

Community Chest Drive Still Has Long Way To Go

With this the final week for pledges and donations, the Wayne Community Chest has a long way to go. Not too many reports were in by Wednesday morning, but the total received so far represents about 10 per cent of the goal of $9,300.

Ted Bahde, secretary-treasurer for the drive, reports most of the donations and pledges turned in so far represent business area work. There have been no returns at all from the residential area.

Speed is not being emphasized this year. Instead, workers are attempting to get across the idea that by giving 10 per cent more this year than was given last year the city can again make its quota.

Envelopes are circulating for business and residential areas. Reports should come in faster the latter part of the week with the final reports being delayed until all computations are made.

Workers are asked to make their rounds as soon as possible to avoid delaying the final adding up of drive results.

Taxes Overdue

County Treasurer Leona Bahde reports 1967 personal taxes were due Wednesday, Nov. 1. The first half becomes delinquent Dec. 1 and the second half July 1. These taxes draw interest at seven per cent when they become delinquent.

ACP Group Meets Here

The annual county program development meeting of the Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) was held Monday, Oct. 30, at the county ASC office in Wayne.

Soil Conservation District supervisors, County Extension Service agent, the Farmers Home Administration supervisor and the Weed District supervisor were invited to the meeting conducted by the ASC county committee and by representatives of SCS and Forest Service in Wayne County.

The group reviewed cost-share practices undertaken the past year and evaluated accomplishments. It also selected practices and determined the cost-share rates and other provisions for the 1968 Wayne County program.

John Mohr, chairman, said this year the group gave particular attention to establishing goals for desirable conservation accomplishments on Wayne County farms. Also discussed was how ACP can be better coordinated with other public undertakings in the county.

The "in" thing at the Wayne Hospital these days is having a left hip bone injury. Five patients are in the hospital with fractured or broken hips—all of them left hips.

Mrs. Nine Thompson has been in the longest, breaking her hip Oct. 11. Mrs. Vern Larson joined the select group Friday, Oct. 27, to become the fifth left-hip patient in one month.

Others and the dates they entered the hospital are: Mrs. Ella Barkhoff, Oct. 15, a visitor from California; Emil Thies, Oct. 18; and Mrs. Roscoe Jones, Oct. 20.

Fire Drill Speedier

A fire drill was held Tuesday at the new high school. It was much faster than the first one, according to Prin. Fred Rickers. When the alarm sounded the first time, pupils did not know what it was. Tuesday most of the pupils recognized it. The buzzer does not sound much like the older fire alarm in the present middle school. In fact, it sounded as if the class bell had a malfunction.

Region Receives Inch of Moisture

Rain and snow brought welcome moisture to the area the past week. Ralph Watson's government gauges north of Wayne showed 1.20 inches of moisture.

The rain and snow Thursday, Oct. 26, brought .35 of an inch of moisture. Sunday the drizzling rain added another .85 of an inch. Farmers had been fearful of another heavy snow such as occurred a year ago. That snow weighted milo down so much of the crop was lost.

Temperatures have warmed up since to help dry out the crops. Farmers were getting back into corn and milo fields by the middle of the week.

D. Schumacher Named

He will be a music department representative. Only other area teacher elected to any office at the convention in Norfolk last week was Bob Anderson, Pierce, alternate to the assembly.

Car Fire Halloween Night North of City

Wayne Fire Department was called out Halloween night. It was no prank, but a genuine fire in a car at the intersection of a county road with Highway 15 at Dude Ranch Driveway Theatre.

The car is owned by Mill Mason, Wayne. Wiring caught fire and the department was called.

An unidentified Cedar County resident arrived on the scene before the fire department did. He had a portable extinguisher and had the fire out in short order. Chief Ivan Beeks said damage was confined to engine wiring.

'Overwhelming' Response Here

Mrs. Marie Mohr, home-making instructor at WHS and sponsor for the Future Homemakers of America, reported an "overwhelming" response to the UNICEF drive conducted Tuesday night by the Wayne FHA chapter.

She said the girls reported cordial receptions in almost every home. Many had donations ready and others gave as soon as they realized what the drive was for. Many girls said the residents also "forced" treats on them so they came back with money, popcorn balls, candy and other gifts.

The drive total was thought to be around $275. Final tabulation of nickels, dimes and pennies had not been made, however, so it will run a little higher. Last year the same number of girls raised $119 for UNICEF. Money received will go to help the underprivileged around the world. A few pennies given here can mean a day's food for some child in a poverty-stricken area. For that reason, the FHA is grateful for the way residents responded and helped make their voluntary work easier.

Drawing Total Hits $300 Mark

The amount in the Silver Dollar Night drawing has reached $300 again. This comes about because there was no winner last Thursday.

Merle White, Laurel, could have taken home $250 just for being in a participating Wayne business place last Thursday. Instead, he gets $10 as consolation from the Chamber of Commerce.

Fire at Reeg Home

Wayne firemen were called out Wednesday morning. It was the second fire call in 12 hours. A furnace control failed to shut off at the Arnie Reeg home and emitted smoke. Damage was negligible, all from smoke. The smoke circulated throughout the house. Firemen did not have to take any equipment into the home.

Wayne Native Gets State Appointment

Kermitt Stuve, son of Mrs. Herman Stuve, Wayne, has been appointed assistant state guidance director for New Mexico. It will mean a move from Farmington to Santa Fe in that state.

Steve attended Wayne Prep and Wayne State, graduating from the latter in 1949. He received his master's degree from Colorado State College, Greeley, in 1961.

For the past eight years he has been guidance director in Farmington. Prior to that he served in schools in Columbus and Laurel.

Stuve and his wife, the former Mary Belle Samuelson, have three children: Nancy 16, Mark 13 and Jeffrey 6. They will move to Santa Fe Nov. 22.

Wayne's Problem Back; No Bus Service in City

Wayne has "gone full circle" on the matter of school bus service for children living eight blocks or more from schools. No bus service is planned.

Bill Denkinger, who had proposed buying one of the school buses the district cannot keep now that new buses are here, said there was not enough interest in the service as he had offered it.

He said there was no section of town where interest was significant. Many wanted the service so if bad weather comes along they could use it, but not near enough wanted it daily.

That puts the matter right back in the lap of the public or some private operator. District 17 school board has already ruled out operation of buses inside the Wayne city limits so if no individual or firm wants to operate a bus route there will be none.

A bus is available at a most reasonable price. The school district cannot operate it but the board is willing to sell it for just what it will bring on a trade for the new bus. If anyone is interested in operating a bus route, they can contact Supt. Francis Haun. Otherwise, the matter will be considered closed for now.

Swine Production Classes Start This Coming Week

There are still some openings for the adult swine production classes sponsored by the University of Nebraska Extension Service, State National Bank and First National Bank. Farmers interested in better and more profitable swine production are urged to attend.

First meeting will be held Monday, Nov. 6, at 7:30 p.m. at the Wayne High School. A series of six classes is scheduled with authorities from the university and from swine-producing farms in charge.

Leland Foote, First National Bank, and Ted Armbruster, State National Bank, may be contacted regarding the course. Although they will welcome those who have not signed up prior to the Monday meeting, it will help a lot. See SWINE, page 8.

suits to be made known later. Dr. Wysong checks for stalk rot by squeezing the corn stalk a few inches above the ground. A normal plant will feel hard, while a severely diseased plant will be hollow and can be squeezed together easily.

Some fields and varieties in this area are more highly infected than is normal, Schwartz reports. Farmers can avoid losses due to stalk rot by picking their corn as soon as possible. Stalk rot can lower yields considerably when incidence of infection is high.

University of Nebraska Specialist Checking for Corn Stalk Rot Here

Dr. Dave Wysong, extension plant pathologist from the University of Nebraska, has been in Northeast Nebraska working with agronomists from Northeast Station, Concord, in checking corn fields for corn stalk rot.

He is attempting to correlate the occurrence of the disease by climatic area, soil conditions and corn variety differences over the state. Corn performance test plots in Dixon, Cedar and Knox counties were among those checked.

Stalk rot is the result of a disease organism entering the corn plant late in the growing season, usually in the lower internodes," according to Gene Schwartz, agronomist. "The disease weakens the stalk, so that with a little wind it breaks over," Schwartz said.

The Wayne County and area corn harvest is in full swing and many farmers will find some lodged corn plants in fields, Schwartz said. Some fields or some varieties may show a higher incidence of lodging than others, he added.

Various things can cause corn to break over. Included are corn stalk rot, corn borers, rootworm damage or high wind.

The outstate testing corn performance plots are serving a double role in giving area producers information on yield as well as resistance to stalk rot. They have 57 different corn varieties and each is being checked for yield and occurrence of stalk rot, re-

Wayne State Wildcats in Wild Win; Earn Second Spot in NCC for Year

Weather-hardy fans probably did not mind the cold and the wind Saturday night as they watched Wayne State and Chadron State battle for second place in the Nebraska College Conference.

They went home warmed by the 40-29 victory Wayne pulled out after seeing the lead change hand no less than seven times. A three-touchdown spree in the fourth quarter salted the game away for Wayne—and with it, second spot in the NCC.

At the same time Hastings was belting Hastings, 48-0, to claim the conference title with a 4-0 record. Wayne finished at 3-1; Chadron, 2-2; Peru, 1-3; Hastings, 0-4.

Wayne has two more non-conference games on the slate—the first this Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Wayne's Memorial Stadium. The foe is St. Cloud State of Minnesota, undefeated in seven games. Among the Huskie victims was Moorhead State, 28-

20, a team that Wayne beat, 32-27. St. Cloud has totaled 124 points to 63 by its opponents.

Scouting reports indicate St. Cloud is big and fast—probably as formidable a foe as Wayne has faced this year.

"We will have to be quick, and we can't make many—or any—mistakes against St. Cloud," Coach Jermier said. "I hope we are at full strength physically, and I wish we had a few of the injured regulars."

The condition of starting quarterback Steve Gunther, who twisted a knee early in the Chadron, appeared favorable Monday. No. 2 quarterback Chuck Tricker piloted the team most of the way against Chadron and got powerful results from the ground game—382 yards. That experience paired with Gunther's passing threat, may bolster Wayne against St. Cloud. Tricker passed only 11 times, completed four against the Eagles. Other-terattack, all on the ground, put Wayne ahead, 19-16 as Singleton rushed 14 yards. Chadron lost a fumble on the following kickoff, but avenged this bobble four plays later when Clyde Pryce piracy of a Tricker aerial.

Turman connected with end Dean Palser on a long bomb beyond the Wayne defense, but defensive halfback Doug Radtke finally stopped Palser on the nine after 62 yards. Winchell reached the goal on a one-yard plunge four plays later to give Chadron a 22-19 edge.

Again Tricker directed a ground assault of 95 yards, including Singleton's kick return of 19 yards, a run of 23, and his TD run of 22. Grubaugh kicked for a 26-22 lead.

Wayne tackle Randy Cordes blocked a Chadron punt and recovered it on the Eagle 11. A penalty set Wayne back to the 16, but that only lengthened Singleton's TD run on the next play. Grubaugh made it 33-22.

Moments later Chadron lost a fumble on its 19, and Wayne marked up its final tally in five plays with Tricker's one-yard sneak. Grubaugh converted again for 40-22, with 3:39 left.

Turman took to the air and moved the Eagles to the Wayne 10 from the kickoff, aided by two Wildcat penalties. Winchell passed the last 10 yards to Yost, and Reitz kicked the final point, 1:17 left.

Statistics:

Two Wildcat fumbles lost in the third period set up a go-ahead Chadron touchdown run by quarterback Tim Turman for 15 yards. The conversion failed and Chadron led, 16-13.

An 85-yard Wildcat coun-

Runner Not So Fast

Carl Owczarzak, former WSC athlete who won a tri-state marathon, was reported by daily papers to have won a 26-mile 385-yard run in 1 hour 55 seconds. The Herald followed this report. Readers called attention to the impossibility of this. A check showed the run was probably in about 2 hours 50 minutes and 55 seconds. Coach Silverberg, who handles the cross country team at WSC, said the world marathon record is around 2 hours 19 minutes. Second place in the marathon at Falls City was timed in 2 hours, 53 minutes and 56 seconds.

She was married Jan. 1, 1908 to Albert D. Jenkins. The couple spent eight years at Carroll and 12 years at Peetz, Colo. They returned to Carroll in 1928. Mr. Jenkins died in February, 1964 and in 1965 Mrs. Jenkins moved to Winside.

She was also preceded in death by her parents, two brothers and two grandchildren. Survivors include four sons, Lewis and Roy

Lindner Gets Double Credit for Tackling

Harry Lindner, junior defensive player for Wayne High School, should get double credit for tackling in the Laurel game. He had as many tackles and assists as the next two men combined.

Lindner, who is battling Bernie Binger as top tackler, had 14 tackles and 2 assists against the Bears. The next two men were credited with 13 tackles and 5 assists.

Here is the way the rest of the chart looked with tackles first and assists next: Gordon Jorgensen 7-1; Keith Warrelman 6-4; Bernie Binger 6-1; Don Skokan 3-4; Lavern Brown 3-3; Doug Maurer 3-1; Vaughn North 2-1; Dave Roberts 2-0.

Steve Kerl 1-3; Doug Ritze 1-2; Steve Mrsny 1-0; Dave Brown 1-0; Lynn Lessmann 1-0; Rick Burt 1-0; Jerry Titze 1-0; Dan Sutherland 0-1; George Eynon 0-1; and Randy Helgren 0-1.

Dixon Man Gets Deer

Charles Carlson, Dixon, is one of the successful archers in Nebraska's archer deer hunt, according to the state game commission. Carlson is credited with downing a whitetail deer with a bow and arrow. So far, 211 hunters have killed deer with bows and arrows. The season lasts until Dec. 31 with nine days off Oct. 28-Nov. 5 for the firearms deer season.

A GOOD STIFF-ARM was all it took for Lynn Lessman (11) to get past a Laurel defender in the fourth quarter of Wednesday night's tilt against the Bears. Lessmann rushed for a net total of 51 yards and caught two passes for 27 yards in the game. (Photo by Jeanne Whorlow)

Wayne State Drama Department in Successful Start of New Season

Wayne State College's drama department inaugurated a new season of stage productions in impressive fashion the first of this week. "Bad Seed," by Maxwell Anderson, was presented four times by another of Dr. Helen Russell's well-chosen casts.

In the female leads, Susan Cook and Julie Hayden bore the burden of most of the lines. Miss Cook was the eight-year-old who was a compulsive and clever liar and murderer. Her mother (Miss Hayden) was a distraught woman who feared she knew why her daughter could not help being what she was.

Those who remember Miss Cook as a fairy seeking wings in "Sleeping Beauty" will find it hard to visualize her as a scheming little liar-murderer. Those who saw "Bad Seed" will have no trouble at all. She has shown a versatility in living her roles no matter how varied. Even when action was elsewhere while she was on the big stage, she never forgot or let the audience forget that she was just an eight-year-old, misunderstood child.

Miss Hayden has had roles calling for equal talent, outstanding one coming to mind being as Miss Moffat in "The Corn Is Green." She played a woman of obvious good taste in a fine home in "Bad Seed," but when she blew her stack, she was most convincing as one who was blowing her stack. She looked, played and loved an exhausting role.

Of the male members of the cast, perhaps Steve Taylor had the best characterization to portray, a handyman who was not too bright and not too dumb. He was just about as evilminded as the eight-year-old girl and they often fenced with words. He did an excellent job of appearing to be a brooding psycho who let others do the talking most of the time and knew therefore what was going on at all times. A freshman, he shows considerable potential for future WSC stage efforts.

Almost stealing the show at times were two girls who played older women. Georgia Wachholtz was a neighbor from upstairs, an amateur psychiatrist-doctor-analyst and brother-tender. Miss Wachholtz was perfect for the part—or else the part was perfect for her.

A lesser role did not detract from the effort by Marjorie Frechette, who portrayed a grief-stricken mother of a murdered boy. She had turned to alcohol and was more than slightly inebriated while on stage. Like Miss Wachholtz, she dominated many of the scenes she was in with her characterization, one of the stronger ones in the play.

Arne Nelson was very good as a sister-dominated brother who just wanted her to shut up. Bob Pierson the father of the murderer-child had a minor role but it was well handled.

Claudia Thomas was made up to look like a prim and lightly scatterbrained school teacher and she played it to the hilt. Fred Wington's role was not so demanding, but he carried it off in a professional manner, which is just what was required. Larry Larsen as the father of the murdered boy was properly concerned about his drunken wife; Bruce Dickinson was good as the grandfather of the liar-killer eight-year-old; and Roger Bengtson had a walk-on role as messenger.

Ron Wachholz and Gerry Melis deserve considerable credit for technical director and assistant. Brad Ford and Steve Millard were stage managers with Roger Bengtson, Larry Larsen, Bruce Pease, Bob Pierson, Mike Reese, Fred Wington, Ken Dugan, Arne Nelson and Blake Oleson on the stage crew.

Whoever was responsible for the setting deserves much credit. Once again staging was excellent. With a view out the window to the house across the street, a split-level apartment and a well-planned layout, the scenery contributed much to the effectiveness of the play.

Paint crew members were Sharon Cleveland, Linda Knoebel, Claudia Thomas, Bev Fuller and Debbie McClure. Linda Garvin was property mistress and Kathy Misfelt, Lynn Froid and Linda Mines property crew. Chris Boger as costume mistress was assisted by Connie Schmuecker and Judy Zohner on the costume crew.

Susan Cook was publicity chairman assisted by Georgia Wachholtz, Sandra Spellman, Mary Welke and Marjorie Frechette. House managers were Debbie McClure and Mary Welke.

Once again the makeup, lighting, costuming and sound effects were important parts of a WSC production. Once again the behind-the-scenes workers came through in top fashion to equal the work of the on-scene performers.

With so much talent shown already, it is obvious play-goers in the area are in for another season of entertainment. Next attraction is "Tonight at Eight" Dec. 3-5 with a comedy, "My Sister Eileen" and the children's production of "Alice in Wonderland" being two more must-see events coming up.

West-Central Back on Schedule for Region

West-Central Airlines is back on schedule after a week in which no service was offered. In some ways, the new schedule is more convenient for Wayne area residents.

The airline suspended service for a week to winterize planes. It resumed service with direct-to-Wayne service from Omaha as a new feature this week.

Mrs. Don Johnson, who handles ticket sales at the Wayne Airport, reports the schedule calls for leaving Omaha at 7:05 a.m. instead of 7:50, and arriving in Wayne around 8. Other flights include one that leaves Wayne at 7:10 a.m. and arrives in Omaha at 8:45, going by way of Norfolk, Columbus and Lincoln. A third leaves Wayne at 1:30 in the afternoon and arrives in Omaha at 2:55. All flights are set to connect with major airline flights out of Omaha.

Most deer foods are seasonal, so deer feeding habits change with the time of year.

Concord Kiddies in Parade for Halloween

Concord kiddies cut capers Tuesday for their annual Halloween parade. Blessed with ideal weather, the youngsters paraded downtown for a costume contest and then returned to school for parties. Many parents and others were on hand to view the parade.

Bread Basket Cafe added to the day's events by treating the youngsters. A box of candy bars was brought to the party for all those in costumes or masks.

In the kindergarten, first and second grade room taught by Mrs. Helen Pearson, Melanie Gunnarson won funniest with a hot dog sale, including her puppy in a hot dog bun; Jackie Sherry was prettiest as a Dutch girl; and Charles Nelson was most original as a hippie.

Winners in third and fourth grades, taught by Mrs. Phyllis Dirks, were Jody and Jeralyn Allvin as a two-headed woman; Kristy Peterson as a cat; and Kelly Kardell as a witch.

Prizes in the lower rooms for posters (first, second and third in order) were Tracy McAluffie, Verlin Hanson and Darcy Harder. For the upper rooms the winners were Rita McAluffie, Brain Johnson and Renee Wallin.

In a telephone conversation Monday, the Harmeier youth reported he is getting around Methodist Hospital, Sioux City, with a wheel chair. Staff members are helping him learn to walk with crutches.

His shattered foot should be whole again but the healing process will be slow, he said. He added that he was grateful for this as there had been a period of several days when specialists were not sure they could save his big toe.

WE, the Volunteer Fire Department members in Wayne, take this means of thanking the people of this area for their support of our annual Fireman's Ball. The donations, purchases of tickets and other help added up to make the event a big success. We appreciate the way we are given support year after year. It makes our job an easier one. REGULAR SIZE turnip is on the right, giant size on the left. Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gathje, Wayne, grew over-size turnips from seeds they threw out, the one shown being the largest at 7 pounds 4 ounces.

Turnip Can Turn Up Big in Dry Weather

A turnip can turn up big in spite of dry weather. Just ask Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gathje, Wayne.

They threw out some seeds in an area that had been washed over with silt due to June's rains. That was in early July and the turnips there out-produced the turnips in the Gathje garden.

Biggest of the "throw-out" bunch was a monster that weighed seven pounds four ounces. It was a solid turnip and not grainy, weighing about eight times as much as some of the more normal turnips.

The Gathjes had enough turnips without the big one. They put the over-size model on display in a downtown store in Wayne, it being the biggest they had ever seen. No one else has reported ever seeing a bigger one around here.

have trouble with good teams this week, however.

Wayne was chosen site for the conference vocal clinic Feb. 15. The band clinic will be held Dec. 6 at Neligh and the speech contest at Laurel Feb. 24.

Supt. Francis Haun reports student and complimentary passes will not be honored at the playoff game. He, Coach Hansen, Harold Maciejewski, Ron Carnes, Dick Nelson and Joseph Unzicker attended the Tuesday night meeting.

In case the weather is bad the night of Nov. 10, the game will be moved to Saturday, Nov. 11, at 2 p.m. If the weather is bad then, the game will be cancelled.

of the trees in a year, while cities waiting until dutch elm disease is spotted, lose as many as 60 per cent of the trees in a single year.

Because the program is so successful, Mid-America Helicopter Service has been contracted with for another spraying this fall. Spraying will be done when weather conditions are favorable after leaves have fallen from trees. The public will be notified by loud speaker so cars, pets and people can be removed from streets while spraying is in progress.

Charles Thomas, hospital administrator, told the council the ambulance needs repair. He proposed buying a new ambulance as the old one is costly to operate and presents a poor image of the city.

The council decided to have emergency repair work done on the ambulance purchased 5 1/2 months ago from a Wisner mortuary. Later the council will check to see if a new ambulance is feasible.

A radio has been installed in the ambulance and is now in use. It is connected with the sheriff's office and through that office, the state patrol. When the hook-up is complete, it will also be connected with the police department and a radio unit at the hospital.

The ambulance is provided by the city and county. Operation costs are covered by the county and maintenance costs are covered by the city.

Councilmen voted in favor of installing a "deionizer" in the water line at the power plant. This will purify water used in cooling engines. It will be much more complete than water treatment purchased periodically before and is not an expensive piece of equipment.

A plan has been worked out for making improvements on the Youth Center in the old city hall. Ceiling and walls will be repaired. Youngsters taking part in the city's recreation program will paint under the supervision of Hank Overin. They will be paid for the work, but the money will be used for the purchase of more equipment for the youth center.

The city lagoon has been a hunting site for some hunters who sneaked in to take shots at ducks and geese in the past. This is inside the city, and since state law forbids hunting inside city limits, the city will enforce the law this year and those violating it will be subject to fines of as much as $100.

A motion was passed requiring different committees and departments (hospital, library, airport, recreation, country club, fire department, civil defense, etc.) to make quarterly reports to the council on progress, planning and expenditures.

The council will no longer manage the swimming pool. This is being turned over to the recreation committee, which will have complete charge.

In other action, the council allowed a permit for off-street parking at the Harold Goshorn residence, 621 West First Street, and heard a presentation of IBM for a accounting system equipment. Burroughs and NCR equipment are also being considered.

Dix, N. J., in February, where he completed a driver's course, driving 2 1/2-ton trucks. He left for Germany in April. The past month he qualified as expert with both the M-14 rifle and the M-60 machine gun.

His address is: Pfc. Michael L. Lage, US 56542790, A Co., 9th Engr. Bn. (C), APO New York, N. Y. 09162.

Longe is stationed at Ft. Myer, Va., and he too has been spending time in the field. His outfit was taken out of the field and into Washington for the protest demonstrations, helping guard the Pentagon over the weekend. He reports some of the protestors spat upon the men in uniform, which was a little hard to take without resorting to violence, but they had to resist temptation. David took basic training at Ft. Bliss, Tex., and advanced infantry at Ft. Lewis, Wash. He has been in the army almost a year and most of the time has been at Ft. Myer.

He graduated from Wayne High School in 1965 and took a two-year course in diesel training at Nebraska Trade School at Millford. He has been in the honor guard at Ft. Myer since going there and besides doing guard duty at the Pentagon has been assigned to the capitol, Arlington National Cemetery, trips to accompany bodies of servicemen home and other duty.

Longe hopes to get to go to the Army-Navy game at Philadelphia this month. He has two friends from Wayne nearby, Jim Kern at the Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., and David Carlson at Quantico Marine Base, Va. He hopes they can get together at the game. His address is: Pfc. David G. Longe, US 56542794, Co. D, 1st Bn. (Reinf), 3rd Inf., Ft. Myer, Va., 22211.

Muehlmeier is a 1965 graduate of Winslow High School. Oct. 4, 1965, he enlisted in the air force and went to Lackland AFB, Tex., for basic training and then to Lowry AFB, Colo., for specialized training in missile maintenance.

May 29, 1966, he left for Korea, where he spent 13 months. Along with his regular duties, Terry learned to operate a fork lift and also became a licensed bus driver. His biggest thrill came when he saw President Lyndon Johnson on his visit to Seoul, Korea.

Muehlmeier returned from Korea June 29, 1967. After 30-days leave, he went to Eglin AFB, Fla., where he has continued training in the missile field. He has been named "airman of the month" for his squadron and was promoted to airman first class recently.

Unlike Nebraska, he finds Eglin AFB hot and wet. He would have liked to have seen the more-than-ample rain to Nebraska during the dry spell. He is to go to another damp climate, Thailand, in January.

His address now is: A/1c Terry L. Muehlmeier, Box 5268, Eglin AFB, Fla. 32542.

Tuesday the junior and senior high school pupils selected the winners by popular votes. Winners went to Ponca Tuesday for Government Day.

Martin Ringer 'Most Recommended' As Feature News Story Subject

You know because of the headline what the answer to this question is: Who has been suggested more often than any other person in Wayne as a good subject for a special feature news story?

Martin Ringer, who is slowed down a little now that he has been hospitalized, has been recommended by former city officials, firemen, pastors, friends, acquaintances and others as one of the real colorful residents of this city, a man who has served his community in many ways and deserves recognition.

Take this list for example: He served in the fire department over 20 years; he was fire chief in the 1920's, serving until 1931, when he became mayor; he served as mayor ten years; he played in the old Wayne Cornet Band; he was on the Redeemer Lutheran Church council almost 12 years; he was one of the top insurance salesmen in the state for several years; and he maintains a colorful and remarkable collection of the history of Wayne, both in tangible items and in his ability to remember names, dates, places and events.

Born in Falls City in 1884, he came to Wayne 14 years later and has lived here ever since. He remembers Wayne as a town of 1,240 people with gas lights which George Miner would light every night. The "sidewalks" in downtown Wayne then were three planks tied together, and the streets were dirt.

His father, Rev. C. J. Ringer, had come here as pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church. There were three children in the Ringer family. Walter, now deceased, Mrs. Elsa Vaught, Fayetteville, Ark., and Martin.

Ringer remembers Wayne Normal College, standing out in the country with "a lot of corn fields between the town and the college." J. M. Pile was president and his wife and son with three or four other faculty members did all the teaching for around 300 students.

At that time Ringer was an insurance agent and was furnished a horse and buggy. He knew every farmer in Wayne County and some who lived in other counties. Representing several companies, he earned plaques for over 50 years of service from a half dozen of them.

In those days, land selling was also good. Someone wanting a farm would come to Ringer's office to buy a farm and would buy one without even going to see it.

His office was first located on property where Ben Franklin Store is now. Later it was moved south to where Karel's is, then north to where Gay Theatre is and finally he built a building he still owns, the one occupied by Dean Pierson Agency.

In 1913 he married Rose Piepenstock, daughter of the man who manufactured Piepenstock Harness, one of the most popular brands in Northeast Nebraska for years. They had one child, a daughter, Mildred, Omaha. Mrs. Ringer was the subject of an article a year or so ago, retiring as organist at Redeemer Lutheran Church after 50 years service in that capacity.

During the years he was first on the fire department, Ringer recalls the hand cart they pulled to fires. It had a soda and acid extinguisher and took three to six men to pull it.

His first fire was to a car outside a house. Fuel was spilled, the "fire engine" (called that even though just a cart) was taken to the fire, "ewish, swish and the fire was out."

If the fire was a big one, there were water wagons for rent by some firms. These cost $5 each in rental to take to fires. Firemen would sit on the back of the water wagon, feet braced, holding onto the fire cart which they pulled along behind.

Ringer figured he answered 1,000 fire calls in 50 years. He remembers one of the biggest fires, at the Golden Rule General Store. Firemen managed to keep the fire from spreading but everything inside was burned.

Another fire was at a double livery barn where Roberts Locker is now. This probably was the largest fire, but firemen saved the house standing just north of the big frame barn. Other fires were the Coryell fire where the light plant is now, the German Store and many more.

As he mentioned "German Store," Ringer recalled that every business place had to have a clerk that spoke German in those days. He recalls Henry Ley called the college and said he needed a boy who spoke German. Prof. Pile said he didn't have a boy who spoke German but he did have a Swede. So Herman Lundberg went to work at the State Bank. When Lundberg died recently, he was one of the wealthiest and best-known men in the county.

The cornet band was a lot of fun, Ringer said. Lee Buraker directed. Buraker had come to Wayne with a circus as a paper hanger and painter. He liked it here and asked if he could stay and direct a band. He did, and as a great trumpet man and oldtime version of "The Music Man" he developed a well-known band.

Being mayor was fun as well as a headache at times, Ringer recalls. When he went into office, WPA and PWA were familiar terms. Finding jobs for men was almost a fulltime task but that's when a lot of Wayne's curbs and sidewalks were laid; and that's when a fence was put around the cemetery.

During his terms, the city bought the site of the present baseball diamond, including the land where the Girl Scout cabin is. E. J. Huntermer of WSC designed the grounds, bleachers and ball park for nothing. PWA labor was used to build a ball park where an ice house 40' by 60' had stood and where there had been an ice pond. The ice house was torn down and dirt from streets was hauled in all one summer to fill in the pond.

Ringer recalls farmers went about in 1911 wanting cream buyers to refrain from buying cream. Farmers in the Sioux City area were visiting towns to talk cream buyers into refusing to buy. Someone called Mayor Ringer and told him the men from Sioux City were coming.

Ringer was not too big in stature but he called two marshals, Archie Stevens, 280 pounds, and Bill Stewart, over 300, and met the farmers at the city limits along with the sheriff and several other big men. When the Sioux City area farmers said they wanted to see the mayor, he identified himself. They asked him to close the cream stations. They went down to one, walked in and were confronted by the operator, a Mr. Kyle, complete with pistol. Kyle said he would shoot the first one that moved toward the cream. The farmers had enough, what with big men and pistols. They conferred for a minute, moved on to Winside and one of the Wayne cream stations closed.

When Redeemer wanted a new site for a church (it was in the building now housing Wesleyan Methodist) some wanted a new site. Al Bahe helped make sure the new site was available. He bought it and gave the church first chance on it. That's why Redeemer is where it is today.

Ringer remembers when Wayne had few autos. The local baseball team was to play at Randolph. A group conceived the idea of the entire team buying autos so they got four and all rode in cars to Randolph. It was such a big occasion the Omaha papers wrote up the incident as a feature story—an entire team going from Wayne to Randolph for a baseball game!

Riding trains was commonplace. Ringer recalls the fun it was going to Winside for the Old Settlers Picnic, staying all night for the celebration and returning to Wayne the following morning.

In 1965 Ringer received the Wayne Kiwanis Club distinguished service citation for his years of service to the community. He was cited for his work as mayor during the depression when he helped get the present auditorium and a post office built here, traveling around at his own expense to get things done.

Attention was called to his concern for the needy during the depression and his work in their behalf. In the citation he was called "The best mayor Wayne ever had, with all due respect to the other men who have served in that post."

When Martin Ringer entered the Wayne Hospital recently, he underwent surgery; it was the first operation and the first hospitalization for him in 83 years. He found the lying-around part most difficult as he has been going to his office daily.

His wife is confined to a wheel chair so he has cared for her one-half day, arranged for someone to care for her the other half and spent that at his office. They have called 106 Lincoln "home" since their marriage.

Martin Ringer has memories, many, many memories. They should be put on tape—no one else can tell them as he does. His eyes light up, a smile comes on his face and telling one incident leads to another. He also has countless photos and other mementos covering the many years of his life here.

He has been in "Who's Who in Nebraska," but he has never asked for honor or acclaim, just saying he has done his job as others are doing their jobs. But, he still is No. 1 in Wayne when it comes to being suggested as a good subject for a feature story. It appears he also would be No. 2 and No. 3 for more could be written than space allows.

Martin Ringer has lived in Wayne almost 70 years and they add up to seven decades of service. Ask anyone that knows him—and it seems everyone does.

Direct Loans in Area Available

Adjustments have been made in the areas where veterans can get direct loan financing homes. Several counties in this area have been added.

Chris Bargholz, Wayne County veteran service officer, reports Wayne, Stanton, Thurston, Pierce, Madison, Dixon, Cuming and Cedar counties are now included in the Nebraska area where veterans are eligible for direct loans.

Bargholz also noted that World War II veterans whose GI home loan entitlement had not expired by July 26, 1967, now have until July 25, 1970. Individual entitlements are determined according to the duration of active service in WW II and may expire prior to July, 1970.

However, any WW II veteran having an unexpired entitlement on July 26, 1967, will have until Dec. 30, 1967, in which to use his entitlement, even though his entitlement under the length of service formula may expire at an earlier date.

Meet The WAYNE HERALD FAMILY . . .

Meet Linda Swan

Linda Swan is a 1966 Coleridge High School graduate who has been a member of The Wayne Herald Family since its new offset printing process began in August, 1966. She is the Justowriter operator who sets most of the type which appears in The Herald twice each week. Linda lives at 320 Lincoln. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Swan, Coleridge.

now they insist I pay when I can't."

Our bouquet of the week goes to a cheerful person. She is a real "moonlighter" in that she holds down more than one job. She has to in order to make her own living. The important thing is, she does make her own way. To hear her, you would think she had no care in the world, and she is always solicitous of the needs of others. Even though she puts in long hours at hard jobs, some others are reluctant to take, she always has a cheery word and a smile. She has not let her handicap keep her from enjoying life's joys and she even appears to get pleasure out of life's hard work. So, Ellen Hansen, take a bow. We're sure there are others who agree you deserve a bouquet—not just for one week but for every week.

SASS
Shmoe: "The space age has reached my wife."
Joe: "How is that possible?"
Shmoe: "The other day a friend asked her how old she is and she replied: 'Twenty-nine and holding'."

SASS
Mr. and Mrs. Don Johnson understood the situation when we carried an article about Mrs. Johnson teaching a class of women at the airport and we referred to her as Mrs. Don Brown. There is a Mrs. Don Brown. Her husband runs an airport. They now live at Alliance but they used to be at Lodgepole when we were editing the paper there. So, we associate the Don Browns with airports yet, even though we should know it's the Don Johnsons here. As a matter of fact, the Don Browns and the Don Johnsons are acquainted. Well, the Don Johnsons do have their problems. There are two families of the m here now and there used to be three.

SASS
"So you're an atheist. Don't you find that creates problems?"
"In what way?"
"When you feel grateful there's no one to thank."

SASS
We have more suggestions for the telephone company. How about a device on telephones so if you call a number and get a busy signal you can press a button so it keeps ringing that number and the moment it isn't busy it rings in. We have called some places (not always with teenagers in the family) and found the busy signal going, and going, and going. Personally, we consider it one of the most frustrating sounds in the world today. With our device, which we can't invent, a light would come on at your phone when the person called finally hung up and his phone rang again. If you're still around, he could wait until you answered.

answered. If you're gone by then, he could be frustrated, wondering who was trying to call him.

SASS
America never did really come up with a good five-cent cigar. However, nowadays we have a good five-cent quarter.

SASS
In their exuberance, some Wayne fans tore down the goal posts at Laurel. The cause: Wayne won. This ought to be flattering to Laurel, if nothing else. Maybe they can't see it that way, but it appears the victories over the Bears are so few and far between the fans just had to cut loose—something like it was when Nebraska finally beat Oklahoma. We apologize to Laurel. We don't think it will happen again. In fact, from now on, it's going to be Laurel that will be celebrating a victory—by that we mean the wins over Wayne are going to be so few and far between Laurel will be doing the celebrating when they finally gain one.

SASS
Shmoe: "I really messed up. I went on vacation to forget things."
Joe: "Well, most people go on vacation to forget things."
Shmoe: "Yeah, but when I opened the suitcases I found out I had."

SASS
The tax collector is the chap who tells you what to do with the money you have already done something else with.

SASS
We understand 11 per cent of the eligible voters turned out for a city election in Sioux City. Do you know what per cent turned out in South Vietnam for the election there (with threats of violence, danger of death and walks averaging 50 miles) just to vote? Around 89 per cent! South Vietnam is fighting to preserve a democracy. It is also voting to preserve it. Here in this country we not only have the Vietnam protestors who want to give up on democracy over there but are giving up on democracy here by not exercising their right to vote. Someone should be ashamed.

Only Three Cases in Court Last of Week

Only three court cases were heard by Judge David Hamer the latter part of last week. A total of $175 in fines, costs and restitution was paid.

All cases were Oct. 26. The first involved Steve Campbell, Waterloo, fined $10 plus court costs of $5 for speeding. Officer Ron Penlerick signed the complaint.

Calvin Gomez, Winnebago, paid $50 fines and $5 costs on a charge of petit larceny. Attorney Donald Reed filed charges. Michael Walker, Winnebago, was fined $25 for making a menacing threat, $25 for destruction of property and $25 for petit larceny. In addition, he paid $25 for restitution on property destroyed plus $5 court costs. Attorney Reed was the complainant.

Business Notes

Leroy Ruppert, Wayne, completed a week-long Delco-Remy school in maintenance, adjustment and repair of all electrical equipment used in John Deere tractors and power units Friday. The school was conducted by the United Motors division of General Motors at its training center in Omaha. Ruppert was the only one attending the school from Northeast Nebraska. He heads the service department at Brandstetter Implement.
