Reporter Learns 'Sticky' Business is Also Painful

Honey Business at Randolph Earns City National Title

Bees are not only prolific honey producers but are also resentful of intrusion. This reporter was stung five minutes after arriving at the honey processing farm located west of Randolph. At that point a very important fact was stated by Harold Lenhoff, farmer and operator of the plant: when stung by a bee, never pull the stinger out but scrape it off. In pulling out the stinger, one squeezes the small pocket of poison into the skin which immediately develops a hard, swollen core. If the stinger is scraped off the skin, not even soreness will result.

Mr. Lenhoff, who operates out of Randolph and Crofton, is one of the four honey plant operators in that area; the others include Don Cuth, O'Neil and Sholes; Dwight Dominis, Belden, and Jerry Meyer, Fordyce, Woodrow Miller, Colton, Calif. owns all plants. More honey per person is produced in this area than anywhere in the United States and perhaps that is the reason why signs boast "Randolph, Honey Capital of the Nation."

Mr. Lenhoff handles 2,500 colonies per year which each produce 100 pounds of honey. A colony consists of the queen bee and her helpers, located within one super, or box, containing nine combs. When the supers are brought in from farms that house the apiaries, the honey is sealed within the one frames. An extractor machine slips off the outside seal, leaving the honey open. An extractor machine (takes the honey out of the combs) leaves the empty comb. Any capping (wax) that's left in the honey is put into a spin dryer and the remaining honey is squeezed out.

Finished honey goes into a 500-gallon tank and from there into large storage tanks, two of which hold 200 five-gallon cans and one which holds 100 five-gallon cans. Also used for storage are many 55-gallon drums in the storage area. From the large tanks the honey is drained into five-gallon cans for distribution all over the United States. Distributors sell to packers and the latter put the honey in the small jars seen on grocery shelves.

Careful use is made of all residue wax from the combs too. The wax is dumped into a large tank and melted down by steam heat. The melted wax is poured into be

College Students Orientation Set

Students will begin flocking back to Wayne State's campus as freshmen and new students Monday for the first of many orientation sessions.

Upperclassmen will begin arriving Tuesday. Registration will be completed Thursday and classes start Friday.

Students will find a number of new things - 18 newcomers to the faculty and many minor changes in the campus. Some students will pioneer a new venture at WSTC - a co-educational dormitory. Berry Hall will have women students in the east wing, men in the west wing. Several colleges in the country have reported excellent results from the mixed dormitory plan - with better scholarship, behavior and dress.

Physically, the campus will look the best in years after a summer of vigorous tree trimming and sidewalk laying.

The present dining facilities have been expanded pending completion of the new Student Center, which will house a cafeteria. Some students will eat in what has been used as the banquet hall and grill. Later in the year the cafeteria, grill and other student union facilities will move to the new structure southeast of Pile Hall.

Rogene Lueders, Lyle Marotz Wed In Norfolk Rites

Rogene Lueders, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Lueders, Norfolk, and Lyle Marotz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Marotz, Norfolk, were married Sunday evening at Christ Lutheran church, Norfolk.

Rev. A. T. Bostelman, Norfolk, officiated at the double ring ceremony. Solists and organist were Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Gordon, Norfolk.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a hand-draped Chantilly lace gown. The bodice featured a Sabrina neckline, embroidered with sequins and pearls. Buck interest on the bouffant skirt was created by an oval panel of lace roses sweeping into a chapel train.

WAYNE STATE'S Head Football Coach Gwen Christensen discusses strategy for the coming season opener against Morningside Sept. 9 with assistant coaches Al Svenningson, Max Lundstrom, Carl Ellermeier and Gordon Zapp.

Wildcats Face Morningside In Football Opener Sept. 9

Thirty seven Wayne State graders began today a day workout Monday preparing for the season opener against Morningside college here Sept. 9. Several more are scheduled to report later, along with freshman prospects coming Friday. Coach Gwynn Christensen, beginning his third year at WSTC, reports added strength in some positions but lack of depth in others. He has 16 lettermen, including fullback Dick Chochoy and guard Tom Billeter, both all-conference selections last year. Other lettermen are John Bernthal, fullback, Gene Schneider, Jim Grove and Dave Munro, halfbacks; Joe Szykowski, Dave Krael, Steve Kneuch and Stan Schaudis, ends; Jack O'Brien and Fred Curtis, tackles; Jim and Bill Puetz and Lyle Blatter, guards, and Gary Fox, center. A big question mark hangs over the quarterback post with not a single veteran of varsity experience available. Larry McHenry, who carried most of the signal calling duties last year, is not eligible. Main contenders are Alex Inge, a junior who quarterbacked the "B" team last year; Don Calvert, junior, a transfer from Morningside; and two freshmen, Larry Adams, Norfolk (the attended an American high school in Germany), and Tom Miller, Niles, Mich. Christensen lists several promising line prospects who transferred from other schools. Larry Zwick, University of Nebraska, Jim Higler, St. John's Seminary; Bob Weger, Morningside; a 11 tackle, Dave Curry, Morningside, guard and Dick Olson, Morningside, center. Another transfer is Duane Twid, who earned junior college All-American honors at Emmetsburg, Ia. Junior college. He is working at fullback. Rod Herberson, who played on the Nebraska freshman team, transferred to Wayne last year and saw considerable duty at halfback, mainly on defense. The Wildcats have a nine-game schedule with the same teams they played last year. After the Morningside opener, they play at Moorhead (Minn.) State, Sept. 16; at Hastings Sept. 23; here against Doane Sept. 30; at Chadron Oct. 7; here against Nebraska Wesleyan (homecoming game) Oct. 14; here against Lincoln University Oct. 21; at Peru Oct. 27, and here against Kearney Oct. 30. All home games except the opener will be Saturday afternoons.

One more game may be scheduled this season with Westown. Youthful Golfer Scores Ace in First Year Play Terry March, son of Mr. and Mrs. Phil March, Wayne, topped his first season of golf with the aspiration of every golfer. Terry got a hole-in-one. Playing at the Elm-Brooks course at Lake Okoboji, Ia., Terry got his hole-in-one using a No. 6 iron a par 3 188 yard hole and ended game with a 45. Honey

(Continued from Page 1) Bees only work in the summer, of course, and are dormant in the winter. Each colony is given one super on which to keep alive through the winter. Mr. Lenhoff's processing operation runs from the first of March to the last of October. During the winter Mr. Lenhoff keeps busy with supply work, repainting and repairing. Last winter he made 9,000 new frames alone. Some of the older frames have been used as many as 20 years. Those who assist Mr. Lenhoff in operations in the summer include Gary Kruger, Swan Landberg and Duane Rudebusch, and this year his son, Bradley, 12, has helped. During winters many of the professional plant helpers work in California to round out a full year of employment.

29-Man Hahn Prep Grid Squad Boasts 10 Returning Vets

A 29-man squad which includes a nucleus of 10 lettermen brighten prospects for Wayne Prep's upcoming football season. The Panthers are holding one-day drills in preparation for the season opener here against Beemer Sept. 8. Coach Frank Williams has four veterans who were regulars a year ago, three of them backs. Veldon Magnuson, a lanky end, is the only returning regular in the line. Backfield regulars include Corky Lutt, quarterback, and John Dorsey and Rick Johnson, halfbacks. Dee Lutt and Jim Grein, both lettermen, are expected to battle for the other end spot in the line. The tackles will be Rich Maurer and Jim Kern, both lettermen last year. DEMONSTRATING THE administering of oxygen to patients in the new delivery room donated by the Hospital Auxiliary is Mrs. Harry Fisher, R.N., supervisor of nurses at Wayne city hospital. Don Easley, hospital administrator, looks on.

Wayne Hospital Visitors Greeted by Mrs. Johnson

By Jannene Reed

A visitor entering Wayne City hospital would be greeted by Mrs. J. R. Johnson, office manager, or Don Easley, hospital administrator. These folks are only two of the 20 employees at the 23-bed hospital.

The imposing brick building at 306 Pearl street was not always property of the town but originally was built by Dr. Walter Bentback in 1902 for personal use for his patients.

The original option on the hospital was taken by the city of Wayne on Mar. 29, 1938 and the first meeting of the hospital board of directors was Apr. 10, 1938. By June the city had exercised its option for Dr. Walter Bentback. Dr. Bentback's new clinic building was ready for occupancy Apr. 19, 1950 and from that time the hospital has been operated by the city of Wayne.

Bond issue for the building, land, equipment and stock on hand totaled $500,000. Authorities contemplated that if the city were to build a comparable hospital, it would pay approximately five times this figure.

Average annual expenditures of the hospital amount to $95,000 and this includes the payroll which is two thirds of that amount, consistent with the national average. Annual income from patients is $85,000 and mill levies take care of the deficit. Fifty percent of the accounts receivable are covered by a third party payment. Average occupancy is 30 percent plus.

Present hospital directors include Mrs. William Schuler, president; Henry Ley, vice president; Mrs. Robert Casper, secretary, and John Carhart and Carl Nuss.

These persons are responsible to the city council and mayor for the operation of the hospital. Administrator Easley is directly responsible to the board of directors.

Medical staff members of the hospital are Walter Bentback, M.D., Robert Bentback, M.D.,

George John, M.D., R.M. Matson, M.D., R. P. Carroll, M.D., and W. E. Reynolds, M.D., the last two of Laurel. Dr. Walter Bentback is president and chief of staff. Dr. John is vice president and Dr. Matson, secretary-treasurer. Any other doctor wishing to use the facilities of Wayne City hospital must contact one of the staff doctors. Pathology service for the hospital is rendered by Physicians Laboratories, Omaha.

Easley came to head the hospital from Iowa Lutheran Hospital, Des Moines, Ia., where he was employed for a period of five years. Easley's duties, besides administrative, include being in charge of the laboratory and x-ray departments of the hospital. He is also in charge of purchasing the hospital supplies and heading the staff of personal.

Mrs. J. R. Johnson manages the office and is head bookkeeper.

Mrs. Harry E. Fisher, R.N., is supervisor of nurses. Other full-time nursing employees are Mrs. Wayne Hasek, R.N., Mrs. Harold Wade, R.N., Winside, Mrs. Robert Johnson, R.N., Mrs. Ivan Freidilton, R.N., Mrs. Harry Manning, R.N., and Mrs. Kendall Martin, R.N.; Laurel, Mrs. James Thompson, Carroll, is a licensed practical nurse. Nurses' aides employed include Mrs. Roy Daniels, Mrs. Lillian Edwards, Mrs. Everett Hank, Mrs. Fremont Lubberstedt, Mrs. C. C. Powers, Mrs. Karen Chedderquist, Mrs. Irene Hamilton, Mrs. Harold Shell and Mrs. Martin Koch, Dixon, Mrs. Powers has worked at the hospital since it opened in 1932. The hospital uses the services of Mrs. Claude Black, C.R.N.A., Sioux City, as anesthesiologist.

Mary Krueger is in charge of all dietary needs of patients in conjunction with Mrs. Fisher. Her assistants are Mrs. Esther Krueger, Elma Ensminger and Dorothy Janarsky.

The laundry and linen department is filled by Mrs. Emil Dion and Mrs. Louise Kahlen. Mrs. Fred Ruser and Mrs. Eveline W. Thompson are in charge of house-keeping. Norbert Brugger does most of the maintenance work for the hospital.

Dr. Bentback added the top floor in 1947 so that now there are three floors and the basement. There are 13 rooms on both the third and fourth floors, consisting of a total of 19 private rooms and two semi-private wards. The second or main floor contains an operating room, emergency room, a new delivery room, two scrub rooms, a waiting room, laboratory, x-ray rooms, the bookkeeping office and the administrator's office. The basement and first floor provides space for the kitchen, dining room, laundry, drug room and space for storage of oxygen, solutions, dressings and various other hospital supplies.

The hospital serves Wayne, Dixon, Cedar, Dakota, Thurston, Pierce, Madison, Stanton and Cuming counties.

Wayne hospital auxiliary is responsible for the new delivery room. Mrs. Robert Casper is president of the auxiliary which was organized slightly over a year ago. At this time the group has donated $1,500 for the specific purpose of delivery room, ambulance entrance, now under construction, and nursery.

Wayne City hospital is a member in good standing of Nebraska State Hospital association and in State District No. 2 of the hospital association.

Easley states that the hospital is "dedicated toward filling the patients' needs to the best of its ability, attempting always to make the patients as comfortable as possible." He feels the medical staff of doctors is excellent, finds the hospital personnel well qualified to perform their duties, and foresees a happy relationship with the community for the Wayne hospital.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The editorial department of a weekly newspaper is an important department. Normally it is one person's opinion of topics that concern most of the readers.

It is the duty of an editorial writer to search all available facts before he sits down to write. From this basis the writer should be able to give a clear picture of important topics.

Enforcement Most Needed

Wayne's city council is currently engaged in the preparation of a new municipal code, a much needed revision of all the city's statutes and ordinances. The new code has been in preparation about a year and is undergoing thorough study by city officials.

We would be the first to admit there are many sections of the old code which badly needed revision, having been outmoded by modern-day activities. But there are many sections of the old code which have not suffered from age. They were instituted by the 1942 council or earlier for perfectly good reasons. These reasons still hold true, but the code sections are ignored completely through lack of enforcement.

One such section is that which forbids peddling within the fire district, which covers all of the downtown business area. This section was probably devised by the earlier councils as a means of eliminating traffic and fire hazards. It also served as an effective means of controlling itinerant peddlers who are in direct competition with local merchants.

Through lack of enforcement, this section is now violated flagrantly. One need travel only a few steps from the city offices to find a violator almost daily. Local businessmen are paying taxes for the continued progress of our fine city. It is a pity they must also pay taxes to have parking lots on the city streets for their direct competitors.

Many women are uncomfortable with an awkward son because he behaves so much like his father.

Shop in Wayne

A small item which appeared in one of Sunday's newspapers should have come as a great shock to many Wayne housewives, who apparently are much more shrewd in their grocery buying than Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman.

The item told of the purchase of 1,050,000 pounds of young chickens for use in the national school lunch program.

You may not agree with an editorial — but if you read the editorial and give serious thought to the subject discussed you have gained. You, as a reader, have given careful thought to an important problem and the writer is proud to have called your attention to an important subject that you may have overlooked.

The total cost was slightly over $300,000.

The shocking particular in the item was the prices paid for the chickens. While Wayne housewives can go to virtually any local grocery or supermarket and secure a single chicken for 25 cents a pound or less, the Department of Agriculture paid prices ranging from 27.88 to 31.96 cents a pound.

We suggest Sec. Freeman add a couple of local housewives to his buying staff when he does the government's grocery buying.

What we all want is loud praise for a good job and silent sympathy for a poor job.

Biggest Job for Agriculture

At more or less regular intervals we hear talk — apparently of a tried balloon nature — to the effect that wage and price controls may be in the offing. And existing and proposed agricultural programs impose or would impose on American farmers stricter and more unpredictable controls than any they have ever experienced.

So something said in a recent speech by H. R. Davison, American Meat Institute president, is of real importance now. In his words: "The livestock and meat industry has, during the last 20 years, done the biggest job for American agriculture. All the talk about government, all the talk about quotas, all the talk about production controls, etc., are meaningless in contrast to the fact that the biggest increase farmers have had during this period has been the market for meat food products. It has accounted for an increased feed grain outlet of 75 percent in 20 years of harvested forage — 60 percent of pasture and range forage — 30 percent of production of beef, for example, has almost doubled in this period."

And during those years, never forget, meat has moved in the free market — the market which is ruled, not by fallible human judgment, but by the natural law of supply and demand. The consumers have benefited right along with the farmers.

Deputy Civil Defense Director Austin Bacon said the beds are part of mobile hospitals, now located at Blair, Fremont, Wahoo, Beatrice, Superior, York, Grand Island, Norfolk, Hastings, West Point, Scottsbluff and Schuyler.

Four new hospital units will be established at North Platte, Broken Bow, St. Paul and Kearney. Each unit includes 200 beds, three surgical units, an operating table, three X-ray machines and other equipment found in field hospitals.

The Council recognized the need for agricultural research and urged its standing committee on midwestern agriculture to study the advisability of the midwestern states joining in an agricultural research program.

Kearney School

The state's boys' training school, Kearney, had 42 percent fewer escapes in the past year under Supt. William Ettinger, the institution's annual report showed.

There has been criticism in the past of escapes from the institution, a minimum custody one. From June 30, 1959 to June 30, 1961, the report said, the number of boys on parole increased from 166 to 195 but the number of those returning after having been released from the institution climbed six percent.

Expansion of the school's parole officer staff to three persons has been authorized by the Board of Control. Ettinger lists main needs of the school as a swimming pool and a new administration building.

Mail Routes

Many opinions have been asked of the attorney general in past years about whether mail routes money and materials could be used on regular county roads.

But the latest is whether materials purchased with county road funds could be used on mail routes.

Atty. Gen. Clarence Meyer said if the county board authorizes use of the material on mail routes, this is permissible since the mail routes are a part of the county road network.

Councils receive an earmarked portion of state gasoline tax collections for use on rural mail routes.

The state will soon have 3,200 beds for emergency hospitals for counties' sheep flocks will have been inspected once. Reinspection is expected to get underway early in 1962 in the eradication area east of the Pashanad.

Once a state has met the requirements for eradication of scabies within its borders, it may be certified scabies free by the Federal government.

Inspection teams have just completed work in Cedar county and are working in Dixon county at the present time. It is expected they will be in Wayne county in a few days and will work southward across the eastern one-fourth of the state toward the Kansas border.

Moves Up in Meat Production

Nebraska ranks second only to Iowa in total meat production in the nation, according to the latest issue of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's "Livestock and Meat Situation."

Based on production in 1959, Nebraska ranked third in beef, fifth in pork and fourth in lamb and mutton. Iowa supplies 13.8 percent of the nation's total meat supply while Nebraska supplies 7.1 percent.

Thinking OUT LOUD

By Rev. Walter Steinkamp Wesleyan Methodist Church

It is an act of wisdom for a man to let his sins go before he dies himself. As Christ, the Head and his Church, the body, all who have had their sins put to death may, with confidence and comfort to themselves, say "Thou wilt show me the path of life" (Psalm 16:11).

A good head and a good heart are from the good grace of God, and are necessary for His children to obtain while they live. God will not only "show us the path of life," but promises to put His Spirit within us, and cause us to walk in that path, and "Ye shall keep my judgments, and do them" (Ezekiel 26:27).

Sorrow may be our lot in this world, but in heaven there is joy prepared for us. Here our joys are mixed with grief and sorrows, but in the presence of God we shall have "fulness of joy," and there will not be a tear in our eyes.

It is my joy and comfort to believe in the all-compassionate Saviour. He will not only come to us, but for us. Paul says, "There is a crown of righteousness to be obtained for all who love His appearing." It is good to have God dwell with us, but it will be far better when we dwell with God.

Christ will never say to any of us, "Well done," who have not done well. It matters little who may speak ill of us if we but know that God will speak well of us in the last day. All we can do for Christ is very little, and it would be most ungrateful not to do the little we may.

If all our doings and sufferings were put together they would scarcely be worth naming, much less worthy to be compared with the glory which shall be revealed by Him. "Now we see through a glass darkly, but then face to face. Now we know in part; then shall we know as we are known."

Here Christians are in their infancy; there they will arrive at the fullness of the stature of Christ. Here at best, they are faithful over but few things; there they are in a "Robers over many things." Here we are saved by hope; there we possess the reality. Now we have the earnest; then we have the inheritance.

Jesus Christ is the life of all who believe on Him. By Him we are brought to the enjoyment of God; being quickened by His Spirit, and conformed to His im-

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Issue where one of their column writers says the 10th Amendment that give the Federal Government the right to levy income taxes, come to only 31 words. That was in 1911 and in 48 years the laws covering the collection of them taxes now runs to 400,000 words. He claims a good law lawyer can take them in 140,000 words and do a marvelous job for his client.

The great trouble, Mister Editor, is that our "pore folks" can't afford to hire a tax lawyer. I see for instance, where the lawyers for a Hollywood movie actor is trying to get a $32,000 refund on his income taxes in accordance with what he spent taking glamour girls to night clubs. His lawyers is claiming it's part of his business to make these social contacts. And the chances are that he'll get the refund.

I don't care how much refund he gets; but it just goes to show you how complicated them 31 words has got in 48 years. I reckon that fellow got a few hand squeezes and some Sears & Roebuck kisses from the big glamour gals, but if he gets $32,000 out of the deal, he's doing pretty good. Back in my day, afore we got them 400,000 words, if you took a gal to the county fair and bought her a real diamond, the only reward you got was to take your home set under the shade of a tree and squeeze the hand side out of her. The gal, not the tree. I doubt if the national debt was more'n $32,000 at that time.

It seems to me that we got a nationwide conspiracy going on in this country to crush the poor man with high-faluting words and complicated red tape. Take for instance, the liability insurance policy I carry on that old beat up car. I never drive more'n 25 mile a hour on account of knowing what kind of forms I'll have to fill out if I have an accident.

Well, Hafry's preacher come by the store for a few minutes again Saturday night. Said he couldn't stay long on account of being on his way to perform a wedding ceremony. But he stayed long enough to give the feller a few lines on matrimony. He allowed as how wedding rings was now getting so small it took a magnifying glass to see 'em. He claims a preacher has to wear his bifocals at the ceremony (I tell you when the ring is put on, they ain't meant to last more'n a few years, he says, on account of folks changing wives and husbands so often. Back in the old days they made 'em thick and heavy because they was meant to last a lifetime. What we need today, he claims, is an old style wedding ring, a heavy one that keeps the wimmen folks steady and weighted down in the home. He talks mighty brave. Mister Editor, for a feller that's got a small house and a big wife, you're truly, age, we are enabled to live on God's fullness of grace, and do all with an eye to His glory. His Word says, "He is our life." He being the source and maintainer of life; he purchases eternal life for His people, and bestows it upon them; dwells in their hearts, comforts them while they journey here.

Letters to The Editor

Wakefield, Nebr. Aug. 26, 1961.

Dear Editor I want to congratulate Mrs. Kinney for having the courage to speak out for what she thinks is right. There seems to be so few anymore that will do so. I have never read the textbook in question, but if it has the slightest leaning toward the toleration of Communist Doctrine, it should be thrown out.

There are those that claim we should not weed out everything of a controversial nature in our schools, and yet, the Bible has never been allowed to be taught in our public schools, because of its controversial nature. There is absolutely nothing good about Communism, so why clutter up our children's minds with it. Its intent is evil and its sole purpose is to destroy our freedom and our belief in God.

It is high time for parents who care about the future of their children to demand that only American Doctrine and Principles be taught in our schools and colleges. To the people that are called, self appointed censors, I say, keep up the good work. Don't let the "chosen few" run our schools entirely.

Mrs. Cole Haglund

To the Readers: On July 6, The Wayne Herald put out an advertisement on "Operation Slanted Textbooks."

I had the pleasure of reading this and also comments from the Wakefield Board of Education on the textbook in question, in Omaha World-Herald and Lincoln Star. Magruder's American Government 1958, has to me 19 places where could say would be misleading to a teacher as well as a student. What teacher is going to look for subversive passages and know enough to tell the class

Two methods of stockpiling food are suggested. A special emergency stock, packed and ready to move may be kept on hand or a two-week's supply of food may be rotated with the daily family food supply. The important factors to keep in mind when designing the family food stockpile are concentration, food life and ease of preparation. Palatability and cost are secondary. Foods canned in metal or glass will stay in good condition for six or more months if kept in a dry cool place—preferably not above 70 degrees or below freezing—protected from sun and dust. If required, include special milk or strained, chopped or other special foods for infants, toddlers, older persons, diabetics, invalids and those on a special diet. Cans and jars to meet family needs for single meals are best for meat, poultry, fish, vegetables, fruits, evaporated milk,

Other equipment which should be added if possible is: Cooking and serving — frying pan, a cooking unit, plates, cups, eating utensils, napkins, matches, measuring cup, bottle opener, can opener, pocket knife, double boiler.

Sanitation supplies — soap, towels, sanitary napkins, chlorine disinfectant, newspapers, paper bags, 5% DDT insecticide, emergency toilet, garbage can, human waste can.
