Susan L. Gillies, instructor in speech, earned her bachelor's degrees from Sioux Falls College, her master's from Memphis State University.

Emerson Woman's Name Drawn Here

Mrs. Clara Pieper, Emerson, could have won $250 Thursday night by being in Wayne. That would have been paid for a lot of entertainment at the Wayne County Fair which was also on at the same time.

Many at the fair were fearful their name might be called, saying they had not missed. Some expressed the idea those at the fairgrounds ought to be as eligible as those in town.

Fortunately, it did not matter; Mrs. Pieper was neither present, she will get a $10 consolation check from the Wayne Chamber of Commerce for missing out.

The fund now goes up to $300. That's the amount that will be drawn for Thursday, Aug. 17, at 8 p.m. There can be a winner only if the one whose name is announced is in one of the participating firms at that hour.

Winside's Rewiring Slated to Start

There won't be a frayed electrical wire in Winside soon. An Omaha firm has been given a contract to completely rewire the town.

The village board accepted the bid of E. A. Pedersen's Co., Omaha, for the project. The firm plans to get started right away so the work can be completed before cold weather sets in.

Included in the wiring work will be all the city's municipal lines which now connect through Wayne County Public Power District Lines with bureau of reclamation. This means street lights, city auditorium, offices and other city property.

New lines will be put in all over town. Lines going from the general service lines to the business places and to the houses will also be new.

Pedersen was awarded the contract after bids from several firms were discussed. The project has been under consideration for some time.

Hoskins Firemen Get Called to Grass Fire

Hoskins Volunteer Fire Department was called out Wednesday. A minor fire occurred two miles southwest of town along Highway 75.

Grass was being burned along the highway. The flames endangered a wood-culvert under the highway so the department was called.

There was no damage to the culvert. Hoskins firemen had the fire in the grass out in a matter of minutes.

A HERALD WANT AD PAYS

DR. J. R. JOHNSON, Wahoo, dropped a metal container into a marker in Bressler Park Friday. A top on the marker gives it a "Washington Monument" look now. It is in the Northwest corner of the park and will be opened in 1981, Wayne's 100th birthday.

Celebration in Dixon this Tuesday

August 15 has long been "Dixon's Day" and this year is no exception. The annual celebration on that date will be held Tuesday with almost everything free.

An innovation will be the powder-puff tractor-pulling contest. Women will be driving to see who can pull the loads the greatest distance for a number of prizes.

A parade at 1 will start the afternoon program. Nancy Griffin, state centennial queen from Atkinson, will be on hand to present gifts to a dozen or more Dixon residents who have lived there 77 years.

which is the age of the town.

Neal Boeshart, laurel, will be master of ceremonies. Several other attractions have been lined up, including a possible appearance by last year's celebration queen.

The men's tractor-pulling contest will be held in the afternoon with a stage show following. In the evening a variety show will include Master Melodiers, "Lainview Klown Band, Dixon Chorus and Dixon Belles 4-H Club.

American Eagle Shows will have carnival booths and rides set up. The Methodist WSCS and other groups will have food stands. A dance will conclude the evening. Visiting and reminiscing as always will be a part of "Dixon's Big Day."

Field Day to Be Held at Concord

Uverd Alexander, area extension specialist in soils, has announced that Wednesday, Sept. 13, is the date set for the 1967 Northeast Station agronomy field day at Concord.

An all-day affair, it will feature tours of crop variety, soil fertility, crop management and weed and insect control experiments.

Present plans call for four stops to be conducted by the University of Nebraska's agricultural extension specialists. Further plans will be revealed later.

The tours have been arranged so the public may come almost any time during the day and start at 8 a.m. Tours will leave the main office building at the station near Concord throughout the day. More details will be given in future editions of The Herald.

Centennial Fair Successful

Wayne County observed Nebraska's 100th birthday in proper fashion the past week. The three-day fair was among the best the county has ever had with near-perfect weather helping out.

The parade drew around 5,000 Friday morning and 8,000 attended the barbecue in the evening. It was the first time in history the serving groups ran out of ice cream bars and orange drink. They almost ran out of buns also.

Weather included almost clear skies with no threat of rain. Temperatures were in the 70's most of the time with light breezes blowing, making it comfortable both morning and evening.

The parade was called by many, "the best ever seen in this area." There were many local entries, but what really helped was the way surrounding communities responded with bands, floats and other entries to make the 1 1/2-hour parade outstanding.

Clete Sharer, Al Bahe and Kurt Otto were in charge and they divided entries up in such a manner so there was variety at all times. A group of 51 little Disney characters hired to help out with costumes worn by Scouts helped enliven the parade. No prizes were given in the big parade. Instead, each entry (138) received a plaque with metal plate. Bands from Howells, Emerson-Iubhard, Pierce, Allen, Pender and Wayne paraded and were served free lunch. They also gave a massed band concert in the evening.

Norfolk Drum and Bugle Corps and The Centennial Corps of Omaha both put on drills in front of the grandstand. Nancy Falk, centennial queen, presented prizes to beard contest winners.

Wayne Players presented an old-fashioned mellerdrama, "Dirty Work at the Crossroads." Friday evening and the Wayne County Historical Society had a centennial dress revue at the auditorium in the afternoon and a play, "50 Years Ago in the Ozarks" in the evening Saturday.

Other fair attractions included the livestock, food, sewing, 4-H extension club and school displays, commercial exhibit and demonstration. There was a ride and exposition, food stands, a teenage dance Saturday, horse racing, horse-pole pitching, Wayne band concert, tractor pull, kids' races, the Joie Chitwood show, Hungry 133-piece band concert, music in business places. Friday afternoon by Linda's Mardian's Gesundheit band free admission for kids. Friday, a SWAY drawing, livestock parade and many other events. Details are contained in several other articles and pictures this week and next.

Spend Thousands Locally

The new Wayne High School building is meaning the spending of thousands of dollars locally, according to a report made Monday by Supt. Francis Haun. His report is in addition to the routine expenditures here.

Christiansen Construction Co., Pender, has hired some local labor and has made local purchases. In other ways the work itself has dumped money into the local economy. Supt. Haun's review covered some not-so-obvious purchases that have benefited Wayne business places.

Here are some firms in Wayne through which purchases have been made with the items bought from them listed after each name: Wayne Book Store, office furniture; Larson Department Store, draperies; Koplun Auto Supply, fire extinguishers; Surber Furniture, homemaking furniture;

Tiedtke Plumbing, refrigerator and sinks for shop area; King's Carpets, all carpeting; Barner's Appliance, stove for homemaking room, seed for new lawn; Doeschler Hardware, stove for homemaking department; Peoples Natural Gas, two stoves for homemaking room; Kugler Electric, washer and dryer for homemaking department;

First National Bank, insurance; Pierson Agency, insurance; State National Bank, insurance; Farmers State Bank, Carroll, insurance; Wayne Music Co., two pianos; Dale's Jewelry,

Time Capsule Sealed

Friday morning the Wayne County Historical Society had a time capsule sealed inside a big marker in the northwest corner of Bressler Park. Dr. J.R. Johnson, former WSC staff member now at John F. Kennedy College, Wahoo, spoke to the small crowd present and then deposited the metal container in the concrete pillar. It is intended to put a plate on the marker with pertinent information and then when Wayne is 100 years old, in 1981, the capsule will be opened and it is hoped many of those named on the lists and taking part in the ceremony will be present for that ceremony too.

Demolishing Old Carroll Building

A big two-story building in Carroll, a downtown landmark for 67 years, is coming down. It is possible it will be replaced with a new building.

Carroll Securities, Inc., which owns the building cat-corner across the intersection from Farmers State Bank, is having the building razed. As a matter of fact the building coming down once housed the bank that eventually became Farmers State Bank.

The 50 by 60 building has been completely vacant since the post office was moved out of it two years ago. Previous to that it had been vacant on the rest of the lower floor and on the entire second floor.

Phil Olson, Mike Olson and John Bergquist are tearing down the building.

Denney in Area

Congressman Robert Denney will be in this area Friday, Aug. 18, and will be anxious to talk with all residents of his district.

He will be in the council rooms of the Norfolk City Council in the City Auditorium from 2:30 to 4:30. No appointment is needed to see him and all people of the area are invited.

Gets Chadron Degree

James Koch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Koch, Winside, has earned a bachelor of science degree at Chadron State College, Chadron. The degree was awarded at graduation ceremonies Thursday. Koch is a graduate of Winside High School and has been attending CSC the last four years.

The Spook Speaks

The Japanese student spending a year with the Dick Sorensons learned the hard way the other day. He was on a tractor, spotted a little bunny and decided to catch it and take it in to the Sorensons' small son. He stopped the tractor and got off but the bunny got away. A moment later he saw a movement in the alfalfa, figured it was the bunny, stopped the tractor, got off, dashed over, clapped his hat down over the "bunny" and suddenly realized it wasn't the bunny. When he got back to the house a moment later he asked, "What do you call those little black animals with white stripes?" At least he got a new hat out of the deal.

Allen residents are a little puzzled by the new speed limit signs on one street. Going south the signs indicate the speed limit is 15 miles an hour; going north the signs say the speed limit is 25 miles an hour. (You can drive faster, evidently moving away from a school than moving toward it).

More Pictures!

For this centennial year, more pictures than ever were taken of the parade and county fair events. For that reason, we were unable to get all of the pictures in one issue. The remaining pictures will be carried in the Thursday, Aug. 17, issue of The Herald. Many of the pictures that do not appear could not even be taken by the time this issue went to press since some divisions of livestock judging and some other activities did not even take place until Saturday morning, the time when the Monday edition is printed.

Many Fair Winners Named

It will take some time before all the winners in the various sections of the Wayne County Fair can be printed. Some will appear this week and others next week. Still others will not be compiled in time for printing for another week.

In the tractor pulling contest, $500 in prizes went out. There were four divisions with three winners in each. Those compiling lists did not record the types of tractors that won so only names are available.

Finishing in first, second and third place in each division were: 6,000-pound, Doug Nelson, Duane Lutt and James Nelson; 8,000-pound, Kenneth Backer, Irvin Haisch, Vic Knieche; 10,000-pound, Larry Lubberstedt, Roland Victor, Roger Lutt; 12,000-pound, Jerry Dorcy, Frank Carripar, Jerome Noecker.

There were four divisions in the beard contest conducted by the Jaycees. Queen Nancy Falk presented prizes. Judges were Karyl Carstensen, Neligh; Bev. Jurgensen, Wisner; and Josie Shearer, Laurel.

First prize for "best"ry

THIS OLD BUILDING in Carroll is coming down. It is next to the park and a restaurant has been proposed on the site.

AN ESTIMATED 7,500 people enjoyed the barbecue at the county fair Friday. Five separate lines are shown converging on the serving area.

Wayne Beats Homer 6-4; Plays Emerson in Finals

Wayne defeated Homer in town team play Thursday night on the Homer diamond to win the first set of NEA play-offs, 2-1. The locals now play Emerson (2-1 winner over Lyons) for the play-off title.

Manager Hank Overin said the first game between Emerson and Wayne for the championship would be Sunday night, Aug. 13, at 8 at the Emerson diamond. Information on the next two games will be given in Thursday's paper.

Homer was figured to win Thursday night's game, playing at home where the outfield fences are closer in and they have a team blessed with long-ball hitters. However, Wayne took the lead, 1-0 in the second, lost it 2-1 in the sixth, tied it up 2-2 in the seventh, went behind 4-2 in the seventh and then scored four runs in the eighth to finally win.

Such a thriller should have been before a "home" town. It certainly had the people at Homer gasping and then unbelieving that the seasonal champions had lost out to Wayne with both of the play-off losses coming on the Homer field.

Wayne stars? You might pick Randy Olson. He hit a single after Bob Bluman had singled, advanced on a walk and moved to third on a fielder's choice. That gave the locals their first lead. Olson also sacrificed with the bases loaded in the seventh to give Wayne the tying score.

Then there's the eighth, when Wayne got three hits. Don Burns singled, Jerry Kinnam doubled, Al Burns doubled and Don Goeden sacrificed to bring in a run. There were also some fielding gems that helped save the game for Wayne. Goeden went the route on the mound for Wayne, striking out four. Dick Hansen struck out nine in pitching the full nine frames but he gave up six hits while Goeden was giving up only four.

The Wayne hits included a double each by Kinnam and Al Burns and a single apiece by Don Burns, Ken Bowers, Bob Ditman and Randy Olson. Homer's hits included a home run by Bill Dunlap, a triple by Leon Porjevis and a single each by Bill Goodwin and Bob Jacobson.

Goeden pitched no-hit no-run ball for the first four frames. He gave up four hits, the next two innings and settled down to pitch two more innings of no-hit no-run ball. Hansen pitched five innings of no-hit no-run ball.

The Wayne-Emerson series will be a best of three affair also. One game will be played in each town and then a flip of the coin will decide where the other game will be if a third game is necessary.

Two Alternates

Two Wayne Legion baseball players have been named alternates on the North All-Star team in the series at Grant. They were named by managers in this area and by the coach of the north team, the coach at Homer, Gordon Jorgensen, was named an alternate as catcher on the all-star squad. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Jorgensen, Sr. Dean Hofson was named an alternate pitcher. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Me. Elofson.

DIPLOMAS FOR PARENTS, TOO: Bob Hope pulled an unusual—and perhaps unique—stunt following his graduation Wednesday from Wayne State College. He gave a special diploma to his parents. After commencement ended, he brought them to meet President W. A. Brandenburg, and the president presented them an unofficial—but official looking—diploma which declared: "In recognition of the parental devotion in Putting Hope Through College, despite drain on bank account and other consequences, Wayne State College awards to Mr. and Mrs. Norbert H. Hope the degree of Ph.D." It bore the college seal and Dr. Brandenburg's signature. Some time ago Bob had asked the president if he would be party to such an honorary degree. Yes indeed, the president would. The Hopes, of Mount Prospect, Ill., were both astonished and delighted.

Local Woman Plays on Top Softball Team

Mrs. Hazle Lambing has spent the first two months of summer playing softball with the Taylor Tots Team at Scottsbluff. The team wound up second in the recent state women's softball tournament.

John F. Kennedy College, Wahoo, won first place in the tournament held at Scottsbluff the first week of this month, edging out the Taylor Tots. However, each member of each team received a trophy to denote the honor.

Mrs. Lambing, who plays second base, has long been active in sports. She attended Wayne State College, where she was a physical education major.

During the winter she is a teacher in District 8 school. She has returned to Wayne now that the softball season is over in Scottsbluff.

Rev. S. K. de Freese officiated at the rites. Music was furnished by Robert Wriedt, soloist, and Mrs. William Kugler, pianist. Pallbearers were George Hoffman, John Lynch, Warren Bilson, Ross James, Ralph Beiermann and Carlos Martin. Burial was in Bloomfield Cemetery, Bloomfield.

school and in 1928 moved to Wayne.

His father preceded him in death. Survivors include his widow; a son, Robert A. Bathke; Omaha; a daughter, Mrs. Dennis (Gale Theo) Korth; Rochester, Minn.; his mother, Bertha Bathke; Bloomfield; and three grandchildren.

Answers Questions About Armed Forces

Mrs. Jewell Cagner, new clerk of the Wayne County selective service board, has answers to common questions that come in. Some of these questions and answers of general interest will appear from time to time in The Herald.

One person wrote in that their son was their only child and wondered if he could qualify for a IV-A classification (sole surviving son). The answer: He must be sole surviving son of a family of which father or more sons or daughters were killed in action or died in line of duty in the armed forces or died of result of injury or disease incurred during service.

Another asked: Must a registrant return to his own local board for his armed forces physical examination and induction? No, he may transfer for physical examination or induction or both by requesting this action by the local board nearest him.

Finally, one asked about he and his wife being divorced with the wife having custody of the two children. He wanted a Class III-A deferment. He can't get one. To qualify for that classification, he would have to have a bona fide family relationship with the children in the home (but it may be possible to be deferred in Class III-A by reason of extreme hardship to dependents).

American hunters bought 42 million big and small game hunting permits in fiscal 1966.

Wayne's Legion Loses at Ponca

Wayne's "next-year's-Legion-team" lost a 5-1 decision to Ponca Wednesday night on the Ponca diamond. Each team had four hits and eight strikeouts but the Ponca hits were at the right times and Wayne strikeouts at the wrong times.

Randy Jacobsen started on the mound for Wayne, being replaced in the fourth frame by George Eynon. Bob Rockwell went all the way on the mound for the host team.

Neither team managed an extra base blow. Gordie Jorgensen, Larry Hix, Steve Johnson and George Eynon each had a single for Wayne and Rockwell had two and Randy Bortoff and Charles Carnell one apiece for the host team.

The game was the last of the season for the two teams. It was a practice game arranged at the last minute after Wayne had finished playing in the regional tournament, taking the runnerup trophy in that event.

Allen Puts Up New Signs on Streets

Allen has been putting up a number of new signs on residential and business streets lately. This follows a program which saw crushed rock put on many residential streets.

Several "yield" signs have been put up. These mainly give the right-of-way to traffic bound north or south from the school and football field area to the business district.

Speed limit signs have been put up around town and the marshal has been instructed to enforce the laws regarding speeding. Some signs limit speed to 15 mph, some to 20 and some to 25. Signs on Main Street forbid U-turns at certain points.

Allen Man Wins Progress Award

Wayne Stewart, Allen, has been selected as the "progress winner" from Dixon County in the soil conservation contest. This contest is part of the Sioux City program for permanent agriculture.

The contest recognizes the amount of conservation applied to the farm during the period August 1966 to August 1967. It is also related to the size of farm. During the contest year Stewart had the following work done on his farm: new terraces, 6080 feet; rebuild terraces, 4440 feet; and 1270 feet of diversion terrace.

Stewart and his wife, Joyce, moved to their farm in 1947 and became co-operators with the Soil Conservation District in 1950.

The first terraces were built on the farm in 1953. Stewart spoke highly of the effectiveness of conservation, particularly during the heavy rains this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart have two children, Richard, 6, and Bobby, 5. The Stewarts will be guests of the Sioux City Chamber of Commerce and Journal-Tribune at a banquet in November. The Dixon County Soil District will also recognize Mr. and Mrs. Stewart at their annual meeting.

WHAT WOULD a Wayne County Fair be without Henry Kugler and his Frigidore displays? He has had displays at the fair 41 out of the last 42 years, missing only once during the war years. Sometimes he just had used equipment to show and sometimes just repair parts, but he always has had displays except one year.

Former Concord Man Tells of Forrestal

Dan Anthony, jr., who used to live at Concord but whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Anthony, sr., now live at Wisner, is aboard the USS Montrose. It was one of the ships nearby when the explosions and fires took place aboard the USS Forrestal and he sent home an account that appeared in the Montrose ship's newspaper.

The paper told how "the charred aircraft carrier USS Forrestal is making its way toward the Philippines with many of the crewmen still trapped in sleeping quarters yesterday's 15-hour blaze. In the aftermath of the disaster 71 men are known dead, 78 injured and 112 others still unaccounted for and feared lost. Huge rock marks from exploding bombs dot the flight deck and melted airplanes curl over the sides of the carrier.

The flattop's skipper, Capt. John Belling, has advanced the theory that a tongue of flame trailing from a jet may have del-inated a guided missile under the wing of another plane, thus setting off the blaze. Seconds before 10:35 a.m., John McKay, son of one way admiral, grandson of another had just closed the canopy of his A-1 Skyhawk lined up on the left side of the Forrestal's rear. To his right two other fellow pilots were also going through their final check-outs. LCDR Robert Browning was just getting ready to start the engine of his A-1 Skyhawk and had not yet shut his canopy. It was to prove a near fatal mistake, LCDR Kenneth McMillen, to Browning's left, also was checking out his instruments when he heard a 'whoosh' before he could completely lift his head, slender McMillen thought he saw an air to ground missile streaking from beneath the wing of an F-4 Phantom jet parked on the right side of the carrier and slamming into the auxiliary fuel tank of a Skyhawk on the other side of the deck.

McMillen was going through one of those fruitless little acts for which there is no explanation. He started climbing down from his plane but not until 'For some reason, I reached back and put my ejection seat on safe, if just seemed the thing to do.' Browning, in the next plane, wondered for a terrified instant whether he was going to get out at all. Because his canopy was open, his arms were already frozen with second degree burns by the initial fireball, and now he was having trouble getting one of his harness latches loose. 'I was delayed 20 maybe 30 seconds, getting out of there,' he says. 'And out there I saw a very big bomb fall.' Browning was going to try for another second or two, and then use his ejector seat if necessary, but the hitch gave and with his helmet on and his visor still down he rolled out and just started running, then that 1,000-pound bomb went up about 50 feet away and when I looked up again the brave band of firefighters who were standing near the bomb were no longer there.'

'Jet planes blew up or were pushed off the side before they could blow up. Jet fuel splashed on the decks, and catching fire, turned six decks at the rear of the carrier into ovens. Men died, some from the fire and bomb blasts. Men died below from the racing heat and suffocation, and men died in the water knocked unconscious and then drowned. A little 130-lb. LCDR identified as Otis Knight of Oklahoma, somehow managed to carry a 250-lb. bomb to the side and drop it in to the gulf. Still another unidentified sailor grimly used a forklift to try to push a flaming wreckage off the side while buddies sprayed him with a steady stream of water to ward off the intense heat. Others pushed bombs with scorched hands, shoved aircraft wreckage with their feet, anything to get it over the side. Some were forced overboard with the choice of a wall of flame in front of them and the 65-foot drop to the water to the rear. Others were blown off the side by the explosions of 500, 750, and 1,000 pound bombs. Someone turned on the sprinkler system in the explosive loaded hangar bay 4 just below the flight deck. It was an act that possibly saved the Forrestal itself.

The forgoing may give you an idea of the heroism American young men have always shown, whether it has been the cold of Valley Forge, the heat of Africa, the jungles of Vietnam, the beaches of France or trying to save their own skin, plane or base. It is pretty vivid but like Anthony, it was thought by the editor you might like to read how awful it was from a firsthand view.

Suggests Annual Prayer Breakfast

Mayor William Koerber, speaking at the centennial prayer breakfast Friday sponsored by the Mrs. Jaycees suggested it should become an annual affair here, growing each year, until the auditorium itself will barely seat all those who wish to attend.

Prayer breakfasts originated in Washington, D. C., for senators, congressmen and other leaders. They made it an annual event in prayer for the country in the year ahead.

States started holding them, then cities. Now there are prayer breakfasts held this time of year throughout the nation, all based on the same principal, that we gain strength by turning to prayer.

Around 40 men and women attended the breakfast here at the Woman's Club Rooms. It was strictly an invitational affair.

Marvin Young, Jaycee president, gave an explanation of how the prayer breakfasts originated. Opening and closing prayers were by Ted Bahe and Cal Comstock. Boyd Hedrick gave the scripture reading and Mayor William Koerber made remarks.

Place mats were printed with a map of Nebraska in color with covered wagon over-printed and 'Wayne Centennial Breakfast, Aug. 11, 1967,' in the corner. Favors at each plate were miniature centennial flags.

At the speakers' table, two ears of corn were centerpieces, one made up to resemble a farmer and the other a farmer's wife. Autumn leaves were also used in decorations.

Ten Towns Seek Area V-T School

O'Neill, Osmond, Pierce, Neligh and Randolph have all submitted bids for the new Northeast vocational-technical school. They join Wayne, Wakefield, Emerson, Plainview and Norfolk in seeking the new institution voted in by the people.

The board met again Thursday and decided to give more towns chances to put in applications as sites. Aug. 24 is the deadline for any community or group of communities to submit a bid for the school.

All areas applying will send representatives to present their cases. A decision will be made by the board members from all over the district on where the school will be built.

Board policies were discussed and policies hashed over. Since it is not yet a school district, it cannot be handled as a school district.

F. D. Maclay, Norfolk, Alan Gramer, Wayne, and Stephen Finn, Neligh, were named to attend a meeting. At that meeting representatives of the Hastings and North Platte vo-tech schools will appear to discuss situations they have run into in establishing area schools such as the one proposed here.

What will the mill levy be? It had been suggested 1/2 mills would do it. However, the state has raised the valuations and this levy might raise too much money so a lower levy is possible or the district could just ask for a certain amount

Parade Must Have Been Biggest Yet

The grand parade Friday must have been the biggest and best in Wayne County history (as advertised). Held under sunny skies with the temperatures in the mid-70's, it drew several thousand people and had 13 entries, including floats, many floats, Disney characters, saddle clubs and many other types of entries.

One of the hits was the Contemporaries Drill Team from Omaha. Most colored, they had a rhythm, they were precision, they were colorful and they were a big asset to the parade. Many other entries also drew tremendous applause with the Jaycees obligated outdoors, from a school of cobs were thrown much like a crowd from other floats, bringing about the biggest laugh.

Following is a list of the entries: Two police cars, one from Winside and Wayne; two Disney characters; Marvin; Bill Leach of Wayne and Maxon; a float with the Kin County Community from Nankay; a float with two Disney characters; a float with a vintage car; Wayne Herald; four Disney characters; Nebraska Land game commission covered wagon; Farmers Home Admin-

Local Man Hurt in Fall First of Week

Bill Pfeil, Wayne, suffered a broken arm Thursday. He fell down an embankment while working for Lee Swinney, Wayne.

Pfeil's injury was above the right elbow. It was a bad break and it was thought at first he might have to be hospitalized, although he did not want this if he could avoid it.

Dr. Benthack put a cast on his right arm that extends from the shoulder to the palm of the hand. Pfeil will have to wear it for several weeks while the broken bone mends.

Dennis Stoltenberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Stoltenberg, Carroll, is shown on the left in this picture. With him is a buddy from Bayonne, N. J., who came to spend a few days with him before they both return to Lowry AFB, Colo., Aug. 20. Dennis is an electronics fighter systems repairman working on F-4D and F-4D jet fighter bombers (more commonly called "Phantom Jets"). He has been at this work two years, spending one month at Lackland AFB, Tex., and the rest of the time at Lowry, which is a training base on fighter systems out of planes for use in training. He helps keep them in adjustment. He is a Wayne High School graduate (1964) and attended the University of Nebraska one year.

Leon Koch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Koch, Windsor, has been promoted from E-5 to staff sergeant. He is going to Maryland for six weeks of training on procedures for guarding prisoners of war. During the recent riots in Detroit, S/Sgt. Koch was among those sent up there to preserve order. He and his family live at 5404 Summit Circle, Fayetteville, N. C. 28304. He is stationed at Ft. Bragg, N. C.

been at Ft. Hood, Tex., nine months taking training on truck mechanics for tanks and other track vehicles. Prior to that he has been based at Ft. Polk, La., and spent two months at Ft. Sill, Okla. He went into the army Aug. 23, 1966, and has a year left. He is a graduate of Wakefield High School and has been assigned to work with the 538th Engineer Battalion in Thailand near Bangkok.

M/Sgt. William Stanford of Miami has arrived at Bentwaters RAF station near Suffolk, England. He had been serving in Italy and is assigned to the air forces in Europe attached to the UN air arm assigned to NATO. Sgt. Stanford also served during the Korean War. His wife, Harriet, is the daughter of Mrs. Ethel Phipps, Wayne.

The 22nd annual national competitive exams for the regular naval reserve officers' training corps (NROTC) will be given Dec. 9. It prepares a young man for a navy or marine corps commission while he is studying at one of 52 civilian colleges. All tuition, fees, uniforms and books are furnished by the navy in addition to $50 a month subsistence for four years. For three summers the candidates get sea training as midshipmen. Seniors in high school this coming term who are interested should apply before Nov. 17. Application forms are available from high school counselors, navy recruiting stations or Chief of Naval Personnel (Pers-36411) Dept. of the Navy, Washington, D. C. 20370.

Airman Apprentices Dennis Morris and Leon Jorgensen, Wayne, have completed the aviation mechanical fundamentals school at the naval air technical training school, Memphis, Tenn. The four-week course introduces students to math, physics and principles of electricity. Subjects stressed include atomic theory, static and dynamic electricity, magnetic theory and the construction of aircraft batteries. They are now in more advanced courses along the same lines.

Cpl. Donald Pretzer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Art Pretzer, Wakefield, was here Friday to Wednesday visiting his parents. He is stationed with the 81st Marines at Camp Pendleton, Calif. He plays sounphone in the band and reports they get sent all over to play concerts. He has gone to Cheyenne for Frontier Days and for a centennial celebration, to Great Falls, Mont., and to many places in California. While he is in the band, he still has to take regular marine training including field maneuvers. Cpl. Pretzer served in Vietnam and has been back about a year. He has about another year left in the marines.

Sergeant First Class Kenneth Krueger, son of Mrs. Leo Krueger, Windsor, has just returned from 11 months of search and destroy duty near Pleiku, Vietnam. He will be in the Wayne area for about a week before returning to his wife's home in High Point, N. C. for the remainder of his 45-day leave. Krueger entered the service from Pierce County in March of 1965 and took his basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. Since that time he has spent three years in Germany with the 11th Airborne Division, three years at Fort Bragg (North Carolina), 13 months in Korea, 2 1/2 years at Fort Carson, Colo., and the past year in Vietnam. According to Sgt. Krueger, the South Vietnamese civilians have suffered the most as a result of the war. He believes this because the NVA (North Vietnamese Army) and Viet Cong steal their rice and force the young men to fight. In addition, much of the Vietnamese countryside has been literally torn up by the heavy bombing and fighting. His address is: SFC Kenneth D. Krueger, RA 27700612, USA Training Center 3170, Ft. Jackson, S. C.

A Laurel youth, Calvin Wolter, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wolter, is based at Bblingen, near Stuttgart, Germany. He is a company clerk now but had been a truck driver, covering around 10,000 miles of driving around Germany. During his stay there he has visited France, Holland, Austria, Sweden and many points in Germany. He also gets to see a youth who graduated from LIIS the same year he did, Joe Mason, Dixon, who was pictured last week and who was recently promoted to E-5. Pfc. Calvin Wolter entered the service through Cedar County Selective service and will be home on 30-day leave until Aug. 27.

Airman Douglas Lueders, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Lueders, Wakefield, has been selected for technical training at Chanute AFB, Ill., as an air force fire protection specialist. He recently completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex. The course he will take is part of the technical offering for personnel in the aerospace force. He is a 1965 graduate of Wakefield High School and attended Wayne State College.

Equipment Operator Third Class Duane Harmer, son of Mrs. Esther Harmer, Randolph, has been awarded the national defense service medal at Dong Ha, Vietnam, while serving with the naval mobile construction battalion No. 11. Medals are presented to all military service personnel on active duty. The battalion arrived in Vietnam in April and is the navy's northernmost unit in Vietnam, being based just south of the demilitarized zone. Men of the battalion support other units in that area by constructing roads, bridges and buildings.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The editorial department of a weekly newspaper is an important department. Normally it is one of the main departments that concern most of the readers.

Knowledge of Food Stamps

What is your knowledge of the food stamp program the government has? If it is as limited as ours, there may be some people in Wayne County and neighboring areas who do not know they are entitled to use food stamps.

Who is eligible? Families or individuals in economic need of food assistance (generally those receiving some type of public or general assistance under a state's welfare program). Others are eligible if their income does not exceed stated amounts.

How does it operate? Eligible families buy the stamps. For instance, one example shows a woman paying $18.50 for food stamps with which she will be able to buy $66 worth of food.

What food can be bought with coupons? Almost all food, especially foods in surplus at the time, are included. They cannot buy imported products, soap or paper products. But, they can buy meat, fruit, vegetables, canned goods, breakfast foods and many other items.

Does the program help? It has been shown that in some families there is a limited amount to spend on food. When families use the food coupon plan, they have more money for food, more money for clothes, they start looking healthier and working better on jobs or at school and in general they are being helped while buying the products Americans are producing.

There are a lot of other questions about food coupons we cannot answer. If you want information, visit Consumer Food Program, Room 224, 509 Norfolk Ave., Norfolk, Nebr. 68701, or visit the office personally.

This stamp plan program is designed to help the less fortunate. It is possible some who are eligible do not know that this type of program is available to help them help themselves.

It is worth investigating, especially where families with children are concerned. No Wayne County resident should try to live on a deficient diet when this government program is designed to help them get enough food of the right types. We've done our part to tell you what little we know about this. Won't you pass along the word to someone who should know more about it for their own benefit?—CEG.

The Hippies — Ten Years Later

This is 1967 and we have the hippies among us. We also have the beatniks, the professors, those who refuse to serve in the armed forces, those who dissent against almost everything our government does, those who rebel against one or more parents or all authority.

We have the ones who are unshaven, hair uncut, sloppily dressed, uncouth manners, distorted views of love, ways of expressing vulgarity in action and words. We get our guts full of them on radio, TV, in newspapers and magazines and in other ways.

Thank goodness, Wayne County has few of them. Most of them who tend to be hippie types find themselves drifting to where there are others like them. They find strength in numbers.

They often do not work. They preach love. They claim our fighting at the request of South Vietnam is both immoral and illegal. They discredit about everything our nation does but they find many good things to say about other countries, mostly the socialist, communist or other type countries that have less to offer but are expert at appealing to the undereducated and underprivileged of the world.

Some of these hippie types are not working. They usually find some place to stay, some place to live and someone to listen to them and to agree with them or for them to agree with.

But this is 1967. Where are these people going to be in 1977? They surely don't plan to be doing the same thing?

The REAL Guilty Ones

If you are as tired as we are of seeing young people fined for possession of liquor as minors, then you're pretty sick of it. We hope your reason for being sick of it is the same as ours.

We want some manner of law enforcement made possible to get the ones who supply the drinks to the minors. We want the courts to be put in a position to fine those who do the supplying.

Have you heard of those who are just turned 21 and who gladly supply beer and liquor for the kids who are not old enough? There are some around.

Have you heard of any towns where the dealers are a little lenient (none in Wayne County) because there are no law enforcement officers based in those towns? We've heard about them.

Is it possible you know about those 19 year olds who go into South Dakota and bring back beer? The minute they bring that beer back across the river they are breaking the law.

The trouble is, no one wants to "squeal." Well, let's make it easier for them to "volunteer," this information. Let's make the fine $200 and six months in jail if they do not divulge the source of their liquor or beer, or let them divulge the source and cut their fine in half with no jail sentence involved—then the supplier can be fined the $200 and spend the time in jail.

As it stands now, Nebraska enforcement of these laws is ridiculous. In almost any weekly that prints court news you can find listings of minors who have been fined for possessing alcoholic beverages.

Something is drastically wrong. This

Do they intend to have us all converted to their way of living (and we hesitate to use that term 'living' in referring to them). Will we all be on LSD or will there be new drugs? Will there be a world?

Many of these bearded unwashed wonders complain about the type of world "we" have created for them. With very little knowledge of what we went through in depression and war, they think we have created the situation that has brought about the depraved conditions in which they seem to be thriving at the moment.

For the few who believe that, we have one comment: Lord help us if the people of depression days or war days had been much like these hippies and protesters and bearded know-it-alls of today. We might not even have a world for them to do their complaining in. At least we saved the world from Nazism and are doing our best to save it from Communism.

Now that we have answered suppositional questions from them, we'd like to have them answer just one question for us: Just what have they contributed to making this world a better world, this life a better life and the future for the young ones a better future than the present we're going through today?

Too bad we have to wait to find out. The answers could be horrifying or deplorable. We doubt if they will be very funny even if looking back on scenes of "insville" today we will get our chuckles. What a difference a decade can make.—CEG.

is like fining a man for actually smashing in the window in breaking into a place but letting the one who was behind him and merely crawled through the hole the other had made. It's like fining the man who placed the stolen hubcaps in the car but letting the man go spot free who drove the car away because he never actually touched the hubcaps even when he knew what was going on all the time.

We don't know how the state patrol, county sheriffs, local policemen, judges and magistrates are instructed to handle these cases of minors with alcohol, but we would guess if the person who admits having it won't tell where he got it, there's not too much officers and courts can do about it.

If that's the case, it's time a change is made. The law should be so worded that a minor who reveals the source gets a lower fine and no jail sentence. One who does not reveal the source gets a tremendously high fine and a jail sentence.

We're never going to solve the problem of teenagers being supplied illegally with alcoholic beverages until there is some choice to hold over their heads. Until a change is made, we'll continue to see the minors get fined and the suppliers get off unpunished, ready to supply the next minor that comes along and wants to take a chance.

In conclusion, we want to say that as far as we have been able to find out, Wayne County liquor and beer license holders are abiding by the law. They are not the ones supplying the minors. We only wish the same could be said of licensees in all other counties in the state.—CEG.

Traffic accidents killed 52,500 and injured 4,400,000 in 1966.

An Early Soda Fountain During the first decades of this century, a popular stopping place for busy shoppers was the local drugstore and its soda fountain. During the past few years, however, more and more drugstores have eliminated this service, making the marble-topped fountain a thing of the past.

A Lincoln newspaper of 1908, now on file in the Nebraska State Historical Society, announcing the opening of one of Lincoln's first soda fountains, gave a detailed description which should bring happy memories to many Nebraskans.

The Harley Drug Company has just installed a new 20th Century soda fountain of L'Art Nouveau design that is almost startling in its original and unique effects. This fountain is over twenty feet in length and the display structure is exceedingly elaborate. There are massive onyx columns supporting a super-structure of mahogany incrusting with iridescent art glass and inlaid mosaic. These art glass panels are particularly effective when illuminated. The large veined French plate mirror in rear is the largest one-piece mirror in the west. The ornamentation, while exceedingly effective is not excessive. . . . Everywhere the eye may roam haught but white onyx and polished German silver is in sight. The dispensing devices are of bright, shiny, pure aluminum. Crushed fruit containers are of glass and everything is open to public view. No hidden corners, no nooks for dirt accumulation. 'Tis sure Mr. Harley is a stickler for cleanliness. I believe that the people of Lincoln will share with him in appreciation of cleanliness and sanitary conditions of such an extraordinary nature as to be decidedly uncommon to soda water apparatus. Anyone who drinks soda water at Harley's will have the satisfaction of knowing that it is pure and free from death-dealing microbes. At Harley's they don't ask you

60 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

The Wayne Herald, Aug. 15, 1907 The Commercial Club Band is now provided with two sets of uniforms. Early in May they placed an order with an eastern outfitter, on the condition that the uniforms could be delivered in time for Memorial Day. They were made and shipped in due season but failed to arrive, and an investigation by the railroad company failed to locate them. A duplicate order was placed with the makers and the second outfit came thru promptly, and were on hand for use at the Carroll Carnival. Yesterday the first order of uniforms that had been lost for nearly four months, arrived. They came from the west and had been all the way to San Francisco. It appears that the shipment had been placed in a thru car for the Pacific Coast. It is likely the boys may keep a few suits so that they may uniform a band of 20 members, but the remainder await the order of the makers in Philadelphia.

When it comes to street parades we'll all take our hats off to Carroll. Every Wayneite that attended the carnival at Carroll last week will say this. The businessmen of our enterprising neighbor made an exceptional showing with their floats, while the lodges of the town turned out in numbers and made a fine showing. The baseball games were spirited and interesting in the main. Wayne certainly held her record and sent a thousand or more to participate in the festivities. All are pleased.

This season's apple crop for Wayne County is something of a surprise. The summer and fall varieties are so abundant in the yield that the local market is practically closed. Several of our farmers report that a good share of their crop is going to waste and are forced to either let them rot on the ground or feed them to the hogs. About the first cider mills sold in the county are going out this season, and a number of the orchardists are going to stock their cellars with real apple juice. It is very likely that enough winter apples will be raised in the county to supply the local demand. It has been generally conceded by the natives a few years back that apple trees were not adapted to this section as a fruit produced, yet the farmers as they came from the east to settle, went on planting the trees just the same, for they were considered the choicest of ornamentals. Now that those trees are yielding a rich supply of the peerless fruit we are changing our notions and this year at least are obliged to conclude that we are living right in a land of the big red apple. Northeast Nebraska is a prize winner on corn and hogs and fancy beefs, and now she is about to line up and supply the effete east with apples in the choicest varieties that grow.

The railroad company have started in to make a few needed improvements on the depot at this point. Several car loads of stone and sand have been unloaded the past week, which, we understand, goes into new supports for the structure. If the railroad company desires to accommodate their business at this point to the extent it deserves a modern and more commodious structure would come and quite near filling the bill.

A great increase in both passenger and express traffic has become most apparent for the past few months, and the limited platform accommodations have occasioned a great deal of inconvenience. This inadequacy of platform room is most in evidence at all east bound passenger trains. The narrow platform is generally filled with several loaded trucks or piled high with trunks and baggage, which compels the traveling public to either climb over the mass or run the gambit of the baggage smasher in their haste and carelessness. The railroad companies are more ready to meet the demands of their patrons and accommodate the traveling public than they ever were before, but they have a habit of waiting for a request before they act. The facilities of a dozen years ago are not meeting the requirements of today.

The Pioneers and Old Settlers Association of Wayne County will hold its seventh annual reunion at Bressler's Grove a mile and a half north of Wayne Sept. 5. The program (10 a.m. to 6 p.m.) will include assembly at Main and Third, music by five and drum corps, march to picnic grounds, welcome by President Dr. R. B. Crawford, prayer, song by male quartet, minutes of last reunion, report of historian and memorial report, music (real pioneer stuff), dinner, fun and frolic, business meeting and election of officers, five minute stories of early pioneering by "Those who have been there," a photograph of pioneers grouped on the platform, a pioneer song by all and visiting with friends from 4 to 6.

the latest story with a cocktail fore and aft is now content to sip soda to the music of his sweetheart's laugh. . . . Soda, dear old soda, is the safest, tippier of them all and truthfully it may be termed the 'jagless juice of joy.' After such a buildup, it is not unlikely that a visit to the new "20th Century soda fountain" became a must-place to visit for Lincolnites. On hot summer days, Lincoln shoppers might still welcome a visit to Harley's soda fountain, but it no longer exists, having been removed shortly after World War II.

Make Changes in Food Stamp Plan in Region

A change in the food stamp plan for this area and all Nebraska has been announced by Dennis Doyle. He is director of the Midwest District of the Consumer and Marketing Service. The amendment provides that for the (first month) purchase of food stamps, new program participants may make the first month purchase for half price but will still receive a full amount of food stamps. This amendment has been made to assist new participants in beginning and planning participation in the program. Food stamp program participation in Nebraska has increased every month since it was first started, Doyle said.
