849 Farms Sign Up for '69 Feed Grain Program; Deadline Extended to April 4

At the end of the seven-week sign-up period, Wayne County had 849 farms enrolled in the 1969 feed grain program, according to figures released by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office in Wayne.

That compares with 947 farms that were signed up for the 1968 program at the same time last year. In 1968 there were 36,499 acres diverted by this time. This year there have been 35,382 diverted.

The time for the farm program sign-up has been extended through April 4 in several states, including Nebraska, because of adverse winter weather conditions.

Charles C. Brodersen, chairman of the Nebraska Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation state committee, said that the U. S. Department of Agriculture, in announcing the extension, noted that exceptionally deep snow and severe cold in the Northern Plains and northwest states have made it virtually impossible for many farmers to visit the county ASCS offices in order to sign up for participation in the 1969 programs.

Participation in the 1969 wheat and feed grain programs as of March 7 was lagging substantially in the Northern Plains region, and by a lesser degree in the Northwest, as compared to last year, he said.

State figures indicate that 46,815 farms have enrolled in feed grain, only 81 per cent as many farms as were enrolled during the same number of sign-up days in 1968. Under the 1969 wheat program as of the March 7th report, 34,302 farms have enrolled. That is only 78 per

Community Leaders Think Wayne Should Enter CIP

Wanda Owens, director of financial aids at Wayne State, met with a group of community leaders at a Friday noon luncheon in the Walnut Room at Wayne State's Student Union. Acting as chairman of the 1969 Community Improvement Program in Wayne, she introduced each of the Wayne businessmen and asked their opinion as to an executive board whether Wayne should enter the 1969 CIP competition.

Discussing the proposed participation in the statewide community improvement program, administered by the Nebraska Department of Economic Development, were Roger Elder, Chairman of Commerce, Tony Netherland, planning consultant Lyle Seymour, Chamber board; Willard Wiltsie, hospital planning board; Wilmer Marra, city council; Dean Pierson, school board; R. G. Fuelberth, Wayne Industries; Adon Jeffrey, task force; and Clotus Sharer, planning commission and Volunteer Fireman.

Mayor Koplin and 1968 CIP chairman, Keith Moxley, were unable to attend.

Several aspects of the Community Improvement Program were discussed as it related to Wayne. Contest entry forms may be filed by the local community improvement council at any time prior to April 15.

Those attending the luncheon agreed that Wayne should enter the 1969 competition for community betterment.

The Nebraska Community Improvement Program is an attempt to offer guidance to communities in their efforts to provide a more attractive living environment for business, industry and the individual citizen, and then to honor communities for their successes in achieving this objective.

Chairman Owens pointed out that this is the first year there has been a minimum criteria which must be met by those

Motor Vehicle Inspection Mandatory

Beginning April 1, it will be required by Nebraska State Law that each licensed motor vehicle operating on Nebraska highways be inspected by an approved Motor Vehicle Inspection Station, according to Kenneth Francke of Norfolk who is the area inspector for 16 counties in northeast Nebraska for the Motor Vehicle Department in Lincoln.

Francke said in a telephone interview Friday that the revised inspection manuals are already in the hands of several Wayne inspection stations and the rest of the stations will have theirs soon.

The inspections are to determine if the vehicles are safe to operate on the highways, streets and roadways of the state. The State of Nebraska has been compelled to enact a law of this nature in order to participate in Federal highway funds distributed after January 1, 1970.

According to Francke, each motor vehicle is to be inspected and that no one will be allowed to operate a motor vehicle without the required certificate showing the inspection was made and the vehicle approved.

In order to avoid any further confusion during the first year, the Department of Motor Vehicles has set up a special procedure to be followed by all vehicle owners which will determine when they will be required to get their inspection. This will be determined by the last digit on the vehicle license plate. This number will indicate the month of required inspection.

If the license plate number ends in "3" or "4," then the vehicle must be inspected in April and then once each 12 months following. If the number is "5" the inspection will be required in May, etc. Francke said this includes all farm licensed vehicles. If the number is "0," then the inspection will be the tenth month or October.

"Once the vehicle has ac-

Turkey Hunters Better Make Plans; Over Half Permits Already Taken

Turkey hunters will again have 10 days to cash in on the coveted and tricky game bird during the 1969 spring toms-only hunt, but chances of getting a permit are already dwindling.

Regulations for the April 19-28 season were announced on Feb. 28 and already over 80% of the 1,210 authorized permits have been spoken for. The Game Commission expects the remainder to run out soon.

Number of permits remaining for the 10-day, toms-only hunt include Nobrara, 74; Red Willow, 41; Round Top, 227; Silver Creek, 2; Verdigris, 28, and Wildcat, 45.

Application forms are available from permit vendors, most county clerks, any conservation officer or any Game Commission office. Fees are $5 for residents and $15 for non-residents, plus $1 for the required 1/2-ounce Game Bird Stamp. Second permits can be obtained on Apr. 1 if any remain unsold.

Legal weapons for taking turkeys are shotguns from 20-10 gauge or longbows. A turkey call is required for the spring hunt, and shooting hours are from sunrise to sunset. Hunters will find that some unit boundaries are changed from last year. These changes are to make boundary descriptions simpler. Also, two units open last year are not this year to protect recent releases of additional turkeys.

Opening dates were established recently by the Game Commission for other hunting seasons. These include split openings for pheasant, quail and deer similar to last year. Pheasant and quail shooting will open in all but the southeast corner of the state on November 1, and in that southeast corner on November 8. Firearm deer hunting will begin in the southeast corner on November 1, and in the remainder of the state November 8.

Other openers are archery deer, Sept. 20; archery antelope, Aug. 16; squirrel, Sept. 1; rati, Sept. 1; prairie grouse, Sept. 20; rifle antelope, Sept. 27; snipe, Oct. 4, and fall turkey season, Oct. 25. The cottontail season will again begin Jan. 1. Waterfowl opening dates were not set as they must fall within the federal framework announced in late August.

Bag limits, season lengths and other regulations on small and upland game will be set in late August, and big-game regulations will be established in late May.

Wants Rodeo News

Each summer, throngs of cheering spectators gather at arenas across the state to witness a sport where man pits his skill and strength against brute force and stubbornness. It's called rodeo.

And, that singular sport will be the topic of an upcoming feature in NEBRASKA Land Magazine, the Game Commission's nationally-circulated publication. In conjunction with that story, the editors will run as complete a listing as possible of the rodeos taking place across Nebraska, the dates, the prizes and any other pertinent details.

To be included in this listing, send the information to Elizabeth Huff, NEBRASKA Land, State Capitol, Lincoln. Deadline for inclusion is March 26.

Laurel '5' Ranked 7th In Class B

Laurel High School, despite never making it to the state basketball tournament, topped seventh place in the final class B basketball standings.

Wanted: 1969 Outstanding Stockman

An Outstanding Stockman Award will be made in Northeast Nebraska again this year according to George Olson of Winnebago, director of the Northeast Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association and chairman of the Stockman Award Committee.

Olson is asking for at least one nomination for the honor from each of the four counties covered by the association, Dixon, Dakota, Wayne and Thurston.

A plaque will be presented to the stockman selected "for outstanding service to the Livestock Industry" at the Feeders Association annual banquet which will be held at Wayne in April.

The 1968 Outstanding Stockman award went to Claus Malmberg, Pender. Malmberg is credited with a large part in organizing the association and served as its first president. He is a community leader in many projects, has extensive cattle feeding operations and is well known for his success in feeding cattle on pasture.

This organization was the nation's largest local feeders' association in 1968. Its directors are engaged in a membership drive to retain this position but have been hampered in their efforts by unfavorable weather and road conditions.

One of the more unique bills introduced is LB394 which deals with contracts signed by householders with door-to-door salesmen. The bill would give the householder three days in which to withdraw from the contract if case he or she would change their mind after the salesman had left.

The Senator was asked, "What are the chances of keeping the two per cent sales tax?" He stated, "I doubt very much if it can remain at two per cent." He also pointed out that LB375, a conflict of interest bill, was introduced in an attempt to find out legislators' financial interests so it might be determined as to whether legislators were serving in the public interest or for their own interests.

Senator Wallway was noticeably hoarse for which he apologized and said he was taking a cold. He continued to field questions, however, and after discussing the eight per cent penalty clause tenant has declined to run for another term.

Seeking election are Dorothy Ley and Irvin Brandt of the Citizens Party and Bob Berg and Larry King of the Popular Party.

Voters in the First Ward will cast their ballots at the fire hall, those in the Second Ward at the city library and those of the Third Ward at the county courthouse.

Besides registering, you must have lived within the city limits 40 days prior to the election to vote for city councilmen.

Registration is not required for voting in the school board election. Requirements are that you must have lived in the district 40 days; be 21 years old; and own real estate or personal property that was assessed in the district in the last annual assessment or have a spouse who was assessed or have children of school age living in the district.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The editorial department of a weekly newspaper is an important department. Normally it is one person's opinion of topics that concern most of the readers. It is the duty of an editorial writer to search all available facts before he sits down to write. From this basis the writer should be able to give a clear picture of important topics.

Here We Go Again

Well, the war hawks and flag wavers probably had a heyday listening to Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird testify before the Senate Armed Services Committee Wednesday. Here's a man who speaks their language.

Laird told the group that because our emphasis in the past was on "operations" rather than on "assisting the South Vietnamese to acquire the means to defend themselves" we will probably have to remain in South Vietnam another two years in order to bring the military situation under control. Sounds nice, but what it boils down to is another admittance by the United States that it is losing the war there and that the only response it can think of is "more of the same."

What we have here is not a failure to communicate, but a failure on the part of those high in our government to see things as they really are and a fear to tell the American people the truth about the situation.

Despite daily box scores detailing the huge deaths inflicted on the enemy compared to the few of the Allies, despite the overwhelming military

You may not agree with an editorial — but if you read the editorial and give serious thought to the subject discussed you have gained. You, as a reader, have given careful thought to an important problem and the writer is proud to have called your attention to an important subject that you may have overlooked.

superiority of the Allied forces, despite the presence of over one-half million American men in South Vietnam, we are still losing that war.

We are losing it because we have been unable to swing the peasants away from the Viet Cong and over to the South Vietnamese government. We will continue to lose it because blind military power will only depopulate and demoralize a nation of people; it will not make of them strong and loyal allies.

And now the American people, who only recently had their spirits lifted when the possibility of extricating ourselves from that war on the other side of the world was dangled before them, must hear that it will take "an additional two years" before the situation is under control.

It seems like the former Secretary of Defense, Robert McNamara, said those exact words. But he said them several years ago. And we're still there.

We can only hope that something fruitful emerges from the Paris peace talks. — N.J.H.

Letters to the Editor

Letters to the editor may be published under a pen name if the writer desires, however, the true signature and address must be a part of the original letter. Letters must be pertinent and current, be brief as possible and contain no libelous statements. The Wayne Herald reserves the right to edit or reject any letter.

Dear Editor: We hear people comment about whatever happened to the "old fashioned neighborliness" that people had for each other many years ago. As far as we're concerned it is very much alive! When we needed help to dig our machinery out of all that snow to prepare for our farm sale this past week many neighbors came to help. They brought snow shovels, tractors with loaders and other equipment. We needed help of tractors with flatbeds and it was provided.

The wives helped too. They provided food, chairs and tables and cooking equipment for the days before the sale as well as that day. They came along on the back of the tractors (not the nicest way to travel but that is about the only way on these roads) to help out.

Yes, sir, we appreciate neighbors like these! May they be blessed!

Marvin and Beverly Wittler P. S. Please print this in your "Letters to the Editor" column. I want people to truly help is truly appreciated. I heard one man comment the other day he was through with this "charity bit" because no one appreciates it any more. That just isn't so.

Dear Editor: Here I am in sunny California. Arrived in Los Angeles and San Diego in the rain.

We got up at anywhere from 03:45 on weekdays to 0500 on Sundays which we have mostly free. I got through my shots OK. We got six shots on Friday and we will get two more each week for the rest of "boot". We received two shots with the gun and four with the needle. All but one of the rest will be with the gun.

We are so out of touch here that I didn't even know the astronauts were up till Friday. We finally got a paper this Sunday so we found out a few things that are going on.

Our base is just off the airport here in Diego so we see and hear all the big jets take off and land and it makes us all homesick. It makes some kids so homesick that they jump the fence but it doesn't do them too much good. The other night two guys from another company tried it. They went over the wall at 21:30 and at 21:50 they were in the Regimental office in the custody of the S.P.'s. For thirty minutes of liberty they got five days in the brig. They get to carry sand and do exercises with a 40 pound piece compared to our nine pounder.

Everybody here lives for mail call and free time on Sunday. It is just about time to clean up so I must sign off.

I graduate hopefully on May 2 and leave starts on the seventh so if my luck holds I should see you on the ninth or tenth. Bill Richardson, SR, San Diego, Calif.

Expect the poor fellow may have been tempted to use some of those "four letter words" so often mentioned. Got to wondering the other day just why, when we hear that phrase "four letter words", we most always assume they are the vulgar ones, and they usually are. However, there are four letter words in the dictionary brimful of vibrant richness. Love, hope, work and the flag are all four letter words, without which, life wouldn't be worth much.

Have you circled the date of Apr. 12 on your calendar? Do so now while you're thinking about it as it's the day when the spring carnival will be held as a fund raising project for the American Field Service foreign student program. The big AFS carnival will be held from 5 to 10 p.m. and though I'm not sure, it will likely be held in the Wayne High gym. We'll check that out for you and get the details so you will know for certain. Keep the date in mind, please.

A colorful, red-headed woodpecker was observed on a city flight here last week. Do you know whether or not there are many of those knocking-birds around?

Have you ladies started your spring house cleaning project yet? Be very selective in what you put away or throw out because it seems that junk is something a person keeps for ten years, then throws away just two weeks before needing it.

It must be the most thoughtless person in the world who would be so infantile as to throw his or her drinking can out of a car window to clutter up the highway. According to the Michigan

The Year the Century Turned

March 23, 1899
Citizens Caucus

Never before in the history of the city has there been a caucus so largely attended as was the Citizens' caucus held at the courthouse Saturday night. The administration of the city the past year has given satisfaction and the general outpouring of people Saturday night was for the purpose of approving Mayor Ray's course. By eight o'clock the old court room was packed, with nearly 200 voters, when the caucus was called to order. Neil Grimes was elected Chairman and Elmer Lundberg, Secretary. Henry Lay and J. P. Gaertner were placed in nomination for Mayor, the ballot resulting in favor of Mr. Lay.

The dance at the hall on the night of St. Patrick's Day was not as well attended as the promoters had hoped, but those present had a very pleasant time.

Value of the New Road

The completion of the Atkinson and Northern Railroad to Boyd County will make quite a change in the conditions in that part of the State. Perry, the terminus of the road, is expected to become one of the principal towns in that portion of the State.

Steaming up the Missouri

There will be five packet boats used in the coming season to do business from Nebraska to up river points as far as old Fort Randall. A new one is now under construction and will be ready for the season's work. The business has made remarkable growth in the past two years, and four boats were kept busy all last season, and everyone was daunted in the feb when the river froze over, making their last trip.

White Thunder's Temper

At Porcupine sub-agency of Pine Ridge reservation, north of Gordon, an attempt was made to arrest White Thunder, a full blood Sioux, for abusing his white wife. White Thunder was armed and resisted arrest, killing an Indian policeman and badly wounding another. He escaped to the sand hills, but six Indian trailers followed and captured him, bringing him in trons to the agency.

Telegraphic Irvellies

By the breaking of log booms in the Kentucky river, as the result of the floods, logs valued at $1,000,000 were lost.

The Isabella mine in Colorado, which is now turning out free gold at thousands of dollars a ton, was once owned by a boy of 19, Robert Moonenham, who gave it to his uncle, Daniel Threlkeld.

Senator Houser is a whist player of no small ability and pleasantly fond of the game, which he plays nearly every evening of his life.

A Woman's Proper Dimensions

When a woman's height is 5 feet 5 inches her waist, it is said, should be 24 inches, her ankle 7 to 7 1/2 inches and her wrist 5 1/2 inches.

Carroll and Winside

The milliners will give their spring opening Thursday, Friday and Saturday. L. Haines took his departure for Bloomfield Monday, where he is engaged in a blacksmith shop.

Never mind, Arthur, there'll come a time some day. Peavey's elevator in Winside is to be re-modeled soon and a gasoline engine is to be substituted for the blind horse power which has heretofore done the work.

Sheriff Cherry came down to Winside on Monday and had some unpleasant business with a man in our village who has been notorious for years as being possessed of a most ungodly temper which he displays at unreasonable times for the purpose, apparently, of causing those who should have his most careful consideration, suffering. It is now hoped that he will soon leave this neighborhood for the good of the community and his own family.

J. E. Hayes took charge of the Commercial Hotel in Winside Thursday morning. Mrs. Hayes will conduct the hotel during the summer while J. E. is traveling in the interest of the Champton Machine Company.

State Highway Department the cost of picking up a single carelessly thrown from a car is $25. If the cans were being thrown out by infants after having had their baby food, it is likely the practice would be brought to a screaming halt. The problem is, however, that the cans are more-often-than-not thrown out by adults after finishing their drink. Two large piles of cans cluttered the highway late last week. See JUST WRIGHT, PAGE 6.

THE SPACE FOR RENT

How Does Wayne Measure Up?

Here are 29 "virtues" of a progressive town, according to an item received by the Wayne Chamber of Commerce office recently. As you read the list, why not check them with a "yes" or "no." If a community can answer "yes" to 22 of the "virtues", then citizens can take pride in their town. If there are more "no's" than "yes's", then somebody should start working.

- Most high school and college graduates stay in town.
- The local news medias constantly push civic improvements.
- There's a place to swim within easy reach.
- Young couples and newcomers have little trouble finding a place to live.
- The head of your city government is a "get-things-done" man.
- Teachers' salaries are better than the state average.
- There's a library with a good collection of new books.
- Service clubs and womens' organizations team up on projects.
- A modern hospital is within your trading area.
- There's a hotel or motel you would engage, if you were a visitor.
- It's easy to find a parking space in the business district.
- Prompt, reasonably priced ambulance service is available.

Springtime Safety

This large speed limit sign on the west edge of Wayne has been recently painted again for good readability and visibility. Hundreds of motorists pass the sign and warning signal each day while approaching Wayne from the west on Highway 35. Several hundred feet east of the speed reducer, at the crest of the hill, is Wayne High School with its hundreds of active students entering and leaving the building daily. The intersection just east of the high school building is also used by youngsters going and coming from the elementary building a block south.

So within a few hundred feet of Wayne's first intersection, as one approaches from the west, there are all the elements but one for the makings of a tragedy. First, there is a major highway; second there are dozens of students from two schools crossing at the intersection; third, there is the hill's crest in front of the high school building, and fourth, there are many students, teachers, out-of-town motorists, bus drivers and parents driving in and around the general area of the intersection, the school and the school's parking lot. At any one given moment, particularly during the school year, the only element that need be added to the situation to create a possible tragedy is carelessness.

A careless driver is a nuisance just about any place he or she goes, but carelessness in the vicinity of a school zone where there is a major highway, a hill and an intersection, might easily be the added element for some youngster's death.

Wayne is fortunate in having a good police force with officers interested in saving lives. They have, and will continue enforcing speed limits throughout the city, including this stretch of street which cannot afford a careless motorist who is ignoring the speedometer, the speed limit signs and everyone's safety.

Spring is here and excited youngsters may forget to be careful in checking traffic before crossing the street. The school's patrol cannot be on the corners all the time although they always have been a great safety factor.

Let's all check to make sure we're within the speed limit. The life you save could be that of most anyone. — MMW.

Guerrillas for Good!

A new type of youth group is roaming the streets of Ann Arbor, Mich. It calls itself the Gilnet Gang. Its members describe themselves as "guerrillas for good". As the Altoona, Pa., Mirror observes, "The Gilnetts roam Ann Arbor streets at night doing some rather odd things for a youth gang."

On one recent night they painted a bridge which had been covered with obscenities. On another, they boarded up an abandoned house, which had been a dangerous but popular rendezvous for neighborhood children. They made a number of adults ashamed of themselves by filling downtown planters, which had remained barren of flowers because of a squabble over which group was responsible for them.

Quotable Notables:

The will of the people is the only legitimate foundation of any government, and to protect its free expression should be our first object. — Jefferson.

A cowardly act! What do I care about that? You may be sure that I should never fear to commit one if it were to my advantage. — Napoleon.

by Merlin Wright

Is there anything to the power of suggestion? J. W. wrote a headline for the accident column Saturday morning asking "May I Have the Next Dents?" and Sunday afternoon he got them at an intersection when colliding with a pickup! If I can get the boss's OK, perhaps I can start writing the headlines for the marriage license column and see what happens.

While showing the dented fender to my insurance agent he was telling me of a gentleman who decided to straighten a bent fender on his car. Rather than take the vehicle to a body shop, the fellow thought he could do the job himself. He proceeded to tie a rope from the bent fender to a tree limb. He then backed the car a few inches, ever so carefully, got out and checked the results. Ah! It was looking much better! Re-entering the car, he backed up again and checked the result with great delight because the fender was almost in place. He thought to himself, "I'll give it just one more tug and it should be perfect." He jumped into the auto, slipped the gearshift into reverse, but alas, his foot slipped off the clutch. With the fender left dangling from the tree limb, the gentleman came to the in-

WHEN IS A TRACTOR A SCHOOL BUS? Terry Davis, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Davis, Carroll, made his International Farmall 400 a school bus Tuesday in order to get to classes at Winside High School. Shown checking the oil at the photographer's request, Terry, who is a senior, was preparing to head the tractor home, which is four miles north, five west and three-fourths of a mile south from Winside. Several other of the high school boys have also driven tractors to school over the muddy roads. Students in Chicago never have this kind of adventure!

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. has always belonged to that tribe who, usually, scan hastily over "directions" before attempting to use a new product. For instance when I first had a new sixty-second picture camera, I ruined nearly an entire roll of film, picture by picture, thinking I could operate the thing without paying too much heed to the booklet of instructions. My mind knows that large firms go to a lot of expense to print directions for customers so the new equipment will function properly, but

WINTER TRANSFORMATION A heavy blanket of frost turned this common row of trees into a pleasant sight on a recent morning in Wayne.

I still hate to "waste time" reading them.

---X---X---X---
Sometimes, however, you have to read the directions to find out! Consider this directive from the British Admiralty: "It is necessary for technical reasons that these warheads be stored upside down, that is, with the top at the bottom and the bottom at the top. In order that there may be no doubt as to which is the bottom and which is the top, for storage purposes, it will be seen that the bottom of each warhead has been labeled with the word TOP.

---X---X---X---
For some reason I never had really given my will too much thought lately, until approaching the Seventh and Main intersection. After suddenly realizing that I had joined a real live "bumper car" game, my thoughts went to my lawyer.

With 3,000 wonderful people at Wayne State heading south toward the intersection, and about that many coming north from down town, the odds are that I should have increased my insurance rates, or done something religious like memorizing a prayer book.

I guess there was an old lady ahead of me with her foot on the accelerator who was merrily singing "Nearer My God to Thee" as she blasted on through the corner. Courage and faith must come with age. So until the traffic lights are installed, I'll have to depend upon "lead me not into temptation."

WHAT IS A MECHANIC?

A mechanic is more than just a man with a wrench. Even the most modern tools and equipment for automobile repair and service (which we do have, incidentally), will not make a mechanic. They only help a mechanic do his job right.

The mechanic understands the machines and their function. He can trace the entire chain of movement through the machine, the relationship of each part to the next and to the whole. He has learned the importance of precision in measurements, in movement and adjustment. And he has learned many other things that anyone who is not a mechanic could not begin to list.

We believe that something still further is required of a qualified mechanic. He should have a profound respect for the machine he serves and a compelling desire to make his work as honest as the finest steel in it. He must CARE!

VASCAR At Work In Wayne County

by Merlin M. Wright

Nebraska State Patrol Trooper C. L. Howell, Norfolk, and Trooper M. M. Loecker, South Sioux City, both have a new device installed in their patrol units called a Visual Average Speed Computer and Recorder (VASCAR).

There are over 60 of the $900 electronic computers now in use which allows Nebraska Troopers to accurately measure the distance between any two points along a highway, and to time a vehicle as it travels between those two points.

Demonstrating VASCAR's sensitivity and accuracy, Trooper Howell moved his patrol vehicle approximately seven inches. Almost instantly his speed was flashed on a small screen, called the readout panel. It illuminated numericals. VASCAR does the computing after being informed as to distance traveled and time consumed to travel that distance.

Troopers Howell and Loecker both received preliminary training from a patrol instructor in Lincoln. Each man trained for 30 days with the unit installed in the patrol car assigned to him.

A patrol officer must pass a rigid proficiency test in using VASCAR after his 30 day training period, and then only gives warning tickets to speeders for another 30 days. This gives each patrolman a period of approximately two months in using VASCAR prior to actually issuing citations for speeding.

Wayne County Judge, Laveria Hilton, and other county officials have received demonstrations and explanations of VASCAR's operation in preparation for handling tickets issued through the equipment's use.

Prior to each day's use of VASCAR, a trooper having such a unit in his car will check it over a measured distance, using a stop watch to insure the computer's accuracy.

VASCAR takes up very little space in the patrol vehicle, on the hump of the floor near the front seat, a bracket holds the time and distance switches and a rectangular screen which shows the computed speed.

The heart of the complete VASCAR device is its digital computer section which is completely solid state. Measuring just 13 and a half inches long with a width of seven inches, sitting three and a half inches high, the eight and a half pound computer is fastened to the floor behind the front seat. The entire VASCAR unit weighs only 13 pounds and takes very little power from the battery.

Trooper Howell explained how VASCAR computes speed. Distance is fed into the computer from the odometer on the patrol car and time is started and stopped also with a switch. When the time and distance are combined in the computer, the answer in miles per hour is instantly flashed on the readout screen.

The officer continued to point out how trees, bridges, farm drives, overpass structures and signs can be used as stationary objects for measuring distance and time between them and the moving auto. This data is then fed into the computer.

Trooper Howell pointed out that the VASCAR unit does not need to be "aimed". Cars going in any direction can be clocked as long as the two necessary elements, time and distance, can be made available to the VASCAR digital computer. The resulting indicated speed is accurate to within a tenth of a mile per hour. An officer may be a mile behind, a mile ahead or a mile off the road and check traffic. In clocking a violator, the patrolman flips on the "time" switch as the speeder passes a selected landmark and flips it off when the suspect passes a second landmark. When the patrol car hits the first mark, the operator turns on the "distance" switch and switches it off at the second mark. Time and distance are measured, fed into the computer, which calculates the average speed to the nearest tenth of a mile per hour.

Although the unit displays numbers to 99.9 miles per hour, when the 100 miles per hour speed is reached, a little star lights on the screen to tell the officer that 100 has been added to the indicated speed on the readout screen.

One of the advantages of VASCAR over radar is that the speed recorded by a radar unit is an instantaneous reading while VASCAR gives the patrolman an average speed, which is a break for the motorist. VASCAR units are also less expensive than radar. Radar surveillance necessitates at least two patrol units while one trooper may easily operate VASCAR. Also the lightweight computer can be used to detect speeding vehicles up to a mile away from the patrol car.

VASCAR does not have to be stationary like radar and requires only one operator who can use it during routine patrol duty.

Nebraska's troopers first started using VASCAR in October, 1968. Trooper Howell said more units are being added as the troopers are receiving the necessary training.

Officer Howell continued to explain, "The whole object of VASCAR is to act as a deterrent to speeding, not to make a lot of arrests, but to help slow drivers down."

Wayne county drivers who observe speed limits have nothing to be concerned about for fear. The high speed drivers, however, will undoubtedly soon become aware of VASCAR's efficiency as citations are issued.

Perhaps the next time you are driving and tempted to go over the posted speed limit, you will remember that distance and time are the little marks of your hurry which can add up to a sizable fine, mostly due to an electronic gadget riding as a passenger with the patrolman.

VASCAR UNIT. Trooper M. M. Loecker of South Sioux City displays the VASCAR installation in his patrol vehicle, one of over sixty such units in Nebraska. Vascor costs less and operates more efficiently than radar, according to Trooper C. L. Howell of Norfolk, who has the equipment in his patrol car.

Expert Cautions Farmers on Pesticides

Editor's Note: The following news article by Bob Roselle, Extension entomologist at the University of Nebraska, provides an excellent summary of the pattern of agricultural chemical use at the present time, and the inherent dangers of pesticide poisoning which can be avoided only with scrupulous care in following instructions and heeding precautions. The article is particularly timely because of the impending crop season and the return of widespread chemical applications to livestock, pastures and crops.

By Bob Roselle
University of Nebraska
Entomologist

Many of the organic insecticides used since their introduction in the World War II era are rapidly becoming obsolete in agriculture because of public opinion and wildlife interests, developing resistance in insects and more rigid food and drug regulations.

The loss of some of these materials is resulting in farmer use of much more hazardous chemicals, especially in the case of some of the organic phosphate insecticides. With higher hazard products, there may be an increase of acute reaction to them when they are not used with proper care.

To date, we have been very fortunate in Nebraska, as very few cases of serious poisoning have been reported. However, in 1968 one boy died following exposure to parathion in an "empty" drum, and two others probably would have died if medical attention had been delayed a few hours.

Classes of Insecticides

Three classes of organic pesticides are used in Nebraska agriculture: Chlorinated hydrocarbons, organic phosphates and carbamates.

Chlorinated hydrocarbons are used on only a few thousand acres, primarily endrin and some aldrin and heptachlor in the soil. DDT, aldrin, dieldrin, heptachlor and toxaphene are not used for foliage treatment and are almost obsolete for this use. Organic phosphates are used extensively for soil insects, especially for corn rootworm control. The materials used for rootworm control make up about 75 per cent or more of the total amount of agricultural insecticides. In this group we have some of the most toxic chemicals manufactured.

Carbamate insecticides will increase in use. Sevin is extensively used as a foliage insecticide for many insects on both forage and grain crops. Bux-Ten and Furadan are used for soil insects. We will undoubtedly see more carbamates in the future as registrations are granted for their use in food and feed production.

The inorganic insecticides are no longer utilized in crop production. Some are still marketed for household, lawn and garden use. A few may present a greater hazard than most of the organic compounds.

Toxicity

Toxicity is the ability of a compound to produce reaction in animals; hazard is the probability that such reaction will occur when pesticides are used.

The higher the toxicity of an agricultural chemical, the higher the probability of poisoning. This may not be true in all cases, as the amount of exposure may be more important than the inherent toxicity of any one material.

For example, a very small amount of parathion may not be as hazardous as a massive dose of malathion. These materials represent extremes in toxicity, but either could produce severe reaction, depending upon the exposure and sensitivity of the animal. This would be true when comparing all chemicals used in pest control.

Formulation

The formulation is very important. Insecticides are formulated as emulsifiable concentrates, granules, dusts and solutions. The hazard increases as the concentrate of any one formulation increases. The hazard is also greater in liquid concentrates than in dry formulations. Low percentage, dust-free granules are much lower in hazard and toxicity than the same materials in liquid forms.

This fact forms the basis of recommendations for use of highly toxic products by farmers. Generally, class one insecticides are never recommended for use by farmers, but are recommended for use by experienced commercial applicators—most by aircraft. The granular forms are about 10 times less hazardous than liquid concentrates.

Route of Absorption

The route of absorption is of primary concern in agriculture. Although ingestion may occur from contaminated hands, foods and water, this mode of entry is not common. When using granules, the only highly toxic materials recommended, the greatest danger is through skin absorption and inhalation of dusts. The few accidents that have occurred have undoubtedly resulted because of carelessness in handling, resulting in excessive exposure to skin or through the respiratory tract.

The materials used by farmers that are most likely to result in toxic reactions are DLSyston, Thimet, Dyfonate, Dazant and Furadan.

There will be an increase in number of farmers using these more toxic compounds in granular form. In the past, 75 to 80 per cent of agricultural insecticides were applied as granules for control of corn rootworms. In 1968, the one used 50 per cent or more of the time, Diazinon, appeared to be less effective than in previous years. This is probably due to the development of a resistant strain of insect. About half of the acres treated with Diazinon in the past likely will be treated with other materials in the future. Some of the replacement chemicals are more toxic.

If outbreaks of destructive insects occur, as greenbugs did in 1968, the total acreage of farm land sprayed with higher toxic materials will be much greater than normal. In 1968, thousands of acres of sorghum were sprayed with parathion which normally would not have been treated with any insecticide. Even more toxic chemicals, such as DLSyston and Phosdrin, may be in use this year for greenbug control.

Safety Precautions

The one all-important safety precaution is to use all insecticides in such a manner that they do not contact the skin, are not breathed and are not taken orally. Here are seven precautionary steps which should be remembered:

1. Inform family physician if highly toxic materials will be used.
2. Fill hoppers or tanks with care.
3. Apply soap and water immediately if material is spilled on skin.
4. Use protective clothing and respirator if contact is over a long period.
5. Remove clothes immediately if garments are contaminated.
6. Destroy empty containers.
7. In case of accident or suspected reaction call hospital or physician immediately—take along the label.

Station Cattle Grade Choice, Good at Market

Experimental cattle just marketed by the Northeast Station near Concord graded very well considering the unfavorable feeding weather they have endured and their low feeder grade when purchased last fall, according to Walt Tolman, beef specialist at the station.

Of 99 "Oakie" grade feeder cattle marketed after a test comparing various roughage levels in finishing rations 74 graded choice and only 25 good, Tolman said. The finishing period lasted 140 days during which gains were less than two pounds daily average. Tolman attributed the low gains to cold, damp weather and frozen or muddy lots. Cattle on similar rations last summer gained about two and three-fourths pounds daily. Cost of gain was high too, nine to 10 pounds of corn were required. In addition to roughage and supplement, to produce a pound of gain, while only about six pounds of corn produced the same gain in the earlier summer test. Labor and overhead costs mounted as well because of extra storm chores and slow gains, he noted.

Results of the test are "clouded" by uneven gains among the cattle, some of which seem more affected than others by adverse weather, said Tolman. Of the 99 cattle, having all the feed they would eat, 14 gained less than 50 pounds each during the last 90 days of their feeding period, since Dec. 16.

Overall results again pointed up the economy of low roughage finishing rations as several other Northeast Station experiments have, according to Tolman. The two high-gaining rations were the one with one and one half pounds alfalfa hay and the one with five pounds corn silage per head per day. Higher amounts of roughage replaced little or no grain.

One ration in which no roughage was fed except for the first few days while corn was being increased was very economical because of the roughage saving and it resulted in only a small reduction in rate of gain and minor off-fee problems. But cattle on this ration had the most damaged and condemned livers, he said.

115 4-H Members Expected to Attend Confab Here Mar. 29

Approximately 115 youth will gather in Wayne Saturday, Mar. 29, for a 4-H Junior Leaders Conference at Wayne State College.

The leaders, from 13 northeast Nebraska counties, will be learning how they can help younger 4-H club members.

The theme of the conference is "Improving Communication Skills."

Dr. John Petelle, chairman of the department of speech and dramatic arts, University of Nebraska, will speak in "Let's Talk About Oral Communication."

Each conference enrollee will give a short oral presentation, which will be video-taped and played back with appropriate comments by Dr. Petelle.

Workshop topics include "How to Stand Up and Speak Up," "Helping Younger 4-H Members Give 4-H Demonstrations," "Learning to Listen" and "Helping Younger

4-H Members Give Oral Reasons in Judging."

The 4-H Junior Leader Conferences are sponsored by Sears-Robinson Foundation with the Nebraska Extension Service cooperating.

Wayne, Stanton Among Top Counties in State

Wayne and Stanton Counties were among 30 Nebraska counties which have already exceeded their 1967 totals in the 1968 National Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association campaign, according to the state secretary of the Nebraska chapter.

To date there has been a total of $1,224 collected in Wayne County, exceeding both the $1,015.10 collected at this time in the 1967 campaign and the $1,073.10 collected during all of the 1967 campaign. Stanton County has collected a total of $655.05. Last year there was $457.55 collected at this time; total collected in the 1967 campaign was $457.55.

Officials of the state association anticipate a total collection of $198,000 at the close of the fiscal year on March 31, a 4.2 per cent increase over the previous campaign.

Improvement of wildlife habitat is the subject of the fourth annual Future Farmers of America speech contest co-sponsored by the Game Commission. Preliminary contests are scheduled during March at Ravenna, Alliance, North Platte, Lyons, Pawnee City, Osmond, Fullerton and Seward. State finals will be held at the University of Nebraska East Campus on Apr. 17.

Common Error by Taxpayer Involves

Medical Expenses

A common error made by Nebraska taxpayers last year involved medical expenses, especially the deduction for medical insurance premiums. Richard Vinal, district director of Internal Revenue for Nebraska, said last week.

Vinal emphasized that on itemized returns, one-half of the premium paid for medical insurance, up to a maximum of $150, may be deducted in full as a medical expense without regard to the three per cent limitation. Many persons failed to take advantage of this provision last year and had to file claims for refunds.

The balance of the premium cost for medical insurance should be added to other medical costs and reduced by three per cent of income. Life insurance and accident and health insurance covering the loss of earnings are not medical expenses and the premiums paid are not deductible.

Vinal pointed out that all taxpayers must reduce medical expenses by three per cent of their income. Such medical expenses include the costs of drugs and medicine that exceeds one per cent of income. The excess over this amount is deductible. The handling of medical expenses is explained in the Form 1040 instructions as well as the IRS Publication 17, "Your Federal Income Tax," which may be purchased for 60 cents a copy from IRS offices or from the Superintendent of Documents U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402.

WINDSIDE SNOW, both above and below, frames the semi-truck as it plows through a one-way traffic opening Thursday, a half mile northwest of Winside on Highway 25. The surprise snowstorm Wednesday night carved this cavern of snow, including the roof, along the roadside. Wayne County residents hope this was old man Winter's final appearance for the season.

Got Some Ideas On How to Better Law Enforcement?

The Region 11 and 25 Joint Planning Commission for Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice has invited all counties, towns and villages in northeast Nebraska to submit suggestions and recommendations for improved law enforcement.

The invitation was in the form of a letter outlining the work of the commission and a questionnaire requesting suggestions for better law enforcement.

The commission, organized in late January in Norfolk, covers Wayne, Dixon, Cedar, Stanton, Pierce, Madison, Knox, and Antelope Counties. Representatives from the eight counties elected two persons from each county and an at-large representative as members of the planning group.

Members of the group from Wayne County are Norris Welble and Vern Fairchild. Other members include: Dixon County—Jerry Knerl of Ponca and Doyle Hanson of Newcastle; Cedar County—Norbert Olberding of Randolph and Edward Stevens of Hartington; Stanton County—Jim Mandile of Stanton and Harold O'Brien of Pilger. Ora J. Ballard of Center is member-at-large.

The commission's purpose is to coordinate planning activities for improvement of law enforcement in the eight-county area with funds provided by the Governor's Commission on Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice. The regional group has received a grant of $5,534.08 for its activities during fiscal 1969.

Activities of the commission will include comprehensive planning relating to law enforcement equipment, facilities and research; new methods of public protection; recruitment and training of personnel; assistance to police who are pursuing college careers; and improved relations between the police and the community.

The first task of the group is to secure an inventory of available law enforcement capabilities, facilities and equipment in the region. These inventories and the proposals for law enforcement improvement must be submitted to the Governor's Crime Commission before April 15.

All civic, religious, fraternal, professional or service groups in the eight counties have been requested to submit proposals for improved law enforcement to any of the commission members or to the consultant to the commission, Richard E. Muehling, Box 995, Norfolk.

Deadline for submitting these proposals is April 7. A hearing on the proposals will be held the 7th at 1 p.m. in the Taylor Professional Center, 600 South 13th St., Norfolk.

Any representative of a county, town, village, or group may attend the meeting and present proposals.

Although natural alloys containing nickel were worked into tools, weapons and other implements more than 5,000 years ago, it was not until 1751 that the metal was identified and isolated as a separate element.

Will Attend Norfolk Meeting on 'Gifted'

Attending from the Wayne school system will be Superintendent Francis Haun, Middle School Principal Loren Park and Guidance Counselor Kendall Carlson.

Park, Carlson and Shirley Freidel, mathematics instructor at Wayne, recently visited the gifted student program at Omaha Westside.

Watershed Signing Ceremony Set for March 25 at Ponca

Formal signing of the Aowa Watershed Work-Plan Agreement will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday, Mar. 25, in the county court room of the Dixon County courthouse in Ponca. Sponsors for the project are the Dixon County Soil and Water Conservation District, the Aowa Creek Watershed Conservation District and Dixon County. Chairmen of the three sponsoring agencies are Odin Lukken of Ponca, Doyle Hanson of Newcastle and Ross Armstrong of Ponca.

The watershed is 55,350 acres in size and includes the towns of Newcastle and Ponca. Included in the plan is the construction of 65 dams, of which 55 are grade stabilization, eight are combination floodwater retarding and grade stabilization structures. One is a multi-purpose floodwater retarding, grade stabilization and fish and wildlife structure. Eleven of these dams will be located on county roads.

The project installation period is estimated to be eight years with a total cost estimated at $3,429,000.
