Hoskins Teacher 'CAT' Action - Honors Recipient

Mrs. Oscar Zander, a teacher in Wisconsin Synod Lutheran schools for 20 years, was honored at a dinner and program Friday, Apr. 12, in the Trinity Lutheran School basement at Hoskins. Around 250 attended.

Mrs. Zander has taught in Trinity School for 10 years. She has also served congregations at Plymouth and Stanton in this state and Kirchhain, Wis.

The program included a talk by Rev. J. E. Lindquist, church pastor, songs by children of the school, greetings and congratulations from officials of the Nebraska district of the Wisconsin Synod and former co-workers of Mrs. Zander and congratulations from Gerald Bruggeman, a former pupil of Mrs. Zander, now a member of the board for Christian education.

A gift of money was presented to Mrs. Zander on behalf of the congregation, Lyle Marot, president of Trinity Lutheran, making the presentation. The money was in a miniature replica of the school made by Bruggeman.

Master of ceremonies for the program was Roland Menk, school principal. Arrangements for the dinner and program were made by Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Bruggeman, Mr. and Mrs. Myron Deck, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Grothe and Menk.

to get an "Editor's Club" certificate for publication of an article.

To qualify for the latter he had to send in an original manuscript ready for publishing. It had to be on a timely subject of interest to Nebraska Personnel and Guidance Association members.

His article appeared in the most recent issue of NPGA News and Views. It was entitled "Let's Go to the Fair," the two-page article telling of the planning, disappointments and final success of the vocational fair held at WES, first of its type in the state, staged and planned by Deissler and attended by over 400.

dition, CAT members—all of them science professors at NSEP member colleges—will visit several universities and colleges noted for their science teaching. CAT's first effort will be devoted to biological sciences.

From its visits CAT plans to suggest better methods and curricula for teaching biological sciences in NSEP institutions—the state colleges, the public junior colleges and the University of Omaha, which was in the program before voter approval of its merger with the University of Nebraska.

Dr. Sutherland said the Curriculum Action Team will meet Apr. 26-27. On May 11 CAT plans another meeting, with NSEP associates and about a dozen high school biology teachers to be selected by the associates. Then on May 17-18 all biology professors in NSEP colleges will gather at Kearney to hear CAT's progress.

over the creek at this point so all traffic will have to go east or west of town to get over the creek.

Grading work is to start approximately May 13 with Thiesen Bros., Osmond, in charge. Concrete paving work will start July 1 with Gerhold Co., Columbus, in charge and base and surfacing work is scheduled to begin July 16 with Dobson Bros., Lincoln, in charge.

Although the highway will be closed, residents living along the highway will be able to get to their farms from the nearest cross road. The east-west roads crossing Highway 15 will be kept open also.

Poehlman said from Clark Street to the bridge concrete 49 feet wide will be put in, this including a 24-foot wide street and integral curb. From the bridge south for 1 3/4 miles, all new grade will be put in and asphaltic-concrete surfacing installed to make a more level and better drained highway.

The remainder of the project will use the existing surfacing as base with a new layer of three-inch asphalt-concrete with typical grading. Plans call for wider shoulders, new ditches and wider right-of-way.

Games of the club Mondays were Rev. H. M. Hillper, John Murphy of Sioux City, Mr. and Mrs. Merton Hilton of Wayne, Juleene Miller of Wayne and Mrs. Richard Miller of Hoskins. The May meeting will be at Trinity Lutheran Church.

Kennedy Notes -

for the Kennedy drive and his visit, were waiting behind the high school when they heard a radio station announce the senator had arrived at the Wayne Auditorium. They almost left even though they knew plans called for the senator to join them in a convertible at the school.

They stayed and learned later it was not the senator who had arrived in downtown Wayne but the bus with newsmen aboard. The senator met them south of WES.

Charles Quinn of NBC-TV had films of the Wayne visit on "The Frank McGee Report" Sunday afternoon on NBC, Wayne, Hartington and Norfolk shared time on Quinn's report on the Kennedy campaign.

Local people on the platform with Sen. Kennedy during his speech were: Ken Olds and Mrs. Sydow, county chairman and vice chairman for the Democratic party; Mayor William Koerber; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ley; and Paul McCluskey.

The Norfolk Daily News said the turnout at Wayne was the largest of any of the crowds in the three towns visited in North-central Nebraska. The Omaha World-Herald said the crowd at Hartington was largest. Charles Quinn of NBC-TV said the crowd in Wayne was impressive.

Possible reason for some estimating there were more McCarthy placards than Kennedy placards was the fact Kennedy for President officials in Wayne County had asked those with placards not to hold them up during the senator's speech. Prior to the speech there were quite a lot more Kennedy placards than McCarthy placards.

In this county where Democrats are outnumbered 2-1 by Republicans, the Kennedy forces and the county Democratic officials were well-pleased with the large turnout and extremely pleased with the polite and often enthusiastic response to the talk.

Sen. Kennedy could be seen on TV campaigning in Indiana farming areas the first of the week, his speech being almost identical to the one here. Newsmen with the Kennedy party said it had been pretty much the same speech everywhere but they kept ears peeled for any significant changes.

After the appearance when the senator was leaving in a convertible, many pushed forward to touch his hands. He seemed willing, but his personal bodyguard had to hold on tight to keep him from falling as people touched his hands. The senator also reached out to greet as many as possible as he moved to and from the convertible and from the platform before and after his speech.

Apparently tired after returning to Norfolk from Hartington, the senator jogged around at the Norfolk airport accompanied by his dog. It was about dusk and he just seemed to want to get away from it all.

A group of adults and children gathered at the spur into Winside on Highway 35 to watch the Kennedy motorcade go by. The motorcade stopped so the senator could greet the small group. Chicken salad was a feature at that stop, but it was not known where that had come from.

Rain fell Saturday morning but clouds cleared away a little after noon and it was a generally pleasant day by the time the presidential hopeful spoke.

RFK Says -

for Nebraska's farmers than any other candidate, adding that he would challenge any other candidate to match his record by primary day. "Let's not just have talk, let's have action," Kennedy said.

After coming from Los Angeles, San Francisco and the congested East, the senator said he found nervous rural country with smaller towns in the heart of America and was pleased and proud to be in the area.

He offered a word of praise for the states that have primary elections, noting that in some states the politicians make the decisions in regard to candidates with the people having little voice in the matter. "I have to do well in the state of Nebraska to win now," he added.

Kennedy asked for the help of "you people as I run for president of the United States." When this was greeted with applause, he stopped and asked: "Do you really think it was that good?" Applause was the answer.

He touched on the problems that face the nation in a time of concern when 2,000 federal troops had to be called out in Washington to preserve order, a reflection on all of us. He said as attorney general 3 1/2 years he knows the importance of obedience and if he is elected he will make sure laws will be obeyed.

According to the senator, people want justice for all, black, white and other colors, in this country. They call for law enforcement but they also call for justice, he continued.

Justice for the farmers is also wanted. Sen. Kennedy referred to the farmer as the forgotten man. Thousands have left the farm; income for farmers is down 5 per cent when the national gross is up; farmers receive 50 per cent of the pay workers in industries do; farmers are the backbone of the nation; and farmers need a voice in the executive branch as well as the legislative branch.

Sen. Kennedy said the farmer has purchasing power the same as he had in 1936, but economic conditions were bad then and good now. He said the focus of attention is too much in the urban areas and some forget that what affects rural areas affects all.

Looking ahead, he said the next 40 years this nation will need to build as many schools, hospitals and other institutions as it already has. Because of this, rural towns have to attract industry as rural areas must prosper along with urban ones. Kennedy said if he would be elected, he could help, acting on problems in cities AND rural areas.

Referring to the situation in Vietnam as a "made in America war," he said it was a war of South Vietnam and we cannot win it for them but we can help. He said USA casualties are on the rise and SVN casualties are declining. "This is their war," he emphasized, "they should carry the burden, not the American army and marines."

He spoke of corruption in the South Vietnam government and asked why general mobilization has not been called for yet. "Why spend billions and send our boys when they refuse to call general mobilization?" he asked. He concluded on this topic by saying only one-third of our dollars reach the intended use because of corruption and he thought we should go to the negotiation table and bring about an "honorable truce to bring our soldiers home."

The senator said the nation has to be strong. He pointed out how this had paid off in the Berlin and Cuba crises, in the latter the Russians withdrawing missiles from Cuba.

Finally, he touched on the need for jobs instead of welfare and the need for employment and meaningful pay. He said Nebraskans were generous, courageous and compassionate people and that's why "I ask for your support in the primary." He pledged to work for a better Nebraska, better Midwest and better USA if elected.

Following his talk he moved through the throng to the convertible and with police escort moved out to Hartington. From there he went back to Norfolk and then flew to Washington before getting into Indiana to campaign the first of this week.

Tour State Facilities

Rhonda Hansen and Jean Thomas accompanied Mrs. Mary Ann Cottrell, school nurse, to Omaha and Lincoln Thursday and Friday to learn about careers dealing with mental retardation. They visited the Nebraska Psychiatric Institute, Omaha, and heard lectures. In Lincoln they visited the Center for Outlying Education and heard talks by some of the state's leaders in the psychiatric field. Research areas were toured in both cities.

Two Area Girls Get Frosh Nursing Caps

Lorraine Summers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Sumners, Wayne, and Rhonda Olson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Olson, Wakefield, were among 38 freshmen receiving their nurse's caps at St. Joseph Mercy School of Nursing in Sioux City Sunday, Apr. 21.

Both of the girls are 1967 graduates of Wayne High School. Parents of the girls and other guests were present for the capping ritual at Cathedral of Epiphany Church.

Father Lawrence McCarthy, assistant pastor of the church, was principal speaker. Open house was held at the school of nursing prior to the capping ceremony.

'Battle of Placards' Won by RFK Over Eugene McCarthy Supporters

There were placards aplenty at the gathering for Sen. Robert Kennedy's speech in Wayne Saturday. RFK won in numbers but the Eugene McCarthy supporters got in their licks and there was even one youth with a Republican placard.

Here are some of the slogans on the Kennedy cards: "Sox It To 'em Baby! RFK for a New Day, Bobby Is New America! All the Way with RFK! Nebraska Needs Bobby. Kennedy for a New Day; Kennedy; Bobby Go; Our Key to Success... Kennedy; The Farmer Needs a Friend; Bobby Is Best; Hooray for RFK; Nebraskans Are for Kennedy; We thought it over every day and graduated to RFK; RFK the Only Way; Bobby, Wayne Needs You; A New Man for a New Age RFK; RFK One for All; Kennedy Is '68; Hope for America - Bobby Our Man; RFK, He's Great; and Babylon, New York Will Elect RFK.

McCarthy signs seen were: "We're here for Gene; McCarthy Is No Opportunist; McCarthy '68; Win With Gene; Where Were You When We Needed You? McCarthy Was There; Gene Was There When We Needed Him.

The sole GOP placard seen said: RFK Does Not Get Support from All Young People. On the reverse side was a big elephant with "GOP" on the sides.

While many has pushed many animals back into wilderness areas, the red fox actually prefers to dwell near farmlands or suburbs.

 Everyone was happy to see the rain, even the Democrats. In fact, farmers couldn't get into the fields so no matter what their affiliation in politics they came to town to see Sen. R. F. "Bobby" Kennedy. Offhand we'd say the coming of the rain was a bigger boost to the area than the coming of Kennedy, but don't you Democrats get riled up now because we think the rain was a bigger boost than a visit by Nixon would have been too!

'Operation Hello' Story Told at Lions Club Meeting Proves Fascinating One

Hugh Tinley of Farmers National Co., Omaha, had an interesting story to tell Wayne Lions Club members and a few others who came for his talk following the Lions meeting Tuesday night. He proved to be a capable speaker, able to "have them rolling in the aisles" one moment and getting lumps in their throats the next.
 Tinley's subject was "Operation Hello," mainly supported by the 2,800 farms the firm manages. The operators allow deductions to be made monthly from the farm income to pay for calls from servicemen in Vietnam to their parents, wives or sweethearts in the United States. He gave the background of ham operators first, telling of the fun and relaxation the hobby is and then how the service can be used in time of emergencies. He said the hams who call Vietnam pay their own way after buying their own equipment and get no pay for as much as six hours a day at the shortwave sets.
 Messages are beamed over Red China and Siberia to Omaha and then calls are placed long distance by commercial telephone to points all over the country. This is done free of charge to those on the phones but it really costs—the phone bill for warding experience, Tinley said. He got his start on this type of work ten years ago after the Korean war when he "hooked up" with marines in Okinawa. Then the shortwave messages would be received, the parents called collect and no one had to pay at Omaha.

 Seven years ago more were wounded in Vietnam so the navy recognized the service and authorized Tinley to make casualty calls from those injured taken to hospitals in Okinawa. He felt guilty about calling people collect or calls of such a nature so Downtown Lions Club, Omaha, was contacted and they offered help.
 Passing the hat did not cover the service long as too many wounded were wanting to call, Station WOW stepped in with financial help but still the project grew. Chamber of Commerce and businessmen started accepting calls on their bills but it even grew too big for that. Calls were now going direct to Vietnam. In 1966 Farmers National Co. approached its 2,800 clients with the idea of each accepting so many calls a month. The response was overwhelming and that firm's clients have taken care of costs since, some accepting up to $50 a month added on their telephone bills.

 Besides Tinley, there are two more shortwave operators in Omaha providing the service. One is a husband-wife team and the other is a former air force man now paralyzed who gets a lot of pleasure out of doing the work and is in rehabilitation at the same time.
 So important is the service, the military has assigned special frequencies on two channels of Military Airways Service. Letters come from all over the country praising Operation Hello and only those in Vietnam or those at home who have talked to them in Vietnam know how much such calls mean.
 The trouble is, atmospheric conditions limit calls to about six hours a day. But the Omaha shortwave operators put in seven days a week and as many hours as possible on such calls and they enjoy every moment of it.
 It was a fascinating story Tinley had to tell, one which should be heard by millions.

MUSK THISTLE SITUATION ... NEBRASKA - 1968

Deadline for Musk Thistle Spray Cost-Sharing Will Be Next Month

Wayne County farmers are reminded that May 1 is the deadline to apply for cost-sharing under the ACP musk thistle spraying plan. Applications for cost-sharing for spraying thistles with recommended chemicals on pasture land must be in by the first of next month.
 Farmers should check with county offices regarding possible sharing. Signup commits farmers to a five-year program of spot spraying and possible control by hand methods of scattered musk thistles after the initial mass spraying in spring and fall.
 Farmers are aware of the need for the program after the start on getting rid of the noxious weed. In some counties it is a mopping up operation while in others there is considerable work to be done.
 Musk thistles can ruin pastures for grazing and farmers are urged to help themselves and their neighbors by getting rid of the weed. One plant can produce 10,000 or more wind-blown seeds so general acceptance of responsibility by each farmer is desired.
 Authorities in Wayne County point out that musk thistle seeds can lay dormant for several years before germinating. Sprouting of seeds from plants missed last year can bring chagrin to farm operators who viewed thistle-free pasture tracts last fall.
 Despite temporary setbacks, a lot of progress in control and eradication has been made due to intensive cooperative efforts in 70 counties last year. The map gives an idea of where the problem is the greatest, Wayne County being among those in this area indicated as having a moderate problem but one worth taking care of to keep it from becoming a heavily infested area again.

TYPICAL BOYS, these are choir members from Boys Town. They are shown helping themselves to homemade food following the concert Sunday afternoon in the Wayne City Auditorium. Wayne County Historical Society furnished the food.

Thousands Miss Boys Town Choir

A choir that has drawn thousands in concerts throughout this nation and will go to Japan to sing this year drew less than 200 in Wayne City Auditorium Sunday. The concert was a benefit for the Wayne County Historical Society but failed to draw for some reason. The boys, undaunted by the empty seats, sang with enthusiasm and skill. They look like boys who should be out playing baseball but they sing like professionals. Choir members appeared in three different outfits. First they wore choir robes, then cream and blue jacket and slacks outfits and finally their traveling clothes. The first songs were Catholic hymns, all difficult and beautiful. Without a doubt, the more familiar of the two "Ave Maria" songs was the crowd favorite, although applause was withheld until each group of songs was finished. In the second group, the song "The Waltz" by Johann Strauss was a favorite, the soft and clipped tones being especially pleasing to the ear. "London-derry Air" and "April Wakens Love" were other songs in the group representing tunes from six countries. The final group consisted of American songs. The melody from "Oklahoma" was a sure-hit, but equally beautiful were

"Deep River," "Summer Time" and "Make Believe."

Following the concert the members of the WCHS served luncheon to the boys, their director, their adult sponsors, Accompanist John Hall and the bus driver.

Allen Musicians Gain 15 Superior Ratings in District Music Contest

Todd Tucker, music teacher who came to Allen at mid-term after the school had gone without a music instructor for many weeks, brought credit upon himself, his pupils and the school this past week when musicians from Allen High School garnered 15 superior ratings at the district music contest in Wayne. The school had 21 entries, the other six all getting ratings of "excellent." This record was one of the top achievements by any school in any class in the district judging.
Rating superior were the following: Boys glee club, girls glee club; woodwind choir; brass choir; boys quartet, Ron Kraemer, Tom Maggart, Bruce Linafelter; saxophone quartet, Paul Calvert, Dan Heckman, Doug Witte, Curt Wheeler;

Nancy Swanson, bass clarinet; Jill Fahrenholz, bass clarinet; Paul Calvert, saxophone; Jeanine Enry, trumpet; Kathy Cedeno, soprano; Debbie Jones, soprano; Brian Linafelter, bass; Ron Kraemer, tenor; Bruce Linafelter, trombone.
Rating excellent were: Band; chorus; Mike Ellis, trumpet; Jean Serven, soprano; Elaine Snyder, flute; Deb Menkens, piano.

Grant Aids Concord Station in Research

The University of Nebraska agronomy department has received a grant-in-aid from Terra Chemicals International, Sioux City, for support of allied research into the effect of fertilizer on pastures to increase carrying capacity for livestock. Most research will be at North-east Station, Concord.

Dr. W. J. Moline, NU extension agronomist, said the grant, first ever from the company, will enable a study of pastureland in this part of the state where upgrading of pasture has a potential of increasing profits for farmers by expanding efficient beef production.

Ten plots on cropland of co-operating farms will be used to show the effect of varying amounts of nitrogen and phosphate on bromegrass, reed canarygrass and warm season pastures. Moline and Gene Schwartz, area agronomist at Concord, will have charge.

The grant will help support other research in pasture fertility and management in the eastern half of the state. Terra, NU and TVA will support the work.
