This sport can be relaxing, taking you from life's pressures and at the same time exciting when you feel that tug at the end of the line. So gather Mom, Dad and the children and try your luck. When Mom prepares the fish with the recipes below you'll all take pride in the catch. Remember, fish is cooked when it flakes easily when touched with a fork.

Baked Large Pike

Fish on The Grill

Fish Fillets Florentine

TARTAR SAUCE

- | | |
|---|--------------------------|
| 1 cup mayonnaise | 1 tablespoon parsley |
| 2 tablespoons minced old fashioned pickle | 1 teaspoon minced thyme |
| 1 tablespoon minced onion | 1 teaspoon tarragon |
| 1 tablespoon lemon juice | ¼ teaspoon dill |
| | 4 tablespoons sour cream |

Add pickle, onion, lemon juice, parsley, thyme, tarragon, and dill to mayonnaise. Shortly before serving, fold in 4 tablespoons dairy sour cream.

FISH ON THE GRILL

Whole Fish Grilled in Foil

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1 to 3-pound fish, cleaned, head and tail removed | Salt and pepper |
| Margarine | Fresh tarragon, parsley, dill, thyme, rosemary |
| 1 medium onion, sliced thin | |

Tear off a suitable size piece of heavy-duty aluminum foil. Spread a little margarine in center of foil and arrange several onion slices on it. Place the fish over onion slices. Sprinkle opening in fish with salt and pepper. Arrange remaining onion slices and herbs over fish. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and dot with margarine. Bring foil up over fish, sealing edges with a double fold. Seal both ends with double fold. Place on grate over medium hot fire. Cook about 30 to 45 minutes, turning two or three times. To serve, transfer foil with fish to a serving dish. Fish may be lifted right off the bones. Serve with softened margarine to which chopped parsley and lemon juice have been added.

Fish Fillets in Foil

- | | |
|------------------------------|--------------|
| 6 or more small fish fillets | Onion slices |
| Melted margarine | Lemon slices |

Dip fish fillets in melted margarine and roll up each one. Have ready squares of heavy foil. Place one or two rolled fillets in center of each square. Add a very thin lemon slice and 1 or 2 slices of onion. Season with salt and pepper. Seal the foil to make a tight package. Place over a medium hot fire on the grate and cook about 20 minutes, turning 1 or 2 times. Each person may be served a package, or turn back foil and arrange packages on a large heat-proof platter. Serve with Tartar Sauce.

CRIMSON GLAZE (good on broiled fish)

- | | |
|-------------------------|----------------------------------|
| 4 tablespoons catsup | 1 tablespoon India pickle relish |
| 3 tablespoons margarine | |

Combine and heat until margarine melts. When fish is done, glaze top and place under broiler till sauce spreads evenly over fish.

- | | |
|---|--|
| ½ cup medium-chopped onion | ¼ teaspoon sage |
| 4-ounce can mushrooms, medium chopped | ½ teaspoon mace |
| 2 tablespoons margarine | ½ cup water |
| 1 inner-seal packet premium saltine crackers, coarsely crumbled | 2 10-ounce packages frozen chopped spinach, thawed and drained |
| ¼ teaspoon pepper | 4 fish fillets (Black Bass or Walleye Pike) |

Saute onions and mushrooms in margarine until onions are golden brown. Combine with cracker crumbs. Add pepper, sage, mace and water. Blend well. Spread spinach in an even layer over the fillets. Next spread stuffing mixture over the spinach layer. Roll carefully, securing roll with toothpicks if necessary. Bake in moderately hot oven (400°F.) about 25 minutes or until fish flakes easily with a fork. Serve with broiled tomatoes topped with cracker crumbs.

BAKED LARGE PIKE

(This is an excellent way to prepare a large fish and to avoid the necessity of cutting the fish when serving it)

Remove scales, clean the fish, and remove head and tail and fins. Cut the fish through into 2 to 3-inch-wide pieces, according to the size of the fish. Stand each piece so that the opening is on top. Season with salt and pepper and fill with a bread dressing seasoned with onion, celery and a little sage or poultry seasoning. Close the opening and secure with toothpick or skewer. Line a large pan with heavy duty aluminum foil. Pour tomato sauce on the foil to a depth of about ¼ inch. Arrange the fish over this and top each serving with additional tomato sauce and a strip of bacon. Cover loosely with a second sheet of heavy foil, securing it by crimping to the foil in the bottom of the pan. Place in 375° oven and bake for 1 hour. Remove the foil and continue baking until fish and bacon are lightly browned and the fish can be flaked with a fork. Serve with delicious tomato sauce that forms in the pan.

MELON SURPRISE (Cool Summer Luncheon)

- 1 large, ripe honeydew melon
- 1 cup (8 to 9-ounce can) crushed pineapple
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- Water
- 1 3-ounce package lime-flavored gelatin
- 1½ cups cottage cheese
- 1 cup fresh strawberries (halved if large)
- GARNISH
- 1 3-ounce package cream cheese
- 1 tablespoon milk or cream
- Salad greens

Peel melon, slice about 1½ inches off top and set aside; scoop out seeds. Cut a thin slice off bottom so melon can stand upright. Refrigerate while preparing gelatin. Drain pineapple, reserving syrup; add lemon juice and enough water to give 1 cup. Heat liquid to boiling and pour over lime-flavored gelatin, stirring until dissolved. Chill until jelly-like in consistency. Fold in pineapple, cottage cheese and strawberries. Drain melon, if necessary (juice can be stirred into gelatin mixture). Turn gelatin into melon and remainder into salad molds, which have been rinsed in cold water (number will depend on size of melon). Replace top of melon and chill along with molds until firm. For Garnish, blend cream cheese with milk until smooth. Pipe through a pastry tube, or use a spoon to garnish melon. Serve on salad greens surrounded by individual salads and assorted fresh fruits. Prepare assorted fruits ahead and toss in ascorbic acid mixture solution to keep from browning. Solution: For each 2 cups of cut-up fruit use 1 teaspoon ascorbic acid mixture and 2 tablespoons water. Cut fruit directly into the liquid solution and toss well to coat each slice.

BANANA GELATIN DESSERT

SPICY PEACH

PARTY CRANBERRY SALAD

All sorts of dishes and pans can serve as molds for gelatine. True, for gala occasions, it's nice to have special decorative molds, but it is also fun to see how ingenious you can be. For example, use muffin pans, cake pans, ice cube trays, empty coffee cans or small frozen fruit juice cans, custard cups, mixing bowls, even paper cups. To unmold salad just dip mold in warm (not hot!) water to the depth of the gelatine mixture. Count to four slowly. Take out of water and loosen around edge with tip of a paring knife. Rinse serving plate in cold water and place on top of mold. Hold tight! Turn mold and plate upside down. Shake mold gently, and lift up carefully. Or you don't have to unmold it. Make it in a pretty bowl, or in individual dishes or sherbet glasses, which may be brought right to the table. Mold it in a shallow square or rectangular pan, then cut in cubes or fancy shapes. Use a knife or cookie cutter, and keep dipping it in warm water. Lift out pieces with a broad, thin-bladed server.

PIQUANT EMERALD RELISH

|---------------------------------|------------------------------------|
| 1 package lime-flavored gelatin | Dash of pepper |
| 1/4 teaspoon salt | 1/2 teaspoon grated onion |
| 1 cup hot water | 2 tablespoons prepared horseradish |
| 1/4 cup cold water | 2 cups drained chopped cucumber |
| 1/4 cup vinegar | |
| 1/4 teaspoon salt | |

Dissolve gelatin and 1/4 teaspoon salt in hot water. Add cold water and vinegar. Chill. Add 1/4 teaspoon salt, pepper, onion and horseradish to cucumber. When gelatin is slightly thickened, fold in cucumber mixture. Pour into small molds. Chill until firm. Unmold. Serve with fish. Makes 12 relish molds.

SPICY PEACH SALAD

- | | |
|---------------------------------------|----------------------------------|
| 1 cup syrup from canned cling peaches | Few grains salt |
| 1/4 cup vinegar | 1 package lemon-flavored gelatin |
| 1/4 cup brown sugar (packed) | 6 canned cling peaches |
| 1 teaspoon whole cloves | Salad greens |
| 1 (3-inch) stick cinnamon | Cranberry Dressing |

Combine syrup, vinegar, sugar, spices and salt. Simmer 10 minutes. Strain syrup, measure and add hot water to make 2 cups liquid. Dissolve gelatin in it. Cool until slightly thickened. Arrange peaches in shallow pan (about 6 x 9-inches) and pour gelatin over them. Chill until firm. Cut into squares and serve on salad greens. Serve with Cranberry Dressing.

Cranberry Dressing

- | | |
|-----------------------------|------------------------------------|
| 1 cup whole cranberry sauce | 1/2 cup chopped California walnuts |
| 2 tablespoons lemon juice | |
- Blend all ingredients together.

BANANA GELATIN SALAD

- | | |
|----------------------------------|----------------|
| 1 package fruit flavored gelatin | 2 ripe bananas |
|----------------------------------|----------------|

Dissolve gelatin according to package directions. Chill until slightly thickened. Peel bananas and slice. Partly fill 1 pint-size mold with thickened gelatin. Arrange banana slices in the mold. Fill mold with remaining slightly thickened gelatin. Chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with additional slices of ripe banana. To keep banana from turning brown dissolve 1 teaspoon ascorbic acid mixture with 2 tablespoons water. Cut bananas directly into the liquid solution, and toss well to coat each slice.

FAMILY FISHIN'

Encircled by the confining space of a ten-foot rowboat, a family fishing expedition has all the intriguing aspects of a family picnic or a day at the beach, plus some antics peculiar to fishin' fun in a family way.

Father, accustomed ordinarily to fishing in lonely solitude, will suddenly find himself captain of an enthusiastically complex organization.

He will discover that wiggly worms make mother shudder, while kids have a fascinating tendency to wander with nonchalant sure-footedness regardless of their surroundings.

Though there may be enough poles for everybody, he (and he alone) is expected to reworm all hooks waved in front of his nose.

Events, confined to such a small space, will find father putting his foot in the lunchbox, the tacklebox, and on the dog's tail in rapid succession.

Few fish will be caught and quiet will never reign for long, but everybody has fun and there are no complaints—except by junior when it's time to go home.

6. Surprise catch—mama's slacks—brings a startled scream of protest guaranteed to spook any fish in the vicinity. But no matter—

3. Off-shore uncertainties are reflected in the kids' faces when they discover they are a whole ten feet from solid ground. "Dad-deee — don't rock the boat!"

4. Anchorage at the fishing hole finds father busy worming all poles while mother keeps an eye on the kids. "Where's all the fish? — we wanna SEE some fish, we do!"

5. A forest of fish-poles, activated by a dropping leaf or a faint splash brings the fish-poles whipping rythmically from one end of the boat to the other.

7. Attention will be focused on the fact that one fish-pole between two children will never produce peace and quiet.

9. Rowing lesson brings out father's ability as a coxswain, even though he finds himself in a circle of confusion trying to separate oars and children.

8. Lunchtime brings a rush to the vittles, upsetting any plans father may have had for latching on to a stray fish.

10. Sudden urge for a drink of water is aggravated when boat grounds on submerged obstacle, emphasizing it's time for a brief journey ashore.

11. End of fishing voyage brings out a rash of blankets. The long row home will be enlivened by Junior's loud protests — "I wanna fish some more!"

Professional rodeo long has been identified with the West and Southwest. Among family farms of the Midwest, however, the horse trailer pulled behind a car or pickup truck only recently has attracted attention.

The rodeo circuit is long, hot, and dusty. Contestants and their families must be mobile and hardy. Orrville, Ohio, cowboy Bill Cunningham, a director of the Midwest Cowboys' Association, reports that some cowboys wear out a car or pickup truck each year, towing a horse trailer on the rodeo circuit. He drove 40,000 miles in the 1967 rodeo season.

What kind of men are rodeo cowboys in the Midwest? Generally, they are not farmers, although most live on small farms in rural areas, says Cunningham. He notes that no single occupation is typical of a rodeo contestant. Nearly all cowboys have jobs which allow them to schedule long summer vacations.

Rodeo offers some financial incentives for a top cowboy. Each participant in an event pays a $10-$50 entry fee. These fees are added to a purse provided by the rodeo sponsor. The total is then divided five or six ways. The winner of a rodeo event usually wins $150.

A successful cowboy probably will win $2000-$2500 in a summer season. The top money-winner in the MCA (the "All-Around Cowboy") may win approximately $5000.

The MCA will not allow its members to participate in a "Wild West Show." Bad checks and participation in a "Wild West Show" may cause expulsion from a rodeo association. Rodeo cowboys believe that their competitive sport is threatened by "Wild West Shows" which use paid performers, pay no prizes and use the same livestock at each performance, says Cunningham.

The livestock used at a rodeo probably will not be found at a neighbor's farm. Stock contractors who provide livestock for use in rodeos often buy Brahma or part-Brahma bulls and cross or unbroken horses in the West and Southwest. Approximately 15-20 calves, the same number of bucking horses, 10-12 steers, and an equal number of bulls will be needed at a single rodeo.

A stock contractor will transport several semi-trailer loads of animals hundreds of miles to a typical rodeo; he will receive approximately $1800-$2000 for three rodeo performances. Most stock can be used only five or six times during a season or it will not perform well.

Rodeo is an expensive hobby; travel expenses are only part of the story. A novice cowboy can not expect to perform well with an inexperienced horse; the price of a horse good enough to compete well in a rodeo will begin at $1000, says Cunningham.

How then can an aspiring cowboy get a start? He learns the ropes by buying "a good horse to learn on" which, according to Cunningham, is a horse with at least five years of rodeo experience. The horse is not quick enough to win consistently at a rodeo, but it is experienced and dependable and can teach the cowboy the fundamentals, Cunningham stresses.

ELLY MAY CLAMPETT OF THE BEVERLY HILLBILLIES

by Irving Wallace

To you she's Elly May Clampett of the Beverly Hillbillies . . . to her Hollywood friends she's Donna Douglas, but back home in Baywood, Louisiana she's still Doris Smith.

As you know, the program remains up front among the most popular television shows. It is being exhibited in many foreign countries, and wherever necessary the native language is dubbed in. It's a scream to hear Japanese coming from Granny—in perfect sync with her lips.

Donna Douglas is a deeply religious young woman wanting no part of being a sex symbol. Her religion is all-important in her life . . . it's why she has not accepted sexy roles in motion pictures.

In high school Donna became a cheerleader and started collecting beauty crowns—carnival queen, football queen and many others. After winning Miss Baton Rouge and Miss New Orleans crowns she headed for New York City where she occasionally found small parts on television shows. Producer Hal Wallis saw one, invited her to Hollywood, changed her name, and she appeared in several motion pictures.

Nothing startling happened. She had spent much time trying to erase her cornpone drawl. When producer-writer Paul Henning asked her if she could handle the Elly May role, she answered, "I sure can! It's just like my own life."

She had to recover her southern accent for the series.

In the face of sneers from critics, the program became the number one show in audience rating. It meant instant fame for Donna. The columnists referred to her as a new Harlow, Monroe and Bardot built all in one. All in the industry agreed she was the most valuable piece of property in show business. One column referred to her as having more curves than a goat path.

The series debuted in the fall of 1962. Now, six years later, Donna Douglas, of the big blue eyes and blonde hair, is still a lot more like Elly May than a Hollywood sex symbol. It turned out that she was wanting no part of sexpot roles. To many, it was difficult to understand. But not to Donna.

Here she was, a small-town girl, with a teen-age marriage and a divorce behind her, a young son to support, and no special training to augment her ambition.

Thrust suddenly into the limelight after bit parts, many thought she would be eager for the fame and money that go along with a sex symbol role. Many predicted the Elly May role and the Beverly Hillbillies program would soon fade away.

But Donna Douglas prayed to be guided, and with steadfast faith, she continued on in the Elly May part, turning down flattering financial offers, and lived quietly, almost austere, with few headlines, no romantic entanglements, none of the excitement with which the other type of characterization is inevitably surrounded. Her life is centered in her son, her religion, and her work. There is no room for a flamboyant life. She lives in a small apartment and drives an inexpensive car.

"Show business does not have to be the rat race many people make of it," she explained. Donna is ambitious, certainly, but for dramatic roles, rather than Harlow type parts.

"Once you open the door to self-improvement, you find self-discipline develops easily," Donna explained. "You also find that there is a small, still voice inside of you that leads you toward doing what is right. That voice is called a conscience. And the more you become associated with it, the more harmonious your life becomes. It's so simple, too! If you listen to the voice it becomes stronger and guides you always. If you ignore it, it becomes weaker and weaker until you eventually can't hear it."

The director on the set barks, "One more take," and Donna smooths out her costume of blue jeans and a faded flannel shirt. She tightens her rope belt. Again in character, it is Elly May rushing back before the cameras to help complete another Beverly Hillbillies film episode that would soon be seen by some 35,000,000 Americans and eventually by that many more in foreign countries.

Dedication Rites Sunday For New Wakefield Church

Eighty-five years in the same church ended Sunday, May 5, when members and friends of the First Christian church of Wakefield dedicated their new $95,000 church complex. Merle Ring, president of the board of elders, accepted the keys for the new building from Walter Goodman of Goodman Church Builders, Joplin, Mo.

Mr. Goodman also gave the dedication address, stating that the new church was a tool to be used for study, preaching and Christian fellowship. Mr. Goodman was originally a building contractor, who entered the ministry. Later, at the urging of friends, he re-entered the construction business to build churches.

The First Christian Church of Wakefield was organized in 1884, and then moved into a new church in 1886. Services have been held in the original structure since that time although the original building was remodeled twice, once in 1919 and again in 1963, to keep pace with the growing congregation.

Plans for the new church were formulated in 1965, and the new building was completed in May of this year. The new church retains the church bell presented to the congregation in 1885, and will continue to call worshippers to the new church.

The new church will seat over 450 people and features a 240-seat auditorium, a nursery and multipurpose rooms that allow 15 separate classes to be held at the same time. The structure is also completely carpeted and air-conditioned, and has a public-address system which is connected to each room in the building.

"The Watchmen" provided special music for the dedication, and are also conducting services in the new church every evening this week. The services feature an amateur pro-service concert from 7:45-9 p.m., and an evangelistic service of gospel singing and speaking at 8 p.m.

"The Watchmen" are a singing group of some renown, having recorded five albums of gospel singing hymns. The quartet has been singing together for 11 years, beginning at Nebraska Christian College in Norfolk, and continuing up until the present time.

Members of "The Watchmen" are Duane King, Norfolk, Neb.; Harold McCracken, Boulder, Colo.; Bob Chitwood, Griswold, Ia.; and Prof. Lowell Burkum, Norfolk. Prof. Burkum also composes religious music, and conducts "The Choraleers," a singing group at Nebraska Christian College.

Over 1,100 people attended the three dedication day services.

Mrs. Julia Haas soon will be knocking on doors again as she starts to take the annual school census for Wayne City schools.

State law requires that each year the school district count noses of children under age 21 to get a count of school-age or below school age children.

The figures are used to determine projections for state aid needs, future enrollments, migration trends in and out of schools, urban area growth patterns and other factors.

So, when Mrs. Haas knocks, she's not there as a saleslady—she's just doing a job for the school district.

Only Minor Calls On Police Books

The police beat has been relatively quiet in recent days with only minor calls.

Friday they were called to investigate a license plate stolen from a parked motorcycle and Saturday two dog complaints helped fill the docket.

One dog could not be located after the complaint was made, but in the other case the dog's owner was located and ordered to leash and license his pet.

Monday saw complaints of malicious mischief committed on a car during a wedding and a minor auto accident.

The accident occurred in front of the post office when Lorna Splitterber backed into a vehicle owned by the I-H Sales and Service while she was attempting to drive away from a parallel parking spot.

O. K. Kittelson Home 'Invaded' by Navy

Navy blue was the predominant color at the O. K. Kittelson home in Laurel last weekend as their two sons, Bob and Bill and other members of the Kittelson family gathered for a reunion. Both Bob and Bill are career men in the navy. Bill has served for seven years, and Bob has spent nine years in the service.

Bob, whose rank is EN1 (SS), is a recruiter stationed at Waterbury, La. Prior to that time he served as a submariner aboard the USS Barracuda. The Barracuda's home port is Key West, Fla.

Bill is a torpedoman, TM-2 (SSN), serving aboard the nuclear-powered USS Greenling out of New London, Conn. Bill is also a member of the Golden Dragons, an elite club made up of men who have crossed the point where the equator and the international date line intersect.

Between the two men, there are few places in the world they have not seen. Bob, during his cruises on the Barracuda, traveled extensively in the Caribbean area. Bill has visited Hawaii, Hong Kong, and many other ports on the other side of the world.

SEEING EACH OTHER for the first time in two years were the Kittelson brothers, Bob and Bill, sons of Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Kittelson, Laurel. Bill (right) decided that he could top his father in a beard-growing contest. In order to grow the beard, navy regulations required that he keep the beard for at least six months. His father is growing his beard for Laurel's 75th birthday celebration this year. (Photo by Ron Anderson)

Another son of the Kittelsons, Larry, is now under fire from his recruiter-brother, and plans to enlist in the navy this fall.

Attending the weekend gathering honoring the two brothers were Mr. and Mrs. Gary George and daughter, Cedar Rapids, Ia.; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Nurro and son, Cedar Rapids, Ia.; Jane Hlock, Charles City, Ia.; and Maureen Keenan, Boston, Mass.

Local Youths Win Dist. Speech Honors

Two Wayne area 4-11 members distinguished themselves at the District III Timely Topic Speaking contest held May 4 at Norfolk, by taking home blue ribbons for their orations.

Ed Bull, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Bull, Wayne, received a blue ribbon for his speech, which was titled "Modern Mutil 4-11ers."

Mary Pat Finn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Finn, Carroll, also received a blue ribbon for her speech, "The Good Universal Ideal Organization."

Both of the young speakers also received a ball point pen from K'AB in Omaha in addition to the blue ribbons.

The pair competed against entries from 13 other Northeast Nebraska counties to capture the ribbons for Wayne county.

We're glad it's over.

We're glad the telephone strike is over. And we know the men and women of Northwestern Bell feel the same way. All 25,000 of them.

The supervisory and other telephone people who remained on the job did their best to provide service, and generally it was good service. We're very proud of the job they did.

But we were not able to do some parts of our service job as promptly as we would have liked. And we're sorry for any inconvenience the strike may have caused you.

Meeting fully the needs of our customers for high-quality telephone service is a job that requires many kinds of skill and experience and the working together of our full force.

Now that the strike is over and telephone employees are back on their jobs, we're moving quickly to provide all our customers with the best service possible.

To all telephone users— a warm "Thank you".

The patience and cooperation shown by everyone during the strike was outstanding and we are grateful for this help.

When you need an Ambulance a call anywhere else will only have to be relayed to this number and will cost precious time.

"I GET TIRED GOING AROUND PAYING BILLS"

"YOU'RE ALL MIXED UP. YOU NEED A CHECKING ACCOUNT"

Why get tired or confused, when bank checks are tireless and the last word in orderliness? Who ever heard of a Checking Account complaining because there were too many payments to make! All you have to do is write checks and mail them. We do the rest. It takes about a minute to write a check, and another minute to address and seal an envelope to convey the check to the payee. If you make 30 payments a month, that's about an hour. Contrast that with paying in person. If this makes sense, come in and start your Checking Account.

Still Need Address For Roger Escritt

Some information has been received on Roger Escritt whose name was drawn last week as a SWAY winner. Carroll Postmaster John Rethwisch called in to tell The Herald that Roger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Escritt, moved to Hardy, Nebraska in 1963.

He had no further information so SWAY still needs to know where Roger is stationed. His letter containing the check, however, was forwarded through the Selective Service office.

If that effort is successful, Escritt's address should be learned soon.

'Moonlight and Roses' Theme of AHS Prom

Allen High Juniors and seniors dined under a tent of stars Saturday evening, May 4, as they enjoyed their annual junior-senior prom. The stars were in keeping with the theme of this year's prom, "Moonlight and Roses."
Kathy Geddes, accompanied by Cindy Ellis, provided the music for the evening, singing two numbers, "Moon River," and "Take a Chance."
Bob Anderson acted as master of ceremonies for the program following the banquet. Linda Rasmussen, president of the junior class welcomed the seniors on behalf of the junior class, and Wayne Rasmussen, president of the senior class, responded for the seniors. Jerry Schroeder of the junior class then related "true" incidents about each member of the senior class.

In decorating for the prom this year, covering the dining area was a tent of blue and white crepe paper. A large moon and stars hung overhead. A garden at the east end of the gym completed the decorations. It featured a well with an old oaken bucket, benches and a pool of gold fish. A dance featuring the "Stages" of Sloux City, and a movie in Wayne completed the evening's entertainment.
