Annual Staff Needs Many More Workers

One of the many important issues of the Wayne High campus is the annual staff. This year's annual staff is made up of 60 people, the editor, one writer and a student photographer. Many students do not realize the tradition behind the annual. If they do, they can't wait until the annual staff meetings like they are doing now. School spirit is the main factor in the putting out of an annual. The staff shown so far in this project is absolutely sickening. The one fact remains. If the students of Wayne High School would have the privilege of looking into an annual ten years from now, something better be done about it now. That something is more help in putting this annual together.

Library Is the Place For Roaming Books

"If this book should chance to roam, let it slip and send it home." Such might be the thinking of a librarian in an effort to get books back in the library on time. A student failing to return a book may keep someone else from getting a book he needs. If it is a string around your finger to remind you that a book is due, return books on time so that you fellow-student may have a chance for them too.

Fund Raising Project Scheduled by Pep Club

The Pep Club bake sale, originally scheduled for April 2 and 3, has been changed to Thursday and Friday, April 9 and 10. Candy will be sold at all school entrances immediately after the bell rings. The same evening, cakes, candy, cookies, and pies will be sold downtown. Posters will be placed in the store windows as to the time and place of the sale. Another sale will be held after dismissal on Friday. Cookies and candy will be sold. The girls are having the sales to help pay for the letters and medals to be awarded at the Pep Club Award Party.

Journalism Students Work Hard for Stories

"Oh darn I hit the wrong key!" is a familiar and famous saying in the Journalism Class at WHS. The busy little bees trying to dig up three stories of interest a week. If you don't think that's hard join Journalism. Journalism Class starts at 10:45 everyday and ends at 11:45. If you see a student coming out of the typing room looking like his last day, you'll know he's been digging pretty hard for a story. All criticisms, comments, and story materials are appreciated. Believe me!

Athletic Departments Honored at Banquet

The Wayne High and Wayne State athletic departments were honored at a banquet Tuesday evening at the city auditorium. The banquet was sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce. Guest speaker was Bob Devaney, head football coach at the University of Nebraska. The directors of the athletic departments of both schools pointed out the lettermen on each of the teams.

Tropic Atmosphere Makes Droopy Eyes

If you happen to drive by Wayne High you might notice the windows are wide open in some sections of the building. This has been found to be the best remedy for "Spring Fever" which has taken a heavy toll in its early stages and is expected to take even a heavier toll before the end of the school year. It is rumored that instructors are arming themselves with "noisoz" pills and instant coffee which will be used when they don't see the whites of a pupil's eyes.

"Lucky Tray Day" Only April Fools

The cafeteria again had a "Lucky Tray Day" on April Fools Day. It proved to be very irritating to the students and teachers. A few faculty members and students had a lucky tag attached to their tray, or at least they thought they had. As they went to redeem the tag for a free meal ticket they found out that the tag contained the words "April Fool". Some of the victims of the gag were very disappointed, but on the other hand, they took it as a humorous April Fool's joke.

Loss of Hair Due to Unbalanced Journals

For the last five weeks Wayne High Bookkeeping classes have been keeping books for H. R. Burton, owner of Burton Hardware Store. This is the second practice set for the classes. These practice sets consist of Combination Journals, General Ledgers, Business Transactions, two files, a check-book and Ruled Paper, Work Sheets, Statements and lots of work. The books are kept the same as those of a real business firm. All the transactions are taken-care-of and checks are written, and it is determined by the work sheet if there is a net loss or net profit. This business is operated on the basis of a fiscal year, so the books are closed annually on December 31 only, not at the end of each month. But there are work sheets and statements prepared each month so the proprietor can analyze the progress of his business. Many of the students are ready to pull their hair out when they find out that their journal isn't coming out or their work sheet. But all they have to do is to ask Mr. Heier, the instructor, about it and he helps them out and gets them started out right again. After this practice set is completed the classes will go back to their work books and text books and work on shorter transactions.

Seniors Interviewed By 'Harbinger' Staff

Marilyn Hall came to Wayne High from Carroll School. She has been at Wayne High for four years. This year Marilyn is taking four courses. Out of those four subjects she seems to like Home Economics best. Marilyn plans to get more schooling after she graduates. Just where or which school, she doesn't know. Marilyn's main hobbies and interests are cooking and sewing. Of course she has a few other interests we won't mention. Marilyn gave a little free advice to underclassmen. She advised them not to rush into things. Give everything you do some thought before doing it. Joyce Claus Joyce Claus is barely 4'11" tall, but despite her size there are very few people who can out talk her. Joyce, a senior at Wayne High this year, hopes to attend Wayne State Teachers College next fall. She plans to take up Home Economics and business courses. She has been an active member

Wildcats Win; Open Home Season with Peru Saturday

Wayne baseball fans will get their first local look at Wayne State's 1954 diamond squad Saturday. The Wildcats will entertain Peru in a doubleheader starting at 1 p.m.—probably on the college field, if it is playable.

The Wayne season began harmoniously last Saturday with a 4-3 victory over Creighton at Omaha as Keith Krommenhoek and Roger Ginnapp hurled a three-hitter.

Today the Cats will invade Sioux City for a doubleheader with Morrisville. Coach John Jermier at midweek was still wondering whether one of his ace hurlers, Denny DeBaur, would be ready to play either Friday or Saturday.

The big right-hander sprained his left ankle last week. Krommenhoek, a 3-3 pitcher last year, showed the stuff that made him Wayne's top chucker in the previous two seasons. He shacked Creighton for five innings, allowing only three hits and one run while fanning eight.

Ginnapp took over in the sixth and survived a wild streak which gave the Bluejays a pair of runs on five walks. Then he bore down to preserve Wayne's 4-3 lead through the last two innings. He whiffed four, gave up no hits.

Three Wayne batters—Ron Anderson, Bob Gaeta and Mike Heard—each poked two doubles to back up Jermier's contention that Wildcat balling may improve this year.

Whether They Did or Didn't Records Post Thinclad Win

This is an interesting puzzle—did Wayne State or the University of South Dakota win a dual track meet Monday at Vermillion?

To make it more peculiar, Wayne figured, USD won while USD said Wayne won.

The discrepancy rose from the fact that the host Dakotans gave Wayne three points for second and place in two relays, making the score 78 to 73 for Wayne. However, Wayne followed its usual scoring practice of giving no points for second in dual meet relays, thus arriving at the score of 73 to 72 favoring South Dakota.

Under the circumstances Wayne Coach Carl Elmreier graciously said he would accept the USD scoring.

South Dakota won 11 of 17 events, but Wayne closed the gap with depth of points in second and third places—a surprising condition since Wayne seldom has claimed much depth of talent.

The Wildcats helped their cause by sweeping both the broad jump and javelin—Ron Hilger winning the jump at 20.5, Dennis Mayo the javelin at 156-9 1/2.

Darrel Reifernath scored firsts for Wayne with a snappy 9.9 in the 100-yard dash and 22.3 in the 220 dash. Other Wayne winners: Ed Humpal in the shot put, 49-9 1/4; Roger Dion in the pole vault, 11-6; South Dakota winners: Schlicht, 116; McCarthy, 440 dash, 52.2; Hinkley, high jump, 5-8; Birek, high hurdles, 15.2; Hoy, 880 run, 2:02.0; Neuharth, intermediate hurdles, 29.0; Culpepper, hop-step-jump, 40-6; Hines, discus, 152-6; 440 relay, 44.2; mile relay, 3:28.9.

Other Wayne placings: Carl Owezarsak, second, and Bob Fulstone, third in the mile; Rich Mintken, third in shot put; Bob Duranski, second in pole vault; Ron Buell, second in 440 dash; Dennis Kirby, second in high jump; Jerry Holmberg, second, and Bob Prucy, third in high hurdles; Milt Harrison, second, and Mike Miller, third, in 880 run; Phil Nielsen, second, and Holmberg, third in intermediate hurdles; Owezarsak, second, in two-mile run; Kirby, second, and Hilger, third in hop-step-jump; Humpal, third in discus; Jerry Poutsan, second, and Gary Busteded, third in javelin; Kirby, second and Van Steekelberg, third in broad jump.

Wayne's scheduled meet at home with Westmar Tuesday has been postponed and probably cancelled because of weather and track conditions. Next Wayne meet will be the South Dakota Invitational Saturday at Vermillion.

SOME YOKE... but name these oxen for the Game Commission.

Game Commission Contest To Name Symbolic Oxen

We have our oxen, now we need a name. M. O. Steen, Game Commission director, announced Wednesday.

One of the biggest tourist promotions in the state's history, the Game Commission is reproducing in real life the new NEBRASKA Symbol, complete with actual Conestoga wagon and live oxen to pull it, Steen noted.

Now that the Commission has acquired the oxen, the animals must have names. This is where the public can lend a hand. A contest to name the oxen is being conducted. There is no limit on entries.

Names must be submitted for both oxen.

state park of their choice. All facilities of the park will be at their disposal free. This includes golf, swimming, horseback riding, accommodations, or camping. This prize includes all expenses at the park, except food.

Second and third prizes will be awarded. The first 10 runners-up will receive three-year subscriptions to NEBRASKA's best outdoor and vacation magazine, "OUTDOOR NEBRASKA."

The oxen will become famous personalities in NEBRASKA and in the nation. Public appearances are already scheduled at numerous points in Nebraska and the oxen will also participate in a Dallas, Tex., parade connected with the national Jaycee convention this spring.

At present, the animals are being broken to yoke by L. D. Merce, Theodor. When not being driven by the oxen in parades and other functions, the Conestoga wagon will serve as a portable tourist station on Interstate 80 near Greenwood.

Both animals are docile, but also. Apparently all of their future farms will not go to their heads. No prizes other than these, the oxen are lured only by the prospect of a handout of hay or food pellets.

One animal, black and white, bears a distinctive white shield on its forehead and a white-tipped tail. He tips the scale at approximately 200 pounds and boasts a spread of horns.

The other animal weighs in at 800 pounds and is roan-colored with a white "x" on its face. He claims the larger spread of horns and is a little more accustomed to crowds than his teammate. Both stand approximately 45 inches at the shoulder.

Here's a chance to give NEBRASKA and a hand Name the oxen and win a free week's vacation at the state park of your choice. Decisions of the judges will be final.

Capital News Colorado Cigarette Tax May End Alleged Bootlegging

LINCOLN — There are some Nebraska tax officials who believe cigarettes may have been bootlegged into Nebraska from Colorado. These same officials recently expressed hope that a new three-cent-per-pack tax on cigarettes in Colorado would eliminate any of the alleged bootlegging operations. Richard Shugrue, tax administrator of the State Agriculture Department, said, "we are very pleased Colorado has voted for a state on cigarettes." The new law was signed into law by Colorado Gov. John Love last week and will become effective July 1. That will leave Oregon the only state not levying a special tax on cigarettes.

Shugrue said the assumption of Nebraska officials is that Colorado requires a special stamp on cigarette packages, just as Nebraska does. "If they stamp each package, it will be almost impossible to bootleg cigarettes across the border," Shugrue said.

Several months ago, the State Department of Agriculture indicated that one possible explanation for the cigarette sales was that cigarettes were being shipped into the state from Colorado for resale in Nebraska.

Shugrue believes a uniform cigarette tax throughout the United States would solve all problems in connection with bootlegging. He added that he also favors uniform tax enforcement rules and regulations "so we could eliminate the necessity of even stamping requirements were abolished. It would mean an annual savings of $300,000 for Nebraska. The state now gives tobacco wholesalers five percent of the cigarette tax collected in payment of affixing the stamps.

To Seek Opinions

The Nebraska School Boards Association (NSBA) will send questionnaires to its members in an effort to get grass root thinking on the question of state aid to schools.

The project, according to Richard Brown of Holdrege, is aimed at bringing "us up to date on the thinking on state support. We want to know if the members feel we should have it, and, if so, how." Brown is NSBA executive secretary.

The association is on record in favor of state aid but has proposed a specific approach. He added, however, that there is much sentiment for abandonment of the campaign to modify the state aid.

This amendment to this amendment provides that the state must get out of the property tax field

Loan Approved

The Farmers Home Administration has approved a $104,000 loan for development of a recreational area near Blue Hill in Webster County. The loan will finance purchase of 74 acres of land and pay the costs of building a nine-hole sand greens golf course, a picnic area, swimming pool and club house.

The area would serve the recreational needs of seven rural communities and surrounding farms. The loan was the second of this type made to a rural Nebraska county. Such loans were authorized by the 1962 Food and Agricultural Act.

The loan will be provided by a Council Bluffs, Ia. savings bank and will be insured by the Farmers Home Administration. The repayment period will be 40 years.

Highway Funds

The State Highway Department look bids for slightly more than $11 million during the first three months of this year.

State Engineer John Hossack said the pace was a bit below average but that he expects it to pick up this summer and fall. He said the department expects to let about $15 million for state highway construction projects this year, which would be about average.

The state engineer said the state should again meet the July 1 deadline for obligating its federal-aid highway funds. Each state must use its allocation of such funds by July 1 annually, or have the unused portion lapse. So far, the state has never lost any money through lapsing.

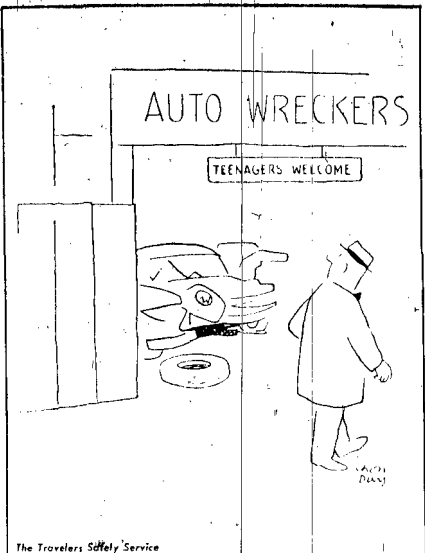

New Safety Program

"Project SLAP" is the name of a new statewide traffic safety program.

The general aim of the program is to reduce traffic fatalities through public awareness on the local level.

The new approach is being tested in nine counties—Gage, Otoe, Polk, Buffalo, Scotts Bluff, Madison, Hall, Platte and Box Bulle.

The program includes a series of conferences with police, school and civic organizations regarding traffic safety in localized areas. Detailed facts and figures on county accidents will be presented. Social and economic facts about traffic accidents will also be presented.

The Travelers Safely Service Drivers under 25 were involved in more than 25% of the personal injury accidents in 1962.

Spacings Increase Yields

When grandpa planted corn in 40-inch rows, it was because he had to leave room for the horses to walk between rows.

Research now shows that 20-inch rows treated with atrazine will produce twice as much irrigated corn and sorghum as will 40-inch rows similarly treated, according to W. L. Colville and J. D. Furrer, University of Nebraska Agronomists.

While 20-inch spacings are not practical at present, most farmers can adjust their machinery for 30-inch rows. The 30-inch spacings in their experiments gave a 27 per cent increase in yield over the 40-inch.

Two things to keep in mind are: 1. Don't increase your plant population on a per acre basis; narrow down the rows and spread the plants out in the row.

"2. Increased yields mean a greater plant food usage."

One of the reasons the narrow spacing produces more is that earlier and more complete shading of the ground helps keep down weeds.

Prevent Sprouting

To prevent tree stumps from sprouting, they should be treated with a chemical as soon after cutting as possible. Two commonly used and very effective chemicals are 2, 4, 5-T and Ammate.

The ester form of 2, 4, 5-T is mixed with kerosene or diesel fuel and applied to the cut surface, or can be used directly in the crystalline form. Care should be taken to be sure the crystals contact the entire outer edge of the stump.

What Has Happened to Feeders?

Large commercial feedlot operations have shown spectacular growth in Nebraska in recent years, but what has been happening to the farmers who handle fewer than 1,000 head of cattle a year?

The total number of cattle placed on feed by Nebraska feeders increased from 1.4 million in 1959 to just over 2 million head in 1963, reports Dr. Phil Henderson, University of Nebraska Extension agricultural economist.

The largest increase, he said, resulted from a big jump in the number of operations with a capacity of 1,000 head or more. In 1959 there were only 242 such operations in the state, according to the Office of Agricultural Estimates. By 1963 the number had increased to 819.

The number of cattle placed on feed by these large operations in 1963 was nearly 2 1/2 times as many as in 1959, Henderson said.

During this same period, he observed, the number of small feeders increased by less than 4 per cent and the number of cattle they placed on feed increased by less than 2 1/2 per cent.

fight it, win, lose or draw. If they don't have the desire to win and won't fight hard enough to save their own skins, then why should we take up the cudgel for them?

Evidently though that isn't the thinking of some of our top-flight minds. They return from a trip over there and tell us that they assured the South Vietnamese all our power will be supplied to them. You know a fellow wonders what might they have to obligate us in a matter of this kind? First thing we know, if they are allowed to continue on a course like this, it won't be just supplies and advisory staffs that we will be furnishing, but we will be into this thing up to our necks with men and arms, fighting a war in which we should have no part. Just keep on bolstering these people and their thinking will continue to grow that they needn't concern themselves too much about their war when they have a "patsy" upon whom they can shift the burden.

Do you realize that in the past two years America has supplied South Viet Nam with over two and a half billion dollars and about a half billion each to Laos and Cambodia? Do you know of anything we have received in return? These people do not know that such a word as "gratitude" exists. Yes, sir, we have given these former French colonies three and one half billion dollars. No wonder Charley de Gaulle is playing up to them and has a plan to neutralize 'em all. Look as though he would butter his own bread with America footing the bill.

Right now, we are hearing a lot about the elimination of poverty in the United States. An ambitious program and a very laudable one. Just think how billions of dollars could go into this sort of a program for our own people. Might just be that if we keep on dishing out money, materials and even men, we could get in the shape of not being able to do all that we want to do and should do for our own. The old "poke" isn't bottomless, you know.

30 Years Ago

Apr. 12, 1934: About 1,100 Wayne county farmers have joined the government's crop reduction plan. The ground is being cleared for the post office building, and a site will soon be selected for new telephone headquarters. PEO convention will bring a large delegation to Wayne, May 30 to June 2. The play written and directed by Melvin Olson, Wayne graduate, and presented by Rock county high school, Bassett, at the one-act play contest at Kearney State college, won first place. A total of 300 seventh and eighth grade students took the county examinations Thursday and Friday. Mrs. Alfred Haglund, Wakefield, celebrated her ninety second birthday Friday. Harley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Spahr, fell Saturday against a wagon and cut his cheek. A car driven by Richard Banister and the one driven by Harry McMillan collided at Fifth and Logan Sunday morning, injuring Mrs. Banister and Billy. John H. Morris, Carroll, who will be eighty four next week, has lived on his home place west of Carroll for 50 years this spring. He came here by covered wagon in March, 1884.

about reports it takes all the income tax paid in by six men that is head of the household, married and has two children, and is making $7,500 a year to pay for one GS-5 per year. It goes on to say we now get 762,000 families making $7,500 a year in the United States paying all their income tax ever voted to keep their Government secretaries in business. I ain't complaining none, Mister Editor, was just looking at the official figures on these matters. I know a feller working for the Government can't have no status if he ain't got a secretary or GS-5 and status is a mighty important item in Government. If you don't believe it, just look what status done for Bobby Baker.

Yours truly, Uncle Zeke

Season-long weed control from one Atrazine spray

Atrazine 80W herbicide is an easy one-spray weed control plan for corn that ends competition from most annual broadleaf weeds and grasses for the entire season. It works efficiently and profitably, promoting higher yields and reducing or even eliminating the need for cultivation.

Yields boosted by early control Three years of intensive field study by independent research men prove that by controlling weeds during the first three weeks of corn growth as many as 29 bushels per acre can be added to corn yield. When Atrazine is applied, broadcast or in bands over the rows, at or immediately after planting, you get this early control... control that continues right on through to harvest.

Geigy Atrazine 80W advertisement with logo and product information.

The way things are going around the world these days a fellow gets to wondering about the commitments that may have been made by our Government without too many people knowing about them. You speculate as to whether or not they were made over the table or under it.

Advertisement for Geigy Atrazine 80W, featuring a 'THINK!' graphic and a rubber stamp illustration.

The simplest thing about gas flame is the most important thing when you're cooking. Obviously, gas flame is on when you turn it on. Off when you turn it off. There's no waiting for it to warm up enough to cook... gas heats instantly. There's no run-away heat while you're cooking... you can measure the heat with a dial as carefully as you measure a fine ingredient. There's no hangover heat when you want cooking to stop. That's why so many professional chefs prefer gas for cooking. Even the most expert cook needs to know how much heat is there, when it's on, and when it's off.

Large advertisement for Peoples Natural Gas featuring a gas burner illustration and the slogan 'When it's on, it's on. When it's off, it's off.'

the high cost of weeds in your bean field...

TERRAMYCIN'S DOUBLE ATTACK
...it works in the gut and the blood

Save more chicks

...and give 'em a faster start

Terramycin Poultry Formula in chick waterers gives you a double attack against disease that takes 2 or more of most ordinary drugs to match.

1. It goes to work instantly fighting germs in the digestive tract. Ordinary drugs may stop there. But not Terramycin.
2. It's absorbed into the blood to fight disease in the respiratory tract and throughout the body without need for injection.

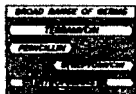

But that's not all. Terramycin fights more kinds of germs than most ordinary drugs. And it has greater stability in water—stays active longer than the other broad-range treatment.

Use Terramycin with birds of all ages to treat or prevent: blue comb, infectious synovitis, hexamitiasis, CRD (air sac, colds), mixed infections, and stress problems . . . and to stimulate faster, thriftier gains.

It works in the gut and the blood

Terramycin fights disease in the digestive tract.

No other drug has a spectrum broader than Terramycin.

It's absorbed into the blood without need for injection.

Stops germs throughout the body, not just the gut.

Poultry Formula

Loss of income from weeds in soybean fields cost American farmers $250 million annually. This figure may not mean much to you personally, but think of it this way: Weeds reduce the average soybean crop by 15 percent. This is based on the loss due not only to lower yields, but also on dockage brought about by reduced quality.

Weeds compete with your beans for water, plant food and light. They increase your cost of seedbed production, cultivation, harvesting, cleaning and marketing. Dockage due to the presence of weed seeds in soybeans often runs as high as 7 percent.

Because cultural methods just plain don't get the job done, the use of chemicals in the control of weeds in beans is growing by leaps and bounds. In 1962 pre-emergence chemicals were applied on more than 2.38 million acres of soybeans . . . post emergence chemicals on 425,000 acres. This was a four-fold increase in the use of pre-emergence chemicals and a forty-fold increase in post emergence chemicals in just three years.

The average cost of treating an acre of beans in 1962 was $4.21 per acre as a pre-emergence and $1.98 per acre as a post application. The cost of pre-emergence treatment this year is down somewhat from this, at least by one or two firms. This is a result of being able to do the job as well with fewer pounds (or pints) than recommended previously. A banded application is recommended.

Typical of the many soybean growers who are convinced that chemical weed control is necessary and practical is Ed Uphoff, Garden Prairie, Illinois.

Last year Ed used Amiben on 30 acres of his soybeans. Although this represented only one-tenth of his bean crop, it was enough to convince him that it was a good thing. He hand applied the chemical, using 3 gallons on 10 acres. This figured $3.00 per acre.

"Results were quite good," Ed told us, "the rows were clean as a whistle (see photo). But the thing that appeals to me most is that for the $3.00 per acre I have pretty cheap insurance against the threat of a season that's too wet to do any, or very little, cultivating. At least I'll be able to get a pretty good yield weather or no."

This year Ed plans to treat all 300 acres with Amiben. This will mean that the entire 1,300 acres of his corn and beans will be chemically treated for weeds.

Ideally, a chemical should control all weeds . . . broad-leaf as well as grasses. Further it should not damage the beans (nor germination) when applied as recommended. There are chemicals on the market which do these things effectively. One such chemical is Amiben. Check with your dealer for the chemical and rates which seem to be doing the best job in your area.

But don't plan to get by this year without some sort of control even though your fields have not seemed overly crowded with weeds. Charts A and B show what can happen to both corn and soybean yields at various stands of foxtail and pig weed. These results are based on a three-year study at the University of Illinois.

Foxtail Stand	3-year average, 1957, 1958, 1959

$3.00 worth of chemical weed control is proving mighty good crop insurance for Ed Uphoff of Garden Prairie, Illinois. His fields were over-run with pigweeds and smartweeds as can be evidenced by the row centers.

Ed Uphoff, with his brand new home in the background, is planning on treating 300 acres of soybeans with Amiben in 1964.

There are lots of weeds in the north central states that are particularly bad. They are Foxtail, Johnsongrass, Smartweed, Pigweed, Lambsquarter, Barnyard grass, Canada Thistle, Ragweed, Crabgrass and Cocklebur. You probably know the ones that are most troublesome in your fields. Now is the time to put a stop to them.

New reduced application rates now approved. For most soils you now use $\frac{1}{3}$ less Amiben per acre—cut costs by the same amount.

Put on Amiben—full season pre-emergence control of most annual broadleaf weeds and grasses—safe to soybeans—no volatility hazard—no harmful residues to affect rotational crops.

Amiben is easy to use, requires no protective clothing. One basic rate for most soil and rainfall conditions. Available as liquid concentrate or granules.

Call your dealer for Amiben—the herbicide that has revolutionized soybean production. Order early. Be sure of your supply.

2 good ways to raise PORK

Sac County, Iowan Makes Economy-Work Pay Off

There's no doubt about it — midwest hog raising is changing fast with the stress on volume production and efficiency. Farmers who have studied the latest findings on feeding, management and use of labor are changing their setups, either by investing in new automated systems or by modernizing and utilizing fully the buildings and facilities they now have.

Both methods can pay off. A young Sac county, Iowa farmer, for example, was recently named a master swine producer in his state. He has achieved that honor with a minimum of investment. Keith Kent, who farms 210 acres near Auburn, got interested in hogs when he was a 4-H'er. He raised purebreds then. Now he is strictly concerned with doing the best job possible in commercial production, turning out between 350 and 400 top grade animals per year.

Kent is using barns and buildings that he himself built during his ten years of farming. Some of them have been converted and modernized. One old barn has been made into a finishing house. Gilts are inexpensively housed in small sheds and they're encouraged to run in yards and pastures the year around. "Water and feed is placed far enough away to make them exercise," Kent states.

His newest building is a small, but efficient farrowing house, holding just eight farrowing crates. But by farrowing five times a year and doing a good job of management at the time the pigs are born, Kent turns out a sizable volume.

"I'd rather stay with the sows at farrowing and lose some sleep than lose those baby pigs," Kent points out. "After keeping a sow around all year you want to do the best job possible at farrowing time." And Kent's records prove he does. He has averaged 11.6 pigs per litter with an average of 10.4 pigs still going strong at weaning time.

Like most progressive hog producers, Kent is conscious of the need to turn out meaty number 1 hogs with a minimum of wasty fat. He follows a cross-breeding program and has been using tested boars bought at the nearby swine testing station at Ida Grove, Iowa.

Kent spends a lot of time at farrowing, gets large litters and good survival. He feels that this combination gets his entire feeding cycle off to a good start. Dead pigs can't make you money.

Keith Kent, looking over hogs in his finishing pens. They're in inexpensive shed type building, open on side. The master swine producer seems to have the winning formula with hogs.

Gilts are handled in the open and in small sheds on the Keith Kent farm, Auburn, Iowa.

"You'd be amazed at how quickly you can reduce the backfat in your pigs," he said. "And, surprisingly enough, it takes less feed to produce meat than it does to make fat."

Kent sells his hogs at an average weight of 200 to 210 pounds to a packer on a grade and yield basis. Facts and figures are available so he knows what his hogs are doing. Of 177 hogs sold last year, the backfat averaged 1.58 inches, the hams and loins added up to 35.8 percent, and 42 percent graded as number ones.

Nebraskan Says Volume and Efficiency Are Keys

Volume and efficiency are the new keynotes, too, to the hog production program of Marion Rasmussen and Son of Pierce county, Nebraska. Seventeen-year-old Wayne, an active Future Farmer of America member who graduated from high school last spring, likes farming, and he likes hogs. In partnership with his dad, they recently put up an all steel automated and confinement type hog plant and are now geared to turn out 750 hogs per year.

"True, it's quite an investment," Marion commented upon the one-unit farrowing to finishing building, "but we feel it will pay itself off in three to five years due to the savings in labor, feed and pigs saved and raised."

In the 24 by 40-foot farrowing section there are 14 pens and crates. Farrowings occur every 60 days. The house is furnace heated and added warmth is provided pigs with hanging heat bulbs. Slat floor sections at the front and rear of the sow take care of the manure cleaning chore.

"We clip teeth, give iron and erysipelas shots at 3 days, castrate at 2 weeks, wean at 4 weeks, and move the pigs out at 6 weeks," Marion said.

This shows the arrangement of pens in the finishing section. Everything is neat, clean and orderly.

At the other end of the hog plant is a 32 by 40 foot finishing section which can handle 224 hogs at one time. Along each side are eight pens, each accommodating 14 hogs. "We usually keep litters together as much as possible, from farrowing to marketing." Five-foot slatted floor sections at the ends of the pen solve the cleaning problem. Manure drops into 30-inch deep gutters and the liquified manure runs into a cistern which has a 60-day capacity. The Rasmussens, in cooperation with a neighbor, own a liquid manure spreader which is used to haul the waste to fields.

"We move the hogs from one side of the alley to larger pens directly across at 60 days," Marion explained. "That means we are marketing a bunch every 60 days."

Limited feeding is the basic idea in the Rasmussen production scheme. Home-grown oats, corn and barley are used in growing rations, along with supplements. The feed, all finely ground, is stored in bulk tanks outside the building, then augered down pipelines above the pens. Units above each pen, which can be adjusted to accommodate different kinds of feed and varied weights per feeding, accumulate the ration. A time clock dumps this feed directly on the pen floor every three hours.

"We full feed to 100 to 125 pounds," Wayne said, "then feed the hogs at a rate of five pounds per hog per day. They eat night and day and there isn't any waste—every bit is cleaned up."

"We're learning more about handling hogs this way all the time," Marion commented. "It sure makes winter chores easier. In here we keep the temperature around 55 degrees and the hogs don't waste feed in fighting cold temperatures."

There you are, two contrasting ways of operating successful hog operation. Take your choice . . . they both look good to us.

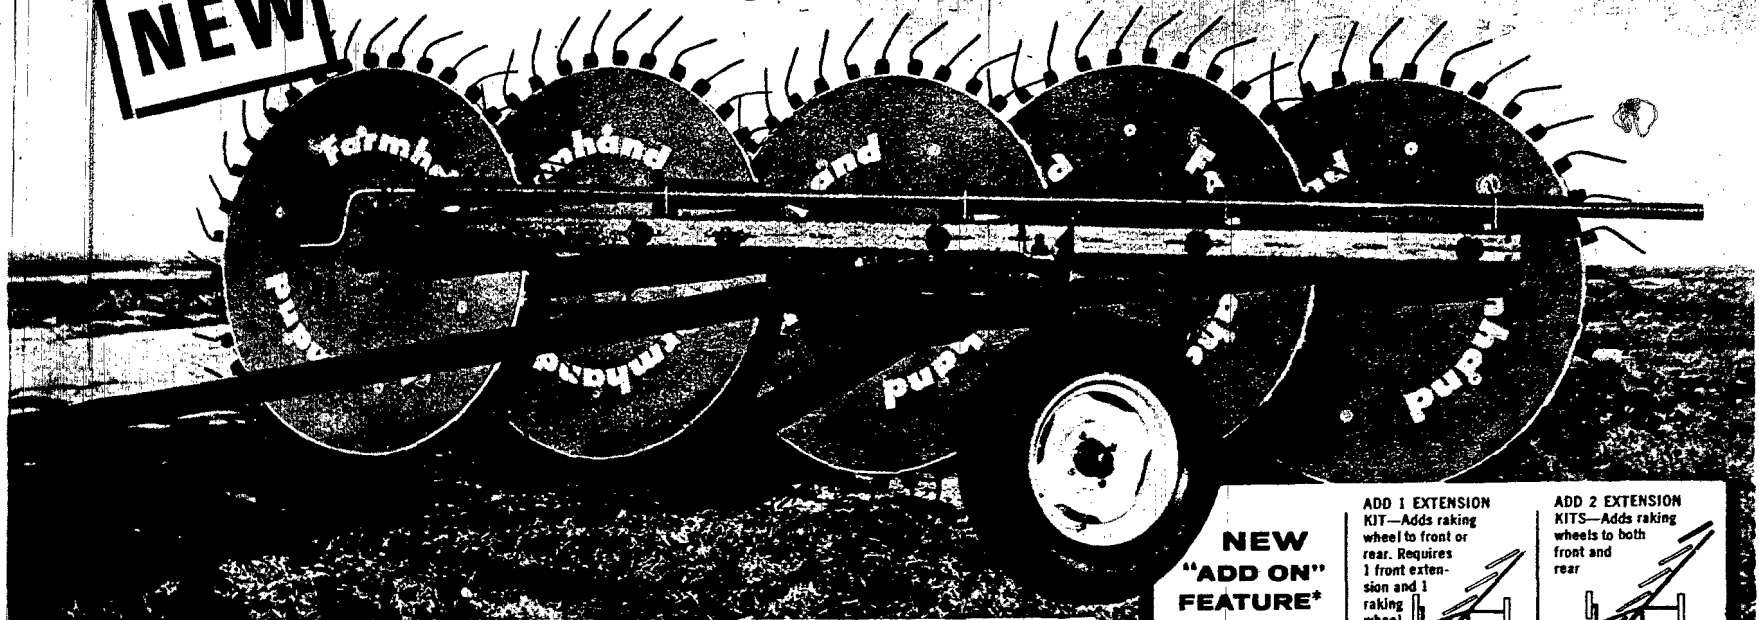

Farrowing stalls in the Rasmussen modern set-up offer everything . . . cleanliness, warm comfort and as much baby pig safety as possible.

Each finishing pen holds 14 hogs. Animals do nothing but eat and sleep. There is a five-foot slat floor at far end for dunging. An old auto tire is used to keep them busy and prevent tail biting.

PICNIC-ING-UP DAYS

by Jan Nelson

A breath of spring — blood stirring feelings caused by the freshness of new green grass — yard work — the gaiety of joining friends and neighbors — yard work — the remembrance of the tastiness of foods cooked outdoors — yard work.

We are alive with the exciting feeling of enjoying both our friends and the exhilaration of spring, but the dark spectre of yard cleanup keeps clouding the picture. Let's combine the light and the heavy to thoroughly enjoy our Picnic-ing-up Day. Take some ingredients such as: Happy friends, a sunny day, several rakes, hot spiced tea, cooking foods, and the aroma of an outdoor fire. Mix them well and you have a picnic-ing-up day.

Now is the time to hand out rakes and extoll the virtues of hot spiced tea as an energy giver. Describing the succulence of a special style baked potato, coupled with Kabobs over beans which are coming up, you'll truly feel like Tom Sawyer as the yard is being cleaned. Collect the pile of burnable material, and after enjoying the food, sit around in a songfest or pleasant conversation.

BEEF STEW OUTDOORS

Hearty stews appeal to ravenous outdoor appetites. Partially cook a stew in the kitchen and then carry it to the scene of the outdoor meal for final cooking with the vegetables. Here is the recipe:

2 pounds beef stew meat	1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons flour	Water
3 tablespoons lard or drippings	6 small potatoes
2 teaspoons salt	6 small carrots

In the kitchen, roll the meat in flour and brown in the hot lard. Season with salt and pepper and add water to cover. Simmer over low heat about 1 hour. At the outdoor grill, add the potatoes, carrots and onions and continue cooking until the meat and vegetables are tender, about 30 minutes. 6 servings.

Come on Over for Dessert

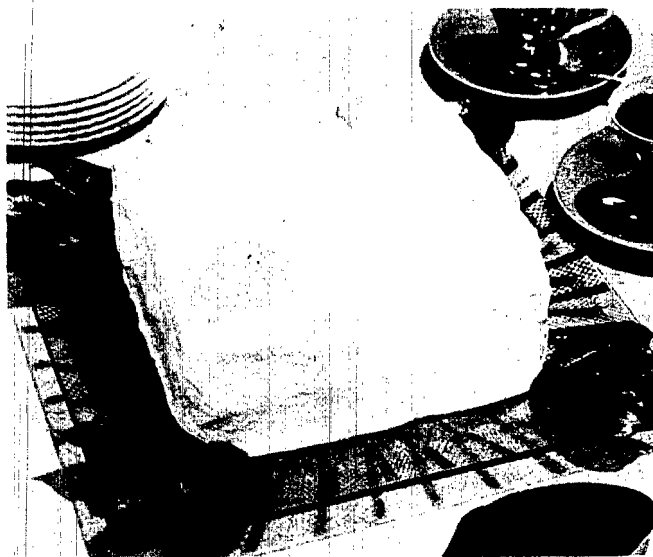

CHOCOLATE MINT ANGEL PIE

9" pie plate
3 egg whites
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar
¼ cup crushed peppermint stick candy

2 tablespoons crushed peppermint stick candy
1 quart chocolate ice cream

Beat egg whites and salt until stiff. Add sugar 2 tablespoons at a time, beating well after each addition. Fold in the ¼ cup crushed peppermint candy. Spread in a well buttered 9-inch pie plate, building the sides up well. Sprinkle the 2 tablespoons of candy over the top and bake in a preheated 275° oven for 1 hour. Remove from oven and cool. When ready to serve, fill with scoops of chocolate ice cream and cut in wedges. 6-8 servings.

ORANGE SPICE CAKE

½ cup butter or margarine
¼ cups sugar
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
2 eggs
2 cups sifted cake flour

3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon allspice
½ cup milk
¼ cup orange juice

Cream butter or margarine, add sugar gradually and cream together, until light and fluffy. Add orange rind, then eggs one at a time and beat well after each addition. Add dry ingredients, which have been sifted together, alternately with combined milk and orange juice, beginning and ending with dry ingredients. Beat until smooth after each addition. Pour batter into two 8-inch square layer pans which have been greased and floured. Bake at 350°F. for 20 to 25 minutes, until cake begins to draw away from sides of pan.

When cake is cool, frost with whipped cream to which 1 tablespoon grated orange rind has been added. Refrigerate until serving time. * Garnish with fresh orange sections and lemon leaves.

* If entire cake is not used, refrigerate remaining portion.

In these busy, busy days entertaining often gets put off until tomorrow or next week because it's much too complicated to do often. There is a simple answer when you wish to entertain new neighbors or old friends — an invitation to "Come on over for dessert!"

You, as hostess, have little to prepare and can sit down with your friends to an informal evening of conversation over a cup of coffee and something good to eat.

A dessert that's really quite simple, but looks almost too pretty to eat, is Chocolate Mint Angel Pie. The pink meringue pie crust can be baked early in the day and filled with the ice cream when it's time to serve. Chocolate and mint are a specially good combination.

Another suggestion is Orange Spice Cake, a rich butter cake, flavored with oranges and spices and frosted when cool with whipped cream and orange rind. It should be refrigerated until serving time. Fresh orange sections and lemon leaves add a colorful garnish.

"Come on over for dessert!" may turn into one of your favorite kinds of informal and easy entertaining.

GRASSROOTS GLEANINGS

by Bill Stokes

One U.S. farmer feeds 27 people and one Russian farmer feeds only six, the Valentine (Neb.) Newspaper reports.

How is Khrushchev going to bury us when he can't even plow us under?

One of the methods employed by the Chinese Communists to brainwash their prisoners, the Weyauwega (Wis.) Chronicle says, is to place a pail over the subject's head and pound on it with sticks. You can get the same effect, the Chronicle adds, by tuning in one of those radio stations which features rock 'n' roll music all day.

The Stone age, claims the Johnson County (Ind.) News, was when a woman who wrote down her age was chiseling legally. It was also that time when men hit women over the head with stout clubs. Maybe there's a connection.

The Hartford (Mich.) Day Spring made the following observation when the government's report on the ill effects of smoking was released. "Years ago, the biggest cause of death among women was childbirth, but people didn't stop having babies. Now they say the biggest cause of death among men is lung cancer and they want them to stop smoking."

We can do it, men. Just because the girls couldn't quit having babies, doesn't mean that we can't quit smoking. Some of us have quit many times.

The editor of the Semo News, Lilbourn, Mo., wrote that he knows of a psychologist who claims people use cigarets as a substitute for the baby blanket they held to their cheeks in infancy.

"The talk is," the editor says, "that blanket manufacturers are behind the smoking report of last January, hoping that people will start carrying blankets instead of cigarets."

Classes were held at the hospital for prospective parents, reports the Janesville (Minn.) Argus. One of the purposes was to acquaint patients with the hospital so they will know where to go and how to check in if the baby comes after office hours.

This is good thinking. Storks do not bring babies. Owls do.

The Tazewell County News of Morton, Ill., reminds us that among the 45 foods we inherited from the Indians are corn and potatoes.

That was nice of the Indians, but why didn't they also teach us how to make our squaws do all the corn and potato hoeing while we go fishing?

The Minor County (S.D.) Pioneer writes, "The prim lady had finished her shopping. Now she stood at the supermarket check-out counter and unloaded a quart of milk, a dozen eggs, a TV dinner, six cartons of cigarets, two bottles of hand lotion, suntan lotion, face cream, work gloves, knitting needles, flashlight batteries, two magazines, a home permanent and the latest hit record.

She paid her bill and went out the door grumbling. Food costs so much these days, no wonder the farmers are getting rich."

KABOBS

A kabob is a meal-on-a-stick. Select meat and vegetables that cook in the same time. Do not overcrowd. Heat should reach all sides of the chunks of meat.

Use long metal skewers or hardwood sticks.

Special Tricks: Soak kabobs in sauce or brush with zesty sauce during cooking.

FAVORITE BARBECUE SAUCE

1 cup catsup
 ¼ cup chili sauce
 ¼ cup brown sugar (packed)
 ¼ cup wine vinegar
 ¼ cup vegetable oil
 ½ cup lemon juice
 3 tbsp. steak sauce

2 tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
 2 tbsp. dry mustard
 1 tbsp. soy sauce
 1 tbsp. freshly ground black pepper
 2 cloves garlic, minced

KABOB COMBINATIONS

Lamb steak, 1 to 2-inch thick cubes, mushrooms, cooked onions.

Lamb steak, 1 to 2-inch thick cubes, sliced bacon, mushrooms, tomato wedges.

Beef steak, 1 to 2-inch thick cubes, mushrooms, sliced onions.

Chicken livers, sliced bacon, mushrooms.

Franks cut into 1-inch pieces, pineapple chunks, sliced bacon.

Ham—fully cooked, cut into 1-inch cubes, pineapple chunks.

HAMBURGER KABOBS WITH ONION GRAVY MAKE A DIFFERENT DISH

Shish kabobs make an intriguing dish. You can make them up in all sorts of complementary combinations: Chunks of lamb alternated with small white onions and squares of eggplant; a fish kabob of shrimp, scallops and quartered fish sticks; even hamburger adapts itself beautifully to being a "kabob." Roll hamburger into small round patties about 1½ inches in diameter and then alternate with small mushrooms and square chunks of tomato on long skewers. Then broil them for about five minutes.

When it comes to serving Hamburger Kabobs, pass a gravy boat filled with a delicious onion gravy made with a handy package of onion soup mix. It fits right in with an "easy-do" menu because this gravy is so quick and simple to make.

QUICK ONION GRAVY

2½ cups water
 1 package onion soup mix
 2 tablespoons flour
 ½ cup water

Bring 2½ cups water to a boil. Stir in the onion soup mix. Cover and cook for 10 minutes. Gradually add flour mixed with ½ cup water. Cook and stir constantly until thickened. Makes about 2½ cups gravy.

PANCAKEBURGERS

Pancake Batter

2 eggs
 1 cup milk

2½ cups biscuit mix
 2 tbsp. cooking (salad) oil or other melted shortening

Beat eggs with rotary beater until soft peaks form. Blend in milk. Mix in biscuit mix just until thoroughly dampened. Fold in shortening.

Meat Mixture

1 lb. ground beef
 1 small onion, chopped
 1½ tsp. salt

½ tsp. pepper
 ¼ cup Pancake Batter
 ¼ cup milk

Mix all ingredients well. Spoon generous tablespoonfuls 1½-inch apart, onto very lightly greased skillet or griddle. Flatten patties. Fry on medium heat until well browned on one side. Turn and spoon a generous tablespoonful of Pancake Batter over top and sides of each patty. Brown. Before batter on top is dry, turn again and brown the pancake side. Serve hot with sauce (see suggestions below). Makes 20 to 22.

Sauces

1. Heat one can condensed cream of mushroom soup (about 11-oz. can), ¼ cup water, and 1 bouillon cube.

2. Meat Gravy.

3. Chili Sauce.

Success Tip: If pancakes must stand, they may be kept warm in a paper bag sprinkled with water and placed in a warm oven.
