PILGER GIRL NAMED PRINCESS

MAJOR RAY FALES, left, National Guard official, explained some of the fine points of armory construction tentatively planned for Wayne, to these city officials and local Guard personnel after the general meeting on the subject Thurs-

Armory Plans Take Shape as Council Approves Land Need

Holiday Tourney Underway Tonight

The powers of four basketball conferences will meet at Rice Auditorium tonight and Friday in the Wayne State Christmas Holiday tournament.

Three of the four were champions or co-champions of their conferences last year and they all have much of their championship power back this season.

However, he pointed out that it would be necessary for the city to acquire two more acres of land for a construction site. The city had previously deeded three acres on Highway 35 near the east city limit to the state.

A total of five acres is needed, he said, to meet present requirements. But the land can be divided by a street or highway which gave the city more leeway in acquiring land.

The council appointed City Attorney Budd Bornhoff and Councilman Dr. W. A. Kooper to contact land owners around the present site to make plans for the needed land acquisition. Separate pieces of land surrounding the present site are owned by Wayne Marsh, Erwin Longe and Elmer Harrison.

Major Fales said the building specifications call for the armory to cost no less than $125,000 and would be an "expandable" building so that additions could be made should the need arise.

The building would be a great asset to the city. Fales pointed out, in that civic groups could rent the building for a nominal fee at such times as the Guard wasn't using it. He said that in other areas the Guard buildings are open to use by organizations, such as the Boy Scouts, free of charge.

An election of officers and board members will also be held at the January meeting.

Name on Memorial

A memorial commemorating the nomination of Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1952 will be donated to the National Park at Gettysburg, Pa., and the name of Ted S. Hook, Wayne, will be engraved on the memorial.

Hook was the 1952 National Republican Delegate from this district.

Assessment Starts in County Saturday

Wayne county residents were reminded this week by county assessor Henry Arp that his deputy assessors will take to the field Saturday to determine the 1961 assessments.

Taxpayers will be assessed on all personal property and real estate owned Jan. 1.

Assessing will be done in the same manner as 1960. Taxpayers will not have to report. Fifteen Arp assistants will call at the home, farm or business in person, filling out schedules on the spot. Valuation figures obtained will be cut to 35 percent for taxing purposes.

Arp reminded taxpayers that the law makes it the responsibility of the taxpayer to see that he is assessed. Persons who have not been contacted by a deputy assessor by Feb. 20 should make sure they file a schedule, Arp said. Deadline for filing schedules is March 1.

Detailed depreciation schedule will be used to determine values of farm machinery and equipment. That purchased in 1960 will be valued at 80% of new cost. Rates decrease down to 20% for that purchased in 1948 or earlier.

Similar scales will be used for household and personal items. They vary from 60% of cost for items purchased in 1960 to 20% for purchases in 1944 or earlier.

Taxes on grain and seed remain the same as in 1960. Producers will pay four mills per bushel for all corn, wheat, soybeans, dry edible beans and flax produced.

The tax on other grains produced, including rye, will be two mills per bushel. Seed produced will be taxed at 15 mills per 100 pounds.

Arp explained that valuations for grade cattle have been decreased for the 1961 assessment. The table below shows a comparison of the 1960 and 1961 rates:

Way Back When

30 Years Ago

Jan. 1, 1930: Russell Beckman, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Beckman, was cut severely about the head and face Tuesday when he slid down a hill on his sled and became entangled with some barbed wire at the foot of the incline.

Members of the city council heard Tuesday night its regular session the complaint of a committee of business men, for whom C. E. Carhart acted as spokesman, to the effect that the city of Wayne electric commercial rate is too high in comparison with the domestic rate. Pre-election activities reached a climax Monday evening when a meeting was held at city hall, where Stan Aeron Lewis, Omaha, discussed the natural gas proposal from his point of view. Thirty young people of the Methodist church and William Beckenhauer formed a group Christmas morning for singing Christmas carols about the residential district of Wayne.

25 Years Ago

Jan. 2, 1935: Harald Henderson, Wayne college student, has been selected for the all-star team to compete in a series of boxing matches to be held at Ak-Sar-Ben. Fire destroyed the downtown at the W. B. Hall residence Saturday.

Fred S. Berry, Wayne, was named as one of a committee to study the matter of integration of the bar at a meeting of the State Bar association. George Anderson, formerly of Wayne, has had a story accepted by the magazine Esquire. J. W. King had a couple of ribs broken when he fell against a stone at the Wayne Monument Works.

20 Years Ago

Jan. 2, 1941: Bernise, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lenhoff of Randolph, suffered a leg fracture when the horse he was riding slipped on an icy highway and fell with him. Wayne firemen took advantage of a course of instruction offered them through the Smith-Hughes act, which included the best fire fighting methods and was given by a specialist in the work. New improvements include: Nuss dime store will be enlarged and redecorated; City Grocery has added a meat department; Council Oak is being enlarged and redecorated. Esther Schroeder related her trip to Chicago for 4-H Club Congress at Kiwanis club last Monday. This year marks the sixtieth anniversary of the founding of Wayne.

15 Years Ago

Jan. 3, 1946: Val Peterson, former resident of Wayne files for state position. Peterson filed for the republican nomination for governor. The Wayne Vets independent basketball team jumped into an early start and won over the Wakfield Townies 44 to 39. Wayne County tuberculosis fund totaled $666.54 for 1945. Marie Wright . . . Yankton high basketball team won over Wayne high 35 to 10 at a game played at Yankton. New officers were installed Monday at the Wayne Kiwanis club. They are C. L. Pickett, president; David Theophilus, vice president; Mayor Herman Lundberg, treasurer; Dr. R. P. Cuff, secretary and E. W. Huse, immediate past president.

10 Years Ago

Jan. 4, 1951: Wayne County Board of Commissioners elected Emil F. Meyer County Board Chairman to succeed R. I. Jones. Failure to click at the free throw line cost Wayne State Wildcats a game Tuesday night when the Augustana college five dropped the teachers, 63 to 55. Records in the county judge's office show that 66 marriage licenses were written during the last year. Joe Erickson, Wakefield, marketed 59 Hampshires at the Sioux City market, receiving $18.85. Wayne volunteer firemen extinguished a grass fire at the J. K. Johnson farm last Saturday. A total of 325 car licenses were issued during the eight-hour day in the office of the county treasurer, an average of over 40 per hour.

ing that has in mind a critical look at state spending, including appropriations for the University of Nebraska and the four teaching colleges at Wayne, Chadron, Peru and Kearney.

Governor-elect Frank Morrison says he feels the University's request for 22 per cent more tax money for the 1961-63 biennium, some $5 million more, is "not too far out of line."

Morrison says he wouldn't favor much trimming since he feels it is the responsibility of the elected members of the Board of Regents to run the University.

"One place where we cannot afford sacrifice is education," Morrison said.

sional and legislative districts, broadening of the tax base and the related problem of state spending.

Coupled with those will be whether to reform the Board of Control which governs state institutions by changing its structure and whether this would achieve more efficiency.

A group of senators is form-

New Officers

Governor-elect Frank Morrison named the bulk of his cabinet level appointments before the Christmas holiday. They included George Morris, Lincoln, as State Purchasing Agent; Robert C. Newell, Lincoln, as Superintendent of Statehouse and its grounds; Frank J. Barrett, Insurance Commissioner; Joseph Divis, Fire Marshal; and Forrest Johnson as Tax Commissioner.

Morrison moved slowly on the appointments stating he wanted to get the best man possible for the job.

One of those named was a Republican. He is Morris who formerly was superintendent of the men's reformatory in Lincoln and for the past few years was superintendent of schools at Walton, near Lincoln.

Fire Rules

A meeting is slated Jan. 12 on the controversial fire rules which affect state institutions and schools in Nebraska.

The fire marshal's rules committee will discuss whether to reconsider some of the proposals many of which have brought strong protests as being too difficult to comply with.

School men have said one of the problems is that fire inspectors contradict each other and schools never know where they stand.

Gov. Dwight Burney recommended the rules be rescinded in view of the widespread complaint about them. He said he was not necessarily suggesting the rules be changed.

Proposed by the school people was a revision of statutes limiting power of the fire marshal and providing an advisory board with both responsible to the governor.

The school people also suggested fire insurance plan for schools be adopted.

Billboard Fight

The problem of billboards along the interstate highway apparently will come up again in the 1961 Legislature.

State Sen. Otto Liebers, Lincoln says states will have until next July 1 to enact legislation regulating billboards along the super highway to entitle them to federal bonus payments on interstate construction.

Aeronautics Commission

The State Aeronautics Commission had a lukewarm attitude about a statement issued by Frontier Airlines. The airlines said it wants to be an "eager carrier in Nebraska and then outlined its position on various segments of its routes in the state.

But the commission numbers termed the statement a "worned over" version of earlier pronouncements from the airline.

State Health Board

The State Board of Health must make the public aware of its needs for more funds to run the State Health Department. That's the opinion of a public relations firm hired by the board to help sell its request for a 47% hike in funds for the 1961-63 period.

The firm says this will require making its case known at the "grass roots" level in Nebraska, including an explanation of the need to replace some of the health services that have been dropped in recent years under the guise of economy.

Dr. Maurice Frazer, Lincoln board chairman, says he feels no cuts can be made in the request because "there's no fat in the budget."

County Agent's Column

Today's Farmer Efficient

The average farmer today can do as much soil building in a few years as his grandfather did in a lifetime.

The tools for this job are modern, improved management methods and the proper use of needed elements.

By using these tools wisely, a farmer can build up low-yielding land to high-profit fertility level. Such a procedure will pay off in lower costs of crop production and increased net income per acre.

In determining the kinds and quantities of nutrients needed to produce money-making yields, soil tests can be particularly valuable.

Other helpful guides are the farmer's own experience on his fields, the results obtained by the neighboring farmers and a study of hunger signs in crops.

Farm economists pointed out that the use of recommended amounts of fertilizer based on soil tests can result in as much as $3 to $5 in increased crop value for every dollar invested in plant food. These specialists say that maximum net profits from fertilizer use are obtained when the last dollar spent on fertilizer gives only a dollar's worth of extra crop.

Test, don't guess, is still the best procedure for applying lime and fertilizer.

Stump Removal

The easiest and cheapest — but also the slowest — method of removing a tree stump is to cut it at ground level, cover it with soil and keep the soil moist. To hasten decay, bore several holes in the stump before covering it with soil. Grass may be grown on it if the thin layer of soil over the stump is kept moist during the dry season. Stumps also may be burned out with charcoal, coke or coal in a "stove" made of a metal container such as a five-gallon paint can.

Milking Machine Care

Since milking machines are used on more farms every year, it is very important that they be used and cared for properly. It is apparent that as dairy herds become larger, milking machines become a part of the labor saving equipment on dairy farms. Milking machines must be kept in good operating condition. The manufacturer's directions on care and operation should be carefully followed.

It is important to have a steady vacuum all the way from the pump to the end of the vacuum line, and to the teat cups through the farthest petcock. Dirt, grease and dried milk deposits can plug vacuum lines.

These points are important when operating milking machines:

The December Farm Outlook

"Our Roots Are In This Land"

FARM REVIEW AND FORECAST

BRIEF AND IMPORTANT

INCOME TAX: Now is the time to plan expenditures and sales for leveling your income from year to year. Maximum benefits are now based on an earned annual income of $4,800.

SOCIAL SECURITY: Efforts of farmers nearing retirement age to minimize earned income below $4,800 to reduce income tax will probably result in a greater loss of social security benefits.

HOGS: With comparatively high hog prices near the seasonal peak of hog marketings, carrying to heavier weights will be profitable. Farrowings were reduced during the summer and fall of 1960.

FEDERAL MARKETING ORDERS: Look for a discussion of increasing the coverage of Federal Marketing Orders to other perishable products besides milk and fruits and vegetables, especially to eggs.

Tax Planning Essential for Farmers

North Central Publication No. 2. This publication also contains a worksheet to help estimate tax before year's end — in time to make adjustments before the ringing in of the New Year closes the door on 1960 expenses and sales.

1960 Changes

Changes made in income tax reporting this year will not affect most Nebraska farmers unless they suffered a casualty loss or have been amortizing fertilizer and lime applications in former years.

Fertilizer and Lime may be "Expensed". Prior to 1960, the law required that the cost of fertilizer and lime which produced benefits over a period of years be capitalized and depreciated over the useful life of the application. The 1960 revision permits that such applications can be deducted in full as an expense in the year of application. An option statement must be provided to the District Director stating that the election to "expense" fertilizer or lime that normally would be depreciated is being taken.

The change is permissive; farmers may continue to depreciate this expense over a period of years if they so desire. This election does appear to provide an opportunity to increase expenses in years of above-average income and not be required to take the depreciation in prior years when the deduction might be useless.

CASUALTY LOSSES: Important revisions have been made in the handling of casualty losses. A casualty loss is complete or partial destruction of property resulting from an identifiable event of a sudden, unexpected, or unusual nature. Damages from a tornado, flood, storm, fire, or accidents are casualties. Casualty and theft losses of livestock or produce purchased for sale are deductible. If you report your income on the cash method, the loss should be shown as "other farm deductions" on Schedule F. If you report on the accrual method, such losses are taken by omitting the item from the closing inventory for the year of the loss.

Casualty losses are generally deductible only in the tax year in which the loss occurred. This is true even though the damaged property may not be repaired or replaced until the succeeding year.

Farmers Tax Guides at Extension Offices

The 1961 edition of the "Farmers Tax Guide" will soon be available on request from the offices of county agricultural Extension agents. This publication contains over 60 pages of incometax information for farmers. It is written in easy to understand language and covers most of the tax questions farmers have.

If you file your own return, this publication is a "must". It is also important to those who hire assistance. The best accountant cannot report tax information the farmer has not furnished to him. Knowledge of deductible items, reportable income and advantages available through special options is of great value to every farmer.

The guide is indexed for easy location of common farm tax problems.

Major Social Security Changes for Farmers

Several major changes were made in the social security laws this year that may affect rural families in Nebraska. Some are of particular importance to farmers and other people who may not have been covered under social security until the last few years. The major changes are listed below with some explanation.

Benefits Can Be Paid to Qualified Disabled Workers of Any Age

Beginning with November of 1960, any disabled worker who has worked under social security for five of the ten years prior to becoming disabled may qualify for monthly disabled benefits. Before this time no disabled worker could not qualify for benefits until he reached age 50. When a person becomes disabled, but is not eligible for benefits, he may request that his social security record be "frozen". The period during which he is disabled will then be ignored in determining the qualifications for insurability and establishing the level of insurance benefits.

All disabled persons under age 50 who have already had their social security records frozen because of disability should have received a letter by the end of October, 1960, explaining exactly what the individual may need to know about getting disability insurance benefits. These people do not need to contact the social security office.

Any disabled person under age 50, who has never applied to have his social security record frozen, should contact the social security office immediately. He should find out whether he is eligible for monthly benefits. Any person who has worked under social security for five of the ten years prior to becoming disabled should apply for benefits. Disability insurance benefit checks for disabled workers under age 50 will be payable for the month of November, 1960.

Persons Working for Sons or Daughters May be Covered in 1961

Work that a parent does for a son or daughter in a trade or business can be covered by social security, beginning January, 1961. Work done in the household of a son or daughter will not be covered, however. This means that a father who helps his son with farm work and receives wages for his labor may be covered. Parents who work for their children in a business or trade should apply for social security account numbers promptly, if they do not already have them. A farm employer's report of wages paid must be made whenever the social security tax reaches $100 and on an annual basis regardless of the amount of tax due.

Less Benefits Withheld for Most Beneficiaries Who Work

Under the old law, many people received more in total income (earnings plus social security benefits) if they limited their earnings to $1,200 a year. This will not be true under the new law which goes into effect in 1961. A beneficiary who earns over $1,200 a year will always receive more in combined earnings and benefits than if he had earned $1,200 or less.

Beginning with 1961, a beneficiary who earns $1,200 or less will get his benefit payments for 12 months of the year. If he earns more than $1,200 a year, he will have $1.00 of his benefits withheld from each $1,200 he earns from $1,200 to $1,500. For every $1.00 that his earnings exceed $1,500, $.00 of benefits will be withheld. This, of course applies to beneficiary under age 72.

Many eligible people who have not applied for their benefits because they were earning more than $2,080 a year may now find it to their advantage to apply. For example, a retired couple entitled to a monthly family check of $1,65 would now get some benefits if the husband earns less than $8,330 in a year.

Reduction in Amount of Work Required to Get Benefits

Under the new law, most people can become insured more quickly than before. Just how long a person must work depends on his date of birth; or, in case of death or disability, upon the date of death or disability. No one can become entitled to benefits with less than a year and a half of work under social security. Many older people who did not work long enough under the old law may now be eligible for payments. In addition, survivors of workers who died after June, 1954 and who were not eligible for benefits under the old law may now be eligible because of this change.

The following table shows the amount of work needed under the new law for benefits to be paid upon retirement, death or disability.

| Worker who reaches retirement age for women, 65 for men | Will need no more than this much work. |
|---|--|
| 1960 | 3 Years |
| 1961 | 3 1/4 |
| 1962 | 3 1/2 |
| 1963 | 4 |
| 1964 | 4 1/4 |
| 1965 | 4 1/2 |
| 1970 | 6 1/4 |
| 1975 | 8 |
| 1981 or later | 10 |

Special Note on Social Security Tax Management

We continue to hear of cases of farmers approaching retirement age who are trying to hold down their annual income to minimize federal income tax payments. Unless farm income averages more than $4,800 over a period of years, efforts presently made to minimize income (below this figure) is done at the expense of social security retirement benefits. Farmers approaching retirement age, who want to maximize their retirement benefits, should maintain their income at a level as close to $4,800 as possible (this is the maximum annual amount on which social security tax is presently figured.) This is particularly true if farm income tends to be more than $4,800 in some years and less than $4,800 in other years.
