

Speaker Named, Menu Set For State Pork Banquet

A rare treat is in store for the people attending the Nebraska Pork Banquet Sunday evening, Oct. 25 at the Wayne State Student Center. Dr. Cecil Bliss, nationally prominent speaker for the American Dental Association, will tell the group how an individual's personality can be used to achieve success. Dr. Bliss humorously and factually convinces his audience that personality management is the key to successful economic management.

Dr. Bliss is a practicing dentist in Sioux City, Ia. As past chairman of the American Dental Association's Economic Committee, he has appeared on programs in many parts of the United States.

"Cured Loins" will be featured on the menu at the Pork Banquet. This specialty prepared loin was the highlight of the 1963 banquet held in Fremont. Those who attended the 1963 banquet, are still raving about this deliciously prepared pork.

Other features of the Nebraska Pork Banquet include the presentation of Breed Builders, Pork Chop and Leadership awards, sponsored annually by WOW radio and television, Omaha. Governor Frank Morrison will crown the 1964-65 Nebraska Pork Queen.

Persons wishing to purchase tickets for the banquet should contact Leland Nelson, Norfolk, Council secretary; or Dick Sorenson, Wayne; and Jim Volk, Battle Creek.

Homecoming Tilt a Breeze; Missouri Trip Next for 'Cats

That was a healthy tonic the Wayne State football team took last Saturday — a 47-7 victory over Peru State, a complete antidote for the bitter medicine they had swallowed a week earlier at Kearney State.

Whether or not the tonic is good enough to inspire another win over this Saturday's foe is another problem. The foe: William Jewell College of Liberty, Mo., celebrating its homecoming at 2 p.m.

The two schools have never met, but Wayne has a few clues to measure William Jewell's caliber. It boasts the slogan, "Campus of Championship Sports" — and with good reason, having won six conference championships last year in football, basketball, baseball, track, golf and cross country. WJ has been conference champ in foot-spotlight, its defense stymied Peru for a meager 26 yards rushing, 82 yards passing. Nine of Peru's 33 rushing plays went for losses. Kingpins of this Wayne defense machine were Dean Weible, Roger Pohlman, Gene Hinrichsen, Dave Brass, Bob Novak, Gary Bemiss and Roger Dion—with stout effort by numerous others, the coaches reflected.

A homecoming crowd of about 3,500 watched.

Wayne State Freshmen Downed by Augustana

Wayne State's freshman football team makes its third and last appearance of 1964 tonight, entertaining South Dakota in a first-round game at 7 p.m.

Augustana College's freshman team came from behind, then staged off a late threat to defeat the Wayne freshmen at Sioux Falls last Thursday night, 18-13.

Wayne's fresh struck first with a 65-yard touchdown sprint by halfback Phil Sock and a conversion kick by Paul Craft.

Augustana retaliated immediately, by returning the kickoff for a TD and added the point.

Late in the second quarter an Augie field goal made it 10-7.

A safety in the third canto lifted Augustana to 12-7 when a bad pass from center to the Wayne punter was downed in the end zone.

After back and forth battling, another break gave the hosts a scoring chance as a Wayne halfback fumbled an Augie punt at the two-yard line. Augustana capitalized for six points.

A 60-yard drive in the fourth period brought Wayne up to 18-13 on a seven-yard run by halfback Bruce Miller.

Coach Hal Walter noted good play by Sock, Miller, Jim Gray, Darrell Fenton, Jim Kloubec, Roger Parr and Fred Pierce, which kept Wayne in contention.

Sparkling on defense were John Calhoun, Randy Rogers and Denie Wilhelm.

Hasebroock Wins First In Cross Country Meet

Crofton High School regained the Class A championship of the annual Wayne State Invitational High School Cross Country meet Tuesday, and Creighton won the Class B title it narrowly missed last year.

Individual winner in Class A was Dave Hasebroock of Wayne High, who toured the 1.7-mile course in 10 minutes flat, fastest high school time yet on the college's raw campus course. His victory was a big factor in Wayne's third place team ranking.

Crofton has copped the championship five time in seven years, missing only in 1961 (second) and 1963 (third).

Runnersup in Class A were Schuyler with 50 points; Wayne, 65; Pierce 82, and Bloomfield 93. Columbus, 1963 champ, did not enter.

Wildcat Harriers Win

Wayne State posted its second cross country victory in two meets Saturday, with a 17-38 win over Midland.

Carl Owdczak repeated in first place for Wayne with a 15:49 on Wayne's three-mile course, and teammates A. D. Benson and Ken Katzer followed in 15:55 and 16:10.

Todd Ferguson led the Midland runners with a 16:25 for fourth spot. John Gard, 16:30, and Al Gatzemeyer, 16:32, rounded out Wayne's scoring quintet.

Also earning Midland points were Denny Day, 16:33; Rod Leutenberger, 16:49; Leonard Huneke, 16:59, and Jerry Flora, 17:37.

The Wildcat harriers are in Lincoln today for a meet with Nebraska Wesleyan.

WAYNE HIGH HARRIERS: Third place winners in the Wayne State High School Cross Country meet are (standing) Leon Jorgensen, who finished 14th; Dave Hasebroock, first; Mark Robinson, Dave Noyes, 23rd, and Coach Harold Maciejewski; (kneeling) Gordon Shupe, 19th; Ken Jones, 35th, and Darrel Peterson, 24th.

"These positions are subject to change," Ball explained.

As for outstanding performances Friday night, Coach Ball said he would have to mention Wehrer both offensively and defensively, especially since it was his first game on defense.

Friday night's game will start at 7:30, and will include Homecoming half-time ceremonies.

South Sioux Cops 13-6; Devil Homecoming Friday

Two first-half touchdowns gave South Sioux City the needed margin Friday night, as they made their Homecoming a success with a 13-6 victory over Wayne.

The Devils came up with another defensive battle, but had trouble offensively.

"We played a real good game defensively," said Wayne Coach Jerry Ball, "but offensively we were just asleep."

In the second half the Cardinals got no farther than the Wayne 40 yard line. Wayne gained to the South Sioux 36 twice in the second half, with their second drive ending when the gun sounded.

South Sioux was first to score when Kelly, a Cardinal tackle, recovered a Wayne fumble and scampered 33 yards for the TD. The extra point attempt was wide.

With 4:16 remaining in the second quarter, Jerry Wehrer scored on a counter from the I-formation, with a run of 45 yards. The PAT was wide.

South Sioux came back with a

BLAST OFF Nebraska pheasants explode from a mile patch in a special cover walk-out by Nebraska Game Commission fieldmen. Flushers roused scores of birds mainly from corn and milo fields, which are typical retreats on balmy fall days. As winter sets in, the birds will shift to heavier cover. At present, birds are still scattered, but should be more congregated by opening day. The nation's longest hunt (93 days) opens Oct. 17. Shooting hours are from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset and limits are generous with 4 daily and 20 in possession. In NEBRASKAland, hunters can shoot pheasants, quail, grouse, small game, and waterfowl — all on the same license.

Why Pay Twice? You already pay taxes to support a generous federal-state medical program for those over 65 who need it. Why pay again for a plan that isn't needed?

Surprised? Chances are you never heard of the Kerr-Mills Law, passed by Congress in 1960. We call it...Health Opportunity Program for the Elderly.

This program enables individual states, with federal assistance, to guarantee to every elderly person who needs it the health care he or she requires. Thousands of people every day are being helped by its broad benefits.

Yet, the supporters of the proposed Medicare Tax would have you believe that its passage is urgent...that persons over 65 are deprived of needed medical care because they can't pay for it.

So why pay twice? Find out about the health program you're already supporting. For information on health care for the elderly in your area, ask your doctor

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The editorial department of a weekly newspaper is an important department. Normally it is one person's opinion of topics that concern most of the readers.

You may not agree with an editorial — but if you read the editorial and give serious thought to the subject discussed, you will be glad you read it. As a reader, have given careful thought to an important problem and the writer is proud to have called your attention to an important subject that you may have overlooked.

in its own special way, is a vital part of the great edifice of freedom on which this country rests.

National Newspaper Week

National Newspaper Week is to be observed during the October 11-17 period. And when, over those days, editors risk the appearance of immodesty by blowing their own horns, they have a right and an obligation to do just that.

The local newspaper provides a service that is unique, irreplaceable, and a fundamental part of our national life. Its pages tell an endless story of the events, great and small, that influence and determine the destinies of each of us.

There is good news and bad — but of whatever its character, it is part of the scheme of things. Only the newspaper can adequately record it — and keep it as history in the ever-growing files of past issues.

Beyond this, there is no freedom more vital than that of freedom of the press. A good newspaper is, in a sense, a watchdog of the public. It stands for integrity and fair dealing in public and private affairs.

Newspapers, on innumerable occasions, have unearthed and revealed violations of trust that would otherwise have remained forever buried. And newspapers have successfully fought for every conceivable kind of reform, often against overwhelming odds, that the public interest demands.

No other nation has a press quite like ours, ranging as it does from great metropolitan dailies down to the smallest of the country weeklies. Every one of our thousands of papers, every working

Those Hidden Taxes

We know — or should know — what we pay in direct taxes on income and property to communities, counties, states, and the federal government. And we know of certain sales or excise taxes, such as that on gasoline.

But if anyone thinks these add up to his total bill, he is sorely mistaken. For everything we need and buy is loaded with hidden taxes — those paid by suppliers of raw materials, by manufacturers, by shippers, by retailers, and by everyone involved in the long process of bringing a product to the consumer.

How important are these taxes? The Citizens Public Expenditure Survey of New York provides some startling examples. According to it, a quart of milk carries 87 different hidden taxes, a pound of hamburger 114 different hidden taxes, a pair of shoes 126 different hidden taxes, and a pair of overalls 148 different hidden taxes. So it goes, down the endless roster of goods and services.

This points up a vital but not publicized fact: Every tax is passed on to the consumer; it has to be. And it is that individual wage earner who would gain most from a drive for economy that really produce results at all levels of government.

this type, the fabric has a tendency to crack if used around very sharp curves on a piece of furniture.

Vinyls having fabric backs fall into three categories — the expanded vinyl, supported vinyl, and breathable vinyl.

The expanded vinyl is laminated to a knitted jersey backing, giving it a soft hand and great flexibility.

The supported vinyl provides strength for heavy duty applications. It is made similar to the expanded vinyl except that the fabric backing is stronger.

Breathable vinyl is a type of fabric that goes through a process where a very fine quality of vinyl is deposited on a fabric backing in such a manner that the fabric retains its porosity.

With the widespread range in types, styles, and cost of vinyls, the homemaker can find one that is just right for home and family.

Time to Check Fireplace Chimney

There is nothing like a warm glow of a crackling fire in the fireplace on a cold night. And before winter comes on, home owners should check to see that their fireplaces and chimneys are safe and ready for use.

Chimneys in the average home do not usually need vacuuming. However, if they do, vacuum cleaning by a commercial firm is the best method.

Although fireplaces are not an economical means of heating a home, a well-designed, properly built fireplace can enhance the appearance and comfort of a room.

If you are in doubt about cleaning your fireplace or chimney, a pamphlet entitled "Fireplaces and Chimneys" F.B. No. 1889 gives some pointers on designing your own fireplace, and suggestions on how to inspect and maintain the unit after it is built.

This bulletin may be secured through the local county extension office.

Approve $400,000 Estimate For Centennial Commission

LINCOLN — The State Centennial Commission has given its approval to programs which would cost an estimated $400,000. The programs will be included in the commission's budget for the 1965 legislature.

Still other programs are in the discussion stage and will be taken up at later meetings of the commission.

The commission has appointed 33 committees to work on specific projects in connection with Nebraska's 100th birthday celebration in 1967.

James Ebel, Lincoln, chairman of the commission, said he does not expect the overall budget to hit $1 million.

Committee requests approved by the commission last week included: Educational television, $35,725; agriculture, $37,500; programs, $8,250; college alumni promotions, $8,700; commemorative stamp, $20,150; radio horns, $3,750; tree planting, $23,000; commemorative medal, $27,000; native grasses, $26,350; community council, $25,000; Canada Nebraska Liaison, $2,500; centennial awards, $7,500; centennial conventions, $10,000; honorary Nebraska citizen award, $2,000; floral, $45,300; bowl game floats, $40,000; nationality groups, $3,500; and pioneer recognition, $2,500.

Also approved was a special request for spending $25,000 for a study by a nationally recognized research organization to determine Nebraska's national image and to help in the economic development of the state.

Urge Application OK

A. D. Majors, Omaha, a member of the State Normal Board, has urged the Nebraska Power Review Board to approve an application by the town of Auburn to the governor and Jerry Gruber, director of the State Labor Department, for a Manpower Training and Development facility at the old Army Ordnance depot, Sidney.

Announcement of the application was made by Governor Morrison and Jerry Gruber of the Nebraska Labor Department.

The depot is slated to be phased out by the Army by 1967. It was constructed during World War II.

Gruber said approximately $500,000 is needed for training allowances, instructor costs and supplies. The center would provide a training facility for about 325 persons and would be operated cooperatively by the state labor and education departments.

According to Gruber, 10 initial courses are being proposed. They would cover auto mechanics, clerical work and food services jobs.

The governor said he was optimistic about getting approval of the plan. Gruber said the plan itself has been approved by the U. S. Labor Department but that funds have not yet been provided.

Apply for Funds

Nebraska has applied for federal funds for establishment of a Manpower Training and Development facility at the old Army Ordnance depot, Sidney.

Announcement of the application was made by Governor Morrison and Jerry Gruber of the Nebraska Labor Department.

The depot is slated to be phased out by the Army by 1967. It was constructed during World War II.

Gruber said approximately $500,000 is needed for training allowances, instructor costs and supplies. The center would provide a training facility for about 325 persons and would be operated cooperatively by the state labor and education departments.

According to Gruber, 10 initial courses are being proposed. They would cover auto mechanics, clerical work and food services jobs.

The governor said he was optimistic about getting approval of the plan. Gruber said the plan itself has been approved by the U. S. Labor Department but that funds have not yet been provided.

The ordinance depicts is some seven miles north of Sidney.

to the governor, and Jerry Gruber of the State Labor Department, are both working on establishing a technical assistance agency through which local communities can channel requests for planning assistance under the act.

For awhile, Gruber will work with the governor's office on loan from the labor department. He will gather more data on the programs available in Nebraska and on preparing the state's applications for federal grants.

The Economic Opportunity Act, enacted by Congress last summer, allows for 90 percent federal aid to local communities to help combat poverty and also provides for establishment of youth conservation camps and training centers.

Dunlevy said local programs will be drafted, submitted to the governor's office for review and then sent to the federal government. If federal approval is granted, a program will get a second review by the governor's office.

Dunlevy said present information indicates the act will give Nebraska about $25,000 to establish a coordinating agency. It is $900,000 will be made available in the state for community action programs.

Encephalitis Deaths

Dr. E. A. Rogers, state health director, says two deaths are involved in the 14 presumptive encephalitis (sleeping sickness) cases reported by the State Health Department to the U. S. Public Health Service.

The 14, along with two confirmed cases also reported in the state, were scattered over eight counties.

Dr. Rogers said all the cases reported in Nebraska involved equine-type encephalitis. "This is a specific virus infection centered in the brain tissue which primarily affects the nervous system and can cause mortality rates as high as 50 percent," he said.

Western equine encephalitis is transmitted through the bite of a common mosquito, the health director noted.

by Myrtle Anderson
Upholstering with Vinyl
Homemakers who are considering the re-upholstering of a chair or couch this winter should start shopping for a suitable fabric now.

One of the vinyl upholstery fabrics may be the answer if easy cleaning and durability are qualities you are looking for. Furniture covered with vinyl upholstery can range from casual elegant to the most sophisticated elegant antique reproduction. This upholstery material can be expected to withstand scuffing, cracking, peeling and unusually hard wear compared to other coverings.

Vinyls come in four basic types of fabric. The one most frequently found in the stores — and least expensive — is unsupported vinyl. It is a sheet vinyl without any backing. With

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

There was a number of interesting items in the papers last week, printed that had ought to be matted on the front page but got buried inside on account of the political campaign was now hogging the show.

First of all, the dentist and medicine professions was getting in their two-bits worth. This dentist fellow claimed the youngsters of today was coming down with a disease known as "TV Malocclusion." He says their eye teeth was growing inward on account of them laying on the floor and leaning on the knuckles to watch television. He allowed as was the only cure for it was to dust their pants and set 'em up in a chair. I'm expecting him to get some strong letters from various parents' organizations advising that dusting a youngster's pants is now agin the Constitution, the Supreme Court, and the Federal Housing Administration.

Then there was this fellow named Doctor L. M. Orr, speaking to some medicine association and he told 'em a doctor had ought to treat his patient like a dear friend and try to get acquainted with someone besides his pocketbook. That's mighty strong language, Mister Editor, and I'm expecting this fellow to get thrown-out of the American Medical Society come the next meeting.

And one of them Washington

Don Cunningham Says

I cast my first vote for a Presidential candidate in 1906. Great balls of fire that was 58 years ago. Several times I have departed several times from the traditional blue-bellied type of Republicanism espoused by my ancestors and have voted for both Democrats and Republicans.

Speaking of the campaign itself, all I can say is that in the past 36 years I have never seen one that had all the earmarks of a strife. Here it is only half over and most certainly if the present tempo is kept up, it will finish up as the championship gutter fight of all campaigns. It isn't just one man either, who is guilty of this offense. They all have a hand in it even though their neighbors vary. All of them operate differently when it comes to wooing the favor of the voter.

Mr. Goldwater makes some rather extravagant statements that he has to make down and explain after he tones them. He conjures up nick names for his opponents and labels them with such terms as "phonies", etc. Plus me a bit in mind of a fighter, who dances around the ring. Sort of weaves in and out. Now and then lands a blow, but a lot of the time fans the air

Cattlemen Urged to Enter Breeding

With interest picking up among Nebraska stockmen regarding bull testing this fall, priority for available space at the two stations will be given entries received before Nov. 1, officials of the Nebraska Beef Cattle Improvement Association said this week.

This reminder to interested beef cattle producers came from Dick Dunn, Theodor, chairman for bull testing in western Nebraska, and Russ Vanderkolk, with his swing. In his running mate Mr. Miller, though, it is a horse of a different color. . . . He has in him strictly an alley fighter — one of the gut punch-type, "throw the boots into 'em" type. Sometimes I think he is absolutely devoid of any of the milk of human kindness for some of the things he says, some of the accusations he makes would blister the skin of a dinosaur.

Then we turn to the other side and take a look at Hubert and LBJ. . . . All reports have it that Mr. Humphrey is an erudite, learned, scholarly man. I'm not denying that, but frankly in his speeches it seems that he sets his mouth going and then goes off and leaves it. He makes a lot of leaves. He is a master of repartee and sarcasm but it seems to me that no matter how lofty his learning, he can stoop pretty far down in some of his discussions.

There there is LBJ. He travels far and wide on what he calls non-political missions. But for a man, who is not campaigning, he can shake more hands and kiss more babies than all the rest of them put together and down in my heart I believe that while he is doing this, he is silently twisting a lot of arms. He hasn't directly resorted to some of the name calling that his other boys have, but don't kid yourself but what this urbane, benign looking gentleman leads a lot of the shells that his boy Hubert fires.

So far I haven't heard too many issues discussed. About the only issue definitely set forth by most of the candidates is this "elect me and let'er" how I don't know. They don't tell us that.

It does seem though that the whole campaign is being carried on in such a objective and that the principals are not conducting themselves in a manner at all becoming to or befitting the honor of the office.

I'm going to vote for one of them — which one I don't know, for I too am confused. In fact, I'm as confused as the little boy who dropped his bubble gum in the chicken yard.

Wellwood, chairman for eastern Nebraska. Entry dates are Nov. 16-17 for animals at the Sghur testing station operated by NBCLA; and Nov. 19-20 at the Mueller feedstn near Ogallala, serving western Nebraska as a test facility.

All cattle breeders entering bull steers or heifers in tests at either station must be members of the Association, according to Elmer Vogel, Staff, NBCLA president. Out-of-state breeders may become Association members by paying a $10 membership fee, and thereby become eligible to enter animals in the test.

The main objective of the tests, under the program sponsored by NBCLA and expanded this year, is to promote beef performance testing in general, and to serve as an educational medium to acquaint cattle producers in Nebraska with procedures of performance testing, Vogel stated.

Are You Ready for Fire? The best time to think about fire on your farm is before it happens. Those who do give it some thought beforehand are least likely to have a fire. Here is a list of fire precautions to think about:

1. — Know how to call the fire department; post your fire charge number and exchange at the telephone. Make sure your fire department is familiar with the layout of your farm, house and barn exits, and location of water supplies.

2. — Check condition of heating equipment including chimneys and flues. Make all repairs necessary for safe operation.

3. — Check electric wiring for wear and loads — replace worn and inadequate wiring; use only 15-ampere fuses unless a circuit has been specially designed for larger loads.

4. — Your fire fighting tools should be easily accessible in an emergency. Have ladders

In Nebraska... at a picnic, beer is a natural

When you're relaxing at your favorite outdoor fresh spot with friends or family, and your thirst is whetted by fresh air and insects—that's the ideal time for a cool, refreshing glass of beer. In fact, you can name your recreation—swimming, hiking, or just watching TV—and chances are nothing in the world fits it quite as well as beer.

Your familiar glass of beer is also a pleasurable reminder that we live in a land of personal freedom—and that our right to enjoy beer and ale, if we so desire, is just one, but an important one, of those personal freedoms.

everyone's after the gaudy RING-NECK

Everyone's after the Gaudy Ring-Neck

Is there any sweeter sound in the whole wide world than the smooth sliding action of a Remington 870?

Shoulder a Remington 870 "Wingmaster". Work the cat-smooth action . . . and hear the soft "shuck-shuck" that tells you the empty shell is long gone and there's a fresh load in the chamber. A sweet sound if ever there was one!

Solid. There's no clatter and rattle with a Remington 870. That's because it has precision-built double action bars that prevent twisting and binding. Shooters tell us that an 870 action feels as if it slides on ball bearings.

Strong. The receiver is machined from a solid block of steel. The breech block locks solidly into the barrel. All the parts of the action mechanism are made for each other . . . work together as a team.

Smooth. It doesn't make a bit of difference what kind of fodder you feed a Remington Model 870. Whether you're pumping a second load of No. 4's for a wide-flaring mallard or sliding home a powerful rifled slug to down a big buck . . . it's smooth and quick.

By the way, the Remington 870 is still at prices that won't make you flinch . . . as low as $99.95*. It's tailored for your particular type of shooting—with over 49 barrels, choke and gauge combinations. Interchangeable barrels, too. Write for free Guns and Ammunition catalog to Dept. HB-10, Remington Arms Co., Inc.

Remington

He's as gaudy as a fan-dancer, as sneaky as a wood-tick, and he has a voice like a ruptured steam calliope. He's a Chinese immigrant with a wicked eye, and there is no other creature like him.

He's the ring-necked pheasant, of course, and he reigns as unchallenged king of birds across the broad belly of America.

From the rolling dairy farms of the east to the very foothills of the Rocky Mountains, the pheasant struts and crows like a politician.

And between the dairy farms and the mountains, where the country flattens out like spilled milk, here the ring-neck holds forth in greatest numbers. On the endless prairies of the cornland and the undulating wheat, here King Ring-neck has built his throne, and here no man travels who does not soon realize that he is in the land of the pheasant.

Pheasant History

The history of the pheasant, from the time it became established from birds brought over by Judge Owen H. Denny, United States Consul-General at Shanghai, late in the 19th Century, to the present is a dramatic one.

But there is too much present-day pheasant drama to dwell long on history. It is drama that starts with the hoarse, strident voices of the cocks as they establish territories in the spring.

The big love scene takes place from March until April, depending on the locality, and then the drab hen settles down to serious housekeeping. She builds a nest of whatever materials are available, and she fills it with a dozen or more eggs.

Then for 23 days she incubates them with the patience that rewards her with motherhood. The chicks are able to travel almost immediately, and for the next few weeks the hen watches over them with suicidal devotion, throwing herself against all and everything that threatens her brood.

After a couple of months the chicks strike off for themselves, though they are now no longer chicks. They have been able to fly since they were two weeks old, and they have learned the secrets of sneaking and watching in order to survive.

Hens Change Little

The young hens change little as the summer wanes, but the young cocks begin to emerge as spectacular long-legged bundles of gaudy feathers.

Then comes a fall morning when the roads vibrate to a stream of shiny automobiles, and men and dogs pour over the pheasant land like hungry ants.

It is the start of the hunting season, and few opening-days generate the excitement and anticipation that Mr. Ring-neck Day does. The excitement is there as the man walks the corn row and watches his dog carefully. If the dog is a pointer, perhaps the pheasant—if it is young and foolish—will hold so the dog can "make bird."

More likely, however, the cock pheasant will put its head down and bore through the undercover like a feathered freight train, leaving the dog only a smell, and the man even less.

The pheasant is a runner, as all those know who have tried to put him in the oven. The bird sticks to the ground stubbornly, apparently secure in the knowledge that it is safe if it is hidden.

But when the decision is finally made to forsake the earth for the air, the action can turn a hunter's knees to jelly and drive a top dog to snapping at the weeds.

There is a clatter of wings and the nerve-shattering cackle that announce to all within hearing that Mr. Pheasant is taking off and everyone had better clear the runway.

This is the moment of the hunter. This is the second he has dreamed about and equipped himself for. The shotgun jams against his shoulder and he swings the barrel to catch up with the bird.

Hunter Often Misjudges

Often he misjudges the cock's speed and the string of shot zips through the crisp fall air behind the long tail feathers.

Other times the rooster tips a wing to catch a strong prairie wind, and the shotgun punches only the air.

But occasionally the shot is good, and the bird tumbles down. It is then the hunter's role to run like a singed rabbit to collect his bird, for their reputation for running to hide is only too well known.

The prize is worth it all, for no game bird is so majestic and impressive, especially to a wife who knows the culinary art of turning the feathered beauty into a dish to match the bird's colorful life.

PHEASANT COOKED FOR A HUNTER

The recipe is credited to Frankie Heidelberg of Sioux Falls, S.D., and it takes three-quarters of an hour:

2 pheasants
1/4 pound butter or margarine
1 tablespoon liquid smoke

2 1/2 bottle steak sauce
1/2 pint whipping cream

Cut the pheasant into quarters; age in refrigerator for at least 48 hours. Form a shallow pan of heavy aluminum foil to fit the broiler. In a sauce pan melt butter and heat until very hot. Slowly add steak sauce; stir briskly and blend thoroughly. Slowly add cream and "liquid smoke". Mix well and turn down heat.

Puncture the quartered birds deeply with sharp knife point, these punctures will allow basting sauce to penetrate. Lay birds in the pan and salt liberally; slide under the broiler flame. As meat begins to dry, begin basting with pastry brush. Baste at least every 4 minutes, turning birds occasionally.

Who says Remington plastic shells are the most powerful you can buy?

Leo Bandoni, San Francisco, Calif.
"The best-performing shells I've ever used at all ranges."

Allen W. Warren, Minneapolis, Minn.
"The most powerful game-loads I've ever shot. And the waterproof body is a great bonus."

Don A. Dianda, Hillsborough, Calif.
"Plenty of power, excellent patterns. They're the only shells to use."

F. S. (Red) Hawkins, Dallas, Texas
"Remington shells have performed best with cleaner hits and fewer cripples—more power."

J. H. Sargent, Jr., St. Louis Park, Minn.
"They give me the distance I need for those shots that are just barely within range."

Andrew Kleeber, Glenshaw, Pa.
"They're everything I want in a shell—more power and better patterns."

A. G. Schuehle, Roselle, Illinois
"Terrific range—the kind of patterns you can't miss with."

B. I. Williams, Shaker Heights, Ohio
"Their knock down range is fantastic. I use 'em all the time."

You do!

The quotes above are typical of the enthusiastic comments we continually receive about Remington plastic shells. And frankly, we're not too surprised.

We've known about the performance advantages of Remington "Express" and "Shur-Shot" plastic shells ever since the beginning. How they seal powder gas so perfectly, give more power, better patterns. That they keep 100% of their factory-fresh power...

even from one season to the next. That they're waterproof and scuff-proof. Feed slick and smooth. Can't swell or split, regardless of hunting conditions. (You should see the pile of unsolicited comments we have about that!)

We first said it in 1960. Four years and hundreds of millions of plastic shells later, we still say it: Remington plastic shells are the most powerful you can buy. Write for free Guns and Ammunition catalog to Dept. HH-10, Remington Arms Company, Inc.

JAMAICA is

a suburb of Miami

by Jerry Charles

Lovely Jamaica girl bathes in the exhilarating cascade of rushing water at Dunn's River Falls near Ocho Rios, Jamaica. This is one of the most exciting tourist attractions in Jamaica and annually thousands of visitors make the trip up the ledges assisted by expert guides. Dunn's River Falls are one of the most-photographed of Jamaica's many wonders.

ABOUT an hour from Miami, the same distance in air miles as Minneapolis to Detroit, lies the greenest island in the Caribbean, Jamaica—a Dominion within the British Commonwealth.

It boasts the bluest water, the whitest sand beaches, and of course championship golf courses, but it has a whole lot of other things you seldom hear about.

Tropical blossoms from Bougainvillea to Hibiscus and Frangipani create wide areas of untold color that is a photographer's paradise. Birds of every hue abound. A little yellow and black "sugar bird" will come along while you are breakfasting and take sugar right out of the bowl on your tray. Each town has its own little art gallery.

But agriculture is the main industry and in Jamaica that means sugar, bananas, coffee, cocoa, pimento, ginger, and citrus. Seated comfortably in carts drawn by tractors, you can see it all, talk to planters, on a plantation tour costing $4.

Climate? Take your choice—from the steady 75-85 degree sea level to the coolish sixties in mountainous areas. Mandeville, a small town 2000 feet up in the center of the island, has an ideal climate in the winter, much like our own summers. It is the last outpost of British Colonialism—a way of life rapidly disappearing—where you will meet retired army colonels, business and professional people from many parts of the world, some of whom live quite well on as little as five pounds a week ($14.00).

Airlines cooperate with a round trip fare of $69 from Miami. Many good hotels in all parts of the island are $10 per day per person and English is the language. No passport, vaccination or "shots" are needed. Except for February, just go, reservations are not a necessity.

Clubs and organizations can get a free color and sound film 16mm entitled "JAMAICA—NO PLACE LIKE HOME" to show at meetings. The film runs 30 minutes . . . shows the beauty of Jamaica and all of the activity available there. Write Sterling Movies, Ltd., 200 S. Michigan, Chicago, Illinois. Allow two weeks lead time.

With a background of moss and vine-covered trees, fly fisherman tries a cast for mullet on picturesque Black River near Jamaica's south coast. The island has many comparatively un-fished rivers and streams which flow down from high mountain areas which reach an altitude of over 7,000 feet in the Blue Mountains.

Minnesota-grown soybeans tend to yield higher protein and lower oil analysis because of climatic conditions and geographic location. Here, Charles V. Simpson examines some home-grown beans from his own farm.

UNUSUAL CROP "ROTATION" Speeds New Soybean Variety

MINNESOTA soybean growers, breeders, crop improvement groups and University specialists are now engaged in an unusual development program aimed at producing a new strain of soybean for export to the Japanese market. To speed up their efforts, they have arranged to "rotate" breeding materials between Minnesota and Chile, South America. This stepped-up program allows these groups to make two plantings and harvests each year. As seed soybeans are harvested in one location, they are flown to the other to take advantage of two summer growing seasons, one in each hemisphere.

The Market

The reason for this accelerated activity is the fact that a market already exists in Japan for an estimated 84 million bushels of food-quality soybeans a year. This figure was arrived at by Charles V. Simpson, Chairman of the American Soybean Association's Market Development Committee and Director of the Soybean Council of America. Last year, soybean exports from the U. S. to Japan reached 48.2 million bushels, more than American-Japanese trade in both cotton and wheat. The dollar value of this trade was a record $148.5 million and it is expected to rise at least 8 per cent in 1964. A further indication of the potential of this market is the fact that this year Japan will be forced to import 11 million additional bushels from Communist China.

The Challenge

At present, two factors are limiting U. S. opportunities to enter this market on a larger scale: production and quality. It is these two factors which the Minnesota program aims to overcome. To increase production of breeding materials, growers are using the latest management tools: regular soil tests, minimum tillage, and chemical weed control. Throughout the breeding, growing and cross-breeding work, Amiben pre-emergence chemical herbicide has been used to control broadleaf weeds and grasses. By eliminating competition for moisture and nutrients in the soil, this herbicide has given 3 to 9 bushels per acre yield increases on Charles Simpson's own Tetonka farm. The use of this product gives some indication of the yield increases which might be expected and also contributes to the validity of the test results obtained.

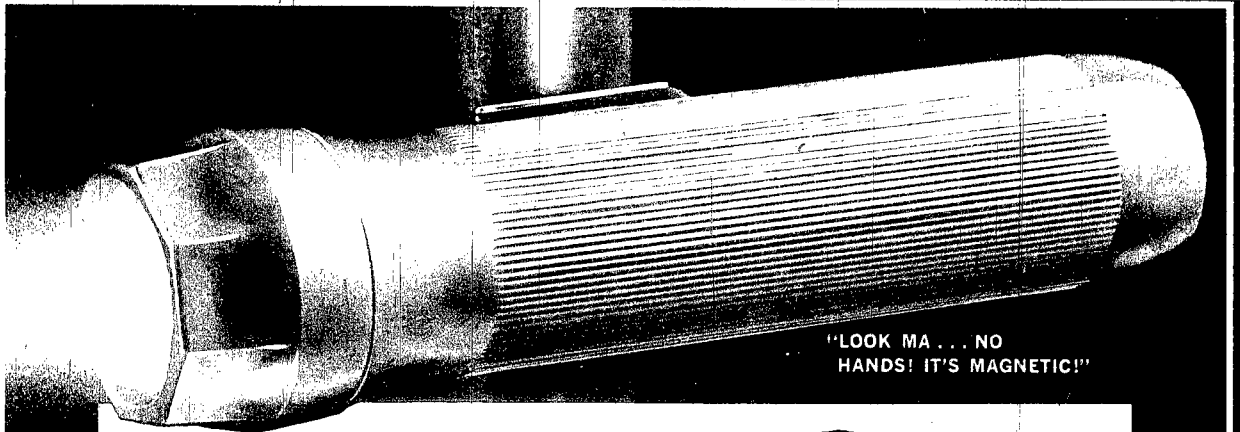

As seeds become available, they are released to members of the Foundation Seed Stock Group and the Minnesota Crop Improvement Association. By planting thin and following the best cultural practices and weed-control methods, some growers have been able to "blow up" a single bushel of seed to 3,600 pounds. Distributed around Minnesota in this fashion, 50- and 60-fold increases have been achieved in a growing season.

Quality

The problem of quality is attacked genetically. Breeding materials from Japan, specifically developed for the production of food products, are about to be crossed with Minnesota-adapted soybean varieties. This effort is proceeding on schedule under the direction of Drs. Jean Lambert, William Kennedy and Richard Cooper of the Institute of Agriculture of the University of Minnesota. The result of their work should produce a strain of soybean large in size and with a light color, a thin seed coat and a colorless hilum. The protein content of the new strain should average about 42 per cent and it should have a low oil analysis. Most soybeans now grown in the U. S. are processed for their meal and oil fractions. Food-quality beans, though, are used whole, either fermented or in a water-extraction process in the production of food products.

The dual challenges of developing a new soybean strain and increasing production are equally important to the establishment of a Japanese export market. Eventually through breeding and growing techniques, researchers will achieve an acceptable variety of soybeans. Production, however, must somehow break through the bushel barrier to increase yields to 35 to 50 bushels per acre. Every bit of knowledge must be used to compensate for the costs involved in transporting soybeans to Japan. These fixed handling, storage and shipping costs now add $1.30 per bushel to the local market price of American soybeans. This includes 5¢ local handling charge, 23¢ inland freight, 10¢ port charge, 34¢ ocean freight, 43¢ Japanese duty, and 15¢ Japanese handling charge.

Though the market already exists, it is clear that Minnesota breeders and growers will have to control their production costs at the same time they aim for yield increases. Good cultural practices, effective weed control and sound fiscal management, however, promise to speed their development and production work.

Iowans Promote International Understanding

by Gary Alban

The American Field Service is responsible for bringing several thousand foreign students to this country annually for the purpose of studying in local high schools. They stay with an American family for one year. Following is an account of how a small Iowa community enhances the program with its annual friendship weekend.

TAKE 18 foreign students from 13 different countries and put them all together in an American community for a weekend, and you've got an international affair on your hands! It's not the type that makes the big headlines . . . but the kind that creates a bond of deeper understanding so greatly needed among the peoples of the world.

Ogden, Iowa, a rural community of 1,600 citizens, has had an annual foreign student weekend for three years, to which American Field Service students in the area are invited. They stay in the homes of local high school students, and participate in a public program, where they tell of their country or perform dances or musical numbers typical of their homeland.

Recreation is also a part of the gathering as the foreign guests enjoy roller skating, bowling and party games throughout the weekend.

This year at Ogden, a fund raising carnival was held. In the two-night event, 1,000 citizens participated and more than enough money was raised to bring another AFS student here for the next school year. The Gordon Christensen family has been accepted to be the American parents.

(Ligia Hernandez of Costa Rica is Ogden's present exchangee and stays with the Norman Bergstrom family.)

The entire project provides rich memories for the guests and citizens as well. The AFS-ers all speak highly of American hospitality and look forward to returning to their homelands to tell of their stay here.

And local residents will long remember the Australian lad who discussed a peculiar problem he had with his pet kangaroos. It seems they enjoy sliding on a slick hallway floor in his home!

Then there was the Uruguay student who said he "just couldn't understand the girls in his country." But he confided that coming to America didn't solve the problem because he can't understand American girls either!

A Greek guest became slightly confused when speaking of a popular American sandwich: "Hot cat."

But the true goal of Ogden's Friendship Weekend is accomplished: "To show the AFS students that Americans are the same as they and that peace and goodwill among the nations is our desire."

Following are the qualifications for an AFS "American family." The Ogden community exemplifies them annually:

A heart, large enough to share a portion with another child from another land for a year and probably forever.

A mind, open to the different life and culture the student will bring with him, open to accepting him for his differences and not for his similarities.

And a share of laughter and gaiety to shrink the problems which may come up and to strengthen the bonds of communication.

October's Cornucopia

by Marion Latzko

FALL's harvest spills over from its horn-of-plenty in October. Everything tastes so good. Recipe files are like horns-of-plenty too, but, somehow, there's always need for new fillers.

An elegant looking, simple to prepare recipe for October's apples is Skillet Baked Stuffed Apples. The stuffing is mincemeat and walnuts. To flame these apples, moisten sugar cubes with lemon extract or high-proof brandy or rum. Perch them on the hot dessert, light them and watch the family's eyes light up!

Another recipe you might like to add to your files is a new way to bake apple pie so that it never boils over. A funnel, a hole in the top pie crust and a luscious cinnamon syrup are the only extra required equipment. Try it!

A delicious way to serve peaches is in an old fashioned favorite — kuchen. This kuchen has a surprise topping of sour cream. You can use fresh, canned or frozen peaches. It's delicious served fresh from the oven, but if there happens to be some left, just refrigerate it and reheat it when you want to use it later.

If you want to save the memory of summer and fall to enjoy in the middle of winter's snows, Pear and Plum Jam is good for reminding. Remember too that if you have extra fruits from last year's abundance in the freezer, you can use them to advantage in jams and jellies for further storage.

In most recipe files vegetable recipes are mighty scarce. To fill this need, Spiced Red Cabbage which is cooked with apples and flavored with onions and spices will become a well worn recipe card.

Vegetables can tempt the eye and stimulate the appetite because of their delightful colors. They can be served simply or in unusual combinations. You might like to try seasoning with celery or garlic salts. The addition of almonds or mushrooms does surprising things for green beans. Remember your handy can of mushroom soup if you wish to cream a vegetable quickly and elegantly.

Let your horn-of-plenty spill in different, delicious ways. Fall's a wonderful time of the year.

SKILLET BAKE STUFFED APPLES

1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup white sugar
1 1/2 cups water
Dash of salt

3 or 4 slices of lemon, sliced thin
Mincemeat
Chopped California walnuts
4 to 6 baking apples

Heat brown sugar, white sugar, water, salt and lemon slices in a big skillet. Pre-heat oven to 400 degrees F. Pare top half of apples, and cut out most of core from blossom end, leaving a little "plug" at stem end. Cook apples, pared end down, in the gently boiling syrup in skillet on top of range about 10 minutes or until slightly softened. Then turn them over, and fill cavities with prepared mincemeat and chopped walnuts. Put skillet into hot oven and bake, uncovered 10 to 15 minutes, until just tender. Baste occasionally with syrup to glaze them. Serve fairly hot, flaming or not.

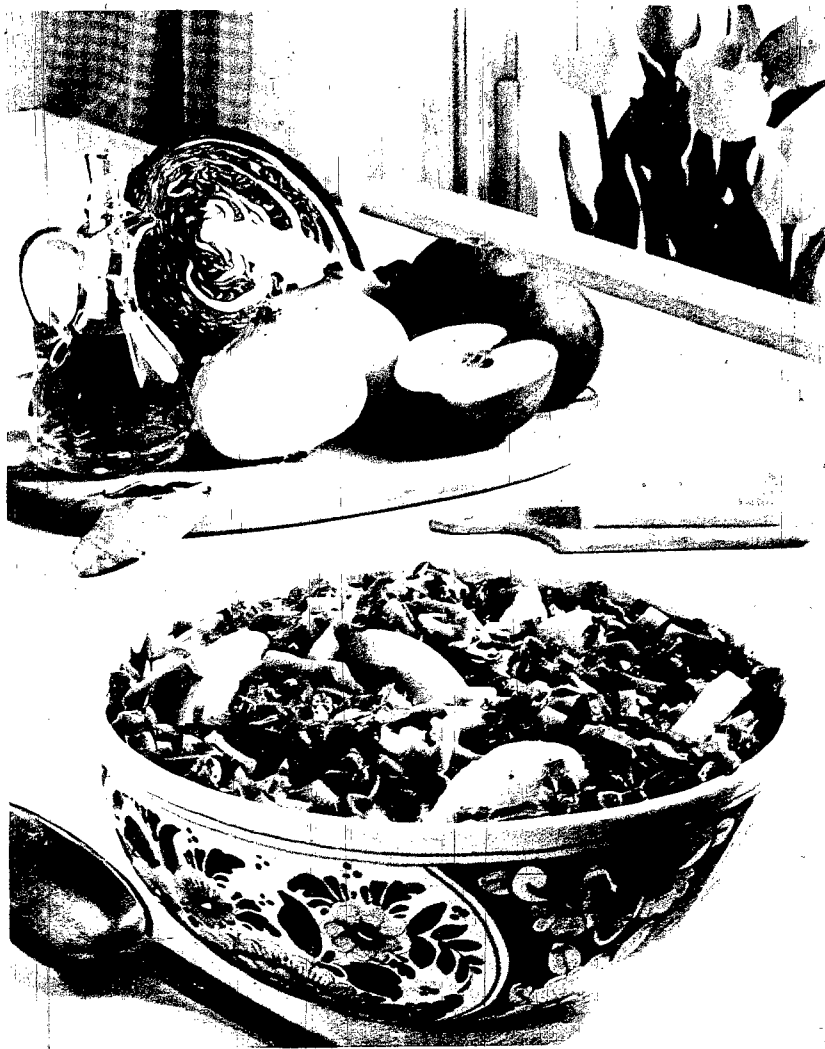

To flame, dip sugar cubes into lemon extract, high-proof brandy or rum. Put them on top of the apples, light them. Prettiest if room is darkened.

SPICED RED CABBAGE

3 cooking apples
1/3 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup margarine or butter
1 medium red cabbage, finely shredded
1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon salt

2 whole cloves
2 bay leaves
Dash of cinnamon
1/4 cup vinegar
1/2 cup water

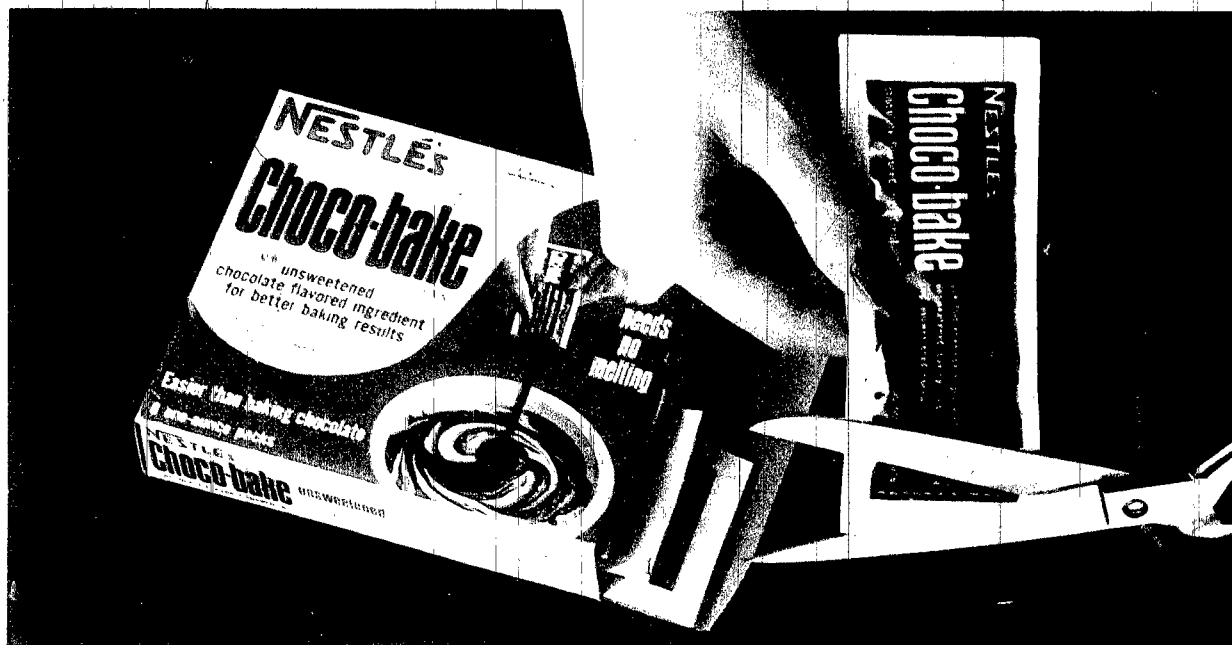

Peel, core and slice apples. Sauté onion and apple in margarine in a large saucepan until onions are lightly browned. Add cabbage and stir until cabbage looks wilted. Combine remaining ingredients and add to cabbage. Blend well. Cover and simmer 1 1/2 to 2 hours. Stir occasionally. Makes 1 to 1 1/2 quarts.

NEVER-BOIL-OVER APPLE PIE

Pastry for 2-crust pie
6 medium apples
Cinnamon Syrup

Line the pie pan with the first crust. Pare, core and slice apples; arrange in pastry-lined pan. Roll top crust as you did for bottom crust. Cut circle from center large enough to insert end of funnel, and cut slits to allow steam to escape. Place pastry over apples; seal and flute edge as desired. Bake in 400 degree F. (hot) oven until crust is well browned and apples are tender. Meanwhile prepare syrup, timing it to be finished about the same time as the pie (15 minutes should be adequate). Remove pie from oven and immediately insert funnel into center of pie. Pour Cinnamon Syrup into funnel about  $\frac{1}{4}$  at a time, tilting pie after each addition to allow syrup to spread evenly.

CINNAMON SYRUP

3 tablespoons butter or margarine 1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon cornstarch  $\frac{1}{4}$  teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup light or dark corn syrup

Melt margarine in small saucepan. Blend in cornstarch, then sugar, cinnamon and salt. Mix in corn syrup. Stirring constantly, bring to a boil and boil 5 minutes.

Pot watchers,
oven peekers...
rejoice!

The Army has developed a new shell that carries two bullets, reports The Stephenson Farmer of Lena, Ill. The theory is that if the first bullet misses its mark, the second one may score a hit.

This is progress that comes 20 years too late for a lot of us.

A diplomat is a man who can convince his wife that a woman looks stout in a fur coat, claims The Cavalier (N. D.) Chronicle.

A column in The Tri-County Truth of Churubusco, Ind., suggests that a child's musical interest be encouraged by improving homemade instruments such as pots and pans for practice drums.

The writer says it is the parent's important responsibility to accustom a child to "beautiful musical sounds."

There is no connection with this item and the previous item, but The Times of Worthington, Ind., reports that there are three general types of noises found in older plumbing systems — water hammer, whistling and chattering.

While our plumbing never has been known to whistle, it does whine once in a while.

Girls used to be shy and dressed like Mother Hubbard, says The Petersburg (Ind.) Press, but now they are bold and dress more like her cupboard.

The De Smet (S. D.) News reports that women own 65 per cent of all savings accounts, are in line to inherit 70 per cent of the nation's wealth and now control 185 per cent of total consumer buying power.

That percentage on buying power has to be a misprint because there can't be that much of it, except in homes like ours.

You're an old timer if you think the town square is a place and not a person, says The Bloomfield (Ind.) News.

Our summer was much pleasanter because of an item we read early in the summer in The Perry County Tribune, New Lexington, Ohio.

The item said that deep cultivation can hurt the garden. Since we were afraid we might go too deep, we spent the summer in the hammock.

The Clay City (Ind.) News reports that a senator said back in 1912 that "A system of national roads would be a frivolous expenditure for the benefit of a few wealthy pleasure seekers."

How about that? Many of us had no idea we were wealthy pleasure seekers.

"You're getting old when the gleam in your eyes is the sun hitting your bifocals," says The Pioneer-Review, Philip, S. D.

"If you want to leave footprints in the sands of time, you have to wear work shoes," says The Clay City (Ind.) News.

The Columbia Missourian has the answer for areas that suffer drought. It reports that "Elephants are the hydraulic engineers of the African wilds. In times of drought, they gouge wells in dry river beds, providing essential water for other animals in the vicinity."

Now, as to getting an elephant . . . . .

"Nothing is opened by mistake as often as one's mouth," claims The Tyndall (S. D.) Tribune and Register.

"You are getting older," says The Nance County Journal of Fullerton, Neb., "when you feel your corns more than you do your oats."

The Frontier of O'Neill, Neb., scratches its editorial head over the fact that the government collects taxes from smokers; and then takes this tax money to prove that it is dangerous to smoke, spends more of it for tobacco price supports, and uses the rest to get cigarettes labeled as dangerous to health.

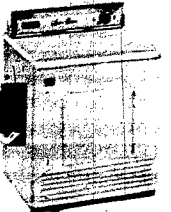

If you had to run an advertisement for someone to do your wife's job, it would have to read like this, says The Daily Leader, Madison, S. D.: "Woman wanted—To help in house. Eighteen-hour day, seven-day week. Sleep in. Must have knowledge of cooking, sewing, medicine, law, child welfare, elementary electricity, bookkeeping and men. Must be strong and willing. One who can help in garden preferred."

Umm-u-u! Macaroni and Spaghetti

by Fran Klemm

WHEN hearty fall appetites need appeasing, it's time to put spaghetti, macaroni and noodles on to cook!

These versatile foods (grouped under the general term of alimentary pastes or macaroni "foods") are especially nourishing when they are combined with the whole protein of cheese, meat, eggs and milk.

The whole world is wise in their use. In Italy these products are a staple in the national diet.

There are tricks to be learned from Italy, though, such as buttering spaghetti after it's boiled and drained to prevent it from sticking together.

There are methods to be remembered while cooking these macaroni foods. A little background of wheat flours may help in understanding. There are two types of wheat — soft and hard. The harder wheat has the most gluten, the mysterious protein that makes dough stick together and become elastic and stretchy. Softer wheats contain less and are therefore used for more delicate baking such as cake flour. Blends are milled for housewives' all-purpose flours to best serve average needs.

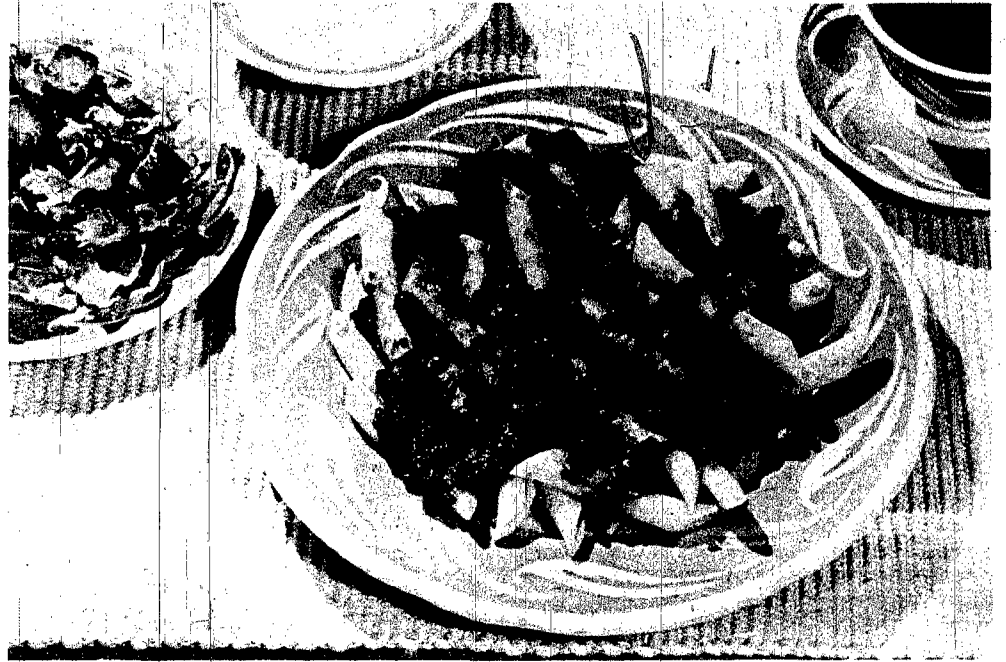

Durum wheats, which are usually used in all macaroni "foods", are the hardest wheats. Their heavy gluten content makes them especially nutritious and capable of boiling in water. Don't overcook them! Put them in a large pan of salted, boiling water, uncovered, and stir occasionally to prevent sticking. They can be tested for doneness by breaking a piece on the side of the pan.

If you want to avoid "boil-overs", add 1 tablespoon of oil to your water.

Remember to slightly undercook if you are making combination dishes that require further cooking such as Confetti Macaroni with Corn Bake. This casserole is an excellent side dish served with such meats as hamburgers, hot dogs or ham.

Another different approach is Noodle Dressing for Roast Chicken. It's a delicious deviation from bread stuffings.

No matter how they're cooked, macaroni "foods" are delicious.

| 1/4 cup diced celery                          | 1 1/2 teaspoons salt                                   |
| 1/2 cup drained mushroom pieces (4-ounce can) | 1/8 teaspoon pepper                                    |
| 1/2 clove garlic, finely chopped              | 2 1/2 cups tomatoes (1 pound 4-ounce can)              |
| 2 tablespoons salad oil                       | 3/4 cup tomato paste (6-ounce can)                     |
| 1 1/4 pounds ground beef                      | 1 cup beef stock (or 1 cup water plus 1 bouillon cube) |
| 1 teaspoon oregano                            | 8 ounces mostaccioli                                   |
| 1/8 teaspoon basil                            |  |
| 1/8 teaspoon thyme                            |  |

Sauté onion, celery, mushrooms and garlic in salad oil in heavy saucepan. Add ground beef and continue cooking until meat begins to brown. Add all other ingredients except mostaccioli. Bring to boiling point, stirring frequently. Reduce heat and simmer slowly about 1 hour. Cook mostaccioli in rapidly boiling salted water 12 to 15 minutes or until tender. Drain thoroughly. Place cooked mostaccioli on heated platter or serving plate. Pour over tomato sauce. Serve with grated Parmesan or cheddar cheese. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Nobody Votes in My Town

by 87776

It was November 27, 1963. Half of my town's 4,700 population jammed the theater. The newsreel reviewed the Kennedy assassination. Many of my townspeople applauded the scene.

Russia? Cuba? Red China?

No. My town is in mid-America. Most of my townsmen are chronic misfits whose earnings average 20 cents per day. The name of my town is Southern Michigan Prison.

"He shoulda never been elected," remarked the middle-aged burglar next to me. I knew him well. He was serving his fifth term here.

"I take it you voted for Nixon," I said.

"You kiddin'? I never voted in my life. I got sense enough to know no matter who's elected, the best John Q. Public's gonna get is the worst of it. The hell with votin'!"

That's seditious philosophy, isn't it? "The hell with votin'!" means down with democracy, your country, your government and, therefore, every home (where government really begins) in the land.

Yet, I've voiced such sedition myself. Only it came out something like this: "Couldn't make it to the polls; had other things to do on election day." The reflection lured me into deep concern and held me down with this hard and heavy fact: I was stripped of my voting privileges for many elections to come. What I felt left no room for self-esteem.

As the feature movie ran, I wondered how my fellow inmates felt about not being allowed to vote. Later, I questioned nearly 300 of them. Almost 90% indicated that they couldn't care less. Eighty individuals admitted that they'd never voted! (Could the deeds that landed us here be germane to such disregard for democracy?) Consider three responses to the question: Did you vote regularly when you were free?

Gambling syndicate underling (age 33, serving 5-10 years): "The organization always saw to it that I voted; even told me who to vote for."

Habitual drunk (doing 1-2 for non-support): "They'd let us off work in time to make it to the polls, all right. But I'd stop at a buddy's house to talk the election over. There'd be a bottle or two around. And somehow, before we considered all the issues and candidates and decided who'd get our vote, it was either too late or I was too drunk to care any more."

Vote fraud fall-guy (age 72, serving 1½-2): "Election days was gravy days for me. I always voted. Got five bucks a ballot. Sometimes I made fifty-five, sixty dollars."

As for me—well, it's occasionally difficult to face the mirror of patriotism and like what you see. Instead of voting, I've often gone hunting or fishing; attended to selfish matters of assorted kinds. Indeed, I've leaped on every lame excuse in the American voters' book. But someday I'll have a chance to prove my determination never again to skip an opportunity to vote. Till then . . .

What about you?

Like many other sheer blessings in America's full-fashioned freedom, the privilege of voting is never completely appreciated until it is lost. I know. Therefore, I agree with the immigrant who said, "Americans don't adequately appreciate their system of government because they don't understand what it ain't."

However, our Star Spangled Banner waves best when every thread is intact. Similarly, the government it represents needs every vote.

But nobody votes in my town. Nobody may.

What could be worse, patriotically?

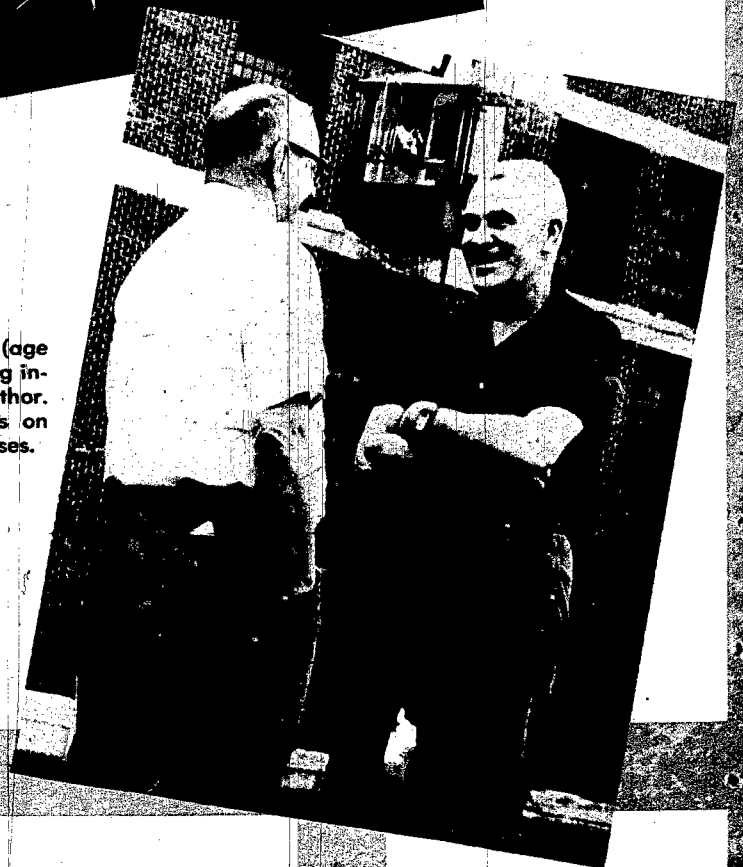

Only your town, where everybody may vote . . . and you don't.

Habitual drunk (doing 1-2 for non-support), facing camera.

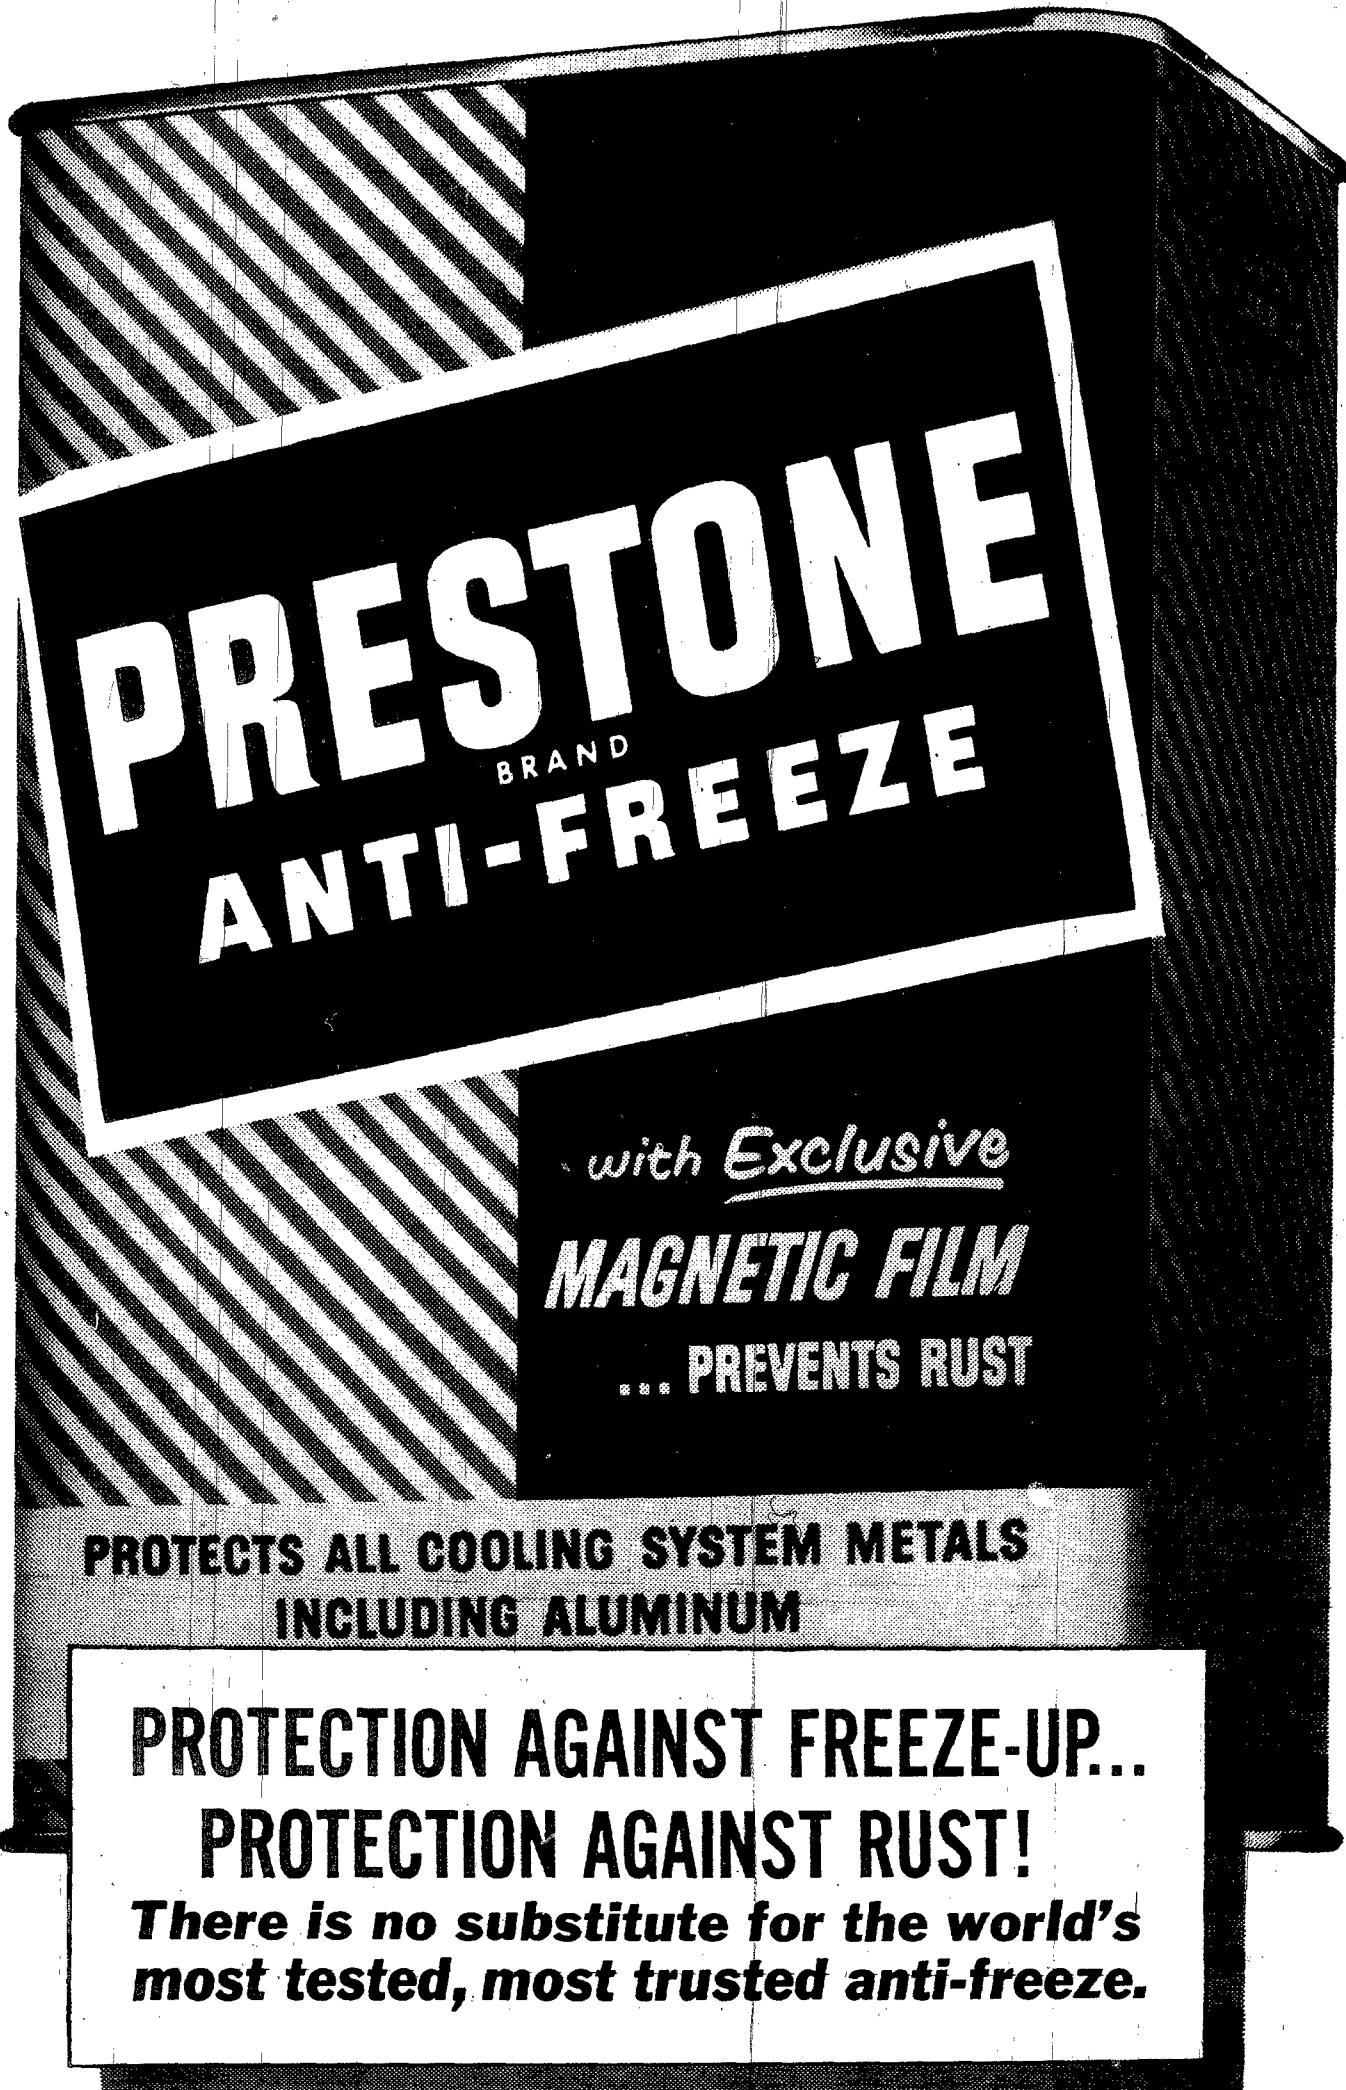

Gambling syndicate underling (age 33, serving 5-10 years). Subject is not identifiable in photograph.

Vote fraud fall-guy (age 72, serving 1½-2) being interviewed by the author. Vote fraud fall-guy is on the left, wearing glasses.
