Marra Gets Contract for New Roof on High School

Marra Home Improvement Co. Wayne, was awarded the contract for a new roof on the Wayne high school Monday. Work is expected to get underway as soon as the material arrives.

Four Wayne firms were asked to submit bids and only two did so. Of the two, the school board chose the $5,253 bid of Marra.

The local firm proposes fiberglass asphalt 325-pound shingles with a 10-year warranty and a high fireproof rating. All of the "old" high school will be re-roofed including a flat deck which cannot be seen from the ground. The flat deck on the newer portion to the west is not included.

The board also discussed the Nov. 23 meeting of all Wayne county school board presidents called by Co. Supt. Gladys Porter. At this meeting a list of candidates will be named to be submitted to the governor for appointment on the area operating board for educational service units.

LB 301 provides this new unit of school assistance. One board member from each county in a unit is to serve a two-year term and four members-at-large from the district will serve four-year terms.

Attorney Buck Bornhoft met with the board to discuss the appraisal price set on the Rohrke land. A special meeting has been called for Nov. 8 at which all members are to be present so a final decision on the matter can be made and the course of action determined.

Supt. Francis Haun gave a detailed report on the financial situation of the district, accentuating the situation regarding the school bond issue, where it stands and what the plans are for the future. A review of financing last term was also presented.

The superintendent's report showed how much money could be expected through regular tax channels, through federal aid, through the bond issue and from other sources. Expenses, known and contemplated, were included so the board had a final figure on exactly how much would be available for new school construction.

Members of the board are planning to be represented at the state school board meeting in Lincoln Nov. 22. It has not been determined yet who will be the representatives from District 17.

Rathbone Appears Twice on Campus

Shakespeare, Sherlock and Rathbone — there's a combination. Wayne will be treated to all three Thursday and Friday as renowned Shakespearean actor Basil Rathbone comes for a college special program.

Basil Rathbone

Basically, his visit is designed as "An Evening of Shakespeare," with Rathbone presenting some roles from the Bard's poetic drama. The program begins at 8 p.m. in Ramsey Theater of the Peterson Fine Arts Center. A special program.

The Spook Speaks

A Wayne businessman left his car keys in the switch when he looked the car doors while on a hunting trip. A friend had the keys out in a jiffy, using a device and methods that made friends wonder at his aptitude for breaking into vehicles where every window is closed and every door locked.

Another Wayne businessman visiting friends was shown a dress made for the friends' daughter. He remarked that it looked a little low-cut in front. His faith in feminine girls was restored when he learned the dress was a jumper and was worn only with a blouse.

Bill Galbraith Honored

Bill Galbraith, Boemer, newly elected vice commander of the National American Legion, was honored at a homecoming and victory party at the Indian Trails Country club, Boemer, Tuesday night when over 300 gathered from all over the area to confer with Area A Commander Ray Steffensmeier, Boemer, in charge of arrangements. Mr. and Mrs. Chris Bartholz, Wayne, were among those attending.

Federal Fund Offers Money For New Use

Federal money totaling $52,000 is available for Wayne county, including $38,000 for District 17, but no projects are in sight for them yet. The money is specifically allocated for the poverty-keyed program.

Because the use of funds is limited, there is a chance the districts may not choose to participate. If there is no project specified by the government as meeting requirements, no use will be made of the money.

The board of District 17, for instance, has no projects designated that will fill the bill. An investigation will be made to determine needs and if areas served are found, action will be initiated.

Under the elementary and secondary education act of 1965, money is not for general use but for programs aiding educationally-deprived children.

Thus if remedial reading, speech therapy or special need programs are to be implemented (as in slum areas of some cities) they would come under the program and money could be used. If no need for such programs exists, the money will simply not be used.

Supt. Francis Haun was in Lincoln Monday to confer with officials regarding the ESEA provisions. He said Tuesday the local district has no projects under consideration at present which would comply with regulations for funds uses.

Wayne Youth Wins Trip to National Meet in Chicago

Maurice Boeckenhauer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boeckenhauer, Wayne, is one of 31 Nebraska 4-H members who have won trips to the National 4-H club congress in Chicago Nov. 28-Dec. 2.

Members were selected for outstanding accomplishments in various projects and will get expense-paid trips. International Harvester is paying Boeckenhauer's way.

Brent Skinner, Wisner, is another winner. The 16-year-old son of the Jess Skinners will have his way paid by Wilson & Co.

Boeckenhauer has been in 4-H work nine years with projects in commercial lambs, breeding sheep, beef breeding and commercial beef. His agricultural achievements won the award for him.

His sister, Juanita, won a trip

Maurice Boeckenhauer

in 1955 and his brother, Lauren, won the award in 1962. Another sister, Karen, won a trip to Camp Minnawaca in 1963.

Maurice has developed a herd of 110 ewes and four Shorthorn cows through livestock projects. He has fitted 150 to 300 lambs each of the past four years and has fed six calves.

In other activities he has been president and news reporter for his local 4-H club served as junior leader, is treasurer of the Wayne County 4-H council, is in the upper one-third of his class scholastically, served on the student council and is a member of band and choir.

Courthouse, Post Offices Will Close; Next Week's Paper Comes Out Earlier

The first of two hectic weeks in November is coming up. Nov. 11 and Nov. 25, both Thursdays, are holidays and will affect public services as well as newspaper publishing.

Both the courthouse and area post offices will be closed Nov. 11 and Nov. 25. There will be no rural or city delivery in any of the area towns, mail will be distributed to boxes, no window service will be offered and dispatch of mail will be on a Sunday schedule.

Postmasters are also advising that packages and letters going overseas for Christmas and traveling by surface transportation should be sent by Nov. 15. Assistance in planning mailing can be obtained from any postal employee.

Correspondents of The Herald are advised that news items should be in by Saturday of this week to insure getting in. The newspaper will be published a day early this coming week and anything coming in after Saturday may have to be held over.

Advertisers are asked to get their copy ready early also. With the Christmas shopping season about to start and another holiday in two weeks, the "big push" should be underway in promoting sales.

Dixon Board Meets Regularly in Shop

When the Dixon village board is in session it is usually in a barber shop. That's a good place to cut costs, clip bills, shave expenses and reflect on the town's needs, according to some board members.

In the summer the board meets in an unheated building but when colder weather moves in, the barber (who is a member of the board) holds the meetings in his shop. Monday night a routine session of the board was held.

Frank Tomason (the barber) is chairman of the board and executive mayor Lowell Saunders is treasurer. Donald Knoll clerk and John Young and J. C. McCaw board members.

The board voted Monday to clean the village dump on the west edge of town. When it is cleaned (this week) it is planned to put fences around it.

Street improvements also came up for consideration. The board has decided to put in a culvert and repair the street north from School's Red and White store.

Routine discussions of other town matters and approval of bills presented comprised the rest of the session.

Officials Say Wayne County Tax Levies Figured Properly

Officials of Wayne and Wayne county said Wednesday as far as they knew Wayne county's tax levies were figured properly and took into account a reduced valuation on rural land. State Tax Commissioner George Dworak has indicated otherwise.

Wire service stories said Dworak told tax assessors in Thurston and Wayne counties, municipalities which did not recompute their levies after the state board action (revising assessed valuations) will find that their levies will not raise enough money for municipal operations.

County Assessor Henry Arp was in Lincoln for the meeting so could not be contacted. However, County Clerk C. A. Bard said "I don't know about Thurston county but if Wayne county people pay their taxes well, be all right."

According to Bard, the Wayne county levies were made after the state had lowered rural valuations 14 per cent in the county and therefore are correct. Rural (urban) property was not revalued in the revision.

City Clerk Howard Witt said the city of Wayne had no valuation changes to contend with since as far as he knew all revisions were on rural land. He said the county board of school district and other levies on the basis of stated needs.

Witt also said the urban valuation was left as it was and the rural valuation was reduced. However, he said only the county officials would know whether their levies were properly set or not.

It is possible some Wayne county municipalities may have been included in the revision as a "rural" area and thus sustained a lowered valuation. However, no instances of this are known.

The state board of equalization revised assessed values on real estate in July. Clerk Bard said the county assessor, Arp, followed the proper procedure and used the new valuations which were then used for figuring the levies.

A call was placed to Dworak's office to get more information from the state level but no one at that office would offer any comment on Dworak's statement or the situation in general. Someone was to have called the Herald by noon Wednesday from the tax commissioner's office in Lincoln but at the time this was written no call had come through.

Laurel Man Misses Chance for Money

Arthur Young, Laurel, did not use $100 Thursday. However, he did lose a chance to gain $100 by not being present when his name was called.

Many shoppers were in town taking advantage of bargains and hoping to hear the right name called. Because Young was not here, the person whose name is called this week could win $150.

Pleasant weather has held on for another week and merchants are stocking up regularly for the Christmas rush. This Thursday night is as good a time as any to come in, look around and maybe even buy.

Among new fiction books are: "Sarkhan" by Lederer; "Rabbi" by Noah Gordon; "P. S. Wilkinson" by W. Bryan; and "Second Generation" by Williams. Non-fiction books just added are: "Second Spring and Two Potatoes" by Ika Chase; "World Aflame" by Billy Graham;

"The I Hate to Housekeep Book" by Peg Bracken; "A Gift of Prophecy" by Ruth Montgomery; "Garden Digest" by Amber; "The Inner Light" by A. Weisse; and "Architectural Wonder of the World" by E. Brown, the story of Nebraska's state capital.

Almost any day of the week rural teachers can be seen returning library materials and obtaining new supplies for eager users. Teachers from Stanton, Dixon and Cedar counties also make use of the facilities and material.

Mrs. Koplin said children are not the only readers who will benefit from a visit to the library. Several new adult books have been added recently.

Dr. Dale Flowerday, NU agronomist at Lincoln, will be master of ceremonies. He will also moderate a panel where questions from the audience will be answered.

Denzil Clegg, Northeast station superintendent, reports the clinic is part of the 75th anniversary celebration of Belden's First National bank. Officials of the bank feel pastures are "forgotten acres" and want to focus attention on the importance of productive pastures.

Police Chief Tells of Problems on Two Levels

Chief of Police Vern Fairchild was the guest speaker at the Monday noon meeting of the Wayne Kiwanis club in the Hotel Morrison. He told of problems of police departments on the local level and the national level.

Problems Wayne officers have are not unusual although problems vary from city to city. Wayne does not have some problems other cities do, but some cities do not have the problems Wayne does.

Two guests of the club were John Clearhout and Gray Sterling, Omaha. They are executives of Mid-America council of Boy Scouts and "Scoutmaster of the Air" respectively. They were present as guests of Bob Carhart.

Farm Donor Dies Sunday at Laurel

C. D. "Neal" Haskell, the man who gave the farm at Concord for use as an agricultural research and experiment station, died Sunday at his home near Laurel. Funeral services were held Tuesday in Laurel with burial in Wasketon.

Haskell was honored by the state of Nebraska for his service to the area in donating the land by having the new administration building named after him. He also received the outstanding achievement award in agriculture in 1962 and has been honored by the University of Nebraska.

He is survived by his wife, two daughters, two sons, a brother, a sister, nine grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. An obituary appears on an inside page.

Supt. Francis Haun of Wayne will be featured speaker for the program starting at 8:15 p.m. in the City auditorium. Cleo Sharer will be master of ceremonies and the auxiliaries are lining up a short musical program.

The American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans, World War I Veterans and auxiliaries of these are in charge. All feel that a yearly observance of the day is in order.

An invitation is extended to the public to attend. Following the short program, refreshments will be served free of charge.

A beef cattle nutritionist, Dr. Walter Woods, will present research information on growing cattle on pasture. Jim Wilson, Polk farmer, will give information on his experiences with growing pasture legumes and grasses. He is known as a farmer, seed salesman, writer and productive-pasture-booster.

Frank Weible President of Winside Community Club

Frank Weible is the new president of the Winside Community club. Co-owner of Schnode-Weible trucking, he was elected by other members of the board of directors.

Walter Bleich and Weible are the two new members of the board. Holding over as members are Cliff Burris and Lowell Van Slyke. Outgoing members are Dave Warnemunde and Dr. Donald Vrba.

The Winside civic organization is planning two projects. One is a railing around the bandstand in the park. At present the bandstand is flat and anyone can walk off in four different directions if not careful.

The annual free pancake feed is being planned for Tuesday, Dec. 7. Dave Warnemunde, Dale Langenberg and George Voss are chairmen of the three divisions which will handle the services.

Also coming up is observance of the Christmas season. Just how extensive the observance will be has not been determined.

DISTRICT 5 pupils with their teacher, Mrs. Nancy Jo Baier, were among the first to visit the Wayne library to inspect the new books for book week. The pupils (not in order shown) are Lynn and Holly Roggenbach, Cindy and Clark Schmidt, Janet Splittgerber, Terry Hawkins and Bobby and Clark Reinhardt.

Personal Tax Due

County Treasurer Leona Bahde reports personal taxes are now due and the first half will be delinquent Dec. 1. Notices have been sent out the past week informing residents of the amount due on personal property (not including vehicles which are taxed when licensed). After Dec. 1 the remainder due will draw interest at 7 per cent.

WHS Choral Groups Plan Concert Sunday Afternoon

Over 180 young people from Wayne junior and senior high schools will present a concert Sunday, Nov. 7, at 2:30 p.m. in the Wayne City auditorium. There is no admission charge and the public is invited.

Clayton Southwick, vocal music instructor for the schools, said the feature groups will be a choir of around 95 voices from the sophomore, junior and senior classes and a choir of about 86 from the seventh and eighth grades.

The program will consist of a variety of music with "nothing very heavy". Most of the pieces to be sung are religious, secular and other familiar songs.

In the meantime, the instrumental division of the high school is working hard, too. Instructor Don Schumacher is getting the marching band ready for a Nov. 13 appearance at a marching band contest in Lincoln.

All-state selections from Wayne are to be announced next week. The junior high band is preparing for an appearance between halves of the Wayne-Pierce football game Friday night.

College Foundation Reveals Plans for FM Radio Station

Shortly after the first of the year, a new FM station may take the air if all plans go as scheduled. The Wayne State Foundation has plans for operating such a station from the campus of the college.

Studios for such an operation were included in the new fine arts building. Included are two glassed-in control booths and a combination studio and concert hall.

An FM station with 10 watts of power will serve an area within 10 to 15 miles of the transmitter. It would be non-commercial and could be received only on FM channels.

Serving a dual function, the radio station would offer good music and programs to the area and would give students a chance to learn about operating such facilities. The college has a radio-TV course but has had nothing to offer in the way of practical experience.

WSF has worked on the project the last three years, although the idea has been under consideration for several years. Not requiring state funds, it would be an answer to requests from students and faculty members for such a service.

Approval is being sought from the Federal Communications Commission and an initial appropriation of $7,000 has been made by the WSF. Bids on equipment will be sought as soon as licensing is approved.

The FM studios will give students a chance to get experience. Two faculty members, Dr. Frank LaBan and Dr. Carleton Benz, are already experienced in radio station operation. The department of speech would operate the station but all students at WSC would be eligible to participate in station operation.

In other action, the WSF announced it will make available $86,000 in national defense student loans. The foundation will furnish $6,000 and federal matching funds will be allocated on a 9 to 1 basis.

This is the biggest NFS function. Over 1,000 student loans have been made in the last three years alone.

Also set up was a new scholarship program which makes available nine $100 scholarships each year. Needy students who represent WSC in activities other than athletics (debate, music, etc.) will be eligible. Freshmen and present students will be eligible according to need.

The board also has smaller funds for which appropriations were made recently. The big three right now are the FM station, the defense loans and the new "activity scholarships".

WAYNE HIGH'S Bob Reeg plowed through for several yards on this play against Laurel.

Determined Devils Score First but Lose at Laurel

Wayne High gave Laurel all they could do during the first half, but the Devils were unable to score. The Bears' fast-moving offense in the second half as Laurel won their 27th consecutive game 34-0 at Laurel Wednesday night.

The Blue and White staged an impressive first half both on offense and defense, and the highly rated Laurel team held only a seven-point advantage at halftime. All the honors of the second half went to Laurel as they passed for two touchdowns and ran for two more.

Wayne led the loss, but gained possession of the football when Bob Reed recovered a fumble that resulted when he tackled Laurel's Leroy Jones on the kickoff return. Wayne was in control of the ball on their own 45-yard line, Reeg's fourth and five run was two yards short.

With time running out in the first quarter, Laurel again gained control of the ball on their own 11. On the first play Wayne got a big break when Reeg stole the ball and ran to the 13 before being tackled. It was only a matter of time before Wayne scored the first TD of the game. The score came with 3 seconds remaining in the first quarter when Reeg plunged over the middle. The extra point attempt failed, but Wayne led 6-0 as the first quarter came to a close.

Again in the second quarter a fumble appeared to set up a touchdown for Wayne when Don Skokan recovered a Bear fumble on Laurel's 30. The Devils failed to benefit, however, as they were faced with a fourth and 14 situation on the 34.

On fourth down, Laurel recovered a fumble that occurred on the exchange from center. The Bears then moved the ball 16 yards for Laurel's first TD of the night. Following an illegal procedure penalty, Laurel ran a fake kick play and passed for their extra point. With 6:05 left in the first half, Laurel led 7-6.

Laurel's kickoff was returned by George Sherry to the 47 where Wayne began a drive that ended 29 yards later on the 24 of Laurel.

Laurel's second TD came with 12 seconds remaining in the half when Dave Bingham passed 16 yards to Joe McCoy. The touchdown was the result of a drive that began on their own 24. The Bears demonstrated why they are highly ranked as they drove 76 yards in 53 seconds. The PAT was not good, but Laurel maintained a 13-6 lead as the half came to a close.

Laurel scored twice in the third quarter, once on an 18-yard pass from Bingham to McCoy, and the other on a one-yard smash following a 54-yard punt return by Jerry Schroeder. Both extra point at-

American Legion posts have been invited to bring their Junior players. Some posts do this as an extra treat for the effort the boys make during the summer. They get a lot out of it in the way of tips on how to play positions during the question and answer period.

Old time umpires and men and women fans of all ages are in-the game when Bingham again passed to McCoy. The TD followed a drive that originated on their own 17 and was completed with the 10-yard pass to McCoy. The extra point was not good, but Laurel's 39-6 lead was sufficient as the game ended with that score.

WHS Team Finishes Season Undefeated

The Wayne freshman-sophomore football season wound up a three-game season with a 19-7 win over Plainview at the practice field Monday. The team had gone unbeaten, defeating Wakefield and Madison in earlier tilts.

Previously the WHS freshmen lost their only game to Laurel 44-7. Harvey Hansen made all points, running 85 yards for the TD and carrying for the PAT. The reserves also lost their only game.

Monday, Coach Ron Carnes' Little Devils scored on runs of 50 and 85 yards by Hansen and 13 yards by Steve Keri. Dave Tietgen passed to Harry Lindner for the only extra point.

Among the highlights were fumble recoveries by Lindner, Merle Rasmussen and Hansen. Defensive standouts were LaVern Brown, Larry Magnuson, Dave Roberts, Doug Ritze and Gordie Jorgensen.

Emerson Beats Randolph Emerson-Hubbard Took the Measure of Randolph 21-7 Wednesday Night on the Ell Field. The Cardinals had taken a 7-0 lead in the first stanza and held on until the Pirates tied it in the third. Two more scores were made by the winners in the final period. Russ Morgan made 12 points, Butch Sorenson 6 and Wayne Oelken 3 for Emerson. Dick Hingat passed to Sorenson for a 17-yard TD. The Pirates go against Allen on the AHS field Friday.

Wildcats Talking 'Bowls' Although Two Tilts Left

Prospects of invitation to a bowl game for Wayne State whetted football enthusiasm on campus this week.

Enthusiasm already ran high after the Wildcats Saturday became co-champions of the Nebraska College conference. This developed from the Wildcats' 27-10 triumph over Hastings, spoiling the Bronco homecoming plus Peru's 14-13 upset of Kearney, at Peru.

The result was a three-way tie among Wayne, Kearney and Peru, all 1-1. Hastings finished at 1-3. Chadron at 0-4. Wayne gridgers also learned they are being considered to play in the Thanksgiving Day Mineral bowl game at Excelsior Springs, Mo.

That, however, comes after the remaining two Wayne games, and coach John Jennier's brew set out this week to embellish an already not-worthwhile season—and this makes themselves more attractive to Mineral Bowl officials. (Those six wins include a forfeit from St. Mary of the Plains, which broke its contract.)

Next outing for the Wildcats comes at 2 p.m. Saturday at Fremont. The foe is Midland, 5-2, for the season, currently sure of at least a tie for the Tri-State conference title.

This match will pit two top rushing teams among NAIA colleges in Nebraska. Midland's

After a futile Hastings series, falling short of a first down, Wayne marched to its second score on a 14-yard pass from Dean deBurr to Van Steekelberg. Wayne's next possession yielded a third TD, this on a deBurr to Cliff Schilling pass for 17. Kirby booted the point and Wayne had a 20-0 lead which lasted until halftime. sure the WHS squad winning the second place trophy in the Lewis and Clark conference. Hartington seems to have the title wrapped up following a win over Allen.

Football Game to Be Played Here Sunday

A football game in the city recreation league was scheduled Wednesday between the seventh-eighth grade and the WHS freshmen. If the game was close, the same teams will play Sunday at the baseball diamond at 2. Otherwise, the regular league games will be played then.

Wednesday of last week in the Hank Overin loop, Armbrusters beat Helgrens 13-2. Helgrens took the lead on a safety but Ted Armbruster ran 45 yards for one TD, scooted around and for 35 yards and another tally and passed to Jerry Titze for an extra point.

Thursday no regular games were played because of teachers' convention. Two 11-man teams played one long game with a 19-6 final score after a halftime 6-6 tie.

Armbrusters now leads its league with a 3-0-1 loss-less record. Helgrens is second with a 2-1-1 and Liveringhouses third at 0-3-0.

Plays With Broken Bone

Rocci Marr, WHS sophomore, has the desire, guts and determination needed to be a football player. Coach Ron Carnes said his attitude is the best as "Rocci really wants to play ball". Just how much Rocci wants to play was demonstrated Tuesday when Rocci played most of the game against Plainview. He had a broken thumb but Carnes never would have known it had another WHS player not informed him that Marr had injured himself. Rocci insisted he was all right and wanted to play the last few minutes but a doctor's examination revealed the broken digit and Rocci's football season ended a few minutes before the rest of the team's did.

Benson Winner of NCC Cross Country

A. D. Benson of Wayne State won the individual championship of the Nebraska College conference cross country here Saturday, but Kearney State retained its team title.

The Antelopes scored 28 points. Peru State was runnerup at 38, and Wayne carded 69.

Chadron State brought only four runners, but needed five to figure in team scoring.

Benson, sophomore from Sidney, Ia., toured the four-mile Wayne course in 21:08, five seconds ahead of runnerup Lu Fritz of Peru, Allen Schneider and Vincent Zavala, Jr., both of Kearney, finished third and fourth at 21:39 and 21:45. Larry Riley, Chadron, was fifth at 21:54.

The next five finishers were Dan Moore and Gary Mierau, Kearney; Jim Sprague, Jim O'Donoghue and Tim Hendricks, Peru.

The others: Carroll Kinnaman and Bill Young, Kearney; Dick Zapanarik, Ron Jones and Jim Watson, Peru; Richard Wasserburger, Chadron; Larry Wetter and Peter Strals, Wayne; Warren Christensen, Kearney; Bruce Hopkins and Dennis Schuyler, Wayne; Dave Davis and Dave Meyer, Chadron.

Winside Plays Final Grid Game This Week

The Winside Wildcats close out a successful football season Friday night on their home field with a conference tilt against Norfolk. Burns. The visitors are an up-and-down team that could surprise.

Coach Pete Kropp's Red and White gridgers have lost only one game this season, that to top-ranked Hartington. A win against the Norfolk eleven would give them one of the best records in recent years.

The win is also needed to in-

FISHING TIPS . . .

By VIRGIL WARD

World's Fresh-Water Fishing Champion

CHANNEL CAT FISHING

The channel catfish is considered the sportiest of the catfish family. While it will be found in slow moving mud-bottomed water, it actually prefers clear, clean, swift-moving streams and rivers. In lakes, it is generally found over clean, sandy or gravel bottoms and frequents the deeper portions. The channel catfish also does very well in farm ponds.

The catfish spawns only in running water and feeds on crawfish, small fish, insects and on just about any foul smelling concoction the catfisherman can dream up. The most effective bait, to date, is the over-ripe shrimp. Take a quart jar and place a dozen or so fresh shrimp inside. Drop in a piece of asafetida, twist the lid tightly on the jar and bury it in the ground for a week or ten days. When you're ready to go after old whiskers, dig up the jar, being careful to loosen the lid enough to release the pressure, and then take off like a rocket for your favorite fishing hole before the odor overtakes you.

Dallas Hunters Take Back Birds; Leave New Friends

A planeload of Dallas, Tex., hunters left Wayne Sunday afternoon after 2 1/2 days of hunting. They took home 112 dressed and frozen pheasants and left behind much good will.

The hunters landed Thursday night at the Wayne municipal airport in a DC-3, largest plane to ever use the airport. They spent their time until Sunday afternoon hunting the world-famous Nebraska pheasant.

Unlike some hunting parties, their principal interest was hunting, not drinking. No wild parties were held, respect was shown to local property where they were lodged and fed and in all respects they left a feeling of good will.

Members of World Samplers, Inc., they take a trip somewhere each month. Last month they flew to Spain, next month they will be hunting in Mexico.

They learned about Wayne's hunting through the Chamber of Commerce and the state game commission. Contacts were made previous to coming here and guides were provided.

Lauding the friendliness of the area, the good hunting and especially the farmers, they vowed to return again next year if possible. Farmers were considerate in all cases, but in one instance the farmer quit work in his milo field to help the hunters seek game.

They learned to like Nebraska and Nebraskans when the Cotton Bowl game was played Jan. 1. Mark them down as rooters for NU as they expressed the hope to see local folks down there next New Year's with the Huskers playing again in the Cotton Bowl.

There were 26 members of the party. They had a big feed presented by local businessmen at El Rancho one evening, were presented a life-size wooden pheasant by Mayor Chris Tietgen (a pheasant Mrs. Roy Corvill had painted) and left with many new friends.

Without a doubt this type of relationship can do nothing but good for both areas. Local people were impressed with the type of people coming here to hunt (25 men and one woman) and the hunters left with a new conception of Midwestern hospitality.

Granted they could have taken more birds home but they were not all top marksmen and they "shut the sky" many times as pheasants flew up and away without anyone hitting them. The sport was fun, in fact just what they had flown here to enjoy.

Congress Candidate Here

Bob Krall, Lincoln, republican candidate for congress from this district, was in the area the latter part of the week. He was making calls in Dakota, Dixon, Cuming, Burl, Thurston and Wayne counties. Krall is a candidate for the position now held by Clair Callan.

Wayne Schools Observing Week in Many Activities

Wayne public schools are planning open house Tuesday, Nov. 9, from 7 to 8:15 p.m. It is just one of the activities planned for the observance of American Education week, Nov. 7-13.

The local Parent-Teachers association is urging parents to attend and then go to the West elementary school for a program starting promptly at 8:15. Prior to this parents can visit rooms and talk with instructors.

At the PTA program, Supt. Francis Haun and Trn. Loren Park will present a short program on "American Education Week." A film and a coffee hour will follow.

American Education week is sponsored by the National Education association, American Legion, National Congress of PTA and the United States office of education. All join in urging both mothers and fathers to attend open house.

The PTA membership fee is one dollar and more members are sought. The fee includes the state, local and national membership and operating expense.

A salute to schools appears in the second section of this week's Herald. The pictures and articles were presented by local teachers.

WAYNE FIREMEN were not looking for pheasants Monday. They were in a shelterbelt putting out a brush fire which threatened to spread of the Penn farm north of town.

Two Rural Fires in Area First of Week

Fire did extensive damage on one farm and little damage on another in rural Wayne county the first of the week. Both fires took place Monday but firemen were not called to the larger of the two blazes.

At 2 a.m. Monday at George Claycomb farm northeast of Wayne found bales of hay afire. The first-cutting alfalfa, 800 bales of it, was destroyed before anything could be done.

The fire department was not summoned since the damage had already been done. Sheriff Don Weible was notified since it could not be determined whether the fire had been started or was a result of natural causes. Firemen checked the site that morning to make sure flames were out.

Monday afternoon firemen were called to the Robert and Cliff Penn places north of town. Brush had been set afire and everything was going fine until a south wind threatened to spread the fire into a shelterbelt. Firemen had the flames out shortly after arriving.

In Kemper Band Unit

Keith Rohrke, son of Fred Rohrke, Wayne, is a member of the marching band at Kemper Military school, Boonville, Mo. He appeared with the band at the American Royal stock show in Kansas City and at the Nebraska Missouri football game Saturday. He is also in other academic, military, athletic and general activities at the school.

Business Notes

Fred Rohrke, Wayne, has been appointed a registered sales representative for Financial Programs, Inc., Denver. John Pfeiffer, Omaha, divisional manager for the mutual fund organization, said Rohrke is the newest member of the sales organization.

Rathbone—

Friday the actor will adopt another role which he made famous in movies—that of Sherlock Holmes. This, however, will not be work, but pure joy, as the actor takes his place among fellow Baker Street Irregulars at a 2:30 reception in Conn. Library.

The BSI is an organization of highly irregular schedule and activity—the only regular thing being its devotion to the words and memory of Sherlock Holmes.

Some think Holmes was a fictional detective created by Arthur Conan Doyle. The Irregulars, Rathbone being a regular member, know better, and proclaim that Sherlock did live, and still lives at age 112 in England.

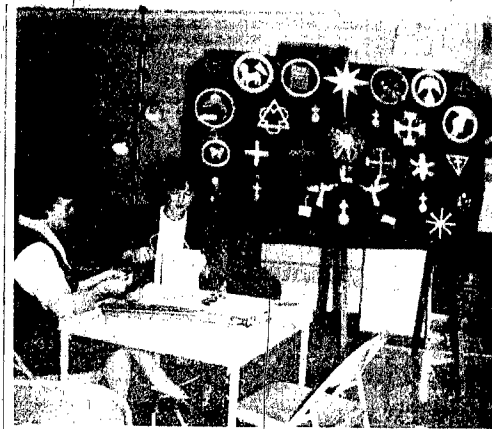

Further, they declare that Doyle did not write the Holmes fiction, but that Dr. John Watson wrote the Holmes truth, and Doyle was merely a literary agent.

The Irregulars hardly ever show any tongue in cheek while paying such homage to the Sherlock stories, properly called "canon."

With Rathbone, the Holmes portrayal, already booked to visit Wayne Thursday, the local Irregulars decided to have an irregular meeting Friday. Hence the 2:30 public reception, followed by a 7:30 private banquet in the Walnut room of the Student Center.

Richard Lesh, commandant of the local BSI, known as the Mawland Jezails Society, expects devoted members to gather from all over eastern Nebraska and Iowa for the proper reverences.

Rathbone, an actor for nearly half a century, has earned a claim on both stage and screen for his varied roles—more than 50 roles in 26 Shakespeare plays, for example. He has appeared frequently on television and now takes special interest in campus visits like this at Wayne State.

Lutherans—

Christian symbols such as the cross, Trinity, God's hand from heaven, doves, seasons of the Christian year and others are popular. In all, about 25 different designs are available.

Not only do they express the Christian aspect of Christmas but they form a beautiful setting on a green tree with all decorations in white or gold. Some sermon series have been based on the interpretation of the symbols.

Local Corporation Has Bought Moorhead Paper

Lakes Publishing Co., Inc., a Wayne corporation, announced early this week the purchase of the Red River Publishing Co., Inc., Moorhead, Minn., Wayne Herald Publisher Alan Cramer is president of Lakes Publishing Co.

The company also operates the Detroit Lakes Tribune and Becker County Record at Detroit Lakes, Minn. Other officers include John Meyer, vice president, Detroit Lakes; and Dick Knowles, secretary-treasurer, Denison, Ia.

The group also purchased the stock of the Red River Scene, Inc., a Moorhead newspaper. Moorhead, a city of 27,000, is located in West Central Minnesota across the river from Fargo, N.D. Moorhead's only newspaper, The Red River Scene, is published weekly.

Terracing—

Layton owns another farm in this neighborhood which has been terraced. He is convinced that terracing is a good investment. It costs a land owner about $400 to terrace a 160-acre farm. If these terraces conserve enough moisture to raise the crop yield 3 bushels, they have returned their investment.

Besides conserving moisture,

Halloween Marred by Few Thoughtless Acts

Halloween was relatively quiet in Wayne, according to Chief of Police Vern Fairchild. A few acts were reported that may result in trouble for those involved.

Eggs were put in the police car gas tank. This necessitated taking the tank off and cleaning it. Eggs were also thrown along with plastic sacks filled with marbles. Several were picked up but it has not been decided whether or not charges will be filed.

For the most part, tricks or treats and the drive for UNICEF dominated the night. Chief Fairchild said some fires were started on paving where gasoline had been poured and some fire hydrants were turned on (not near the fires). Very few were out soaping windows of stores and only a few reported their car windows soaped.

Activity died down shortly after midnight and the following day Wayne appeared to be normal.

Wonderful Weather Popular in Region

There is no doubt about it, Wayne county weather is popular. Never have so many been so happy with so much good weather this time of year.

Smog, not a bit. No earthquakes, no high winds, no excess rain, just days of pleasant sunshine and nights of crisp autumn air have made this a great season.

Into November the October weather has been extended as the region draws interest on a miserable September. Temperatures have been in the 60's and 70's during the daytime and not too chilly at night.

Weather forecasters have indicated the area will have five to thirty more days of pleasant weather. Every day such as experienced in recent weeks is a bonus, one which farmers and others gladly accept. A cold spell moving in Wednesday was expected to be short-lived.

FIRE PLUGS, bell and a nozzle are shown by John Bergquist. The "plug" on the left is part of a floor lamp and the one on the right is being converted to one.

Carroll Man Has Old Fire Truck

If Carroll's firefighters ever need help, they may not have to call another town. Right in Carroll they have a fire truck owned by John Bergquist and it is in good running condition.

Bergquist, cashier at the Farmers State Bank, has been following a hobby of restoring antique cars and fire trucks since he was a boy in Omaha. He took his hobby to North Platte, Kimball, Scottsbluff and Carroll as he moved and is now more enthused with his avocation than ever.

His present pride and joy is a 1923 Knott Universal 6-cylinder fire truck with dual ignition and two spark plugs per cylinder. He bought it at the Alcester, S. D., museum which had acquired it from the Fairview, S. D., fire department.

He had an identical truck but sold it to Lyle Cleveland, Wayne. The men now have a pair of the old fire trucks that look like mates.

In 1952 Bergquist came back from the armed forces. He decided to find an old car to "hop up" and thought he had one located in a Model T Ford. However, the seller talked him into restoring it instead of hopping it up. That was the start. Since then the Carroll banker has been interested in restoring old cars and trucks.

A year after he acquired the Model T he traded a 1923 Buick he had purchased for a fire truck. While attending Omaha university he had driven the old Buick to and from classes.

Among the cars he has owned is a 1912 Rolls Royce now on display at Pioneer Village, Minden. He also bought the Rolls-Royce violinist Yehudi Menuhin had owned. Queen Mary's doctor's Rolls-Royce (now in Omaha) and a Rolls-Royce owned by an Oxford professor.

While working in car and fire truck restoration, he has found time to display his vehicles. To prove it he has 26 trophies for old cars he has owned. Most were won by a 1941 Cadillac but he has also shown Rolls-Royces and Packards. In all, he has had 63 cars and seven fire trucks since he first started on his hobby.

Among other prize possessions of Bergquist and his wife, also a native Omahan, are a bedroom set which won first prize at the World's Fair in 1898, fire plugs from several cities, a fire truck bell pulled from the Elkhorn river by a fisherman, pictures of old cars and trucks and other items, mostly relating to fire trucks or fire departments.

THIS 1923 fire truck is one of several John Bergquist, Carroll, has owned. The driveway has four fire plugs for fencing, one of which can be seen on the left. Mrs. Bergquist, Sherry and Johnny are with the proud owner on the truck.

The big Bergquist home (second largest in Carroll with six bedrooms on the second floor plus loads of space on the first floor) is being left as old-fashioned as possible but still includes all the modern conveniences. A beautiful old fireplace makes a homey setting in one room and one of the bedrooms is being fixed as a den for display of trophies and antiques.

Bergquist has fixed up fire plugs as attractive lamps, has nozzles and bells and has plans for future use of such items. In his yard four fire plugs line his driveway and a plan will be developed between them to form a fence.

His interest in such items has not gone unnoticed. He is on the board of directors for the antique car show in Omaha and the Omaha fire department made him an honorary chief of "The Bergquist Fire Dept., Omaha, Neb." He is known from coast to coast by antique car and truck buffs.

The Carroll resident has shown his trucks and cars in many places but even if he never did show them he would gain pleasure out of the restoration work and the pride in seeing a job completed. His wife and two children, Sherry and Johnny, share his interest.

Going on a picnic? The Bergquists may arrive in their fire truck if they attend. They're bound to be the hit of the day. Everyone has an interest in fire trucks, but not everyone shows it as the Bergquists do.

Mr. and Mrs. David McIver, Omaha, were guests in the Mrs. Earl Merchant home this weekend. They also visited other relatives and friends.

UNICEF Collections in Wayne Set New Record

The generous people of Wayne, fresh from exceeding the Community Chest quota by around $400, set a new record for giving to the UNICEF drive the past week. In one hour they donated $140.13.

According to Mrs. Dave Chambers, advisor for the sponsoring Future Homemakers of America at Wayne high school, the members were given just one hour to make their calls. This was done in order to get the project completed early.

Around 55 girls were divided into ten groups to call house-to-house. The money they brought in will go to help needy children around the world who have never heard of Halloween, or over-abundance, or enough clothes or even having enough to eat.

Wayne's previous high for the UNICEF drive was around $100. Response everywhere was instantaneous and generous and both the girls and their adviser were grateful for the way the activity was supported.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The editorial department of a weekly newspaper is an important department. Normally it is one person's opinion of topics that concern most of the readers.

It is the duty of an editorial writer to search all available facts before he sits down to write. From this basis the writer should be able to give a clear picture of important topics.

Send in a Bid

Just why this district's teachers' convention always has to be held in Norfolk is not known. At any rate, year after year that city gets the convention.

Now might be a time for local officials to put in a bid for the 1966 convention for Wayne. After all, the meeting is passed around in other districts and should be in this one also.

In the Panhandle, the conventions are alternated among Scottsbluff, Alliance, Sidney and Chadron. Granted some teachers drive farther than others one year but the following year they reverse positions.

Wayne is the site of a college turning out a lot of teachers. It has the facilities to handle the district convention and certainly it merits a chance to give it a try.

If housing at the hotel and motel is not sufficient, it is quite possible homes would be opened up and everyone could be accommodated. Catering and meeting facilities are more than adequate.

In case Norfolk feels Wayne does not have the rooms we'll boost for having South Sioux City be the site of the next convention. Surely no one can argue against facilities there. First, Wayne; then South Sioux City. It's time for a change.

Did You Give 10 Cents?

Another successful Community Chest campaign has been completed. The report shows too many people are still donating less than 10 cents a "drive."

If Wayne were to have 12 separate drives, it is doubtful if any family would donate just 10 cents to any of them. Yet the United Fund drive rates a one dollar donation from some donors, which amounts to a little over eight cents per agency.

K. N. Parke's analysis of the donations showed 432 people donated $2.50 or less in the drive. This means if 12 separate drives had been held they would have donated $2.50 or less to each for a total of $30 or less or else they would have donated 20 cents or less if they stuck to the formula they have come up with for the Community Chest.

Undoubtedly there are some who give $1 or $2.50 who cannot afford more. These people are not to be criticized; in fact, their "widow's mite" may actually be more of a sacrifice than the $25 to $150 gifts others give.

Nevertheless, 432 people giving less than 20 cents per agency is too high a ratio. Some education regarding the services of the fund and the multiple calls it eliminates is necessary before another year rolls around. — CEG

Speak Out

Isn't it about time American churchmen and others raised their voices against Ku Klux Klan? Is this an organization that must be tolerated because this country stresses freedom of speech and action?

Here in Wayne not a single cross has been burned. The only hooded night-riders have been those who were out for tricks or treats on Halloween. Still, the problem of the Klan is a local problem just as the problem of Negro equality is a local one.

Some Wayne ministers represent denominations that have churches in the South. Those Southern "Christians" belong to the Klan AND to the same church Wayne pastors and laymen belong to.

Why is there not more of an outcry in Wayne and over the rest of the nation against the Klan? Why don't the brave step forward and denounce their fellow churchmen who belong to the Klan also? It is probable that no Wayne resident would go out at night to burn homes and churches, to preach hate towards men of other colors and religions, yet men who belong to the same religions down South are in church on Sunday after a Saturday night of Klan activities.

If there were a Pilgrim Holiness church in Wayne, it would bring credit upon itself if it publicly asked that any Southern members of the Pilgrim Holiness church belonging to the Klan be ousted from the church. Freedom of religion, yes, but freedom to preach hate, no.

The same goes for any other denomination. It seems inconceivable that any true Christian could condone fellow churchmen engaging in such activities just as it is inconceivable for a true Christian to condone communism.

It is time for Christians to speak out. The KKK and what it stands for has no place in American life under the constitution governing our land. It has no place in the Christian life.

Speak out if you agree. All over the nation churchmen should condemn their fellow members who belong to the Ku Klux Klan. Granted, the voices may be small and weak but they can be heard. Not speaking out is an indication that what the Klan represents is inoffensive to you.

Private Investments

State Treasurer Fred Sorensen says he's against investment of idle state funds in private securities or non government bonds.

"The risk is just too high," Sorensen said. "I don't think we should put money where we can't be sure of a sound return."

Nebraska voters will ballot in November, 1966, on a proposed Constitutional Amendment to permit wider investment of state funds, including revenue received from the sale of school lands.

The amendment was backed by Sen. Ramey C. Whitney of Chappell, who contends a greater return can be realized from investment in private securities, or industrial bonds.

Present state law limits the investment of idle state funds to U. S. Bonds, state securities, or registered county and school district bonds.

Salaries Inconsistent

Salary schedules for administrative department heads in Nebraska are inconsistent with each other and usually below national averages, a report compiled by Governor Morrison's staff has concluded.

The report will be turned over to the Governor, who has authority to raise certain salaries.

The report said only the Labor Department director's annual pay of $12,000 matched the national average for the job. The state insurance director gets about $3,500 less than in most other states.

Funds to Nebraska

Nebraska has been allocated $623,534 in matching funds under Title Three of the National Defense Education Act. The money will be used by local school districts for books and equipment.

Last year, Nebraska received $611,147.

Lawrence Hilly, Federal programs consultant for the State Education Department, said several schools have applied for funds under the act.

Testing Grounds

Nebraska has been selected as a regional testing grounds for a Federal manpower re-training program for service station employees.

George L. Watters of Lincoln, executive secretary of the Nebraska Petroleum Marketers Association, said it will be the first federally sponsored retraining program for service station workers.

Pondering Political Life

Superior attorney David Downing says he's giving serious consideration to seeking public office in Nebraska next year.

Downing was the Democratic nominee for attorney general in 1964. He was defeated by Republican Clarence Meyer.

New Program Explained

State officials have explained to Nebraska community leaders provisions of the new multi-million dollar Federal Land and Water Recreation Act.

Nebraska has been appropriated $1.8 million this fiscal year and expects to receive between $2 million and $2.5 million annually for the next 25 years.

Local communities may use the funds on a matching basis to build outdoor recreational facilities such as parks, lakes and camping grounds.

Carl Curtis CAPITOL COMMENTS

As this is written, the first session of the 89th Congress has just ground to a halt, and will be in adjournment until January.

This session has been called by some a "rubber stamp" for the Administration, and it is true that a multitude of Administration measures have been enacted, with co-called Great Society programs in the forefront. Others have termed it a "do-it-all" session in the great rush to put into effect a mass of programs for the Great Society.

Future generations, however, may best remember this Congress for its ability to spend money. While the term "expenditure" cannot properly be used until the money flows out of the Treasury, the vast sums appropriated this year for eventual expenditure stagger the imagination.

Keeping in mind the great fanfare about holding the budget under the magic figure of $100 billion which accompanied the President's budget message to Congress last January, it is somewhat disheartening to look at the charts showing the amounts appropriated for fiscal year 1966, which began last July 1. Break it down to the simplest terms, here are a few things the charts reveal:

Total regular appropriations for the 1966 fiscal year amounted to $105,510,002,919.

Also during this session, Congress appropriated $4,527,563,977 in supplemental appropriations for fiscal year 1965.

In addition, there is an item totaling $879,311,900 for loan authorizations. This money is authorized for loan programs — such as the Interior Department's helium program — and eventually will be repaid to the Treasury, some of it with interest.

Not shown in detail on the charts but nonetheless important factors in Federal spending are the items known as "permanent" and "back-door" appropriations resulting from actions by prior Congresses. The January budget estimates for these totaled $12,270,000,000. By far the largest share of this, about $11 billion, was the "permanent" appropriation for interest on the national debt. "Back-door" appropriations are those for which the Treasury Department is authorized to issue bonds, rather than going through the regular appropriations procedures. An example is the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Adding all of these together — regular appropriations for fiscal 1965, supplemental for fiscal 1965, loan authorizations, "permanent" and "back-door" estimates — one arrives at the astounding total of $120,186,878,796.

This is how well the Federal budget for fiscal year 1966 has been kept below $100 billion!

Pheasant hunter Cyril Kelly, Pullman, Wash., became very weary roaming through the fields without finding any pheasants. He sat down to rest, but tired to care when he heard the gunfire of other hunters coming closer. He just sat there, until he had bugged his limit of the birds they had flushed.

Winter Engine Care

Many farm engines are left idle over the winter months. These engines can be damaged because of neglect.

First step is to make sure the cooling system is protected with anti-freeze.

If the engine in question is air cooled, thoroughly clean the outside, making sure to get at the fins. By removing all dirt chaff and debris, you'll greatly reduce exterior corrosion.

The next step is to drain the oil while it's still warm. Replace the plug tightly and fill the crankcase with clean oil.

It's wise to pour a tablespoon of clean oil into each spark plug hole. Crank the engine over a few times to distribute this oil through the cylinder walls and pistons — then replace and tighten all plugs.

The final step is to seal the breather and exhaust pipes to keep moisture out of vital areas. Once these simple procedures have been carried out, your engines will remain in top shape for next season.

Key to Fire Safety

Good housekeeping is the key to fire safety. Now is a good time to check attics, closets and basements for combustible material that has gathered over the summer.

Old clothes, furniture, newspapers and magazines are good fuel for a fire.

It is always a good plan to check heating systems for hidden defects. A heating system may work perfectly while the weather is mild. However, it could become a definite fire hazard when maximum heat is required.

Children left without competent supervision, careless smokers and overloading of electrical outlets are commonly behind many fires.

Here are several simple rules for fire safety:

1. Collect and remove rubbish.
2. Keep matches out of sight and reach of small children.
3. Smoke in safe places and dispose of ashes in a safe manner.
4. Keep chimneys clean and tight. Know the capacity of your heating system.
5. Don't overload electrical systems.
6. Have a suitable fire extinguisher.
7. Know what to do in case fire strikes.
8. Teach fire safety by example.

N.E. Extension Notes

End to Pollution by Detergents

Some time ago much concern was shown by almost everyone over the pollution of our water supplies by washday detergents. Detergent manufacturers responded to this public concern. They began working on biodegradable detergents — detergents which can be broken down by waste disposal systems and cause no pollution problems.

Public concern has once more been aroused by an advertiser who leads his listeners to believe that only his product doesn't pollute water supplies. He goes on to say that for only a few pennies more you can do your country a service, protecting the water supplies by using his product.

In the past, detergents were a cause of concern and rightfully so. In the past, the formulas for detergents included a substance which was not digested by ordinary bacteria.

Most waste disposal systems rely on bacteria to break down the waste. Since the bacteria refused to feed on the detergents, the detergent suds were not destroyed. The suds actually were not harmful, but they did tend to collect waste which tended to be harmful. With increased pollution, people began to find a head of suds on drinking water from their faucets.

All in all, it was plain that something had to be done. Detergent manufacturers were aware of the need as anyone. They put much effort and money into developing new biodegradable detergents — detergents which would not cause water pollution.

E. Scott Patterson, Manager of the Soap and Detergent Association, has said that brand name producers were marketing biodegradable products by June, 1965.

A recent publication from the Maytag Company laboratories verifies the production of biodegradable detergents by major companies.

You cannot tell whether your favorite detergent has been changed. The same brand names provide the same types of products in the same package as before. Nevertheless you can be assured that the change has been made.

The manufacturers of detergents chose to handle this problem on their own without government intervention. They should be given due credit for the action they promise to see that all detergents marketed are biodegradable.

Keep buying and using your favorite washday detergents because you can be reasonably sure that you are using a biodegradable product.

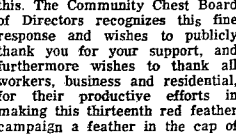

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

The 1965 Wayne Community Chest-United Fund drive is now history. For the thirteenth consecutive year the quota has been met and each of the thirteen participating agencies will again receive, as in each of the past twelve years, one hundred per cent of its quota. Over fifty per cent of the Community Chest budget has been allocated to recreation programs in Wayne. The balance has been allocated to agencies providing state-wide, national and international services — the Salvation Army, United Health Foundation, the Red Cross, the United Service Organization and others.

The response of Wayne professional and business people and all Wayne residents has been most heart-warming. The record of giving over the years is testimony to this. The Community Chest Board of Directors recognizes this fine response and wishes to publicly thank you for your support, and furthermore wishes to thank all workers, business and residential, for their productive efforts in making this thirteenth red feather campaign a feather in the cap of our Wayne community.

Russell "M" Owen, President Board of Directors Wayne Community Chest

By Chas Greenlee

It took no hesitation to decide who gets the orchid of the week this issue. Our journalistic accolade goes to the pupils of Wayne high school. We were impressed with the football team, the Pep club, and the fans at the Laurel game. Going against an area powerhouse, they fashioned a lead, trailed by one touchdown at the half and gave a creditable performance four quarters. It is easy to be fired up and to cheer and sing the praises of a team that is winning but we have seldom seen such enthusiasm by a team and for a team that has lost all games but one. Kids, you made us feel proud to be from Wayne and to have you represent us. You're a credit to your school, community and home. (Four quarters against Pierce like the first against Laurel might just surprise someone and end the season on a happy note).

Joe: "That Shmoe is the most fanatical golf bug I've seen."

Joe: "How do you mean that?"

Joe: "He was out playing golf with a friend the other day when the friend had a stroke — and Shmoe made him count it!"

While we're giving credit to Wayne, we certainly cannot take anything away from Laurel. The Bears have the best team we have seen on a high school field this year. They play hard football, daring football and smart football. Blessed with talent, they make the most of it. We only hope they are not riding too high on a cloud because they face O'Neill next and O'Neill has a young and capable team. It should be one of the big games in the state. May the best team win (and we hope it's Laurel).

A small boy was standing near the department store escalator, watching the moving handrail. "Something wrong?" asked a clerk.

"Nope," replied the lad. "I'm just waiting for my chewing gum to come back around."

Now that we have time before the jail and sheriff's residence are replaced, consideration might be given to using an old building as a museum some day. It could be its own number one attraction. Money would be involved to fix it up so it would be suitable but money would be involved in any museum project. As an old relic new to the county, we're suggesting the matter should at least be considered.

"Now" the woman speaker asked "is there any man in the audience who would let his wife be slandered and say nothing? If so, stand up."

A meek little man rose to his feet. The lecturer glared at him.

"Do you mean to say you would let your wife be slandered and say nothing?" she cried.

"Oh, I'm sorry," he apologized. "I thought you said slaughtered."

With all the beautiful music around on WSC campus and in the Wayne schools, there is still another group that will get to strut its stuff in public this week. Don Schumacher's junior high band will perform at halftime of the Wayne-Pierce game Friday. This should be a treat. Just think, another band to watch and an inspired football team to cheer — all for the price of one admission!

Shmoe: "I'm all out of sorts. My doctor said the only way to cure my rheumatism is to stay away from dampness."

Joe: "What's so rough about that?"

Shmoe: "You don't know how silly I feel sitting in the bathtub going over myself with a vacuum cleaner."

We were in Dodge the other night. Dodge is next to Howells and we already have been impressed with Howells. Dodge has a parochial and public grade schools. The lunch is prepared at noon at the public school and the parochial pupils go there for lunch. There is no parochial high school but at the public high school the assistant coach is a priest from the Catholic school. Boy, wouldn't the Ku Klux Klan shudder at such good-will? We must tell you more about Howells soon. A small town of 700 population with three grade schools, one public and two Catholic. They get along fine. We're sure glad we live in this part of the nation where good will is taught instead of in the KKK area where hate is espoused (see editorial).

A minister making a call and his hester were sitting in the parlor when a small boy came running in carrying a dead cat. "Don't worry, mother, it's dead. We washed him and beat him until..." and noticing the minister for the first time, he added in a lowered voice, "...until God chilled him home."

What is the one thing you think Wayne needs the most? Give it a thought. We'd like to hear your ideas. Write a letter to the editor, giving your opinion. Please, don't say "a new editor," because that isn't the type of project we have in mind. Every person who cares should have some expression of the city's needs. So, if you think it's anything from a subway system to a silencer on the fire siren, let us know. We'd be glad to share your opinions with others.

Freshman: "Well, I finally passed chemistry."

Sophomore: "Honestly?"

Freshman: "What? Difference does it make now?"

National Education week is coming up. Need we comment editorially on the importance of schools in Wayne county? From the smallest one-room school, to the biggest city school and to Wayne State college, education is a big and complicated business here. Those who teach at St. Mary's Catholic, Trinity Lutheran and all the public schools are a dedicated group in an important field. Every community claims youth as its number one product. Educating youth must surely be the number one activity. This is not much space to devote to a tribute to the teaching profession, to the taxpayers who make education possible and to the pupils who gain from it, but even if we used the entire paper the field could not be covered adequately. If you are, have been or are going to be a teacher, you deserve a lot of credit. Yours is a noble calling. Thanks for what you have done, what you are doing and what you will do.

Jimmy: "Mommy, mommy, can I go out and watch the eclipse?"

Mother: "All right. But don't stand too close."

Some of you shiver at football games now but we'll bet you can remember when there were no SASS — Page 3.

NATIONAL EDUCATION WEEK NOVEMBER 7-13:

INVEST IN EDUCATION

One of America's greatest statesmen and philosophers, Benjamin Franklin, an open and outright supporter of education, once wrote "An investment in knowledge always pays the best interest." November 7 through 13 has been designated American Education Week both nationally and locally. In keeping with the public spirit boosting this most important element in our American society, these two pages are being devoted to the familiarization of the general public with our schools. The ads at the bottom of the pages contain the daily topics concerning the 1965 Education Week. VISIT YOUR SCHOOL NOVEMBER 7 - 13!

Musical action is portrayed in this picture as Miss Bonita Vandegrift and a fifth grade class at West Elementary school go through the paces on a new song.

Elementary Pupils Get Instruction in Music

In the picture, Mrs. Rieker's fifth graders are learning a rhythmic accompaniment with actions to a Halloween song. Elementary grades 3-6 have a general music class four 20-minute periods a week. The fifth and sixth grades in each school also have a volunteer choir which meets after school one day a week. Teachers of kindergarten, grades one and two conduct music classes in their own rooms.

Most of the music time is spent singing familiar songs, learning to read new melodies. One period each week is given to rhythms when folk dancing and specific rhythmic problems are presented.

Rhythms class is alternated each week with a listening period at which time recordings of classical and light classical music are presented for the student's observation and listening.

One of the main purposes of our elementary music program is to develop an appreciation for all types of quality music, from folk songs of many countries to the finest music of our greatest composers. But, along with this, we aim to make our music period a time for relaxation and fun.

MORAL AND SPIRITUAL VALUES

The strengthening of moral and spiritual values is at the heart of American education. A full and complete education is not purely intellectual. Learnings must be applied to be useful and this requires a basis of good moral principles. Our preparation for life must include moral and spiritual values. The better the base set by the home and church and the more stable the moral pattern of a young child, the greater the contribution made by the school.

THE INTELLECT

Winston Churchill once said, "The empires of the future will be the empires of the mind."

If one can find any all-encompassing reason for education, it could be to preserve the accomplishments of the past while instructing for accomplishment in the future.

An Educational Policies Commission once developed a statement describing the central purpose of education. They wrote, "The rational powers of the human mind have always been basic in establishing and preserving freedom. They are central to individual dignity, human progress and national survival. The society which best develops the rational potentials of its people will have the best chance to flourish in the future."

The cultivation of the intellect not only is a benefit to society but is an investment in personal improvement. He is able to appreciate past accomplishments and equip them to appreciate current achievements. The major value of a cultivated mind which results from good education is that it allows the individual to apply the general principles to many different situations especially in a world in which change is commonplace. He can approach new situations with the rational ability to adjust to them.

Our children are witnesses to a steady decline in manual jobs and the increased need for skilled, white-collar and professional persons.

Constellation and Earth Fascinating

Science is a fascinating subject for most pupils but especially fascinated are the fifth graders in their study of the earth and the constellations.

These fifth graders discovered four reasons why we know the earth is round: (1) the top most of the ship in the distance can be seen first; (2) different star constellations are seen in different places; (3) the earth casts a circular shadow on the moon; and (4) ships, airplanes, and satellites make round trips around the earth. The North Star remains fixed at the center of the star "wheel".

By the third or second century, B.C. the Greeks had come to the conclusion that the earth is round. The reappearance of the same constellations at the same time each year and their apparent movement across the sky resulted in the idea of the earth's roundness.

Modern evidence to the fact that the earth is round has been compiled by pictures taken from the rockets sent as high as 158 miles above the earth. These photographs reveal that the "round" earth is actually more "pear-shaped". The earth is thicker if measured around the equator compared to a measurement around the poles.

Exploring the sky—astronomy—began as far back as 3000 B.C. The summerians accumulated knowledge of the heavens which was, for the most part, developed mythologically. This knowledge was important for evolving a yearly and monthly time system, for navigation, for the organization of living in general and most recently for its contribution to the exploration of space.

Girls Complete Physical Education Bowling Unit

The girls' physical education classes at the Jr.-Sr. High School have recently completed three weeks of coeducational bowling at the local bowling lanes.

Prior to the bowling unit, rainy weather forced the classes to remain indoors with the time being devoted to recreational games and relays mostly on a coeducational basis.

The girls are now about to begin a four-week unit on deck tennis. Exceptionally nice days will be spent outdoors playing kick-baseball, an active game enjoyed by all of the girls.

The spring of the year will be devoted to softball and the A.A.P.H.R. Physical Fitness Tests.

Strange Sounds Might Make Sense to People

"The vitamous vlamizy vlamizes the runny rontion" or "The tratable treatment tified frativise." These sentences confronted the eighth grade English class at the beginning of the unit "Syntax".

Although the class could get no real meaning from the group of words, they have realized and recognized through the use of word order, derivational affixes, function words, and inflections that the words did form two good, basic sentences.

School's Library Busy at All Times

The library in the High School building is a busy place as it attempts to meet the needs of the pupils in the Junior and Senior High School classes.

The library presently contains over four thousand volumes and this year subscribed to thirty-five magazines and three newspapers. A number of new books have been purchased for the library but have not yet arrived.

The library is also used as a study hall and as such accommodates approximately one hundred students each period of the day.

The library is also the audiovisual center of the school. Tape recorders, tapes, records and record players, projectors, screens, overhead projectors, film strips, etc. are checked to instructors from the library.

A new paper-back pocket book store has just been installed in the library. From here students can purchase paper-back books.

Several student librarians assist in the library. They check out books to students and give assistance to students in securing materials they need. Each student librarian works one hour a day.

PERSONAL FULFILLMENT

There are few people who have not discovered that education is necessary just to live effectively. Education brings personal fulfillment at any stage of life; the ability to get and hold a job, better use of leisure time and to make a worthy contribution to society through his efforts which benefits the society in which he lives.

EARNING POWER

It was once said that "a poor education is immeasurably expensive to the individual who achieves it, and to the country that must depend on him later."

We often hear of the youth who left school because of economic reasons or did not enter college due to the lack of money. Actually, hard facts show that the decision to leave school will turn out to be the most expensive one a student will ever make.

Studies made by various groups and individuals bear out that investment in learning improves the individual's earning power. This investment return is growing each year. The U. S. Office of Education provided evidence to back up that statement. A report from that office stated that the average annual income of males, 25 years or over, with an elementary education in 1939 was $1,036; in 1961, $3,544. A male with 4 years of high school in 1939 received an annual average income of $1,661; in 1961, $5,946. A male, 25 years or older, earned $2,607 annually in 1939 with 4 or more years of college; in 1961, $9,817. Recent studies also showed that the opportunities for gainful employment is much greater for the person who possesses a good education.

As a result of a study in 1964 by the President's Council of Economic Advisers, President Johnson stated that "poverty and ignorance go hand in hand; of families headed by a person with only a grade school education, 37 per cent are poor. Of those headed by high school graduates, only 8 per cent are poor. Significantly, President Johnson started his war on poverty with a proposal to improve education.

President Johnson made the point in his economic report to Congress that "we spend $450 a year per child in public schools. But we spend $1800 a year to keep a delinquent youth in a detention house, $2500 a year for a family on relief and $3500 a year for a criminal in a state prison.

Increased education means increased personal incomes which gives increased purchasing power in the community. Former U. S. Chamber of Commerce President Herman Steinkraus said, "I believe the cost of education is an investment; it should never be considered as an assessment."

Without education, progress would come to a halt, for there would be neither skilled persons contributing nor trained workers making use of the advance in knowledge. It is sound economic policy to invest in learning.

These first graders in Mrs. Judy Koenig's room at West Elementary school are investigating the world of fantasy held within these books. Petunia, the goose, is overseeing the search. The pupils seated at the table are (clockwise): Tami Sperry, Brenda Wittig, Bobby Johnson, Nancy Shirck, Laurie Hansen, Marty Bohm, Tommy Nissen, Brent Roberts and Shelly Gildersleece. Ralph Atkins, Barbara Heistand, Mark Brandt and David Schumacher are busily preparing assignments for the next day's classes.

Learning to Read Accented in Class

Reading occupies a great deal of time in the first grade room. Library books play a big part in supplementing the basic reading program. Displays of book characters, new books, and books about subjects being discussed in class add interest to the classroom and stimulate the children to get acquainted with those books. Books are checked out at the grade school library by the students. When they finish their assignments, they may browse through the library books. Many of the picture books can be enjoyed by merely interpreting the pictures. As vocabulary increases, each child can choose a book to read which is suitable to him. Books provide an outlet for some children, others become absorbed in the world of fantasy. Children can broaden their interests and abilities. Pictures and stories in books add to the child's vocabulary and acquaint him with areas he would not be able to visit. It is certainly an enjoyable experience to notice a student chuckling at the library table over an amusing story. Children learn to "live" and "feel" the character they are reading about. What a dull world without books!

WGS Elementary Class Takes 'Trip' to Mexico

Visiting Mexico, our good neighbor to the south, is a particularly interesting experience for the sixth graders. New places are visited, new words are learned. The history of the development of Mexico is explored as the pupils read about the ancient villages and artifacts left behind by the Aztecs, Incas and Mayas. Pictures and stories show pupils that not far from the ancient ruins of many centuries past is a city equally as modern as any in the United States, Mexico City. Learning how people in other countries live and understanding why they live as they do is a most important part of the Social Studies program of each grade level. The pupils in the study of Mexico were interested to learn how life in a typical Mexican village differed from those we know. They became familiar with main dishes prepared for the Mexican table such as tortillas, frijoles and tamales. Mexican's dress differs

Books Can Bring Many Things In to Classes

To these children and most of the other children in school the library is a paradise of books. Picture stories, poems, fairy tales, fiction, biography and many other varieties of books challenge the minds and delightfully imagine lives. Pupils, in books, see beauty, wonder and adventure. Stories come to life in the mind of pupils as they read these books. The school library is increasingly becoming the hub around which the wheels of quality education continually revolve. Quality education today requires the use of a great wealth and variety of books and materials to meet the needs, interests and abilities of individual students. Independent study is the educational keynote of the future, and this means that quantities of books and other materials must be readily accessible to students. The library is a laboratory for research and study where students learn to work alone or in groups. It provides the opportunity for every child to help himself through independent study by teaching him to use reference materials effectively. The school library is organized to serve individual differences and to work with every child according to his needs and abilities. With its help the slow learner gains confidence, the average reader may increase his abilities, and the gifted child may find challenge and stimulation. It motivates children to read and guides the development of their reading tastes and interests, helping them to grow in critical judgment and appreciation. Research in this area indicates that pupils who have not developed reading habits and habits of using libraries by the time they reach junior high school rarely develop them at all. In view of this information, the necessity of teaching good reading habits and library skills is very clear.

School Puts Accent on Safety in All Grades

An important part of our Health and Science program in the elementary school is the aspect of safety. Safety is dealt with in varying degrees throughout the elementary grades. As pupils study the materials provided in textbooks and various other materials concerning safety, they often find ways to make a lesson seem more meaningful and real. They are then able to relate the lessons to their own life more effectively. Often, times they write safety slogans, compose stories or relate incidents orally. Some pupils like to draw pictures depicting a safety rule or showing a hazard to our safety. Many times the whole class will enter into a joint venture and make a class project such as the one shown in the picture "Wake Up To Safety". The third grade class at North-east Elementary used this bulletin board as a review and evaluation of a safety unit. Each of the tall feathers had a safety rule concerning home, farm, playground, bicycle, swimming, fire, animals and traffic which the children decided was the most important to them. They felt the need to stress the danger of riding with a stranger to taking things from someone they don't know. As a culminating activity, they drew pictures illustrating one of the safety rules.

Castle Day Held 1,000 Years After Real Use

Castle Day was held in the junior high Social Studies room on October 18, 1965, roughly 1000 years after the time of actual use of the formidable structures. Their part in history makes for many interesting projects and discussions. All in all, five castles were built by eleven members from the seventh grade class of Wayne High.

Builders included Barbara Kay, Robin Laflan, Donna Doescher, Carol Hamley, Vicky Proett, Joan Tiedtke, Beverly Brown and Gerda Lindner on the girls' side and Tom McDermott, George John and Kirk Russell on the boys' side, which may be some indication that the construction business is being invaded by the ladies.

Be that as it may, it was a boy's castle which won first place in the contest in held for determining the best of the five. The winning castle was built by Tom McDermott. He is seen standing behind his entry looking inside the castle walls as Mr. Larson and the second place winner, Bev Brown and Gerda Lindner, also look on. Bev and Gerda's castle is directly to the left of Tom's. All five were well done.

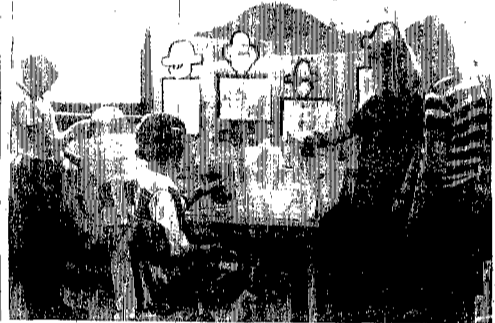

'Sleeping' Youngsters Only Resting for While

The photographer stopped in the kindergarten room at West Elementary School expecting to see a bee hive of activity only to find a room of "napping" youngsters. On this warm fall afternoon, after an activity-filled recess period and a cool drink of fresh milk, these young five-year-olds were ready for a rest before continuing with the afternoon's work. It was explained that the kindergarten teacher must keep in mind that along with a variety of constructive experiences for the release of energy, quiet times must be provided for rest and relaxation.

AMERICAN EDUCATION WEEK NOV. 7-13

"Mexico-New and Old" is a topic of interest in the sixth grade in Carroll. As a part of Social Studies, pupils prepared these materials as an introduction to the Mexico unit and have them on display in their room. The pupils from left to right are Kenneth Hall, Cinda Owens, Jennifer Sandahl and Bryan Stoltenberg.

INVEST IN LEARNING

AMERICAN EDUCATION WEEK

NOVEMBER 7-13

The general theme for the 1965 American Education Week is "Invest In Learning." Benjamin Franklin wrote "An Investment in knowledge always pays the best interest." Education has all the earmarks of a good investment; facts and figures show that an investment of both time and money pays off in actual dollars; security is excellent because the demand for the educated person far outstrips the supply.

Education puts us in good stead to understand our complex world. Our values and goals are stabilized amid an ever-changing world. We can enjoy greater leisure as a benefit of advancements in technology. Our lives are enriched as we are able to make rational choices based on the knowledge acquired in school.

Educational institutions have a definite responsibility to re-evaluate their effectiveness in preparing pupils for today's and tomorrow's world. This task is far different than the task yesterday's schools were called to do. They must teach everyone, no person is more worthy than another. Despite improved scholastic opportunities and counseling programs the schools are still bothered by drop-outs, truancy and student complacency.

The school's atmosphere is only one factor in a student's decision to continue or terminate his education. Attitudes of family and friends are strong influences on the thoughts of a child. Community attitudes toward education are reflected in the public support given a school system, in the quality of facilities and their over-all feelings toward the educational efforts of the school personnel.

from ours in many localities due to ancient customs and the difference in temperature.

Children in Mexico also go to school as we do. They study reading, writing, arithmetic and social studies as we do but also learn to cook, sew, weave and carve.

As an introduction to the unit, the pupils in the sixth grade drew maps, made booklets and sketched pictures of scenes depicting Mexico, New and Old.

INTERNATIONAL UNDERSTANDING

"It's a small world." The expression is often used to indicate a "shrinking" world. Today, modern travel makes it possible to span the ocean in hours and states in minutes. Formerly, our visions seldom took us beyond the boundaries of our local community or state.

Our relationship with others is no longer confined to a narrow boundary but is international in scope. Our youth must be trained in international leadership now to cope as leaders when they are adults. Education for international understanding begins in the elementary schools when the pupil begins to develop his intellectual powers and learning about ever-widening circles of the world.

Educated communities in the United States carry the burden for the uneducated ones. Some for the nations of the world. Decreased poverty and increased contributions that come as a result of education will benefit the entire world. If education has strengthened the moral fiber, cultivated the intellect, enhanced personal fulfillment, improved earning power, developed good citizens, enriched family and community life, and deepened international understanding in our country, think what a more perfect world this would be with global investment in learning.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP

Democracy grants to every citizen a privilege; to participate in his government; consequently it places upon him an obligation to understand the process of his government.

A citizen must be capable of identifying the desirable and penetrate emotional appeals in order to form sound opinions. He must be able to make a wise rational choice when he goes to the polls.

Good citizenship is a combination of man's abilities and attitudes. The public looks to the schools to help develop these traits because they must be formed at an early age.

Since the school is a social institution which has contact with all persons, it is the one comprehensive source of citizenship education. Learning develops good citizens and good citizens are the strength of the nation.

FAMILY AND COMMUNITY LIFE

When you invest in education, it's like making an investment in a huge corporation. When one division prospers, so does another, when one division weakens, it's likely another will suffer. Enriched home life makes for a richer community; enriched community life enriches a nation as a combination of a number of communities and an enriched nation enriches the individual and family life.

Educated family members are likely to understand their responsibilities to the other family members. They make wise decisions about running a household and rearing children. Education tends to be a cohesive force of a family. Educated families tend to indulge itself in interests and activities of their own, educated families appreciate accomplishments of their members to a higher degree and discuss them more. More favorable attitudes toward education will be found in an educated family.

A community blessed with an educated population profits greatly. The educated family member tends to recognize his community just as he recognizes his responsibility to his family. A community which spends more on education spends less on other services such as courts, police, fire and prisons.

No businessmen can afford not to be interested in the schools. The business wants to draw educated personnel; the personnel who make decisions want good schools; good schools attract additional trained personnel to the community.

The community as a whole derives great benefit from education, and American education is run at the community level. Our goal should be a whole nation of educated communities for a nation is an expanded community which profits from investment in education.

Marine Band Concert Enjoyed by Hundreds

Several hundred area residents enjoyed two concerts by the United States marine band Thursday in Rice auditorium at Wayne State college. Only conflicts with other activities held the crowds down.
The afternoon concert saw children from many towns brought in by bus. Many schools were closed for teachers convention or there would have been more represented.
In addition, pheasant season is on, harvesting of several crops is underway and stores were open until 9 p.m. All of these activities kept people away from the auditorium.
Those who did attend heard one of the great bands of the world. With only 50 members, it sounded much bigger and its size was excelled by its quality, every member being an artist in his field.
In the evening, the band was called on for seven encores. Practically everyone came away marveling at the trombonist, James Erdman, who must be one of the nation's best. The percussion men, responsible for several instruments, were all acclaimed for their ability to seem to be two places at once.
It was a disciplined band directed by Col. Albert Schoepper. The music had those in the audience tapping their feet and applauding. Not a one of the marines tapped a foot, no matter how rhythmic the number was. It was a great performance, one which only Omaha and Wayne shared in this state.

Local Bank Boosts Work of 4-H Clubs

Among the Nebraska banks doing their part in "service to youth" by contributing to the National 4-H Club foundation, Washington, is State National Bank, Wayne. Vice President Harold Hein of the bank said the investment in the 4-H club program is the bank's share of an investment in the future.
Banks are planning and building for tomorrow, Hein said. "Our responsibility is to plan for the youth that will be part of that tomorrow."
Last year almost 2,200 banks in 36 states joined in the campaign. Through the annual campaign which started in October, the National 4-H Club foundation provides bankers with a chance to help all 4-H members and reinforce the value of local contributions.
Bankers have supported 4-H since it was started over 50 years ago. Over two million young people throughout the United States are thus served by banks.
National chairman is J. C. Welman, Kennett, Mo. Nebraska chairman is L. S. Curran, Lincoln.

an area missions alliance meeting, the Bolivian missionary went hunting. His $20 out-of-state hunting fee for one day's license would have paid for a license for quite a while in Bolivia to hunt box constrictors, tapirs and other animals.
Land is also cheap there. The missionary said the land is so fertile it could support 50 million people. Rainfall amounts to 60 to 80 inches a year.
Peacock offered Hogner a 39,000-acre ranch with ranch house complete with tile roof for $100,000. The drawback is, it would take over $20,000 to get started, the nation being poor monetarily. Peacock tools being the hand-type with methods of a bygone age.

Bolivia, where it once took weeks and months to reach the coast from the interior, it now takes two or three days. Peacock feels Bolivia is on the threshold of a better day and he points out that the picture most Americans have of the Andes, the mines and backward people, is wrong in many ways.
He will return to Bolivia with his wife and five children to teach, not as a pastor, for he has never been ordained, although devoutly religious. He has a new problem to face, however. He has had one horse but will soon have two. "How do you satisfy a five children family with a two horse arrangement?" he asked, longingly as he made note of the Horners being a two-car family.
