Edward Carl Prawitz, 72, Pilger, died Tuesday in a tractor accident on the farm of his son, Lester Prawitz, Hoskins. The elderly man died before he could be brought to the Wayne Hospital.

According to Sheriff's department officer who investigated, Prawitz was helping with the packing in a trench silo, backing the tractor at the time. A wheel hit the west bank, the tractor tipped over and Prawitz was pinned under it. Dr. S. H. Brauer, Norfolk, was called to the scene. Chief Vern Fairchild and Mrs. Ervin Doring were by ambulance from Wayne to the Prazitz farm. The elderly man had died before they reached the place.

Lester Prawitz farms about seven miles straight south of Winside. His father had been living at Pilger.

Shultz-Vogel Mortuary, Stanton, is in charge of funeral arrangements which were not complete at press time.

School Counselor's Hours to Be Longer

Ken Deissler, counselor for Wayne High School, is offering extra office hours each week. His office will be open this Thursday night from 7 to 9 and each Thursday night after that if need be.

According to Deissler, the night hours are an effort to let parents and pupils come in at their convenience to discuss school matters. He will also make appointments for later hours if parents so desire.

Those coming to the high school to see him Thursday night should enter through the north door. By going into the business office, they can enter his private office.

It is hoped the service will benefit the pupils, parents, teachers and the school. Any questions concerning this new arrangement can be answered by calling the high school.

New English, Math Plan Draws Praise of Board

The new English and mathematics curriculums for the Wayne-Carroll school system has been approved and praised by the District 17 school board, members also complimenting teachers for their work in preparing the curriculums.

Supt. Francis Haun said Mrs. Leta Moller headed the committee working on the new English curriculum. English staff members last year worked on it. Beulah Bornhoff, Bob Porter and Darrell Krei worked out the new math curriculum.

The English guidebook provides faculty members with a ready reference to the English curriculum. It should also be valuable to pupils, who will appreciate the purposeful selection of literature and the avoiding of repetitious grammar units. An added feature is a uniform set of symbols in correcting compositions.

Each grade has outlines of work in grammar and composition. Objectives of See CURRICULUM, Page 5

One must be 18 to participate. No purchase is necessary.

Answer Queries Concerning Low-Rent Housing Proposal

For several issues the Wayne Herald has invited questions and remarks from voters who disagree as well as agree with the proposed low-rent housing project in Wayne.

Several questions have been received. In an interview with George Thorbeck, Housing Commission chairman, we have attempted to answer those questions submitted. They appear below.

1. Your paper reported the Housing Commission stated that Wayne area could use 80 low-rent housing units. The inference is that we have nearly this many poverty-stricken elderly people living in near slum housing conditions. Can you state who has made this assessment and can they point out these particular instances in order that the Housing Commission can check for themselves the real need?

Answer: No actual survey or determination has been made nor will it be made until after the election providing returns are favorable. Then the government agency will conduct its own survey to determine the need. The only preliminary investigation that has been made to date is through the Wayne ministerial association and the See LOW-RENT, Page 2

In that "original five" are Cedar, Dakota, Dixon, Thurston and Wayne counties. Added to the set-up for Ward and the ag specialists July 1 were Cuming, Knox, Madison, Boyd, Stanton, Pierce, Antelope and Holt counties.

Wayne State Opens Season Saturday in 14-6 Victory

Some of the question marks about Wayne State's football offense disappeared Saturday night. The Wildcats produced 428 yards rushing and passing as they defeated Southern State, 14-6 at Springfield, S. D.

Some more questions remain to be answered, however, when Wayne meets South Dakota University Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in Vermillion. The Coyotes reportedly have a tough defensive unit, probably better than last year's which held Wayne to six points while the SDU offense scored 40.

The Wayne defense, well-fortified with veterans, showed its ability against Southern's rushing—which ended with a minus 17 yards. However, pass defense faltered as it allowed 17 completions in 37 attempts, good for 181 yards. Wayne will have the advantage of one game's experience against South Dakota, which opens its season this week. Offsetting that, SDU has had a chance to see the Wildcats in action.

Coach John Jermier still is sizing up potential starters at some positions. One strong prospect for a starting berth at left halfback is a freshman, Sam Singleton, who demonstrated both speed and power for 83 yards on 12 carries against Southern. He alternated with another freshman, Greg Walker, Omaha.

Another potential starter, Don Grubbs, junior letterman at left half, will be available this week and backing for a starting job. The fullback slot is the goal of three: Bob Morlan, John Perkins and Dennis Sealey. All saw action last week.

Steve Gunther has the quarterback job solidly nailed. His 11 pass completions for 185 yards gave him a hefty start on beating his 1966 record of 1,101 aerial yards.

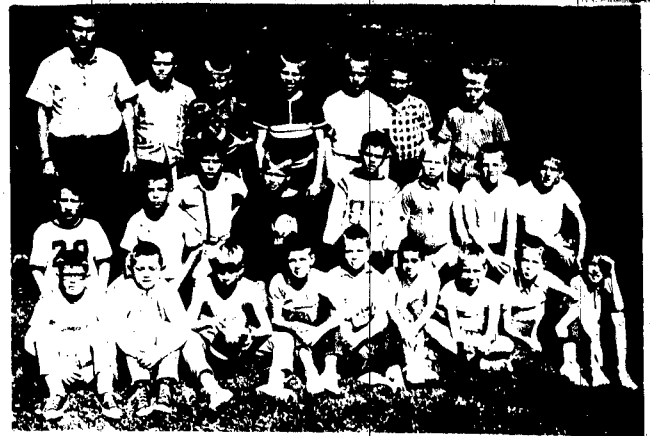

Sophomore Jerry Luedtke, a defensive half last year, made a notable switch to offense with 109 yards at right half. He scored both Wayne touchdowns. The first, a one-foot plunge, ended an 80-yard drive in the first period. The second, for three yards, capped a 68-yard effort in the second quarter.

Southern tallied its touchdown between Wayne's when quarterback Jim Uttech completed five of six passes to end Dave Turpin, the last going 8 yards. Two of Wayne's 12 penalties, which totaled a whopping 133 yards, aided the Southern TD drive.

Wildcat secondary defense intercepted four Punter passes, but had trouble stopping the Ut-tech-Turpin duo, which completed 11 passes. Otherwise, Wayne defenses stopped two deep Southern assaults. One of them reached the two-yard line, another the 12.

The Wildcats emerged with no injuries of consequence—a pleasant switch from last year, when a dozen or so regulars were disabled in the first three games.

FLAG FOOTBALL is being played by these fourth and fifth grade boys under the recreation program directed by Hank Overin, left. Pictures of boys in the regular football program were printed earlier.

COACH ALLEN HANSEN was talking to around 25 sports fans at the Boys Club Tuesday morning when this picture was taken. He had just handed out schedules for all WHS football teams, varsity reserves and freshmen. The coaches' coffees are scheduled each Tuesday at 8:30.

Coaches' Coffee Has Kickoff This Week

The initial coaches' coffee was held Tuesday from 8:30 to 9 at the Boys Club with around 25 present. Coach Allen Hansen talked to the group and answered questions. Similar coffees are planned each Tuesday during the school year for the same half hour time period. The time of each session is limited due to school schedules for the coaches. Coach Hansen discussed the varsity, reserve and freshman schedules and handed out copies of the game dates, times and places to those present. Copies will be available for others who want them also.

The football coach also discussed the Madison game, pointed out strategy, told of mistakes and indicated what lies ahead. He reviewed each position on the squad, telling why players earned positions, what they had to do to hold them and what the prospects were for improvement. A question and answer period followed.

Wayne at Wisner; Winside to Allen

Wayne goes to Wisner Friday night and Winside travels to Allen. In both cases the hills are loopy tussles, the first for the Husker Conference and the second in the Lewis & Clark Conference.

The Blue Devils are fresh from a rousing 19-0 win over Madison, Friday's opposition, the Wisner Bulldogs, overcame a stubborn Wakefield team 6-0 last week. For the Blue Devils the Winside game will be a real trial as they will have to prove the Madison win was no fluke and that they can win and not get over-confident.

Winside and Allen went in different directions last week. Allen defeated Wynot 27-0, the opposition playing 11-man ball for the first time. Winside went down to defeat at the hands of Emerson-Hubbard 19-6, the first loss in history for Winside on the field used the past few years.

Allen will be out to win a second game, doubling last year's season record of wins. Winside will be bouncing back to prove that the team is better than the score with Emerson indicates.

Wayne Cross Country Team Opening Season 'Under New Management'

Cross country season begins Saturday for Wayne State when the Wildcats depart for a South Dakota University invitational at Vermillion.

The Wayne team is under new management this year. Graduate Assistant Bill Silverberg, a Kansas University track record holder, will coach cross country this fall and track next spring. Before graduation from KU in 1965, Silverberg posted three Big 8 records: 9:05 in the indoor two-mile, 14:21 in the outdoor 5,000 meters, and 8:50 in the 3,000 meter steeplechase.

"A couple of those records are gone," Silverberg notes philosophically. It is understandable because a fellow named Jim Ryun came along and not only beat Silverberg's Big 8 records in the two-mile and the 5,000 but posted world records in several events. Bill's steeplechase record may stand awhile, he thinks, because Ryun doesn't run that race.

Silverberg coached track two years at Shafter High School, Bakersfield, Calif. Now at Wayne, he was instrumental in bringing Ken Dugan of Los Angeles to Wayne State. Dugan is a 3.4 100-yard performer who wants to take a crack at cross country this fall to keep in condition.

The Wayne team includes three lettermen: A.D. Bopson and Dennis Kashlucha, seniors, and Jim Ebert, sophomore. Also returning from the 1966 team is Ron Horsley, sophomore. Freshman newcomers are Jim Forbes, Duane Wilken, Joe Baumert and Mike Olmstead.

Silverberg thinks the team will give a good account this fall. The schedule after this Saturday: September—24, South Dakota and Midland at Wayne; 26, dual at Yankton; October—7, Doane Invitational at Crete; 13, Kearney State, Nebraska Wesleyan and Buena Vista at Wayne; 20, dual at Chadron State; 28, Nebraska College Conference meet at Wayne.

November—4, AAU meet at Kearney; 7, Peru State at Omaha; 17, NAIA District 11 meet at Omaha; 25, NAIA National meet at Omaha.

Wayne State will host its annual high school invitational cross country meet Oct. 17.

Hoskins Drivers End Season Still Winning

Hoskins stock car drivers wound up the season at Norfolk Sunday night where they had been all season—in front of the pack most of the time. The Hoskins racers brought home nine separate prizes.

Larry Brudigan was second in the second heat; Harold Brudigan fourth in the third heat; Gene Wagner third in the third heat, first in the B Feature and third in the A Feature; Gerald Bruggeman second in all. Texts to be used are listed for each grade from seventh through twelfth. Ahead of each grade's outline is a list of objectives for that grade.

Area Gets Rain; More Would Help

That was it, rain, in case you forgot. Genuine, bona-fide, 100 per cent moisture content rain fell in this area Tuesday night and Wednesday morning. It is beneficial and more will help.

Ralph Watson, who has government gauges three miles north of Wayne, reported .47 of an inch. State National Bank gauges in downtown Wayne showed .68 of an inch.

Omaha radio stations reported similar amounts over a wide area of Nebraska. While it was not a general rain, it was a line of showers that brought some moisture to most places.

As the time nears for the first freeze, crop experts stress the need for moisture, then sunshine and a late freeze. One ag authority said Monday the crops need at least three more weeks without freezing weather in order to bear out production for good yields.

Boy Scouts Getting Activities Started

Wayne's three Boy Scout troops are getting activities started. Cub Scouts and Explorers have not been heard from yet on their "seasonal" resurgence of meetings and projects.

Scoutmaster Jewell Schock, Troop 221, says his troop is seeking new members. Next meeting is Monday night and all boys interested are invited. Plans for the coming year will be outlined.

The Scoutmasters of the other two troops, Bill Richardson for Troop 175, and Dick Manley for Troop 174, have held a cookout with the Scouts the past week. They also have worked at Scout Park. Manley reports a board of review scheduled for his troop Sept. 18 and a court of honor soon after that.

Wayne Band Marches

The Wayne High School band directed by Don Schumacher made its first public appearance of the school season Saturday. The band, twirlers and drum major marched in the centennial parade at Bender. The Wayne Jai-Alle floor, which had been scheduled to appear, was not included in an hour-long parade that included over 100 entries from as far away as Blair on the southeast to Tabor, S. D., on the northwest.

Welk Dance Partner

There they were dancing in front of thousands, Mrs. Floyd Sullivan, Wayne, and Lawrence Welk. It all happened at the Nebraska State Fair. Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan had been given tickets to the Monday night program as an anniversary present last June. Their reserved seats were close to the front and on the aisle. When Welk walked down the aisle to dance a bit with four or five women out of the thousands there, he walked up first to Mrs. Sullivan. "I was ready. I was standing by the time he got there," Mrs. Sullivan said. However, when he took hold of her hand and asked her to dance, it was a real thrill for everyone else along the aisle had hopes of being chosen. That June anniversary present had a "bonus" that was not realized until September and for a longtime Welk fan like the Sullivans it was worth waiting for.

Jury Decides Case

A jury decided for the plaintiff in the case of Morland McManigal versus C. W. Fahnstock in Wayne County district court Thursday. McManigal was awarded $6,500. Records of the Clerk of the District Court John T. Bressler, Jr., show the suit arose as a result of an automobile accident in 1963.

City Council -

This is the night before the regular council meeting. Another problem is annexing the highway property where the city has expanded. The city wants to annex the land along Highway 35 east from the armory and west from the cemetery to the city limits.

The city engineer reported the state highway department had informed him annexation was a legal matter to be settled by the city and the state so the city would have to sue the state in order to start proceedings to annex the highway property.

While talking with the department of roads, the engineer was informed that Highway 15 work was scheduled in the next biennium letting. He said no money had been appropriated for the Seventh and Main intersection but state men think it could be included in the biennium letting for the Highway work.

The engineer said if Seventh and Main is improved, the highway department will expect the city to take care of the cost of storm sewers, closing of driveways, moving utility poles and similar matters. Finally, the state men said if city and state cooperation had the engineering done for the intersection change, it would expedite the completion of the project. The engineer was authorized to inform property owners on the corner of Seventh and Main of the proposed change in the intersection.

There is a jog and a dip at Seventh and Sherman. The engineer was authorized by the council to proceed with plans for realignment of that intersection.

Still on street problems, the council found it appears some property owners were asking "prohibitive" prices for land along Dearborn Street between Seventh and Fourth. The city attorney was authorized to have property along the street appraised. The city seeks a 10-foot strip on the east side of the street for widening purposes.

Turning from streets to sewers, the council was asked by Cecil Wriedt to let him use the sewer in his new subdivision. He was informed that the contractor would not re-compart some faulty areas (about one-half day's work, according to Sherry) but the work has to be done first as a road will govern it.

Clerk Sherry said several tests have been made, all showing not enough compaction to meet specifications so the sewer cannot be used. The city attorney was authorized to notify the contractor he has eight days to complete the contract.

Don Kubik was spokesman for a group from Oak Ridge where the council had proposed sidewalks be placed. The group agreed the area west of the new high school will have need for sidewalks when the area is developed, but questioned the need now where seven unimproved lots would be crossed by a sidewalk to connect with the edge of school property.

The group agreed that when the property was developed sidewalks would be put in. The council had discussed this previously and finally decided to rescind the action on sidewalks in Oak Ridge with one exception—a sidewalk must be built to connect the present school walk along Highway 35 to the street in Oak Ridge.

Feeders Elevator Co. asked for sewer service to the firm's property on Fairgrounds Ave. just outside the city limits. The council ruled that the service would be made available but the city will not put in a service line, that being a direct expense of the property owner.

Ted Arnbruster and Norris Weible represented the recreation board, asking for more money. They pointed out that the city recreation program has outgrown financial limits set earlier and there are so many more boys and girls participating the equipment needs exceed the budget.

The two asked the city for more money and also for improvements to the Boys Club. The matter of the finances was referred to the park and finance committees and the building improvement idea was referred to the building committee.

Mayor William Koeber presented a proposed ordinance setting up a reserve police force in Wayne. This would give the city extra officers when police need help in doing regular work plus added duties such as handling crowds and traffic for parades, games and other functions. The extra police would be used in case of disaster also. The attorney was authorized to revise the proposed ordinance and present it in new form at the next meeting.

City Engineer Sid Magdanz presented maps on a proposed warning signal set-up so all the city could hear a warning in case of emergency. Copies of his proposed system were given to each council member so they could study them and consider the matter at the next council session.

In other action, electric rates were discussed and before the next meeting the electric committee and attorney will present a rate schedule. Councilman Bob Melan invited council members and the public to the airport to see how well it had been cleaned after runway surfacing; and Keith Dech was given a permit for an insurance agent sign at his residence.

Cal Ward -

 a junior at Nebraska Wesleyan University, Lincoln. Cal Ward is a graduate of Oklahoma State University (formerly Oklahoma A&M). He received his bachelor of science degree in agriculture there and did graduate work at the University of Nebraska, receiving a master's degree in agricultural education. He has research work pending for his doctorate.
 When they came to Nebraska in 1950, he taught agriculture, first at Creighton and then at Ainsworth. He then became an employee of the University of Nebraska and was stationed at West Point nine months for the extension service. He served at Holdrege six years as county extension agent and for the last five years he has been with the state extension service in Lincoln.

The Concord station does work in all major areas of agronomy. This includes corn-phosphate studies and alfalfa-phosphate studies, the latter nearing completion after several years of work.

Agromony work on fertility takes in nitrogen, including the rates, times and methods of application. Another study is on pre-emergence weed control chemicals, taking in the carry-over effect of weed control chemicals used on corn or sorghum one year in fields that will be planted to soybeans the following year. A check is made to see the effect produced on the beans.

In addition to agronomy research work at the station, research plots are planted throughout the area. Most of them are marked with signs. Purpose of these plots is to extend the concept of research with work in unique situations not available at the station.

Beef cattle feeding research is now going on at Northeast Station and the swine research project is being initiated. A soil conservation research project is in the planning stage.

Ward said one of the accomplishments aimed for by station personnel is a closer tie between research and extension with many specialists on joint research extension appointments. Agronomists spend the summer in research and spend the winters taking the information obtained to those who can make use of it.

Personnel employed in addition to Ward and Zimmerman are: Ulverud Alexander and Gene Schwartz, agronomists; Walt Tolman, beef cattle specialist; Robert Frisichen, swine specialist; Don Kubik, dairy specialist; Dick Gavit, extension forester;

Howard Gillaspie, Dixon County extension agent with offices at the station; Myrtle Anderson, Anna Marie Kreifels and Margaret Shahly, area home economics agents; Vernon Fegley, farm foreman; Arnold Witte and Frank Plueger, agronomy technicians; Ken Olson, in charge of headquarters building and grounds;

Mrs. Anita Jugel, head of secretarial unit; Marie Hansen, Yvonne Magnuson and Anna Janssen, secretaries; and Bob Hlohm, Otto Herrmann and Robert Ferichs, farm operations.

Low-Rent -

Wayne county welfare office. This investigation reveals that about 150 units (either couple or single persons) in Wayne and Wayne county would qualify for the housing under the following criterion:

A. Couples—maximum income of $2,800 with net worth not exceeding $15,000.

B. Single persons—maximum annual income of $2,000 to $2,400 with net worth not exceeding $15,000.

2. It was reported that Wayne could use 80 Low-Rent housing units. With these units costing in the neighborhood of $12,000.00 each for a total of $960,000.00 is it true that the average architects fee of 7% or $67,200.00 would apply? If not, what would be the approximate figure he would get for his services?

Answer: No, the fee of 7% is a little high in this case. The architect that has been engaged said his fee would be between 5.8% and 6%. This would be a fee of between $55,680 and $57,600.

3. If the Wayne area cannot find adequate numbers requesting residency in its Low-Rent complex, can the Government move in people from other areas, say Chicago, Winnebago, Omaha or from anywhere in the country?

Answer: The local commission is the governing agency for a project of this type. It alone will determine the residents and their qualifications. It is feasible that outside residents could be accepted—perhaps elderly who have moved away to live with children in other areas.

4. If a unit costs $10,000.00 and an elderly tenant pays only $40.00 per month for heat, lights, water, snow removal, upkeep, repairs and rent itself, how does the Housing Authority pay interest on the bond issue?

Answer: According to information supplied by the federal government, this difference or loss will be made up by the government with what is called the "Federal Annual Contribution". The information also states that "In nearly every case these funds (rent) are not sufficient to meet the year's payment on the bonds. The HAO from appropriated funds makes up the difference each year."

5. Your first article mentioned that various taxing units would be paid in lieu of taxes. How is this determined and approximately how much per $1,000.00 of valuation has this amounted to in other communities where such Housing exists?

Answer: Lieu of taxes payments are based on 10% of the rent LESS utility payments. Thus, if rent payments average $40 per month (a likely figure) and utilities ran $12 (average figures from experience in other communities) a net rent payment of $28 per unit would exist. Ten per cent, or $2.80 per unit, per month would be paid to the city of Wayne in lieu of taxes.

Other questions regarding the project are invited. The election is September 19.

The board decided a short dedication program would be appropriate for the new high school as soon as it is completed. Still unfinished are the stage, ventilating system, sound system, gym, plumbing, patio south of the building, auditorium and cleaning up.

Supt. Haun reported several members of the staff "gave heavily of their personal time as we prepared and then moved to our new building." He said he had extended personal thanks, but wanted to call the attention of the board to the time and effort given by Robert Porter, Mike Mallette, Marie Mohr, Beverly Merriman, Loren Park, Don Schumacher and Prin. Fred Rickers.

The board is planning a visit some school day while classes are in session. Members want to see the school system in operation in general and want

'Stolen' Car Found
A "stolen" car was found by the Wayne Police Department the past week. Rex Wheeler, Allen, reported his car missing even though he had both sets of keys. The car was found later, down the street and around the corner from where Wheeler, a WSC student, stays. The brakes had released and the car had coasted down the street, around the corner and into a ditch with no damage resulting.

GENTLE HUMPHREY usually sits on the other side of the truck cab when he rides around the Concord area. However, he is as agreeable as a St. Bernard can be and came over to the sunny side of the cab to have his picture taken.

'Gentle Humphrey' Concord Character

Everyone in Concord and surrounding area "knows" Humphrey. He is a familiar sight riding around in a feed truck and even though he is rough looking and large for his age, he is gentle with everyone.

Humphrey is a dog, a St. Bernard, and the constant companion of Dwight Johnson, who drives a feed truck for Jim Pearson, Concord. One of the few

St. Bernards in the area, Humphrey is everyone's friend, all 140 pounds of him.

Even though he is only one year old, he has already reached the size associated with St. Bernards. And even though he is bigger than most of the children who delight in a dog his size, he always takes it easy with them.

Johnson was eating in the Bread Basket Cafe Thursday while Humphrey patiently waited outside in the truck cab where he always sits. He looks kindly upon the folks at the Bread Basket Cafe for they often have a pile of meat scraps for him.

Although he eats like a horse, it "ain't bay." He gets dry dog food in rather huge amounts, and still has appetite left over for the cafe scraps. Contrary to what some believe, he feed hauled in the truck is not for him — it's for live stock. Humphrey might look as if he could eat a truck load of feed but he never has yet.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Local officials have instituted action to set up a Housing Authority to investigate the possibilities of setting up a Low Rent Housing complex in Wayne. The good intentions of all individuals concerned cannot be questioned as they are known, respected men in our community. To date however only the favorable side of the proposal has been shown and since The Herald has solicited comments from both sides this letter is therefore being submitted.

A meeting was held by the Housing Authority to acquaint various groups and individuals with the project. This meeting was generally taken over by the architect who is not a representative of the government, not truly a representative of the City but actually a representative of his own firm.

This man very ably presented the favorable side of the program and how any city could avail itself of such a project. His interest is quite understandable as he is not altruistically motivated by Wayne's interests but primarily his own. By his own statement his figure of from 5% to 7% was mentioned as his fee. This applied to a project of $1,000,000.00 would amount to a fee of $50,000.00 to $70,000.00—a substantial amount. This would seem to be about the size of the project contemplated for Wayne.

If only one of these projects passed through the architect's office the price would be understandable. It is not uncommon, however, for such firms to have many such projects and the duplicity of plans and specifications in most instances would greatly lessen his efforts therefore making the fee extraordinarily high. This fee may appear to be a premature consideration however it must certainly be considered in the cost to taxpayers.

To date there has been no printed evidence as to the need for such a project in Wayne. It is true that we have some poorer homes and that they are occupied by people of low income due to one reason or another. Every effort should be made to provide comfort and sustenance for the more unfortunate. Has a real effort been made to see how many of the needy homes are without indoor plumbing, hot and cold running water, heating facilities, etc.? Certainly the existence standards are not acceptable. But is a brand new $12,500.00 apartment with practically free utilities, rivulet that is wearing away former concepts of moral responsibility to the home.

There is no distinction as to how the individual arrived at the eligible low-rent age without means to live adequately. Equally eligible would be the wastrel, ne'er-do-well, drunk, or the unfortunate victim of circumstance who worked hard and couldn't accumulate for one reason or another, or the one who did only to have it taken away due to some catastrophe he couldn't control.

We are supposed to start as equals and now it appears that that way as well. Maybe this is right but once the idea gets around that there is no real incentive for saving for the future as all your needs will be provided, it will start to become the acceptable thing to do. Then who takes care of who?

So far the real reason would seem to be that Wayne should take this money before some other town gets it and the program dries up. If you think this program is what we want in Wayne then be sure to get out and vote for it. If you don't think we should have it, and that we really can't afford all of these free passes to the big political football game, then you should likewise get out and exercise your franchise as a citizen. Dear Editor:

Frequently we receive complaints from people, many times our own clients, who have purchased so called special Life Insurance policies with special profit sharing privileges, etc.

The following article should give the insurance buying public some insight into the nature of these types of policies and an idea of the sales pitch used in their sale. We have received permission to reprint this article by Richard C. Budlong, Editor of Life Insurance Selling, June, 1967, issue and we quote as follows:

Charter policies are policies put out by new life insurance companies. A company can call any policy it wants to sell a "charter policy."

Those that I have seen are sold at rates approximately double ordinary life rates, and the extra money is used to redeem coupons or pay dividends. The policies are usually represented as being profit-sharing contracts that will not be issued after a certain amount of business has been produced, the implication being that they will share in the profits of business other than charter-policy business after they are no longer sold.

Under the law, however, they cannot share in profits not derived from the class of business to which the policy belongs, so they do not share in the profits of the company any more than any other participating policy. Because of the high premium charge, the company is in a position to return comparatively substantial sums as "endowments" or under some other name. It amounts just to charging you extra and giving you the extra money back.

In judging a charter policy, it is best to go by what you can read in the policy and not by what the salesman says about it. One thing is sure, however—you aren't buying an investment in the stock of the company. You are buying a life insurance contract that will pay certain sums under certain conditions. The policies I have seen have been perfectly legal, but the sales talks were more attractive than the policies.

Dear Editor:

On September 19 a special election has been called for the people of Wayne to vote on a special project, the exact name of which may be in question. All figures indicate that it is to be a government subsidized project. It is impossible to build a $9,300 house and rent it for $40.00 per month without a subsidy.

A short time ago a project was started called the Anti-poverty Project. A person was chosen and paid $25,000 to administer it. A project for Wayne is to be administered by five men with no compensation. It will also be tax free. Our question might be, "Who will pay the subsidy?"

Some may think my worry and concern may be the fear of losing some tenants. I question if any of the tenants I have could qualify. To qualify, one must be at the bottom or close. A few years ago, such a project was built here in Wayne, commonly known as Roosevelt Park, by a few citizens and some City help. That is rapidly changing.

A few years ago some people saved a few dollars to learn how that that dollar is worth about 25¢. Our question may be, "Is anything wrong with our housing or is it our dollar?"

Jim Troutman reported on his trip to South America. He observed two classes of people, the rich and the poor. Do we want to classify our people? I thought a Democracy was of the people, by the people and for the people. (All the people—not a favored few). My real reason for this is what do we want—more government or less?

Selective Service

Proffers Two Cards

Some Wayne County young men wonder why they get two different cards from the selective service board when they register. Clerk Jewell Canner reports one is a registration certificate (SSS Form 2) and the other is a notice of classification (SSS Form 110) telling how the board classified the registrant.

Mrs. Canner points out that the two cards should be kept in possession at all times. It is against the law to mutilate, alter, burn or destroy them.

Some have asked what happens to those who go to Canada to evade the draft. Mrs. Canner says prosecution of such draft-dodgers is a function of the Department of Justice and not the Selective Service System.

Any man of draft age must be registered, and anyone registered is required by law to keep his local board informed of current address and obey all lawful orders of his board. Failure to perform duties required under the SSS law constitutes breaking the law, so the justice department can prosecute. That's what happens to draft-dodgers going to Canada.

Cost of Alcoholism Learned at Meeting

Alcoholism is the third largest killer in this nation and is the largest mental health problem, members of the Northeast Nebraska Family and Community Affairs Council were told at their last meeting.

Dallas Madison, Omaha, spoke. He told the group that as soon as the public recognizes alcoholism as a disease, more answers for prevention and treatment.

According to Neal Boeshart, NNFCF president, the cost to America in millions of dollars for treatment, accidents and jails for alcoholics is almost beyond comprehension. A question and answer period was conducted by Boeshart.

The council will meet again Oct. 9 at 7:30 p.m. at Northeast Station, Concord. All members are asked to attend and the public is invited.

THE PAINTING between Mrs. Jack March (left) and Mrs. Dale Pennybaker is one of those included in the AAUW program for the year, theme being "Society's Reflections in the Arts." ### No Injuries in County Mishaps

The county sheriff's department investigated two traffic accidents the latter part of last week. No one was injured in the mishaps.

Friday at 7:30 p.m. at a county road intersection three miles south of Winside, Dallas Longe, Norfolk, was eastbound and Sue Ann Glass, Winside, was northbound, high corn obscuring the vision of both drivers.

Miss Glass swerved, but the left rear of her car was struck by the right front of the Longe auto. The impact sent the Glass car out of control. It traveled 150 feet 4 inches and then overturned one complete turn, landing in a ditch on its wheels.

According to the investigating officer's report, the Glass vehicle was a total wreck. The right front of the Longe car was slightly damaged.

Saturday afternoon at 12:45 in front of the Peck Davis home just off Main Street, Carroll, Richard Janssen, Carroll, came around the corner. His westbound car was a little left of the center lane, according to the officer's report, and was involved in a collision with an eastbound car driven by John Reighard, Coon Rapids, Ia.

The sheriff's department's report showed about $40 damage to the Iowa car and slight damage to the Nebraska car.

Square Dance Club Organized at Dixon

Plans have been made for a new square dance club in the area. Anyone interested is invited to the Dixon Auditorium, Sunday, Sept. 26, for the next dance. Present plans call for the club in the Dixon area to meet every two weeks. Ken Berg, Dakota City, has agreed to be caller for the organization.

Lessons are to be given since the Dixon group is a new one. Members who have signed up hope to get a large group of beginners and share the fun of learning the dances together, so the invitation is open to everyone in any community to at least take the lessons whether a member of Dixon or not.

IF ANYTHING IS ENCLOSED THIS AIR LETTER WILL BE SENT BY SURFACE MAIL

What kind of a headline is that? "If anything is enclosed this air letter will be sent by surface mail"? What's the scrawling above it?

It was all taken from an envelope in which Phadet Gawsombat sent a letter to Wayne friends. The "scrawl" above it says the same thing in Thai language the English below it says. Note that there is no spacing between words in Thai.

What's the reason for using that for a headline? To get your attention, and if you have read this far, it succeeded.

Phadet is most homesick for Wayne and his American friends. He would like to hear from them anytime. Mrs. J. M. Brown, his American mother, reports that his birthday is coming up Sept. 27 and she and Dr. Brown think it would be nice if his friends here remembered him with cards and letters. Airmail would be best, but even regular mail might get to him on time. One thing sure, cards must be sent soon to get there Sept. 27. His address is: Phadet Gawsombat, 160 Block No. 2, Tambon Por, Uthumphornphaisai, Srisaket, Thailand.

The bald eagle was adopted as the national emblem by act of Congress on June 29, 1782.

Would You Believe Century Old Paper?

Each week The Wayne Herald publishes "60 Years Ago This Week," a feature consisting of items taken from papers of 60 years ago. Would you believe some items taken from a paper published "100 years ago this week?"

Carlos Martin brought in a copy of the Burlington Standard, published at Burlington, Wis., Wednesday, Sept. 18, 1867. That would be 100 years ago this coming Monday. The paper at that time was almost five years old, being Volume IV, Number 49. It was a two-page publication on a parchment type paper that has remained in remarkably good condition.

There was only one news story on the front page, an article on the golden wedding anniversary Sept. 10th, 1867, at Spring Prairie, Wis., of Rev. O. Martin and his wife, Polly S. Mitchell. They were the great-grandparents of Carlos Martin, Wayne.

Martin has a memento of the occasion, a gold-headed cane. On the top of the engraving can still be read: "Presented to O. Martin by his children Sept. 10th, 1867."

The write-up included a description of the feast, "a sumptuous entertainment, which was commenced with roast Turkey and the accompanying viands, followed by a rich dessert of coffee, tea, pastries, cakes, peaches and of the most delicious Ice Cream that we remember ever to have tasted."

Around 50 inches of front page columns contained information on the anniversary, including a full quotation of the talk Rev. Martin gave. Gifts were presented, letters and cards read, speeches made, the family introduced. His wife, was his second, and the article pointed out that it was unusual to be married 50 years, but doubly unusual because it was "a celebration of a most extraordinary occasion where a man has lived in excellent harmony with his second wife for full fifty years."

Among those attending was Carlos O. Martin, Spring Prairie. He was the grandfater of Carlos Martin, Wayne, and he celebrated his 50th anniversary in 1909. A sidelight on this is the spoon engraved "1859-1909" on one side and "Carlos" on the other. It was lost when the normal college took the land for the school. Forty years later the spoon was found and because Carlos Martin was the only Carlos around, the spoon was returned to him and it remains in excellent condition also.

At a 4th of July celebration in Marion county, Ill., a young lady offered the following toast: "The young men of America; their arms our support; our arms their reward. Fall in men-fall in."

The famous Horse Fair at Rockford, Illinois, was financially a failure. Mr. Smith, the Superintendent lost 800 dollars. Let them try a Fruit Show next time.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The editorial department of a weekly newspaper is an important department. Normally it is one person's opinion of topics that concern most of the readers.

It is the duty of an editorial writer to watch all available facts before he sits down to write. From this basis the writer should be able to give a clear picture of important topics.

The Story for Next Week

Once again one of those occasions arises when an article that was going to be written "next week" will never be written. One of many hazards of the business, it is one of the most regrettable.

Mrs. George Buskirk, 80, died at Wakefield last week. On our desk was a notation to get a story about her since she had a room in which walls were covered with ribbons she and her husband had won on fair entries over many decades.

That story will not be written. How we wish we might have just this week to get the information and gladden her heart again.

If Mrs. Buskirk seems to have been someone special to us, it is understandable. For over 50 years she had written news for The Herald and in those five decades she rarely missed sending in items. When she was going to miss, she gave advance notice so someone else could get items.

Two or three days before her death she sent in her items, right on time, written the way she had been asked to write them and in a clear handwriting that belied her age.

There are few women like her, and just to have known one of her caliber was a privilege. We hope she knew she was appreciated, but we're afraid after all those years of service she probably felt as if she was taken for granted.

No words here can erase our regrets for delaying just a little too long what could have been done many days ago. Now no story will be written about her in this paper, but in the hearts of those who knew and respected her she wrote her own story of Christian love, faithful service and time-honored respect, a story only she could write.

We will miss her Leslie items, her occasional visits and her efforts on our behalf. We're sorry we didn't let her know before.—CEG.

Welcome to the Gutter

America is creating a gutter society and few seem concerned about it. The fact that this is a hectic and nerve-racking era is too-often the excuse blamed for the situation which we the people have actually created.

The worst part of the gutter filth is that our young people are getting too few lessons in how to stay out of it. We adults are setting examples that are easier to follow than any words of caution that might be given.

Take books. In order to become a real big seller, a book just about has to be dirty. Let the word get out that a book has been all-but-banned from the mails and everyone wants to read it. So into the home it goes, laying around where just anyone can lean it, including the young.

Look at your magazines on your newsstands. They do not try to hide what they contain inside. In fact, if they do not contain filth, they at least hint that they do, all in the hopes of selling more copies.

Under guise of "informing," subjects are discussed which are not intended for everybody but which immediately become available to everyone. This is a new age, some say, so we have to expect to give up some of the puritanical ideas that our forefathers had. So general magazines enter our homes with articles and stories not fit for the young.

Take the movies. There are films showing right now in theatres all over the country that a few years ago would be shown only in "art" houses, in other words, the theatres where those people went who got their thrills from seeing on the screen what was forbidden in respectable homes.

Don't blame these relapses into the depths on anyone else. How many of you have gone to a movie because it was racy? How many have never had a magazine in your home that had a sex-feature announced in bold lettering on the cover? Who hasn't read the books that a few years were known only to thrill-seekers but now are on every bookstore in paperback editions?

Turn on your radio. Yes, even the radio is going that way. It's hard to understand the words of some songs the teenagers seem to like, but it's not hard to understand the meaning of some of the suggestive terms. Ready or not, the kids from 11 and 12 on up are finding out information that their parents never heard about until they were almost out of their teens.

The trouble with these little "loosening" in our code is that when one segment starts approving they all soon catch on. When one part of the dam starts leaking, the whole dam may burst before long. Just where do you go about stopping the flood of filth before it is too late?

The first place to start is in your home. Aim for good movies; read good books; omit the sensation-seeking magazines. Difficult as it may be for some of you parents, you should let your children know what is right and what is wrong. Stick to your guns. There is always the old refrain, "But, Mom, Blankety Blank is going to get to go to the party." So there's going to be a beer party and you finally decide your daughter can go. The more difficult decision would be to forbid her going or better yet, having her hold a party of her own and inviting her close friends. Those kids choosing the beer party ahead of a respectable teenage dance and lunch in the basement of a home are probably not worth currying favor with anyway.

You may not agree with an editorial but if you read the editorial and give serious thought to the subject discussed you have gained. You, as a reader, have given careful thought to an important problem and the writer is proud to have called your attention to an important subject that you may have overlooked.

Look around you at the filth. You can see it on newsstands, in books, at the theatre and even on TV at times. You can hear it on the radio and in conversations you overhear. No one seems to mind using the worst of swear words in a cafe booth even though a waitress is nearby or ladies are in the next booth. It's a sad situation we have created. Teenagers say it's our fault, our generation, and they may be right. However, that is no reason for them to go all out in making the situation worse for their children. In fact, if they were all to go hippie, the last fragments of respect and dignity of home, Christian living and marital fidelity might go down the sewer where all seem headed.

"All," we'll not quite. But the few who care are either mighty quiet or scattered. Now might be a good time for them to speak, act and do. They may not be able to do much but they can do something. They know the place to start—here; they know who must make the start—themselves; and they know when the start has to be made—now. It's that clear; as clear as the garbage in your disposal.—CEG.

Maybe Wayne Can Be No. 2

All hopes of Wayne outdoing Griggsville, Ill., in mosquito control through the installation of more purple martin homes around the town have gone "out the window" so to speak. We've just seen a copy of "The Purple Martin Capital News" from Griggsville.

That 24-page publication in its second year gives a pretty good idea of why Griggsville is known as "Purple Martin Capital of the Nation" and why no one is apt to come closer than being "No. 2" in purple martins and mosquito abatement.

Troy Vaught wrote to Griggsville. He was sent information and a purple martin house. In fact, he now has more purple martin houses than he needs. Like others in the area, he is interested in mosquito control, not in 1993, but in 1968.

The publication from Griggsville is full of interesting letters and stories about birds in general and martins in particular. It even shows injured martins struck by cars nursed back to health. There are dozens of pictures of martin houses, ranging from the regular sizes most homes have to one in Minneapolis housing 218 martin families, a half-ton birdhouse built in a basement and hoisted via crane onto its supports.

There are two classes of people in Wayne who should be interested in the information Vaught has—people who don't like mosquitoes and people who like birds. Between the two categories we ought to include about 95 per cent of the residents.

However, this is all talk. What is needed is action, and we have a notion Troy Vaught is not alone in wanting to do something about mosquitoes next spring, summer and fall. Otherwise, why would he have sent for more martin houses than he could possibly use himself?

Martins do come to Wayne. They look for housing. If they cannot find it here, they move on. But once they find a town with housing they settle down and raise young ones—some to come back the following year, others to settle elsewhere. Griggsville now has thousands of martins and no mosquitoes.

For those of you who have inquired from a distance, the Griggsville publication points out that martins do not go for their food as such as the Colorado plateau, for the Salt Lake type basins or for mountain regions. They do get into most other areas. The one area we're interested in most right now is Wayne, Neb., 67877.

So, Griggsville, your title is safe as far as Wayne is concerned. We can't be No. 1 in purple martins and mosquito control but we sure aim to try for No. 2. Would any of you residents care to help Wayne move up to that status? An 8-10 martin house unit at your place might do for a start.

In the meantime, for an interesting paper and more information than we could ever hope to carry on martins and birds in general, see all the literature Vaught wound up with just by writing the Griggsville Wild Bird Society, Griggsville, Ill., 62340. You can't lose a thing by inquiring and you just might wind up losing two things if you succumb to the lure of the purple martins—you'll lose your heart to these fun-to-watch birds and you'll lose your mosquitoes. It's worth a try.—CEG.

Recommendation Given For Tax Rate of 15%

A member of the Legislature's Tax Study Committee has recommended the "State Equalization Board fix the first Nebraska personal income tax rate at 15 percent."

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff said this would be a "safe level" at the outset in view of an anticipated money shortage next year.

"There is considerable evidence that the state may run out of money. There's no use in adding to the crisis by setting the income tax rate too low," Carpenter said.

"If the 15 percent raise brings in more revenue than is needed, the money can always be used for future budgets and the rate cut back."

The state board, which is headed by Gov. Norbert Tiemann, must fix the income tax rate by Nov. 15 for the 1968 tax year. The corporate rate will be 20 percent of the personal rate.

The rate will be applied against the amount of taxes a Nebraskan pays to the federal government. For example, if the rate is 15 percent and a citizen's federal tax liability is $500, the state tax will be $75.

Carpenter made his recommendation after the Lancaster County District Court cleared the 1967 income tax law of its first legal test and set the stage for a State Supreme Court showdown over the controversial act.

District Judge Herbert A. Ronin declared the law is valid, and he dismissed the lawsuit filed by foes of the levy as having no foundation in law.

The State Legislature adopted the income tax law along with a sales tax last April, climaxing a 100-year battle over a broad-based tax system.

The 2.5-cent sales tax went into effect June 1. The income tax is scheduled to start Jan. 1, 1968. Prior to this summer Nebraska was the only state that did not impose a sales or income tax. It had relied heavily on a state property tax.

Judge Ronin rejected the contentions of the income tax opponents that the law was arbitrary, unreasonable and unfair.

The challenge was initiated last spring by Philip C. Anderson and Raymond Weilage Jr. of Crete, the Feed Service Corp. of Nebraska, and Illinois Liquor Corp. of Illinois. The State of Nebraska was the defendant.

Ray C. Simmons of Fremont, a former state senator and the attorney for the plaintiffs, said an appeal will be carried to the supreme court in a hurry. He was hopeful of an early decision. So was assistant Atty. Gen. Richard

H. Williams, who handled the case for the state. The lawsuit contesting the tax centered chiefly on the legal interpretation of a 1966 state amendment which permits the legislature to adopt an income tax based on the revenue law of the United States.

The plaintiffs alleged the 1967 law violated the "supreme rule" of Nebraska by linking the income tax to future as well as present federal laws.

Judge Ronin disagreed. He said the legislature's expressed intent in adopting the amendment was to coordinate the Nebraska tax with future federal changes.

The judge also rejected these other contentions: —That the law made a "tax czar" out of the tax commissioner by empowering him to establish rules for operation and enforcement of the act.

—That the law should be voided because it contains more than one subject, sales and income taxes, in violation of long-standing statute.

—That the law as it applies to banks, savings and loan associations and other financial institutions is, in effect, a property tax which can no longer be assessed at the state level.

—That the $7 food tax credit is unfair because it is not available to non-residents who work in Nebraska and must pay the state income tax.

However, Judge Ronin did rule invalid that portion of the law which makes it a misdemeanor to violate certain tax regulations established by the tax commissioner. He said this was an illegal delegation of legislative power to a state official.

But he stressed, this defect was not serious enough to adversely affect the whole act. Tax Chief Named State Tax Commissioner Murrell B. McNeil has announced the appointment of Kent Kalb as acting chief of the State Income Tax Division.

Kalb, a former attorney with the Kansas Income Tax Division, has been a member of McNeil's legal division for several months.

Power Line Way Cleared

The State Power Review Board has paved the way for a major power supplier to construct a $2.5 million electrical relay facility at Grand Island.

The action means Consumers Public Power District can build a substation in the area to relay power from its proposed nuclear plant near Brownville.

The Nebraska Generation and Transmission Cooperative, Inc., which represents rural power agencies, had indicated earlier it wanted the board to defer

Good Beef Yield From Dairy Steers

With the trend to increased use of artificial insemination in dairy herds, dairy farmers have been putting bull calves on the beef market. This has been done with great success according to John A. Sims, professor of dairy science at Iowa State University.

Sims points to some recent developments. J. W. Cole, meats specialist at the University of Tennessee, found Holstein steers excelling in daily gain and carcass cutout among several beef and dairy breeds he studied, and their meat scored average. The smallest dairy breed, Jerseys, had the tenderest steaks in the study and Brown Swiss steers have won several junior feeder project firsts in Iowa for rate of gain and net profit.

Visiting beef producers from Great Britain say calves of the larger dairy breeds command the highest prices there—in preference to the beef breeds which they themselves developed. "Excellent gains

Have you ever unintentionally hurt someone by being just a little careless? We did last week in a way we won't need to mention for those concerned, even though they are among the oldest residents of Wayne. Their goodness and understanding and accepted our apology. If it weren't for people such as these, we couldn't stand being an editor, because there are just too many others who never realize that we're human too and we'll make mistakes, errors of judgment and statements of fact that go into print never to be erased. Those of you unfamiliar with the current goaf need not know the circumstances; we'll just appreciate your being understanding in case we sometimes do things you are not particularly happy about.

We're sorry we don't print enough college news to please some subscribers. We realize there are many who would like to know more about the happenings at the school. For them we suggest taking "The Wayne Stater," which is all campus news and comment. Dick Manly does a fine job of keeping us informed and we have a limited circulation for students and parents so we covet only the major stories. Whereas every pupil in high school has parents with an interest in happenings in town, few collegians do. That's the reason you'll see more high school news than college news in The Herald.

Real Estate Man: "What's here's a house without a single flaw in it." Southern Man: "It's Really? What do you all walk on?"

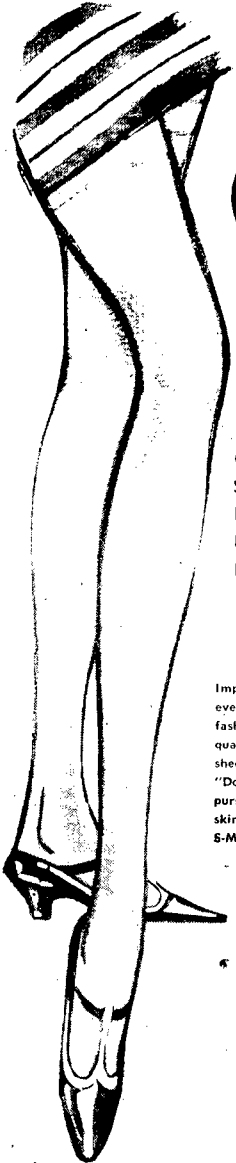

We've told you how these quaint spellings of names are a pain-in-the-neck to editors. Going through the list of thousands of names in 4-H at Wayne Fair, we found many names that were unusual. But imagine the consternation of the editor who learns that a girl's name is Jackie Lou and then finds out she spells it that way. Her parents named her "Jac E. Lu." Yep, that was one of the names. Then there's More Sass, page 3.

Northeast Extension Notes

If you're looking for something new to serve your family why not try one of the less expensive cuts of beef? A blade chuck or flank steak, for example—they're all delicious when cooked properly. Braising is a good way to cook these cuts.

Beef cuts from certain parts of the carcass help you save money and give variety to your menu. Cuts from the fore-quarter, such as chuck roasts and short ribs, are least expensive. Variety meats such as hearts, tongues, and livers

You think we have troubles in schools here? A Portland, Ore., resident informs us the high schools in that city are so short of funds they are having nothing but in-school athletics this year—no football or basketball games between schools. A fund drive was started to raise enough money so the sports could be continued but apparently not enough people cared that much one way or the other so no competition in sports is offered. It's somewhat of a shame for the schools that have their one-in-a-lifetime-best-ever teams and the athletes who could be prospects for college or pro help. That's the way the ball (foot and basket) bounces—at least in Portland.

Have you given thought to low-rent housing? We're not taking a stand personally. We're just asking you if anyone in town is living in a house you personally would not consider fit for your family. If there is, and these people are over 60 and have no chance to better themselves, then there might be a reason for favoring the creation of a housing project. If there are none in this category, then obviously the project is not needed.

Maybe Wayne needs an airline service like it needs another junked car area, but we think you should at least give West Central a chance. We were impressed with the type of men and equipment flying here for the inaugural landing. We knew then it was a capable line. As for safety, those men who fly the planes daily are even more anxious than you are to be in a plane that will take off and land with regularity. It's a safe bet the service will be needed by you sometime. Do you have to wait for an emergency to find out just how much you need it? Let's keep it here so it's available when needed. You people in area towns remember the convenience of air service to Wayne. This is a service that can benefit you too.

his home, Roberto says. Spanish is spoken most because everyone else in Guadalajara speaks Spanish. For that reason, he is having to learn more English since his friends and relatives here all speak English much faster than he is accustomed to.

Roberto is one of four children in the Einung family. He has a brother, Antonio, and two sisters, Maria Christina and Rita. Present plans call for him to go to school here until the Christmas holidays. Then he will return to Guadalajara and if he wants to come back here to finish the school year he may do so.

His decision may be affected by the weather. Guadalajara is only 20 degrees north latitude so is close to the equator. As a result, it is a warm climate and he has never endured extreme cold and has never seen snow. He thinks he will like the snow but is not so sure about the cold.

Well-trained in courtesy and manners, he told this week of his studies at St. Mary's. He likes English lessons because everyone about him speaks English. History is one of his favorite subjects, especially American history. Sister Mary Philip, who teaches seventh grade, reports he is an enthusiastic reader even though all the books are in English, his "second" language.

Roberto's father runs a bakery in Guadalajara, a city of well over 60,000. The lad came here via California where he had flown to visit relatives. An aunt and uncle drove to Wayne so he would be here in time for the start of the school year.

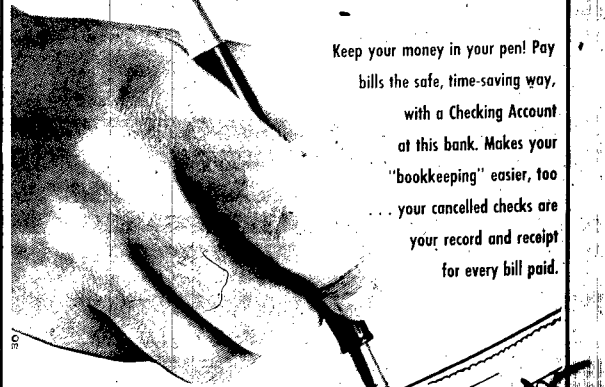

Although he has been here before, this will be the first time he has been in Wayne in the winter. He is enjoying his grandparents and other relatives here and they are enjoying him. He is a favorite with classmates and has found much to like in the American school, little different from the school he attended in Guadalajara, the main difference being the language.

ROBERTO EINUNG, a polite and personable lad from Guadalajara, Mexico, is a pupil at St. Mary's Catholic School this year. He is in the seventh grade. Shown with him are his cousin, Lisa Einung, in the same grade, and their teacher, Sister Mary Philip.
