

THE SIZE OF THE PEN reveals how much this corn has been retarded by the lack of moisture in the area. This is what Ulverd Alexander is talking about when he says the farmers may soon be in "serious trouble." This field of corn is located about halfway between Allen and Dixon.

Specialist Says Farmers in Trouble Due to Lack of Sufficient Moisture

"Most of the severely dry areas in northeast Nebraska will be in serious trouble if they don't get rain in another two weeks," Ulverd Alexander, area agronomist at Concord's Northeast Station, said Thursday.

Alexander said he has not seen it this dry at this time of the year since about 1964. There have been dry springs before, but usually the area has had relief by this time. And to add to the farmers' troubles, the area started off the growing season with very little sub-soil moisture, Alexander said.

Cedar, Knox and Pierce counties are suffering the most, according to Alexander, but there are many very dry conditions in Wayne, Dixon, Thurston and Dakota counties.

"Corn is still holding its own in most places," he stated, "but many farmers in the very dry places are planning on making outlage or hay out of their oats." Knox and Cedar Counties' move to have the federal government release land in the soil bank so they can use it for pasture will not give farmers much relief, according to Alexander. Pastures have been damaged by the drought conditions as badly as other land.

This area of Nebraska should have had about 10 inches of rainfall by now. Some farmers in Cedar, Knox and Wayne Counties have reported no more than one inch the first of the year.

Alexander has probed many fields in the large area he covers and found only about one to one and one half inches sub-soil moisture in many fields in early June. Fields should have about three to four inches sub-soil moisture at that time of the year, he noted.

Some of the fields with growing crops at the Northeast Station have only about one inch sub-soil moisture at the present time. Alexander said that in some of the worst fields a probe will reveal no sub-soil moisture.

He also noted that, to no farmer's surprise, the corn in many fields is curling at mid-day. Wind burn is also evident in many fields.

Even an inch or two of rain, although not enough for very long, would offer many farmers some relief.

The Norfolk Weather Bureau reported that none of its stations in northeast Nebraska reported rain after Friday morning's showers. They only report when they have one-half inch of rain or more.

That is quite a ways from the two inches Alexander would like to see the area get.

PASTURE LAND is also suffering from lack of moisture. The feet of these cattle are easily visible in this field just outside of Allen. Many farmers in northeast Nebraska are already feeding their cattle because of the lack of good pasture land.

CURLING AND FIRING are evident in this corn field a few miles south of Sholes. In the center of the picture the corn is already turning brown and yellow from lack of moisture and wind burn.

NE Station Sets Beef Field Day For July 15

Beef Cattle Field Day will be July 16 at the Northeast Station near Concord, Cal Ward, Station Superintendent, announced. The Northeast Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association will cooperate with the University of Nebraska and the Agricultural Extension Service in sponsoring this event.

At 7:30 p.m. the experimental cattle, soon to be marketed, will be on display. Three comparisons were made in the experiments (1) a ration of corn silage and a supplement as against the same ration plus 3 or 6 pounds of corn daily for growing calves (2) a protein supplement of urea or one of soybean meal, both for growing on or fattening cattle

400 4-H Youth Spend Day at Ponca

The young people were divided into four groups and took part in nature study, swimming, craft work and vesper services.

GI Widows Allowed VA Guarantees on Some Home Loans

Recent changes in the GI home loan program should make it easier for thousands of unmarried widows to get GI home loans, C. W. Nixon, manager of the Lincoln Veterans Administration Regional Office, announced today.

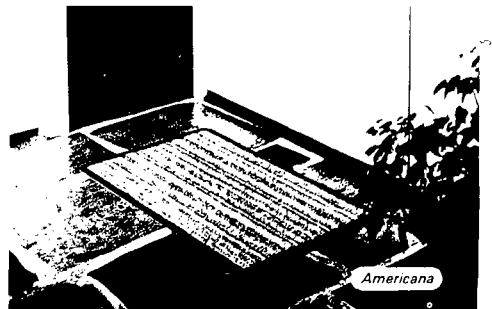

Basic eligibility requirements are that the widow's husband either died on active duty or from a service-connected disability, Nixon said, and the veterans' service was during World War II or after June 27, 1950.

A new law permits the VA to guarantee home loans up to $12,500 of the loan amount but not more than 60 per cent of the loan. The higher ceiling on GI loan interest rates that went into effect recently should help these widows to get a GI loan from a commercial lending institution, he said.

Many eligible widows had husbands who served in World War II, under current legislation, they still have more than two years to obtain a GI loan—until July 25, 1970. He said entitlement for qualified widows of men who served in the Korean Conflict is not scheduled to expire until Jan. 31, 1975.

Discover Nebraska's Magic Circles Northwest Nebraska

To really see the Northwest, a family could spend an entire 2-week vacation out this way but to fall into line with a 2-week schedule that might include all of the state, here's a suggested 5-day route that would enter the area at Ogallala off Interstate 130.

Ogallala—See Front Street and Lake McConaughy and then drive up U.S. 26 to U.S. 385 and into Alliance for the night...

Alliance—See the Knight Museum, second largest municipal museum in Nebraska, play golf, swim, picnic at City Park. Drive east from Alliance on Highway 2 to Lakeside, turn north on "Ruth Hooper Road" through one of the most beautiful valleys in the sand hills to Smith Lake and then east to Highway 27 and north to Gordon through Sandosz Country. Visit the new Marie Sandosz Museum south of Gordon...

Gordon—Visit park and modern swimming pool and then go west on Highway 20...

Rushville—Visit Sheridan County Museum and fine park and swimming pool. Continue west to Hay Springs where there also is a swimming pool and park on highway...

Chadron—Visit Museum of the Fur Trade east of city and spend night. Visit beautiful Chadron State Park six miles south and growing Chadron State College at southern extremity of city. Continue west on Highway 20...

Fort Robinson—Plan to spend at least two days in this Crawford area. Don't fail to take the horseback ride along the batties; the stagecoach ride around the Fort, the hayrack ride to the steak fry up the Soldier Creek Valley. Don't fail to visit Todd-stool Park, Rimrock, the Crawford U.S. Fish Hatchery, Park and Swimming Pool, Fort Robinson's Museums, the Crazy Horse Monument. And if you're a fisherman, ask about a place to wet a line on Soldier Creek or the White River. Continue west on Highway 20...

Harrison—Visit the State High School Rodeo Grounds north of town and a drive through historic Sowbelly Canyon nearby are worth two hours of any traveler's time. Turn south at Harrison on Highway 29...

Agate—Visit the state's only remaining Class 4 Postoffice, operated by Postmistress Margaret Cook, widow of the late Dr. Harold Cook, famous paleontologist. The big white ranch house is the original home of Dr. Cook's father, famous Indian Scout, James H. Cook, confidant of many chiefs, including Red Cloud and Dull Knife. Two miles to the east, down a beautiful Niobrara River Valley, are two traffic as an entry from Main Street—for construction vehicles only.

Also to be reversed is the direction of traffic on the road between Moore and Terrace hills (the extension north of Windsor Street); this will become an entry to campus. Parking will be banned in the lot west of the library, and parking in the lot west of the power house restricted to residents of the Faculty Apartments.

4 Dixon Scouts Head For Camp Cedar

Four members of Dixon Boy Scout Troop 264 will spend one week at Camp Cedar near Fremont, according to Phil Scheer, assistant scoutmaster.

They will leave June 30. Scheer will accompany them. The cost of the trip is $25. The Scouts have earned enough through activities such as pancake feeds and selling cards to pay for $15 for each member from their treasury.

Activities to be taken part in at Camp Cedar were discussed and decided upon at a meeting Friday. Some of the activities will include swimming, knot tying and camping out. Tent are furnished at the camp by the cost of the trip.

Members who will be going to Camp Cedar include Lowell Stanley, Rickie Dowling, Richard Spar and David Danne.

Father Riazzi, Dixon, is the troop's scoutmaster.

Off-Campus Housing Shortage this Fall

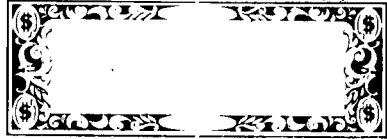

More off-campus housing will be needed for Wayne State students in the fall, judging by enrollment prospects.

Dean of Students Donald Merriman said today that dormitory rooms already are reserved to near capacity and soon will be filled. The list of off-campus rooms and apartments for students also is nearly used up.

Dr. Merriman suggested that Wayne residents who can add to the list of living quarters available should telephone or write his office. The phone number: 375-2200, extension 81.

Wayne Nine Stymies Kingsley 5-0

Wayne town team tripped up Kingsley, Ia., in a home game by a score of 5 to 0.

Wayne's Goeden went the full distance and held Kingsley players to four hits. Wayne pitchers tallied seven hits off Kingsley pitchers Brosdonie and Lanham. Goeden struck out 14 men and the Kingsley pitchers had six each.

Wayne played a near perfect game. They committed no errors, Goeden handled two innings by himself as he struck out every man facing him, and only two men got to third base.

Hitting was evenly spaced for Wayne as seven men got a hit each. All the hits were singles except for Jurka's double which drove in two men in the bottom of the seventh.

Wayne got off to a good start their first time at bat when they brought two men over the plate.

Then Kingsley held them scoreless until the bottom of the sixth inning when Morris' fly ball to the second baseman brought in a run. They scored their other two runs in the bottom of the eighth inning.

Goeden gave up only four free passes. Kingsley succeeded in getting nine men on base in the game but they were unable to come up with a hit when necessary.

Wayne tallied their seven hits off 31 at bats, while Kingsley tallied their four hits off 29 at bats.

Hoskins' B's Battle for First, Second

Gerald Bruggeman and Gene Brudigan, Hoskins' stock car drivers, continue to battle it out for points at Yankton and Norfolk.

At Norfolk Brudigan is on top in the point standings and Bruggeman is second. At Yankton the reverse is the case. Points are figured differently at each track. Brudigan is first with 60 in Yankton and Bruggeman is second with 49. At Norfolk Bruggeman is first with 399 and Brudigan is second with 352.

That could change in one night of racing. A driver could gather 15 points in Yankton and 118 in Norfolk for one night's hard work.

Gene Wagner, another Hoskins driver, doesn't race at Yankton. Sunday's racing resulted in Bruggeman winning the second heat. Brudigan placed third in the third heat and won the A Feature. Bruggeman lost a wheel in the A Feature and dropped out.

About $500 will be the purse July 4 at Norfolk when the Mid Season Championship Race will take place. This will be an added race to the night's racing. Only the top 15 men in the point standings will take part.

VA Q & A

Q—An unmarried widow of a World War II veteran who died of service-connected disability, am I still eligible for the Veterans Administration guarantee on a GI loan?

A—Yes, you are. The Veterans' Pension and Readjustment Assistance Act of 1967 extended your period of entitlement to July 25, 1970.

Q—I had active military service from May to December 1955 and came out without a scratch. However, I am now disabled as a result of an accident. Am I entitled to a pension?

A—Not according to the facts stated. One of the requirements for a nonservice-connected pension is that the veteran have at least 90 days of continuous active duty, any part of it during a wartime period, or be separated from wartime service for a disability incurred in service in the line of duty. Your period of service was not during wartime, so you are not eligible for a nonservice-connected pension under existing law.

Homer's Everett Bradshaw Leading League Batting Average with .643

For the second straight week Homer's Everett Bradshaw is the Northeast Nebraska League batting leader. His lofty .643 mark is sixty points better than runner-up Tom Lynn of Whiting with .583.

Andy Olson of Whiting has the most hits with 10, one more than Bill Goodwin, Lawton, and Bradshaw. Lynn and Leon Popovics have each scored eight runs to lead in that department.

Three are tied for the home run leadership with two. They are Lynn Tompich, Wayne, Rod Nathan, Emerson, and Bradshaw. Bradshaw is the only player with more than one triple. Gerald Jacobsen, Homer, and John Kingsbury, Ponca, each have stroked three doubles to set that pace.

The heavy hitting has had an effect on the league's pitchers. Only Charlie Spell, Homer, (2-0), Mike Newton, Ponca, and Frosty Bremer, Whiting, (2-1), have more than a single victory.

'The Fantasticks' Begins Thursday in Summer Stock

The first production in summer stock for the combined WSC Drama club and Sioux City Community Theatre is scheduled to open for a week's run Thursday at Shore Acres Summer Theatre in Sioux City.

A series of six plays is on tap, with a new play starting each week for six weeks.

Next up, starting July 4 will be "Hithe Spirit," a three-act farce by Noel Coward about a novelist who invites an eccentric lady medium to his quiet summer home to learn the language of the occult. The novelist and his second wife don't know the seance will summon back his first wife. Members of the company are staying in Sioux City during the run.

Included in the company are Elizabeth Spellman, Sioux City; Jean Stading, South Sioux City; Sue Cook, Linda Knoebel and Arne Nelson, all of Omaha; Linda Garvin and Larry Larsen, Wayne; Julie Hayden, Rock Valley, Ia.; Steve Millintz, Plainview; Steve Taylor, Grand Island; Mary Welke, Springfield; Ronald Wach-

Park Improvement Programs Popular In Community Betterment Contest

Park improvement programs are the most popular projects in the CIP, which is designed to stimulate communities to action programs and reward those which carry on the best programs.

Eight Nebraska-based gas companies are the CIP sponsors while the Economic Development Department and the University of Nebraska Extension Division act as administrators.

The 57 communities which have listed improvement of their parks as one of their projects plan a variety of activities. Some will be establishing new parks while others will be concerned with putting their existing parks in the best possible condition.

Improvement of streets and alleys is the second most popular project in the program. Forty-eight communities will carry on street and alley improvement projects.

Forty communities will carry on clean-up, paint-up, fix-up campaigns during the program while 31 will work to improve existing business buildings. The fifth most popular project is the improvement of local fire departments and rescue units.

Thirty communities will carry on such programs. Ranking next in order of popularity and the number of communities which will take part in projects are: Improvement of city offices, civic centers, and civic buildings, 29; comprehensive planning and zoning, 27; street signs, and names, 24; sewer projects, 20; water systems, 20.

"This list of projects is impressive, but it is not yet complete," said Douglas K. Bereuter, director of State and Urban Affairs for the Economic Development Department. "We culled these projects from those submitted by communities at the time they entered the CIP, but they still have until August 1 to add to the list of projects which they will undertake. By the end of the summer we expect to have many more projects entered by the 124 communities in the program."

NU Application Deadline July 1

Persons who plan to enter the University of Nebraska for the first time this fall should submit application forms by July 1. The July 1 deadline applies to all entering freshmen and transfer students, according to John Aronson, director of admissions. Applicants who provide the necessary information by July 1 will be able to pre-register for fall classes until Aug. 1.

"This means that if a student has not already submitted application forms and other necessary materials, he has a week in which to do so," Aronson said. Application forms are available in the Admissions Office at the University of Nebraska.

In addition to the application form, new students must submit a copy of their high school transcript, counselor's evaluation of aptitude for higher education, score on the Scholastic Aptitude Tests and medical re-

Here's How to Keep Kids Happy On Long Vacation Motor Trips

A vacation motor trip with children can be a breeze if you take along low-cost play material.

A tote bag or a small suitcase can carry the essentials," says H. M. Benstead, Jr., creative director for Whitman Publishing Company of Racine, Wis. "Checkers are handy, and so are magic slates, miniature spinner games, crayons, and other variety store items."

Simple games can smooth a car trip. Counting games are the most popular. In these, you count anything from red cars to white horses to willow trees as you ride. Whoever makes the first sighting gets the score. Practiced parents will ask a logical question: How do you avoid arguments over the score?

Use checkers. When there are two children, each is assigned one side of the car, and a checker supply. An empty box goes between them. The game can last half an hour or until the checkers are used up. At each shout of "I see one," a checker gets tossed in the box. It's easy to see whether red or black won. (Bring the board along — it's useful at overnight stops.)

Magic slates are the answer when three or more children are along. These slates have an overlay of plastic film which lifts up to make writing disappear. One child is scorekeeper. Games can end at the count of ten. These handy slates are usable over and over, and are reasonably priced at all variety stores.

Preschoolers enjoy sticker fun books. These have pre-cut and pre-glued pictures which are punched out and affixed to a black and white landscape in the book. There's no need to carry paste or scissors. For an unexpected stop — say at a service station while minor repairs are made — the books are a boon.

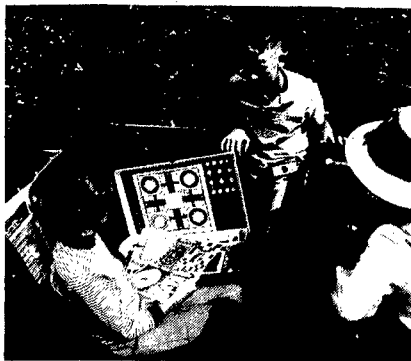

For Small Fry For small children there are also frame-tray puzzles, which have their own self-rim, so the work can be carried from one spot to another without slippage or loss. A lightweight tray-puzzle of this kind fits into a large brown envelope.

port. Transfer students also must submit statements from the then of students and transcripts of grades at other higher education institutions.

"We cannot give formal acceptance of a student until we have all of these materials," Aronson said.

Applicants who believe they have completed their applications and have not received notice of admission to the University, may make inquiry at the Admissions Office.

Applications which are completed after July 1 will be placed on a waiting list subject to the availability of class space on Sept. 7, Aronson said.

Inexpensive games can help keep children amused on long car trips. So can various pastimes like "collecting" license plates and simple words games. The result — happier drivers and passengers.

The older children enjoy decks of juvenile cards. A deck of animal rummy or crazy eights or hearts or authors takes almost no space, but can be used for a running tournament in which scores are kept all along the journey.

Extra maps, provided by any service station, can be another basis for keeping the youngsters entertained. They can mark the itinerary with crayon. They can also draw pictures of what they've seen, with arrows pointing to where they saw it, so the map becomes the diary of a vacation.

Small sheets of drawing paper are good to keep on hand, to be taken out at motel or hotel stops or when spending time with relatives. In unfamiliar surroundings the child especially enjoys a portable activity such as drawing.

For the Family For all-family recreation, when the travelers are rained in somewhere on a rainy day, a small box of bingo equipment is useful. Prizes can be promises of all kinds payable in the future — a chocolate milk shake, a double hamburger, a day free of household chores, or other incentives to win.

A vacation trip is a good time to revive the habit of reading aloud. A classic, compact in size and price, but with legible type and pleasant illustrations, can be picked up at many drugstore or variety counters.

For Older Children For the older children there are tales of Poe, adventures of Sherlock Holmes, or H. G. Wells' lively science fiction War of the Worlds, all good to stretch out with under a tree as the family takes a lunch and rest break.

Boxed doll sets are handy for little girls to carry along. Snips of fabric can also be put in the box so the girls can make "real" clothes. And there's a new book available in which swatches of fabric

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The editorial department of a weekly newspaper is an important department. Normally it is one person's opinion of topics that concern most of the readers.
It is the duty of an editorial writer to search all available facts before he sits down to write. From this basis the writer should be able to give a clear picture of important topics.

Three More R's

With the school year just ended for 1967-68 and with all the hullabaloo about the three R's being taught—or not taught—we think this is an appropriate time to discuss our own special three R's.

You'll never find these R's in a textbook in elementary, high school or college. Nor will you find any night classes or extension courses teaching these subjects, per se.

rather you will find they are the accumulation of years of knowledge passed from parent to offspring, teacher to student, professor to collegian, minister to parishioner, in a steady but digestible diet.

We think at this stage of the game, and in view of recent events throughout our nation, perhaps our three R's are more important than reading, writing and 'rithmetic.

RESPECT: This word can and should apply in several areas, first and foremost of which is respect for oneself. Self-respect is rapidly becoming confused with false pride and is now used as a cover-up to avoid work, obligations, or a plain old-fashioned chewing out. The respect for oneself that we want to discuss is the respect one feels when he does a job well, when he gives that extra effort to do a job better. Also the respect one feels when he works hard to learn a job better. Also the respect one feels when he respects himself by extra study of his work. If one deems his self-respect important, the rest of the "respect" come easier.

Respect for others, especially, is obviously apparent now. Looters, rioters, arsonists do not have this respect. Nor do those who clamor for equal rights without a willingness to take on equal responsibilities. Those who would destroy the work of others, whether it be a building, piece of art or a project to improve life in our country have not learned this lesson.

Respect for laws, sadly lacking in today's protest society, would still be lacking in the society many of the protesters would set up in their dreamworld.

Without respect for law, the world becomes chaos, anarchy reigns and governments are helpless. Recent riots have proven this as sadly

Out of Old

Military Installations

In the years between 1803, when the United States purchased Louisiana, and 1900, when it was no longer possible to speak of an American frontier, a large number of military installations were established in Nebraska to protect westward-bound emigrants and settlers in Nebraska.

Information on these posts may be found in the Library and Archives of the Nebraska State Historical Society.

Among these Army installations were 14 classed as "fort," signifying a permanent installation with a garrison of significant size.

The first American military installations in the Nebraska area were located in present day Washington County. Cantonment Missouri was established in October, 1819 in the Missouri River flood plains and was destroyed by flood waters in June of the following year. Fort Atkinson (1820-1827) was established on the nearby bluffs as one of the largest forts in the nation.

The next fort to be established in Nebraska was Old Fort Kearny (1846-1848), at the site of Nebraska City. This installation was meant to guard emigrants as they way west and was soon moved to a site now in Kearney County. New Fort Kearny (1848-1871) is now a State Historical Park.

Other Nebraska forts established to protect westbound wagon trains were Fort Grattan (1855)

You may not agree with an editorial — but if you read the editorial and give serious thought to the subject discussed you have gained. You, as a reader, have given careful thought to an important problem and the writer is proud to have called your attention to an important subject that you may have overlooked.

outnumbered police were forced to stand by and watch helplessly while persons with no respect for law and order systematically wrecked, looted and burned the property of others.

RESPECT FOR TRADITIONS: While not all traditions are right and proper, most of them are. Traditions don't come about overnight, nor over a week or month, but most of them are developed by good people and for a very good reason, so destruction of traditions should be done only after careful study and long consideration.

RESPONSIBILITY: Take on the responsibility of making your own living, of providing for your family, of getting the most from formal school courses and be a responsible citizen in a responsible society. Those who say, "I didn't ask to be born into this awful world," are shirking the responsibility to try to improve their own lot in life; those who cry for their "rights" rather than earn the rights also are shirking the responsibility.

RECOGNITION: We mean recognition of the fact that while all men are created equal, not all men are equal 40 minutes later, nor are they ever again equal. . . Thus we must do the best with what we have, but DO IT and not cry to government, TV cameras or the high heavens for assistance, hand-outs or pure dole. The infinite problems involved in keeping our society going, in keeping our nation strong and ourselves prepared to meet the daily demands of modern living must be recognized, met and disposed of in a manner that will let us wear the first two R's with pride.

Teaching of these three R's, we believe, should supersede the three traditional, taught R's, for by so doing, the benefits of reading, writing and 'rithmetic will surely be treated to a better end than being used to block college administrators from their offices, the destruction of the property of others or the disavowal of our own nation's government.

The one redeeming feature of this observation of the modern American scene is that while the newsmakers are the ones intended as the target of this editorial, 90 per cent of our nation's people, young and old alike, learned both sets of R's and are making good use of them.

A frightening aspect, however, is that the number of newsmakers, complainers and cry-babies is on the increase.

and Fort McPherson (1863-1880).

Fort Omaha (1863-1947) was established as a headquarters post for the Platte Valley region. When the army outgrew its quarters there, a new fort was established south of Omaha. This fort, Fort Crook, was active from 1891 to 1948 and was later annexed to Offutt Air Force Base. One fort in Nebraska, Fort Sidney (1867-1894), was established on the first transcontinental railroad to protect it and the settlement which grew up at Sidney.

With the establishment of a large Sioux Indian reservation, first in northwest Nebraska and later in south central South Dakota, several military installations were set up along the northern border of Nebraska to make sure the Sioux stayed on their reservation. These were Fort Robinson (1874-1948), now the site of a Nebraska State Historical Society museum, Fort Niobrara (1880-1906), now a national wildlife refuge, and Fort Hartsuff (1874-1881), now a State Historical Park.

Military installations known as "camps" were usually of a less permanent nature than those designated as "forts." Two of the Nebraska camps, however, were occupied for several years. Camp

Defective equipment contributes to many accidents.

Mitchell (1864-1867) near Scotts Bluff National Monument protected travelers on the Oregon Trail, and Camp Sheridan (1874-1881), east of Fort Robinson, was a major installation near the Sioux reservation.

Other camps in Nebraska, established for less than a year, included Camp Ponca Island (1858) in Knox County, Camp Red Willow (1872) in Red Willow County, Camp Ruggles (1874) in Valley County and Camp Vincent (1872) west of Omaha.

The Army also established a series of temporary installations known as "posts," usually with a small detachment meant to guard some particular object, such as a stage station. Nine of these were active along the Oregon Trail in Nebraska during 1864-1866. Two other posts, North Platte Station (1867-1881) and Columbus (1864-1869) protected those towns.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Along with all the other servicemen, I too would like to express my appreciation for the gift I received from SWAY. It is a great thought to know that the people back home are concerned along with the servicemen's family.

I am presently stationed on Red Beach near Da Nang. I am TDY to a Navy Seabee compound for 60 days as a fireman. As the Navy provides all fire-fighting equipment for our area certain companies have to provide men for the fire department. I was chosen out of my company so hope I make the best of it and learn as much as possible. We cover all types of fires, ranging from trash to aircraft crashes. I am quite sure it will be a good experience.

As everyone else I too would like to express my opinion of the war here. Why we cannot win this war with the manpower and equipment we have is beyond my understanding. The basic equipment of the North Vietnamese seems to consist of mortars and rockets plus small arms. With bombers, gunships, artillery, etc., it seems unlikely that "Charles" is able to hang on as long as he has. With equipment to fight with, this so-called "police action" could be turned around against us very quickly. With the peace talks going on they too seem to be a waste of time. If the U. S. is going to wait until North Vietnam admits they have troops in the South before they halt the bombing this war will go on for a long time. This was stated in the Pacific Stars and Stripes newspaper we receive here. If North Vietnam says they don't have troops here I would definitely like to know who gets us up at night with mortar and rocket attacks!

That, in a nutshell, is what I think of the situation and only hope and pray that it ends soon. I presently have completed about half my tour here but still have a long time to go.

Once again I would like to thank all those who participate in SWAY and hope they keep the good work up. I receive the Wayne paper about 2-3 weeks from publication date. Thank you.

65 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

News of the Week

An Indiana postmaster was arrested a few days ago on the charge of embezzling two cents collected for a postage stamp. The alleged offense is said to have occurred two years ago since which time detectives and several of the high officials in the post office department have worked on the case. Postmasters are governed by most rigid regulations, and for the amount of business but very few errors occur in the care of the mail.

Last Friday night a number of the young men engaged in a merry chase hunting the location of a party that had been arranged for them by a number of young ladies. It was quite late before some of the invited guests found the desired place, while a few never did find it, but located at least at general quarters. The party was at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Williams, and that alone insured the young folks a most delightful evening which they enjoyed in every detail.

Why The Judge Shook His Head
In an Iowa law court the other day an attorney, in the midst of his argument, paused a moment and said:

"I see your honor shakes his head at that statement. I desire to reaffirm it, although your honor dissects."

"I have not intimated," replied the judge, "how I should construe the evidence or what my decision will be in the case, and your remark is uncalled for."

"You shook your head,"
"That may be true," the court replied; "there was a fly on my ear, and I reserved the right to remove it in any manner I saw fit. Proceed with your argument."

Carroll Betterment Moving Forward

A representative from the Nebraska Community Improvement Program met with Carroll officials Thursday to advise them and look over the town's improvements.

Several improvements have been made in Carroll which will be included in its evaluation for the Nebraska Community Betterment contest, according to Phil Olson, president of Farmers State Bank.

Olson said that several build-

'Nebraska Democrat' of May, 1905

A single page of the old Nebraska Democrat of Wayne county, dated May 28, 1905, was mailed to The Wayne Herald this week from Mrs. William Bliss of Oakland.

Mrs. Bliss said, "I found the enclosed sheet from the Nebraska Democrat in the old bookcase desk we bought. Since I was born and raised in Wayne county I found it rather interesting."

Mrs. Bliss said she was born in Winside in 1903, and the paper is only two years younger.

Among some of the gems the publication contained were these: —D. E. Newton bored down 80 feet in search of water on his property east of the German store but failed to get a leak and will have to try a hydrant.

—Wayne College and the Carroll team played ball at the local grounds last Saturday, the home team winning 7 to 6.

—Charles Adair, the delinquent, courteous and jolly conductor, has "gone up," taken a run on the main line between Sioux City and Omaha.

—Jas. A. Gay, playing Jacob Frystrand in "Ghosts" was with Miss Mary Shaw all last season in the same role. He is also directing the production which comes here next Wednesday evening. Mr. Gay will be remembered as one of the best actors ever to hit Wayne.

An editorial on the sheet admonished girls to, "Pick out some really good fellow with an ambition beyond cigarette smoking, booze, fighting or gambling and tie to him."

An honest girl, the editorial said, "is the most beautiful thing in creation, even if she is as homely as a hedge fence, but a cheap girl, — Oh, get the ax!"

Farmer Has Chance

Even if Crop Lost,

ASCS Head States

Farmer who have signed to participate in the 1968 feed grains program but who have not been able to plant the crop because of natural disaster or whose crop has been lost after planting should get in touch with the Wayne County ASCS office, John Mott, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, announced Thursday.

In such cases, after prior approval by the county committee, the farmer will be able to obtain program benefits and to plant an alternative crop on the affected acreage.

Approval is granted only where a producer has made a genuine effort to plant and grow a crop in a workmanlike manner. If the crop is destroyed and time remains in which to replant, he is expected to do so up to the end of the normal planting period, Mott said.

J. Kroger Gives NE Station Gift Of $2,000 Check

The Board of Directors of the Northeast Nebraska Experimental Farm Association received a check for $2,000, toured the Station and discussed ways of strengthening the station's work at their meeting last week.

John Kroger, Jr., of Rosalie, treasurer of the Board of Directors, presented a check for $2,000 to the University of Nebraska Northeast Station. The check was a cash award Kroger received from the Ford Motor Company upon being named national winner in Ford's Farm Efficiency Award in grain sorghum production.

The Board of Directors met at the Northeast Station for a tour and review of the experimental work under progress. A new type of terrace was the newest feature viewed during the evening tour. Brief stops were made to view beef feeding, swine housing, corn and sorghum fertility and row spacing and pasture fertility experiments.

Carl Ward, Station Superintendent, reported the Experimental Farm Association has established the University to establish the Station and develop its research facilities. This has made it possible for the Station Staff to respond more effectively to the needs and interests of Northeast Nebraska people.

Ward said, "We must continue to improve the station's research facilities but if we are to respond aggressively to the questions you raise and to the opportunities our staff can see, additional research personnel is our greatest need."

Nine counties were represented at the meeting. These were: Cedar, Colfax, Cumby, Dixon, Knox, Pierce, Stanton, Thurston and Wayne.

25 Farmers Holds 'Cultivating Bee' For Harvey Mohlfeld Wednesday

Friends and relatives joined in Wednesday afternoon for a cultivating bee for Harvey Mohlfeld on land about 10 miles south of Wayne.

Twenty-five farmers cultivated about 200 acres for Mohlfeld in a little over three hours, a job which would take one man a long week of labor.

Mohlfeld and his wife are hospitalized with hepatitis.

Lunch was served to one group of men after the work by neighboring ladies and wives of the farmers. Helping serve the food were Mrs. Arnold Siefken, Mrs. Fred Koehlmoos, Mrs. Merlin Reinhardt, Mrs. Paul Hilpert, Mrs. Clarence Rauss, Mrs. Les Youngmeyer, Mrs. Otto Baier and Mrs. Alvin Mohlfeld.

Gene Fletcher, Standard Oil distributor, furnished the gas for the farmers' tractors and Leon Meyer, owner of the Altona Store, furnished two cases of beer for the men.

ROGER LUEDERS is taking graduate work this summer on his MA at Colorado State College at Greeley. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lueders, he is vocal and instrumental music instructor at Wausa where he has taught for the last two years. He will return there this fall.

Seed Handling Trouble Spots

Short cuts and carelessness can be costly in the seed business, Nebraska farmers were warned this week, with the grain harvest rapidly approaching.

Dean Lancaster, secretary-manager of the Nebraska Crop Improvement Association, spotlighted four potential "trouble spots" during harvesting, handling and processing of new grain which may be used for seed.

A "clean" combine may actually contain thousands of weed seeds or seeds of other crops which mix with the newly-harvested grain as foreign material.

A "clean" storage bin or granary could be the beginning of future trouble for stored grain from the 1968 harvest due to fungus, insects and rodents.

Internal damage to a healthy looking kernel of grain could prevent germination.

Light kernels, unless separated from normal kernels, will lower percentage of germination when the next crop is planted.

Many growers have learned the truth of these statements the hard way, Lancaster commented, and are now "believers."

A vacuum cleaner or compressed air is required to properly clean a combine, the seed specialist emphasized. "No matter how thorough you are with brush and broom, some unwanted seeds will get by," he added.

The same principle applies to storage bins. They cracks can conceal insect larvae; damp spots can be fungus breeders. "The answer is thorough cleaning and drying, coupled with fumigation. And don't forget to patch roof or sides where water may be getting in," Lancaster advised. "Some grain growers smile at the idea of internal damage to seeds, but it can happen," he continued. Improperly adjusted combines can inflict damage to seed that will not appear on the surface. But the damage will show up in poor germination during laboratory analysis.

Adjust the combine to achieve only the necessary action to separate grain and straw. Check augers and flight elevators for wear and adjustment. Use enough air to throw out lightweight seeds. Many light kernels appear normal, but may lack the vitality to germinate and grow.

The same cautions apply to processing, Lancaster stated. Moving grain to and from storage also can inflict damage—particularly from poorly adjusted or high speed elevators. Many processors are using elevators with larger capacity buckets run at slower speeds to minimize seed damage, Lancaster noted. "Successful seed production, especially for certification, requires additional care and attention in all steps from field to storage bin," he concluded.

Ike Lake Found in Excellent Shape; Dozen Large Carp Removed by State

Fisheries biologists checked population, fish health and conditions in the Izaak Walton Lake northwest of Wayne Wednesday, and pronounced it one of the best-conditioned lakes they have seen.

In a routine check with electric shocking devices, biologists stunned and tagged bass, inspected bluegills of nearly a pound in weight and took from the lake several large carp.

Northern up to 22 inches long also were found in the lake.

Operating from a boat containing a generator, the game commission men probed into holes and around stumps. The electricity is turned on while probes are in the water, stunning the fish enough so they can be retrieved and examined. All game fish were released to recover and be caught on hook and line another day.

Biggest catch at the lake was the 20-pound carp shown in the accompanying photograph. Eleven others of similar size also were taken from the lake.

No evidence was found, however, to indicate that the carp are spawning successfully in the lake. All carp recovered were of three pounds or better.

Fisheries men theorized that bluegills in the lake eat the carp's eggs as quickly as they are laid, thus preventing any over-population by carp or destruction of cover or food for game fish.

Officials of the local Izaak Walton chapter assisted game commission men in their work. The lake has been in existence about twelve years and has been carefully watched by chapter officers since it was first stocked. The water source is from springs in the area, so there is little danger of low water hurting fish populations.

On rare occasions over-flow waters from adjacent Dog Creek get into the lake after a hard down-pour, and it is surmised that the large carp gained access to the lake in this manner.

The lake is located four miles north, two west and one-quarter north of Wayne.

4-H CLUB MEMBERS from five Northeast Nebraska counties attended a Citizenship Short Course in Washington, D. C., recently. The 39 youths are shown here with Nebraska Senator Carl T. Curtis on the steps of the Capitol. Attending from Wayne county were Kathy Dunklau, Gloria Pollard, Dave Roberts and Sheryl Wittler, all of Wayne.

Spray Now for Musk Thistles

"Five...four...three...two...one..." That's the stage of the countdown in terms of the critical period to spray musk thistles in most areas of Nebraska.

This warning comes from weed control authorities, as many thistles, especially in southern and eastern areas of the state, are in the bloom stage.

As plants begin to shoot a seed stalk, every day of delay in spraying lessens the chances of getting the desired kill.

In addition, the Nebraska noxious weed control law has "teeth" that will result in added costs to farmers who do not control musk thistles on their property.

The law specifies that steps to destroy musk thistle, either by spraying or digging, must be taken by the deadline established by local weed control authorities. If these measures are not taken—either through reluctance or procrastination—weed authorities, through authority of the State Weed and Seed Division, are obligated to clean up infested areas. Costs of removal will be charged to the farmer or landowner as an addition to the property tax.

Spraying, in areas where time still permits, is with 2,4-D at the rate of two pounds per acre. For best results, spraying should be done when the temperature is 70 degrees or above.

As in the case of all weed control chemicals, specialists warn farmers not to skip on the recommended amount or the desired kill will not be achieved. Equally undesirable is over-application of the chemical.

Of additional concern to farmers are potential losses in wheat and alfalfa fields due to musk thistle contamination. Weed control officials warn that if thistles in alfalfa are not taken care of, the fields can be sprayed and alfalfa in affected patches also will be killed. If thistles occur in wheat fields, the grain may need to be checked for presence of seeds of a known noxious weed. This may result in delay of shipping wheat and possible dockage.

Coronado Did Not Reach Nebraska

Students in Wayne State's Foreign Affairs Institute on Latin America were kept busy taking notes while Robert Brady, assistant professor of history, lectured about early Spanish exploration in the Americas. Among his comments: Coronado probably never reached what now is Nebraska, despite teaching that he did. Brady said modern research has proved that Coronado's journal was remarkably accurate

In its geographical data. The explorer had compasses and his pavers kept track of distance traveled.

Also, notes about landmarks along the expedition's route from what now is Mexico, Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas indicate that the explorer made good observations, and that he stopped short of Nebraska.

Brady said Coronado's mission to find the seven cities of Cibola—reported by earlier explorers to be built of gold and encrusted with jewels—was a failure.

The cities proved to be adobe dwellings of the Indians, probably seen as gold in sunset light. But for geographical discovery Coronado's expedition was vastly successful, Brady said.

6—Feed materials into or unplug a roughage blower or auger conveyor.

The youngsters still may not legally handle for the employer anhydrous ammonia, many herbicides, pesticides or fungicides or clean or decontaminate equipment used to apply or mix such products.

Neither are the youths certified to use or handle blasting agents, serve as flagmen for aircraft, drive truck, bus or auto on the highway, operate power-driven post hole diggers or drivers, operate, adjust or clean power saws, fell timber, work from ladders or scaffolds over 20 feet in height, work in a gas-tight grain or forage enclosure or inside a silo when a top unloading device is in operating position, nor work in a yard, pen or stall occupied by a dairy bull, bear or stud horse.

Safety Council Lists Life-Saving Car Tips

Just as headaches, fever and nausea are nature's danger signals of illness, the family car also shows symptoms of trouble.

A list of the automotive danger signs is contained in a new publication issued by the National Safety Council. Entitled, "How To Diagnose The Danger Signs of an Ailing Auto," the pamphlet describes how to recognize various failings.

Included are sections on the braking system, lights, steering, tires, exhaust, glass, wipers, horn, and various engine components.

Copies of the pamphlet can be obtained for 10 cents by writing the National Safety Council, 425 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Give Your Corn Big Yield Power Side Dress With

You Get Real Corn Profit Action With Nutra-Flo Side Dress Application

Nutra-Flo Aqua Ammonia contains a whopping 20 1/4% nitrogen! It's also a stable ammonia solution. Give corn roots the extra nitrogen they need to really boost your corn yields.

Nutra-Flo Gives You More For Your Money . . .

Nutra-Flo's Aqua Ammonia is a solution and not a gas. You'll get less loss of nitrogen when injected into any kind of ground . . . and under any conditions. Because Nutra-Flo is not a gas you do not have to inject extremely deep into the soil. Nutra-Flo is injected only 8 to 4-inches in the middle of the row where it should be. It is possible to inject so deep you can actually get fixation because of lack of air . . . no need to worry about this with Nutra-Flo!

Nutra-Flo Is Better For Your Corn Plants

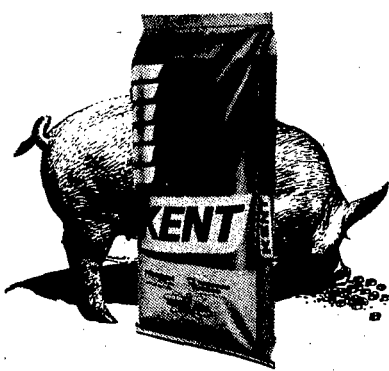

Because Nutra-Flo aqua ammonia contains no nitrate nitrogen you can apply without fear of loss by excessive rainfall. Side-dressing Nutra-Flo in the middle of the row builds roots where the moisture is. You can adjust the rate of Nutra-Flo injection to your soil's moisture and your corn population.

Get Better Application

Our trained, experienced crews know how to apply Nutra-Flo. This experience coupled with well maintained and proper equipment assures you of proper application of type of solution, rate of application, and depth of application. We do all we can to assure you of the most for your fertilizer dollar invested.

We give you the most for your fertilizer dollar . . . Order Nutra-Flo from us today!

we have KENT calorie-controlled sow cubes
For healthier sows, bigger litters!
"Calorie-controlled" means that feed nourishment goes to the unborn pigs who need it, not to the sow. The result is lean and healthy sows at farrowing time, more pigs per litter, healthier and heavier pigs at weaning time. Best of all, Kent Calorie-Controlled Sow Cubes satisfy the sow's appetite, save on feed costs. Save equipment, too. Feed them on the ground. Ask us about Sow Cubes soon.

we have KENT BIO-mineral
For correct mineral balance in dairy rations

A deficiency of phosphorus, or an imbalance of calcium to phosphorus in the ration, can often be the cause of breeding and calving problems or a high incidence of Milk Fever in dairy cows. Kent Bio-Mineral in the dry cow ration can help reduce these problems. The calcium-phosphorus ratio in Kent Bio-Mineral is nearly one to one, giving you the correct mineral balance high producing cows need, too. See us for specific feeding levels for your dairy cows.
