

REV. RUSSELL M. DACKEN
FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

The cross must ever have the central place in the ministry of every preacher, Bible class leader and Sunday school teacher. If we would be blessed of God to the salvation of souls we must "preach Christ crucified," pointing men, women and children to the "Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world" (John 1:29).

Apart from Calvary there can be no forgiveness, reconciliation, justification, regeneration, no hope and assurance of eternal life. There is no other way of pardon and peace but "through the blood of His cross" (Col. 1:20). Not until we come to the foot of the cross and, meditating on the sacrificial love of Him who suffered in our room and stead, we say with Paul, "The Son of God, who loved me, and gave Himself for me" (Gal. 2:20), can we know the joy and peace of sins forgiven and fellowship with God.

The cross is the sinner's only hope, for there is no other way under Heaven whereby salvation is possible.

Yet we must never forget that the cross is vacant and the grave is empty. "Why seek ye the living among the dead?" said the angels to the sorrowing and perplexed women. "He is not here, but is risen" (Luke 24:5,6).

If Christ be not risen then His agony and ignominious death were in vain, and He is as helpless as a dead Caesar. The Apostle Paul knew the utter futility of everything and the pitiable position of the believer if the body of Christ lay crumbling into dust in some Eastern tomb. "If in this present life, we have a hope resting on Christ, and nothing more, we are more to be pitied than all the rest of the world."

If Christ be not risen, then, declares Paul, there is no hope of our own resurrection — "Then they also which are fallen asleep in Christ are perished" (1 Cor. 15:18); our preaching is vain, our faith is vain — "And if Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain, and your faith is also vain" (v. 14); and all Christian service and suffering for Christ's sake is of no profit to ourselves or the world (vs. 30-32).

If we would realize the full significance of Easter, we, too, must be prepared to face the consequences to ourselves and to the world "if Christ be not risen" and "raised again for our justification" (Rom. 4:25).

We live in a day when there is an ever-increasing tendency for Christian men and women to act as though our Lord is still impaled on that rugged cross. In walking through the Continental series of our great picture galleries how rarely we see a picture of the risen, radiant Son of God.

On one occasion Michelangelo turned upon his fellow artists in a spirit of great indignation and said: "Why do you keep filling gallery after gallery with endless pictures of the one ever reiterated theme, of Christ in weakness, Christ upon the cross, Christ dying; most of all Christ hanging dead? Why do you concentrate upon that passing episode, as if that were the last word and final scene, as if the curtain dropped upon that hour of disaster and defeat? At worst that only lasted a few hours.

"But to the end of unending Eternity, Christ is alive: Christ rules and reigns and triumphs."

Does Easter with its message of resurrection mean this to us or are we still battling with doubt and despair because of failing and defeat in life and service? Lift up your head and look up, for the risen and exalted Christ is ever interceding for you (Rom. 8:27). He is our great High Priest, and waits to give grace in every hour of need to those who believe He is risen and "is able also to save them to the uttermost" (Heb. 7:25).

If every moment of our lives we lived in the conscious presence of Him who defeated death and became the Lord of life, what transformation would be wrought in us! Defeat would give place to victory, weakness to strength, sickness to health, misery to joy and His peace and rest would take full possession of our hearts.

Lord, we are "more than conquerors;" that we can put behind us forever the old life of weakness, defeat, dissatisfaction, and despair and through faith live in fellowship with Him, and thus Hymn the victorious life.

Then shall we be able to say with Paul, "Thanks be unto God which always causeth us to triumph in Christ."

Country Club Officers, Board Members Elected

Fred Gildersleeve and Max Lundstrom have been elected to the Wayne Country club board of directors. The announcement of the new board members was made at the country club meeting Thursday. New officers for the coming year were also elected. They are: Alan Cramer, president; Walt Moller, vice president, and Warren Bilsom, secretary-treasurer.

Plans are underway for a members' drive and tentative plans for club house expansion were also discussed.

Interest High in Science Fair Set At WSTC April 7

Wayne Prep is among 15 high schools that will display projects in the annual Science Fair, April 7 at Wayne State.

Interest appears to be higher than last year, judging by the number of schools entered and the number of exhibits they will show, according to Robert Sutherland, WSTC biological sciences professor. He is secretary of the Northeast Nebraska Junior Academy of Science, which sponsors the fair.

The fifteen schools entered to date will display 117 projects, compared with 69 projects from 12 schools last year. A majority of the exhibits will deal with physics or chemistry, in contrast to the large amount of biology exhibits a year ago.

Schools entered, besides Prep, are Columbus, Ewing, Emerson

and Robert Kluge, Wayne.

Sigma Tau Delta, English fraternities: Cornelius Kelly, Wayne, Marvin Osterberg, Winfield, and Bob Heckathorn, Pender.

Kappa Mu Epsilon, mathematics

fraternity: John Fuelberth, Burton

Echenkamp, Vincent Magnuson

and Robert Kluge, Wayne.

Several merchants have indicated a desire to assist the program in some way. If others are interested they are asked to contact the school.

It is planned that eventually the students will take over the project entirely to perpetuate a scholarship fund.

Doug Spencer and the president of each of the upper classes have charge of the organizing in those grades with Vesta Wright representing the lower grades.

It is planned that eventually the students will take over the project entirely to perpetuate a scholarship fund.

MORE THAN 200 kids swarmed over Bressler Park Sunday in the annual Mrs. Jaycees Easter egg hunt. Candy eggs covered the park, along with 24 gold eggs that entitled the finders to special prizes. Prizes were also given for the most eggs found. The park was picked clean in a matter of minutes. The lawn of the Melvin Froehlich home was covered with eggs for the two- to four-year-old group who would have had a hard time competing in the stampede of the older kids.

Hill-Drop and Drill at 7 mph WITH A

New John Deere 495 or 695 Planter

Watch the dust fly and your planting time take a sharp nose dive when you use a new, fast-stepping John Deere 495 or 695 Corn Planter.

These outstanding 4- and 6-row planters have "Split-Second" Valves. You can hill-drop or drill at speeds up to 7 miles per hour! That's accurate planting, too. You'll get the right number of kernels in each hill... hills will be properly spaced...

seed will be planted at uniform depth. Emergence is fast and uniform; the stand is full; yields are bound to be high.

Daily capacity? You can plant up to 85 acres per day with the new 4-row 495. The 6-row 695 will drill or hill-drop approximately 120 acres per day.

There are many other facts about these planters you should know. Stop in and see us the next time you're in town.

Cattle Feedlot Rations Need Added Vitamin A

Cattle feedlot rations should include added synthetic vitamin A, according to the Doane Agricultural Digest. Researchers are finding that the carotene contained in legumes often doesn't provide a consistent source of vitamin A. Too, minimum recommendations for vitamin A ration content are not high enough to support best growth rates. Fattening steers should receive 30,000 to 35,000 International

Dehorn Cattle Before Putting Them In Lots

Cattle should be dehorned as calves, but if some are missed they should be dehorned before going into the feedlot, say Doane Agricultural Digest editors. Up to 30 pounds of shrink can be expected from dehorning yearlings, but this is usually made up in 10 to 20 days. Bruising is reduced and feedlot gains are better when all cattle are dehorned.

District 8
Mrs. Helen Barner

Several things have happened since our last news items. Mark Beiermann treated us on his birthday. Jackie and Paul Splittergerber have moved and are attending District 51. Mrs. Porter has visited us.

Connie Latt and Linda Meyer planned a surprise farewell party for Jackie and Paul. Games were played and refreshments served. A gift was given to each from pupils and teacher.

Debbie Latt, our beginner, is now in the third pre-primer. She has been doing a few simple number combinations. She made a circuit in the sandtable.

Connie Latt and Jackie Splittergerber won the kite flying contest in health.

Jackie Splittergerber, third grader, has read over 30 books and has made reports on 20 of them.

Mark Beiermann and Paul Splittergerber fed Oscar the most times this period. Each received a nickel.

Our room is making a change and beginning to look like Easter. Plans are being made to have a visit from the Easter Bunny.

Connie and Linda, sixth graders, are studying Canada and working on volume in arithmetic.

Jimmie Meyer, second grader, has learned his sixes and sevens in multiplication and division.

Mark Beiermann has been studying some of the verb helpers and enjoys his written spelling tests.

Michael Beiermann made a bird feeder to be used at school for our fine feathered friends.

Terry Meyer is now studying North America, and nouns and verbs in language.

Jackie and Paul Splittergerber brought several kinds of seashells and coral to school. Their aunt had brought them from Florida.

District 51, Upper
Mrs. Carol Keitges

The upper room has changed considerably in size since the semester began. Because of an increase in the number of pupils in the lower room, the two fourth graders were moved up with the upper grades.

Dennis Jensen also moved to our school in the fifth grade class, and his brother, Dean, in the seventh grade. GENE GRANQUIST, another new seventh grader, helped enrollment of the upper room grow from nine at the end of the first semester to the present 14.

We have completed five art projects this semester, such as paper-mache animals, constructed magazine pictures, valentine decorations, straw construction and booklets.

This week we are beginning work

WILLIAM H. MAU, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Mau, Wayne, spent 14 days at home after completing basic training at San Diego Naval Base. He reported for duty aboard the USS Henry County. His address is 548-54-29, USS Henry County (LST-824), c/o FPO, San Francisco, Calif.

on boxes and are building various locomotive devices, such as cars, trucks, wagons and trains. These are to be pasted together and either painted or covered with construction paper. Object of these projects are free expression, use of imagination and ingenuity, creativity and enjoyment. So far, results have been quite pleasing.

District 28 South
Mrs. Marion Iversen

Fifth and sixth grades science classes prepared a bulletin board on animals and products obtained from them.

Debbie Soden and Donald Holtz brought treats for their birthdays. Games were played. Next week we'll observe Patty Field's birthday, which is in the summer.

We are planning a school tour to Sioux City. The children will be on Kids' Korner on TV.

Bobby Holtz has finished his "Discovering Numbers" book.

Peggy Eckert and Betty, Bobby and Donald Holtz have had perfect attendance. Debbie Soden and David Field, who started in January, also have had perfect attendance.

Mrs. Marvin Andersen, Howard Lean and Kevin visited school.

District 51, Lower
Mrs. Greté Bowder

We have four new pupils in our room. They are Jackie and Paul Splittergerber and Rickie and Renee Milligan. Jackie is in the third grade, Paul and Rickie in the second grade and Renee is in kindergarten. There are seven pupils in the second grade.

Kindergarteners have completed their first pre-primer.

First graders have new health books.

Second graders are working in their arithmetic workbooks.

Third graders are studying and writing poems in language.

Everyone is looking forward to the Easter party Friday.

District 74
Mrs. Shirley Trautwein

Loren Hansen has made 42 book reports and Leslie Kruger 36.

Sixth graders published the newspaper for this six weeks.

New officers for the "Big Nine Club" are: Sue Gries, president; Wayne Anderson, vice president, and Leslie Kruger, secretary. Each week two members give a report or a demonstration during the meeting. Sue Gries gave a report on the Glen Olson family visited in the Bill Nanseb home Wednesday evening.

Betty, Bruce and Ricky Olson spent Monday evening in the Glen Olson home while their mother was assisting with serving the dinner to the Farmer's Union tank wagon customers.

The Glen Olson and Floyd Johnson families enjoyed Sunday dinner at a Laurel cafe. Entroute home

the Johnson's were coffee guests of the Larson's.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lundahl were Sunday afternoon visitors in the Lester Smith home, Laurel. There also to celebrate Mr. Smith's birthday were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Spike, Hartington, and the Matrice Lage family, Carroll.

Mrs. Martin Holmberg was a Thursday dinner guest of Mrs. Attila Holmberg. Mr. and Mrs. Holmberg were at Laurel Sunday as dinner guests in the Oscar Peacock home.

Steffen Sundell spent Friday night with her grandparents, the Albert Sundells.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Werl were Sunday dinner guests in the John Gettman home, Wayne.

Mrs. Lawrence Ring and grand son, Bill, visited in the Neil Sandahl home Wednesday forenoon.

The Glen Olson family visited in the Bill Nanseb home Wednesday evening.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The editorial department of a weekly newspaper is an important department. Normally it is one person's opinion of topics that concern most of the readers.

It is the duty of an editorial writer to search all available facts before he sits down to write. From this basis the writer should be able to give a clear picture of important topics.

Peddler Time

It seems the first balmy days of spring stir activity not only among the growing things of nature but also among the itinerant peddlers and "cartrismen."

The first wave of these something-for-nothing operators has already hit Wayne in the form of roof replacement with "guaranteed service." The only question about their "guarantee" is where do you find them if it is necessary to use the guarantee? (And it usually is).

The spring and summer months are particularly good for these mobile "businessmen." They offer every service and product imaginable, at what is seemingly a considerably lower price than those of local merchants. But is the price lower?

What happens if their service fails to live up to their "guarantee"? Can you stop them the next time you see them on the street and ask them about it? Can you call their office and ask that they make good? Hardly, since they are a long way from Wayne by then.

There is hardly a service or product that can't be acquired locally. And these local businessmen stake their livelihood on your satisfaction. They have a limited trade area, not the whole United States, and must develop their customers from this area. This means if you are going to patronize them a second time you must be satisfied the first.

This is where the itinerant has the great advantage. He is selling a one-shot deal and will never see you again. At least this is his fondest hope. He has no intention of providing any additional satisfaction or service and the most you can hope for when you complain is a long delayed answer to your letter informing you that they haven't a unit or a man in the area to service your complaint at that time, but will surely stop the next time they are in Wayne.

Then to repair the damage done by this less-expensive operator, you must contact a local merchant to do the job right. The local man, naturally, has to charge for his work, so was the itinerant.

Nearly As Many Dirt As Graveled Roads in State

Lincoln — The newly-released biennial report of the State Highway Department shows that about two-thirds of the mileage on the state highway system is hard surfaced. The report lists 2,258 miles on the state system of which 8,859 miles are rural and 399 miles are urban extensions.

The state reports it has 6,266 miles surfaced with the most popular surfacing being bituminous. This type accounts for 4,318 miles while concrete makes up 1,948 miles. Only 68 miles on the state system are dirt surfaced. Gravel cover 2,891 miles in the rural areas and 32 miles in urban areas on the state system.

The picture alters abruptly on the other roads — those off the state highway system.

There are 93,320 miles in this category and only 3,284 miles have dustless surfacing. And 294 of these miles are in the urban areas.

Dirt roads on the non-state roads total 42,683 miles — almost as many as are graveled. Gravel surfacing is on 44,160 miles.

The report said the average cost of maintenance on gravel roads was $851 per mile. This ranged from $300 per mile on a few stretches to as much as more than $2,000 per mile on a few others.

Five other interesting incidents contained in the report:

— 5,022 miles of roadway were painted during the first nine months last year.

— Road painting used 30,855 gallons of white paint and 28,795 gallons of yellow.

— The department used 332,850 pounds of reflectorizing beads during the same period for signs.

— The cost of painting averaged $37.54 per mile in 1958, dropping to $33.54 per mile in 1959.

Planning for the observance of Homestead Centennial year in Nebraska in 1962 is now underway. The year was so designated by the Legislature when it approved a resolution introduced by Sen. Willard Waldo, DeWitt.

The Homestead National Monument is located near Beatrice and the marking in 1962 of the passage of the Homestead Act will include the dedication of a visitors' center at the National Monument.

Gov. Frank Morrison has met with a group from the Beatrice area to begin planning for the event. He says he will name a

Don Cunningham Says

Don Cunningham Says

The actions of the manufacturers of heavy electrical equipment and various officials of the companies, who pleaded either guilty or held contumacious (no defense) to charges of price fixing and bid rigging, came as a shock to the nation. Among the guilty are executives of the largest companies of their kind on earth.

The Federal judge, who handed down jail sentences and fines, said, "What really is at stake here is a vast section of our economic system that we are offering to uncommitted sections of the world as an alternative to planned economies. The defendants flagrantly mocked the image of that economic system of free enterprise."

Regrettable as the case is, however, it will have its healthy aspect: The government was on the side of the people and once it had gathered the needed evidence, it acted with all energy to safeguard the people and punish the malefactors.

Suppose, on the other hand, the government had owned these enterprises as it does under socialism and communism and irregularities had occurred. The people would have been both ignorant of the facts and impotent to act because government does not indict itself.

The moral is this: The faults in free private enterprise can be and are corrected. The faults in all-powerful, dictatorial government activities are beyond the people's reach.

statewide committee to help in the event.

Park Bill

LB 208, under assault by a determined group, so far has survived everything that has been thrown at it. This is the bill to increase the state property tax levy from 13¢ of a mill to 30¢ a mill to expand the state park and recreation area program.

The bill so far has survived three attempts to kill it and several attempts to stall it by requesting it be brought back in its progress across the board for specific amendments.

It will face its final test today (Thursday) when it comes up for final reading. There is no danger of a gubernatorial veto since Gov. Frank Morrison has thrown his full support behind it.

Easter Vacation

The Nebraska Legislature will take its first break in three months beginning Friday when a five-day Easter vacation begins. The senators will return to their legislative deliberations April 5.

State Guard

The governor can now mobilize a State Guard in case of emergency. Such authorization was given by the Legislature in LB 170 which has been enacted by the lawmakers. It authorizes him to organize and mobilize a State Guard whenever he declares an emergency.

Prior to the new law, a State Guard could be formed only if the Nebraska National Guard were called to federal service or if the President were to declare an emergency.

Mid-State District

The Nebraska Legislature has given its blessing to the Mid-State Reclamation project. By a 24-5 vote, the solons passed a resolution to forward to Congress to encourage federal appropriation of funds for the $81 million project in central Nebraska.

Implied Consent

Nebraska drivers who have been arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol and who have refused a chemical test of their body fluids have been sorry to the tune of 201.

That is the number who have had their driver's licenses revoked under the state's Implied Consent law. Motor Vehicle Director Alvin Scissors says he took 62 licenses in 1959, 168 last year, and 31 for the first two months this year.

Sales Tax Hearing

The last of the broadened tax bills will be heard before the Revenue Committee April 6 at 2 p.m. The same committee already has heard two other proposals. One called for tax on lodgings, meals and the other is the sales-income tax bill.

The final one to be considered by the nine senators is LB 380 which would impose a two percent sales and use tax.

Some 500 persons attended the hearing on the sales-income tax and an equally large crowd is expected to be on hand for the sales tax debate.

It won't be long now until one of America's big days will be upon us — the opening day of the major baseball leagues. While a lot of folks seemingly don't pay much attention to this particular occasion, yet most of us are going to watch with interest the scores of the day. Given those less rabid fans, the ones who pretend a seeming indifference, will probably take a surreptitious side glance at the final results, for baseball is America's own game and whether we acknowledge it or not, it is in the blood of all of us.

This baseball business is good for us — particularly good right now. Whether we realize it or not we are all under quite a nervous tension. In our subconscious minds there is ever subconscious fear of war and the attendant horrors of the atomic bomb, the hydrogen bomb, even the destruction of civilization itself.

Constant brooding about these things doesn't help solve them nor does it add to our peace of mind. About all it does is to impair our efficiency in meeting the problems over which we do have some control.

You know steam boilers have a safety valve or a "soft plug" which blows out when the pressure gets too high. This baseball business is sort of a safety valve for us — Let's give vent to these pent up emotions. Better take in a few ball games — maybe good for our mental attitude.

Then too when a fellow gets to thinking about baseball you sort of wonder why some of this old world's affairs couldn't be patterned along the same lines. The leagues are made up of towns and cities all over our land, but the game is played in every one of them, subject to the same rules and games are won or lost under these rules in direct proportion to the team work of the various clubs.

Maybe it's sort of a Utopian dream, but couldn't the whole world today take a little lesson from baseball. First to get united, then to work in each country, then to knit these countries together as a league and then have every country in that league play the game in conformity with the rules and finally give any country the old heave-ho, the trip to the showers, upon violation of these rules, just like an umpire tosses out a recalcitrant manager or player.

Fact of the matter, I can think right now, of a nation that could have been tossed out of the U. N. without harming the league very much.

Sure I know that all of nations don't want to subordinate themselves to an overall body, but you know if it becomes a matter of choice between self-preservation and destruction it might be well worth the sacrifice.

Robert E. Rosele says: "Control of these insects is difficult and eradication is almost impossible." The only suggestion we can make is to spray outside the foundation and around basement windows and doorways with one of the following materials:

Chlordane, 45 percent emulsifiable concentrate at the rate of 1/2 cup to one gallon of water.

Malathion, 57 percent emulsifiable concentrate at the rate of eight tablespoons to one gallon of water.

"None of these will provide the control that is normally expected by home owners," Rosele reports. "The mixtures may burn tender plants so care should be taken not to spray foundation plantings or grass. Inside the home it is best to kill bugs with a fly swatter and pick them up with a vacuum sweeper."

Tractor Called "Villain"

The Nebraska Safety Council has called for extra vigilance on the part of farmers in observing safety precautions as the spring work season gets underway.

The majority of farm mishaps can be traced back to the tractor, because it is used for so many jobs on the farm nowadays. Thus, getting at the roots of the farm safety problem involves research about possible dangers in tractor operation before an accident occurs.

Unlike factory workers who carry out certain specialized work after hour, farmers go from one job to another throughout the work day, with each task having inherent dangers.

Farmers work by themselves and must be their own supervisors. Most farmers are aware of the hazards connected with farm crop and livestock operations, but steadfastly believe the accident will happen to someone else.

The Council has these suggestions regarding farm safety. More widespread adoption of blinking light as a warning to motorists approaching a tractor or farm equipment from the rear. This light should be at least 500 feet to the rear and should be mounted to the tractor or implement three or four feet above ground level.

Increased use of red flags mark farm vehicles on the way in daylight hours. Red flags are distributed by the West Farm Retail Equipment Association to dealers, who will make them available to farmers. The problem, safety experts say, is in getting the flags affixed to machinery.

Development of awareness among farmers on "rules of the road" which involves not only safety but courtesy. Col. C. J. Sanderson, chief of the Nebraska State Patrol, says that local movement of machinery from farm to town causes more accidents than state traffic, such as vans of combines which frequent the highways during harvest season.

More strict adherence by manufacturers' recommendations in the application of agricultural chemicals.

The Nebraska Council has called record in urging farmers to take every possible precaution in the use of ag chemicals and machinery from farm to town.

Constant brooding about these things doesn't help solve them nor does it add to our peace of mind. About all it does is to impair our efficiency in meeting the problems over which we do have some control.

Fact of the matter, I can think right now, of a nation that could have been tossed out of the U. N. without harming the league very much.
