Huntmer, manual training; Mrs. C. H. Bright, librarian; Edith Stocking, primary critic; Rachel Fairchild, grammar critic; J. M. Wiley, commercial; Lillian M. Jewel, geography; and Violet C. Woolsey, secretary to the president.

Academy Here in 1887

A Lutheran academy preceded Dr. Pile's college, moving to Wayne from Homer in 1887. A mixture of high school and college courses were taught but due to a lack of room, the classes met in several different places. Meeting rooms ranged from private homes to elementary school houses.

Piles Accept $70,000 Offer For Purchase of the College

January, 1910 — Another step in transfer of Nebraska Normal College to state ownership has been taken.

The Pile family has accepted an offer of $70,000 from the State Normal Board for purchase of the college. This sum is an increase of $5,000 over an earlier tentative offer.

Now only one big step remains in the transaction — appropriation of the money by the Legislature.

collecting hundreds of items typical of various decades in the school's history.

Early-year alumni will feel right at home in a dormitory room filled with furnishings, vintage 1910. They will even note that all the furniture is located in the exact place it occupied half a century ago.

Correct down to minor details, the old room will have a wood-burning stove, wardrobe, washstand, bootjack, typewriter, clothing, button hook, and even a bed actually used in a dormitory room of the early years. The bed has been in storage on the campus.

The art department also has located an old Victor phonograph and one of the first vacuum sweepers, both in operating condition and a buffalo skin rug.

Adjoining the 50-year-old room will be another furnished in current dormitory style.

Elsewhere in the museum will be displays of the decades from 1910 on, each with photos, yearbooks and artifacts of the time.

Centerpiece of the museum will be six life-size photos of the Golden Girls—the six homecoming queen candidates dressed in attire typical of the decades.

The Golden Girls are Pat Weiting, Elaine Carter, Queen Ann Groff, Jean Henry, Evonne Anderson and Kay Wagner. They will be in the museum during Sunday's open house, each dressed in the costume she wore for the picture.

Many of the exhibit items were borrowed from the Elkhorn Valley Museum in Norfolk by arrangement with Robert Carlyle, president of the museum association.

Memory Museum Ready As Reminder of Past

Alumni who like to recall memories of the old alma mater can find plenty in Conn Library during Wayne State's anniversary week. A memory museum is being arranged in the library lounge on the second floor.

Richard Lesh and his college art department have for weeks been

A tract of land adjoining Wayne on the northeast was purchased from Marcellus Dearborn for $2,746.15 for the first site of a college in Wayne.

Enrollment Falls With New Semester System

September 20, 1910 — Seventy students appeared yesterday for enrollment in the State Normal School. This was somewhat of a disappointment to President U. S. Conn, but understandable because of the new semester system.

The president has established the traditional two-semester system instead of Professor Pile's old plan of five terms of 10 weeks each.

Mr. Pile had reason for arranging the terms that way because many students could not afford to attend college for long periods, and many could not attend before the fall harvest or after spring plowing started.

Under Mr. Pile's administration, students could even start in mid-term. In fact, he advertised: "Come when you can. Your 10-week term starts the day you enter."

And many of them did just that. Some years Mr. Pile reported as many as 1,200 different students had enrolled.

Apparently many students still cannot attempt long semesters, judging by the enrollment yesterday.

More Students Now Enrolling For Year

May 6, 1913 — There is room for optimism about enrollment at Wayne Normal School, President U. S. Conn says.

He reported to the Normal Board today that more students are now enrolling for the entire year, though some still come "for just a semester or so." The student body today numbers 228.

During the first year of state operation, from September, 1910, until August, 1911, 538 different students attended classes. This number did not include the Model School.

President Conn made the following report to the Normal Board:

"The conditions of the old school which induced large numbers of students to enroll for a short winter term still exist to a large extent. Our present enrollment represents the advanced students who, for the most part, are in throughout the year."

"This class of students has grown from year to year, and the ones who try to get an education by a short winter term are growing less."

"The old prejudice against Wayne because of the thought that it was the place where a short, cheap course could be taken has without doubt, prevented us from receiving the patronage from high school graduates which is now beginning to turn to Wayne rather than to other institutions of this and adjoining states."

Weekend Attitude Same Now as 1911

Some things never change, it seems. Take the problem (if it is a problem) of college students' going home nearly every weekend. Student councils at Wayne State and many other colleges have wrestled with the matter for years, and they have tried all sorts of inducements to keep students from streaming home on weekends, leaving the campus about as busy as a cemetery.

Minutes of a Wayne Normal School faculty meeting on September 29, 1911, reveal this question discussed: What should be the policy toward students who miss classes in order to go home on the weekend?

No decision was reached.

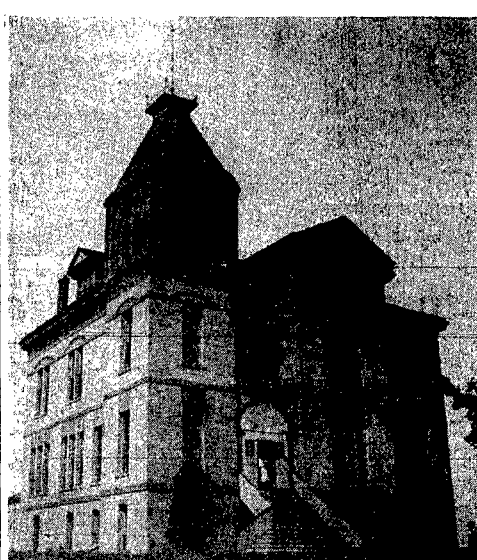

Nowadays the problem is not one of students cutting Friday classes — but simply of rushing home after the last class, even on weekends of home games in football and basketball.

Many students who seldom go home for weekends, even when they live within easy driving range, say they enjoy the quiet of a campus weekend.

Those who do frequently go home say there's nothing to do on campus and, besides, they can eat cheaper at home and get their laundry done.

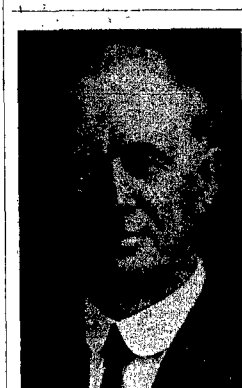

Perhaps, said one campus wag, another committee needs to study the matter.

To Become Nebraska Normal

THIS FIRST building of Dr. Pile's College will become the major part of the new Nebraska Normal College. Governor Schallenger signed the bill yesterday that authorized the state to purchase the school. Classes will continue as usual with a new term starting in September.

Third House Given Banquet For Work

April 13, 1909 — Hooray for the "third house!"

That's what the people of Wayne said last night at a banquet honoring the citizens who worked unflinchingly to make the Nebraska Normal College a state school.

The Commercial Club sponsored the banquet in the Odd Fellows Hall as a tribute especially to Phil Kohl, John T. Bressler, Henry C. Ley and James Britton, who spent months in Lincoln working with the Legislature for passage of the bill authorizing purchase of the college. The banquet also honored others who labored for the bill.

It was an elegant affair. The celebrants dined on oyster cocktail, mock quail, veal loaf and ham. They talked over the trials of the past three months and spoke exuberantly of the future. This went on until well past midnight.

Mr. Kohl could display the pen with which Governor Schallenger signed Bill 139. Phil didn't mind a bit the newspaper headline that declared: "Phil Kohl Gets the Pen."

When Messrs. Kohl, Ley, Bressler and Britton returned home from Lincoln after the triumph of "139," a big crowd of Wayne people turned out at the depot to give them a grateful welcome. The Wayne Silver Cornet Band also was there.

"We'd we say the welcome was richly deserved?"

Finances Available; State Normal to Open

July 28, 1910 — Here's the word Wayne has been awaiting. The State Normal school will open Sept. 19, by direction yesterday of the State Normal board meeting in Peru.

That there will be more difficulties is certain — as these were great difficulties during the 20 years that Prof. Pile founded and developed his college.

But Wayne citizens who have campaigned for years to sell Mr. Pile's college to the state are cheered today because the school does have a future now.

Besides the opening date, they had another reason for cheer. The attorney general, advised the Normal board that it could use the balance of the $90,000 authorized for purchase to buy supplies and repair damage from a recent windstorm. The purchase price was $70,000.

In recent weeks there have been rumors that the school would not even open in September because of financial uncertainties. Mrs. Pile was reluctant to continue operating the school as a private institution for another year, and while the Wayne Commercial club agreed to underwrite the expenses of the first year, the funds actually donated were skimpy.

Mrs. Pile to Operate School For Two Years

July, 1909 — A dilemma about operation of the Wayne State Normal School has been solved. Mrs. J. M. Pile, widow of the founder of the Nebraska Normal College, has contracted with the state to operate the college as a private institution for a maximum of two years.

The reason for this is the fact that while the Legislature authorized the State Normal Board of Education to negotiate for purchase of Mr. Pile's college, the legislators provided no money for the purchase.

Thus, the state is in the incongruous situation of not being able to do what it is authorized to do. The only recourse, thus, is to have the college continue under the existing management until the Legislature does provide the money for purchase.

Mrs. Pile was understood to be reluctant to continue operating the college, but in the noble tradition of her husband, who died March 11 this year, Mrs. Pile will keep the school going.

The Normal Board appointed her son, Fred, who has been vice-president under his father, as president.

List Resolutions of Normal College

Following are the words that helped put the Legislature into action, with the devoted help of the "third house," and now success has crowned Wayne's efforts. Here are the resolutions drawn by Professor Pile and the trustees of the Nebraska Normal College Association:

"Whereas, the Nebraska Normal College of Wayne, Nebraska, has been in successful operation seven years and has a well equipped Normal School plant, consisting of two recitation buildings, five dormitories, president's residence, central heating plant—all supplied with complete lines of appropriate furniture, fixtures and apparatus—with a value of more than $150,000 and could not be duplicated at present for that sum, and

"Whereas the trustees of said Nebraska Normal College and educators of North Nebraska believe the educational interests of this section of the state would be advanced by establishing and maintaining a State Normal School at Wayne, Nebraska,

"Resolved that the trustees and president of the Nebraska Normal College tender to the state of Nebraska for $100,000, the entire property of the college for the establishment and maintenance of a State Normal School by the state."

Remember Efforts to Secure School

Many Wayne residents can remember efforts as far back as 1895 to urge the state to buy Nebraska Normal College. This effort advanced to the point that a bill was introduced in the 1895 Legislature to appropriate $40,000 for the purchase of the school and construction of new buildings.

Stockholders in the school (it had not yet been deeded to Professor Pile) were to receive $12,500 for their interest in the property. But as many of us remember, those were difficult times financially, and the Legislature considered purchasing a school as terrible extravagance. The bill failed.

Another bill was introduced in the 1899 Legislature for an appropriation of $80,000 to buy two State Normal Schools. Wayne and Norfolk newspapers promptly began wrangling about relative merits (and demerits) of the two towns. Eventually, the legislators killed this bill too.

The Legislature established a new Normal School at Kearney in 1903, and it opened in 1905. (Up until that time Peru Normal had been the only state normal school since its founding in 1887. Several years went by before Wayne folks revived the campaign for a state school at Wayne.

Early in December of 1908, a group of Wayne citizens met with Professor Pile and the trustees of the Nebraska Normal College Association. They drew up resolutions for presentation to the Legislature.

April 7, 1909 — Victory at last!

Wayne has a State Normal school. Gov. Schallenger yesterday signed Bill 139 authorizing the state to buy the Nebraska Normal college.

Thus comes to fruition the hopes of Wayne people to see Prof. James M. Pile's college, already 19 years old, live on as a state school.

But it is unfortunate that Dr. Pile could not have lived to realize his dream. Weary from his 19 years of labor in founding the college, he passed away less than three weeks ago, March 11.

The victory credit goes to many Wayne people who years ago began thinking of "Mr. Pile's College" as a state normal school.

But to four fine Wayne citizens goes the most credit for obtaining the State Normal school. These four are Phil H. Kohl, owner of the Kohl Land and Investment Co.; Henry C. Ley, banker and mayor; John T. Bressler, banker, former state senator and member of the board of trustees of the Nebraska Normal college, and James Britton, merchant.

These men have stayed in Lincoln almost continuously since 1898, was introduced by Representative Adam Pilger on Jan. 23. They worked diligently for passage of the bill through numerous setbacks and frequent opposition from legislators and citizens of other towns.

The past four months have been strenuous indeed for the four Wayne "ambassadors" to the Legislature. In fact, they have come to be known as the "third house" of the two-house Legislature.

The period has been tense also for the people home in Wayne as interest turned into enthusiasm, then tension, and finally near-hysteria as Wayne battled for passage of "139."

On March 1, the House appointed a special committee of seven representatives to visit Wayne to determine the feasibility of the purchase. On Saturday of that week the committee did make its inspection and was favorably impressed. The legislators went back to Lincoln and reported that the school should be bought for $90,000.

On March 18, Britton telephoned Mrs. J. M. Pile that the bill had passed the House by a vote of 68 (a majority of 18). The news spread all over town within minutes, and the general impression was that the Senate would be easier than the House.

We know now that this general impression was wrong. After the House approved the bill, rival towns which have fought Wayne all along revived their efforts to defeat the bill in the Senate.

Tension rose in Wayne for days until March 30 when the bill came to second reading. A motion to "indefinitely postpone" action resulted in a 16-16 tie. One senator who had expressed himself as opposed to the Normal School was absent for the vote. Lt. Gov. M. R. Hopewell cast the deciding vote, killing the motion.

The bill was brought up for third reading the next day. As the roll call was read, it appeared as if the bill would lose by one vote. Then some political maneuvering took place.

Sen. Tibbets, Hastings, had opposed the Wayne school, but at the same time had spoken for another bill to establish a Normal school in the western part of the state. Another senator pointed out to Sen. Tibbets that failure to support the Wayne school would probably result in the death of other school bills too. Tibbets promptly voted in favor of Wayne. The bill passed.

But Wayne folks learned, in the midst of their jubilation, that one more hurdle remained — getting the governor's signature.

On the very night that the Senate passed the bill, Wayne people learned that a petition with almost 5,000 names had been sent from Fremont to the governor, asking him to veto the bill.

Wayne citizens held a mass meeting the night of March 31, and within 30 minutes some 60 Wayne men on freight trains and with teams spread out over NE Nebraska carrying counter petitions for signatures.

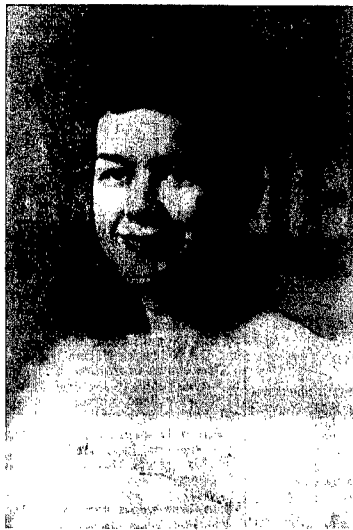

Jim Miller was a modern Paul Revere, riding through the night 40 miles to Ponca. Telegrams and petitions flooded into the governor's office. And last night — with delegations from Wayne, Fremont and Norfolk milling outside his office — Gov. Schallenger signed the bill.

Thus "Mr. Pile's College" will live on. This was, in fact, his goal, and he had worked for several years to negotiate the sale of his school to the state.

THIS WAS an agriculture class of the early years at Wayne State, perhaps 1912 to 1914. Standing next to the door in rear is the teacher, E. E. Lackey, one of the original 1910 faculty. He is expected to return for the anniversary next week.

Goal of WSTC is Still the Same But Methods Changed

The goal remains unchanged but the methods have changed. This is true of Wayne State Teachers College over a 50-year history. It was established as a State Normal School to educate teachers. The Legislature directed that Wayne Normal, like the other three state schools, should have as its exclusive purpose the instruction of persons, both male and female, in the art of teaching, and in all the various branches that pertain to good common-school education. In 1921 the Legislature elevated all four normal schools from two-year to four-year colleges and gave them authority to grant the bachelor's degree in education. Educating teacher candidates remains the principal mission at Wayne.

However, the scope has widened since the Legislature in 1949 authorized the state colleges to give the bachelor of arts degree. In recent years Wayne State has strengthened its offering of liberal arts courses—and requiring more of them of all graduates, including those earning education degrees.

Liberal arts embraces the basic fields of language, physical, science, mathematics, social-sciences, and the fine arts. All students devote a major share of their class time to these fields, even those who major in elementary education. Prospective elementary teachers majoring in education must take 24 hours (of the 125 required for graduation) in education and psychology.

But those intending to teach in secondary schools need only 18 hours of education courses. They take at least 50 hours in the subjects which they intend to teach. (Eighteen hours of education courses is the state requirement for certification.)

Thus, future teachers spend only a small part of their college study on the so-called "how to" courses, a major part on the "what" and "why" courses basic to liberal arts.

Wayne State, in this philosophy, keeps pace with a national trend toward strengthening the liberal arts as a basis for professional education.

Wayne's goal is, as always, primarily to produce competent teachers. But the general method has changed in its stress—less on the how-to-teach courses, more on the what-to-teach.

There is a 1910 parallel with 1960 purpose as stated by the presidents of those years. Fifty years ago President U. S. Conn told his faculty: "It is my ambition to have the Wayne State Normal stand as a model in the training of professional teachers, to be an important factor in raising the educational standard of the state, and to be a leader and not a follower in educational progress."

Like an echo, this same sentiment was expressed recently when President W. A. Brandenburg outlined to the faculty his goals for the Hahn campus school:

"More and more the campus school must become a place for experimentation and research and testing of new ideas, providing an example for area schools. If it is anything less, it does not justify its existence."

IT TAKES A LONG TIME TO GROW . . .

It takes a long time to grow, whether it be people, a business establishment or an educational institution such as WSTC. As Wayne County's pioneer financial institution, we are indeed proud to congratulate WSTC on its golden anniversary.

Education and banking work hand-in-hand to keep America moving ever forward toward new horizons of knowledge and achievement. A bank's "product" is the success of those it serves. We are indeed proud to have been partners in progress with WSTC during its first 50 years.

Cooking Classes — Now and Then

COOKING CLASSES at Wayne State work under much different conditions now than they did in the early years. The present kitchen (above) offers up-to-date equipment, complete with a well-furnished living-dining room where the cooks practice correct etiquette of serving and eating. Pictured below is a kitchen used in the early years, date unknown.

Fred Dale Plans Retirement After 40 Years of Service

By Leonard Blecher

Wayne State Teachers college is about to lose its senior faculty member. After 40 years of service, Fred G. Dale, professor of geography, is ready to call his teaching career to a halt.

"I think this will be my last year," he said.

He joined the faculty in 1921 and has served longer than any faculty member in the history of the college, including its years as a private school before 1910.

His record is impressive and has many highlights, not only as a teacher but as a student. He attended Wayne State when it was still known as the Normal School. During that time he lettered in football, basketball and track. In track he set a record for the hammer throw which never was equaled by a Wayne athlete.

He recalls rooming in one of the two men's dormitories and eating in the basement of one of the two women's dorms which served as a cafeteria. All of the dormitories were wood structures then.

As Wayne State was only a two-year school, Dale spent the next three years at the University of Nebraska and lettered there, too, in all the three major sports. He earned his bachelor of arts degree and later his master's degree from the university.

His athletic prowess and his acquaintance with President U. S. Conn of Wayne State helped him land the coaching job here after graduation.

He coached all sports for 12 years and compiled a winning record. Football, of course, has changed vastly since the 1920's when the single wing formation was the main style of attack. The T and all its variations had not come into use.

While still coaching, Dale was asked to fill in for a geography teacher who was ill. He liked it so well that he decided to teach the subject after retirement from coaching. Geography and conservation have been his subjects ever since.

Have students changed much during his 40 years at Wayne? Not much, he declared.

When asked what he thinks of teaching, he replied, "It's a good living. I don't have any regrets."

A lover for the outdoors, Dale is an avid hunter, fisherman, golfer. Three times he has gone to Alaska for fishing.

He sums up his future plans thus:

"The earth is three-fourths water and one-fourth land, so you spend three-fourths of your time fishing."

Members of 1910 Faculty To Be Honored at Banquet

Though half a century is a rather long time in human lives, some persons connected with Wayne State in its first year still survive, and a few of them will return to join the golden anniversary.

They will be guests of honor throughout their stay, and especially at the Golden Years banquet Thursday evening. It is set for 5:30 p.m. in the Student Union, unless advance reservations dictate moving it to Rice Auditorium.

This banquet is open to the public, but reservations should be sent or telephoned to the college public relations office.

Eight of the 16 faculty members in 1910 and two of three graduates in 1911 are known to survive. About six are expected to attend the banquet. Among the first faculty was Mrs. Anna Bright, who also is the only living member of the original Nebraska Normal College faculty in 1891. Until recent months she lived in Wayne, but now resides in Omaha.

Other known survivors of the 1910 faculty are Lillian M. Jewell (Mrs. Barnes), who taught from 1910 to 1916; J. G. W. Lewis, 1905-35; Edvard J. Huntmer, 1910-38; Sara J. Killen (Mrs. Tracey), 1910-24; E. E. Lackey, 1910-24; Rachel F. Fairchild (Mrs. Lund), 1910-18; Violet C. Woostley (Mrs. Chinn), 1910-15.

Survivors of the 1911 class are Charles R. Chinn and Alwine W. Luers.

The banquet speaker will be one of Wayne's most prominent alum-

Lenore Ramsey Recalls the Changes in 32 Years at WS

By Judy Kletke

On the Wayne State campus is a vivacious lady whose interests, both academic and personal, have ranged over many fields since she joined the faculty in 1928.

Miss Lenore Ramsey, professor of speech, has taught and directed every phase of speech, dramatic and debate activity during her time in Wayne.

But she also is an avid baseball fan—at least when her beloved Pittsburgh Pirates are involved. She is a native of Parker, Pa. It range of speech and music activities. She also approves of the recent stress on college for the less serious, less talented student. She is happy to see the college grow.

Travels have given her many interesting memories. Among the most amusing occurred when she and a friend went to a meeting of Italian dignitaries in Washington, D. C. They were talking to one of the dignitaries while awaiting the ambassador.

Eventually an usher came and asked their new friend if he would mind beginning the meeting. It was the ambassador. If Miss Ramsey was surprised at this discovery, she was even more amazed when the ambassador told the usher to go ahead without him because he was having too much fun talking to the girls.

Miss Ramsey has taken two leaves of absence. She spent one year in post-graduate study at Northwestern University, where she earlier had received a master's degree, and she taught one year at Taylor University in Indiana. She still maintains a home in Fairmount, Ind., and spends her summers there.

She is especially proud of several former students who have achieved notable success—among them, Sen. Gale McGee, Wyoming; Rep. John Kyl, Iowa, and Dr. Harrell Beck, Boston University, who talked at commencement last summer.

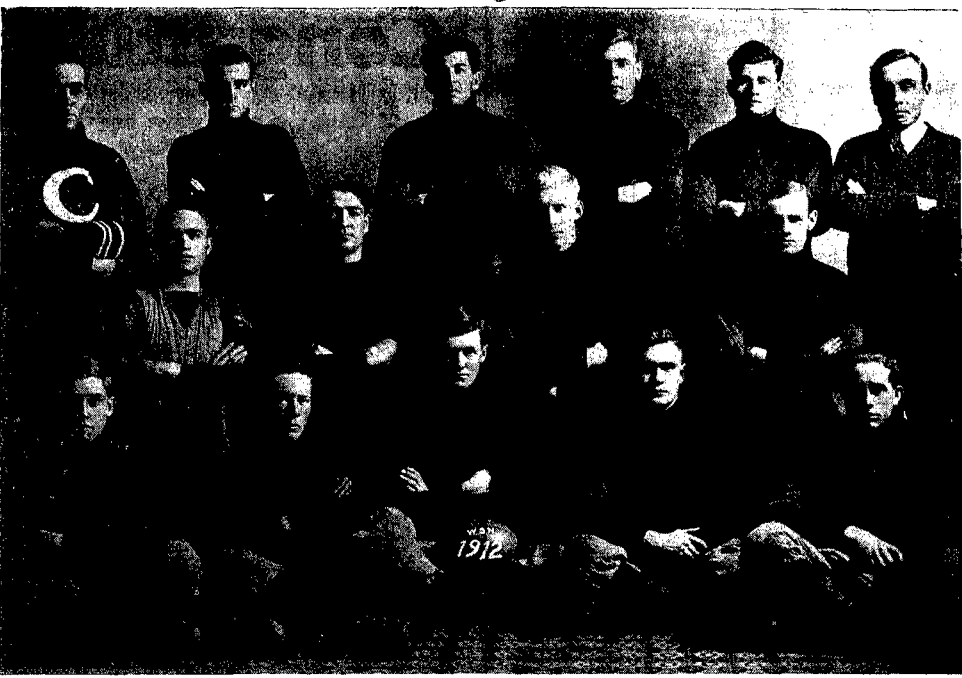

Miss Ramsey, who can speak from traveled experience, declares: "I still think this is the most beautiful campus in the Midwest."

Esther Carlson Sees Women's Physical Education Program Grow

By Rosemary Rundquist
Esther Dewitz Carlson, associate professor of women's physical education, began teaching at Wayne State Teachers College in February of 1925.

She had received a telegram asking her to come at once to Wayne, where there was need for a physical education teacher. At that time, only three courses in this field were offered—playground, swimming, and physical education, as it is now called. For twenty-four and a half years, Mrs. Carlson taught Phys. Ed. to the campus school elementary grades, besides high school and college women's classes.

Mrs. Carlson, who received both her B. S. and M. A. degrees at Columbia University in New York City, was the first person on the faculty to have her master's degree in the field of practical arts.

During 1927 and 1928, the Women's Athletic Association (now changed to Women's Recreation Association) was organized on campus. The group met outside of classes for such activities as hiking, tennis, table tennis, basketball, folk, tap and social dancing. When an awareness of the need for these courses was created, many of them were incorporated into credit classes to be taken during school hours. Thus the physical education program was slowly built up, and it has also been reorganized twice before a second teacher was employed. Both a physical education major and a physical education minor are offered at Wayne.

During her career at Wayne, Mrs. Carlson has been in charge of numerous pageants presented by the campus school and college students. This began when Dr. Conn asked the faculty for suggestions on special day events because he felt traditions should be developed at Wayne. Since Horace Mann High School in New York had put on a fine Thanksgiving procession, Mrs. Carlson suggested staging a similar pageant at Wayne. Now it has been given for about 32 years.

Mrs. Carlson, a water safety instructor trainer authorized by the American National Red Cross, recalls memories of her college days when she learned to swim. "This," she said, "was the activity hardest for me to learn and teaching it has given me the greatest pleasure."

THE CAMPUS scene has changed at WSTC in the year and a half since this aerial photo was taken. New since then are the Berry residence hall, a new street linking the middle campus drive with 12th Street at Main, concrete paving on the north road, a parking lot east of the Rice building, and a bigger parking lot next to the Hahn school. Later this year construction will begin on the cafeteria building, to be located at the north end of the practice field.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The editorial department of a weekly newspaper is an important department. Normally it is one person's opinion of topics that concern most of the readers.

It is the duty of an editorial writer to search all available facts before he sits down to write. From this basis the writer should be able to give a clear picture of important topics.

You may not agree with an editorial... but if you read the editorial and give serious thought to the subject discussed you have gained. You, as a reader, have given careful thought to an important problem and the writer is proud to have called your attention to an important subject that you may have overlooked.

Wayne's Major Industry

What could be termed Wayne's major industry had an operating budget of more than $1,000,000 during its fiscal year of 1959-60. This is quite a figure to be allocated in a city of 4,191 residents. Of course all of it wasn't spent locally, but there are other facets of the picture which brought even more revenue to the city.

We are speaking of Wayne State Teachers College as Wayne's industry. This year WSTC is celebrating its 50th year as a state college, and was in existence as a privately owned school even before 1910.

A person simply has to look at other towns that were the size of Wayne 50 years ago to see what the college has done for the community. Hardly any of these other communities can compare with Wayne, not only in physical expansion, but also in cultural growth.

The college is a big business in Wayne, with a payroll last year of $780,000. This is a lot of dollars to be spent in the community to expand the economy. But the payroll at the college is only part of the picture.

This year there were 1,359 students registered at WSTC. The minimum expense of a student for an academic year is approximately $700 so there is a likelihood that about $1,000 is spent by every full-time student at the college. This represents $1,359,000, of which a great part is spent in the community.

And in recent years the college has had a steady growth in enrollment, ranging from five to 10 percent. With this type of an increase, the community will also have to experience some growth.

So it might be well for Wayne residents to take stock of their own livelihood with an eye toward the amount that can be credited to the college. Then join with others in extending congratulations to WSTC on its Golden Anniversary.

farm Monday afternoon, is Emil Swanson, Winside, who took the honors with a net of 23.82 bushels in the allotted 90 minutes... Smoldering of coal in Wayne city school bins, thought to have been caused by heat and water seepage, was halted Friday night after about 40 tons of fuel were removed from the storage room... Donald Baird, Wayne, student at the University of Nebraska, has been appointed ROTC adjutant... R. G. ## Capitol News... Could Have More Interstate Done by Neglecting Others

LINCOLN — Acting State Engineer John Hossack has reported Nebraska has taken the right course in building the Interstate highway Nebraska could have started the Interstate at its western border and thus wound up as one of the first states to have the super highway completed, he added.

But, said the acting engineer, "we would have turned our backs on the critical highway needs." "By coming from western Nebraska with the four-lane road, Hossack said, the state could have had 150 miles of the Interstate built if construction had been concentrated between North Platte and the Wyoming border.

Regarding gravel roads in Nebraska, Hossack said they can all be converted to dustless surfaces during the next six years if there is no change in allocation of federal money, availability of state money, stability of construction costs and if there are no sizeable additions to the system. Hossack said the next common plea may be for four-lane divided highways.

He also suggested that the next Legislature establish some kind of a revolving fund to permit the advance purchasing of highway right-of-way in cases where a delay would make the property more costly.

Retarded School
The state school for the trainable mentally-retarded at Cozad has been the subject of controversy. Three Grand Island women broached the subject to Gov. Dwight Burney. They said the governor should name a committee to investigate conditions at the school.

Meanwhile, the director of the schools, Mrs. Amelia Wells, said she would welcome an investigation, but requests that such a group stay long enough to get a complete picture.

Mrs. Wells said of the complaining group, one never visited the school, one died before she was director and the other didn't stay very long.

Gov. Burney said the school is under jurisdiction of the State Board of Control and any action should be undertaken by that body.

Faculty Salaries
The coordinator of a state-wide study of higher education says faculty salaries at the University of Nebraska are lower than the average paid in the region. Dr. Lyman A. Glenny said this finding is part of a study to be explained to state senators Oct. 19 at a public hearing in the Capitol. Glenny was named by a committee of state senators to make the study after the 1959 Legislature voted $30,000 for the purpose.

The coordinator said one Nebraska junior college and two private colleges offer salaries higher than the regional average and these are at the instructor level.

Glenny said his report will not make recommendations but will present how the state compares with others in the Midwest.

Real Estate
Nebraskans should be protected from groups active in sale of "promotional lands," William F. Swanson, director of the State Real Estate Commission, said promotional lands are those advertised in many southern and resort states which state $30 down and $10 a month buys the ation of milking machines and adherence to a regular milking routine are essential to a good mastitis prevention program.

More detailed information about this costly disease can be secured by dairymen from Extension circular 60-623 which is available in county Extension offices.

Rat Control Program
Robert E. Roselle, Extension entomologist at the college of agriculture, says there is a need for an all-out campaign to control rats in Nebraska. Roselle points out that we are currently at a peak in rat population in Nebraska and several surrounding states. This is the third year in a row with high rat populations.

Roselle indicates the seriousness of the problem is not readily evident because rats and mice are in the fields and will be returning to farmsteads to feed on stored grain this fall. He cautions farmers to rat-proof facilities used to store grain on the farm, remove rat harbors and eliminate all sources of food available to rats and mice.

Several materials are available for control of rats and mice. These include warfarin, pival, fumarin, PMP and diphacin. They are available pre-mixed as concentrates and as water soluble powders. The most economical method is to purchase the concentrate and mix it with oatmeal.

Letters to the Editor

Wayne, Nebr.
Nebraska voters have made an unknown but sizeable contribution to the Congressman Brock campaign for re-election.

Republican Ralph Beermann, who is opposing Mr. Brock, revealed this week that Brock had recently mailed envelopes to voters in the Third District. Each was mailed under the Congressman's franking privilege and contained excerpts from the Congressional Record listing Brock opinions.

Mr. Beermann said: "If mailed under postal rules and to all 24 counties, each envelope would have cost three cents each or almost $1,700. And since the excerpts were dated Sept. 1, but received Oct. 8, they could hardly be classified as news."

Beermann also pointed out that franking privileges are frequently cited as a significant cause of postal deficits. He added:

"Brock's attempt to aid his campaign by adding to this deficit should be of unusual concern to voters in the Third District, particularly since they may be called upon to pick up the postal tab through taxation or increased rates."

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:
Our country has grown strong and prosperous on two opposite sets of facts — Democrat and Republican. Judging from what I read in the papers and hear on radio, both parties is making up the business statistics as they go along, sorter bending history to suit the campaign.

Calls to mind the story about the old kingfish politician that was on his death bed. He called for his two oldest political lieutenants and they were mighty touched to be so honored. One stood on one side of the bed and the other on the other side, holding the weak old man's hands. "Is there anything you want us to do?" asked one of them. "No," mumbled the old man, "just stand like you are. I want to die like Christ died — between two thieves."

To hear the Democrats tell it, if they win in November the farmers is going to have so much prosperity they'll be using white sidewall tires on their tractors. If the Republicans get it, they're going to put some penicillin and chloroform in our gasoline for us.

The various candidates says so little and expresses it so elegant that I stay confused. Frankly, I ain't expecting too much from either side. I just want folks to be well-off enough to live without borrowing, and pore enough not to get too uppity. I'll be happy if we get enough out of the November elections to make both ends meet. At one time, when I was young and had more faith, I lived for the day when the ends would overlap a little bit, but I've give up on that goal. I'm supporting both sides and pushing hard down the middle and hoping for the best. That's about as "right" as a water can get, and if right is they pass out any pie I ought to get some.

I see where one Congressman wants to change the immigration laws so's we can take more foreigners into this country. That's pretty smart thinking. It'll be a heap cheaper to take care of them if we can get 'em over here with us. This feller ain't from my Congressional District but I think I'll give him a write-in vote anyhow.

Well, Mister Editor, you can look for politics to get plenty hot in the next couple weeks. I come to town Saturday, stuck with my hand to make a left turn and two candidates shoot it around I could get around the corner.

I was reading Sunday where one of them column writers said 85 cents of ever dollar spent in this country was spent by wimmen. I was mighty glad to get them statistics and went right away and ask my old lady what she'd been doing with my 15 cents change all these years.

Yours truly,
Uncle Zerk

Third Cross Country Win As WSTC Tops Doane 25-32

Wayne State won its third cross country meet last Thursday defeating Doane 25 to 32.

Dean White, Doane, won, giving Wayne's Don Weitzkamp one of his rare defeats. White covered the three-mile course on the Wayne country club in 15:07, and Weitzkamp came in second at 15:21.

Tom Sangster, Doane, was third; Ken Katzer, Bob Gemmel and Dean Kirk, Wayne, fourth, fifth and sixth. Other Wayne runners and their placing: Steve Powers, eighth; Joe Green, ninth; Gary Robeson, 13; Larry Johnson, 14.

The Wildcat harriers were scheduled for a meet at Nebraska Wesleyan and will entertain the University of South Dakota team here Saturday at 10 a.m.

Wayne will be host to the Nebraska College Conference cross country meet Oct. 29.

McCord going the last yard on a right end sweep. A pass from Bob Elis to Merle Fauble connected for the conversion.

After that, neither team moved near a score until late in the half when Wayne reached the nine, only to lose 39 yards on the next three plays before the half ended.

Christmas Basketball Tourney Teams Listed

The list of teams for Wayne State's third annual Christmas holiday basketball tournament was announced this week by Athletic Director J. B. Merriman.

Coming here for the Dec. 29-30 event are Adams State college, Alamosa, Colo.; Northern State college, Aberdeen, S. D.; and St. Cloud (Minn.) State college. All are rated as potent teams.

Wayne State, conference champion last year, is figured to be dangerous again although two of its top scorers graduated.

Leeds Defeats South Sioux

South Sioux City was blanked for the first time Friday as South Sioux City Leeds defeated the Cardinals 14-0. This was the Redbirds' second defeat in a row, their only two during the season. Wayne High travels to South Sioux tomorrow night.

Crofton Keeps Title In Cross Country Meet

Crofton's cross country team retained its championship in the annual Wayne State invitational high school cross country meet Saturday. This is the third straight victory for Crofton.

The individual winner was a Lyons senior, Ken Gould, who covered the 4.8-mile course in 9:16. Close behind was Mike Wenzhoff of Humphrey St. Francis, 9:24, who edged out David Gentrup, Crofton, 9:26. Gould placed seventh in last year's meet.

Dennis Steffen, Crofton, was fourth at 9:38; Dennis Thompson, Sioux City Central junior varsity, 9:44. David Steffen, twin brother of Dennis, came in sixth at 9:48. A third Steffen-brother, Paul, finished 24th.

Norm Christensen, Lyons, was seventh; Dennis Mitchell, Belden, eighth; Randy Bricker, Jack Hazen, Keith Peterson and Brent Beebe, all of Sioux City Central JV, came in ninth through twelfth.

The team scoring: Crofton 38, Sioux City Central JV 43, Lyons 55, Snyder 116, Belden 121 and Valentine 152.

Four other schools entered partial teams (fewer than five runners): Norfolk, Humphrey, St. Francis, Randolph and Randolph St. Francis. Fifty-one boys finished.

Wildcats Defeat Wesleyan for 3-1 Conference Record

Wayne State takes a breather from conference football warfare this week to engage Lincoln university, a Missouri state college at Jefferson City. The game is set for 2 p.m. Saturday.

The Wildcats, now 4-2 for the season and 3-1 in conference play, may have a chore in handling the Lincoln team, though it has lost all three of its outings. Augustana of Sioux Falls tripped Lincoln 20-6 last week. Scouting reports indicate Lincoln is capable of explosive speed.

Wayne maintained its three-way tie for first in the NCC by defeating Nebraska Wesleyan 20-7 Friday. The victory came hard, however, as the winless Plainsmen, fired up for homecoming, struck early and held a 7-0 half lead.

Outthusted all the first half, the Wildcats came back with some fire of their own and scored twice in the third period.

Fullback Dick Chochon plowed straight through center for 39 yards to score with 10:26 left in the period. Ron Bovill kicked the point. A minute and a half remained in the third when Chochon again smashed the center for 12 yards and a TD. This time Bovill's kick went wide.

Wesleyan launched a determined drive that ended abruptly as Wayne Guard Bill Puetz intercepted a pass. Two long penalties set Wayne back until a punt was necessary. Wesleyan moved again, only to lose on a fumble on its 30.

The Wildcats pushed to the 11 before Wesleyan stiffened. Three Plainsman plays later, another fumble loss proved costly on the 20. Wayne needed five plays to score as Chochon added his third TD with about one minute left. Wesleyan blocked Bovill's kick, but a Plainsman offside gave him a second chance, and he connected.

It was the second straight game that Chochon tallied three times. The effort elevated him to No. 1 position in NCC scoring with 42 points. Ron Barker, Doane, is second with 36.

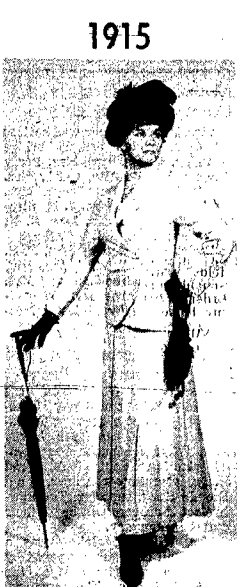

Wesleyan got its lone touchdown on its first series of plays in the first period. Playing like they meant business, the Plainsmen punched 50 yards to score, Dan

Stanton Over Wayne, 38-0; Blue Devils meet South Sioux Friday

The picture dimmed quickly for Wayne High's homecoming crowd after a start that was one of the brightest of the season. On the second series of plays for the Blue Devils, Lessman broke over left guard and had an open path to play dirt when he was jostled by one of his own blockers and fumbled the ball. Stanton recovered and controlled the game from there on, winning 38-0.

Wayne Prep Panthers bounced an undermanned Osmond team 31-13 Friday on the Tiger's home field.

The Panthers, momentarily stunned by the deception and broken field running of the smooth operating Tiger quarterback, Davin Clayton, were forced to come from behind for the win. Clayton covered 35 yards for a touchdown on the first two Osmond plays.

Steeleberg, Osmond's defensive bulwark, added the extra point and the Tiger's led 7-0.

The Panther offense, a little slow at first, came to life near the end of the first quarter as Bill Denkinger triggered the start of the 31-point attack with a 45-yard pass interception and runback. Veldon Magnuson, Richard Johnson and RaDelle Erxleben broke him loose with their downfield blocking. Koryn Lutt's dropkick was short, leaving the Panthers trailing 7-6 at the end of the first quarter.

On the first play of the second period, Orrin Lutt swept the left end for a 22-yard touchdown jaunt that put Prep ahead to stay.

On the next series of downs, Delmar Lutt, replacing Orrin after an ankle injury sidelined the senior wingman, repeated the end-around play with the same results, adding another Prep tally from 22 yards out.

With the score 18-7, Quarterback Kenny Braden gambled on a fourth and six situation as he flipped a screen pass to Richard Johnson on the Prep 26. Johnson ran 54 ards for the longest TD run of the evening. The half ended with Prep ahead 25-7 as Johnson added the PAT on a dive play.

The second half scoring pace slowed as both teams mounted sustained drives only to have them end short of the end zone.

The fourth quarter added one TD for each team as Braden hit Orrin Lutt for a nine-yard TD pass.

The explosive Clayton once again broke loose for the Tigers near the end of the game galloping 40 yards for the final score of the night.

Prep travels to Bancroft Friday to end the 1960 season.
