

Grounds in Top Shape for Wayne Horse Show July 4

The Wayne County Fairgrounds have been mowed and sprayed and everything is in readiness for the Wayne Saddle Club's horse show Thursday, starting at 10 a.m.

This sixth annual performance of the saddle club will feature 22 events in the July Fourth presentation. In case of rain the show is scheduled for Sunday.

Patrons and participants are warned to stay off the road west of the fairgrounds in case of rain, and use the regular north and south entrances.

The road west of the grounds is being graded for re-surfacing and a west entrance to the grounds is planned for completion by fair time.

Both performance and halter classes are scheduled for the horse show with trophies, buckles and ribbons being awarded.

Persons having questions regarding the show should contact Marilyn Koch, president; Amy Gall Coryell, secretary-treasurer, or Mrs. Stacey Swinney, show chairman.

Scheduled for the morning portion of the program are 1968 foals, 1967 foals, 1966 foals; Shetland pony 48 inches and under, and senior hat race.

Following dinner at noon a quarter horse show will be followed by pole bending, western reining, junior hat race, Welsh pony class and ladies' senior western pleasure.

Other events include Appaloosa, junior western horsemanship, Palomino, Junior clover leaf barrels, men's senior western pleasure, senior clover leaf barrels, ladies' egg race, four-in-line, pick-up race, trail horse class and key hole race.

A lunch stand will be on the grounds and admission will be charged for persons 12 and over.

Arranger will be Vern Jensen, Winslow, and judge will be Ben Miller, Sioux City.

The show will be conducted under Northeast Nebraska Saddle club rules. Persons interested in entering the show may call 375-3682 or 375-3198.

Wayne Walton Chapter Will Honor Watsons, Baiers at Annual Picnic

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Watson and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Baier will be honored Monday night at the Wayne Izaak Walton all-family picnic at the chapter's lakesite, four miles north and two miles west of Wayne.

The Watsons and the Baiers recently deeded the 18.4-acre tract to the local Izaak Walton chapter.

Engraved plaques will be presented to both couples commemorating the event.

The lake was started in 1956 when Watson offered to lease the land to a group for conservation and recreation purposes. Because of the offer, the Izaak Walton chapter was formed and work began immediately to transform an ox-bow of Dog Creek into a small lake.

After completion of the lake, the area was improved through the years with a road into the site, playground, picnic area and equipment, tree plantings, a shelter house, clubhouse, parking area, artesian well and a security light for 24-hour illumination.

Winside to Get Lower Gas Bill

Natural gas customers in Winside will no longer be assessed an extra charge on their gas service bills which provided payment for pipeline facilities constructed to serve the community in 1963.

Thos. Creigh, Jr., president of Kansas-Nebraska, said the partial payment of pipeline costs by residents of Winside made it possible to provide service in 1963.

Creigh said Winside customers paid their final installment on construction costs with their June bill. He said the completion of payments will result in about a 20 percent reduction on monthly bills.

nation of the site. The all-family picnic is an annual event of the chapter, with fishing contests for children, horseshoe and other recreation for the adults.

The program starts at 6:30 p.m. with potluck dinner for members' families.

Bill Volkman, Norfolk big game hunter, will show slides of a recent hunting trip to British Columbia later in the evening.

Tentative OK Is Given New Fire Prevention Plan

Commissioners and county clerks of Wayne, Cedar and Pierce counties Monday approved the formation of the Randolph Fire Protection district, embracing parts of all three counties.

None of the area involved is presently in a fire district, Wayne County Clerk Norris Weible said Monday night.

Next meeting will be called to allow residents of the area involved to express their opinions on the matter. Official notice of the meeting will be given.

By precept, four sections in Garfield precinct of Wayne county were omitted from the legal description of the area involved, Weible said, but they are tentatively included in the plan. Sections omitted include 4, 5, 6 and 7. Landowners and residents of these sections will be permitted to speak on their preference in the matter at the next meeting.

Also by error, some lands were shown to be in the tentative district that presently are in a district and are near Wayne. These lands were not included in the proposal Monday.

SAMSON LIKES HIS BOTTLE. Orphaned since shortly after birth, Samson the lamb had to go to a nursing bottle for his nourishment. His owner, Gerald Pospishil, who farms south of Wayne, rigged up a pop bottle with a nursing nipple.

Pospishil's son Steve, 4, looks on while cousin Wade Lindsay, 5, gives Samson his afternoon snack. Wade's sister Robin, 3, keeps a wary eye on the operation in case the boys bungle the job.

Extension Club Fair Booth Reservations Wanted Soon

Clubs having fair booths were urged Monday to get their reservations into Harold Ingalls, county agent, as soon as possible.

This request was voiced during the meeting of the Wayne County home extension council at the Wayne County courtroom. Forty members representing 15 clubs attended the meeting. Two guests, Myrtle Anderson and Anna Marie Kriefels of the Northeast Station, were also present.

It was announced at the meeting that 66 extension members will take a bus tour to Shenandoah, Ia., July 23. Work sheets for the county fair were landed out and Achievement Day was set for October 15 at Winside with Mrs. Claus Rathman as chairman.

Council officers elected were as follows:

Wittler, chairman; Mrs. James Robinson, treasurer; Mrs. Val Dammie, Wayne-Carroll group chairman; Mrs. Fred Brummels, safety chairman; Mrs. Wilmer Deck, education chairman; and Mrs. Ernest Fenske, historian.

Next meeting of the council will be October 1.

Cash Night Fund Friday at $150

Wayne stores will not be open July Fourth (Thursday) and as a consequence there will be no cash drawing that night. However the open night and cash drawing for this week will be Friday night instead.

Friday's cash night prize will be $150 because there was no winner last week.

This issue of The Wayne Herald is being printed and distributed a day early and should reach most homes by Wednesday afternoon, in time for families to plan to be in Wayne for the Friday night drawing.

K. Roland Wins God and Country Award Sunday

Kenneth Roland, Jr., a member of Scout Troop 174, received the God and Country Award Sunday at the Methodist Church. The high honor, often considered on a par with the Eagle rank, resulted from about two years of work in the church fulfilling numerous God and Country requirements.

The Rev. Cecil Bliss, pastor, presented the badge to Kenneth's mother, who pinned it on her son. Scoutmaster Dick Manley presented Kenneth to the congregation for the award.

Kenneth is a Star scout, a former patrol leader, and a member of the Order of the Arrow, a brotherhood of honor campers.

He Raises Tomatoes in Bowen Hall

Who would expect to find tomato plants thriving in a college dormitory room?

That's what astonished visitors do find in the Bowen Hall room occupied by Bob Hill, a junior at Wayne State from Kansas City, Mo. And the tomatoes are not seedlings. One stretches five feet high, another three feet.

The tomatoes are only part of Hill's Bowen Botanical Gardens. He also nurses a petunia, a rubber plant, a philodendron and a baby Bonsai tree.

Why? Well, because he liked the challenge, and besides, his dormitory mates kidded him so much he'd be darned if he would give up his plants.

An elementary education major, Hill has become a collector of the unusual in travels over most of the United States. Micronesian music is, perhaps, one of his more uncommon collection hobbies. Another unusual feature of his room: he sleeps on three pillows and a red-Indian blanket which matches his red sports car.

New Ambulance Features Explained to Wayne Nurses

Wayne Hospital nurses Monday were given a briefing on the ambulance recently installed in the ambulance type recently purchased by the city.

The high headroom unit can carry four patients under some conditions, two on the floor and two in stretchers suspended from the ceiling.

Treatment required by the patients will be a big factor in determining patient capacity, Hospital Administrator Charles

Thomas said, along with size of patients.

One cot in the new unit is a chair-type and folds to allow for greater maneuverability in narrow hallways and on stairs. The second floor cot also folds and has two wheels affixed on one end to permit the cot to double as a stretcher.

Blood and intra-venous feeding stands allow for the administering of fluids while patients are enroute to hospitals, and the high headroom allows for proper pressure from gravity flow systems.

A suction unit is built in the ambulance for use in clearing throats and air passages under emergency conditions.

A recently purchased respiration-inhalator-aspirator will soon be installed to allow treatment of this type for emergency patients.

For greater safety, double oxygen system is contained in the new unit. Larger bottles are for use in the ambulance while another set is available for carrying to patients on the highways or in homes.

Half and full size backboards to transport patients with known or suspected spinal or neck injuries are carried in the unit along with a supply of emergency dressings, splints and other supplies for a miniature portable emergency room.

Another set of supplies consists of hydraulic jacks, bars and other tools for freeing patients from badly smashed cars and trucks.

The vehicle, a 1968 Pontiac with a Superior body, has four corner warning lights and a top flasher.

Heating and air conditioning are separately supplied for both the patient compartment and the driver compartment.

A public address system operates through the siren. Two-way radio keeps the ambulance in touch with city police, sheriff's office and hospital, and also is used to request police escorts in cities.

The city bought the ambulance last week at a cost of $10,300 including the 10-year-old ambulance then in use.

Wayne, Homer Tied for First in NNL, Leaders Put Records on Line Tonight

Wayne and Homer have moved into a tie for first place in the Northeast Nebraska League race. Both have records of six wins and two losses.

Lawton and Whiting trail the leaders closely in tie for second place with records of five wins and three defeats.

The standings could be altered drastically as the four front-runners put their records on the line tonight.

Tonight Wayne plays at Lawton, Homer goes to Kingsley, and Emerson plays Whiting. Wayne or Homer has a chance to take over first place. But a loss by these two and wins by Lawton or Whiting could make first place even more crowded.

Current standings in the Northeast Nebraska League are as follows:

SS Q & A

Q. Recently, I cut down on the hours I work each week. I am almost 65 years old and I plan to keep on working. I wondered if I could get any social security.

A. The law has been changed so that people can earn up to $1,680 each year and still receive benefits. You may be entitled to some benefits even if you are earning more than that amount. You should telephone or stop by the social security office for more complete information.

Q—Last October, I filed a medicare claim for reimbursement of my doctor bills. It was sent back to me, unpaid, because I submitted an itemized bill that was not accepted. My neighbor, just this week, was paid on her claim that was submitted exactly the same way. Please explain this to me.

A—It is now possible to pay claims for doctor bills and other covered medical services without receipted bills. An itemized bill is all that is necessary. This change was not effective in October when you filed your claim. It was made possible by the 1967 amendments that were signed into law by the President on January 2, 1968.

Q—Occasionally I see a Veterans Administration-repossessed home advertised for sale. Does a prospective buyer have to be a veteran to qualify as a purchaser? Does a person deal with VA or with a real estate firm? Is there any saving by dealing directly with VA?

A—In answer to your first question, a person need not be a veteran to buy a VA-repossessed home. Such homes are generally sold through real estate brokers approved by VA. The VA does not reduce its list sale price when it is approached directly by a prospective purchaser. So there is no saving to be made

NEW NAME. State National's new name is now out in the open for everyone to see... and the sign tells it. The State National Bank and Trust Company, the sign says. And while they are at the job, bank officials are having the time and temperature sign changed, too, so it will include the date. From now on it will show the date as "1st" or "2nd" but will not include the month.

Allen Junior Legion Downs Ponca 6-2; Ups Record to 6-1

That makes six wins in a row for Allen's Junior Legion team. They stopped Ponca six to two Sunday and upped their record to six wins and one loss.

Carnell of Ponca ruined Jim Ellis' bid for a no-hitter with a single to right field with two out in the seventh inning.

Trailing two to one in the fifth inning with two on, Allen loaded the bases on walks by Mitchell and Anderson and a ground rule double by Hill. Schulz drove in three runs with a long double down the right field line. He later scored on an error to give Allen the lead at five to two. Doug Bortoff pitched well for Ponca. He struck out 11, but walked five and gave up four extra-base hits; two doubles and two triples.

Allen had five hits and three errors; Ponca had one hit and one error. Batteries for Allen were Ellis and Smith; batteries for Ponca were Bortoff, Voss (6) and Casey.

THE WAYNE HERALD

Laser Use Demonstration Scheduled For NU Tractor Power, Safety Day

A road patrol equipped with an automatic grade adjustment made possible by a low energy laser light beam will be one of the highlight demonstrations at the University of Nebraska Tractor Power & Safety Day here July 25.

This is but one of scores of uses of the laser developed since its rather recent invention, according to Jack Steele, University of Nebraska Extension agricultural engineer.

A contraction of "Light Amplification by Stimulated Emission of Radiation," laser concentrates and emits light in a straight and narrow beam. When rotated, a laser projects a thin, flat plane of light that can be used to indicate elevations, Steele explained.

"This makes it possible to utilize laser in surveying and in grade-control systems of paving and ditching machines and other earth-moving implements," he said.

Laser equipment is lightweight, simple and results in faster, more accurate work in earthmoving and surveying. The plane of light, projected vertically, can be used to align vertical structures, the NU engineer continued. In surveying, only one man is required instead of two working as a team in the conventional procedure, because the electronic surveyor's rod emits an audible signal to the rodmán when it is in the laser plane, Steele commented.

Aerospace Session Takes Off at WSC

Wayne State's popular aerospace education workshop took off again Monday for its annual session. That is, it took off Monday for the ground school phase lasting three weeks.

Later in the course the 50-student class also will take off literally on a flight to some military base—which one not yet certain. Dr. Lyle Seymour, director, said there's possibility of a flight to Cape Kennedy, Fla., or if not there, to the Air Force Museum at Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio. The first aerospace workshop went to the museum, and faculty members who have gone on all the trips consider that one of the most rewarding.

Also scheduled are field trips (by bus) to SAGE at Sioux City and to SAC headquarters, Offutt Air Force Base.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The editorial department of a weekly newspaper is an important department. Normally it is one person's opinion of topics that concern most of the readers.

You may not agree with an editorial — but if you read the editorial and give serious thought to the subject discussed you have gained. You, as a reader, have given careful thought to an important problem and the writer is proud to have called your attention to an important subject that you may have overlooked.

Housing Authority

What is the Housing Authority doing? The question has been asked several times in the last couple of days.

To answer simply... the group has been busy. Time is necessary to handle some of the problems, in some instances waiting periods are required.

Latest check with Housing Authority Attorney Budd Bornhoff shows this stage of development:

Last week the Authority met and worked on a Workable Program to be submitted to the Housing and Urban Development of the federal government.

This Workable Plan includes many requirements that are not quickly and easily accomplished.

A committee must be picked to make periodic reviews of codes and code enforcements in the city. The Planning Commission is designated as the agency for this job.

The city making application must adopt five model codes relating to electrical, plumbing, housing, building, fire prevention problems. This was done at the last meeting of the city council.

Planning commission must be established and must offer a comprehensive community plan. This has already been done on both counts.

A citizens advisory committee must be appointed to insure that any minority groups are given equal opportunity to share in any programs under the Housing Authority. This committee probably will be appointed at the next meeting of the city council. At the last meeting of the council a resolution was passed, directing the mayor to name a group of 20-25 persons to act in this area. The group must be named, organized and set up a meeting schedule before federal requirements are met.

Enforcement of local codes must be shown to the satisfaction of federal authorities as well as proof that the Housing Authority is cooperating with and providing technical help for the planning commission.

When all these and many other details are wrapped up, proven and accepted, the program will start to become visible.

It's not a matter of the committee not being busy, it is a matter of getting everything done required by law and sweating out the waiting periods.

Discuss the problem with Authority members. They are George Thorbeck, chairman, Mike Eynon, Dale Johansen, Bob Lund and Rev. Frank Pedersen. They can tell you in detail what is yet to be done.

Listen to the Quiet

Thursday we will again celebrate the birthday of our country. It will be observed in many ways in many different places across our nation. Some will find it appropriate to riot, deface, destroy and defame.

Others will take the time for a silent prayer of thanks for what they have... for the privilege of being a member of the freest society on earth.

Some speeches will be made reminding listeners that this land of ours is still great, that we can make it even greater by working together and supporting our government leaders. Even those who oppose the serious programs can help by being the loyal opposition.

We are sure that while the first-mentioned persons will make the most noise Thursday, it will be the quiet-spoken last-mentioned who will be heard, for they will talk of responsibilities and privileges, and the need to earn the rights we all want.

Those who would deny, defame and desecrate our country will be a loud, but very small minority, thank God!

Capital News

Game Commission Bonds? Supreme Court Rules 'No'

LINCOLN—The Nebraska Supreme Court has ruled the state cannot back general or limited obligation bonds for capital improvements because of the long-standing constitutional ban on debt.

The ruling came in the tribunal knocking out a 1967 law authorizing the Game Commission to issue $2.5 million in bonds for a new headquarters building and wiping out major financing portions of a companion measure for local wastewater plant construction.

The laws were enacted by the last legislature at the urging of Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann and were considered the first modern-day test of the debt limitation and its relationship to bonds.

Attorney General Clarence A. H. Meyer initiated the challenge directly with the high court on the basis the laws conflicted with the Constitution. Robert Kutak of Omaha, acting as special attorney for the governor, handled the defense, arguing there was no violation because tax funds were not involved.

A unanimous court sided with Meyer.

The Game Commission law (LB 947) was struck down in its entirety, but the tribunal let stand the measure (LB 884) setting up a five-member State Clean Water Commission, although eliminated were provisions of the statute dealing with state financing.

Richard Duxbury of Lincoln, chairman of the clean waters unit, said the ruling appeared to dissolve the commission for all practical purposes since the agency was created mainly as a financing body.

Dr. Clayton Yeutter, executive assistant to the governor, agreed with Duxbury. He said the court made it clear the state cannot get involved in the bond business until the Constitution is changed.

Yeutter said the ruling underscores the need for voter approval in November of the proposed constitutional amendment to permit debt-financing of highway construction.

It had been thought that if the court allowed the 1967 laws to stand, the highway amendment might not be needed. Yeutter said such speculation now becomes a moot issue.

The court rejected the argument that the Game Commission law did not violate the constitutional restriction on debt because the bonds would be retired from hunting and fishing fees, not general tax funds.

Judge Leslie Bohleng, writing for the court, said game fees are the same as excise taxes and therefore come under the limitation on red-ink spending.

"If the legislature is free to authorize unlimited indebtedness payable from special funds derived from excise taxes, it is apparent that the constitutional limitation upon indebtedness is ineffective," he said.

"We think the act in question is a clear violation...of the Nebraska Constitution. It is a form of financing which the constitutional provision on debt was intended to prevent."

The court was not so final in its pronouncement on the clean waters law. It acknowledged a different set of circumstances were involved because the repayment fees would be levied by cities and counties, not the state.

The tribunal took particular objection to that part of the law permitting the clean waters unit to pledge fees and charges for the payment of bonds and notes.

The judges also found fault with a section authorizing the legislature to appropriate "supplemental funds" to make up any bond payment deficiency.

State Senator Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, one of the managers of the bond bills in the last legislature, doubted the court action would jeopardize state college and University of Nebraska bonds.

"In the first place, some one would have to bring a test in court to determine the question and I don't think any one would do that," he said.

"Furthermore, the supreme court would be very hard put to find unconstitutional a procedure that could endanger millions of dollars in outstanding bonds."

State Game Commission officials were disappointed with the court decision. They said a request for money to erect a building would now have to be made to the 1969 Unicameral.

Educator Calls for End to Aid to Screen War On Flies

Four flies have a tremendous family potential. In fact, some one figured out that one pair of houseflies setting up housekeeping in April could produce about 191,000,000,000,000,000,000 progeny if one died. This would be enough houseflies to cover the entire earth several feet. Fortunately, Mother Nature prevents this from happening. We can give nature a hand though, and help keep these pesky flies under control. Here are some important steps:

secondary education department, said the Job Corps has been an "abject failure" in trying to train and educate out-of-school, out-of-work persons between 16 and 21.

"Other extravagantly financed federal projects usually controlled by local community action groups have likewise failed miserably to make any real inroads on the problem," he added.

Lower withholding rate. The state income tax withholding rate will drop from 10 to 9 percent when the new federal surtax goes into effect, Nebraska Tax Commissioner Murrell B. McNeil reports.

This will be done so that the amount of money withheld from a wage-earner's paycheck does not exceed the total due as the surtax does not affect the federal tax base against which the Nebraska tax is assessed.

The Nebraska tax has been in effect since last Jan. 1. First returns will be submitted in 1969, with the filing deadline April 15.

However, a petition effort is under way to try to abolish the tax. The outcome of this campaign, whether successful or not, will not affect 1968 taxes.

Continue War On Flies

With the warm days of summer, many kinds of insects take to their wings to find places to rear their families. The common housefly is one of the most famous. It is found almost anywhere a family can be reared.

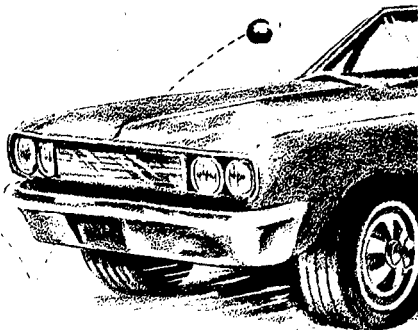

The favorite home is in a pile of decaying vegetation, straw manure, uncovered garbage—in fact almost any kind of decaying organic material is acceptable to start housekeeping.

Four flies have a tremendous family potential. In fact, some one figured out that one pair of houseflies setting up housekeeping in April could produce about 191,000,000,000,000,000,000 progeny if one died. This would be enough houseflies to cover the entire earth several feet. Fortunately, Mother Nature prevents this from happening. We can give nature a hand though, and help keep these pesky flies under control. Here are some important steps:

—Remove all breeding materials such as piles of manure, spilled ensilage, bedding, spilled feed and similar materials regularly—at least once each week. Scatter on fields where it will dry out.

—Screen homes, milk rooms, sheds, summer cottages or other buildings that can be screened.

SCHOOLS' OUT

KEEP YOUR EYE ON THE BALL.—Vacation play and a speeding automobile can be a deadly combination. With the annual spring exodus from schools, new drivers in particular should be alert to signs of children playing near streets without the close supervision of teachers. Drive defensively and avoid tragedies.

—Use a residual insecticide inside barns, calf sheds, loafing sheds and similar farm buildings. Use Cygon or Korlan. Do not apply these chemicals to animals.

—Use only approved sprays for application directly to dairy animals. Vapona, Clodrin and pyrethrins can be applied to lactating dairy cattle. Be sure that the correct percentages and amounts are used.

—Some insecticides can be used as aerosols or mists in infected barns. Special mixtures or preparations of Vapona, Diltrom or pyrethrins will kill flies when used in this way. There is no residual activity.

—Do not use insecticides in milk rooms unless absolutely necessary. Exclude flies by adequate screening and use of double entry doors. If it is necessary to use a chemical, use the 20 per cent Vapona resin strips, or pyrethrin aerosol.

—Place sweet baits containing Dipeptex Vapona, malathion or diazinon in places flies congregate. Sweep up and replace baits regularly.

—Hang impregnated fly cords or strips in barns. These may contain Vapona, Dimetilin or diazinon.

—Swat the fly. Cows are provided with a natural fly-swatter. In situations where flies are nuisances but not numerous—use a fly-swatter. Swatters are the best bet for use in the home. If there are more flies than you care to swat—it is time to fix the screens.

—Be patient, be persistent, be sure, be safe and be satisfied. Flies can be reduced but not exterminated. Good sanitation, coupled with proper insecticide use, can reduce the nuisance of flies safely.

Variety of Demonstrations

A number of new demonstrations will feature this year's Tractor Day program at the University of Nebraska Field Laboratory here July 25.

Expected to be of special interest to farmers and other spectators will be demonstrations of a helicopter used for air ambulance service in the state, a fire control demonstration, use of the laser beam for automatic grade control on a piece of earthmoving equipment and a tractor upset.

For mechanically-minded individuals who are interested in "what's underneath the hood" of modern tractors, this year's offering will include a new, rotary type engine in a tractor not shown before in the state. The engine has no reciprocating parts and is in use in some foreign cars.

Among new tractor models, numbering 30, available for visitors to see will be some models with turbo-chargers and the new Hydrostatic drive. The traditional tractor day parade is expected to include at least five tractors from three European countries—England, Italy and Poland.

In the area of tillage and crop production, farmers will see a 6-row planter with 30-inch row spacing modified for use with the Nebraska till-plant (minimum tillage) system.

Rounding out field demonstrations will be a new automatic surface irrigation system, utilizing gated pipe and the use of liquid manure "honey" wagons for waste disposal. Livestock waste control has taken on new urgency in the wake of concern by health authorities as to the possible pollution of Nebraska streams by feedlot wastes.

Introduces the NEW AMOCO 120SS Radial Oval

An Exciting New Experience in Driving

- It's constructed differently than any conventional tire
- It takes 3 times longer to make than a conventional tire
- It looks wider... and it is
- The ride is unique and secure compared to a conventional tire
- It's a gas saver
- It's reversible... red stripes on one side... dual white on the other... it's two tines in one

What does radial mean?

Answer Radial describes the type of tire construction. Body cords in a radial tire run side by side, across the tire, from rim to rim and do not crisscross as they do in a conventional tire. A belt of specially treated cords is then placed on top of the flexible cord body under the rubber tread.

What does oval mean?

Answer Oval describes a new concept in tire profile. Compared to a conventional tire the oval tire is wider and lower, much like a racing tire.

Why does the AMOCO 120 SS Radial Oval look different?

Answer The AMOCO 120 SS Radial Oval looks different because it is different. It combines both the radial and oval tire construction concept. It is lower, wider and has a flatter tread surface than a conventional tire. The AMOCO 120 SS Radial Oval also has the normal under-inflated look of a radial tire.

American Cancer Society Receives $1,811 from Dixon County Drive

Dixon County residents contributed $1,811.11 to the Nebraska division of the American Cancer Society in 1968, according to Dixon County Chairman, Irma Foulks.

"We are very grateful for the volunteers who helped and for each one who contributed," Mrs. Foulks stated. "We are looking forward to the day when cancer will be as rare as smallpox, polio and other killers of a few years ago."

Contributions to the American Cancer Society are used primarily for research and education. American cancer funds are used to spearhead research of many types of cancer. On September 1, 1967, there were 61 American Cancer Society grants for more than $2 million that were directly or indirectly related to leukemia. This program embraces the quest for a simple practical test to detect leukemia before it develops in the blood stream, the search for more effective drugs for treating the disease, and studies relating to radiation, viruses and basic leukemic cell structure and function.

Many people who die of cancer each year could be saved with the knowledge we now have if they had an annual check-up.

Interesting, educational films are available to organizations and groups who desire them. Mrs. Foulks has a catalog of films and will order them for any group. As people understand more about the disease and how to check themselves, cancer will be discovered in its early and most curable stages.

"We would like to see many of these films used," Mrs. Foulks said. "Even though we have a wealth of information available, it does no good until it is used."
