Deadline for Loans

On '67 Crops June 30

Requests for loans on 1967-crop soybeans, corn and grain sorghum will be accepted until the end of June, according to ASCS offices in Wayne. - The support level on soybeans in Wayne County is 82.40 per bushel. The level for corn is $1.02 per bushel and for grain it is $1.49 per hundredweight. The maturity date for the loans is July 31.

The maturity date for the loans is July 31. In most cases, upon request, warehouse storage loans may be extended for another year and farm storage loans may be con-tinued under reseal loan. However, ASCS reminds farmers, there are deadlines for making such requests and in-terested farmers should get in touch with the ASCS county office.

A Boy Died Last Week

A boy died in an automobile accident last week, He was not unlike the high school boys in Wayne, Wakefield, Winside and Allen, liis chance to become a man is gone forever. No, he did not live in this community, He did live in another state, but the farming area from which he came is similar to that around Concord and Dixon, Carroll and Hoskins, Altona and Sholes. No one knows what he might have become later in life, although he had shown potential. He had a B average in school. He was better than average in music. His athletic provess was great enough to give reason that his college education might have been aided through a scholarship. Now he is dead, he died in an automobile accident that need not have happened. In fact, he was mudrered.

accident that need not have happened. In fact, he was murdered. It was not premeditated murder, but it was murder. The person who killed him thought he was a friend of the boy. He was going to help that kid have a good time one night so he managed to get some liquor for the boy. That lad was not capable of handling a car with over 300 horsepower after drinking, in fact, he would not have been safe at the wheel of any vehicle: after "an evening of fun." Fortunately, he was alone when death came or the story might have been even more trajic. The lucky ones were out in the ear when he lost control. He had dropped them at their homes, intoxicated but allve. Who killed that boy? A friend? No one will know because the boy is dead and even his living friends will not tell where the liquor came from. Who are these ghouls who will sell liquor to minors or procure liquor for minors, knowing that if an accident occurs such as the one that took this boy's life, they kare to blame? How can they be made to cease and desists so other lives are not lost needlessly?

they be made to cease and desist so other lives are not lost needlessly? A boy your did not know died last week. He was just like the boys in Wayne County. His life never touched yours and yours never touched him. His death should arouse in you a desire to do something about the tragedy and shame of the liguor sales and purchases that are made for the "benefit" of those too young. Can it happen here? It can. Could you be a murderer? You could if you bought liguor for a minor or sold liguor to a minor merely for a small profit. You may not agree with an editorial — but if you read the editorial and give ser-ious thought to the subject discussed you have gained. You, as a reader, have given careful thought to an important problem and the voriter is proud to have called your attention to an important subject that you may have overlooked.

Flag Waving

Perhaps the ideal time to discuss flag waving is now - between Memorial Day and Flag Day. On Memorial Day, just past, we honored those who fought and died to make it possible for us to continue flying the flag.

to continue flying the flag. And on Flag Day, we fly the flag to show our pride in our nation, our patriotism and our in-tention to keep the flag flying. In contrast to many places in the inited States, the Middle West - Nebraska in particular-seems to have fittle trouble getting the flag displayed. The seeds of patriotism seem to run stronger here. Or, perhaps, it is the fact that the people are more conservative, more inclined to follow the old ways.

(otion the old ways. A flag needn't be large, silken, on a fancy staff or be-decked with fringe to show the pa-triotism and respect due our nation. In fact, nuthing can be more impressive than a small child proudly carrying a tiny flag as though it were the most important item in the world-which child

Why? Because it is Old Glory, The Star Spangled Banner, The Stars and Stripes-your country's flag.

Source of the state of the stat field, representing a new constellation." No one knows who designed this flag, or who made the first one, William J. Canby said in 1870 that his grandmother, Betsy Ross, made the first one, but historians doubt it. The Continental Congress left no record to show why it chose red, white and blue for the flag, but in 1782 the Congress of the Confedera-tion chose these same colors for the newly de-signed Great Seal of the United Staes. The resolution on the seal said red is for hardiness and courage, white is for purity and innocence and blue is for vigilance, perserverance and justice.

No matter what the reason for the colors or design, no matter who made the first flag, it still is your flag. Fly it proudly, June 14 and every day.

Check Bins Now Here is a word of caution from E. A. Olson, Agriculture Engineer, about checking stored grain for moisture content, He says, shelled corn, sorghum or millo should now be at a moisture int and ear level of 13 per cent and ear corn should be 20 per cent or time grain can safely be stored. Damaged kernels are much more susceptible to mold damage than sound kernels, and foreign material in the grain, such as chaft, cracked kernels and debris also create problems in storing the grain. These materials restric air movement if the grain is being dried. They also provide a good starting place for insects. It is particularly important for ear corn in a crib to be fore of shucks, cobs and other foreign materials so it can dry by natural circulation. Olson sug-gested that farmers with large columes of grain consider storing it is high moisture grain for

However, if a farmer plans to sell the grain soon, there may be no object in drying it if the moisture level is less than 15 and a half per cent. Olson commended that an area-tion system is a good investment for farmers who expect to store 2,000 bushels or more for a long period of time. Proper aeration will keep wet spots from developing on top of the bin and will also help control insects and mold.

For anybody with a green thumb, this first week of real spring weather means several things: hoes, rakes, seeds, shrubbery, and a sore back. It can also mean a rather large outlay of money. Before byding those plants, shrubs and trees you should read a few words of caution by an expert in the field.
