Of Goodwill Collection

The recently completed Cub and Boy Scout "Good Turn Day" in Wayne for the handicapped workers at Goodwill Industries has been termed a very successful effort on the part of scouts who participated, according to Rev. John P. Hanft, Jr., executive director of Sioux City Goodwill Industries.

Rev. Hanft said these collections by scouts are now a major part of the collection program for most of the 125 Goodwill Industries plants throughout the country, and that the scouts contribute immensely toward the employment and training of the handicapped workers who can become self-supporting as a result of the scout and other collections.

In addition to Wayne, 32 towns in the Sand Hills district and part of the Diamond Dick district of the Covered Wagon Council Boy Scouts participated in the "Good Turn Day" bags to homes in the area, and the following Saturday, Boy Scouts collected a total of 7,182 filled bags, for a return percentage of 78.9. Most Districts Involved Lie in Wakefield Area Reorganization of school districts in the area is taking the spotlight this spring with four different proposals concerned.

Hearings were held Monday and Tuesday before a special joint committee from Wayne and Dixon counties on the reorganization of districts in the Wakefield area. The proposed plan submitted to the group would merge the Dixon county school districts 64, 77, 78, 89, 93, 81, 79, 22, 74, and 87 and the Wayne county school districts of 6, 13, 59, 42, 1, and 7 with the Wakefield school district.

Three of the Wayne county districts, 1, 7 and 42 have shown their intention to oppose the plan, basing their objection on the fact that the Wayne county land is valued higher than comparable land in Dixon county.

The committee had not reached a decision Wednesday on the proposed plan. A majority of the committee must vote in favor of the plan before it can be submitted to the state.

The committee is composed of Gordon N. Rubeneger, James Troutman and Glenn Lundahl, Wayne county, and Vern Jones, Joe Matles and Quentin Erwin, Dixon county.

If the plan is submitted to the state committee, that group will review the proposal and issue advisory recommendations. It has 30 days in which to do this.

If the state makes no recommendation for changes, the plan would then be submitted to an election. However, if changes are recommended by the state group, the joint county committee then has 30 days to study the changes. The joint county committee must call an election on the reorganization proposal not less than 30 nor more than 60 days after receiving the state recommendations.

In any organization election, all districts if the same class vote as a unit. Thus the Wakefield school district would comprise one unit and the rural districts another. In order to be adopted, the proposal must carry a majority within each voting unit.

The Winside proposal calls for 13 districts to be merged with the Winside district. These are: 24, 63, 8, 21, 16, 79, 69, 11, 53, 31, 28, 29 and 35.

The plan involves an area of about 16 square miles with Winside in the center. It would include only those Class 1 districts that have normally been sending their high school students to Winside.

In other reorganization action, a hearing will be held Tuesday in the county court room at 10:00 a.m. to hear the proposal for dissolving district 49 and merging it with Hoskins district 9.

Then at 10:15 a.m., another hearing will be held in the court room to hear the proposal for detaching two sections of District 75, and attaching the sections to district 75. Notifications of the hearings can be found in the legal section of today's Herald.

Will Conduct Little Census in Wayne Soon

A "little census" is being conducted here this week, according to Director Percy R. Millard of the Census Bureau's regional field office, Kansas City, Mo.

The "little census" will consist of special questions to be asked in the March Current Population Survey in addition to the regular monthly inquiries on employment and unemployment. The special questions will be on consumer income, migration and family characteristics. Purpose of these questions, asked each March in the Current Population Survey, is to supplement and keep up to date detailed information about the Nation's population which is collected every 10 years in the decennial censuses.

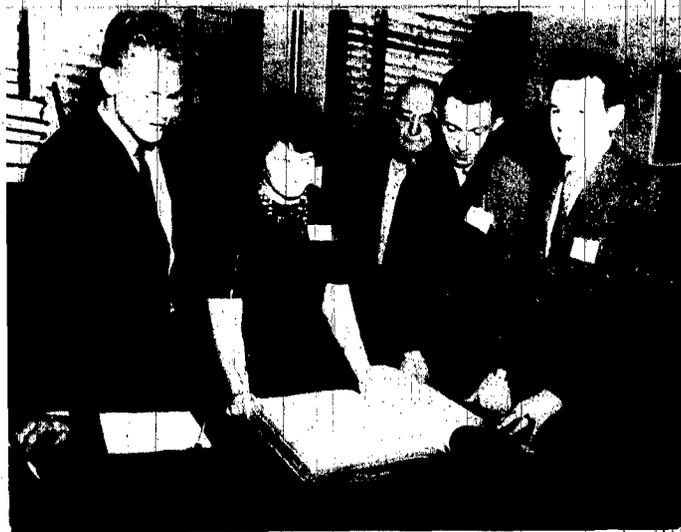

The regional field director emphasized that all information about individuals furnished the Census Bureau is held in strict confidence under Federal law. It is used only to obtain summary figures such as totals, averages and percentages for various groups in the population and not to show information for particular families or individuals. The information cannot be furnished to any other Government agency and this cannot be used for investigation, taxation or regulation. The Current Population Survey is being conducted here and in 32 other areas of the country this week. Information is being collected locally by Ruth Koehler.

Restrict Grain Intake To Accomplish Self Feeding Grain on Grass

Self feeding grain on grass can be accomplished by restricting grain intake with animal fats, according to the Doane Agricultural Digest. In tests, intake of ground corn was held to 7 pounds daily by spraying the grain with fat. Gains equaled 2.5 pounds per day. For a ton mix, spray 200 pounds of melted animal fat onto 1,800 pounds of ground corn. Late in the grass season, protein blocks should be provided to make up for lower protein content of the curing grasses.

RABBIT ORIGIN HOG CHOLERA VACCINE

A serious outbreak of hog cholera occurred in 1960. In some sections of the Corn Belt complete herds were wiped out. Less than one-third of the pigs were vaccinated in 1960. With so many premises infected and susceptible pigs, hog cholera could be very serious in 1961.

The best plan is to immunize when the pigs are 6 to 8 weeks of age while they are healthy. We carry a complete stock of American Serum Company products. Come in and talk to us.

SCHOOL NEWS

District 63 Ruth Kerstine
Debbie Davis is our new beginner starting the second semester. She is reading in her second primer.

In February, a trip to the ice show in Sioux City was enjoyed by the pupils and their parents. Our Christmas program money was used to purchase the pupils' tickets. At our valentine party, Kay Grues and Randy Schluns were crowned king and queen of hearts. An Easter egg spelling contest has every one studying hard to fill their cart with eggs. We are allowed to miss only one word each lesson.

We are enjoying our visible man in the study of health. Every one has helped to paint and put it together.

Thanks to Lana for sharing her new encyclopedia with the rest of the school. Debbie Davis and Glenda Morris have perfect attendance so far this semester. Glenda has only missed one-half day all year.

District 72 Mrs. Beite Ream
Ronnie Magnuson, Danny Hansen and Alan Finn are our kindergarteners who began school in January. They have completed their third pre-primers and the primer social studies. They know the numbers to 20 by sight and also can write them.

Kindergarten and first and second graders are making puppets for work in health. They are also trying to keep their airplanes in the air and flags waving in a reading contest.

Third, fourth, fifth and sixth graders are working to improve in accuracy and understanding in arithmetic. Their daily ratings are recorded on a wall chart.

We learned what our names were in Spanish and also learned a few Spanish words. Third grade social studies book had a chapter on Spanish.

Mrs. Melvin Magnuson, Mrs. Pat Finn and Mrs. Merrill Ream visited our school the past six weeks.

We have learned three square dances and are beginning a new one.

In art we have been doing brush and finger painting. This week we are going to make snow just pictures. We are also trying to get our fair work ready.

District 2 Mrs. Dorothy Nelson
Winners in the last spelling contest were Roger Hammer and Carol and Rita Bargholz.

Visitors the past few weeks were Mrs. Porter and Mrs. Elmer Bargholz. Star spellers for this week are Ronnie, Roger and Nancy Hammer, Rita, Carol and Donna Bargholz and Lyle Nelson.

Kevin and Nancy Hammer and Robert Geewe treated us for their birthdays.

Robert Geewe's potato plant is coming along nicely. Rita Bargholz has planted seeds.

Robert Geewe and Roger Hammer are keeping a three week weather chart.

Cardboard boys and girls dressed in green decorate part of our room. A short St. Patrick's Day parade was held Friday at our Busy Beavers club meeting.

Large white bunnies are already filling baskets with pretty colored eggs on one of our bulletin boards.

Fifth graders made free-hand water colors of Storm along and K. Philip Morgan, American folk heroes they had read about.

Second graders have written short stories and letters for Jan-George K. J. y is keeping a daily record during March of signs of spring.

First graders are making interesting alphabet books with printing of the letter, both capital and small words that begin with the letter, a drawing to color and a picture cut from a magazine on each page.

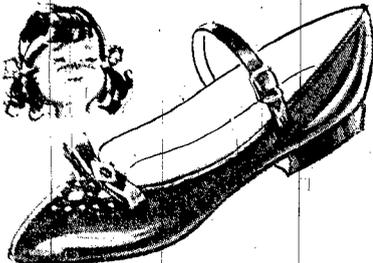

Seventh grade has been studying graphs and have assembled a chart showing various kinds of graphs and their purpose.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The editorial department of a weekly newspaper is an important department. Normally it is one person's opinion of topics that concern most of the readers.

Only A Beginning

Writing in National Review, Russell Kirk, one of this country's most distinguished and forthright spokesmen on educational questions, has something of great importance to say about Federal aid to our schools.

He quotes an exhaustive two-volume study, published by the Institute for Social Science Research, as proving "that sufficient money for good schools" — even the $23 or 24 billion annually which may be required by 1970 — can be raised from local and state property taxes and sales taxes.

Why, then, has proposed Federal aid to education become one of the leading political issues of the day? Professor Kirk's answer: "... what the zealots for Federal aid really desire is not simply more money, but more power — great power. The present pretexts of school construction and bonuses to teachers' salaries are intended merely as entering wedges; the first steps toward establishing a wholly centralized system of public instruction, directed by an important Washington bureaucracy."

These are blunt words, but history supports them. Once government enters into any sphere, no matter how modest the scale at the beginning, it demands and gets more and more power. And never forget — he who pays the piper calls the tune.

Bad Bill — Wrong Time

"A bad bill at the wrong time" is the title of a lead editorial in a recent issue of The New York Herald Tribune — and the bill referred to is the one which would increase the Federal mini-

You, as a reader, have given careful thought to an important problem and the writer is proud to have called your attention to an important subject that you may have overlooked.

mum wage and extend the law to some 4.3 million additional workers.

Here is The Herald Tribune's reasoning: "The proposed 25 percent boost would have an enormous cumulative effect on the total wage bill. Differentials have to be maintained, which means an upward adjustment for higher-paid workers as well. This means higher prices, another kick for the inflationary spiral, tougher competition from foreign imports, a further competitive handicap for American exports. It inevitably means that marginal workers will lose jobs and marginal firms will be forced out of business."

Later on in its editorial, the paper makes this point: "The worst aspect of the administration bill, however, is not the amount of increase but the extension of Federal wage regulation even to the community level. It stretches almost beyond recognition the interstate commerce clause on which Congressional authority to set wages is based. The 4.3 million additional workers are nearly all in retail and service fields which by nature are local — even local transit employees are included."

To sum up, the bill would increase unemployment at a time when there is a definite unemployment problem already. It would weaken the competitive ability of American enterprise in international markets at a time our spending abroad exceeds foreign spending here by billions a year and our gold reserve is shrinking accordingly. It would set the stage for more inflation at a time when stabilization of the dollar is absolutely vital if our economic position in the world is to be maintained. And it would mark up another extension of bureaucratic Federal authority at the expense of state and local rights, obligations and responsibilities.

Last night (Mar. 13) was quite a night on my calendar. First of course, I had been looking forward to the Patterson-Johnson hassle. Admired both these chaps and was sort of anxious to have the question of the better man of the two finally resolved.

All of a sudden, to add additional glamour and flavor to the evening, the Paar-Sullivan feud let loose in all its fury. Thanks I to myself, here's the frosting on the cake! — "Panicky" Paar and "Stoneface" Sullivan in the epic battle of the century. I was about to witness a colossal battle of the two self-styled giants of the TV industry. The outcome of this might determine the future of life — so I waited with bated breath — could hardly contain myself.

Well, the first battle came off as scheduled. Both the radiators, Patterson and Johnson, were there at the appointed time. The outcome is well known to all of us. Suffice to say, both men met acquitted themselves in a manner that brought praise to both the victor and the vanquished — a battle that would resound to their credit in the years to come.

Then the hour arrived for the Great Debate. The curtain went up and one of the participants was missing. However, the other one was there in all his brilliant splendor. He promptly set his absent opponent to ribbons both by innuendo and direct statement — finally finished up the argument with a statement that was the epitome of bravado, according to him. He called Mr. Sullivan a liar. You know, to me that didn't sound too brave, for he wasn't in any particular danger of being punched in the kisser.

When it was all said and done, it impressed me as being a sort of childish quarrel indulged in by two grown men. Most certainly a lot of man-hours were wasted in listening to them.

Kind of put me in mind of one of those "dry" thunderstorms we get once in a while in the summer. The clouds come up blacker than the inside of a cow. There were a couple of blinding flashes of lightning accompanied by the rumble of thunder. The wind started to blow and the dust began to fly (I have another name for that thing, but there was no rain — nothing happened) so bring relief to the parched soil and nothing came out of this storming peace and comfort to my tortured soul.

I'm sort of curious as to whether this "debate" will in any way come and in the history of the future, be placed in the same category as the Lincoln-Douglas debates of yesteryear.

Soil Tests Take Time
It takes about two weeks for regular tests from the time soil is mailed until results are returned to the county. It takes about a week longer or a total of three weeks to obtain a test on nitrification rates.

Breakdown of time required for completion of the nitrification tests is as follows: two days for drying and crushing, three days for bonding, one day for titration, one day for sample preparation, 10 days for sample incubation, one day for nitrate analysis, and one day for recording, typing and verifying the results. This is a total of 18 days. In addition, you must add some time for mailing and delivery.

Motor Pool
Gov. Frank Morrison is going to try to see if the state can't set up a motor pool in Lincoln to better utilize state vehicles. This has come up frequently among past governors, the latest being former Republican Victor Anderson. But the plan was abandoned because of costs involved.

However, Morrison feels that the motor pool is feasible and that it can save the state thousands of dollars.

The governor assigned State Purchasing Agent George Morris and State Auditor Ray Johnson to make a more detailed study and present a feasibility report to him on the motor pool idea.

Each department now is assigned cars and some employees take the vehicles home after work. Under the Morrison plan the vehicles would be stored in a central location and used only as needed.

nitrification tests is the minimum. During rush periods in early spring, four weeks are often required.

New Circular Available
A summary of the 1961 Nebraska tractor tests has just been released in publication form by the University of Nebraska Agricultural Experiment Station.

The summary includes results of tests on 50 different tractors conducted during the 1960 season according to Lester F. Hildebrand, engineer in charge of tractor testing in the University's department of agricultural engineering.

In addition, the summary includes results of tractor tests conducted in 1959. There also is a summary of 42 tests conducted in previous years on tractors designed by their manufacturers and being on the market Jan. 1, 1959.

This and another new bulletin, Campaign Circular 178, entitled "Recommended Crop Varieties for Nebraska in 1961," can be obtained at County Extension offices throughout Nebraska.

The bulletin includes recommended varieties of small grain, sorghums, soybeans, grasses and legumes in the eight cropping districts over the state. In addition, crop recommendations also are included for the four corn maturity zones in Nebraska.

Beef Gains Boosted
Yearling steers implanted with a hormone preparation gained approximately 20 percent faster than non-implanted steers in a feeding test at the State Beef Experiment Station.

The hormone-treated steers required 10 percent less feed for every hundred pounds of gain, according to Dr. Johnny Matusushima, professor of animal husbandry at the University of Nebraska.

A test to evaluate the effect of a single, double or triple hormone implant in beef cattle showed that a single implant will produce just as many pounds of beef as a double or triple implant, Dr. Matusushima said.

In this test, the cattle were purchased in the fall of 1959 and weighed in three phases — winter, summer grazing on pasture and fattening in the feedlot. During these three phases, some of the cattle were implanted twice, and others were implanted three times.

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:
I see by the papers where one of them safety organizations in Washington aims to lobby legislation in Congress making car manufacturers liable for safety belts never automobile.

If them Congressmen get messing in such items as that, I got a few suggestions for them. I ain't saw a single thing the laws that makes car has ever done for the pedestrian. If the Congress is going into this field, I think they ought to work both sides of the street.

When a feller goes to town these days the only safe place for him to walk is where no motor vehicle can be drove, bounded, skidded, careomed, catapulted, nicked, or bunged. If recommend collapsible bumpers, padded radiators, and a slanted rubber ramp in front to scoop up the pedestrian with a soft pad on the hood for him to land on.

After all, they is a few pedes left who has to walk and they need some consideration. I admit they ain't too many pedestrians left and if the Congress is looking at the matter from the vote angle, them that has to walk the "pols" won't get much relief. The old song about the boy "walking his dog back home" is out of style, but if he ain't got a car, he ain't got no girl. The family car is getting to be more important than the cook stove. School Governing Boards to Remain the Same Number LINCOLN — The makeup of the boards that govern the state's institutions of higher learning continues to get public eyeing but not much backing for a change. The Legislature declined to give committee approval to a proposal to increase the University of Nebraska Board of Regents from 6 to 12 members.

And the State Normal Board, which governs the teachers colleges at Wayne, Chadron, Peru and Kearney, frowned on a recommendation that its group be expanded from 6 to 11 members who would represent geographic areas.

In the latter case, the Normal Board was referring to a suggestion of Dr. Lyman Glenn of California who studied the Nebraska education picture for the benefit of the current Legislature.

The proposal affecting the University came from Sen. Marvin Lautenschlager, Grand Island, who not only wants to enlarge the Regents but to cut their term length from 6 to 4 years. John K. Selleck, secretary of Regents, said the Grand Island senator's idea was "unnecessary and ill-advised." It would have called for a vote on a Constitutional amendment.

The board is efficient now and to make it larger would set up a situation where full attendance of members at meetings would be difficult, Selleck said.

Regarding the teachers colleges, Glenn felt an 11-man board would be less prone to political and regional pressures which he said were a problem of the current size operation. Glenn proposed the Normal Board members also not be from a county containing one of the teachers colleges.

Carl Spelts, Kearney, Normal Board president, said several suggestions by Glenn have merit.

Spending

There's been another analysis by the Legislature's budget committee on the size of state spending that could result from bills pending in the Legislature. Fifty-nine proposals pending before the lawmakers would cost Nebraska $3.8 million in tax dollars, Budget Chairman Richard Marvel said.

The largest single chunk of money would be $1.9 million for providing surgical care for the aged.

Supreme Court

The State Supreme Court has a new judge, Robert C. Brower, 64, Fullerton. He was appointed by Gov. Frank Morrison to fill the nearly six years left of the unexpired term of the late Judge Adolph Wenke who collapsed and died in the statehouse.

The governor feels Judge Brower is a "leader of the Nebraska bar for many years, a man of broad educational background and high integrity who would be a distinguished member of any court in the country."

State senators who served with the new judge when he was a member of the Legislature from 1953-57 know him to be a man of high principles, with an engaging dry humor.

Judge Brower has three children, Thomas, who is a practicing attorney in Kimball, John, who practiced with the new judge in Fullerton and Mrs. James Porter, wife of a University of Nebraska professor.

Judge Brower, like Governor Morrison, is a Democrat. However, judges of the State Supreme Court hold non-political posts and run for election on a non-partisan ticket.

Governor Candidates

Nebraska senators are wrestling with this problem, posed in legislation during the current session: Who should be permitted to run for governor? The proposed legislation concerns only public office holders and would not stop private citizens from filing.

Tentatively, the lawmakers decided to permit a vote on a Constitutional amendment that would allow the lieutenant governor to file for governor.

They have nixed a suggestion that state senators be prohibited from running and refused to endorse that would have allowed heads of state executive departments to make the race for chief executive.

Now, only those outside state government and state senators in government can run for governor.

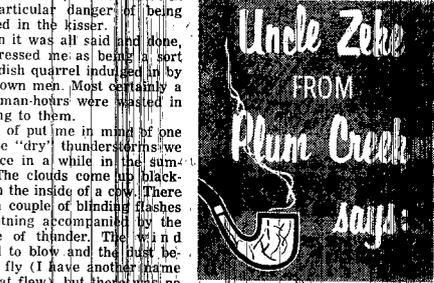

Proponents of permitting all state officials to seek the top executive office in the state said one time fears that current office holders could build a political machine now are groundless.

The scrutiny of the Nebraska press is too keen, senators were told in debate, not to catch attempts of anyone to start fashioning a machine to boost the officeholder to the governor's chair.

DID YOU KNOW that it costs less to run a full-page ad than it does to send a post card to all the readers of The Wayne Herald.
