

Carroll Woman Dies from Dixon Accident Injuries

Mrs. Anna Arp, 65, Carroll, died Thursday of injuries received in a two-car accident 3 1/2 miles north of Dixon. Three other occupants of the cars involved were hospitalized following the mishap.

Trooper Kenneth Buby of the Nebraska Safety Patrol reported the collision was almost head-on. It was impossible to tell which lane of traffic the accident occurred in.

Mrs. Arp was westbound on Highway 20 just east of the junction with Highway 116 north of Dixon. Eastbound were Mr. and Mrs. Myron Bruning and his sister (name not learned) all of Roy, Utah.

It was raining hard at the time and visibility was not good. When the vehicles collided, the Arp car was thrown into the north ditch facing south and the Bruning car was turned sideways across the highway facing north.

Anna Marie Arp, 39, daughter of Mrs. Arp, suffered severe facial lacerations. She was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, Sioux City, allowed to come home for her mother's funeral and then readmitted.

Bruning suffered a broken arm and facial lacerations. His wife suffered minor injuries. Both were taken to St. Joseph's. The sister of Bruning riding in the back seat was uninjured.

Trooper Buby said the occupants of the Bruning car were wearing seat belts. He said the fact that the belts were fastened obviously kept them from going through the windshield and probably saved their lives.

The Arp car was figured to be a total wreck. Bruning's car was practically totaled out in the mishap.

WSC Will Offer Evening Courses

Wayne State College will offer 39 courses in evening classes during the first term, with registration scheduled Saturday.

All the courses will meet once a week, in the week beginning September 12, except the major field mat. See COURSES Pg. 6

The Spook Speaks

A parade viewer at Dixon's festival remarked about the two bands. One at the head of the parade and another toward the end of the parade were dressed exactly alike, drawing the viewer's comment. Had they been closer to the public address system they would have known why the bands looked alike. It was the same band. Allen High's band zipped around the block after the end of the parade, went back up to where the parade started and joined it to march through again.

At Concord it was hot during the Dixon County Fair. One fair goer included a teenager who was accompanied by his younger brother. He lost the lad for a while in the crowd. He finally found him, sitting in a combine cab running the air-conditioner which does not require the engine running in order to operate.

In Dixon, a 3-year-old wanted to go to grandpa's. He cried, screamed, yelled, clawed, scratched and finally his mother gave in. Grandpa told her later that she had remarked to him "Boy, Grandpa, I just about didn't get to come. I had to cry, scream, yell and scratch before mother let me." They're learning younger nowadays.

Seek Applicants

The Wayne post office has announced that a civil service examination will be held in the near future to establish a register for position of substitute clerk and carrier. The present starting pay is $2.64 an hour. The examination is open to both men and women. Applications may be obtained at the Wayne post office or from the Board of U.S. Civil Service Examiners, Post Office Department, Omaha, Nebr. 68102.

Drive Offers New Special Recognition

A new feature is being planned for the Community Chest drive this year, according to Don Reed, fund drive chairman. Certificates of achievement will be presented to some business and professional places.

The certificates, suitable for framing, will be given to all business places where 100 per cent of the employees contribute to the Community Chest. As years go by, the display of such awards should be more and more impressive.

Block workers have been named for the business area. They will meet Sept. 26 (opening day of the drive) at 7 for a breakfast and kick-off at which time their workers will be given supplies and instructions.

PRESIDENT LYNDON JOHNSON is shown shaking hands with Mrs. Cliff Peters, Winside. A similar picture of her husband shaking hands with the President is also in possession of the couple. They were in Washington recently for the unveiling of the new veterans appreciation savings bond stamp. Peters bought a farm north of Winside last year and will teach this year in the Pilger schools.

Select Three Farms as County Representatives

Three Wayne County farms have been selected to represent the NCS in the Sioux City Better Farming Program. Jack Kingsley, Robert Chilcoat and Wallace Barth of Stanton County NCD judged the entries.

Farms chosen were those of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Gilliland of Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Fork of Carroll and Otto Hafke of Winside, according to a report from Arnold Marr, work unit conservationist with the local SWCD office.

The Sioux City Journal and Sioux City C. of C. have sponsored the contest. See THREE FARMS Pg. 6

Newcomers to Meet

Wayne Newcomers Club will hold the first meeting of the season Tuesday, Sept. 13, at 8 p.m. in the Wayne County Public District building. All women who have moved to Wayne within the past year are welcome. Various interest groups will be formed and activities held to enable everyone to get acquainted faster. Anyone knowing of a newcomer to Wayne who might not see this notice should notify them of the meeting and extend an invitation for the newcomer to attend.

Brownie Mothers Will Hold Roundup

A roundup for all mothers of Brownie Scouts is planned in Wayne Friday, Sept. 9, at 9:30 a.m. in St. Paul's Lutheran Church basement. Ordinarily the roundup is for mothers of new Brownies only but this year it is for mothers of all Brownies.

South Dakotan Will Be Hospital Administrator

Robert Joens, Bowdle, S. D., is to be the new administrator of the Wayne Hospital. He succeeds Norman Olsen, who has accepted a position at Spencer, Ia.

Joens is presently administrator of a 20-bed hospital and a 40-bed nursing home at Bowdle. He is expected to take over reins at the local hospital Oct. 1.

The new hospital administrator is married and has three children. He is seeking housing at present and will move here as soon as possible after a successor is named at Bowdle.

Wayne's hospital board had six applications for the post of administrator. Joens was chosen from among these and was signed for the position the first of this week.

Faculty Welcome Will Honor Many on Staffs

Wayne Chamber of Commerce is proceeding with plans for the annual Faculty Welcome Dinner Saturday, Sept. 17. Tickets are being sold by committee members or may be procured at the Chamber office.

Teachers from St. Mary's Catholic School, Wayne-Carroll Schools and Wayne State College will be guests. Wives and husbands of faculty members and the local school board members and their spouses will also be guests.

There are 58 teachers in the Wayne-Carroll system, eight in St. Mary's and 99 teachers and 12 administrative officials at WSC. This alone indicates a crowd but it is hoped many Wayne business and professional men and women and their wives will join in getting acquainted.

J. V. Rowe will be speaker at the 7 p.m. dinner in the WSC Student Center. Sept. 14 is the deadline for getting tickets for the affair.

This event is planned to help local people get acquainted with faculty members and to make all faculty members and their families, whether they have been in Wayne for years or have just arrived, feel that they are welcome here.

New Parking Rule Goes Into Effect

A new parking rule is in effect in the business district of Wayne. It went into effect following the erection of signs which arrived the past week.

The signs inform the public that parking is limited to two hours in the area daily except Thursday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Thursday. See PARKING RULE Pg. 6

DAV State, National Officers to Be Here

Disabled American Veterans officials on the state and national level will be in Wayne Tuesday, Sept. 13. They will attend the regular meeting of the local chapter.

Walter Chinn is commander of the Wayne unit. Meeting time is 8 p.m. in the office of Chris Bargholz, county veterans service officer, 108 Main.

Department Commander James Fisher is the state representative coming. He will be accompanied by Henry Smith, national service officer. Both are from Lincoln.

A report will be given on the national DAV convention. Other business matters will also come before the group.

Election of ASC Heads Held Locally

Election of the county ASC committee has been completed and last week the committee members met to name officers. John Mohr, Wayne, was elected to another term as chairman.

Other farmers named to the county committee for Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation work are: Harry Heinemann, Winside, vice chairman; and Lloyd Morris, Carroll, regular member.

Mohr and Heinemann were elected to the committee last year for three and two years respectively. Morris was elected this year for three years. Alternates elected are Ralph Olson, Carroll, and Erwin Morris, Winside.

Electors were farmers. They had been named by fellow farmers in their precincts to represent them at the county convention Wednesday, Aug. 31.

Chairman Mohr points out that the ASC county committees are in charge of local administration of the ACP, feed grain program, voluntary wheat program, acreage allotments, marketing quotas, national wool program, commodity price-support loans and storage facilities loans.

In Wayne County, the office in Wayne is headquarters for the county ASC committee and serves as the farmers' local contact for business connected with participation in the program administered by the committees. These programs encourage conservation and increase farm returns by means of price supports and market supply-management as well as by payments.

Six bids were received for the new power plant building in Wayne Tuesday night at a special meeting of the Wayne City Council. All were too high. A change in requirements for the roof structure may be made to allow accepting one of the bids.

The engineer's estimate on the project was $107,500. Lowest bid Tuesday was $170,000. Highest bid received was $213,000 with the required deck and reinforcing.

Some of the contractors submitted alternate bids calling for use of a different type deck (roof structure and support elements). The council decided to let the engineer study the quality of materials to see if they meet specifications called for in the notice for bids.

If the substitute deck material is of an equal quality and meets specifications, several of the bids will be below the engineer's estimate. It is expected the matter and decision on the matter will be a part of the Sept. 16 meeting of the council.

Bids received and the number of days required for construction are as follows: D.R. Anderson Construction, Omaha, $192,955 (180 days); Abbott Construction, Salina, Kan., $170,000 (210 days); Christiansen Construction Co., Pender, $170,000 (200 days); $18,000 discount with Robinson-type deck; Otte Construction Co., Wayne, $180,000 (1270 days); $4,800 discount with Robinson-type deck; Sioux Contractors, Sioux City, $169,963 days—with Robinson-type deck (no time for completion given); and Wilson Construction, Salina, Kan., $184,988—plus $28,795 if required to provide deck specified (212 days).

If the Robinson-type deck is approved, the Christiansen bid would come down to $161,500 and the Otte bid would be reduced to $158,190.

Hoskins Farmer Dies from Fumes

John Rieck, 70, Hoskins, was found dead in a closed machine shed Thursday, victim of fumes from an automobile. It is thought he died at his own hands. Sheriff Don Weible was called at 10 p.m. Thursday and informed that Rieck was missing. Relatives and friends had been looking for him for about three hours at that time.

According to the sheriff, Rieck left home at 7 a.m. to go to work at the Ernest and Marvin Pfeil farm. When he did not return at 7 p.m., Mrs. Rieck called the Pfeil farm and learned her husband had not returned.

Annual 4-H Beef Sale for County to Be Held Monday

OTTO TEST, JR., Wayne, received a check from Mern Mordhorst (left) on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce Thursday. Test received $400 for being in Wayne at 8 when his name was called.

A bigger and better 4-H beef sale will be held at the Wayne Sale Barn Monday, Sept. 12. Individual animals will be shown starting at 2 with weighing and appraisal starting at 4 and the sale beginning at 8.

Only those 4-H members who exhibited beef calves at the Wayne County Fair will be allowed to sell individual animals, according to County Agent Harold Ingalls. Those selling pen lots of five will not be allowed to sell individual animals.

Cattle are to be unloaded at the sale barn prior to 1 p.m. the day of the sale and show. All pen lots will consist of five animals and pen calves are to be sold loose without benefit of special show fittings.

Only the calves awarded purple, blue and red ribbons will be offered for sale. Those receiving white ribbons are not to be auctioned.

Scoring formula for pens is: 10 points for each pound average daily gain; 100 points for the highest packer appraisal (one point deducted for each 25¢ per hundred less); one point added or deducted for each $10 net profit or loss.

Agent Ingalls said Monday is also the deadline for entries in the Norfolk meat animal sale. This event is scheduled Monday, Sept. 19, and many Wayne County 4-H members are expected to take part.

Kiwanians Hear of Life of Alaskans

Paul Sincic, former Alaskan longshoreman now a student at Wayne State College, was guest of the Wayne Kiwanis Club Tuesday noon at the Woman's Club Rooms. The meeting was delayed one day due to the holiday.

He had sent for some slides or film so he could show Alaska scenery. However, this failed to arrive. See KIWANIS CLUB Pg. 6

Winning a Prize Is a Dream Coming True

"Winning the Silver Dollar Night Prize is something we always dreamed of," Mrs. Otto Test, jr., said following Thursday night's drawing when her husband received $400 cash.

She told how each Thursday he would come to town to make some purchases and to win if possible. He would say, "Well, I'm going to bring home the money tonight," and she would remind him that he had said that before.

Thursday night he did not wait to get home to tell her he had won. He telephoned. When he got home with the check she finally believed it. Before that, she couldn't believe it was true.

Can they use the money? The Tests feel they can. They said they will use it to the best advantage to pay for things that had to be paid for "and most See CASH NIGHT Pg. 6

Lots of Activities Scheduled at School

Wayne High School is getting off to an active start. Supt. Francis Haun reports a number of local and area activities have been scheduled already.

Next Monday there are two meetings. The Future Homemakers of America hold their first meeting and the school board holds the first session of the school year.

The following night there are also two meetings. Husker Conference officials will meet at El Rancho, Pilger, at 6:30 and Parent-Teachers Association will meet at West Elementary at 8.

Classes will meet this week to elect officers for the term. Organizations will also name officers. Student council members, selected last year, will meet for the first time this term to make plans.

Winside Opens Season Friday at Emerson High

Coach Pete Kropp will start seven lettermen against Emerson-Hubbard at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the opening game of the football season. It is a Lewis and Clark Conference tilt.

One section of the line from one tackle to the opposite guard averages 214 pounds. From there the weight drops off considerably.

Wide receivers are still dropping off berries but all but two seem to be tied down. Only at one end, post and one tackle position is there any doubt about who will start Friday.

Bob Wacker and Garry Redel are vying for one end assignment while Keith Krueger is the other tied down. Andy Mann will start at tackle while Dan Jaeger and Lee Troutwein are still battling for the other starting position at tackle.

Don Longe and Randy Brudigan will be the starting guards at 200 and 205 pounds respectively. Terry Thies at center weighs 235 and Andy Mann at one tackle hits 217.

In the backfield will be four lettermen although not all lettered in the backfield last year. Randy Jacobson will be quarterback. Bob Dangberg and Reed Wacker halfbacks and Roy Wagner fullback.

According to Coach Kropp, four other players are showing enough improvement so they will probably see action and could even get starting positions should some of the others let down because they feel they have their positions cinched. These four are Roger Deck, Bob Jenkins, Keith Wacker and Charles Langenberg.

Winside is a pre-season favorite to finish well down in the L&C conference, mainly because the Wildcats lost so much beef and so many good backs from last year's team. However, the boys themselves are not so sure they won't finish in the first division and fans are counting on a good showing Friday to give a better indication of what the grid season holds.

Two-a-day practice sessions have been held prior to school opening and long work-outs after school since classes resumed. The team even held a long practice Labor Day to help get ready for the Friday opening against the Pirates.

Wayne, Winside Win Bishop Loop Titles

Wayne and Winside teams won the titles the first year in the Ralph Bishop League for Midget and Junior baseball teams. Winside and Wayne tied for the Junior title and Wayne won a clear title for the Midget crown.

Hank Overin's Midgets won 10 and lost 0. Behind them in won-loss records were: Laurel, Wisner and Wakefield, all 4-0; and Winside and Pender, both 0-10.

Winside and Wayne each won 7 and lost 3 in the Junior battle. Behind them in won-loss records were: Wakefield and Laurel, both with 5-5 records; Wisner 4-6; and Pender 0-10.

Wayne's Baseball Record Glitters

The baseball program under Hank Overin fairly glitters for the 1966 season. Wayne teams won 82 games and lost 19, which includes six male teams and the girls' softball teams.

Best record belongs to the Midgets with a 24-0 record. However, the Overin wizardry came through for the Pee-wees with an 8-0 record and the Little League team with a 10-0 record.

The girls won 7 and lost 1, the Pony League had a 5-4 record, the Juniors had a 13-8 record and the town team won 15 and lost 6. The kids' (boys and girls) had a record of 67 wins and 13 defeats.

Delmar Wacker had 18 victories and no defeats for the Midgets while George Eynon had 8 victories and no defeats. Dean Elotson pitched the Juniors to 7 wins and 3 losses. Randy Olson hurled 4 wins and 4 losses and Terry Lutt pitched 1 loss.

For the state champion Midgets, four players had averages of 400 or over. Gordon Jorgensen had a .476 average, Eynon .430, Schram .456, George Eynon .430 and Steve Kerl .410.

Other Midgets finished like this: Steve Hix .472; Dave Tietzen .382; Mike Bittoff .357; Delmar Wacker .294; Randy Helgren .277; Lynn Lessmann .238; and Doug Farrens .195.

Randy Olson, Terry Lutt and Dean Elotson (all pitchers at one time or another) led the Juniors with averages of .348, .347 and .345 respectively. Herb Swan and Dave Brown were both over the .300 mark with .333 and .304 averages. Others included Bob Morris .278; Phil Kelton .277; Mark Johnson .235; Duane Shell .200; and Lowell Lutt .188.

For the Midgets there were some records that were spectacular although the boys did not bat enough times to be included in the top batters. Jerry Titze got 3 hits in 3 times at bat for a 1.000 average. Joedy Hoogner hit 2 for 3 for a .666 average; Steve Johnson, 4-11 for .364; Merle Rasmussen, 2-6 for .333; and Wayne Magdanz, 0-2 for .000.

Young Golfer Has Nerves of Steel

Bob Reeg, teenage Wayne golfer, has nerves of steel. He won the first flight of the Labor Day golf tournament here in a play-off, defeating Jerry Chesnut, Omaha, 1-up on the second hole after they had tied at 159 for 36 holes.

This play-off business is strictly "old hat" to Reeg. He has been in many play-offs in tournament play the past year.

The 18-year-old golfer was a member of the WHS team. At Schuyler he tied for first place medalist and won the sudden death play-off.

At Norfolk in the district high school meet, he was tied for fifth place medalist. Again he won the sudden death play-off.

During the state high school tournament in Lincoln, he was tied with four others for first place medalist and placed third in the state in Class B in sudden death play-offs.

In the KVVU junior golf tournament at Sioux City, he placed third in a field of 45 top young golfers from three states. At Laurel he shot a closing 9-hole round of 34 to establish a new course record. He was third in the championship flight for that tournament.

Golf is one of his first loves so it is no surprise that he picked a college where he could play golf the year round. He leaves this week for Tucson to attend Arizona University. Of course, getting further education is his first purpose but those all year golf courses will probably be an attraction too.

TOP GOLFERS in the Labor Day tournament at Wayne. Brian Youngdahl and Wilson Dukes, champion and runner-up, shown with the trophies are: Bill Denkinger, Youngdahl, Ken Dahn and Dukes.

Sioux City Golfer Wins Tournament; John Fuelberth, Bob Reeg Top Locals

Brian Youngdahl, Sioux City, won the championship flight as 115 golfers took part in the Labor Day Weekend golf tournament in Wayne Sunday and Monday. John Fuelberth and Bob Reeg were tops among local golfers entered.

Youngdahl shot 71 and 71 rounds for a 36-hole total of 142, two under par. He beat Wilson Dukes, Central City for the first tie. Behind these two were Gejlen Sorenson of Harlan, John Fuelberth of Wayne and Bill Schultz of York.

Reeg won first in the first flight and was followed by Jerry Chesnut of Omaha and Al Svenningsson of Wayne. Joe Stanges, Yankton, won the second flight, finishing ahead of Dr. Frank Kowal of West Point and Phil March of Wayne.

Third flight winner was Alan Cramer of Wayne. Don Echtenkamp of Wayne finished second and Dr. A. D. Lewis and Wayne Marsh, both of Wayne, tied for third. Bill Jammer, Laurel, won the fourth flight, beating Mike Smith of Wayne and Gordon Hill of Omaha.

Winner of the fifth flight was Larry Stevenson of Wayne. L. J. Mallett (no address) was second and Dr. Meyer (no address), Dan Hansen, Bob Bergt and Max Titze, all of Wayne, tied for third.

Sixth flight winner was Darrell Blatchford of Laurel. Doug Lyman of Wayne was second and Keith Christofferson of Norfolk third. Jim Keating of Wayne won the seventh flight, finishing ahead of Wayne Tietgen of Wayne and Charles Perkins (no address).

The tournament was played under clear skies and near-perfect conditions. The course was in excellent shape, the prizes were generous and the tournament was acclaimed a success in every way.

Wayne State Opens 1966 Grid Season this Week

Wayne State unveils its 1966 football power Saturday night with a home opener against Southern State College of Springfield, S. D. Game time is 7:30 in Memorial Stadium.

What will Coach John Jermier be able to muster? At mid-week he saw as many question marks as he had earlier. The brief practice time—only two weeks before game night—handicaps development of squad which (1) has switched several 1965 defensive players to offense, (2) depends on numerous newcomers and (3) lacks a quarterback seasoned in the Wayne system.

In addition, several key players are injured and out of the first game at least. They include veteran tackle Dean Gerth and halfback Dennis Ard, both crippled with knee injuries, and Joe O'Hern, suffering a broken hand. Jim McNamara, a lettered lineman, has decided to leave up football because of a knee injury from last year, has not healed enough for play.

The search for punters and place kickers continues. Dennis Burt, a punty place kicker last year has a thigh injury which prevents kicking, although he is able to run as an offensive halfback. Last year's punters, Burt Matthes and Dean deBurr, both are gone. Steve Gunther, looks like the probable punter, Don Grubbaugh or Bill Munnick, the place kickers.

Gunther, a junior, currently rates the No. 1 quarterback role, with experience as a University of Nebraska freshman and Trinidad, Colo., Junior College sophomore behind him. His chief problem: learning Wayne's numerous plays from the winged-T and other offenses. Showing up well at quarterback is Larry Adams, who played the position occasionally two years ago but skipped football last year.

Jermier and Line Coach Max Lundstrom figure the line can open the way handily for a backfield that lacks offensive experience. Most of the backs worked mostly on defense a year ago and some of them may have to go both ways this year.

Fortifying the offensive line are a pair of transfers from the University of Iowa. Bernie Budzik and Bob Mitchell. Budzik, a guard, started for the Hawks in 1963 and 1964. Mitchell, a tackle and defensive guard, was a defensive starter for Iowa in 1964.

Dean Weible of Wayne anchors the middle of the defensive line at center, though he played defense most of the time last year.

Bob Kruse, an NAIA All-America second team choice in 1965, is solidly situated in an offensive guard spot.

Other line assignments are jelling, but still open for competition.

Strength of Southern's squad is unknown. The two teams have played five games, according to WSC records, the last time in 1940, when Wayne won 38-0 in four earlier games. Southern won three.

Change Game Date

The schedules were no sooner set for Wayne High school than it was learned one game had to be changed. West Point Central Catholic is shown on the schedules as being the Wayne opponent Friday, Oct. 21. West Point High also has a game at home that night and since the two teams use the same field,

Three New Cases in District Court Here

Three new cases have been filed in Wayne County district court during the month of August. John T. Bressler, clerk of the district court, has records on the cases.

Aug. 2, Jo Ann Thompson, Winside, filed suit for divorce against Gene Thompson. Another divorce case, Helen Bottolfsen, Wayne, versus Otto Bottolfsen, was filed Aug. 25.

The other new case to come up is Commercial Credit Equipment Corp. versus Robert Thomas. It is a replevin suit, the plaintiff seeking to regain possession of some equipment.

Blue Devils Open Grid Season Against Madison

Strictly an "unknown quantity" under a new coach and a new system with little if any weight, the Wayne High Blue Devils open their 1966 football season at home Friday against the Madison Dragons who have five of their starting eleven back from last year.

The game starts at 7:30 p.m. at the WSC football field. Coach Allen Hansen of WHS will be jumping right into Husker Conference competition after moving from Wakefield to Wayne.

Coach Hansen has named a tentative starting lineup for defense in case Wayne kicks and another in case the Blue and White receive. There could be changes by the time the opening whistle sounds.

If all goes as scheduled, the line will average 157 pounds, the backs 150 pounds and the team 154 pounds. Of the 23 named from which the starting 11 will be picked, 12 are juniors, seven seniors and four sophomores.

Several boys have impressed so far. Blecke is playing football for the first year but has jumped right into the starting post at center. Binger moved here from Texas and is playing football for the first time but is showing a lot of versatility.

Wayne will show the crowd a lot of action and a lot of thrills. Coach Hansen says. The Blue Devils may not win all the games but they will give the opposition a real tussle, he added.

Flag Football for Wayne Gets Start

Flag football for three groups and tackle football for one of the three started in Wayne last week. Hank Ogren is in charge of the boys and invites others to turn out.

The fourth and fifth grades have 20 boys out and need four more in order to have three eight man teams. They practice Tuesdays and Thursdays at 4 and Saturdays at 10:30.

Seventh and eighth grade boys practice Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 4. Games will be played between squads at 2:30 Saturdays. Some tackle will be played by the bigger boys among the 35 out in this division.

All practices and games are scheduled at the baseball diamond. A football field has been marked off for two teams plus two extras, 18 being out for practice. More are welcome. They practice Tuesdays and Thursdays at 4 and Saturdays from 1 to 2:30.

Games will be played in the outfield and eager graders are out there about any afternoon you can name playing flag football.

KNEELING DOWN to better show off three collections is Emil Reinhardt, who will display items at the Hobby Show this month. His wrenches, barbed wire and bridle bits are all superbly mounted for display.

Men's Hobbies of Interest in Area

The second annual hobby show sponsored by the Wayne County Historical Society Sept. 29 will accent the fact that men's hobbies can be of interest too. Last year exhibits by women dominated the show.

This year the WCHS is hoping to attract as many women as last year and a lot more men too. Some of the hobbies to be exhibited will be publicized the next few weeks.

One could hardly start off with a better example of men's hobbies than with Emil Reinhardt, Wayne. He has a lot of hobbies and all of them are of interest.

Some of his hobbies have been donated to the WCHS for a museum. Others he still works on at home.

One gift to the historical group was a set of wrenches. This consists of 21 old wrenches, not one of which is the Crescent type. Each one is different. Some date back as far as 1887, including what Reinhardt refers to as "cast iron knuckle skinners." His collection shows the progress of wrenches right up to the Crescent.

Another gift to the museum was a set of bridle bits. He collected 16 types, each one different. One was brought to this country in 1889. Some are as modern as today.

Also given to the museum was his barbed wire collection. He has 16 different types of barbed wire. While there are collectors with more different types, he can point out that every one of his came from fence used on the Reinhardt farm—and some are from fencing still in use.

Those hobbies might have been enough for most men but Reinhardt wanted to keep active after he moved to town in 1951. So, he also mounted trophies, gathered other items, worked at a shop in his basement and engaged in other activities while in partnership with a son and son-in-law in farming. In fact, he is still active in those fields.

He has a collection of pipes (the kind you smoke) that includes an Indian peace pipe, corn cob pipes and others. They come from 41 states. One looks like a pistol—evidently meant to put the barrel in the mouth, turn the pistol upside down and smoke. One is a miniature bathroom stool. Another is carved in a cowboy and hat shape. Another is a horse's head.

In the Reinhardt home are other examples of hobbies that are bound to keep a man busy. Mrs. Reinhardt can well be proud of many items around the house for not only are they attractive and useful; they were made by her husband.

One unusual lamp keeps everyone guessing as to what he used to make it. Even after he tells you it is hard to believe. It is made of hundreds of Copenhagen chewing tobaccos. A pair of "horns" mystifies everyone as only one person has ever guessed what animal they came from. They are not really horns but are four-inch spurs from a rooster, mounted to look like a set of horns.

There are also pictures Reinhardt framed, lamps he has made, an old carriage lamp he renovated, a kerosene lamp that uses a light bulb now, a muzzle-loading shotgun (which took his grandfather's hand off accidentally one day), an antique copper tea kettle, an old coffee grinder, an 1891 cowbell, old stove poker and other items of interest.

In the basement, he has a shop fixed up so he can do all kinds of work. On the walls he has old pictures. In various places there are other items from years gone by, all neatly arranged.

If it sounds as if the Reinhardt home would be an interesting place to visit, it's because it is an interesting place to visit. Modern, comfortable and attractive, it combines the hobbies with the comforts.

Reinhardt will have some of his hobbies, including those from the museum, on display at the hobby show in the auditorium this month. His and dozens of other displays will make the show bigger and better than last year's—for both women and men!

Police Investigate Two Wayne Accidents

Wayne police checked two accidents the past week. Only injuries were of the "whiplash" variety reported by one driver whose car was struck from the rear.

Aug. 29 at Third and Pearl, Ella Harrington, Wayne, was backing from an off-street parking stall. The rear of her car hit the side of an eastbound car stopped at a stop sign and driven by Glenn Schaefer, Wayne. Chief of Police Vern Fairchild investigated.

At Fourth and Main Sept. 3, Officer Keith Reed investigated the second mishap. Adolph Reikofski, Wayne was northbound. He stopped because the street was blocked by cars double-parked and the rear of his car was struck by another car. Identification of the latter driver was not learned.

CASH NIGHT

He is a driver for Abler Transfer. Although they live in the country, they do not farm, merely renting a farm house from the owner.

Because Test won Thursday, the prize this Thursday will be $150. While that is not as attractive as $400, it is still worth winning and besides, there are a lot of good buys offered in town and saving money is as good as winning money sometimes.

THREE FARMS

(Continued from Page 1) petition for 20 years. Wayne County farms compete with farms in Stanton, Madison, Pierce and Cedar Counties for further honors and each family will be guests at a banquet in November.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilliland began conservation work in 1944 and now have a terraced farm with contour plantings. A good crop rotation and pasture program is followed and they operate a large Grade A dairy enterprise.

In 1956 the Forks started their conservation program on a general livestock farm. Their land is terraced and all waterways are shaped and seeded. A good crop rotation and fertility program is followed.

Haffke bought his farm in 1962. He has seeded 70 acres of rough land back to native grasses. All crop land is terraced and farmed on the contour. They have constructed two large dams and plan to build up a beef herd.

HOSKINS HOSTS

Other speakers included Mrs. Lorraine Orr, North Platte, and Mrs. Adelaide Stubblefield, Shelton. Mrs. Orr is vice chairman of the Republican State Committee and Mrs. Stubblefield is president of the Nebraska Federation of Republican Women.

Mrs. James Robinson, Wayne County vice chairman, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Schroeder, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kollath and Mr.

and Mrs. George Langenberg, sr., were on the planning committee for the Hoskins gathering. Mrs. Schroeder and Mrs. Fred Brumels poured.

Mrs. Robinson introduced Mrs. Anne Batchelder, Omaha, national committeewoman, and one of the escorts on a state-wide tour.

Wayne County Republican organization officers present were: Mrs. Melvin Froehlich, wife of the chairman of the county central committee; Adon Jeffrey, immediate past president; Mrs. Jeffrey; Mrs. Lloyd Straight, secretary of the county committee.

Don Reed, treasurer of the county organization and candidate for county attorney; Mrs. Jane March, president of the county women's organization of the party; and Mrs. Charles Pierson, vice president of the county group. Leona Bahde, county treasurer and candidate for re-election, and C. A. Bard, county clerk, were introduced as representatives of the party in county offices.

The entire affair was much larger than had been expected but county and Hoskins officials drew praise for the manner in which it was conducted. The Hoskins gathering was one of many being planned throughout the state by a caravan of Republican women.

A picture of some of the distinguished members of the group at Hoskins appears on an inside page of this week's paper.

In addition, there are "separate entities" that will have their own drives. These entities and those in charge in each case are: Post Office, Don Wightman; Wayne State College, Dr. Dale Johansen; Dahl's Retirement Center, Ken Dahl;

City of Wayne employees, Dan Sherry; Wayne County Hospital, Mrs. Ted Armbruster; Wayne City Schools, Supt. Francis Haun; and Wayne County Courthouse, Mrs. Merton Hilton.

FARMER DIES

A search was started but when he could not be located, a missing person report was filed with the sheriff. A short time later, Gus Eckmann and Marvin Piel found Rieck in a granary on the Otto Kleansang farm 6 miles north and one-half east of Hoskins.

The doors to the granary were closed. The car was not running but the ignition was on, the car was out of gas and a board had been used to hold the gas pedal down to keep the car going. Rieck was found lying behind the car with his head resting on his folded coat.

An obituary of the deceased appears on another page.

PARKING RULE

(Continued from Page 1) day hours are from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. The rule does not apply to Sunday or holidays.

Chief of Police Vern Fairchild said the police department issued 38 warnings the first two days the signs were up. Warnings will be issued but if anyone gets "too many," they will get a summons to court. "Too many" was not defined.

The area covered by the two-hour parking law includes Main Street from First to Fourth and Second and Third Streets from Logan to Pearl.

There is talk of Girl Scouts organizing at Carroll and if this comes about, that town's troops will also be in this neighborhood.

There are around 130 girls taking part in Scouting in Wayne. This takes in girls seven years old through 17 years old. Any in that age group not now taking part will be welcomed as new members.

Wayne has one Cadette troop, two Junior troops, one Senior troop and two Brownie troops. All are resuming activities with the opening of school and the arrival of fall-like weather.

Thailand Youth Likes

Nebraska State Fair

Phadet Gawsombat, Thailand exchange student in Wayne, has been to a Nebraska State Fair and he likes it. He has been here a few weeks but he has done something many longtime residents have done since many admit to never attending the state fair.

The WHS youth who is staying in the Dr. J. M. Brown home, was a guest of Robert Boeckenhauer for the trip to Lincoln and the visit to the fair. He particularly liked the game commission area with its Indian displays and the state historical society exhibits of Nebraska's history.

He was also introduced to a full-blooded Indian and seemed to enjoy that. Walking around taking pictures of stands, crowds, rides and exhibits was an activity he seemed never to tire of. Farm machinery to space capsules, he liked most everything.

If he showed interest in 4-H work, it was because he has been in similar work in Thailand. If he came home a little bit weary, he was typical of the average fair-goer.

Dan Rees, John Claus and Maurine Boeckenhauer went with Phadet and Mr. Boeckenhauer. The first three named joined Larry Magnuson as Wayne County's livestock judging team at the fair.

Letters to The Editor

Dear Editor:
Note has been taken of the note taken of my letter, which is more note than that taken by a certain akademische Dregau of my equally literary gems. Your commentary is superb, really and royally. I demure only about calling the non-benedictine state so stable; indeed, in parlance of a bygone time, he who has talked an angel into purchase of a license to thereby, in no further need thereof, and you permit two usages of one word. (Or is to you a stable is a stable is a stable? At any, or at no, rate, Mr. Editor, superbly done; your talents (May I say so?) have previously been observed, nearly to the point of subscribing. Owned I a third chapeau, it too would I doff to you. Yours with continuingly proper consideration,
John H. Violette
Wayne, Nebr.

*Referring to my by you published second letter; reluctance by you to print my first is proof that a jester may/must be prudent and he like his state. (We subscribe to your theories. Now you can subscribe to our paper.—Editor)

ASCS Reviews 1967's ACP Program Plans

Wildlife conservation practices and other conservation activities contributing to increased recreational facilities will be a big portion of the 1967 agricultural conservation program in Wayne County and over the state and nation, according to John Mohr, ASCS county committee chairman.

ACP is the federal program providing cost-sharing assistance to farmers in carrying out needed conservation practices. Beautification - conservation practices and special ACP projects emphasize solutions to conservation problems, improvement in farm and ranch land appearance and improved economic conditions for farmers.

OFFER EXTRA FUNDS Under special ACP projects, extra funds are allocated participating farmers to carry out conservation practices benefiting both farms and communities. For instance, projects to control erosions on farms near a town or city prevent siltation in streams or reservoirs, thus improving the water supply.

Wildlife conservation practices will include establishment of food or habitat for wildlife through plantings, development or restoration of shallow water areas and construction of permanent ponds or dams, all contributing to increased recreational facilities.

Allocation of funds to states for ACP practices will be based on conservation needs as in the past. Within the national program authority, state and county ACP development groups formulate local programs which best meet area conservation problems.

Agronomy Field Day at Concord

Farmers of the area are invited to an Agronomy Field Day at Northeast Station, Concord, Wednesday, Sept. 14. There will be two identical tours, one starting at 9 and ending at noon and the other starting at 1:30 and ending at 4:30.

Gene Schwartz, area extension agronomist at the Concord station, said he and Elved Alexander will discuss the problems of corn rootworm beetles cutting corn yields, weeds becoming a problem in row crops and the best time to apply phosphorus on alfalfa as well as other topics.

State specialists to be present include Dr. Dale Flowerday, Dr. Loren Robinson and Dr. John Roselle. They will assist with the tours and help answer questions in regard to fertilizers, weed control and insecticides, respectively. All farmers and others interested in agriculture are invited to attend the sessions. Those who attend are sure to get valuable information from experts in their fields.

LADIES: Send me your favorite recipe (20 min. or less) in care of THE WAYNE HERALD. They'll all be printed in this column as space permits and every month I'll send a $5 check to the contributor of the LOCAL item judged best for that month by my staff.

Golden Wheaties Bars
4 cups wheaties, 1 cup salted peanuts, 1 cup coconut. Mix together the following: 1 cup sugar, 1 cup half and half.

We are now making permanent arrangements of fall colors. Bring us your vase and we will arrange flowers of your choice in them. Wayne Green House.

1/2 cup light syrup. Boil to soft ball stage (20 min. or more). Pour over first three ingredients. Mix well, pour into pan, press flat, cool, cut in squares. Marie Hoffman, Route 2, Wayne, Nebr. 68787.

For all your appliance needs, whether large or small, visit Tiedtke's. Also, tired of hard water? Let Tiedtke's install a soft water system in your house. Drop in today at Tiedtke's Plumbing and Heating.

To clean a sprayer in which 24D solution has been used so that other solutions can be used, place a quart of ammonia in each gallon of water in the sprayer. Stir well and let stand overnight. Rinse well. Mrs. Clark Banister, Wayne, Nebr. 68787.

Stop in and see the new 1967 color line. It's terrific! Many models and styles to choose from at Swanson Television.

Refrigerator Rolls
2 heaping tbsp. shortening in 1 cup boiling water, 1/2 cup sugar, 1 tsp. salt, 1 cup cold water - cool to luke warm. Dissolve 2 pkgs. yeast in 1/2 cup lukewarm water, add to mixture. Add 2 beaten eggs. Add 4 cups flour gradually.

For the latest in cosmetics, stop at the Cosmetic counter at Sav-Mor Drugs. A new item on the shelf, the new moisture lotion by "Bonnie Belle" will take care of your dry skin problems.

ually and beat well. Add 3 or more cups flour, knead dough on board, let dough rise in a warm place in greased bowl till doubled in bulk. Make into sweet dinner rolls, buns or raised donuts. This can be refrigerated and used as needed. Mrs. Perry Johnson, Carroll, Nebr. 68723.

Correction - sweet dill pickles When the sliced cucumbers are taken from the alum solution, they are rinsed, returned to the jar and boiling water poured over them, then let stand one day. Mrs. Banister, Wayne, Nebr.

Save more with everyday low prices on quality meats at Johnson's Lockers!

Eating grapefruit is a precarious operation at best. Cutting a thin, even slice of peel from each end of the fruit before cutting it into halves will at least prevent it from wobbling around while it's being eaten. M.M.

For a wonderful night out come to Connie's refreshments. Connie's Red Satin Lounge - open nightly except Sunday.

If your family likes potatoes that are peeled after they're boiled or if you're making potato salad, here's a time-saver. Peel a belt from around the middle of each potato before boiling. When they're done you can pinch the rest of the skin from the ends very easily. M.M.

Look ladies, you can now have a list, shampoo and set in one hour with the new Color-Master machine at Pat's Beauty Salon!

Dixon Farmer Loses Shucks, Not Trucks

Fire in corn shucks threatened two trucks and a corn sheller four miles north of Dixon Tuesday of last week. The shucks were burned but the trucks and sheller were saved.

Several farmers were at the Bill Garvin place shelling corn. They had about 400 bushels left to shell when the fire broke out. At the time the men were in the house for a snack when Garvin saw smoke coming from the pile of corn shucks. The Dixon Rural Fire Department was called and the trucks were moved.

Had the fire been discovered a moment later, the trucks and sheller would have burned too. As it was, the only damage was in shucks, the corn itself being saved.

Meredit Johnson and L. D. Thompson are owners of the trucks involved and Dea Karens owns the sheller. Cause of the blaze is still not known.

Dixon Boys Top Two-County Show

Keith and Regg Lubberstedt, Dixon, topped the Dixon-Cedar 4-H calf show and sale at Laurel Tuesday of last week. It was the second year in a row for the pair to win top honors.

The two are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Lubberstedt. Their entries won championship steer and championship heifer honors among 94 entries of 4-H fat calves.

Ray Switzer, Sioux City, judged stock, and representatives of Morrell and Hormel appraised entries. Dick Paine, Yankton, was master of ceremonies with area auctioneers donating their services.

Jim Thompson, 11, youngest auctioneer in the state, sold his cousin's calf in his first "professional" appearance. He sold the animal for $6,000 above the appraised price. Hanson Elevators, Concord and Dixon, buying the animal.

Keith Lubberstedt's steer was bought by State National Bank, Wayne, for $12 a hundred and Regg's heifer went to Wagon Wheel Steak House, Laurel, for $30 a hundred. Arthur Lumber, Randolph, bought the reserve champion steer shown by Chuck Sobler and Atokah bought Brian Markling's second place heifer. These latter two brought $35 and $30 respectively. Other steer calves were sold by Chuck Sobler, Bill Dickey, Dennis Dickey, Joe McCoy, Doug Tuttle, Cindy Sobler, Jim Schroeder, Regg Oadekin, George Schroeder, Mickey Kunzman, Kenneth Stark, Kirk McCoy, Gloria Tuttle and Paul McCoy, Laurel; Steve Erwin and Tom Erwin, Concord;

Cheryl Kahl, Dennis Kahl, Duane Pearson, Jim Hank and Richard Bokemper, Wakefield; Nancy Chapman, Connie Schau, Wayne Chapman, Colleen Chapman, Kent Sachau and Mary Ann Freichs, Allen; and Regg Swanson and Michael Dunklau, Wayne.

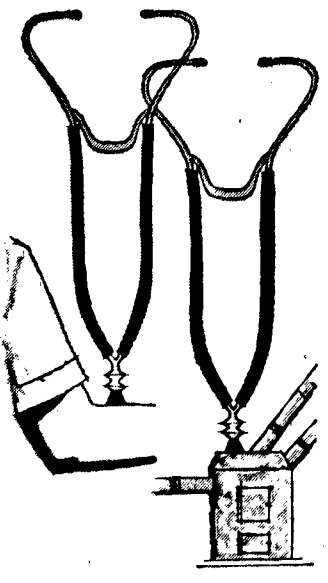

Heifers were consigned by Regg Lubberstedt, Dixon; Brian Mackling, Emerson; Dale Magnuson, LaMont Sobler, Randy Patefield, Tony Kunzman, Sheila Kunzman, Denise Magnuson, Mike McCoy, Kathleen Stark and Roger Anderson, Laurel.

Bill Sachau, Kathy Chapman, Al Lee, Don Hank, Bruce Johnson, Gary Hank, Wakefield; Rodney Erwin, Concord; LuAnn Dunklau, Wayne.

Karen Peitz, Hartington, and John Schroeder, Laurel, were winners of the showmanship awards.

Winside Classes Name Officers to Election

Winside High School pupils elected class officers at an election the past week. Supt. James Christensen reveals that boys head every class but one and hold 13 of the 20 elective positions. Linda Gohring is president of the senior class and is the only president from the distaff side. Other officers are Gene Barg, vice president; Connie Nydahl, secretary; Randy Brudigan, treasurer; and Keith Krueger, student council.

Offer Flight Training

Recruiting stations for the army are accepting applications for the warrant officer flight training program, according to SFC Coleman, Norfolk. Those 18 1/2 to 30 years old who are high school graduates, weigh less than 200 pounds and between 5'4" and 6'4" in height are eligible. Preflight and primary training last 33 weeks and fixed week training lasts 34 weeks. As an army pilot, those completing the course get $100 above the basic warrant officer salary, quarters and subsistence allowance of $431.28 and other benefits. More information can be secured at the Norfolk recruiting office of the army.

Hoskins Spruces Up With Street Work, New Buildings, Improved Store Fronts

Hoskins continues to set a pace for other small towns to try to follow. Street improvements, new structures and a dressed up business district are obvious to visitors.

Mayor Ed Kollath said all surfaced streets except Main Street were given a new coat of asphaltic oil the past week by North Iowa Asphalt Co. Main Street was left out of the project because it was resealed last summer.

In downtown Hoskins there are three improvements. Hoskins Manufacturing Co. has a new attractive front and identification sign plates; Hoskins Grocery has been repainted and a new lighted sign put up; and Frink & Anderson service station has been painted.

Construction work includes one house just started, another home just completed and a third completed not too long ago. Trinity Lutheran School has had an addition built on and more construction is contemplated.

The sewer line to the new addition east of town has been laid. All over town there is an evidence of pride in the appearance of the town which led visitors from bigger cities who attended the gathering for Mrs. Tiemann last Wednesday to comment on what an attractive little town Hoskins is and what good meeting facilities the Fellowship Hall provides.

Lift Station at Winside Readied

The lift station at the new Winside sewer lagoon is scheduled to be put in Friday, Sept. 9. This is one of the last steps remaining before the lagoon goes into operation.

Mayor N. L. Ditman said Wayne Public Water District will put in lines to feed electricity to the sewage disposal area. When this is completed, the lagoon-filling process will start.

A 6 2/3 acre "lake" is planned south of town and work preparing it has been going on all summer. Fencing is being up around the lagoon area for although the water will not be deep, it could be dangerous for youngsters.

Winside is presently dumping raw sewage into Logan Creek. The new lagoon is one recommended by the state after ordering towns dumping raw sewage to build sewage disposal systems of one type or another.

State Pushing Pork Production, Eating

Wayne County pork producers along with those all over the state, have a stage in a well-financed pork promotion plan. The feed grain in the state would feed 8 million hogs while the state is presently feeding 4.5 million.

It is being pointed out how Nebraska's location in relation to the expanding west coast and its feed grain production are factors that much is at stake. The way to get more swine in the feedlots is to get more pork on the tables, Nebraska pork producers feel.

Wayne County pork producers and those in the rest of the state will be asked to secure ballots and fill them out. They should also visit neighbors and encourage them to get ballots and vote.

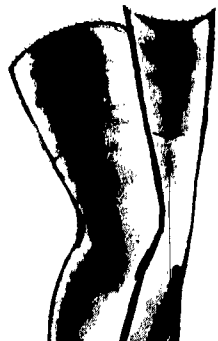

Support of state and local swine organizations, efforts to produce a pork with less fat and graded No. 1 and holding of more carcass shows to evaluate the meat are ways local people can help. plan by ballot, pork promotion will be spread out over wide areas to reach population centers. With more demand, the market should be better than ever.

Ballots can be obtained from Dr. Lucas, Animal Science Building, East Campus, NU, Lincoln, Nebr. 68503.

Dutch Elm Disease Continues Spread

The spread of Dutch Elm Disease is continuing in Nebraska and now is in counties bordering Wayne County as can be seen by the accompanying map. State and local authorities are concerned about how to control spread of the disease.

First detected in the state in 1960, it has now been identified in 41 counties and has killed thousands of beautiful elms. The principal shade tree of the eastern half of the state, the elm may be doomed unless disease spread can be halted.

Dutch Elm Disease is a fungus brought to this country from Europe about 35 years ago. In 35 decades it has spread from the coastline to the heart of America and Canada.

From the map, it can be seen that the disease is spreading westward from 35 to 50 miles each year. Beetles breed in dead elms, the young go on to healthy trees and infect them, their young move on and the spread continues.

Chinese elms are resistant but American elms do not have much chance against the disease. Other types of elms fall in between these two as far as resistance goes.

East of here, the appearance of towns has been changed through the loss of elms. Millions of dollars have been allocated locally and on a state level to stop further tree destruction.

DETECTING DISEASE
Wilted and yellowing leaves on one or more branches usually indicate presence of the disease. Leaves that have wilted fall prematurely. Dead limbs intermix with healthy branches.

Lab testing is necessary for positive identification and only living branches can be tested. The leaves are not used in this testing. Infected trees may live one season but usually die a year after hit. Some have lived as long as three years after symptoms were noticed.

Wayne County residents suspicious of their trees being infected, should contact County Agent Harold Ingalls to find out what kind of samples are needed for positive checking. Residents of other counties should contact their extension agent.

The college of agriculture is preparing a report on how to prevent the spread of Dutch Elm Disease. It will be offered as soon as possible.

Ends Instructor Course

Capt. James Sandin, Newman Grove, has been graduated from the air force instructor course at Randolph AFB, Tex. He is now assigned to Lackland AFB, Tex., as an instructor. His wife is the former Gloria Reimers, Laurel. Capt. Sandin is a 1960 NU graduate with BS degree and was commissioned through the ROTC program.

Dixon School Has Enrollment of 50

Dixon Elementary School opened Monday, Aug. 29, with an enrollment of 50. Eight grades are being offered with kindergarten to be offered the second semester.

Mrs. Wilma Lund teaches first and second, Mrs. Esther Peterson third, fourth and fifth and Mrs. Rita Stanley sixth, seventh, and eighth. Mrs. Janice Hartman is substitute teacher but will teach music full time and kindergarten the second semester.

There are two classes with nine pupils each, which is the largest of any class. The eighth grade is the smallest with three enrolled.

Following are the enrollments by classes as provided by the principal, Mrs. Stanley: First 9; second 6; third 9; fourth 7; fifth 6; sixth 5; seventh 5 and eighth 3.

Dixon pupils in the ninth through twelfth grades attend Allen High School for the most part. However, some are enrolled at Laurel.

IFYE Youth at Laurel

The Warren Patefields, Laurel, have had an International Farm Youth Exchange student staying in their home several weeks. Thursday he was guest speaker at a community gathering at the Logan Center EUB Church. He leaves this week to visit elsewhere in Nebraska. His name is Andhra Pradesh, India.

How Would You Like To Take Trip To South America With Area Friends?

The Wayne Herald and its monthly supplement, Farm & Home, are co-sponsoring 25-day tours to South America this winter. It is felt many area residents may want to be gone during the coldest days of winter here when it is summer in the southern hemisphere.

Tours are arranged to leave five different dates. If a group wants to go any certain date, it will be that much more fun as being among friends and neighbors will be more enjoyable than being among strangers.

Tours are all first class air transportation with meals, sight-seeing and lodging included. Tours will leave Chicago Dec. 11, Jan. 15, Feb. 5, Mar. 5 and Apr. 9.

Peru, Chile, Buenos Aires, Brazil and Argentina will be visited. Carnival in Rio, the Inca ruins in the Andes Mountains, an Argentine ranch, Copacabana Beach, Lima, Santiago, Buenos Aires, Sao Paulo (fastest growing city in the world) and many other places will be visited.

Arrangements will be made for transportation from Wayne via Braniff International to South America. Other groups will leave from other cities in the Midwest to meet the first day in South America in Lima.

If you decide to go, instructions will be sent for getting a passport, what inoculations you will need and other requirements. A tour folder will be sent to anyone requesting it.

Those from this area wishing to take this Herald-sponsored tour can get full information on what all is included in the tour, what the costs are and what places will be visited by writing: Farm and Home Tours, 20 North Carroll Street, Madison, Wis. 53703.

If you want to get more information before writing the above address, call The Herald, 475-2600, and ask for the editor, Chas. Greenlee. He will be able to give you information on whether others from this area are interested in the blizzard-missing tour.

WHS Enrollment Soars; Junior High Total Down

Enrollment in Wayne High School has jumped by 25 over last year but junior high enrollment is down 19, Supt. Francis Haun reveals. The present freshman class gets credit for both classes.

There were 91 eighth grade pupils in Wayne last year. With rural and parochial pupils added, this class zoomed to 132 this year, the largest single class in the high school's history. Last year's eighth grade was 19 pupils ahead of the seventh grade and 22 more than this year's eighth grade.

There are 415 in high school compared to 391 last year. Junior high enrollment is 150, down 19 from last year. Grade school figures (K-6) are exactly the same, 531 each year.

Carroll has 79 pupils in K-6, West Elementary 292 and Northeast Elementary 160. Carroll's biggest class is the fourth grade with 14 pupils while the first grade with nine is smallest. Largest and smallest for the other two schools are: West, 51 in kindergarten and 28 in fifth; and Northeast, 28 in fifth and 18 in second.

Totals for the entire Wayne-Carroll District by grades are: Kindergarten 89, first 78; second 63; third 77; fourth 77; fifth 68; sixth 79; seventh 78; eighth 72; ninth 132; tenth 84; eleventh 101; and twelfth 98.

Mrs. Inez Doeckenhauer, remedial teacher, is teaching kindergarten for Mrs. Gladys Macklin, who is recovering from surgery. Mrs. Wilbur Giese is teaching first grade for Mrs. Judy Koenig until Mrs. Koenig returns.

Scouts Will Hold Membership Drive

Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts and Explorers of Lewis & Clark District will take part in a membership roundup for the next 3 1/2 months. All districts in the Mid-America Council will take part.

Every Cub, Explorer or Scout who recruits a new boy will receive a four-color patch for his uniform; packs, troops and posts achieving goals will get honor unit certificates; and successful unit leaders will get roundup tie bars.

Two-fold purpose is to bring former Scouts who "strayed away" during the summer months back to units and to invite new boys to join. A Sept. 1 to Dec. 16 campaign is planned.

Dr. L.A. Jensen, Wayne, is one of the 14 district commissioners planning the membership drive. Pat Jolley, Wayne, is the Lewis & Clark District executive.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The editorial department of a weekly newspaper is an important department. Normally it is one person's opinion of topics that concern most of the readers.

It is the duty of an editorial writer to search all available facts before he sits down to write. From this basis the writer should be able to give a clear picture of important topics.

You may not agree with an editorial — but if you read the editorial and give serious thought to the subject discussed you have gained. You, as a reader, have given careful thought to an important problem and the writer is proud to have called your attention to an important subject that you may have overlooked.

The State's 'Whipping Boy'

Omaha, used as the state's "whipping boy" in so many ways, has been the target of another attack by the Pierce County Leader. Bill Cox said the Interstate should not have been built into downtown Omaha.

Cox says the Interstate goes around Des Moines — but fails to point out that a branch of the Interstate goes into downtown Des Moines.

He says the Interstate misses Lincoln — but does not describe the network of Interstate routes leading into the Lincoln business area.

It might be cited that in every part of the nation Interstate roads have been built into business sections. Omaha is the only big town in the state so it should not be treated differently. It generates the traffic and it deserves the route.

In the Southwest, Phoenix has Interstate 10 and 17 right into the business district. In the South, Birmingham has three routes, 20, 65 and 59, going to downtown areas. In the mountain states, Denver has Interstate 70, 25 and 80S all going through the heart of town. The same situation exists in the Midwest with 94, 55 and 90 into downtown Chicago, in the West with 80 into downtown San Francisco, in the Southeast with 95 to downtown Miami. In fact, in most cases throughout the nation, the Interstate does serve business districts which is what they are designed to do, get people across the country and into the areas where they want to do business.

This paper has editorially called for more routes of four-lane roads to Omaha. It is the chief trade center of the state and it is the primary growth area. If Omaha doesn't grow greater, Nebraska doesn't have much of a chance to do better, either.

Iowa has done a better job of building roads to feed the Omaha area. No one should begrudge Omaha what road work it has obtained. With one-third to one-half the population of the state in its metropolitan area, it has a right to expect something besides complaints. — CEG

Dangerous Days Ahead

This is the time of year when Wayne County corn grows high. It's nice to see but it makes some mighty dangerous interchanges.

Then there are the tractors and the harvest equipment. It just isn't possible to move them without the use of state and county roads. Necessarily they are slow-moving vehicles.

Some farmers have installed "SMV" reflecting plates on equipment to be driven or hauled on highways. This helps a lot, protecting them and protecting the other people using the roads too.

Nothing can take the place of careful driving. It's just too easy to speed down a country road with the idea there will be no cross traffic because there has been none at other times. There was no one over the crest of the last hill — but that doesn't mean there will be none over the crest of the next.

We like our farmer friends. We want them around for Christmas. New Year's and the many other good times ahead. We want you around too.

When you drive, on county roads especially, be leery of those interchanges. Perhaps 99 times out of 100 no one is going to be tearing down a road running 90 degrees to the one you are on — but who wants to meet someone on that one time out of a hundred there is someone crossing the road you're using?

It's no fun to be crippled for life. It's even worse to be in an accident where someone is killed.

Being careful may take more time and you may chuckle to yourself for being over-cautious but we hope you'll be just as "over-cautious" next time. Just because you were lucky once doesn't mean you'll be lucky next time.

Please be careful, Wayne Countyites. Stick around and see what 1967 brings. — CEG

It's A Real Shame

With all the beautiful trees in Wayne, some people have expressed dislike for the method of trimming currently underway. In the trimming project are the elms susceptible to Dutch Elm Disease and other types of trees not affected by the disease.

Down have come huge limbs which have contained a multitude of branches, twigs and leaves. Out of the tops of trees have come some of the uppermost branches that topped off the trees, but were dying.

It's a real shame to see them go. In fact, one has to agree with one resident that the trees do look "naked." Another has suggested that when crews get through "the trees look like palm trees."

However, there is little choice. Dutch Elm Disease is on the move and the only way to stop it is to remove dead limbs. The city has authorized cutting as many as possible at a cost of $2,000 but there are areas that will not be touched this year.

Why trim the other trees too? Why not just one? For one thing the appearance will be better with all trees trimmed than it would be with a huge overhanging tree in the middle of a group where trees have been "scalped" as one resident calls it.

Wayne State College is willing to work with the city on the tree-saving project. With 80 per cent of the trees on the "Midwest's most beautiful campus" being elms, WSC has much at stake.

Of course it is discouraging to see the big limbs sawed away, leaving ugly scars. Everyone hates to lose the shade. Nevertheless, it is better to save some of the tree than to allow Dutch Elm Disease to take it entirely.

The town of Primrose after the tornado looked devastated, as indeed it was. The one thing that town found hardest to replace was the stand of trees grown through the years. It will take generations before Primrose is once again a pretty little town.

Wayne, and all other towns in the area face the danger of a tornado hitting certain seasons of the year. Most will be missed. But it's a different matter with Dutch Elm Disease. Every city will be hit and the effects will be least noticeable where something is done about the disease in advance.

It's a shame to see the trees denuded this way, but it would be shameful to let them go and see disease take them. The city is doing the right thing and each citizen with an elm in his yard would be helping the city and himself by seeing that the same protection is given his trees. — CEG

Secretary of State Known As Official Notary Public

LINCOLN — Registering a corporation? Forming a cattle brand? Or do you want to check the total vote cast in your county last statewide election?

The man to see is the Nebraska Secretary of State, whose duties are not in the least bit similar to those of Dean Rusk.

The secretary of state could be described as Nebraska's official notary public if there were such a title. He must call the shots for big business as well as protect the little guy.

everything imaginable. It all fits into the picture of comprehensive state government.

The internal structure of the office consists of brand, real estate and corporation divisions. This involves about 22 full-time employees and more than 70 field inspectors.

The average monthly staff payroll is about $31,000. The secretary of state receives $10,500 a year. Two years ago the job paid $9,000.

A key position within the office is that of administrative assistant. He is often the bread-and-butter answer man because of the manifold responsibilities which require the time of the secretary of state himself.

There is also a corporations and elections counsel to give advice on knotty judicial and legal problems. He is paid on a special retainer fee basis.

A mammoth task is that of keeping a file of all articles of incorporation, consolidation and changes in articles. Annual license and filing fees must also be collected.

The secretary of state is authorized to penalize corporations failing to remit proper license fees, and such has been the case in the past.

State law also requires the secretary of state to administer and establish a state records management program for the selection and preservation of essential state records. However, this has been virtually impossible to date because no appropriation has ever been made for the job.

Another important function of the secretary of state is to register and collect fees from lobbyists during sessions of the legislature.

This task has taken on increasing importance in the past few years because of the growing number of special interest groups and legislative concern over protection of all persons—even those that cannot afford paid lobbyists.

During sessions of the Unicameral, the secretary of state files periodic reports with members of the legislature listing the number of lobbyists and the organizations they represent.

The secretary of state must also arrange for primary and general elections. He receives filing fees for all candidates for state office.

Additionally, the secretary of state is responsible for reporting campaign expenses of political candidates amounting to more than $25. He files a list of receipts and expenditures of the candidates after each election.

All private defective licenses issued in Nebraska come from the secretary of state's office. Other duties: —Chief coordinator for continuity of government under the Nebraska civil defense survival plan.

—Responsible for registering all cattle brands and for making sure no duplication results. This is especially important in western ranch areas.

—Responsible for recording trade-marks and labels.

has ever been made for the job.

Another important function of the secretary of state is to register and collect fees from lobbyists during sessions of the legislature.

This task has taken on increasing importance in the past few years because of the growing number of special interest groups and legislative concern over protection of all persons—even those that cannot afford paid lobbyists.

During sessions of the Unicameral, the secretary of state files periodic reports with members of the legislature listing the number of lobbyists and the organizations they represent.

The secretary of state must also arrange for primary and general elections. He receives filing fees for all candidates for state office.

Additionally, the secretary of state is responsible for reporting campaign expenses of political candidates amounting to more than $25. He files a list of receipts and expenditures of the candidates after each election.

All private defective licenses issued in Nebraska come from the secretary of state's office. Other duties: —Chief coordinator for continuity of government under the Nebraska civil defense survival plan.

—Responsible for registering all cattle brands and for making sure no duplication results. This is especially important in western ranch areas.

—Responsible for recording trade-marks and labels.

Carl Curtis CAPITOL COMMENTS

All Nebraskans can be proud of the appearance made by the mayor of their largest city before a Senate subcommittee looking into urban problems.

Mayor A. V. Sorensen of Omaha spelled out in detail the difficulties he has experienced in dealing with Federal agencies as he attempted to come to grips with housing and other problems of low-income groups during the first 15 months of his administration.

In my estimation as a member of the Executive Reorganization Subcommittee of the Government Operations Committee, Mayor Sorensen was the outstanding witness among chief executives of all cities, including New York and Los Angeles, who appeared before the subcommittee.

The Omaha Mayor was stolid, forthright, direct and refreshingly frank in his testimony. He said Omaha has problems but none too serious for local leadership to solve provided it has the wholehearted cooperation of the state and Federal governments.

He did not come to Washington with his hand out, and he bluntly told the Senators that the appropriation of vast new sums of Federal money will not solve any problems unless improved ways are provided for administering and distributing the money.

There has been great waste in the Federal anti-poverty program. The money and other forms of help have not reached the people who need it. Similar efforts on a smaller scale have been much better managed in the past by church organizations and non-profit charitable groups.

Government bureaucrats without any experience in the field are trying to pre-empt the work of churches and private charitable organizations. They are trying to achieve with much fanfare what these groups have been doing quietly, more effectively and at much less cost for many years.

The experiences related by the majority of the major cities to the subcommittee are stark testimony to the failure of the government effort. Mayor Sorensen stated it very well when he said there is unrest in our cities today because Federal promises were made which could not be kept.

The Omaha mayor did not criticize and then stop. He proposed changes which will enable the Federal agencies to get on the ball by bringing private enterprise into the anti-poverty fight on a larger scale. He proposed a system of financing that will allow more decisions to be made at the local level with a lesser demand on the Federal Treasury. His suggestions would amplify the role and work of church and other charitable organizations in the total effort.

— (CCC) — Sarah Jane Sully Cunningham of McCook, the new President of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women, made a hit at a press conference in Washington recently.

The Washington Post carried an article quoting the Nebraskan at some length on the front page of its section for and About Women.

"Just think," Miss Cunningham, was quoted as saying, "Negroes are guaranteed due process, but a woman in several states, can be tried by juries from which women have been systematically excluded."

Her own state of Nebraska, she said with a wry laugh, has "the craziest state of all."

The Nebraska law stipulates that "no woman may serve on the District court jury unless the District judge has certified that the rest room facilities in the courtroom are adequate," she explained.

Miss Cunningham made the comments in connection with the Civil Rights Acts of 1964 and 1965, as well as the bill now being considered by Congress containing a provision sought by BPW to forbid states from excluding women from jury service or applying separate qualifications to them.

Letters to The Editor

Dear Editor: I see by The Herald that Logan, Main and Pearl streets were chosen for beautification of trees. We happen to be one of the unfortunates — we live on Pearl street. The common greeting on our house now is not "hello" or "good evening" but "Heavens, what did they do to your trees?" They aren't really ours of course, they belong to the city, but they are (or rather, were) an asset to our property.

It was my understanding that the city was concerned about Dutch Elm disease and were going to spend the tree trimming money on trying to prevent the spread of this disease. One of the trees on our front terrace as an ash, the other a hybrid elm (which is resistant to Dutch Elm disease).

Maybe I am wrong, but I feel much more would have been gained if only elms that might be affected had been trimmed and more streets covered. I am a property owner, therefore a taxpayer. I am also a tree lover and would hate to lose any trees in our beautiful city to Dutch Elm disease because controlling measures were not or could not be taken.

Sept. 17, 1936: Wayne county poultry club, Bonnie Jo Martin and Lucile Rohlow, placed third in the state fair contest at Lincoln last week. A committee from Wayne plans to go to Lincoln within a few days to interview Governor R. L. Cochran and Engineer A. C. Tilley about the possibility of getting an improved highway north and south through Wayne, joining highways No. 8 west of Wisner and No. 20 east of Laurel. Several Carroll young folks went to Wayne to enroll at the college Monday. Among them were David Garwood, Lucille Rees, Robert and Ray Link, Etta Jenkins, Viola Thomas, Albert Swihart, Gilmore Saha, Charles and Alvin Osborne, Jessie Gemmill, Hannah Mills, Lucille Paulsen, Opal Swanson and Wilma Jones.

25 Years Ago

Sept. 11, 1941: Eugene Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Johnson, who had been employed in Pennsylvania, is now enlisted in company A, 30th engineer training battalion, Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. Contracts for a modern fireproof office and hospital costing $40,000, exclusive of equipment have been let by Dr. Walter Benthack. The program of piano and vocal music given by Harold Arp, 17, of Carroll, from radio station WJAG, Norfolk, was enjoyed by many listeners. Harold, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Arp was graduated this spring from the Nebraska school for blind. Nebraska City, A. C. Adell Donald Edger Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Peterson of Wayne, has completed his preliminary instruction at the naval reserve aviation base, Kansas City, Kan.

Sept. 12, 1946: Wayne high school students met Tuesday to elect student council representatives. Dick Carver and Virginia Meyer are senior representatives, DeVee Reikofski and Marilyn Gamble, juniors, and Phyllis Foster and Dorothy Bilson, sophomores. Sophomore class officers are: Faunoid Palmer president, Mitzel Heine vice president, and Claire Simmerman secretary-treasurer. Wayne county Red Cross chapter, meeting Saturday at Wayne city school, selected Mrs. H. D. Addison as junior Red Cross chairman, Miss Marion Miller as in charge of home nursing classes at Hoskins. Mrs. Lawrence Ring is county chairman. Ben Mayer and Dr. A. G. Adams are delegates of Wayne county War Bonds to the national convention to be held September 15-17 in Kansas City. Budd B. Burnhoff, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Burnhoff, has been chosen as a member of the University of Nebraska law college honor students' board of editors for the Nebraska Law Review for the coming year.

in the operation of food waste disposers but it is comparable to a dishwasher. Since most manufacturers recommend using a separate 115 volt, 15 ampere A-C current, equipped with a time-delay fuse or circuit breaker, correct wiring before installation should be assured. Services of a professional plumber are also needed for proper installing of the disposer. It is definitely not a do-it-yourself job.

Disposers use on the average about 6 gallons of water daily. The cold water used in this operation washes the ground waste down the drain and cleans the unit after the grinding stops. Manufacturer's instructions usually caution against the use of chemical drain cleaners. The cold water is sufficient as a cleaning agent.

The waste disposer can handle most food scraps except for large bones or hard sea food shells. Some models will handle soft paper napkins and newspapers and most paper wrappings, cans and bottles need to be disposed some other way. As in the case of other electrical appliances, the warranty and care-use manual which comes with the disposer need to be studied carefully and stored in a handy place.

These gases are both dangerous at this time of the year, however, they may be even more dangerous when the silo is opened for use during the winter, Schneider said.

A disease known as "silo-fill gas" disease also may occur. The symptoms are similar to those of pneumonia.

Schneider listed these precautions when working with enclosures: 1. Do not enter a silo for one week after filling.

2. Run the blower for 10 to 15 minutes before entering the silo. Be alert for irritating odors. 3. The silo should be overworked, straw or berry plantings result in less vigorous plants and reduce berry yields. Strawberry plantings should be thinned as soon as possible after the season's harvest is completed.

Many growers prefer to go in to their plantings with a disc, cultivator or rake and tear out extra plants. A strawberry planter can look pretty and after such drastic treatment — but with adequate water and fertilizer the plants will snap back soon and grow well for the remainder of the season.

Two to three plants per square foot on your renovated planting should be sufficient for a good strawberry crop next year.

It's a good idea to add some fertilizer to your strawberry planting to replenish nutrients which this year's crop has taken away. A complete fertilizer — one that contains nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium — is best.

By waiting until the crop is in the ripe or mature stage, we can expect about an eight per cent increase in milk-producing value per acre.

In the NU research, it was found that the moisture content was 67 per cent in the mature stage of sorghum compared to 81 per cent in the milk stage. If the moisture is excessively high in moisture at the time it is harvested, the result is higher seepage losses, less desirable type of fermentation, lower dry matter content of the feed, and the handling of a lot of water in putting up the crop.

Proper harvesting means not only cutting the crop at the right stage of maturity but also at the proper moisture, chopping the crop fine and seeing that it is properly packed in the silo.

Planning to fill any silos this year?

If so practice caution, advises Robin D. Schneider, Extension Safety Specialist at the University of Nebraska.

Schneider points out that both carbon dioxide and methane are given off during the silage fermentation process. These heavier than air, colorless and odorless gases can cause suffocation due to the shutting off of the oxygen supply. Methane is also flammable, but will usually not burn due to its low concentration.

These gases are both dangerous at this time of the year, however, they may be even more dangerous when the silo is opened for use during the winter, Schneider said.

Up Dixon County way they're hailing the rejuvenation and revival of the county fair at Concord. Many feel that one man has played a big part in rebuilding the celebration. Norman Anderson, Concord postmaster, was named secretary several years ago when the fair was in bad shape, attendance was poor and the 4-H division was about to be pulled out for a separate show. Carnivals disliked playing there. Anderson reorganized, rebuilt and gained more cooperation than ever before. He takes a week of his vacation to spend full time on fair activities and he also works on the project the other 51 weeks too. For that reason, a resident of Dixon County suggests a journalistic bouquet be sent his way. Orchids to you—oops, Concord is the state's mummy capital—mums to you, Postmaster Anderson!

Dentist: "Now will you please stop waving your hands and making faces. I haven't even started working on your tooth."
Patient (mumbling through a mouth full of instruments): "I know, but you're standing on my corns."

We presume the situation in Nebraska is comparable to that in Illinois. In the latter state, according to the Baptist Church bulletin last week, there were more lung cancer deaths than there were traffic deaths in 1965. Also pointed out was the fact that every sixth cancer victim has cancer of the lungs, non-smokers rarely have cancer of the lungs and most lung cancer cases involve tobacco smokers. Will any lung cancer victims volunteer to express their wish publicly that they had never started smoking? Such an expression might save some of our young people now in an age when those who do try smoking are starting younger than ever, meaning they will probably get lung cancer sooner and die younger. It's difficult to get a lung cancer victim to make a statement after he's dead but maybe one given while he's being treated would help.

First KP: "It says here on the menu, 'cold boiled ham.' What's cold boiled ham?"
Second KP: "You stupid? It's ham boiled in cold water."

If you take the Reader's Digest we hope you notice two ads facing each other in the September issue. One is for a dog food that looks like hamburger and offers all sorts of nutrients for your dog. Facing it is a picture of an upset garage can in a slum area where children have been scavenging for their food for the day. Maybe the irony doesn't get to you, but it got to us.

A minister was called upon to officiate at the last rites of a stranger. Well along in the eulogy, he looked at the card in his hand, saw "Marion Schmoor," and realized it could be the name of a man or a woman. At this point, he simply had to know, he paused, signalled to the organist for a musical interlude, and beckoned to a nearby mourner.

Pointing to the casket, he whispered, "Brother or sister?"
The mourner whispered back, "Cousin."

When you go to a clinic such as Mayo's, you have time, time, time. In one waiting room, the people were talking about movies. "Virginia Woolf" was showing at one downtown Rochester theatre and almost everyone in that waiting room had seen it (or at least part of it). We went too (as time hung heavy) and never has $1.25 been so wasted. The movie was not good, the acting might have sufficed but the vulgarity is the dirty joke type you can hear at some pool halls. Not one person present in the waiting room said they had enjoyed it. Several said they had walked out on it and many said they were disgusted with it. It has not shown here yet but we presume it will draw packed houses and that's good news for the theatre owners, friends of ours. The best news though is that kids will not be admitted unless with parents. We can't imagine many parents taking their kids to this, not just because it's a movie with some dirty words but because it's a waste of time and money. (Our opinion holds even if it wins awards. It stinks.)

Wife (after card game): "Good grief, dear, what on earth made you bid no trump? I had three aces, four kings and two queens."
Husband (sheepishly): "Well, I bid on three jacks, two tens and four drinks."

Football starts this week at Winside and Wayne. We're expecting some exciting moments, produced by both the Wildcats and the Blue Devils. We are much impressed with the new Wayne High coach, and we know Pete Kropp's ability to produce at Winside so the Red and Black will come through again. You might have heard this before, but we recommend starting the season off with good sportsmanship. If an opposing player is hurt, give him a hand as he's helped off the field. If you feel the urge to yell, try yelling encouragement to the boys and not criticism. Nagging the referee doesn't help our team a bit and smart-aleck remarks at opposing players is one way to degrade yourself and your school. Let's have a football season we can be proud of at both schools and let's be proud of our fans as we are of our kids. The coaches will take care of the kids' conduct—you watch yours!

Joe: "Are your daughters living at home with you?"
Schmoor: "No. They're still single."

We received a form letter from President Hubert Humphrey asking for backing on the program to keep young Americans in school. About 900,000 drop out before graduating each year, meaning that many more workers are dumped on the market with "less-than-a-high-school-education." In this area, drop-outs are not a major problem. Most young people stay in school. Every parent should possess the desire to have sons and daughters succeed in life. In spite of big salary opportunities now, it's the future that must be considered and the future holds the prospect of being a tough time for those without college educations and next-to-impossible for those without high school educations. The years roll by fast and the best time to get an education is while you're young. If you're thinking of dropping out of school, think again. The benefits derived from staying in school, even if it's a struggle, far outweigh the advantage of not having to study.

The stingy man went to the meat department of a store and asked for a quarter of a pound of sirloin steak.

"Look," said the meat department head, "I know you have six children. A quarter of a pound of steak won't go very far in your family."

"It's not for eating. I just like to have the smell of steak in the house when we have visitors."

Nebraska Steaks, US Missiles Topics Here

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Henrich and sons, San Pedro, Calif., visited his uncle, Jerry Eulberg Thursday. The conversation bounced from Nebraska steaks to communication satellites to garden fresh tomatoes to all types of missiles.

Henrich and his wife are natives of Ashton and Alton, Ia., respectively. They have been in that area visiting and were enroute home.

Henrich is working on ComSat, a privately-financed satellite which will put up satellites orbiting in space the same speed as the earth so they will (for purposes of those on the ground) keep the same spot above earth at all times. Subscribers will pay for use of the service much as telephone company customers subscribe for the use of the telephone system.

Recently launched was a Pioneer satellite now orbiting the sun as a NASA project. This 40-pound spin-stabilized satellite will measure gases and geophysical properties around the sun.

An engine is also being built where he works. It will let the Apollo rocket lower itself slowly to land on the moon.

There are 11,000 employees where he works and the firm, TRW Systems, has the largest computer system in the world. Henrich was flown to Cape Kennedy from California several times in conjunction with space programs, including Cooper's orbit.

Primary duties for a while are explosives that separate stages of rockets to put satellites into orbit. Soft landings on Mars are being worked on although this project is well into the future. Anti-submarine work goes on at TRW oceanography is a big study, what with Russia having one of the world's largest submarine fleets.

As for what this area has to offer, the family loves the Nebraska steaks. They couldn't get enough. The boys found out what tomatoes are supposed to taste like and Mrs. Henrich reminisced about how they tasted here just like those she ate off the vine in a garden years ago.

They love it here, even prefer it here, but his work as an electronics engineer has no openings in this area so he must work where the jobs are. But, oh, it's nice to get back to the Midwest and friendly people, juicy steaks, garden fresh corn on the cob, non-hot-house tomatoes and many other things they miss out West.

How to See Europe Without Clothing

Ask Jim Atkins, Wayne postal employee, how to see Europe without clothes. He didn't go there in the nude but he spent three weeks in Europe and his luggage didn't get to him until three days before he left for home.

Blame the airline strike for the situation. He had plane reservations but finally had to take a train to New York. With two hours between train arrival and plane departure, he had a short wait and finally left orders for having his luggage flown to Luxembourg.

His wife and two children, Diana and Ralph (who spent six weeks previous to his arrival in Germany), his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Atkins, Wayne, (who had flown non-stop Chicago to Frankfurt) and his wife's parents met him at Luxembourg. They waited there one day hoping the luggage would arrive but it didn't so they went to her parents' place at Frankfurt.

He bought clothing as he needed it as day after day went by without a report on the missing suitcases. Finally, with a week left, he received word the items had arrived in Luxembourg but he had already scheduled sight-seeing trips so it wasn't until three days before departure for the USA that he finally got his clothing, toiletries and other items.

While in Europe, the two Atkins families visited Luxembourg, Germany, France, Austria, Switzerland and Italy. They saw Germany's highest mountain, Zugstizze, the Black Forest, Bavarian Forest, Franconia, the Tyrolean area of Italy and many other places.

One of the highlights was a railroad station on the Germany-Czechoslovakia border. One-half was in one country, the other half in the other. It was obvious even there the contrasts between the communist Czech side and free

Germany. It was not even safe to put a foot over the "boundary line" in the station. Guards were there and their orders were to shoot.

Drivers Have Same Name, No Relation

Christ Weible and Mrs. Frank Weible were involved in an intersection collision in Winside Thursday afternoon. They are no relation.

Sheriff Don Weible did not investigate the accident, Frank Weible being his brother. The deputy sheriff Scott Thompson, investigated.

Christ Weible was driving a county truck and had stopped at the intersection southeast of the grade (school). He was westbound. Through traffic from the north included a school bus followed by Mrs. Frank Weible. The westbound driver, Christ Weible, did not see Mrs. Frank Weible's car which was turning left and he drove into the left side. Damage came to about $250 with most damage to the door. The truck was not damaged much.

Neither driver was injured. Both vehicles could be driven away following the collision.

CASH CHECKS SLOWLY

Here Are 26 Good Reasons Why

- 1-Don't let yourself be hurried when cashing checks.
- 2-Check - passers try to work fast - you take your time.
- 3-All strangers are not crooks - but most crooks are strangers.
- 4-Always have check endorsed in your presence.
- 5-Know your endorser - or be prepared to pay if the check bounces.
- 6-Insist on positive identification.
- 7-Printed checks can be forgeries; they can also have been stolen and then forged.
- 8-Government checks also can be stolen and forged.
- 9-Remember - credentials also can be forged.
- 10-Make sure that the endorsement on the check corresponds with the payee's name.
- 11-Compare the endorser's signature with maker's, they may be by the same hand.
- 12-If suspicious, start stalling - call the bank.
- 13-Be extra careful of two-signature endorsements.
- 14-When you stall, a suspect usually leaves in a hurry - often leaving you the check. If suspect leaves check, please call local authorities.
- 15-Remember - holidays are the favorite time for check-passers.
- 16-Ask yourself why the passer is offering you, rather than the bank, this check to cash.
- 17-Counter checks are for use at banks.
- 18-Look twice at all rubber-stamped checks.
- 19-Watch for misspellings, particularly of maker's name; watch also for omission of maker's name.
- 20-Hesitate on alterations.
- 21-Remember - payee's name can be altered; amounts raised, and dates can be changed.
- 22-Record ID data before paying. This can be noted on back or face of check.
- 23-If possible, get birth date from ID card.
- 24-Social Security numbers are valueless for identification purposes.
- 25-License plate numbers provide better identification than driver's licenses.
- 26-If you can get license plate number of cashier's car, make a note of this.
