College Groups Present Program

The first of two major Christmas musical events at Wayne State is scheduled Sunday when the college orchestra and choir share a 3 p.m. concert in Ramsey Theater.

The orchestra, directed by Dr. Benjamin Bernstein, will play selections by Schubert, Bach, Williams, Herbert, and Smetana.

The choir, directed by William McMurtry, has prepared Benjamin Britten's widely popular "A Ceremony of Carols" and the immortal "Hallelujah Chorus" from "The Messiah."

The public is invited to both the orchestra-concert and the Tuesday night band-madrigal performance at 8, also in Ramsey Theater.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wittler, Winside, will observe their golden wedding anniversary Sunday, Dec. 18 with open house at Trinity Lutheran Church, Winside, from 2:30 to 4:30. Hosting the event will be the Wittler's son and daughter-in-law. All friends and relatives of the couple are welcome to attend.

Altona Trinity Aid Names New Officers

Trinity Ladies Aid of Altona met Dec. 1 for a no-host luncheon. New officers elected are Mrs. Kenneth Frevert, president; Mrs. Val Damm, vice president; Mrs. Delvin Mikkelsen, secretary; Mrs. Robert Greenwald, treasurer, and Mrs. Alvin Daum, Lutheran Family Service representative.

Rev. E. A. Binger led devotions centering around the Christmas story in Luke. Mr. E. A. Binger and Mrs. John Wagner were guests. Twenty-seven members answered roll call.

Christmas donations will be made to Lutheran Family Service scholarship fund.

Hostesses Jan. 5 will be Mrs. Robert Greenwald and Mrs. Robert Haag.

FHA Girls Show Oldtime Styles

Members of the Wayne High School Future Homemakers of America gave a centennial style show for their grandmothers Monday evening at West Elementary School. A regular meeting was held, the style show followed and then luncheon was served.

Gloria Magnuson described the gowns which Cheryl Schram and Linda Penn had dreamed about in a skit-form presentation. Cindy Sals wore a modern-day "mod" dress and hat of plastic which was as funny as any of the oldtime styles.

The girls planned and presented the program themselves, even securing all of the old styles. In contrast, the FHA officers wore sharp looking red and white checked uniforms.

Mrs. Dave Chambers is chapter adviser. Chapter mothers are Mrs. Bob Shirck, Mrs. Alan Bebee, Mrs. Roberts, Mrs. Willis Meyer and Mrs. Roy Coryell.

Full Moon Brings New Thai Ritual

There was a full moon Saturday night. For lovers somewhere that meant something. To those in Thailand it had a special meaning and to a Thailand student in Wayne it meant the same, time for the "festival of the full moon."

"Loy Krathong," (river festival of thanksgiving) is observed in Thailand about this time of year. Phadet Gawsombat, Thai student spending a year at the Dr. J. M. Brown home, observed the occasion in a fashion dictated by circumstances.

In Thailand, the streams would be running now. In Northeast Nebraska the streams were frozen solid.

Those observing the occasion in Thailand would have made lotus flowers (Buddha's flower) to float away on a stream. Set afire, they would burn and as they floated and burned they would take with them the launcher's sins and troubles.

Phadet had no stream, but he made a lotus flower. He observed the rite in the Brown yard, burning the flower in hopes it would all burn and success would be assured in the year to come.

To help set the mood, he played Thai music. A long-playing album was borrowed from a Thai exchange student who is in Sioux City. The music played was recorded in Thailand and it is typical of the music played for all types of festivals.

Something new has entered Phadet's life—basketball. It is different from football, he has found. Does he like basketball or football better? He likes basketball. Why? Because Wayne wins at basketball. (Wayne won one, tied one, lost the rest in football and has won its only game in basketball. Wait until next year in football, Phadet!) In school, Phadet has settled into the routine of American high school life. He likes some subjects very much (typing and math) and doesn't hate any subject. Sometimes a subject is hard, he says, but adds: "Sometimes they are all hard."

The cold weather has brought mixed emotions. The snow he liked. The cold was a novelty. He now knows that his American parents mean it when they tell him to bundle up when he goes outside. He doesn't complain, but he does recall the weather in Thailand where it never gets very close to the freezing mark.

When hunting pheasants late in the day, hit the roosting areas in sweet clover, stubble, and sloughs.

Funeral Services For Mrs. Morse Held Saturday

Funeral services for Mrs. Lillian Morse, 93, were held Dec. 3 at Wiltse Chapel, Wayne. Mrs. Morse died Dec. 2 at Wakefield.

Rev. Robert Johnson, Wakefield, officiated at the rites. Burial was in Woodbine Cemetery, Woodbine, Ia.

Lillian Mae Maynard, daughter of Samuel and Relief Gonvan Maynard, was born July 31, 1873 at Woodbine, Ia. She was married in 1893 to Henry Morse. The couple farmed at Dunlap, Ia., until 1919 when they came to Wayne. She spent the last six years of her life at Shady Rest Lodge, Wakefield.

Mr. Morse died in 1923. She was also preceded in death by a son, LaVern, four sisters and a brother. Survivors include two sons, Ralph, Omaha, and LaVere, San Francisco, and seven grandchildren.

Funeral Services Held at Allen For Myron Ellis

Funeral services for Myron M. Ellis, 79, were held Dec. 5 at Allen Methodist Church, Mr. Ellis died Dec. 2 following a long illness.

Rev. Alfred Winkler officiated at the rites. Larry McAfee and Christine Ellis sang "Some Golden Daybreak" and "In The Garden." Jeanne Durant was accompanist. Pallbearers were Boyd and Raymond Ellis, Clifford and Bill Gotch and Jack and Raymond Brownell. Burial was in Eastview Cemetery.

Myron M. Ellis was born Sept. 8, 1887 near Allen. He spent his lifetime in the Allen community. He retired from farming in 1957. He was married Dec. 24, 1908 to Nellie Brownell at Allen.

Two sons, Marion and Norris, preceded him in death. Survivors include his widow; three sons, Merle, Greenbrae, Calif., and Armond and Lester, Allen; three daughters, Mrs. Virgil (Evelyn) Laurson, O'Neill, Mrs. Albert (Pauline) Johnson, Montclair, Calif., and Mrs. Maurice (Norma) Carr, Allen; a brother, Frank, Hot Springs, Ark.; 23 grandchildren and 11 great grandchildren.

Funeral Services Planned Today for Mrs. James Hank

Funeral services for Mrs. James Hank, 85, are planned today (Thursday) at Immanuel Lutheran Church, northeast of Wayne. Mrs. Hank died Dec. 5 at her home.

Rev. A. W. Gode will officiate at the rites. Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Johnson, accompanied by Mrs. Marvin Nelson, will sing "What a Friend We Have in Jesus" and "What God Ordains Is Always Good." Pallbearers will be George Volders, Dick Hansen, Eddie Kirchner, Alvin Anderson, Willard Holdorf and Elmer Christensen. Burial will be in Immanuel Church Cemetery.

Louise Maria Lessman, daughter of Henry and Sophia Lessman, was born Sept. 9, 1881 at Quincy, Ill. She came to this area with her family when she was three years old. She was married Feb. 7, 1907 to James Hank. The couple lived on a farm south of Concord.

She was preceded in death by her parents, three children, three sisters, two brothers and two grandchildren. Survivors include her husband; a daughter, Mrs. Bernard (Linda) Pehrson, Laurel; two sons, Everett, Carroll, and Elray, Wakefield; three brothers, Charles, Dalton, Herbert, Des Moines; and Paul, Wakefield; five grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Final Rites Held At Wakefield for Carl Larson, 86

Funeral services for Carl H. Larson, 86, were held Dec. 3 at Wakefield Covenant Church. Mr. Larson died Nov. 30 at Wayne Hospital.

Rev. Fred Jansson officiated at the rites. Music was furnished by Elmer Carlson, soloist, and Mrs. Marvin Felt, organist. Pallbearers were Melvin and Fred Lundin, Marvin Felt, Elvis Olson, Joe Erickson and Frank Nelson. Burial was in Wakefield Cemetery.

Carl Hjalmar Larson, son of August and Augusta Larson, was born Oct. 22, 1880 in Sweden. He came to America when he was a young man. He was married Nov. 26, 1904 to Edith Danielson at Oakland. The Larsons first made their home at Lincoln where he was a cabinet maker. He farmed 14 years in the Oakland community, three years at Walthill and in the Emerson community from 1927 to 1958 when he retired. He spent six years with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Jensen, Emerson, and in August he became a resident at Dahl Retirement Center, Wayne.

His wife, a son, Elois and two sisters preceded him in death. Survivors include five sons, Bertil, Emerson, Oliven, Pembina, N.D., Enver, Fullerton, Calif., Orville, Wakefield, and Norman, Granada Hills, Calif.; two daughters, Mrs. Reuben Holm, Wakefield, and Mrs. Malcolm Jensen, Emerson; five brothers, Oscar, Craig, Elis, Minneapolis, Swan, San Francisco, and Eric and Knute, Mjolby, Sweden; two sisters, Mrs. Charles Allen, St. Petersburg, Fla., and Mrs. Henning Moller, Mjolby, Sweden; 25 grandchildren and 12 great grandchildren.

Warn of Faulty Yule Decorations

Norbert Brugger, superintendent of the Wayne Municipal Power Plant, sends information concerning the use of faulty or defective Christmas decorations, in overloading outlets and in creating other hazards.

His suggestions include: Keep Christmas decorations away from electric light bulbs to avoid letting them get too hot; make sure decorating lights do not overload circuits; do not install wiring yourself—call a qualified electrician; Keep electric trains away from Christmas trees to avoid sparks igniting dry needles; make sure new lights are approved type; discard frayed wiring; do not leave home with Christmas lights still on; only wiring and electrical equipment specifically made for use outdoors should be used in exterior displays;

Off-tree lighting should be used with metal Christmas trees as strings of lights on metal trees could cause shocks from frayed cords or sockets coming in contact with the tree; supervise children playing with electric toys; and make sure if you have a plastic Christmas tree that it is designed for use with electric lights.

THE OCCULT WORLD includes crystal balls. Tom McDermott does not do any crystal gazing but he does study about all sorts of occult facets as a hobby.

'Occult World' Unusual Hobby

Tom McDermott, son of the Charles McDermotts, Wayne, has an unusual hobby. It is the "occult world," which includes many things. Fortune telling, black magic, whitmagic, numerology, crystal gazing, witchcraft, psychic healing, dream interpretation, astrology, ouija, cards and other branches and related activities.

Astrology is the study of the stars, which is pure mathematics, Tom says. Planets have set cycles and aspects are "favorable" or "unfavorable" depending on their relationship to each other.

His study of numerology (the science of numbers) shows that people can tell about a person by the date of his birth, the number of letters in a name and other important numbers. In such cases, the numbers are usually reduced until just a single digit is left—example, a name with 13 letters is reduced by adding the 1 and 3, making 4 the key number.)

Using instructions on such sciences, Tom on his own has figured out that Nebraska will beat Alabama in the Sugar Bowl Jan. 2 (remember that prediction). He also figures out through numbers that the US will stay ahead of the USSR but the USSR will gain the lead over Germany.

Looking further ahead, his numbers indicate 1986 and 2019 as fortunate years for the U.S. He sees Israel coming out ahead of Jordan in their disagreement and senses the urge to go forward by President Johnson when opposition rises to block his way.

Tom has a crystal ball which was made in Czechoslovakia. He does not do crystal gazing, but he wants to learn all phases of the occult. He knows where the largest crystal ball in the world is (Smithsonian Institute) and where the most crystal balls are in one collection (Chicago). He adds that almost every Japanese home has a crystal ball.

A trance-like state with eyes open is sought in such readings, he learns. In the same way, some use real water to give readings, this being true in the Orient and Africa where crystal balls just are not to be had. His reading has brought out the fact that one out of 20 people has the ability to "read" but not all make use of abilities.

Candles are used by some—future being decided by the way the wax drips—tea leaves are read, horoscopes are foretold. There are all sorts of talismans, seals, lodestones, tablets, keys and other items that bring luck, good or bad.

An interesting phase of his study is the period of 18 years of Christ's life not mentioned in the Bible. Many have written on what they believe happened during the period. Some purport to know of the sixth, seventh and eighth books of Moses, which they say cover this part of Jesus' life.

Tom has also learned about palmistry but he is not too interested in that. He knows about psychic healers, about Nostradamus who made predictions on flying, atomic age and outer space hundreds of years ago, about seances in big cities, about those who claim contact with the spirit world and many other fields of occult.

He says the science of fortune telling is still with us but the words "fortune telling" bring on an image of a Gypsy faking it and thus the term is not used. Scientific readings are named anything but "fortune telling" in this age.

Because he knows so much more than the average boy his age about such things, Tom has enjoyed showing and explaining to friends. The ouija board, cards and other devices he has learned about have provided hours of fun. No one claims any mystical abilities, but it is something different.

Tom makes no claims to having abilities in any field of the occult. This may be changed if he proves right Jan. 2 in this football-lovin' state.

Faculty Wives' Tree Beautiful

Oooohs and ahhhhs greeted the lighting of the big Christmas tree in the Willow Bowl Monday night. The growing tree is more beautiful than ever in a program in its second year of sponsorship by the WSC Faculty Wives.

In spite of misty, foggy and cool weather, around 200 turned out for the ceremony. They saw what added lights can do to a tree and the little angel choir which this year has one colored member.

Dr. William Brandenberg, president of Wayne State, made a few remarks prior to signaling the lighting of the tree. He said he wished that the spirit of Christmas might last for a longer period—not the commercial aspect of giving or getting gifts but the feeling of goodwill to men. He also expressed the hope that Vietnam and other trouble spots would not continue to darken the holiday spirit.

Connie Beerman led the audience in singing Christmas carols following the lighting ceremony. Santa Claus appeared to delight the youngsters in the crowd.

Prepare Plans For Swine Day

Jan. 26 is over six weeks away but plans are already being made for the 1967 area swine day to be held here. From 300 to 600 people are expected to come to Wayne for the sessions.

The Wayne Chamber of Commerce will help promote the day and it is hoped commercial exhibits will be prepared by local firms. Wayne is hoping to do better than Humboldt and Madison did in 1966, and both of those towns did exceedingly well.

A Lewisville, Minn., producer will be one of the featured speakers. Panel discussions and question and answer periods will be on the program.

Tentative plans call for topics on use of ultrasonics in swine, ulcers in swine, grinding and processing swine rations, future of Nebraska's pork industry and new developments in marketing contracts. A meal at noon and a display of exhibits are also features being worked out.

Military Posts In Nebraska In 1864

The Nebraska State Historical Library contains a 128 volume set of the Official Records of the Union and Confederate Armies. The books contain the orders, reports and correspondence amassed by the two great armies during the Civil War. The set is a valuable source of information to scholars of the Civil War period. Included in this information is much of special interest to Nebraska.

A report of Lt. Charles Thompson, First Nebraska Cavalry dated Fort Kearny, December 2, 1864 listed the various army outposts along the Platte and Little Blue rivers. It described the conditions of the posts and how they were supplied. Lieutenant Thompson reported that at Plum Creek the troops had six months supplies received from Fort Kearny and enough hay for winter use. At Mullahl Post wood was needed. The quartermaster there, Lt. M. V. Hane stated: "That if he could get a supply of axes he could get a detail of men to cut the wood, and as there is no team at this post, proposed to press a (wagon) train to haul it in when he should have a sufficient amount put up."

The Post at Dan Smith's was comfortable, secured its supplies from Fort Cottonwood and had twenty-eight tons of hay hauled by teams which had been pressed into service.

The Post at Gillman's station was also supplied from Fort Cottonwood. They received fresh beef from Fort Cottonwood, which was to be renamed Fort

Census Interviewers Wear Identity Badge

Wayne County residents and other residents of this area and most of Nebraska will be visited by census interviewers soon. They can be identified by blue, white and red badges bearing signatures and official authorization to perform census duties.

Most of the interviewers are women. They will be from the counties in which they work and will be trained to get the information sought.

Questions will cover these subjects: How many in home? How many floors in house? What type of roof does your house have? Do you have a basement or cellar? What are basement walls made of? What is height of basement above ground level?

Information provided will be processed by computers at the census bureau. Information on fall-out protection will be gained and this information will be mailed to the householders with civil defense booklets and suggestions on increasing protection.

Each householder's report is confidential between the occupant and the census bureau. Although paid for by tax money, the survey and report is provided without direct cost to householders.

McPherson, was in the process of erecting a quartermaster's stable. His chief needs seemed to have been for blacksmith, wagon maker and harness shops.

Fort Morrow and Fort O'Fallon's Bluffs were supplied from Cottonwood. O'Fallon's had tools for a blacksmith and a saddlers shop in good working order.

The Commander at Post Alkali complained that he had to pay $17 for a cord of firewood.

At Beauvais Station the troops used Beauvais' ranch buildings and he sold them hay at $45 a ton and wood at $45 a cord.

The Post at Pawnee Ranch on the Little Blue was supplied from Fort Kearny. There was no shortage of fuel because the commanding officer had promised the men that they would be paid for cutting wood. They were anxious to learn how much they would be paid per cord.

Little Blue Station also was supplied from Fort Kearny. There were 58 horses there and but 25 tons of hay.

Hold Dance Classes

Five new squares have signed to take square dancing lessons, according to Jerry Junck. Most of the new "students" are from Wayne, newcomers from the entire area are welcome. First class was scheduled for Wednesday night of this week starting at about 7:30 in the Carroll Auditorium. Anyone who wants to learn to square dance will be welcome at all lessons.

Wayne High Production, 'Our Town,' Creditable Presentation Saturday

"Our Town" is a good play. It has a variety of character types. It has unusual staging requirements. It was given Saturday by Wayne High School before a large audience and drew generally favorable comments.

Many of the scenes and practically all of the props had to be imagined, which is the way, Thornton Wilder, wanted the play presented. Curtains were open throughout the play, even while scenery was being changed.

The story concerned a New Hampshire town just after the turn of the century. Various people were introduced by Tom Havener, narrator, as they appeared. He carried the story with his description of the scene and what was taking place.

Act one concerned daily life in the town, act two was three years later with a marriage the main scene and act three concerned the and they had enjoyed putting it on.

Joan Sahs and Bill Hansen had the romantic leads and were well cast. Miss Sahs made a beautiful bride and after she died she still wandered around in her bridal dress, seeking to go back among the living for just one day—a wish granted to her so she chose her 12th birthday and then found she did not want to stay among the living even that full day.

Havener was an excellent choice for stage manager and narrator. Louise Kamish and Jane Williams did good jobs of pretending they were at work in their homes and portraying wives and mothers.

(Larry Magnuson) and drunken choir director and organist (Lavern Brown) were strong roles.

Others in the cast who did well were Steve Kraamaer as the doctor, Belinda Bebee, Doug Stanley, Dennis Ellermeier, Jo Merriman, Linda Lesh, Mary Stevenson, Chris Bernthal, Sheryl Kemp, Doug Danielson and Bob Penn.

People of the town included Marilyn Stoakes, Susan Shirck, Susan Stoakes, Deloris Bull, Yleen Peters, Sarah Alleman, Graham Butler. Understudies were Loren Hansen, Deanna Jorgensen, Dennis Ellermeier, Graham Butler, Doug Stanley, Sarah Alleman, Yleen Peters, and Pearl Hansen. Pearl Hansen was also student director.

Yleen Peters, Linda Caver, Susan Shirck, Marcia

Ehlere, Debbi Armbruster, Becky Bernthal and Linda Doring handled tickets, publicity and ushering; Linda Schneider, Kathy McNatt, Rita Olson, Mary Sherry, LaMae Gettman and Chris Bernthal were in

Tallymaster ADDING MACHINES by VICTOR

everyone will love the convenience of having a Tallymaster

For that special one in your family (or for the whole family) here's a new gift idea: a Tallymaster adding machine. Everyone will enjoy using a quietly quiet, always accurate Tallymaster. For business, school and home use; or to handle the family finances. You can trust Tallymaster because it's made by Victor, America's largest manufacturer of adding machines. Retractable handle for carrying. Ribs easy to read, permanent tape, totals to eight columns (999,999.99). In starting position, accurate only 5" x 7" on desk. All Tallymasters add and multiply, some subtract. Every Tallymaster part is warranted one year, including labor. Fast to use, worthwhile to own: truly a gift to count on.

several generations ago; Dave Jensen and Rodney Reeg made up the real stage crew and the on-stage crew: Cindy Swinney, Janice Giese and John Watson handled props and sound; and Debbie Armbruster and Marcia Ehlers were in charge of lights.
It was an unusual play and one the audience enjoyed—and one thing that cannot be said of every offbeat type production—the success may tempt WHS to venture further into tough dramatic assignments in the future.

men had that one out quickly.

Firemen wanted to make sure the smoldering hay did not burst into flame again so brought three loads of water to the scene that night. Ericsons also made periodical checks throughout Saturday night. By Sunday noon there was little smoldering and the dampness in the air was added assurance that fire would not break out again.

WAYNE FIREMEN worked to keep fire from spreading to out-buildings at the Paul Ericson farm west of Wayne Saturday.

Flames Destroy Three Haystacks

Flames from an undetermined cause destroyed three haystacks on the Paul Ericson farm 1 3/4 miles west of Wayne on Highway 36 Saturday afternoon. Two trucks were taken to the blaze.

Ericsons were unable to determine what brought about the fire. It is thought spontaneous combustion could have been the cause.

The stacks were close to the farm buildings, but the wind was from the south and blew sparks and flames away from the buildings. Exception was a small unused shack that had some damage to the roof. Fire-

IS A COLLEGE EDUCATION TODAY IMPORTANT?

WE THINK IT IS . . . AND HERE IS ONE GOOD REASON WHY . . .

An investment in higher learning is an investment in enriched living. College graduates, in general, achieve a greater degree of social competency, practice better citizenship, and make better parents. By sending your son or daughter to college, you are opening a door that can lead to a brighter future for them. And you will be doing more than that. Consider this: The dollar-and-cents statistics surrounding college education prove that college graduates earn more money and enjoy a higher standard of living than their contemporaries who did not attend college.

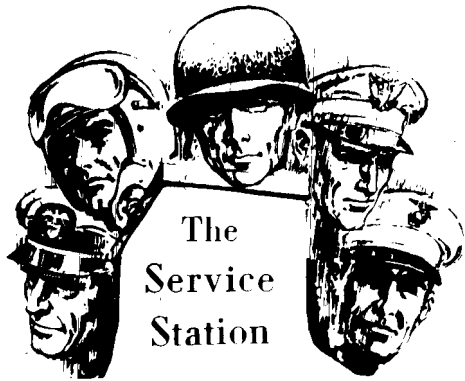

HOW WILL YOU MEET THE COST OF SENDING YOUR CHILDREN TO COLLEGE?

The only way to meet educational costs (no matter whether they be high or low) is to plan ahead by launching a savings program. And the earlier you start such a savings program, the smaller the amount you will have to put aside each month to meet those educational expenses. Further, the sooner you start to save, the less dollars you'll need to save — thanks to compound interest.

Come in today or mail this coupon and let us show you how much money you will need to send your son or daughter to college and how you can have this money when the need arises.

Pvt. Harry Zaretsky, Levittown, N.Y., completed eight weeks of advanced infantry training Nov. 29 at Ft. Ord, Calif. Instruction in small unit tactics and in firing M-14 rifle, M-60 machine gun and 3.5-inch rocket launcher was given. His wife, the former Sandra Whorlow, is in Wayne. Zaretsky is the son of the Ben Zaretskys.

Selected for technical training at Lackland AFB, Tex., is Airman Randall Ruback, son of the Merle Rubecks, Allen. He will become an air policeman. Ruback has just completed basic training at Lackland. He is a 1966 graduate of Allen High School.

Airmail letters to servicemen with APO or FPO addresses will go for eight cents. This is a bargain. Airmail letters to most of Europe go for 15 cents and to places such as Japan and Africa for 25 cents. The rate depends upon postal rates in the country. Anything to a service base address overseas goes at the low domestic rate of eight cents.

A former local resident, Sp-6 Edward W. Kurrelmeyer, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kurrelmeyer, sr., Richland, Mo., is stationed aboard the USNS Corpus Christi Bay at Cam Ranh Bay, Vietnam. His address is included with other addresses this week.

Clifford Pasold, 20, son of the Elmer Pasolds, Wisner, has been promoted to army specialist fourth class, equivalent to a corporal. He is serving with the 24th infantry division at Munich, Germany, where he is a troop clerk in Troop C, 2nd Squadron, 9th Cavalry. Pasold entered service a year ago after graduation from Wisner High School.

All items about servicemen and servicewomen will be carried in this department from now on. Your news about those in the service will be appreciated. Some news and pictures come from the services themselves, others from friends or relatives. All are wanted.

One Day Spoils City

Record for Accidents

A week ago it was one block that ruined the city's accident record. The past week it was one day.

In the first case, both accidents that occurred were in the same block and if it had not been for them, the city would have had an accident-free week. Last week two accidents occurred Dec. 1, keeping the city from having an accident-free week.

The first accident the past week occurred on Main Street in the 300 block. Gene Hansen, Wayne, stopped for traffic ahead. Lyle Saum, Salina, Kan., stopped for Gene Hansen. James Muhel, Walthill, was unable to stop in time, and hit the rear of the Saum car.

Boosted forward by the impact, the Saum car hit the Hansen car. Damage came to about $297 to the Saum vehicle sandwiched in between the other two cars. Officers Keith Reed and Alan Peck investigated.

Later on Sherman Street just north of its intersection with First, Virgil Kardell, Wayne, was south-bound. Paul Otte, Wayne, was backing out from behind parked vehicles and backed into the path of the Kardell car, which he had failed to see coming.

Damage came to $76 to the Kardell car and $55 to the Otte car. Chief of Police Vern Fairchild investigated.

Trio of Plays Given at WSC

A trio of short plays by Eugene O'Neill was given Sunday, Monday and Tuesday nights at Ramsey Theatre, WSC, by students at the college. The productions drew good crowds considering the weather and the fact that this time of year there are so many other attractions vying for the public's time.

"The Rope" was the last play given each evening. Whether this was to keep the best until the last or to present the play last that required the most cleaning up is not known.

A story of a crochety old man, a simple-minded little girl, a sailor home from the sea and a country rube and his wife had the strongest characterizations. It was also blessed with a talented actor in each role.

Lyle Gourley directed the play about the sailor who came home, decided to join his brother-in-law in torturing his father to get him to tell where his riches were hidden and lost all in the end because he thought his father wanted him to hang when all the old man wanted was for him to pull on the rope with the noose to which his bag of gold was attached in a hay loft.

George Tubbs was among the leading actors of the evening with a demanding role of the tottering old-timer who had trouble making himself understood. Thrown to the floor twice each evening and shoved around a good deal more, he should have been shaky just from anticipation. Only when he came in for a curtain bow did he show that he was not really the bent and trembling old man he portrayed.

Gerry Melis was convincing as the sailor returned home, displaying facial expressions to show many moods. Arne Nelson was good as a slobbish boor of a drunken farmer and Julie Kortman was properly painful as a woman caught among her father, her husband and her half-brother. Susan Cook, diminutive and cute as could be, had a small role but gave an excellent portrayal of the simple-minded girl.

"In the Zone" was directed by Mark Monson. Action took place in a ship around 1915. Characters were similar, several spoke with accents and there was not as much individuality to the roles as there was in "Rope."

Ron Wachholz and Richard Petersen had the roles as the man who suspected and the man who was suspected. Petersen was vindicated after a tussle and an inspection of his personal belongings, when letters from a German girl whom he had loved before leaving for the war were found to be contents of a box—not an instrument of sabotage the others had been led to believe.

Wachholz seems capable of handling most roles and gives more animation and characterization to his parts than the average student. Petersen did a good job of portraying the suspicious one, the battling man who fought to protect his personal property and the pained man whose secret love has been bared.

Of the other parts, most were good. Ed Fox had an accent-less role that was well-handled. Fred Wagington spoke with a Scotch accent and to his credit, no matter what the mood, he never forgot the accent. The others had accents of one type or another and were adequate in the minor roles they portrayed as seamen. They included Dennis Quigley, James Vinski, Ed Miller, Brad Ford and Bob Hall.

"Where the Cross Is Made." It had three main roles in telling of a former sea captain who daily looked for a sunken ship to return. His son called in a doctor, hoping to have his father declared mad. In the end, the father was dead, the son himself was mad and his sister was near-hysterical over the turn in events.

Dan Griepentrog has two arms. He appeared to have but one in an effective job of dress and characterization. He carried a club, punches, and did well in handling a non-sympathetic role.

Lyndy Fisher did not have to display many emotions as the simpering whining sister but she was believable in the part. Norman Strizek had a tremendous make-up as the bearded sea captain and in wild-eyed torments around the stage he did an excellent job of convincing the audience he was more than a little off his rocker.

Bob Wagner had to appear professional as a doctor, which he did. Roger Hobbs, Ed Miller and Ron Whit had walk-on roles that were highlighted by their lack of animation which was just right for the parts they took and by their ghostly appearance again just what was ordered for three dead men just passing through.

oversees production, can take a lot of credit for the plays. She allowed the students to direct but they show the benefits of her instruction and all three directors deserve praise for their work. The plays were not equal in story value, in emotional output required or in colorful characters but all were well done and a credit to the ones involved.

Finally, not enough can be said about the crews that handle the makeup, the lighting and the scenery. All were marvelous, just what is expected in the near-professional productions at the college. From the beard of the mad captain and the huge nose of the old man with the rope to the barn that almost smelled it looked so real, the look of the old ship and the small-stage of the captain's room, makeup, props and lighting were tremendously important in establishing the mood and setting for the O'Neill plays with their strange findings.

LETTERS TO SANTA

Dear Santa Clause Will you bring me a new area and a new motor. And a new car.

Please give me a new shiny play horse and anything want to give me love Patti Mannes.

AN OLD MAN, George Tubbs, is thrown to the floor as his returned son, George Melis, fires into a rage in "The Rope," one of three plays presented this week directed by WSC students.

Getting Driver's License Not Easy; Successful Ones Reflect Their Joy

So you have a driver's license. Did you get one since the driver's test was made a requirement or did you get one years ago just by applying for one? Now you can renew every two years just by applying.

For teenagers there is no choice. Today a driver's license is not as easy as some adults might think, and for the young people who learn they have qualified for a license, there is a smile that won't come off and the walk-skip that takes them to the county treasurer's office.

Monday was one of those days for Robert Lee, who gives the driver's license exams one morning a week in Wayne. He had several young people taking tests for the first time. Some adults had tests too because they work for the state and are required to be tested periodically.

Karen Dall, Jo Merriman, Lou Kamish and Harry Lindner were four who passed. They did not wait long after their 16th birthdays to take tests and they all had been practicing and studying for the written and driving tests.

Harry was 16 Nov. 25, Karen Dec. 3, Jo Nov. 29 and Louise Dec. 1. They were "followed" through a typical painful session of being tested and waiting to find out if they had passed requirements.

Lee, who lives in Norfolk, gives driving tests all week. He is in Wayne Monday mornings, Madison Monday afternoons, Stanton Tuesday mornings, Columbus Tuesday afternoons, Neligh one Wednesday, Tekamah the next, West Point Thursdays and Pierce Fridays.

Actually, Wayne, Stanton, Pierce, Antelope, Burt and Lansing counties are his territory. He goes to Columbus and Madison to help out in Platt and Madison counties where they have greater population and greater need for examiners. He helps the examiners in those counties a half day each week.

After filling out forms giving a lot of pertinent information, the applicants take the written test. There are six different versions so very few of the 20 questions will be the same on tests given a group at the same time.

Applicants have to get 17 answers correct. Questions concern the general laws of driving, what the various shapes of signs indicate, speed limits, safety and general rules of the road.

AFTER FINISHING his driver's test successfully, Harry Lindner talks to the license examiner, Robert Lee. There was little to celebrate on Lindner's driving, Lee said.

If they have not had an eye test in order to get a student or learner's permit, they also take one at the time. This equipment checks distance vision, vertical balance, lateral balance, fusion and depth perception.

Then comes the jittery part. Each applicant goes for a ride in a car he furnishes.

Louise Kamish allowed this writer to go along for her test drive. She said no reporter would make her any more nervous than the driver's license examiner would.

She should have saved aged quite well.

Karen and Jo were both told their parallel parking needs brushing up—but most people could use brushing up on this driving feat, Harry was told his job of parallel parking was one of the best Lee had observed recently.

What seems to give the most trouble for drivers taking these tests? Lee said many fail to make complete stops at stop signs. He said hand signals were often given too near the point where the turn was intended (they should be given at least 50 feet ahead and held until ready to turn) and parallel parking bothers almost everyone, particularly in Wayne, for some reason.

How do you fail a driving test? Improper turns, failing to make correct stops, failing to be watchful enough at intersections and other major safety oversights are the most common faults, the license examiner said. The seriousness of the violation or oversight governs the number of days set before another test is allowed, Lee added.

Those seeking school permits should get learner's permits before they take the tests, according to Lee. He said this allows a learner to drive for two months and practice driving before being tested.

For a 14-year-old, who wants a school permit, a learner's permit is usually all that is needed to give him the experience needed so he has no trouble with the test for a student permit. The school permit test is exactly the same as for a driver's license except the vision test is required. For a driver's license, the vision test is not required if it was taken for the learner's permit.

Lee was busy most of

tests after 4:30.

Driver's training courses have helped a lot with the young folks. In fact, they know more about driving and safety than many older people who have had licenses for years. They have to know more, or they don't get licenses.

The sad ones are those who do not pass. They will come back again, possibly the following week, and will probably pass. Very few have to be tested more than twice, but even those who do get tested more often benefit from knowing thoroughly the proper way to drive.

If you want to be "tested," let one of the teenagers take you for a drive. Follow their instructions, give signals right, show proper precaution, get 17 out of 20 questions right. You just might pass. You might fail and have to go back and be tested again!

her worry for she passed the test in great shape. Only criticism Lee had for her was to judge the distance when signaling for a turn so she was sure oncoming traffic was far enough away before she turned in front. (He brought this up and noted that Louise had had sufficient room to make such a left turn).

First he had her drive without using the automatic turn signals. This gave him a chance to check her knowledge of left and right turn signals and the stop sign. Louise slowed down at intersections, kept both hands on the steering wheel, slowed down when approaching a changing traffic signal (instead of trying to beat the yellow light) and looked both ways before proceeding following all stop.

She gave her signals properly and was allowed to use the automatic turn signals the rest of the drive. Final check was on ability to park parallel, a maneuver which she man-

THE BALL is in the air as Randy Bottorf takes a shot for Ponca. Too late to stop him were Winside's Bob Dangberg (21) and Dave Witt (13). The other Winside players in dark uniforms.

Winside Claims Ponca Thriller

Two nights in a row were almost too much for the weak-hearted at Winside. The Wildcats outlasted

Ponca on the PHS court 52-49 Saturday after winning a two-point decision over Wakefield the previous evening.

The Ponca game was more exciting than the Wakefield contest. Winside had a comfortable 10-point lead in the fourth quarter and suddenly could not hit as Ponca came roaring back to within one point of the Cats.

WHS gained the lead early in the fourth stanza. It was the eighth time the lead had changed hands. The score had been tied six times.

Biggest Ponca lead was eight points at 28-20 shortly before the end of the first half. Winside came back to tie the count at 30-30 and the teams battled back and forth for the lead until the end of the third stanza when Ponca led 38-37.

The Red and White scored 13 points in a row starting late in the third quarter to move from a 38-35 deficit to a 48-38 lead. Then the roof started falling in and Ponca scored 9 points in a row to pull up to 48-47 with 1 1/2 minutes to go.

Reed Wacker hit a field goal to put Winside ahead 50-47. Randy Bottorf hit for Ponca to move to a 50-49 deficit and with four seconds left Wacker hit two free throws to ice the game and bring a finish to the bedlam that had reigned for the final four minutes of the game.

Terry Potter, Ponca, has to get credit for one of those "thrill-of-a-lifetime" shots. With Winside leading 11-9 and the first period about over, Potter took the ball on a pass from out of bounds, shot from his own free throw line the full length of the court and swished the net to make it 11-11 at the end of the period.

At halftime, Ponca led 28-21. It was 38-37 in favor of the Indians after three quarters and Winside outscored Ponca 15-11 the final period.

Again it was free throws that won for Winside. The night before WHS had been outscored 50-42 by Wakefield from the floor but hit 14 of 19 free throws to win 56-54. Saturday, Ponca outscored Winside 42-36 from the court but Winside hit 16 of 22 free shots to win. R. Wacker with 19 points, Krueger 11 and Jacobsen 10 led Winside scoring. Potter had 15, Sievers 13 and Bottorf 11 to lead PHS.

R. Wacker led rebounding with 15. Bob Wacker had 11, Keith Krueger 10, Randy Jacobsen 9 and Bob Dangberg 2. Dangberg stole the ball 3 times and B. Wacker and B. Wacker 1. Krueger had 2 assists, Jacobsen 1 and Bob Dangberg 2. Dangberg stole the ball 3 times and B. Wacker and R. Wacker 1. Krueger had 2 assists, Jacobsen, R. Wacker, Dangberg and B. Wacker 1 each.

In the reserve game, Winside won another thriller. WHS led all the way, 9-7 after one quarter, 14-13 at the half and 17-13 going into the final period. Each team scored 10 points the final period, giving Winside a 27-23 decision.

Aubrey Voss led all scorers with 14 for Ponca. Mike Knerl had 3 and Bob Steinbrecher 6. For Winside, Dave Witt had 13, Kirk Troutman 9, Bob Farran 2 and Scott Duering, Greg Troutman and Mike Jeffrey 1 apiece.

'Team Effort' Helps Town Team Win Tilt

Manager Hank Overin credited "team effort" with producing a town team cage victory Sunday. The locals defeated Hooper 77-76, the same Hooper team that beat Wayne 23 points in the finals of the Pender tournament last year.

Wayne has a couple of new recruits this year, Gary Nordhorst for work under the basket, and Jim Dodge for guard. The team has Hank Overin, Ray Vrtiska, Duane Blomkamp, Dave Danielson, Jim Mau and Ken Dahl back from last year.

The team effort was so complete, scoring was fairly evenly divided. Overin said it was the best town team effort he had seen in the last five years as Hooper had 6'9", 6'6" and 6'5" men working against Wayne's tallest men at 6'4", 6'2" and 6'2". Wayne led 23-21 after one quarter and 43-42 at the half. Hooper was in front 65-63 in a see-saw battle at the end of three periods and the locals won in the last 13 seconds as Blomkamp hit a long shot to put the locals in front. The complete season has not been worked out for the squad. Tentative arrangements call for a game at Bancroft Sunday.

Last year he was a member of the NJC cage squad. He will be in Hooskins Monday and Wednesday for practice at the elementary school gym. Boys from grades fourth through eighth will be allowed to participate.

The coach is a graduate of the Spencer schools where he participated in sports. He plans to line up games for the Hooskins team after the Christmas holiday with regular practice sessions until the first games.

A coach from outside was necessary if Hooskins was to have a team. There are no male teachers on the staff of the elementary school.

Norfolk Collegian Will Coach Hoskins

Paul Hargens, a sophomore at Norfolk Junior College, is to coach the Hoskins basketball team this year. Boys from Trinity Lutheran and Hoskins Elementary will combine forces again for the teams. Hargens is student manager for the NJC team coached by Gene Phillips.

Fines, Costs Not Court Over $400

'Tis the season to be jolly, it is also the season for more court cases than usual. After an exceptionally busy week during the Thanksgiving holiday, County Judge David Hamer followed with an even busier week, 22 appearing in court and paying over $400 in fines and costs.

Four appeared Nov. 28. David Longe, Wayne, was charged with reckless driving. He paid $25 fine and $5 costs. Officer John Reed filed the complaint.

The same complaint, reckless driving, was filed against Steven Pfeleger, Wayne, with Officer Keith Reed signing charges. Fine and costs came to $30.

Steven Hansen, Harlan, Ia., paid $10 fine and $5 costs. He appeared on a speeding charge. The officer appearing in the case was Trooper B. L. Cooper, Nebraska Safety Patrol.

Also charged with speeding was Joyce Coleman, Wakefield. She paid $15 in fine and costs on a complaint registered by Officer Reed.

Tom Thoreson, Soldier, Ia., was fined $15 and paid costs of $5 on a speeding complaint Nov. 29. Trooper Cooper was the officer filing charges.

Speeding charges were also filed by Cooper against Robert Wingrove, Arion, Ia., who paid $20 fine and $5 court costs.

Edmund Jolley, jr., Wayne, paid $12 fine in addition to $5 costs for speeding. Trooper D. Ruppert, Nebraska Safety Patrol, signed the complaint.

Also that day, Marcia French, Plattsmouth, paid $15 in fine and costs on a speeding charge. Trooper Ruppert brought the charges.

Truman Walker, River Grove, Ill., was charged with speeding. Officer in the case was Trooper R. Mavis, NSP. Fine and costs were $20 and $5.

Dec. 1, Jim Poppe, WSC, was the first of seven to appear. He was charged with illegal parking and paid $10 fine plus $5 costs. Officer Alan Peck filed the complaint.

Jack March, Wayne, was charged with improper parking and paid $15 fine and costs. Officer Peck brought charges.

Charged with speeding was Stephen Flaherty, Harlan, Ia. He paid $10 fine and $5 costs. Trooper Cooper appeared to register the complaint.

Thomas Buschelman, WSC, was charged with making an improper turn. His fine and costs came to $15 on the charge brought by Officer Reed.

A Dakota City man, Louis Kipper, was charged with speeding. His fine was $10 and costs $5. Officer Reed signed the complaint.

Leo Davis appeared twice Dec. 1. The Humboldt, Ia., man was charged with illegal parking and paid $15 fine and costs. Officer Reed signed the charges. Davis was also charged with speeding on a complaint filed by Officer Peck and paid $15 fine and $5 costs at that hearing.

Randy Johnson appeared Dec. 2 on a speeding charge brought by Officer Peck. Fine and costs came to $15.

The other case that day was also for speeding. Charles Levalley, Wayne, paid $15 fine and $5 costs in a case brought by Trooper Cooper.

Appearing Dec. 3 was Larry Johns, Carroll, on two charges. He was fined $10 each for a vehicle owner permitting a minor to operate a motor vehicle and using fictitious plates. He also paid $5 court costs for the charge brought by Sheriff Don Weible.

Russell Erickson, Hartington, paid $10 fine and $5 costs for operating a motor vehicle without a driver's license. Sheriff Weible signed the complaint.

Appearing Dec. 5 was Earl Carper, Emerson. He paid $10 fine and $5 costs for a stop sign violation last May 29. Officer Keith Reed had filed charges.

Finally, Mrs. Don Peterson, Wayne, was fined $10 and paid court costs of $5 for overtime parking. Chief of Police Vern Fairchild was the officer signing the complaint.

File Cases in Court
Two cases were filed in the office of the clerk of the district court, John T. Bressler, jr., the past week. They will be heard in district court. The first has Art Grone, plaintiff, versus Robert Nissen in an auto damage case. The second is a case to quiet title, Cora Lowe being plaintiff and Ray Nelson defendant.

of the house. Firemen had the flames out in a few minutes.

White said the fire burned less than two acres of grass and "idle acres." The strong south wind that day posed a real threat to the farm buildings but the work of George Schutte, Rahn and the fire department saved them.

Watch Where You Go With Studded Tires

Chief of Police Vern Fairchild has prepared a chart of states where you can legally drive with metal studs in your tires. Those going to Iowa or to the Sugar Bowl might make a note of the state laws.

If you drive into Sioux City, Onawa, Council Bluffs or any other Iowa town with metal studs in your tires, you will be breaking the law. Some have already been fined on the charge.

Fire Threatens Farm Home North of Dixon

Fire Tuesday of last week threatened the farm home in which Mrs. H. McGuirk and her daughter live north of Dixon. Mrs. McGuirk, 91-year-old invalid, was alone in the home at the time.

It is thought a cigarette tossed from a car started grass burning along the Highway 116 right-of-way just south of the junction with Highway 20. The fire spread into the McGuirk farmland which Duane White farms.

Harold George discovered the fire and went to Bressler's Station to call the Dixon Fire Department. He didn't have a dime but Steve Schutte supplied one.

George returned to the fire and found Max Rahn approaching with a tractor and plow. Rahn plowed around the fire which had spread to corn just south that a neighboring business place be instructed to keep its garbage hauled away; cars blocked the loading entrance of another business place; an owner of a black dog reported the dog and the chain it was on disappeared while the owner was out of town;

The rear door at a professional office was left unlocked; two horses escaped from the Wayne Sale Co. yards; glass was broken out of the rear door in a residence; a billfold with no identification inside but with some cash was found and turned in; a truck from St. Edward broke down and police summoned a wrecker and mechanic; and an emergency message was delivered for Lincoln people who could not locate a Wayne man.

In addition, the police checked doors, investigated accidents, patrolled streets, marked tires to check on overtime parking and did the hundred and one other jobs that are routine for police officers.

Business Notes

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Saunders are operating the Dixon Grocery. Mrs. Delos Schultz had been in charge but she and her family have moved to Laurel.

Dixon grain man, Dick Hanson, and wife and son, Craig, were in Omaha attending a Purina sales meeting last week. Craig is just a little tyke but his folks had checker board pants made for him. He was dubbed "the youngest feed salesman" present at the meeting.

Variety Returns to Police Force Duty

After a week in which there were no out-of-the-ordinary complaints, the Wayne Police Department has returned to normal. A variety of complaints was registered the past week. A business man asked

Adult Fellowship Meets

Joint meeting of the Congregational and Presbyterian Adult Fellowship was held with 13 members present. Officers named were president, Mrs. Keith Owens; vice president, John Rees; and secretary-treasurer, Cora Jenkins. The program was two filmstrips, "The Messiah," and "Friendly Beast." Junior and Senior High groups will be guests of the Adult Fellowship for a chili and oyster soup supper and caroling Dec. 22 at 7 p.m.

THE WEATHER was brisk ... and so was the bidding at the Lawrence and Ralph Ring farm sale Tuesday east of Wayne. Shown here is part of the crowd, bundled against the chill as Auctioneers Ivan Nixon and Orville Lage cry the sale. This was another successful farm sale handled through the Wayne Herald's one-stop weather-insured farm sale service.

and Mrs. James Coan and family, Wayne, joined them in the afternoon.

Carroll Music Group Presenting Program
An all-school program will be presented at Carroll Music Boosters Tuesday, Dec. 13, at 8 p.m. in the Carroll Auditorium. There is no admission charge and the public is invited to attend.
Mrs. Wayne Kerstine and Mrs. Stan Hartman have charge of the pupils in grades kindergarten through second. Clayton Southwick will present numbers by pupils in grades third through sixth. Skits, recitations, group numbers, solo numbers and other entertainment will be offered. It will be a part of the regular monthly meeting of the Music Boosters.

Carroll Boy Scouts Share in Tree Sale
Boy Scouts at Carroll are making money on Christmas trees this year. Sam's Super Market is donating most of the proceeds from the sale of trees to the troop.
The boys will be able to use the money as they see fit. Funds will be available for camping, equipment or any other needs.
Sam Zimmerman, operator of the store, is keeping back just 8 per cent of the money received from the sale of trees. This covers his cost on freight and handling with all profits going to Scouting.

Let me tell you how I get started on a cold morning.

CLAUDE HARDER

Everything works against you when you try to start on a cold morning. For example, your battery supplies only half the electricity at 0° degrees as it does at 80°.

The fact remains, though, that your engine should start if your battery is properly charged, your compression good, your fuel line clear, and your choke is functioning as it should.

With most cars, pump the accelerator just once (as I do) and then turn on the switch key. If your engine doesn't catch after 10 seconds or so, try again after letting your cranking-motor rest for a couple of minutes.

If your engine still doesn't start, you might give me a call. I'll be happy to talk things over driver to driver.

Concord Club Makes Plans for Christmas

Concord Commercial Club met Thursday at the Bread Basket Cafe to make plans for the special events to be held this Christmas season—and looking ahead, for Christmas season a year from now.

Taking events in reverse order, Christmas season of 1967 will probably find new Christmas lights in the business district. It was decided it was too late to get lighting orders and up for this year's holiday season.

It is not too late to plan for Santa Claus and his annual treats. He will be in Concord, Saturday, Dec. 17, at 3:15 p.m. with treats for all the youngsters.

Turkeys are also being given away each Saturday afternoon. Five will be given away Dec. 10 and five more Dec. 17.

Winners of turkeys the past week were: Ira Anderson, Gary McAuliffe and Bill Stalling, Concord; and Don Kardell and Kisne Magnuson, Laurel.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The editorial department of a weekly newspaper is an important department. Normally it is one person's opinion of topics that concern most of the readers.

You may not agree with an editorial—but if you read the editorial and give serious thought to the subject discussed you have gained. You, as a reader, have given careful thought to an important problem and the writer is proud to have called your attention to an important subject that you may have overlooked.

A Tragedy Averted

No one will ever know why the accident did not happen. It had all the makings of a tragedy but it was just not to be.

Where? In Wayne at an alleyway that opens onto Main Street. A businessman tells how his heart was in his throat for a moment and he felt that rush of heat that comes when an accident appears unavoidable. The boy laughed it off—this time.

There is no use naming either. The businessman isn't using the alley anymore. The boy's parents might get the shakes if they knew how close their son came to being a statistic, a broken, bleeding statistic.

The boy was on his bike, hurrying home. The man was coming out of the alley in his car, slowly, but still moving. Suddenly the bike shot in front of him, close to the buildings rather than out at the edge of the sidewalk. This made the possibility of a collision greater than ever.

For some reason, perhaps because the boy was going so fast or because the car was going so slow, the two vehicles missed each other, by what seemed to be a foot or slightly more. The boy continued on his way. The businessman stopped and sat there for a moment to regain his composure, to wipe the perspiration from his brow and to reflect on how easy it would have been for an accident to occur.

Wayne has the alleys. They are open to traffic. It also has sidewalks and boys on bikes. You can tell the kids not to ride their bikes on the sidewalks but they will forget. All the ingredients for tragedy are present but they just have not come together at the right time.

Someday all those alleys should be closed. It may take a closer call than this. It may take an injured boy. Possibly a death is required. Unless, of course, someone decides now that the alleys opening onto Main Street are no longer needed and should be closed to through traffic.

There is a businessman in Wayne who thinks so. There are some parents in Wayne who might not agree now—but they would if they knew how close they came to grief.—CEG.

Understanding 'The Middle School'

If you are a little puzzled about just what Wayne's new "middle school" will mean, don't be alarmed. No one at this newspaper understands it in its entirety and even the school board is not sure of the full picture.

In the first place, the study has been underway for some time. This is not something that is being jumped into first and being learned about later. It is basically new here but it has been tried other places. The state department of education was reluctant to let a school change to the plan yet, but the idea is moving ahead so rapidly the department decided it had to get a foothold in Nebraska somewhere.

Board members have learned that in cities where the concept has been developed there is wide variance in the set-up. Some have not departed far from the junior high idea while others have no resemblance to elementary, junior high or high school as we know them.

One thing, wherever tried, the middle school has been kept. The communities are satisfied that for the good of the age group concerned the new set-up is ideal.

In Amory, Miss., non-grading of reading was started first and is now spreading to other subjects. Thus those who advance fastest can go on while those who need help can get it. In most other concepts Amory's school (the only middle school in the South) is pretty much like other schools as far as classes go. However, seventh and eighth grade pupils remain "younger" longer because they are separated from the high school classes with which they formerly associated in one building.

In Barrington, Ill., children profit through a program that provides a true transition from the self-contained elementary classrooms to the full departmentalization of the high school. Combining grades six, seven and eight has given imaginative administrators and teachers a chance to give pre-adolescents a taste of true exploration removed from the dominating ninth graders and the college-career pressures of high school. All teachers are committed to "team-teaching" and to experiments of all kinds.

Mr. Kisco, N.Y., Sarasota, Fla., Pleasant Hills, Pa., and other communities all have middle schools now. No two are alike. All follow the premise that the age group to be served does not belong with the elementary school group and is not ready for the high school group.

The surprising thing is, schools have found that in some courses (algebra, for instance) fifth graders or those at a fifth grade level are natural intellectuals. By contrast, seventh and eighth graders are more "engineers" and do not learn algebra as well. Seventh and eighth grade levels are not content with sitting at desks, reading, writing and reciting. The basic nature of children at this age is to move around, do things, explore, build and experiment. They need to get in smaller groups to study at their level and to advance according to capabilities.

"Middle school" is going to become a common term here and will not need quotation marks anymore. It will be covered as a revealing new advancement in education for this area as decisions are made, plans were announced and new avenues of learning are explored.

It will undoubtedly be a great experiment, one that will benefit present generations in the middle school and those of the future. Wayne has been chosen for an exciting role in a great educational adventure for all of us, both inside and outside the middle school.—CEG.

Say There, Gov. Tiemann

Just where does our new governor-to-be get the idea that Nebraskans electing him is a mandate to broaden the tax base? As we remember, his statement in favor of such an idea came out on a Wednesday just before election when most Nebraska weeklies had gone to press.

Now there is talk of an income-sales tax combination being passed with an "emergency" clause so it can go into effect before the people have time to circulate petitions to over-rule it. One senator even suggested a special session so people would have less time to get signers on petitions in case they do not like the new law.

Some legislators have the idea the people do not know what is good for them and they do not want the people to have a say. It is apparent they did not base their campaigns for election on such a premise.

Why not let the people decide what they want as a tax for state government support? Who is it that worries for fear the people might not want a sales or income tax or a combination?

Why can't we call a special election? Let the people vote on these issues: Should state government and institutions be financed by () Property Tax; () Sales Tax; () Income Tax; () Combination Sales-Income Tax; () Combination Sales-Property Tax; () Combination Sales-Income-Property Tax; () Combination Sales-Income-Property Tax.

Maybe the people are not given credit for having the sense their legislators have. Still, they should be given credit for knowing that state operations have to be financed with a tax of some sort. Who has a better right to decide on what taxing method is used than the people who will be paying the tax?

Perhaps this is the time to start circulating petitions, not after a tax law is passed. Would you sign a petition to get a special election so you can help decide what method of taxation is used? Do you want a direct voice in this matter or is your legislator talking your language already?

When a property tax is defeated by less than 10,000 votes on a ballot that was worded in a rather misleading way and an income tax is defeated by over 250,000 votes, it hardly appears that there is a mandate for anyone to push for a sales, income or combination tax.

Mr. Tiemann, if you want to get off on the right foot, why not find out what the people want (besides you for governor). No matter how the vote on such an issue went, it would merit support by everyone, taxpayers, newspapers, legislators and governor.—CEG.

Legislature Refuses Call For Special Tax Session

LINCOLN—The Nebraska Legislature has refused to call itself into special session, leaving the decision to the state's tax crisis to the 1967 assembly.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff had requested the special session to enact a sales-income tax program. He said it was needed to replace the state property tax, abolished in the Nov. 8 election.

Six voted for it. Twenty-nine favorable ballots were needed.

"They will regret this decision," remarked a disappointed Carpenter.

Legislative leaders had urged their colleagues to keep a cool head and not to act in haste. They said there will be time enough in the regular session—which opens Jan. 3-to resolve the tax dilemma.

"There is no emergency at this time," asserted Sen. James W. Burbach of Cen-ton, chairman of the influential Revenue Committee.

"If we apply ourselves diligently, there is sufficient time in 1967 to take care of this matter."

Burbach warned that any sales tax legislation will have to contain a high enough rate to carry the state through fiscal 1967 and 1968, adding that the most feasible starting date for an income tax would be Jan. 1, 1968.

Carpenter feared the foes of the sales or income tax would start a referendum petition drive against any new taxes. He said a special session might reduce this possibility, however.

Sen. George Gardes of Alliance said he will submit a sales tax bill, and an income tax measure to the incoming unicameral. The latter, he added, will be similar to the now defunct 1965 income tax—"but with some corrections."

Carpenter admitted that he did not expect the proposition to carry because of statements made earlier by Governor-elect Norbert T. Tiemann.

Carpenter and the next governor issued contradictory statements on Tiemann's position on a special session. Tiemann, trying to avoid a dispute, attributed this to a "misunderstanding." Carpenter called the response "unacceptable" and said "the honeymoon is over."

From the outset the special session proposal was doomed. Aside from Carpenter, few lawmakers spoke out in favor of it. Many noted the regular session is only five weeks away and that some of them would be acting in a lame duck capacity.

"It would not be fair for me to take my influence felt on tax matters because I will not be back in January," said Sen. Chet Paxton of Theford, defeated in the recent election.

Those senators voting for the special session included Jerry Warner of Waverly; Harold Stryker of Rising City; George Gerdes of Alliance; Peter H. Clausen of Leigh; Fern Hubbard Orme of Lincoln, and Carpenter.

Study Shows Cost To Rise The chairman of the Roads Study Committee told the biennial meeting of the Legislative Council it will cost a lot of money to improve Nebraska's roadways.

Sen. Jules W. Burbach of Crofton did not say exactly how much—but indicated present revenue sources are not sufficient to meet the need.

"We have every reason to believe that this is going to have a very, very large price tag," he told the 49 assembled lawmakers at the hectic two-day meeting.

Twenty-one committees submitted reports on a host of subjects. All the reports were routinely accepted.

Not many years ago, the Legislative Council's between sessions work was not taken seriously. But in the past few years, the lawmakers have placed increasing reliance on the studies because they give the senators a chance to delve in depth into problems which they cannot study carefully during the rush of a regular session.

Several legislators complained that the number of study committees had become unwieldy and called for a reduction the next go-round.

Sen. Kenneth L. Bowen of Red Cloud, speaker of the 1965 session, said few members get the time to study the committee reports thoroughly. He suggested the number of study units be limited to 10 or 12.

"With this number, I think we would have more time to analyze the reports," he said.

Sen. Marvin E. Stromer of Lincoln agreed. He urged future legislatures to exercise "extreme caution" in authorizing between-session studies.

Vote Canvass Announced The Nebraska Board of Canvassers has determined the proposal to abolish the State Property Tax was successful and that 489,308 votes were cast in the Nov. 8 election.

Amsoy Beans

A new variety of soybean will be available as certified seed for 1967 planting.

This bean has been the highest yielding variety in tests over the past 3 years in Northeast Nebraska. It is one day earlier than Hawkeye, grows about 2 inches taller, is about 1% lower in protein and 1% higher in oil content.

No doubt, there will be a strong demand for the limited seed supply at prices somewhat higher than for other beans.

Certified seed directories available in the County Extension office lists growers in this area.

Lists Benefits

Good lighting around the farmstead can provide farm families year round benefits.

These include keeping wild animals and prowlers away, preventing falls and accidents, saving time in farmstead night work and making activities in the building area easier.

The new mercury-vapor yard light is one of the best lights available. Located near the middle of the building area it provides enough light to adequately cover the entire area. The 250-400 watt size lamps are rapidly gaining in popularity over the 175-watt size.

The fixtures have a built-in photoelectric control to automatically turn the light on at dusk and off in the morning. The mercury bulb has a rated life of 16,000 hours. This would be about four years of operation under automatic control.

Electric power suppliers have a rental plan by which these lamps can be installed and permanently maintained for a small monthly charge.

Harvest is scarcely over when farmers begin making plans for the coming year. Winter allows more time for thinking, reading and figuring. With the present rate of change and farming becoming more competitive, we all need a spell of "catching up".

The time for decision is always with us and making the right choices becomes ever more important. The successful farmer today needs reliable information and lots of it.

For example: Do you have the answers? Shall we switch to narrow rows? What width? What chemical has done the best job of controlling corn rootworm? Can we grow row crops without cultivation? What crop varieties have done best in my community? How much can we reduce costs with minimum tillage? Are big tractors making for a soil compaction problem? What fertilizers and how much to produce a maximum yields?

These are only a few of the many questions farmers will be seeking answers for before another crop year commences.

There are no ready made answers but helpful information will be provided from many sources throughout the winter months.

We hope you will take advantage of meetings, workshops, articles, etc. where results from research at local and other Experiment stations will be reported.

How Does Your Consumer Knowledge Rate?

Does Grade A designation on eggs refer to weight or size? Does the Good Housekeeping Seal guarantee that advertising claims are truthful?

Grade letters, seals of approval and guarantees on products serve as consumer aids. But a recent University of Nebraska research study of Lincoln homemakers shows that women have only a fair knowledge about the meanings of these consumer aids.

Homemakers were asked about consumer aids frequently noticed by many shoppers but evidently understood by only a few. Do you understand the meaning of these aids? The American Gas Association Laboratories Seal of Approval, the Underwriters' Laboratories Seal of Approval, the American Institute of Laundering Seal of Approval, the American Dental Association Seal of Acceptance, the Good Housekeeping Seal of Guarantee, the Parents' Magazine Commendation Seal, and an unidentified guarantee label.

The American Gas Association Seal of Approval is awarded for safety and durability of gas appliances. This seal does not stand for good design as many women incorrectly thought.

The Underwriters' Laboratories Seal of Approval is found on both electrical cords and appliances. This seal is sponsored by the National Board of Fire Underwriters. It refers to electrical safety.

An item of merchandise carrying the American Institute of Laundering Seal of Approval is guaranteed for washability and against shrinkage. The seal also includes bleeding of colors, fiber strength, or launderability of zippers, buttons and snaps.

The American Dental Association Seal of Acceptance on a product guarantees it not to be harmful.

The Good Housekeeping Seal guarantees that the products and services are good and that the advertising claims are truthful.

The Parents' Magazine Seal means that advertising claims in the magazine are truthful. This seal does not necessarily mean that the product has been tested for quality or that it is safe for children.

Unidentified guarantee label is a general term which does not mean much. Many of the homemakers in the research study were incorrect in thinking that unidentified guarantee label meant an assurance of refund if the product were defective.

Chances are if Wayne gets industry people living in Randolph, Allen, Pender, Pierce and other towns might gain employment and be able to drive back and forth to work. In other words, the entire region would benefit. So, before you read the next paragraph, find that form, fill it out, put it in an addressed envelope and have it ready to mail. Boy's Life carried this recipe for elephant stew: "One elephant, two rabbits (optional), salt and pepper. Cut elephant into small, bite-size pieces. This should take about two months. Add enough brown gravy to cover. Cook over a kerosene stove for about four weeks at 465 degrees. This will serve 3,800 people. If more are expected, two rabbits may be added, but do this only if necessary because most people do not like to find bones in their stew."

Do you want to hear a sad story? Last week we obtained a picture of the Wakefield basketball team from a studio. We had no identification so called the coach at Wakefield. He said he would have a student teacher stop in and identify the boys. The student teacher came while we were out and left the names of the boys, but did not identify which was which. Still lacking identification, we called the Wakefield coach. He said he would have the student teacher come in again and identify the boys. The student coach came in but was not sure of all the names as he has not been at Wakefield too long. He took the picture to the home of another Wakefield teacher who lives in Wayne. Wednesday morning we got the identification straight.

We took a picture of the picture for our paper. The film was heavier than usual. We put it on and the picture reproduced terrible. To make a long story short, we had run the picture backward, having pasted the negative on with the wrong side up. So, everyone was identified wrong anyway. We're running a better shot with the correct identification this week. We hope the Trojans have better luck on the court than they've had in The Herald.

When we think how long it has taken to get work started on the airport, how long cable television is in getting here, how much time has gone by since the condition of LaPorte's emergency was first brought to public attention, and how fast the time is going for spraying of elm trees, we get discouraged. However, of these, the most discouraging is the elm spraying situation. We have seen no trees marked. People cannot seem to grasp the idea that this is a life and death matter for the elms. Maybe they want a city of dead trees. Maybe they think this area is different and the trees can be saved after a few branches are lead (something no other area has been able to do). Whatever the reason, none is valid. The elms must be saved. The dormant period is the only time to save them. A little paint spot on the tree is needed to identify them. Why don't you mark your elms today. It would be much cheaper than having them cut down and hauled away in the not-too-distant future.

The hillbilly took his first trip to a big city. Walking into a skyscraper, he saw a doorman standing by a special kind of door. An old lady stepped in, a light flashed red, and she was gone. A few moments later, the elevator descended, the door opened and out stepped a beautiful girl. "By cracky," exclaimed the Ozarkian, blinking his eyes, "next time I come to town I'm goin' to bring my old lady with me!"

Our bouquet of the week goes to Bob Carhart and if ever a bouquet was overdue, this one is. He has served almost a year as chairman of the steering committee spearheading a drive for a vocational-technical school in the area, he is active in Chamber of Commerce and Kiwanis, he is an "over 21 Eagle" in a group of successful men who were once Eagle Scouts, he is in the foreground of the group organizing a new Boy Scout troop in Wayne, he is a "do-something" member of his church, he is a member of the planning commission, the Chamber of Commerce has named him to the board of directors for two years, he has served on many of the committees, he is active in state lumber and construction groups and he is a good solid citizen, the family-man type. Or, child to Bob Carhart, a community can never have too many citizens like him.

Are you going to "Winter at Deep Creek" Thursday night? We hope you do not let the word "ballet" scare you away. This production has "Shenandoah," "On Top of Old Smokey," "This Old House," "Irish Washerwoman" and many other familiar songs that you'll love. It has colorful costumes, beautiful settings and is a "pioneer anthology of early America" in this part of the country. We are skipping some basketball games to attend this and we love basketball. But this program we won't miss. You won't be sorry if you attend. Take our word for it, attend, and let us know afterward whether or not you think we gave you a bum steer. We're betting you like it whether you're a rich socialite or a grass root farmer. At least give it a chance to please you by attending.

Beef Feeders at Beemer Seminar

Beef cattle feeders and stockmen in Eastern Nebraska will push pencils at a beef seminar in Beemer, Friday, Dec. 9. Several hundred are expected for the seminar, one of two in the state.

Because health problems are a major obstacle to beef industry profits, this will be a main topic. A Mitchell veterinarian, an NU veterinarian and NU specialists on parasites and entomology will be featured.

American Cyanamid co-sponsors the seminar. Three scientists from that company will be on hand.

A summary of research on liver abscesses in cattle, procedure in product developments, antibiotics in ruminant and other topics will be discussed. Following talks, a question and answer period will follow.

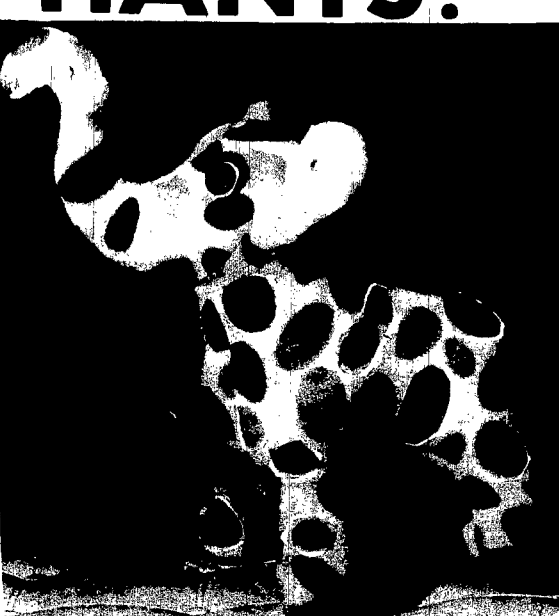

Registration is at 9 a.m. in the BHS auditorium. Refreshments will be served. American Cyanamid, Nebraska Stock Growers, Nebraska Livestock Feeders, Sandhills Cattle Association and University of Nebraska are putting on the seminar.

Go to Lincoln Meet
Supt. James Christensen Winsie, and Prin. Loren Park, Wayne, will go to Lincoln Friday to attend the annual delegate assembly. Concord Mayor May Not See 'Concord' Launching

The mayors from 16 other ConCORDs may be present when the USS Concord is launched Saturday, Dec. 17, but the mayor of Concord, Nebr., probably will not be. At least that is the outlook at present. Mayor Bob Sherry has received an invitation for himself and his wife to be guests at the launching of the ship in San Diego. They are also invited to a reception and have been sent two special reserved seat tickets.

According to Sherry, the town of Concord cannot afford to send him and he cannot afford the trip on his own. He admitted to a desire to get back to the sea again he served on a ship attached to the navy as a member of the marines for three years.

The invitation reads: "The officers and director of National Steel and Shipbuilding Company request the honor of your presence at the launching of Concord (AFS-5) combat store ship for the United States Navy, Saturday, the seventeenth of December, nineteen hundred and sixty-six at eleven o'clock in the morning, Twenty-Eighth Street and Harbor Drive, San Diego, California."

Information supplied includes the sponsor, Mrs. Clydes G. Sharp, Jr., who will be honored at a reception at one o'clock to which the Sherrys are invited. The reception will be in the Crown Room, Hotel del Coronado, Coronado, Calif.

It's not often a ship is named for a town, not even once in most peoples' lifetimes. For that reason, Concord is not the only one so honored. There are at least 16 other ConCORDs in the nation. Some probably have no mayors.

Largest is Concord, Calif., with 36,208 people six years ago. In New Hampshire, Concord is capital city with 28,001 people. ConCORDs in North Carolina, Massachusetts and Tennessee are the only other ones above 1,000 population with 17,709, 3,188 and 1,600 respectively.

Delaware and Wisconsin ConCORDs list no post offices. Texas and Wisconsin ConCORDs list no population. Concord, Nebr., at 150 population is not too far away from Delaware (150), Illinois (210), Kentucky (80), Pennsylvania (180), Vermont (180), Virginia (400), Florida (100) and Indiana (15).

Which ones will be represented at the launching. No one is sure. Probably Concord, Nebr., will not be. Maybe next time there's a ship named 'Concord' launched, the mayor can make it.

'Homework' Failure May Delay GI Money

Veterans who are attending school under the new GI Bill who do not have their first checks by now may have failed to do their homework, according to Chris Bargholz, Wayne County veterans service officer.

The students who did not receive checks by this week should make sure an enrollment notice has been sent to the VA by the school; make sure the certificate of attendance the VA has sent to the VA.

Make sure VA has been advised of a change of address, contact Bargholz or the regional VA office in Lincoln by telephone concerning payment.

A certificate of attendance was not necessary the first month because the VA accepted the college notice of enrollment as basis for payment. However, Bargholz points out that all future checks will be withheld unless the student sends in his own certificate of attendance.

It is possible an error has been made in a few cases as to the vastness of the program and the mailing procedures. However, these should be ironed out soon and veterans

'Meanest Burglar' Takes Hoskins Boy's Savings in Break-in Friday Morning

Hoskins feels it has the claim on the "meanest burglar" around. Someone took the savings of a Hoskins boy in a break-in Friday morning.

Mike Friend, who is everybody's friend, was the victim. Money he could have used for Christmas gifts or to add to his savings account was taken along with rare coins and cigarettes Friday.

You might say Mike earned the money. He "earns" it by beating other boys (and some men) at pool. When he plays and should continue sending in certificates of attendance even though no checks have arrived yet.

wins, the money goes to him instead of to the cash register at Mary's Bar, operated by his mother, Mrs. Mary Friend.

Mike does not let his confinement to a wheelchair bother him. He attends school and helps out around home. His free time is spent with friends downtown.

His mother has been hiding his money for him so few people would know where to look for it. However, someone knew and they not only took the rare coins from the cash register but Mike's well-hidden savings too. In all, over $100 in coins and bills was taken.

Mrs. Friend reports a taken $40 in cigarettes taken also. She said some whiskey or beer in small amounts could have been taken but no large amounts were gone.

Entrance was gained through a window in the restroom. It was pried open and left open. Exit was made through the back door which was also left open.

Mrs. Friend had closed the bar at midnight. When she came down at 8:45, she found it extremely cold inside (the mercury dropping below 20 degrees that night). The window and door were still open.

Sheriff Don Weible was called to investigate. As of this writing, no clues as to the identification of the "meanest burglar" (or burglars) were obtained.

Is Meteorite Real or Not?

Is the stone on George Heady's grave a meteorite or isn't it?

Some doubts have been raised, but some substantiation of the version given last week has also been received. Further research will be necessary before anything definite is printed.

Dr. Laura Franklin brought in a book, "Nebraska, A Guide to the Cornhusker State," written as a federal writers' project and published in 1939. It mentions the meteorite. It is a copyrighted book by the Nebraska Historical Society.

Quotations cannot be taken directly from the book but it does tell of the marker in the cemetery over George Heady's grave which he had maintained was a meteorite. It tells how a friend had it converted to a monument to Heady.

Mrs. Jim Hein tells about the "meteorite" being in the home of her parents, the Rollie Leys, for years. Her father had it taken to the cemetery to mark the grave of Heady as there was at the time no stone on his grave.

Others claim meteorites would not fall straight down as claimed for this one. They also say meteorites break up and scatter over wide areas. They have no explanation for the hole 50-feet deep from which this object was brought.

It's an interesting situation, one that has been hashed and rebashed before. Several have promised to look into it further to see if more definite information can be secured.

Questionnaires Will Be Sent With Checks

Almost 31,000 Nebraska veterans, widows, orphans and parents are receiving monthly benefits from the Veterans Administration. County Service Officer Chris Bargholz reveals more than 16,000 of these will be sent a questionnaire with the benefit check arriving around Dec. 15.

Continued benefit checks will depend on the amount of income for these people, Bargholz said. The questionnaires must be filled out and returned no later than Jan. 31. Otherwise, no check will be sent.

Bargholz offers his help to anyone in this area who receives such a questionnaire. He has regular hours daily at his office at 108 Main, Wayne.

Not everyone getting VA checks will get these questionnaires. Those who do should comply with the rules or experience a delay in benefits with possible discontinuance of payments.

Accident Victim Still in Traction

Harry Woehler, Wayne, injured in a two-car head-on collision Nov. 21, is still in traction in a Sioux City hospital. His condition is described as "serious."

Woehler's mouth is still wired shut so he has to be fed through tubes. He has his leg in traction, although support has been moved from the heel to the middle of the leg.

He has undergone surgery twice the past week. Once the leg repairs were made and the second operation was for repair of a damaged lung.

Wires, tubes, traction and other devices make his situation an involved one. Speech is limited due to the devices holding his jaws in place.

He is in a room on the fourth floor of the Methodist Hospital, 29th and Douglas, Sioux City. The outlook appears to call for a long recuperation period.

Out of Old Nebraska

It is all but forgotten today that a legendary figure in 19th century American economic history spent the last years of his life in Nebraska and is buried in Fremont. Newspapers, for January 1921, in the files of the Nebraska State Historical Society, devoted much space to the death of "Coal Oil Johnny" Steele, as did papers throughout the country.

John W. Steele was born at Shaleville, Pa., in 1843, and, at the age of seven, he was adopted by a wealthy Venango county farmer. Both the farmer and his wife died, when Steele was still a young man, and he inherited their large farm. Shortly thereafter, in the 1860's, oil was found on Pennsylvania's Oil Creek, near Steele's farm. Almost at once, Steele's farm became one of the most valuable properties in the region and the young farmer discovered that instead of being a well-to-do young man, he was a very rich young man.

During the first years of the "oil rush," Steele acquired the nickname, "Coal Oil Johnny," by which he was known throughout the country. Steele was a big spender, and the press of his day made the most of his various antics, so that he became one of the most legendary men, in an era filled with larger-than-life types.

The early types of the American petroleum industry were as hectic as any boom which has taken place in this country, and, after a few years, the fun-loving "Coal Oil Johnny" tired of the business. At the time of his death, one Pittsburg newspaper said, "he finally tired of taking wealth from the ground and he 'sold out'...and started a career of 'mad spending,' as his friends termed it."

Within a few years, "Coal Oil Johnny" had spent his fortune and he moved west, first to Iowa and then to Nebraska, where he was employed for thirty-seven years as a station agent of the Burlington railroad. For the last five years of his life, he was the agent at Fort Crook, and it was in his home, at that place, that he died on Dec. 31, 1920. He was buried at Fremont, beside the body of his son, O. C. Steele, who had been station agent at Fremont, before his death. He was survived by his wife and three grandsons, all residents of Nebraska.

The Fremont Herald ended his obituary with the comment that the stories told on "Coal Oil Johnny" never represented him as gambling or making a profligate use of his wealth, but rather as enjoying the sight of others getting what was so difficult to obtain."

There are many state nicknames. Some are complimentary and some are not and they have changed with the passage of time. Illinois is no longer the Sucker state (named because its pioneers went up stream.) Some states are named for animals such as MICHIGAN — pg. 3

Ensemble Recital at Wayne State College

An ensemble recital by Wayne State musicians Wednesday night presented a rich variety of instrumental numbers and vocal selections by the Madrigal Singers.

The ensembles included: Dennis Quigley, Dale Nellis and Sandra Sellin, trumpets; Dan Praemer and Jackie Armstrong, trombones; a flute-clarinnet duet by Christine Otto and Janet Hanna; trumpet trio by Ron Dalton, Gwen Marolf and Joe Prazak;

Saxophone quartet by Beverly Dale, Barbara Bae, Larry Marik and Jane Goodmanson; violin duet by Pat Fitzsimons and Beverly Dale; brass quintet by Joe Prazak, Terry Kardell, trumpets, Morris Iversen, French horn, Fred Sokol, trombone, and Gordon Buchholz, baritone; Woodwind quintet by Joyce Piskac, flute, April Montgomery, Oboe, Cassie Staley, clarinet, Linda Golder, bassoon, and Mary Frances Wetrosky, French horn; and quartet of Ron Dalton, trumpet, Jane Nelson, French horn, Dennis Downs, trombone, and Jack Schreiber, baritone.

OLD NEBRASKA -

as the Wisconsin Badgers and the Michigan Wolverines. The Kansas Jayhawk is a mythical bird.

The files of the Nebraska State Historical Society reveal the evolution of our state's popular name. We have not always been Cornhuskers. As early as 1885 Nebraskan's bore the unflattering name of "Bug Eaters." The origin of this term is not certain. It probably stemmed from the grasshopper plagues of the 1870's which had destroyed crops and driven many settlers back to the East. It is not surprising that the term "Bug Eater" was given no official recognition by the state.

The Nebraska State legislature on Apr. 4, 1895, passed a joint resolution as follows:

"Whereas, The state of Nebraska has heretofore, in a popular sense been designated by names not in harmony with its history, industry or ambition; and whereas, the state of Nebraska is pre-eminently a tree planting state...Therefore,

"Be it resolved by the legislature of The State of Nebraska:

That Nebraska shall hereafter in a popular sense be known and referred to as the "Tree Planters State".

The name was appropriate for the state which originated Arbor Day, however, it never caught the popular imagination. Athletic teams were not called "Tree Planters."

The term "Nebraskaland" currently is being used in connection with the state Centennial and tourist promotion. The name originally appeared in a song widely sung by the pioneers of the 1890's. That it was used in a different sense than today is indicated by the chorus:

Nebraskaland, Nebraskaland

As on thy desert soil I stand
And look away across the plains

I wonder why it never rains

"Cy" Sherman, is credited with originating the term "Cornhuskers." He told in his recollections of watching the University of Nebraska football team play Iowa on Thanksgiving Day 1893. Nebraska won in a heavy snowstorm. The next morning Sherman was dismayed to read of the stewart University players referred to as "Bug Eaters."

A few years later Sherman was a sports editor for a Lincoln paper. He referred to University athletic teams as Cornhuskers. The name caught on. The University year-book was named the Cornhusker and the word was in fact the nickname for Nebraska. It became official on Feb. 12, 1945 when a bill was approved stating "That the State of Nebraska shall hereafter in a popular sense be known as the Cornhusker State."

Wayne High Reserves Win Opener at Blair

Coach Don Johnson's Wayne High reserves paved the way to a successful evening for Blue Devil cagers and fans Friday night as they ran rampant over the Blair Cubs 56 to 10.

Chuck Fisher led the way for the reserves with 13 points followed closely by Steve Kerl with 11 and Joedy Hoogner with 10. A total of eight junior devils got into the scoring column as Wayne out-ran, out-shot and literally outdid the hosts.

Wayne connected for 22 field goals and 12 of 24 free throws to tally their winning total. For the Blair reserves Jerry Kruse was high with 11 followed by Mike Thompson with 7 and John McGinnis with 6.

The reserves play the preliminary game with David City Aquinas here Friday night at City Auditorium and on Tuesday night travel with the varsity to Laurel.

Box Score:

WHS Reserves
Steve Johnson	3 1-1 3 7
Joedy Hoogner	1 2-2 0 10

Dixon Coach Will Not Ask 'Salary' Increase

Coach Bill Garvin, Dixon, will get the same salary this year he received last year for coaching the Fighting Irish of Dixon Grade School. He is a volunteer coach and his "pay" comes in helping the boys learn the game and seeing the pleasure they get out of participating.

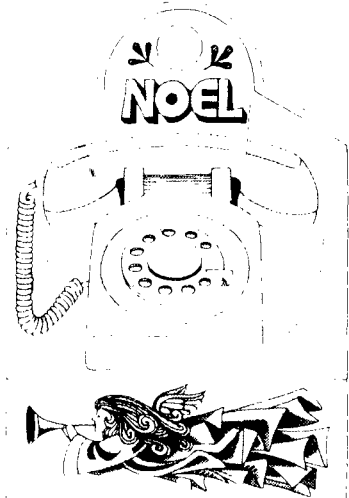

He gives of his own time, furnishes his own transportation and helps out in other ways. The thought of real pay never crosses his mind, but there are a lot of grateful kids and parents who let him know they appreciate his work.

The Irish will have two teams. Boys from the fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades will practice in the Dixon Auditorium and after the holidays will play games with other schools.
