Many campaign workers are still visiting donors where they work, and hope to finish the visits as soon as possible, Fuelberth said.

Although the Chest chose not to have a residential area campaign this year, many residents who are not employed, and not likely to be visited, may want to give, and they can give simply by sending a check or a pledge to the Community Chest Secretary, Ted Bahe.

Chest President Larry Delonge explained the decision to eliminate the residential campaign this way: "It required a lot of effort by many people, and frequently they had residents tell them they were giving where they worked. As a result, the Chest directors thought it would be wise to put all their effort into the business campaign."

But DeForge added, "We don't want to overlook anybody who wants to help the Chest commissioners and in charge of the staff of the State Tax Commissioners and in charge of the staff of the State Tax Commissioners and in charge of the staff of the State Tax Commissioners and in charge of the staff of the State Tax Commissioners and in charge of the staff of the State Tax Commissioners and in charge of the staff of the State Tax Commissioners and in charge of the staff of the State Tax Commissioners and in charge of the staff of the State Tax Commissioners and in charge of the staff of the State Tax Commissioners and in charge of the staff of the State Tax Commissioners and in charge of the staff of the State Tax Commissioners and in charge of the commissioners and in charge of the commissioners and in charge of the staff of the State Tax Commissioners and in charge of the commissioners and the total charge of the commissioners and the commissioners and the commissioners and the charge of the charge of the charge of the charge

Motor Vehicles

In 1966 the Federal government passed a law which necessitates Nebraska to implement a statewide annual inspection of all vehicles or else lose ten per cent of the allocation of Federal highway funds.

One of a series of six meetings being sponsored by the Nebraska New Car Dealers Association to acquaint dealers with the Motor Vehicle Inspection Law was held Monday in Norfolk. Approximately 90 car dealers from northeast Nebraska, including several from Wayne, heard Rayfield E. Johnson, chief of the Divison Inspection in Lincoln, describe the type of Inspection stations needed, space requirements and the necessary equipment to make the Inspections. It also spoke concerning items to be inspected and the methods to be used in making the inspections.

The Vehicle Inspection Law becomes effective Jan. 1, 1989. Owners of vehicles will pay a fee of $4 per unit to have their car, pickup, semi-trailer or motorcycle, inspected annually.

It is anticipated that it will take anywhere from 30_minutes to an hour for each inspection. Most car dealers will have an approved inspection station as well as several local service stations.

What will be inspected on your car or vehicle? The horn must Hear Galbraith

William Galbraith, past-national Commander of the American Legion, said in a speech given before the Dixon County Republican banquet in Wakefield Saturday night, "South Vietnam is a miserable place to fight, but do you know that South Vietnam has vast acres of land with rich soil and proper rainfall to produce food even in excess of our rich Missouri bottom land if properly used, with the know-how from our country, they could raise enough food to feed study per cent of Asia."

Calbraith visited South Vietnam last year as a Nebraskan and his observations help one to understand why the Communists in North Vietnam, as they are in need of the rich land on which to produce food, inasmuch as North Vietnam is concentrated with industry.

Wayne Junior Chamber of Commerce will take part again this year in Nebraska Honey Sunday, according to Roger Nelson, secretary. Chairman for the Honey Sunday committee will be Darrel Fuelberth.

Serving as Honorary Chairman of Nebraska Honey Sunday will be Mrs. Nor ber T Ife mann, making the second consecutive year she has helped in the statewide effort for mentally retarded. The Nebraska State Association for Retarded Children (NSARC) and the Nebraska Jaycees are co-sponsors for the annual door-to-door fund-ratising drive. Kay Rising, Lincoln, is the state "Honey Sunday" chairman for the Jaycees, and Jack Boren, Grand Island, is chairman for the NSARC.

Local chapters of the two organizations organize door-to-door solicitation programs in communities throughout the state. Volunteers from church organizations, youth groups, Boy Scotts and others help with the one-day honey sales program. Net proceeds from the sale of honey go to support programs for the mentally retarded in the state.

The Bob Bergt-Warren Marotz vote showed only a three-point agread when the Third Ward votes were brought in for counting. Final unofficial figures show Bergt with 1,541 to Marotz' 1,358.

Voting strongly favored retention of Wayne County in Educational Service Unit 1, with a final tally of 1,912 voting against exclusion and 1,200 voting in favor of exclusion.

Republican Candidate Richard Nixon received 2,446 votes in the Presidential race in the county, while Vice-President Hubert Humphrey was getting 738 votes. Third Party Candidate George C. Wallace received 184 ballots. The record turn-out of voters expected did not materialize as only 3,574 persons voted Tuesday. In the 1964 presidential election 3,824 voters went to the polls in the county. County Clerk Norris Weible said 4,226 voters are registered.

Absentee and disabled voters this year are 15 greater than four years ago, in 1968 there were 208 such ballots requested as compared to 193 in 1964. These votes will be counted when the canvassing board meets to make the counts official.

Wayne County voters also strongly favored an income tax in the state, casting 2,497 votes against infitative Petition No. 300 which would promibit the state from levying an income tax. Only 773 voted in favor of the measure.

the Wayne Schools. A consultant for health and physical education, Gray said the Wayne "physical education program is very satisfactory; and as far as I am concerned, it is one of the best in the state. The student receives a well-rounded program."
Gray also said that Wayne

Walthill Downs Junior High 11; Squad's First Loss

The Junior High football squad suffered its first defeat Monday when it took on the Waithill freshmen and sophomores. The hosts proved too big and finally wore down visiting Wayne in the last quarter when they scored two touchdowns within the closing three minutes of the game to end up on top 13-0.

Wayne had a chance to score early in the game when they drove all the way to Walthill's 10 yard line only to see their pass dropped in the endzone.

Hank Overin cited Doug Sturm as outstanding on offense. He made runs of 30 and 40 yards and took a punt all the way from his own 20 to Walthill's 20 become being dragged down. Strong on both offense and defense was Randy Nelson. Overin also noted that the entire defensive line played well in the futile effort, orchig the hosts to go to the air for their touchdowns.

The Junior High team ends

The Junior High team ends e season with four wins and the season with four wins and one loss. They knocked off Laurel (12-9), Wayne Freshmen (26-0), Pierce (19-7) and Norfolk Catholic (26-0). Overin pointed out that only once in the past five years has the Junior High group been beaten by lanother Junior High team. All their deep feats have been at the lands of freshmen-sophomore teams.

An intersquad game will be played Tuesday at 7:30 if the weather permits. The first 12 players on the squad will not be eligible for the game, the Sioux City media sports di rectors will also meet.

Gavins Point Yields 25-Pound Sturgeon

Delbert lienn of Petersburg recently had the rare luckto land one of the most unusual fish in Nebraska when he pulled a 25-pound lake sturgeon from the tailwaters at Gavins Point Dam. The fish measured 5th inches in length and was taken on a worm. Shovelnose sturgeon (or sand sturgeon) are fairly common in the Missouri and Platte Rivers but seldom exceed four pounds. A close relative, the pallid sturgeon, is rare in Nebraska waters and reaches weights of over 40 pounds. Even more rare is the lake sturgeon, which may grow to 200 pounds and eight feet in

Local Hunters Get Pine Ridge Turkeys

Turkeys became legal game Saturday across much of northern Nebraska and local hunters par-ticipating scored well.

Hunting out of Fort Robinson near Crawford in the Pine Ridge area, Troy Yaugita, Bill Richard-son and Roy Christensen, all Wayne hunters, scored. Don Wil-tig, Broken Bow, and Charles Carhart, Neligh, both former wayne residents, hunted in the area and were successful.

Christensen's 18-pound gobbler sported a beard of more than 11 inches, the longest ever mea-sured at Crawford, according to state game technicians at the check station.

With only 500 permits in the line Ridge area this year as ompared to 1,500 last year, With only 500 permits in the Pine Ridge area this year as compared to 1,500 last year, game commission officials were hoping for a 75 per cent success figure, but by Sunday night they were revising their forecasts downward to about 50 or 60 per cent.

Bond Refunding Is Board Topic

Is Board Topic

Nebraska State Normal Board met in Omaha Wednesday to discuss the refunding of $2,500,000 in revenue bonds which had been Issued for the Ihanchig of construction of the new dormitory at Wayne State.

Board Secretary, Albin Larson, stated the board is obligated to refund the debt by Sept. 4,1959, by putting on the market new, permanent revenue bonds, to take the place of the present interim arrangement.

The Board must get the technical approval of State Auditor Ray Johnson before Issuing new bonds, who reportedly may question the WSC arrangement, after the State Supreme Court struck down two revenue bonds bills in June that had been passed in the last Legislature.

Can the Legislature permit educational agencies to Issue revenue bonds beyond the 100-thousand-dollar debt Hmit provided in the constitution? This is the question which may possibly reach the Supreme Court.

There are revenue bonds for construction at the University of Nebraska which are presently outstanding, worth $28 million dollars, and $26 million dollars worth of bonds outstanding for construction at state colleges.

HOGS IN CORN NEED FELCO HOG BISCUITS

Let your hogs "glean" corn fields after picking. They can pick up a lot of corn that will be wasted otherwise and cause problems in next year's soybean fields. But corn alone can't provide all the protein, vitamins and minerals needed for fast, efficient gains. The answer is Felco Hog Biscuits. They're large, nowaste pellets that are easy to feed because you just throw them on the ground.

Careful watching of "new" cattle, a temperature check of any

Profit or Loss on Cattle Usually Determined Early, Beef Expert Says

"The first two weeks usually determines the profit for loss on a lot of cattle," a successful large feeder recently fold water Tolman, area beef specialist at the NE Station near Concord. All range cattle are tired and excited as they come to the feed lots. Fresh-weand calves are under more stress than year lings or "pre-conditioned" calves—the longer the time in shipment the more the upset—and exposure due to weather change, dust or movement through disease infested yards or truyks all bring fested yards or truyks all bring "droopy" ones and indvidual treatment of the sick following a veterinarian's directions have been more successful than group "preventative" treatments at Northeast Station, Tolman Northeast Station, Tolman noted.

"We put 'new' calves in small lots where they won't 'mill' around and provide good hay, haylage or corn silage where the calves will find it," Tolman says, ite advised that with hay or raylage you feed two to four pounds of grain per head as quickly as you can get them totake it. Silage or grass hay should be supplemented withprotein and minerals. Since the total feed intake is low for a couple of weeks, a movement through disease in-fested yards or trucks all bring extra problems, Tolman explained.
There is no best way to handle these "new" cattle, but rest and return to normal feed intake return to normal feed Intake are keys to success. Treatments of one sort or other are poor substitutes for "loving care"; treatments are not only expensive but may actually add to the stress on the cattle if they are not needed, according to Tolman.

combat shipping stresses--

Weaning round up, sorting, vaccination and shipping stresses may cause a calf's rumen to stop functioning. Animals go off feed, get sick, take a long time to recover. They need your help for a fast start more help than rest and water only will provide. Choose the Kent Starting Program that best meets your feeding situation.

One of three new, beefed up starting programs from KENT is tailor made to start your beef calves on the road to a fast, profitable finish! All three provide 350 mg of antibiotics per head per day to help control shipping fever and respiratory infections better than ever before.

All three provide 350 mg of antibiotics per head per day to help control shipping fever and respiratory infections better than ever before.

• KENT SUPER A-D primer (Supplement) is a super fortified starting supplement that provides the kind of help calves and yearlings need. In addition to antibiotics. Super A-D Primer is fortified with 100,000 units of Vitamin A and 50,000 units of Vitamin D per pound, plus phosphorus and other essential minerals. Just mix it with grain or hand feed SUPER A-D Primer for 14.30 days, depending on age.

• KENT Cattle-'n Calf Starter (Semi-Complete Feed) provides everything but the hay, and is now beefed up with extra antibiotics and essential vitamins and minerals to help light off the respiratory infections commonly resulting from shipping stresses. Fed free choice with 5 lbs of hay per head per day, calves pass the stress period without setback, are ready to go on full feed in just 28 days.

• KENT E-Z Starter (Complete Feed) pelleted, bulky high-fiber, complete starting ration with high levels of antibiotics and Vitamins A and D. In just 14 days, the calf rumen is working normally, stress problems are under control. Recommended for any yearlings scheduled for a high-energy finishing program such as the KENT NRB (No roughage beef) Program

When you receive your feeder cattle, choose the right, beefed up Kent starting ration to put them on the road to profit quickly. We have free interature on all three methods. SUPER A-D Primer. Cattle-'n Calf Starter and E-Z Starter. Find out now each of these starters can work into KENT's new Precision:Net Energy Beef programs that help you set your daily gain goals and make them.

COMMENT EDITORIAL

The editorial department of a weekly newspaper is an important department. Normally it is one person's opinion of topics that concern most of the readers.

It is the duty of an editorial writer to search all available facts before he sits down to write. From this basis the writer should be able to give a clear picture of important tobics.

You may not agree with an editorial — but if, you read the editorial and give serious thought to the subject discussed you have gained. You, as a reader, have given careful thought to an important problem and the writer is proud to have called your attention to an important subject that you may have overlooked.

Are You Getting the Most From Your Dollar?

(Editor's Note: The following editorial appeared in the Manawa (Wisconsin) Advocate. It gets the message across so effectively, we think it merits reprinting).

Ever wonder just where that dollar spent out of town goes

- own goes?
 "It tell you where it doesn't go.
 "It doesn't go to help pay for the new school.
 "It doesn't go to help pay your city welfare.
 "It doesn't go to help pay the cost of curb

Points to Ponder

Most Nebraska drivers are aware of the fact that the state has a point system law, however, few motorists remainber the law's provisions. The following lists those provisions and points. A licensed driver is given 12 points but may lose them, or a portion of them, if convicted of any of the following:

Conviction of a felony in which a motor vehicle was used—lose 12 points.

Third offense drunken driving, regardless of whether trial court found it to be third offense—lose 12 points, lose 12 points.

Third offense reckless driving or willful reckless driving—lose 12 points.

Faiture to stop and render aid—lose 12 points.

Driving under the influence of liquor or ug-lose 6 points.
Willful reckless driving lose 5 points.
Reckless driving-lose 5 points.
Reckless driving-lose 5 points.
Reckless driving-lose 5 points.
Speeding: 1 to 5 mph, lose 1 point; 5 to 11 ph, lose 2 points; 11 and over mph, lose 3 ints.

Speeding. ... mph, lose 2 points; 11 and over mph, 1000 points.
All other traffic violations, except parking, mufflers and overloading trucks, lose 2 points. An accumulation of 12 points in any two year period will cause automatic revocation of one's driver's license for one year.
If you are a licensed Nebraska driver, these points are well worth pondering. Driving is not a right but a privilege. — MMW.

Takenique

Shoplifting, a sideline art of both amateur and professional thieves, continues to plague local businessmen. This annual problem tends to take on greater proportions as the calendar heads in toward the holiday season.

A brief survey of approximately twenty-five business houses in downtown Wayne reveals that though shoplifting increases as the customer traffic increases, the problem is actually one which lasts 365 days a year.

Ninety percent of the storekeepers said that as far as they can tell, most of their shoplifted losses are carried out of the store by those who are college age or younger, although there are adults seemingly also afflicted with kleptomania.

Connolsseurs of stealing will enter a business often in a group, and while one or two of them engage a clerk, or clerks, whichever the case may be, the remaining members of the group will help themselves. If an individual works group will help themselves. If an individual works alone, rather than in a group, he or she will likely use heavy clothing or a container of some type in which to hide the stolen merchandise. Many times parents are not aware that their children have found a particular item in a store to be overly attractive resulting in the youngster taking it. What explanation the youth gives to his parents, if any, as to how or when he or she acquired the article is not known. In one case a store suspected a boy of having taken a transistor radio. Not long afterwards the lad's father was in the store wanting to purchase an earphone "for that transistor radio my boy bought in here the other day". No charges were filed for lack of evidence, but here is a case where evidently the lad had lied as to how he had obtained the radio.

Perhaps petty larceny seems to be insignifi-cant, but once knowing that just grocery stores alone lose 180 million dollars a year through shoplifting, then one commences to understand the immensity of the problem. Some shoplifters are kleptomaniacs. They are emotionally sick people who steal, not be-cause they are poor, in fact many of them are well-to-do people, but they steal seemingly as an obsession.

Most communities have at least an emotion cause they are poor, in tact many of them are well-to-do people, but they steal seemingly as an obsession.

Most communities have at least one or two individuals who are well known among businessmen as having to be constantly watched. When such a person is found with merchandise on their person without their having had any intention of paying for it, why doesn't the businessman prosecute? In a city, undoubtedly charges would be filled, but in a small community the whole affair would be a "bad" story, involving perhaps a $1 or $2 ftem. Lenlency on the part of business people may be a contributing cause of continued "lifting" by a particular individual.

No one likes a thief, in fact, a thief certainly doesn't want another thief stealing from him! And whether one is stealing a small ring from the Five and Ten Store or whether carting off a huge missile, as did espionage agents in Europe recently, it all amounts to being a thief.

During the next two months in particular, there is sure to be a crackdown on shoplifters everywhere. If there are nine customers in a store and the tenth person shoplifts an item, then brings suspicion on all. So, if you are shopping and believe you have observed a person stealing an item, don't feel in any way guilty about reporting it to the manager. It will help spotlight the guilty and lift the suspicion from the innocent.

Let Us Remember

Pause with me a few moments in an awe-somely quiet section of our city; a section of town where our hearts often linger in memories; a place where the occupants dwell neither in riches or poverty, and the volume of the city's noise at the gate makes no disturbance.

Perhaps cometeries are not given their just rtlon of notice. Stand with me in the midst Wayne's "silent city" a few moments, out here the west edge of town, and perhaps we'll leave ese acres of mystery a bit the wiser.

If one will listen ever so closely while passing rough the streets aligned with marble, granite d stone, there is an extra-sensory perception allable to the human ear which makes it possible hear seldom listened-to voices.

John Hossack, who resigned Nov. 1 as state engineer, predicted the total requests from all the states would be at least 20,000 miles—with only 1,500 available.

the states would be at least 20,000 miles — with only 1,500 available. Nevertheless, Hossack said Nebraska rushed in its request for a share "because we don't intend to get caught short."

The north-south porridor proposed by the State Roads Department actually is a zig-zag. it would start at the Ranasa border near Chester and go northe to 1-80 at York, a distance of 57.2 miles. Then it would start orth again just to the west of Lincoln and go 120.8 miles to South Sloux City. The Nebraska request also included interstate spurs from 1-80 north 6,5 miles to Grand Island and south 16.9 miles to Hastings. Another spuri, including a Missouri River bridge, would extend 2.9 miles from 1-29 in lowa to connect with U. S. 77 and 20 at South Sloux City (and with the Lincoln-South Sloux route if it is authorized). Lowest in order of preference in the Nebraska request was a 42.5-mile stretch from 1-680 north destreated of Omaha to the Lincoln-South Sloux route if the Sloux route if Miscour content would be just north of Fremont.

The six Nebraska projects would total 246.3 miles and would cost almost $140 million, according to Bruce Gillan, deputy state engineer for planning.

of the State Highway Advisory Commission.

Nebraskans have complained since the original 41,000 miles of Interstate construction were allocated by the federal government that the state received only one super-highway route.

Numerous associations were formed to promote north-south routes in various parts of the state. Representatives of these organizations testified at Lincoln and Washington in behalf of their proposals.

However, it was not until con-gress passed the 1968 Highway Act authorizing snadditional 1,500 miles that there was any indication more mileage would be possible. Even then, state offi-cials said, the original rules dis-couraged Nebraska from making a request.

The new law was originally interpreted to require a state to "trade" some of its previously-allocated mileage for new projects. That would have head Nebraska would have had todelay construction on some portion of 1-80 in the western part of the state in order to qualify for a new proposal.

Since 1-80 is a main cross-country artery, the Nebraska officials knew the Federal Burean of Public Roads would never agree to any delays on that highway—and the state was also eager to finish it.

But the "trade" rule was withdrawn early in October and states were allowed to suggest projects on their own merits. That was when Nebraska put together its Officials of the commission-formally known as the Nebrasia Management Study Analysis Committee—say it may require at least 100 individual bills to encompass all the recommendations.

The most controversial proposals involve the appointment-instead of election—of the secretary of state, auditor, treasurer and attorney general. According to the Hoover report, the governor should have the authority to appoint all but the auditor and he should serve under legislative appointment. State Auditor Ray C. Johnson has not commented on the Hoover recommendation, but Secretary of State Frank Marsh, Treasurer Wayne R. Swanson and Attorney General Clarence Meyer have objected streamously. The Hoover report also suggests that the Board of Regents be appointed, rather than elected.

Ag Research Yearbook
How our food, clothing and shelter are constantly being improved through agricultural research is told in "Science for Better Living" the 1968 Yearbook of Agriculture, published Oct. 20 by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.
The Yearbook's preface points out that everyone benefits in their daily lives from agricultural research "because it improves the meals we eat, the clothes we wear, our water and air, the wood we build much of our homes with and the plants and trees that make our surroundings more livable."

Research developments the book reports on include oblong tomatoes to cut tomato harvesting costs, growing a "forest" in three years, use of plants as air pollution detectives, new techniques in frozen foods, effective methods for stopping crabgrass, improved cotton seersucker, better ornamentals for calorie cheese. One of the book's chapters tells how space satelites may help farmers of the future.

Hanson showed himall over his farm and then asked the man if he still thought he had stolen them. "After hearing his answer, I'm sure he thought I had them hidden in the house!" He also likes to tell friends about the time a group of men from Concord tried to steal his father is watermelons. They crossed a creek and crept up to the patich when all of a sudden a gun went off. First Dixon County Survey Made in '57 lines. The first survey was made in 1857 under federal government contract. The survey established township boundaries. Later, the townships were subdivided into sections and quarter corners and sixteenth corners were laid out as the necessity arose.

As soon as the first settlers arrived in Dixon County, it became necessary to establish legal boundary lines to minimize the danger of conflicting property lines.

Early surveys were made under difficult conditions. The equipment was difficult to move over the rough uninhabited country.

over the rough uninhabited coun-try.

The equipment was quite dif-ferent from that used today. A chain 66 feet long, which con-sisted of 100 links each 7.92 inches long, was the principal instrument used. Much of the inaccuracy of early day land measurement could be attributed to the wear on the links of the chain as it was dragged through sand, dust and mud from one place to another.
