Towns Take Turns Not Getting Money

Two weeks ago a Wakefield woman would have gotten the money if she had been in Wayne Thursday night when her name was called. A week later a Concord man missed the money. Thursday night an Emerson man missed out on $200.

Douglas Earl Carper, Emerson, could have had $200 Thursday night. He must have been the only person for miles who was not in Wayne for the streets were jammed for store openings, bargains and cash night.

This week the prize goes up to $250. Some lucky person could take home that much cash if they are in the store of a participating merchant when their name is called. This week do you think yours will?

The Spook Speaks

A Winside high school boy wears a "double watch." It consists of two identical steel watches fastened to a steel plate. He offers no reason for wearing two watches that tell identical time but insists he's not two-timing anyone.

The two women stood in front of Wayne's Morrison hotel. Two early-teenagers with tousled hair, sweat shirts and Bermuda shorts went by. "My, one lady remarked, 'I sure don't approve of the way young girls dress nowadays.' The two youngsters going by who prompted her remark happen to be boys.

A young Wayne couple, engaged but not married, bought a car together. They found insurance rates were so high for him they couldn't afford insurance for him. Rates are not so high for her so she does all the driving. The fact that his rates will go down once they're married has not speeded up wedding plans.

The young man looked as if he might be a farmer. He entered a Wayne county courthouse office, asked "Is he in?" and was told "No." was. The youth went into the office and started telling his troubles, getting a full story told before the man in the office finally asked who the youth thought he was talking to. "The probation officer," the youth replied. Only then did he find out he'd gone into details on his personal troubles for the benefit of the county extension agent.

Wayne Area Captains for Community Chest Named

Twelve women have been named area captains for the Wayne Community Chest fund drive. They will head a drive in the residential area by around 90 volunteer workers.

Named area captains were Mrs. Miron Jenness, Mrs. Darrell Heier, Mrs. Wilbur Giese, Mrs. Arline Ulrich, Mrs. Don Sherbahn, Mrs. William Mellor, Mrs. Irvin Brandt, Mrs. Don Reed, Mrs. Dick Arett, Mrs. Red Love, Mrs. Wayne Marsh and Mrs. William Eynon.

A meeting was held Wednesday noon this week by the board of directors of the Chest. The meetings are ordinarily held Tuesdays but this week was switched because of the Kiwanis club dinner being moved from Monday to Tuesday.

Work is going ahead planning the business district drive and lining up workers for the residential areas. Response by those asked to help has been most gratifying, according to Ken Pawke, secretary.

The drive kickoff is slated for Monday, Sept. 27. This year's quota is $8,933, is the largest in the history of the Community Chest in Wayne.

Linda Kane Wins Debating Award

Linda Kane, daughter of Mrs. William Kane, Wayne, was one of two girls chosen to receive $50 scholarships presented by Pi Kappa Delta, debate honorary on the WSC campus. The other winner is from Grand Island.

Members of the honorary had money-raising projects to earn enough money to provide for the scholarships. They then selected the deserving recipients from among the new college students.

Miss Kane has been active in drama and debate at WHS under the direction of Inva Chambers. According to WSC debate coach, Brice Wilkinson, she has shown considerable ability and effort in the field.

Wilkinson said, "No activity in college is of more benefit in increasing self-confidence than debating. You can't miss if you take it." Miss Kane plans to take it.

This year's subject will be: "Resolved: That law enforcement agencies in the United States should be given greater freedom in the investigation and prosecution of crime." Those taking part will take in about eight tournaments with expenses paid, just as they are for all forensic activities at WSC.

Welsh Couple's Search Centered About Carroll

Mr. and Mrs. David Morris, Aber, Wales, were in the Carroll area last week. They were looking for relatives of the late John Morris and for the "Star Stock farm" at Carroll.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Morris they introduced themselves and told of their search. They learned that the See WELSH — Page 6

Approve Bringing Land Into District

By a 7-2 vote, superintendents, treasurers and clerks of Wayne, Thurston and Dixon county voted Wednesday morning at a hearing in Wayne to allow Mrs. Mary Alice Johnson to bring 240 acres into the Wayne district from the Wakefield district.

The hearing involves three counties because the Wakefield district is in three counties. State law provided only a 5-4 favorable vote necessary so the action was one-sided.

An attorney appeared to represent the Wakefield district and to oppose the transfer. However, there were no witnesses to appear opposing the action.

Glenn Olson resides on the farm and has been sending his children to school in Wayne, necessitating payment of tuition. The change from the Wakefield to the Wayne district is scheduled to take place within 30 days of the vote on the freeholder's petition for transfer.

LINDA KANE accepts a check symbolic of the award she received for being an outstanding debater entering WSC. Brice Wilkinson, debate coach, said Pi Kappa Delta members earned the money to give two such $50 scholarships.

Interest groups are to be formed so those preferring cards will be in one group, those interested in sports in another, homemaking skills in a third and so on. Purpose will be to help everyone get better acquainted faster in the city.

Coffees were held Sept. 1 to get acquainted with some of the newcomers. There were 19 newcomers guests of the sponsoring Live and Learn Extension club members.

John D. Kessler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vale Kessler, Wayne, has been awarded the Federation of German-American clubs' fellowship to study during the 1965-66 school term at the University of Munich, Germany.

A 1958 graduate of Hahn high, Kessler attended WSC before completing work on his BA degree at Ohio Wesleyan university. He taught for a year and a half in suburban Cleveland while taking work at Western Reserve university.

The past school term he used a University of Texas fellowship and completed work on his MA in German language and literature. He also taught German at TU this summer.

'Miss Moppet' Receives City Honors Thursday

Robyn Bornhoff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Budd Bornhoff, received honors from the city Thursday for being named "Nebraska's Little Miss Moppet" on the Truth or Consequences "Miss Moppet USA" promotion.

Mayor and Mrs. Chris Tietgen personally feted the Bornhoffs by entertaining them at dinner. Included as guests of the mayor and his wife were the state winner, Rick, Todd and Bob and Chamber of Commerce Manager Wanda Owens.

Wayne Greenhouse presented a bouquet of roses to the winner and Dean Weible furnished a convertible for the little one to ride with the mayor and his wife through the streets of Wayne with police escort.

Robyn was presented a lockert from the TV show, a certificate and a banner. She was also honored with a poem by Mrs. Tietgen and read by the mayor at the dinner. Here is the poem:

Little girls are all so pretty,
And they are also very nice.
But Nebraska's Little Miss Moppet
Is both pretty and precise.
I am presenting you with this award,
That from the USA pageant you have won.
Our thanks to Truth or Consequences.
It has been a lot of fun.

Bid Time Nears, Board May Start Condemnation Actions

With the advertising for bids on construction of a new high school less than 30 days away, the District 17 school board has passed a resolution authorizing condemnation proceedings on land needed by the district.

Meeting Tuesday night, the board learned the architect's final plans and specifications for the new school will be shown within a month and bids can then be asked. There have been no major changes made for weeks and the only minor changes are on landscaping due to existing geodetic markers and on some electrical outlet locations. Alternate plans are being prepared for the bid-letting.

Unless negotiations are completed immediately, the board adopted a resolution to go ahead with condemnation action to obtain the Burke property. This land adjoins present school land and land acquired from the Kemps.

Basketball fans will be interested in arrangements for the 1966-67 schedule. WSC has arranged his schedule so that almost all home WIS games can be played in Rice auditorium. Fans will pay more to get in, however, as the admission prices for all WIS athletic events have been raised to a dollar for adults and 50 cents for students in line with other schools. Student tickets cut admission cost in half.

The class schedule has also been revised, Supr. Francis Haun reported. Some high school pupils had been coming to school late because of crowded conditions. Arrangements have been made to have all in school by 8:40 with home room supervision. However, it's still crowded in the afternoon so 29 out of 169 will be dismissed at 3:05. These are pupils in neither band nor orchestra.

Counselor Stan Hanson is starting guidance classes for the seventh and eighth grades. He will meet with each pupil in those classes several times a year.

Vernie Hurlbert, Carroll bus driver on the east route has passed exams and is now on that route regularly. He drives the 54-passenger bus, picking up elementary pupils for Carroll, first and then junior and senior high pupils for Wayne. The bus is based in Carroll.

All bus drivers, including those who drive the small buses for Carroll kindergarten, have taken physical exams as specified by the state. All schedules are now operating smoothly.

In other action, the board checked the audit of the school funds by Virgil Campbell, CPA, Omaha, and found everything in good shape; learned two rooms of new furniture have been installed in junior high; took under consideration (until the architect is consulted) Russ Tiedtke's request to tie on to the sewer; and authorized asking of bids for supplying gasoline from Wayne firms.

Top 4-H Beef to Be Sold Monday Night at Auction

A highlight of any year for any Wayne county 4-H member with a beef project is the beef sale. This year's sale will be held Monday, Sept. 13, at 8 p.m. in the Wayne Sale barn.

Several workers are helping with the sale in addition to the county extension office and the personnel of the auction firm. Bidding is expected to be brisk for the 4-H beefs.

Calves are to be unloaded by 1 p.m. and showing of animals as individuals will start at 2. Weighing and appraisal are scheduled for 4 p.m. with top packers bidding and the starting sale bid in the night sale. Pen calves from commercial feeders will be sold also. A scoring formula has been worked out for these calves.

Notices regarding the sale have been sent to 4-H members. Everyone in the county is welcome to attend as a participant, spectator or bidder.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,
Your editorial comments in The Wayne Herald in the past weeks lead me to believe that you do not own a substantial amount of property in this state on which to pay property tax. Judging from the caliber of the weekly newspaper here in Wayne that you are now editing, it is my thinking that you are receiving a substantial salary on which you would rather not pay an income tax. In one article in the Sept. 2nd issue, I quote, "With school teachers back on the job many of them have signed to have the issue brought to a vote." These same teachers probably don't own much property. In all probability they are also in a favorable tax situation under the present property tax. They probably don't mind the farmers paying for the education of their children. This I cannot accuse you of, Mr. Editor, because of your confirmed bachelorhood.

The only fault I find in LB 797 (the income tax bill) is that it doesn't go far enough. We should eliminate property tax clear down to the local county, precinct, and district levels. Ownership of property is not always an asset. A pointed example of this situation occurred in recent years when livestock prices plunged to disastrous levels and farmers were losing as high as $80 per head on cattle. Then they were charged a property tax on top of this loss on these same cattle.

Referring to the Letter to the Editor by Robert Boeckenhauer in the Aug. 26th issue concerning taxes, I agree with him on several points. However, he states and I quote, "Heading the petition drive in Wayne County is a man who should know as well as anyone that Nebraska's present property tax is unfair. All he has to do is go into his farm loan file and see what has happened to the net worth of his farm customers in the last three years while the rest of the people have been enjoying prosperity." Unquote. Here Mr. Boeckenhauer misses the boat completely. These higher property taxes that farmers have been paying in the past three years are only another aggravating contributing factor to continually depressed farm prices.

I would like to take this means to suggest to Mr. Boeckenhauer that with reapportionment staring us in the face on all levels as farmers we are bound to lose what little political power we now have. It is highly pertinent that we as farmers band together to establish cost of production plus reasonable profit levels on the products we produce, for this is where our only real strength lies. With the power of the ballot which none should ever attempt to deny for this is democracy at work, we are bound as a minority group, being farmers, to lose this income tax battle. After all, taxes of one form or another should really be considered just another cost of our production. If the city people vote that we should continue to pay these high property taxes which could become confiscatory, then it seems to me we have no other choice.

Apparently, Mr. Boeckenhauer does not agree wholeheartedly with his child's letter dated Sept. 21, 1964, appearing in the Oct. 1st, 1964 issue of The Wayne Herald, (a rebuttal to NFO letter by Laurence Hansen and myself) in which I quote, "With the use of modern technologies and sciences, we know that one farmer can produce more than ever before in history. The farmer who is to make money is the one who will employ these technologies in an efficient operation that will bring him the most income. In my opinion, if a farmer can't produce goods economically enough to make a living selling his products on the market, he has no business farming." Unquote. It doesn't matter how efficient a farmer is, if he cannot get cost of production of which taxes are a part, for his products, he is bound to go broke eventually. Any businessman knows you must show a profit to stay in business.

Referring back further to this child's letter, I quote, "Another question that I have never heard answered is who will call the shots if and when all farmers join up with the NFO. It looks to me like the bug boys in the organization will be running the show and the individual farmers' freedom to market will go out the window." Unquote. In answer to this question, I would like to assure all farmers that they will all have an equal voice in how the NFO is run as each member has one vote. All members must be producers of farm commodities. Nothing can be ratified without a two-thirds vote by the members affected present after having a ten-day notice by mail.

It is quite obvious from John Mohr's report on the farm bill that the Farm Bureau is rapidly losing its touch. They don't seem to be able to farm the farmers any more or can the congressmen either. I take this opportunity to invite all honest but misled Farm Bureau members to join NFO to stabilize these prices so that we can pay our taxes, cost of production, and realize a profit here in agriculture so that we will have money to spend in the Wayne businesses. Maybe we could even afford to put inside toilets in our country schools. For then we will be living in REAL prosperity, unlike the FALSE prosperity we now find ourselves in.

Suppose we could replace the property tax with an income tax clear up from the local level, the businessmen would be in a better position to offer their customers what they want to buy, for they would not have to reduce their inventory at the end of the year to avoid paying property taxes. It seems to me this would put their business in a much more favorable position.

As of late we have been hearing more and more of a co-op movement in the Wayne area. I ask you never to forget that we have had co-ops for many years. There are so many of them that they tend to compete with each other, thus splitting the farmers bargaining power. They have never been able to solve the farm problem. Please remember, Mr. Farmer, that the dividend realized by the individual member will not bail you out of 14c hogs or 18c cattle prices; I would also warn farmers that if a co-op movement is successful in this area, they (the co-op members) had better be in a position after having driven competing local businesses out of business, to assume the tax load left after these businessmen have gone, whether it be property or income, for the support of our local schools and churches.

Your editorials and Letters to the Editor have been thought-provoking which is what this community desperately needs. Apathy at all levels is running at high tide. Let's wake up before it is too late.
Thanking you for this space, I remain
Sincerely,
Roland L. Victor
President, Wayne Co. NFO

Emerson-Hubbard to Oppose Winside in Wildcats' First Tilt on New Gridiron

Emerson-Hubbard, boasting 14 returning lettermen, will oppose the Winside Wildcats Friday night at 7 p. m. in the first tilt on the new Winside gridiron and under the new head coach, Coach Pete Kropp looks for a tough battle between the two teams.

Injuries Rain on WSC Grid Players

That old saying, "It never rains but it pours," has double meaning for Wayne State football coach John Jermier and staff these days. Incessant rain for several days made practice somewhat less than efficient.

But the rain will cease, sometime. Another kind of gloom is likely to last longer — namely, the problem of staffing linemen.

Jermier reports the loss, probably all this season, of Bruce Miller, a scrappy little sophomore who was his apparent to replacing John Bock, the most valuable player on defense last year.

Several others are also contenders for playing time, Kropp reported.

More Boys Needed for Wins' Fresh Grid Squad

Coach Ron Carnes has only 16 boys out for freshman football at Wayne high school. He said a schedule of four or five games with other freshman teams is planned so more candidates are wanted.

The first game will be played in two weeks against Pierce. Games with other teams in the area are in the negotiation stage.

Rain Frozes Racing

Racing in the area both Sunday and Monday. Elaborate schedules of sprint car races had been set up at South Sioux City and Norfolk.

And there's a week yet before the first whistle blows — against Northwest Missouri State at Maryville.

Heavy Team Lacks Speed as Wayne High Prepares for Friday Madison Invasion

A team long on weight but short on speed will represent Wayne high Friday night at 8 p. m. as the Blue Devils of Coach Jerry Ball invade Madison for a Husker conference tilt.

The starting lineup will have Lynn Lessmann at quarterback, Keith Tietjen at fullback, Keith Lehmann at right half and either Randy Pedersen or Bob Morris at left half. These men weigh 140, 170, 165, 150 and 150 respectively.

Ends will be George Sherry, 200, at left and either Dave Brown, 150, or Leon Jorgensen at right. Tackles will be Emery Fields, 180, and Mark Robinson, 160, end and guard center respectively Ed Sherry, 200, and Phil Kelten, 190, and center, Bob Wriedt, 190.

Defensive starters include Lehmann, Kelten, Wriedt, Rees, Tietjen, Pedersen, Fields, Brown and Morris plus Kendall Longe, 150, and Mark Robinson, 160, end and guard center respectively Ed Sherry, 200, and Randy Pedersen will be co-captains.

Lessmann or Mark Johnson will handle punting. Assistant Coach John Tolkson, a Morningside graduate, handles the kicking and backfield coaching duties.

Coach Ball and his staff, willing to work hard and learn the first two weeks have been gratifying to the coaches. They report a noticeable improvement in a number of players for which they are also grateful. They furnished the following information on the players.

George Sherry, lettered at tackle in 1964 now at end but out most of last week due to illness. Emery Fields, transfer from Albion where he lettered, shows lots of desire and hustle. Ed Sherry, lettered at both tackle and guard in 1964.

Bob Wriedt, lettered at center last year and has shown marked improvement in ability and desire. Randy Pedersen, two-year letterman at half and a standout defensive player in 1964. Keith Tietjen, senior who skipped football last year, shows improvement with each practice.

Lynn Lessmann, sophomore who started at guard but took to fresh last year, good passing ability and one of points. Kendall Longe, two-year letterman at end, specialist on defense. Mark Robinson, lettered at center in 1964, one of speediest boys with quick reactions.

Keith Lehmann, lettered at end last year, moved to halfback on offense and end on defense, shows lots of desire; Phil Kelten, two-year letterman as sophomore fullback and junior tackle, moved to guard to add depth; Bob Rees, two-year letterman at tackle, heaviest on squad at 230 pounds with good reaction for big player.

Dave Brown, sophomore bidding for starting berth, has good speed and is a good pass receiver. Leon Jorgensen, senior who skipped football last year and who adds depth at end, and Bob Morris, junior who skipped football last year, shows hustle and desire and is pressing hard for starting spot.

At the coaching level, defense is getting additional attention this year, with the assignment of Ralph Barclay to drill interior line positions. He comes with good credentials for such duty, having been an All-Missouri Valley conference tackle at Bradley University.

Offensively, the coaches can afford a cheerier attitude. The same wrecking crew which tore up the foe at a 30-point-a-game clip last year is gung-ho for action. In fact, the whole squad's attitude is peppery, observers note.

And there's a week yet before the first whistle blows — against Northwest Missouri State at Maryville.

Squad of 70 Works Out at Wayne State

A squad of about 70 began the grind of football practice at Wayne State Wednesday — 31 of them lettermen and 18 others returning squadmen.

Coach John Jermier, in his fourth year at the WSC helm, probably has more depth of experience and talent than any Wayne coach in history. And the squad includes all but five of the main performers from the 1964 team that posted a 6-2 record and ranked high in national offensive ratings.

Broken legs sidelined two lettermen — linebacker John Bock, last year's most valuable player on defense, and Jim Kloubee, a guard.

Boy on Bicycle in Collision with Car

A boy on a bicycle collided with a car in one of the four traffic accidents reported on Wayne streets the past week. The boy, unidentified, got up off the pavement and rode away before the car driver could talk to him.

The accident happened Aug. 30 at Eighth and Sherman and was investigated by Officer Keith Reed. The "hit and run" bike rider came around the corner from the east, struck the rear of the car and overturned. Whether or not he was injured was not learned.

The same day on South Main, Officer E. L. Hailey investigated an accident involving cars driven by Arthur Brune, Wayne, and Charles Schmid, Sioux City. Schmid passed Brune just as Brune turned left. Both cars were all but stopped so damage was light.

Sept. 4 on North Main, William Koudle, Coleridge, and Irwin Brandt, Wayne, collided with $200 damage to the Koudle car and $68 to Brandt's. Chief of Police Vern Fairchild, investigating officer, reported Koudle was northbound when Brandt pulled onto Main from a parking lot and hit the rear of Koudle's car.

A similar accident occurred at Seventh and Main Sept. 6. Chief Fairchild investigated this one also. Kurt Otte, Wayne, was southbound and W. P. Thomas, Wayne, pulled off Seventh onto Main and struck the left rear side of the Otte vehicle.

Police Help Out in All Types of Cases

Wayne police department members have helped out in several ways the past week, including helping their fellow law officers from the county. In addition to four accidents and helping a prisoner for the sheriff, they did mobile patrol work, picked up traffic violators and helped others.

Twice they were called to locate people in the area for sad news. One person received a death message after being located and another received an emergency message.

They investigated an accidental shooting (details in another story), escorted Nebraska's Little Miss Moppet through the business district, warned a student about leaving a car in the alley, provided funeral escorts, checked a fire burning south of town (a set fire, they learned), checked on a dispute which had led to letting air out of tires and pouring soap on car seats and checked on an indecent exposure complaint.

Don Cunningham Dies Following Extended Illness

Don Cunningham, 79, former Wayne resident and "voice of Sioux City stockyards" for years, died Monday night at a Sioux City hospital. He had been hospitalized for over three months prior to his death.

Cunningham wrote a column for The Wayne Herald and other publications for years. He also pioneered stockyards news on the radio from Sioux City and his unusual voice was known throughout the area.

Funeral services will be Thursday afternoon at 1:30 in Sioux City's First Methodist church. Graveside rites will be held at 4 p.m. the same day at Wayne's Greenwood cemetery.

He was born July 27, 1886, at Gilman, Ia., graduated from Iowa State college in 1908 and came that year to Wayne as a livestock auctioneer. He remained here until 1935 when he was elected secretary of the Sioux City Livestock exchange.

His broadcasts to stockmen covered a wide area and years of auctioneering gave him a "gravel voice" no one could mistake once they heard him. His services as a public speaker were much in demand.

He was a member of the Masonic lodge in Wayne and received his 50-year pin in 1958. He was also a member of the Shrine, served in

County Certain to Hit Petition Goal

Wayne county is certain to hit the goal of 10 per cent on the petition drive, according to Adon Jeffrey, drive chairman. The 10 per cent mark is a goal to keep the income tax from being inaugurated.

According to Jeffrey, he has in his possession or has sent in petitions with over 300 signatures. There are several more out in Wayne, Hoskins, Winside and Carroll.

This county's vote for governor at the last election was around 3940 so 394 signatures are needed. With two months to go, 20 counties have already hit the 10 per cent mark.

Jeffrey does not want to drag out the petition signing too long even though the "work" in this county has been mainly a matter of letting people come in and voluntarily sign. He is calling in petitions

Planning Work in City Club's Topic

A brief background of the city planning commission was given Tuesday noon at the Kiwanis club meeting in the Morrison hotel. Alan Cramer, president of the commission, and Adon Jeffrey, commission member, both Kiwanians, gave the report.

A preliminary projected land-use map was displayed. It has been at First National bank and will go on display at State National bank. It depicts Wayne as recommendations would make it, not as Wayne actually is.

The commission, a "branch" of the city council, recommends the land-use map in determining future growth. It is the first step in a zoning plan for the city.

Color-keyed with regard to various segments of land-use, the map shows where one family dwellings should be, where multi-family units should be, where light industry should be located, proposed heavy industry sites, commercial zones, public-use areas (parks and schools) and other city features.

William McMurtry and Leon Brooks of WSC and Claude Harder of Claude's Standard, were guests. Tom Lambert, Wayne county supervisor for Farmers Home administration, became a new member.

Heavy Rains Boost Conservation Work

The heavy, severe spring rains, which caused considerable soil erosion, are responsible for the demand of conservation work this fall, according to Wayne County Soil Conservation district personnel.

The SCS technicians have staked terraces on the farms of Bill Marquardt, Harris Heineemann, Ed Oberding and Herb Layton. These terraces are being built or will be constructed soon. Several other terrace requests have been received.

Where the land adapts itself, terraces are being constructed in pairs of parallels. If the land slopes are uniform and the terraces can be constructed parallel, it eliminates some point rows. Most terraces are built for 4-row farming equipment.

Waterways and terraces go hand in hand. These farmers who are building terraces are also planning to shape and seed grass waterways. Other waterways will be shaped on the farms of Bob Peterson, Melvin Magnuson, John Hansen, Melvin Meierhenry and Harold Gathje. These waterways

Weather Too Cool; Close City's Pool

Ordinarily the Wayne municipal swimming pool would be open until Labor Day but this year the weather was too cool. Manager Rich Maurer closed the pool Sept. 1 due to lack of patronage.

It was that type of year. Never has the city had so many cool days and cool nights. As a result there were fewer adult and teenage swimmers than in previous years.

More little kids bought tickets but that was the only increase. The swimming team had a good year, winning the conference and every dual meet, almost all of the swimmers will be back another year.

Average daily attendance was over 110 in spite of cool weather. Maurer said there were no serious accidents and pool operation went smoothly.

Maurer was assisted by Rich Brown with Ken Ollis coaching the swimming team and George Zeimer also a life guard. Many others helped in various ways and the staff particularly appreciated the cooperation of the recreation board, city and city council.

A list of those earning Red Cross certificates in the various swimming classes will be published next week.

Mellick-Furlong Wedding Held in Wayne Sept. 5

Joanne Mellick, Omaha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mellick, Wayne, and Jim Furlong, Plattsmouth, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Furlong, Plattsmouth, were married Sept. 5 at First Methodist church, Wayne, in afternoon ceremonies. Rev. Cecil Bliss officiated at the ceremony.

Mrs. Merlin Linscott, Carroll, was soloist and Mrs. Merlin Brugger was organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of sheer organza and charming lace over taffeta. It featured a fitted bodice, scalloped square neckline trimmed with sequins and pearls, and long sleeves. The skirt was styled with tiers of organza trimmed with chantilly lace. Her veil of silk illusion was held by a cluster of three silk roses centered with seed pearls and trimmed with strands of tiny silk flowers. She carried a cascade of white pompons and pink sweet heart roses.

Maid of honor was Edith Mellick, Wayne, and bridesmaid was Rose Majorek, Omaha. They wore floor length gowns of royal and light blue taffeta. Each carried a colonial bouquet of white pompons accented with two shades of blue streamers.

Flowergirl was Kaye Otte, Carroll, and ringbearer was Donnie Otte. Best man was John Furlong, Denver, and groomsman was Ted McCormick, Denver. Ushers were Harold Mellick, Wayne, and Jim Houlebeck, Plattsmouth. A reception for 150 was held following the ceremony. Defense Loan Fund of $75,000 at WSC Available for Current Year Students

A National Student Defense Loan Fund of nearly $75,000 is available to Wayne State College students in the 1965-66 school year.

Nine-tenths of this sum comes from federal grants, the rest from contributions by organizations and individuals.

A report by Dr. Orvid Owens, director of student financial aids at WSC, shows 463 Wayne students have borrowed $341,275 from the fund since its beginning in 1959. Of these borrowers, 117 still are attending Wayne State.

Borrowers now out of college have repaid $53,963 on the principal of their loans. Fifteen have paid in full. Currently, only $12 in payments are past due.

Students who borrow from the fund begin repaying after they leave college. Those who go into public school teaching may cancel up to 50 percent of their loan, 10 percent for each of the first five years. To date $2,313 has been cancelled in this way.

RICHARD DAVIS, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Davis, Pilger, has entered the Merchant Marine academy, King's Point, N. Y. A 1965 graduate of PHS, Davis was nominated for the academy by Sen. Carl Curtis. He is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. George Peters, Wayne.

YOUNG GRANDMOTHER who went to beauty school and then planned her own beauty shop is shown in the modernistic shop she is opening at Concord. The picture with the rocking chair shows part of the waiting room which is done in an Oriental motif.

Grandmother Opens Concord Business

A Dixon woman with four grown children and six grandchildren is opening a new business in Concord Sept. 18. The opening might have been earlier except she had to go to school to qualify for the work.

Mrs. Noel Isom graduated in January from Ellis Beauty School, Sioux City. Since that time she has been busy getting a building on Concord's Main street ready for opening as Toot's Beauty shop.

The result is a great treat to the eye. If the customers come out transformed in beauty as much as the building has been, Mrs. Isom will have performed a minor miracle.

In the first place she took a building which had served as a harness shop years ago. It still had living quarters in the back but had deteriorated through years of disuse. Weeds had grown up and it was a total eyesore.

Now in place of an eyesore she has a sight for sore eyes. Inside it is one of the most attractive beauty salons this writer has seen in any small town. Outside it is now a credit to Concord's business district.

After her children were grown, Mrs. Isom harbored a desire to do something more than just keep house. She had cut hair for friends for years so she decided to go to beauty school and open a beauty shop.

In a small town, her ideas were big. She put in a new equipment, installed a new awning on the outside, had the harness shop exterior painted, put in new windows and doors, cleaned the yard, had acoustical ceiling installed, had new tile flooring put in and added "rain-down" plank walls.

Although the building had been a harness shop, it had also housed a safe in one room. This she changed into a supply room. She took some of the old-fashioned cast-iron stools and with an eye for beauty converted them into new elegant chairs of paint.

Her three-room shop now includes a modernistic waiting room with push upholstery, pictures she painted, wrought iron flower stands and tables, Chinese fans and a definite Oriental motif. Her shop is equipped in the newest equipment for two operators and has modernistic furnishings throughout.

Mrs. Isom did all the refinishing, reupholstering, curtain sewing, and color planning herself. In fact, she was so worn out when the shop was finally ready she decided to take a vacation before opening it.

Sept. 18 she will have open house to show off a shop that is not only a showplace in any size town. The Bread Basket cafe across the street will cater the opening with coffee and rolls. A coffee urn will be the door prize.

Appointments are being accepted now and Sept. 19 she will go to work manufacturing, giving facials, doing eyebrow arching work, tinting, rinsing, hair shampooing and doing other work a beautician does.

Welcome Students!

Hope you enjoyed your vacation and we are looking forward to seeing you soon.

Mix together: 1 1/2 cups sugar, 1/2 cup corn oil, 3 eggs, 1/2 cup buttermilk, 1 tsp. vanilla. Pour into an ungreased 13" x 9" x 2" pan and bake at 350 for about 40 minutes. Cut into 24 squares while still warm and pour the following sauce over the cake.

SAUCE: 1 cup butter or margarine (1 stick), 1 cup sugar, 1/2 cup all purpose flour, 1 tsp. each soda and salt, 1 tsp. each cinnamon, allspice, nutmeg, 5 cups cooked, pitted, mashed prunes, 1 cup chopped nuts.

Cook, stirring constantly until boiling: 15 cup butter or margarine (1 stick), 1 cup sugar, 1/2 cup all purpose flour, 1/2 cup soda.

Super Tip... This cake is also good cold.

EARS BACK, a hairless calf on the Gilbert Rauss farm northeast of Wayne displays some of the differences that sets it apart from other calves. The photograph did not get this close, Lyman studio just enlarged the calf.

Calf Not Jumping Any Fences So Far

A heifer calf owned by Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Rauss northeast of Wayne is not jumping fences yet but if it does they will not be surprised. The calf in many ways looks and acts more like a deer than a cow.

The calf's mother is a Hereford and the father is an Angus but the calf does not look much like either. Taming with other calves on the Rauss farm, its differences are apparent.

It has a fine-featured head in comparison with most other calves' heavier heads. Its legs are skinny and when it runs it holds its tail straight up in the air.

More curious than other calves about strangers, it cannot be approached due to its being "jumpy" and a bit leary. It has no hair at all like the other calves do but has a covering of fuzz, heavy fuzz, but not hair.

Mr. and Mrs. Rauss, on the Wakefield route in Dixon county, bought the calf at Pilger with a bunch of others that are quite normal. They're getting used to strange goings-on with their cows about the same week they acquired the deerford calf.

Plant Loses Track of Season; Blooms Again

A flowering shrub on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Malvin Bruns south of Wayne has its seasons mixed up. It bloomed on schedule last spring and now has bloomed again.

Ordinarily snowball plants bloom in the spring and then forget about the blooming bit and grow. Not this one—it has bloomed three times in 1965.

Mrs. Bruns said the plant, now five years old, had bloomed only in the spring until this year. It bloomed as it was supposed to in spring, surprised everyone three weeks ago with more flowers and the past week came up with a third set.

In Nebraska, after a day's fishing beer's the one... for good taste, good fun

Wherever you fish for sport—on the ocean, by the booming surf, or on some quiet country pond, it's great at the end of the day to head for a rewarding glass of beer. While you're talking over the ones that got away, or pan-frying the ones that didn't, you enjoy the hearty taste and cool refreshment only a glass of beer can give you so well. Yes, whatever your sport—bowling or strolling, golfing or gardening—a frosty glass of beer makes a naturally great accompaniment.

EAST GERMANY was "home" for almost two months for Mrs. Maria Lippman and Heidi, shown above in their farm home near Wayne. Mrs. Lippman's sons were in school at the time the picture was taken.

'County Farmers Do Not Know What Complete Control by Government Is Like'

Wayne county farmers do not know what complete control by the government is like," according to Mrs. Maria Lippman. She said they should see what farming is like behind the Iron Curtain to know what full control is like.

Mrs. Lippman should know. She and her three children have just returned from Germany where they spent seven weeks visiting behind the Iron Curtain in the East section controlled by the Russians. She saw much more than the short-time visitor to that sector sees.

East German farmers get paid by the hour by the government. All the work is done with communal machinery owned by groups. One tractor may have to serve eight farmers. When the crops are harvested they are turned over to the government and no payment is received for they have already been paid their hourly wage.

If a farmer has milk cows, the government gets the milk. If a cow has a calf, the calf belongs to the government. Each cow has a "quota" to make in producing milk and farmers feed them generously, hoping they will over-produce their quota and they can keep the excess.

The picture Mrs. Lippman paints of life inside East Germany is not pretty. In this day and age it is difficult to conceive conversations where names are not mentioned for fear someone will find out something by eavesdropping, where people are ordered to work at certain jobs or face removal—not to be seen again—and where a man is accused and assumed guilty with no effort made to let him defend himself.

Mrs. Lippman, a native of Germany, was in one village where a fine man was accused of a crime. His accuser was a top communist. The man was jailed, his wife was overcome with grief and killed herself. He was brought in chains to her funeral and Mrs. Lippman watched as the whole village wept as he broke away to shout a few words as his wife's body was lowered into the grave. He was seized and taken back to jail still in chains.

There is danger in telling children about God. If someone asks where they heard such things, they innocently might tell on parents who will face persecution. Those born since 1940 have been indoctrinated with communism and know little of the outside world.

But the fact that they have been kept from the West has not stopped some. Along the borders their TV antennas must not face the west but they hide other antennas which are facing west and they watch western TV. Children of all ages begged Mrs. Lippman to find a way for them to get out of the country.

If you are over 65, you can leave East Germany and "good riddance" for the communists don't want to take care of them and want only the able-bodied. However, if the older people came back to visit, western items are taken from them by border guards. Mrs. Lippman once again wept as she saw elderly people losing the few things they wanted to take back into East Germany where they could live near loved ones.

Mrs. Lippman's husband, Richard died in April of 1954. He had come to the United States in 1930 from the eastern part of Germany and she had come from the northern part in 1951. They met at Pilger, married, and had three children, Rick 8, Ron 6 and Heidi 2½.

After her husband died, Mrs. Lippman decided she would take their children to Germany to see her husband's relatives and hers. She planned for months and last May left by plane from Omaha for Frankfurt, going first to East Germany to see her husband's relatives.

Crossing the border, she asked if the soldiers going through the train were Russian. East German or West German. A lady nearby indicated she should not inquire. Newspapers from the west were taken away from the people and many other items from the west were taken from them.

Thorough checks were made by the soldiers but embarrassment came to some women when it was decided they should be checked further. A policeman was brought in, the women taken away to disrobe and more checking for items, especially western money, was done.

Their train stopped overnight in Leipzig and they stayed at "Hotel Moscow" at $18 a night, "without even a cup of coffee," Mrs. Lippman complained. After the train ride, she rode with relatives in a little car that carried six packed in like fish.

Chuckholes shook them up constantly and the relatives explained that there were not enough people to do the work. Within 24 hours Mrs. Lippman had to report at a police station where she had to pay $1.25 America money for each day she planned to stay in that country. She paid until June 19 and was told if she stayed longer she would have to pay more to get out.

Then started her life in East Germany during which she found out how long it takes to get a car (eight years), how high priced some items are and how college training is offered free to those who select the right fields.

Her story is a long and interesting one. Another article concerning life in East Germany will be carried next week in The Herald.

Farm... Wild Life

“I’ve had my automatic shotgun only fifteen years. What do you mean I need another one!”

We mean we’ve made the Remington Model 1100.

Agreed, you’ve got a good gun. So why switch? Because the Remington Model 1100 is a better one.

□ The 1100 is built to be more rugged, more dependable, more satisfying to shoot than any other automatic.

□ It’s built to give you less “kick” than any other shotgun made. All the power is there. But a new system of gas operation handles recoil so efficiently you feel it far less.

greatest stress are reinforced; others, highly polished to cut friction. Areas of greatest impact are specially cushioned. Receiver is machined from a solid block of steel. The rich American walnut stock is protected by Du Pont-developed RKW finish, toughest ever put on a gun. Even the metal finish is extra rust-resistant.

□ It’s built for performance. An 1100 holds three to five shots, handles all 2¾-inch loads (even baby magnums) without the slightest adjustment.

And the modern, streamlined profile and perfect balance give you superb pointing and swing.

□ What we’re saying is that the Model 1100 is built for you. In 12, 16 and 20 gauges. All standard chokes and barrels. Also in trap, skeet and magnum models. From just $149.95*.

"You know," Ralph said, pushing his hat on to the back of his head and eyeing the fence-row, "that wildlife plan was one of the best things that ever happened to me. Finding out that you can have wildlife around and still farm efficiently was a great discovery."

We've heard Ralph often enough on this pet subject of his to take the liberty of anticipating the points of his "field lecture."

Next he'll tell us about the pheasants that nest in the cover patches, and he'll say, "My 13-year-old son shot two cock pheasants one day last fall and the look on his face was worth a million dollars."

Then he'll tell about hearing the bobwhite whistle to each other, and he'll say that there isn't a finer sound to calm a man's nerves.

And it is a certainty that he will mention that his wife has burned a pie crust on more than one occasion since she took up bird watching. "She gets so much enjoyment out of watching them," Ralph will say, "that I don't mind a burned crust once in a while."

There isn't much doubt left in your mind after you have heard Ralph's lecture a time or two, that he and his family have enriched their lives by doing a few things to enhance farm wildlife.

That is only part of the story, however. Other people have been affected by Ralph's wildlife plan, particularly those of us who live in the city and have no recreation land of our own.

Of course, we could go to the public hunting grounds, and we often do, but each year these areas become more crowded and the competition reaches ridiculous points on occasion. Despite ambitious land acquisition programs by the Federal government and in some states, the fact is that private landowners control over 80 per cent of the wildlife area available for hunting.

A new awareness of this fact is leading to developments that promise to help both the land owner and the land user. Most recently have been proposed plans of incentive payments to farmers who open their lands to public recreation uses.

The covey of quail popped from beneath our feet as we rounded the edge of the fence-row. The birds buzzed safely between our shots and sailed out of sight over a slight rise.

"Will you look at those quail fly off with their hearts shot out," Ralph Downey shouted. "It must be some kind of a miracle."

If there was any miracle about those quail, it was only that they were there for us to shoot at, and not that they were flying off with holes in their hearts. Six years ago we could have stomped Ralph's farm until the cows came home, and not likely seen a single quail. Today, the covey we had just flushed was the third of the morning, and we knew there would be more.

What was behind the great improvement in our hunting? Well, quite a number of things, and all of them started one day a half-dozen years ago when Ralph got to wondering why he wasn't hearing quail as often as he used to. He asked the local game manager about it, and the result was a wildlife plan that was tailored to Ralph's farm.

The game manager, working with agricultural agencies, drew up a plan that included shrub planting along fence rows, cover patches in out-of-the-way corners, and small food areas here and there.

"Some of the things the plan called for," Ralph recalls, "seemed to go against the trend toward big, clean-up on the modern farm, but I was told that there would be no loss of production and so I decided to go ahead."

"Now, look at that fence-row here," Ralph said, gesturing at the place where we had flushed the quail. "Six years ago that was nothing but steel posts and barbed wire. There wasn't enough shelter for an ant."

"As you can see it now harbors a great variety of birds, and provides travel lanes for all sorts of wild creatures. Last year my boys and I shot over 25 rabbits out of this fence-row alone."

The fence-row that Ralph spoke about was of multiflora rose, a shrub that is popular as wildlife shelter. The shrubs had been provided at cost by a state nursery, and Ralph had received planting help from the high school agricultural

Nothing gives you a better chance of stopping disease before complications set in

When your feeders are feverish, breathing fast and running at the nose, is it shipping fever?

Maybe. Maybe not.

Could be terminal pneumonia. Or pleurisy. Or rhinitis.

Truth is, symptoms as broad as these can fit any one of several diseases.

Worse yet, each disease may be complicated by the presence of several different organisms.

Only a lab examination can identify the specific germs. But that can take 24 hours or more.

You don't want to sit on your hands all that time. So do this: Shoot your cattle the minute they appear sick with one treatment that gives you the best chance of solving your problems.

That's Terramycin Injectible Solution.

Terramycin delivers the broadest possible bacterial spectrum in farm drugs today.

And the highest possible blood levels.

In the fastest possible time.

And it maintains these blood levels longer than any other broad-spectrum drug.

Terramycin Injectible Solution gives you an excellent chance of being halfway home on a cure even before you get the exact diagnosis.

(And even if Terramycin turns out not to be the drug of choice against the primary disease, it gives you today's strongest protection against secondary complications.)

Speaking in favor of such a plan, an official of the National Wildlife Federation said, "The Federation for many years has supported the basic concept that land held out of agricultural production by Federal programs should be maintained in conservation practices or devoted to uses of public benefit.

"We believe most American taxpayers, including many farmers, find something distasteful in offering cash to keep land idle. Diverting unneeded acres into beneficial uses which do not complicate problems of surplus production are much more acceptable practices."

As a prelude to such a plan, agricultural and conservation agencies have for years been urging and assisting with plans that encourage farm wildlife

In Wisconsin, J. R. Smith, chief of the game management division, said several years ago,

"The forces threatening wildlife range all over the world are economic in nature, and unless wildlife can be recognized as an economic asset on private lands, it will continue to disappear. In many cases the uncontrolled use of private lands by hunters hastens this disappearance. The long-term question which a sportsman must decide is not really whether he is for or against free hunting, but whether or not he wants wildlife produced on the largest area of land in the United States."

Smith said that development of a stable program that will interest landowners in maintaining and developing wildlife habitat is the only way to provide hunting on millions of acres of land.

The "free hunting" which Smith mentions is, as the term implies, use of private land for hunting without the payment of a fee.

Until such time as this fee is forthcoming from the government in the form of incentive payments, many farmers have successfully worked out a fee program that charges the hunter for use of the land. Ralph is one of them.

"I certainly didn't go in to this to make money," he said, "but when the word got around town about the hunting out here, I simply had to work out some way of controlling hunters on my land.

"I talked to some of the hunters about charging a fee and they were in total agreement with it. They pay willingly, knowing that there is good hunting on the farm and that I won't allow so many people to hunt at one time that there is no elbow room.

"A lot of the fellows have offered to help me if I need a hand with shrubbery planting and such things. I've made some good friends, and I've even made a little money from this thing."

Most of all, however, Ralph appreciates the pleasing character that his farm has taken on since he put his wildlife plan into operation.

"I found that many of the things that the Soil Conservation Service and the state conservation boys recommended were things that were just good land practices," Ralph said. "We worked on stripcropping, field borders, windbreaks, hedges, tree planting and 'odd area' management, and all of these are just good common sense things to do to keep your farm from washing or blowing away."

"Watch it," Ralph said suddenly as one of the dogs stiffened on point.

The hunter from the city and the landowner moved slowly up behind the rigid dog. The three of them were approaching the climax of an agreement to help each other. They were excited and pleased with each other, except that the dog was just a little concerned about those dead birds that flew off when the last covey was flushed.

"It'll take a lot of talking to convince me your shells are any better than the ones I'm using now."

We'll take just three words—Remington "Power Piston".

 We'd be the first to admit it. Your shells will knock down the birds they reach. But Remington "Express" loads with "Power Piston" reach more birds. With more shot. And the "Power Piston"—Remington's remarkable, new wad column—is what does it. "Power Piston" actually gives you a more effective pattern for any given choke, at any given distance. It starts by eliminating pattern-ruining shot deformation. The shot never touches the barrel. And the "cushion" construction at the base reduces shot-against-shot deformation. The "Power Piston" carries the shot through the barrel, then falls away letting the shot fly straight and true, with no out-of-round flyers. Result: A lot more shot reaches the target. (It's as if you were shooting magnums!) "Power Piston" also gives you another great advantage. The "cushion" at the bottom actually reduces the recoil effect of your gun. Reduces the chance of a bird-missing finch. You can get all this in 12, 16, 20 and 28 gauge Remington "Express" loads. All with famous Remington plastic-shell construction.

1½ cups pancake mix ½ teaspoon vegetable herb blend

- 3 cups mashed, cooked sweet potatoes
- Margarine

Trim fat from pork and fry out in a skillet; remove solid pieces. Cut pork into 1-inch cubes and brown with sliced onions in the hot fat. Drain off excess fat. Dissolve bouillon cubes in 1 1/2 cups hot water and add to meat. Sprinkle with 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1/4 cup brown sugar, 1 teaspoon nutmeg and 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon. Cover and cook over low heat until meat is nearly tender, about 1 1/2 hours. Add undrained apples, reserving 4 wedges for top of casserole. Cover and continue cooking over low heat until meat is tender, about 30 minutes. Spoon off any excess fat and thicken mixture with cornstarch which has been mixed to a paste with 2 tablespoons cold water. Pour into a 2 quart casserole. Season sweet potatoes with 1/2 teaspoon salt, a dash of pepper, 3 tablespoons brown sugar and 2 tablespoons margarine; spoon in ring around edge of casserole. Garnish center of casserole with reserved apple wedges. Bake, uncovered, at 350° F. until potatoes are lightly browned, about 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings.
