

Farm and Home Show Called A 'Big Success'

The 1969 Farm and Home Show held in Wayne last week was a "big success", according to those directly involved with it.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce retail committee, which did much of the promotion and work for the show, said they were very pleased by the crowds which turned out all three nights of the show, despite the bad roads and the cold snap which hit Wayne at midweek.

At least 2,277 people turned out for the show. That's how many registered for the nightly cash drawings, and it's probably safe to assume that many people did not register for the drawings.

Biggest night for the three-day affair was Thursday night when 1,263 people registered. Wednesday there were 473 registering and Friday 541 registering.

"Comie Suhr, one of the committee members, said he was very pleased with the turnout.

He did not know if the Chamber would put on another show next year or not. If they do, he said, they are going to have to make more room for more booths and the large crowds.

Nine cash drawings were held during the show. Winners Wednesday night were Martha Heier of Wayne ($15), Ed Carroll of Wayne ($15) and Terry Weller, Wayne State Student ($50). Winners Thursday night: Carol Gelfin of Wisner ($15), Ted Reed of Wayne ($15) and Dorothea Schwabe of Wayne ($50). Winners Friday night: Mrs. Cleo Slarer of Wayne ($10), Mrs. Gordon Nurenberger of Wayne ($30) and Milton Owens of Carroll ($50).

Motor Vehicle Inspection Will Start Tuesday

Beginning tomorrow, Apr. 1, Nebraska State Law requires that each licensed motor vehicle operating on Nebraska's highways must be inspected by an approved Motor Vehicle Inspection Station prior to the end of the year.

In order to avoid confusion during the first year, the Department of Motor Vehicles has set up a special procedure to be followed by all vehicle owners which determines when they will be required to get their inspection. This will be determined by the last digit on the vehicle license plate. This number will indicate the month of required inspection.

"There will be no long speeches. We are having these meetings primarily to find out what people are thinking about, and to explain those programs that are of most interest to the people."

That is how Robert E. Barnett, counsel to Governor Norbert Tiemann, described the coming "town hall" meeting, slated for the Wayne city auditorium this Wednesday at 2 p.m.

Barnett and eight other state government officials will attend the town hall meeting. This is the second year of the meetings, initiated by Gov. Tiemann last year in an attempt to find out the feelings of the people at the grass roots level.

Appearing with Barnett will be Murrell B. McNeil, state tax commissioner; Walt Weaver, executive director of governor's crime commission; Elmer Schlapf, director of Department of Agriculture; Dave McLaughlin, director of Highway Safety Office; Jim Monroe, director of Department of Economic Development; Phillip Gass, director of Little Hoover Commission; Mary Nuernberger, state engineer of the Department of Roads; and T. G. Koster, district engineer (Norfolk) of Department of Roads.

There will be no admission fee and the public has been cordially invited to attend and voice their opinions or ask any questions they may wish.

Barnett said that the success of the meetings will depend on the audience as much as on the government officials. "As in government generally, the citizens must participate," he noted.

Question slips will be distributed to the audience so that questions may be written down and passed on to Charles McDermott, the moderator.

"The questions will not be screened and we will not refuse to answer any questions," Barnett said. "This is a great opportunity for the people in and around Wayne to get answers to their questions 'straight from the horse's mouth,'" he added.

Gov. Tiemann will not be able to attend the town hall meetings this year because the legislature is in session.

Similar meetings are being held in Wahoo and Schuyler today (Monday). They will be held in Scribner, Oakland and West Point on Tuesday, and in Pender, Wayne and South Sioux City on Wednesday. Thursday they will be held in Randolph and Bloomfield.

Helping work out the arrangements for the coming meeting has been the legislative committee of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce. Members of the committee are Chairman Charles McDermott, Adon Jeffrey, Leland Herman, Kenneth Olds, Willard Hillery, Calvin Comstock and Willy Ley.

Winside Family Gets Call from Son in Japan

Mrs. Reed Wacker, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Wacker, Winslow, is recuperating in the General Hospital in Yokohama, Japan, from wounds received during combat operations in Vietnam.

He telephoned his parents Monday afternoon around 4:30 p.m. CST, however it was 7:30 a.m. Tuesday in Japan, according to Mrs. Wacker. The good news young Wacker had for his parents was that he will be flying back to the States early this week for the completion of his hospital stay.

He was out ahead of his patrol unit as a pointer man when injured by an exploding Viet Cong booby trap. Norfolk Man Is Pin Recipient At Dahl Center

In a ceremony at the Dahl Retirement Center Wednesday, Ken Dahl presented Kenneth Ulrich, social worker at the Norfolk State Hospital, a pin signifying completion of a training course in remanotivation.

Remanotivation therapy, as explained by Mrs. Elaine Falk, remanotivation program coordinator at the State Hospital, is a technique of very simple group therapy of an objective nature used by nursing home personnel with their residents. Mrs. Falk said, "The technique consists of a series of resident meetings held once or twice a week. A series consists of 12 sessions with each meeting lasting from 30 to 60 minutes, while working with 10 or 12 residents."

Kenneth Ulrich took the Remanotivation Training Course and completed his series by holding a demonstration session at the Dahl Center Wednesday.

According to Mrs. Falk, remanotivation is one of the best programs used in nursing homes as it is an exchange of ideas, experiences and may include short trips, when weather permits, to a store or walk in the park.

Ulrich used visual aids concerning the topic of "spring" as he visited with Dahl Center's residents.

A coffee was held after the session.

Medical Expenses Of Elderly Subject To Same Guidelines

The medical expenses of taxpayers 65 years of age or older are subject to the same rules that apply to younger taxpayers, itchard Vinal, District director of Internal Revenue for Nebraska, said last week.

All taxpayers who list medical expenses on their 1968 Federal tax returns may deduct only the total expenses that exceeds three per cent of their adjusted gross income. Medicine and drug expenses exceeding one per cent of income should be included in the provision. The remaining costs of insurance premiums should be added to the taxpayer's other medical expenses and reduced by three per cent of adjusted gross income.

Yokums 'n Dogpachers Rated 'Tops'

by Merlin Wright

To capture an audience to the degree where they forget personal identification of the actors and travel along with the adventures of the characters themselves is not an easy task. In fact, the art of doing such a thing remains a rare ability, usually associated with experienced professionals, and WIS students did it with "LPI Abner".

Wayne High's music department, for three consecutive evenings, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, literally tossed aside actor identity, donned the identity of Dogpacher residents and threw the musical comedy of "LPI Abner" over the footlights to a delighted audience.

Comedy of any kind demands an extra sense in timing and flow of action. To produce good comedy through the instrument of a musical increases the necessity of hours and hours of hard work. Work is exactly what all the "LPI Abner" cast did, night after night of rehearsal, and it paid big dividends in results.

First of all it is a major chore to keep laugh-lines continuously fresh, ready to be dangled before a waiting-to-laugh audience, when you, as the actor, and the cast have heard the lines over and over in rehearsal. This bit of professionalism was quite pronounced in the "Abner" performances. To deliver the material in such an effective way requires a lot of determined talent. A production such as "LPI Abner" was not written for a half-hearted cast.

Second, the music of Gene De Paul and the lyrics of Johnny Mercer, were originally blended for professional use in a Broadway production. Both the music and lyrics carry the unspoken but obvious signature of professional creators, the signature of "difficult simplicity". Times for the show are catchy, rhythmic and important to the unfolding plot. Each number demands one hundred per cent effort. For a high school cast to be able to pace the toe-tapping music with accompanying gestures, eye contact, showmanship, enunciation, to say nothing of all the memorization, is an accomplishment seldom reached as it was in the production. Certainly the "Abner" cast deserved every word of such complimentary remarks as "It was really terrific!", "Prehensions", "Wasn't that good?", "I thought it would be good but I sure didn't think it would be that good", etc.

SADIE HAWKINS BALLET Closing Act One of "LPI Abner," presented by the Wayne High music department, was a troupe of dancers assimilating a Sadie Hawkins Day race. Sue Brown and Bernice Binger are caught by the photographer in the midst of the "chase".

able task to adequately phrase words which would do justice to each of the cast. Amy Corvell had decided she wasn't just going to act like Mammy Yokum, she had convinced herself she was Mammy Yokum! Pappy Yokum's hillbilly fraulies were locked well into place through the talent of Dan Proett. LPI Abner and Daisy Mae were so well cast in their leading roles it would have only seemed right to have observed them leave, not only the stage but also the building, together. Ron Seymour did a bang-up job of bringing Maryrill! Sarah to life with excellent vocal work. His duet with Abner Feitenkamp singing "The Country's in the Very Best of Hands" was particularly impressive.

Sue Ehlers handled the role of Apassionata to near perfection. Linda Lesh made Stupefyin' Jones live up to the name! Her dancing polse was great. Tom Karel's booming vocal strength framed Sen. Jack S. Phogboard with splendid clarity.

Beth Bergt, as you probably know, is a talented pianist, but there she was as Moonbeam McSwine using her fingers to get a real live pig! More than getting it, she was carrying it!

The Scragg brothers portrayed by Bernice Binger and Doug Stanley polished their parts off with professional finesse, as did each of the entire "Abner" crew.

It is hard to start picking out parts and names because there is no place to stop! The dancers, chorus, orchestra, production staff and every character actor should have special mention but may it suffice to say that the whole production was really "Tops".

"LPI Abner" went over so well with this writer that he enjoyed seeing the production three times! We hope the big round of applause each night commensurate to the cast a big "well done".

Shortages of phosphorus and of trace minerals may also develop in some rations. Balancing a ration for minerals is a task for a trained person, Tolman noted, so the assistance of your county agent or a competent feed dealer is suggested. In cases of doubt the counsel of a nutritionist is advisable in making up rations, he concluded.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Thanks very much to SWAY for the gift of ten dollars. I really appreciate it.

My gift was sent home since I was coming home March 8 for a two week leave.

My company will be leaving the last of March for Brea. I was lucky in a way, I guess. We really had bad weather for training all through January, so they commended this training for Vietnam.

Thank you again for the gift.

Scott Nelson

Dear Editor:

The letter from SWAY has found me off the coast of Vietnam on the USS Corry (DD3817).

First, I would like to thank SWAY once more for the gift and support of servicemen, Vietnam seems to be an unwritten war with many men involved. The Corry has participated in many moves to shorten his fighting and we believe we have done our job to the best of our ability.

Our job consisted of bombarding the enemy forces while our ground troops advanced to gain more territory. Booby traps were a major cause of injury to our troops. I have been injured by being flown back to LPH by helicopter and suddenly had a sick feeling in my stomach. An LPH is a Landing Platform helicopter which is an amphibious ship to support troops by helicopter.

Back to our mission of exposing the "booby traps" with our gun fire to save lives. That alone has given the Corry a feeling of accomplishment.

I pray that this conflict will end and our men ashore will be spared the spoils of war.

When the ships in Vietnam supporting the Army, Marines and NATO forces, the Navy gives all her best.

Thanks again SWAY.

Dear Editor:

Thanks very much to SWAY for the $10 check. I was home on my boot leave when my name was drawn, so it was greatly appreciated.

I am presently assigned to duty at the Naval Training Center in San Diego. I will be there four months. After this tour of duty is over I don't know where I will be assigned.

My address now is SN Dean Jaeger B 646892, USNVC, RTC, 9149, San Diego, Calif. 92133.

Thanks again!

Dean Jaeger

Dear Editor:

I would like to thank SWAY very much for the $10 gift and letter. It means a lot to know that your home community not only knows where you are, but appreciates you who are there.

I have been here in Da Nang since May 21, 1968, and have been out of the country twice.

Veterans Benefits Are Usually Tax Exempt

The Veterans Administration reminded Nebraska veterans this week that the VA benefits are generally tax exempt and need not be reported as income on federal or state income tax returns.

Except for interest earned on $1 insurance dividends left on deposit with VA (which is a reportable item), all proceeds from GI insurance policies are tax exempt, according to C. W. Nixon, manager, Lincoln Regional Office.

Other major items of income that need not be reported include educational assistance allowances, pension and compensation payments, substantial payments to veterans' health education trainees and grants for special automobiles and "wheel chair homes" for the severely disabled, he said.

Nixon said all benefits to surviving dependents of deceased veterans and compensation allowances for dependents of disabled veterans are also tax exempt.

Four trophies were awarded to the teams competing Friday night.

Trophies were also awarded to divisional winners, Colorado in the North Division, Randolph in the South, on the basis of their standings at the end of the regular season earlier in the year.

Coaches of the teams taking part in the tourney also selected an all-tourney team.

Making the team were Laurel's Beverly Huse and Hebble Hiranow; Randolph's Janice Krueger, Rhonda Meier and Cheryl Heltz; Colorado's Ruth Hirschman and Judy Mannion; Newcastle's Linda Anderson and Virginia DeBlauw; Crofton's Marina DeBlauw; Randolph St. Francis' Sharlene Gubbels; Winslow's Donna Krueger; Oberl Maskell's Pauline Olson; and Hartington's Pam Nelson.

Sophomore Mau Leads Reserves During Season

Don Mau, a sophomore at Wayne High School, led all his teammates in both scoring and rebounding during the recently completed season of the Blue Devil reserve squad, according to final statistics released recently by Coach Dick Nelson.

Mau pumped in a total of 148 points during the season, 29 more than the next highest man. He hit an average of 38 per cent from the field, 46 per cent from the free throw line. He also came off the boards with 91 rebounds during the season, 40 offensive and 51 defensive.

Trailing him in the scoring department was junior Ted Armbruster, who tallied 119 points while shooting 44 per cent from the field and 46 per cent from the charity line. Les Echtenkamp, also a junior, was second in the rebounding department, grabbing 74 carcans in the season's action.

Third man on the scoring top pole was Mau's classmate, Dick Tietgen. He garnered 103 points, hitting 30 per cent from the field and 54 per cent from the free throw stripe. Steve Kamish, also a sophomore, was third in line in the rebounding category, grabbing a total of 55 carcans during the year.

The reserves won 10 games during the year, lost six. They averaged better in field goal and free throw shooting than their opponents and also tallied more total points in their 16 foes. But, they were outshouted, by a slim margin, under the boards.

From the field the reserves hit 40 per cent of their attempts; their opponents hit 32 per cent. At the charity line the young Blue Devils potted 52 per cent to their foes' 49 per cent. They came off the boards with 616 rebounds, nine less than their opponents.

Team II Grabs Overtime Win From Team III

Although trailing their opponents by as much as 10 points at the end of the third quarter, Team II put on a rally in the final period, tied the game at 38-all at the end of regulation play and then went on to sneak by Team III, 44-40, in overtime in the only B League basketball game Wednesday night.

Team II fell way behind early in the game as Lentz and Reborn shot hit three field goals each to spark Team III to a 16-8 lead at the end of the first eight minutes of action. Team III took a 25-16 lead into intermission, padded that lead by one more by the end of the third quarter, 31-21.

But Hillier started hitting in the final period of play, putting nine of his 21 points, to spark his team to a 38-all tie at the end of the game. Hillier and Thomas added three more each in the overtime period while Wassell could manage Team III's only point, two gift shots, to give Team II the 44-40 overtime victory.

Leading all scorers in the action was Hillier with 21. Team III's Wassell and Lentz were high for their squad with 14 each. Only other player in two figures was Team III's Johnson with 11.

Other scorers: Team II's Telgen with eight, Thomas with three and Hansen with one, and Team III's Rebornsdorf with six, Maly with four and Test with two.

'A' League Team IV Needs Overtime to Sneak Past Team III

Day pumped in five points and Hillier added two more in the overtime period as Team IV slipped by Team III, 62-60, in the first of two A League cage games Wednesday night in the high school gym.

In the second game Team III had little trouble in getting by Team I, 72-53.

Team IV trailed Team II 16 to 10 at the end of the first quarter and 33 to 25 at intermission. But then Day garnered 10 points in the third period as his squad moved to within two points, 43-41, going into the final period of play. They tied the game at 55-55 and then went on to tally seven points in the extra period to Team II's five to garner the victory.

Team IV marked up the victory despite Team II's Wickam, who tallied 28 points in the contest to lead all scorers. Behind him in scoring was the winner's Swan with 24. Also hitting in double figures were Team IV's Day with 18 and Neuhaus with 10 and Team II's Robins with 14. Learn Unicameral Workings at Seminar

Twenty-nine young people from Wayne State College and Wayne journeyed to Lincoln Thursday, Mar. 27, to attend a legislative seminar.

The seminar, sponsored by the Cooperative Christian Ministry, opened with an address by Governor Norbert P. Tieman. Former Senator Ross Rasmussen then explained formal procedures of bill introduction to the group, from committees and hearings to informal aid and unaided discussions that accompany every bill.

At a luncheon held for the participants of the seminar and the senators, C. L. Lemon, executive secretary of the Nebraska Council of Churches, told the group how the church can be effective in legislation. Following the luncheon, the group sat in on a public hearing on LB 178, the proposed Fair Housing Bill.

The Cooperative Christian Ministry plans to sponsor similar trips in its program to promote religion and morality on the WSC campus.

TENNIS ANYONE? Some explanation is necessary for this picture. It shows the Wayne State team in action not with rackets, but with snow shovels, scooping drifts still up to three feet deep this week on parts of the college courts. Coach Wes Fritz decided on the shovel exercise as he observed the days before the April snow. Wayne's opening fee will be the University of Nebraska at Omaha, playing (hopefully) on clear courts at Wayne.

ends in "3" or "A," the vehicle must be inspected some time during the month of April and then once each 12 months following.

If the number is "5" the inspection will be required in May; "9" in June, etc. If the number is "0," the inspection will fall in the tenth month.

Once the vehicle has acquired a safety inspection sticker, the sticker will then have to be renewed each succeeding 12 months.

The state has set the inspection fee at $2. This cost does not include any repair or adjustment operations. Should a vehicle need repairs or adjustments, such may be done at any firm of the owner's choice.

Kenneth Francke, inspector for the Motor Vehicle Department, recently explained that "owners may have their vehicles inspected on a voluntary basis at any time prior to the designated month or deadline." Once inspected, however, the renewal of the sticker must then be made 12 months later.

Auto owners with license plates ending in "1" or "2" will have to have their vehicles inspected in November or December, unless inspected on a voluntary basis before that time.

The State of Nebraska was compelled to enact a law of this nature in order to participate in Federal highway funds distribution after Jan. 1, 1970.

Elementary School Recommended Books Set for Wayne State

Answers to such questions as what makes a balanced elementary school library collection, what kinds and how many books should be in it and how much will it cost may get answered during the showing of a collection of 1,600 books at the Wayne State College Library May 21 to June 17.

Recent changes in accreditation regulations in the state have given special attention to elementary school library specifications. The 1,600 books have been organized into a curriculum-related, teacher-oriented collection which constitutes the basic titles that should be in every school library at the elementary through the junior high level.

Complete annotated catalogues will be available for each person visiting the exhibit. The exhibit will be of special interest to school faculty members, school administrators, school board members, civic groups, parents, college faculty in teacher training institutions and public librarians.

Details concerning hours of exhibit and so on may be acquired by contacting Yale Kessler at the WSC Library.

Letters to the Editor

Letters to the editor may be published under a pen name if the writer desires, however, the true signature and address must be a part of the original letter. Letters must be pertinent and current, be brief as possible and contain no libelous statements. The Wayne Herald reserves the right to edit or reject any letter.

Dear Editor:
This letter is not concerned with the Wayne School Board's decision to discontinue extra-graduate services at graduation, rather it concerns the comments in NLI's editorial concerning religion and morality.

I don't believe religious fundamentals need to be taught in our schools, but I don't think we can go so far as to never mention God at all, and I definitely don't believe children learn their basic morals in school, or that a working morality can be separated from religion.

I believe lasting morality begins in the cradle with the teaching and example of parents through God's Word, in church and Sunday School, and the application of religious principles in daily life, with a moral background firmly established before the child enters public school.

Morality is taught, consciously or unconsciously, in the school only as good or bad as the morals and principles of individual teachers, a child comes in contact with, and can change to fit particular situations according to each individual's concept of morality. True religious morality is unchanging, and God created it to protect society and not to destroy it.

The experiences of our ten children, from kindergarten through college and in the professional world, have only strengthened our belief that he who would leave the moral training of his children to the schools, without the benefit of religion, is going to have some mixed up kids.

And when we read the papers and note the rapid increase in crime rates, venereal disease and illegitimate births among teenagers, the increasing usage of drugs, the increasing number of suicides among college students, and the increasing number of college girls seeking psychiatric help as a result of the "new morality", we certainly would agree with A. T. Pierson when he said, "Whatever man may think of religion, the historic fact is that in proportion as the institutions of Christianity lose their hold upon the multitudes, the fabric of society is in peril."

The moral principles of our society are a result of the faith of our forefathers who built this nation, and not the influence of atheists, agnostics, and anarchists codified by our society today. As George Washington said, "Let us with caution include the supposition that morality can be maintained without religion. Reason and experience both forbid us to expect that national morality can prevail in exclusion of religious principle."

Morality is not a bigger thing than religion. It is the result of religion. It rises above religion only as a grapevine rises above its roots. If religious training and teaching have stood in the way of morality, that has been the fallacy of man's interpretation, not the fallacy of God's Word. God has not failed, man has failed.

And I agree with the thinking men of our time, statesmen, astronomers, greater scientists, Christian leaders, judges and all of our counseling troubled humanity, who firmly believe the only hope for our nation is a practiced faith in God, and a return to the Ten Commandments as the guideline for our nation's morality.

Buying, Improving Homes Subject of Next Wayne Survey

Households in the Wayne area will be included in a nationwide survey during April of consumer expectations to make major purchases and to buy home repair services, according to Guy Lutz, director of the regional office of the Bureau of the Census in St. Paul.

Bureau interviewers will ask householders about their plans to buy a house, a new or used car, or major household appliances during the next year. In addition, the interviewers will ask about repairs and alterations made during the next three months and any planned for the near future.

The quarterly survey serves as a guide to national economic growth and is taken from a scientifically designed sample of U.S. households that serves as a measure of what families in the entire Nation are planning in the way of purchases.

The most recent survey-made in January-showed that consumer expectations to buy cars and houses were close to the levels of last October but well below peak levels of July 1968. There had been a decline in expectations to buy new cars during the October-December 1968 quarter but an upswing in expectations to buy household durables. Expectations to buy houses remained virtually unchanged.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The editorial department of a weekly newspaper is an important department. Normally it is one person's opinion of topics that concern most of the readers.

You may not agree with an editorial — but if you read the editorial and give your own thought to the subject discussed you have gained. You, as a reader, have given careful thought to an important problem and the writer is proud to have called your attention to an important subject that you may have overlooked.

A Simple Solution To the County Road Problem — Part II

In an editorial in the last issue of the paper we proposed what we think is an easy and simple solution to the county road problem. The solution: abandon those roads in the county which are not necessary for the farmers to go about their work.

Initial action should come from the farmers themselves, since they would be the ones directly affected by the abandonment of some of the county roads. The committees could initiate the action. The commissioners could follow through with the idea.

A minister was in a Wayne business firm visiting two of his church members recently, one of whom had been absent from services the preceding Sunday. The member who had attended service remarked to the absentee, "The pastor really had a good sermon Sunday!" Absentee replied, "oh, goodness I always miss the good ones!"

If J.W. were to tell you of a special "brick cave" not far away which is all too seldom entered by many, and never entered by even more, would you be interested in the adventure of visiting it?

Within its walls are stalactites of history and stalagmites of science! There are open springs of philosophy and rough-hewn paths into the caverns of intellect! Where is this strange cave?

Have you ever started reading a novel right in the middle of the book? Its fun! That way you are not only surprised how everything ends, but also shocked by how it all began!

The night time speed limit of 60 mph in Nebraska is now a little over two years old. Did the increased speed limitation raise the rate of night time accidents? Not that anyone can tell. Suppose two vehicles collide head-on while both are maintaining a speed of 25 mph. Do you realize most of the occupants in the autos would stand a big chance of being killed? Is any speed over 25 mph then too fast?

Some folk are better drivers at 65 mph than others are at 15 mph. Forty miles an hour can be too fast on ice-coated highways, but not nearly fast enough when that speed will hold up traffic on good dry roads.

What do you think of having a 70 mph day time speed limit with the night limit remaining at 60 mph? Is it really so much speed that kills or causes "near" accidents, or is it those drivers who pull out in front of you, or fall to stop, or perhaps do not signal their turn?

Our world is made of paper! At least one might be led to think so after considering the millions of tons of it consumed annually in the United States alone. Paper has been called "the handmaiden of civilization."

Approximately nine out of every ten pounds of paper produced in the U. S. are made from the wood pulp obtained from trees. Hundreds of kinds of paper can be made from the pulp of the same tree. Out of the same shipment of wood the papermakers can create newsprint, wrapping paper, transparent glassine which is the kind of paper that covers candy boxes.

It is interesting that Canada produces more than half of the timber for wood pulp used throughout the world. The paper you hold in your hand upon which these words are printed is made of wood pulp. In other words, the main ingredients of this paper used to be a live tree when you were but a child! Newsprint is a blend of one part sulfite pulp and three parts of ground wood.

Paper gets its name from papyrus, a reed which Egyptians used for writing material. Papyrus stalks were cut into thin slices by them and made into sheets. Paper, as we know it, was invented in China in 105 A. D. In 1797 a Frenchman invented a machine that would make paper in long continuous rolls, instead of small batches.

Papers such as facial tissue, filter paper, toweling, bathroom tissue and other absorbent papers are usually made entirely of cotton rag pulp or sulfite pulp. More than eight million tons of

MAKE AMERICA A BETTER PLACE.

LEAVE THE COUNTRY.

On the way to America, a man was by a woman from the Peace Corps. She said, "I don't know what you are doing here, but you are not in the Peace Corps." He said, "I am not in the Peace Corps, but I am in the Peace Corps."

By 1940, 200,000 Peace Corps alumni will be living their lives as a part of America. There are those who think you can change the world in the Peace Corps. The other hand, many of us feel that you can't change the world in the Peace Corps. But what you do with your own back. The Peace Corps, Washington, D.C. 20525.

The Freedom of Dissent

In these seemingly unparalleled days of desertion from these principles which have made it possible for him to be the free America he is, let each citizen of this country's loosely reviewed loyalties held by our forefathers. For, after all, it was their blood, sweat and tears which paid for our present right to dissent.

For some reason, which remains unclear and out of focus, dissenting citizens forget that, had brave men failed to protect this great nation in WWI and WWII, their "right to dissent" wouldn't exist.

Whether we like it or not there are those fellow citizens in our midst who believe it is their goal in life to make fun of those precious documents, framed by heroic and courageous men in yesteryears, which have made this country a racial melting pot and "land of the free."

Americanism is an unflinching love of country; loyalty to its instructions and ideals; eagerness to defend it against all enemies, identified alike to the flag; and a desire to secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and posterity. Anyone not loving this type of country and its freedom should apply for a visa and go to a country they do like. Some of us wouldn't even mind contributing toward the cost of the ticket.

Let it be known here and now there are millions in America who can still unshakingly stand and say, "I love my country." I'm not at all ashamed to feel the mist from my eyes as the flag passes by, because I'm simultaneously aware of those homesick youth in Vietnam foxholes who also sometimes weep.

Let those who would rather fight our own military men and morale, rather than put any blame at all on the aggression of communism, re-read the history books. In so doing there is that possibility that the reader will discover that of all nations, though imperfect, the United States of America is probably the only world power that would put up with the riotous demonstrations on the home-front against those on the war-front. Our forefathers called it treason. Rebellion of such a nature, in this or even Cuba, is met with extermination. Only precious American freedom allows for loudmouthed dissent.

You may think as you like, for this is a freedom for which thousands have given their lives. If you want to use that freedom as a tool to trample on the bodies of those that gave it to you, that is your freedom. But don't ask me to stop waving the American flag whenever I please, and to dry when I please, because of what it represents. I hope you remember, sir, that millions of us love this country and the freedom that allows you to holler your dissent is the same freedom that allows us the right to salute the flag, the right to vote, the right to worship, the right to raise in the cemetery and thank God for men who had the love and guts to protect our families from "isms" of the past.

Laurence M. Gould, President Emeritus of Carleton College, was recently quoted by the Denver Herald-Tribune as saying, "I do not believe the greatest threat to our future is from bombs or guided missiles. I don't think our civilization will die that way. I think it will die when we no longer care. Nineteen of 21 civilizations have died from within and not by conquest from without. There were no bands playing and flags waving when these civilizations decayed. It happened slowly, in the quiet and the dark, when no one was aware."

I've decided it's time to start waving the American flag, sir, and curse, if you must all that it stands for, if you believe that is your mission in life, but, as for myself, I'm going to wave, respect and love it until the day I die. — MMW.

Hoover Nails It Down

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, recently wrote the following which is so very clear and to the point, that we pass it on to you. It is unfortunate, in the criminal realm within which he must work, the law enforcement officer is the only one "playing the rules". This places him at a definite disadvantage. In complying with all the procedural safeguards established for criminals, an officer must often subordinate his personal safety, his own rights, and the rights of society to insure that he does not commit some error which might later result in the release of the guilty. Criminals are usually well aware of their legal rights and take full advantage of them.

Many critics of law enforcement today substitute paper theories for grim realities. When they advocate more restraints on arresting officers, they do so apparently on the premise that police are dealing with only law-abiding, cooperative citizens who respect the law and those charged with enforcing it. While a big percentage of police contacts are with the responsible members of society, increasing assaults against and killing of law enforcement officers are indicative of the open contempt numerous violators have for police and authority of any kind.

Arguments are made that court opinions and legal restraints are not so broad as to require arresting officers to unduly endanger their lives in order to meet standards established by protest the rights of the suspect or accused. Here again, we encounter the difference between theory and practice. Judicial guidelines which are so vague and questionable that even the highest judges disagree on their intent place a heavy burden of judgment on the enforcement officer. In crucial moments, this burden of judgment can create indecision. And as we know, moments of indecision can cost an officer his life.

The trend today, even though unintentional, is to negate the enforcement of the laws to insure that the criminal is protected. We are asking our officers to operate under an honor system in dealing with an element of our society which has no honor. Certainly, arresting officers cannot be permitted to resort to illegal tactics themselves, but they must be allowed to perform their duty with confidence and with the assurance that they have the support of the public, the government on all levels and the courts. The powers of arrest must be as clear and positive as possible.

Vigorous law enforcement is needed to cope with crime and violence in our Nation. It cannot be achieved if arresting officers are required to make an apologetic approach to every killer, rapist, robber, and drug roaming our streets. If the rule of law is to prevail, the law must be enforced.

These are certainly things each of us as citizens must carefully consider. — MMW.

'Throw the Rascals Out'

To paraphrase one prominent politician, "If you don't like the rascals who are in office now, throw them out and put in some new rascals." This is exactly the chance you have this Tuesday when the elections for councilmen and school board will be held in Allen, Carroll, Concord, Dixon, Hoskins, Laurel, Wadsworth and Winfield. If you don't like those people who are incumbents, elect some new people to the positions.

It does absolutely no good to sit back and criticize and complain if you are not willing to do your small part to improve a situation. Your vote is that small part. One vote seldom decides an election, but it has happened. And it has often happened when a group of people become disenchanted with the way things are going and cast their votes as an expression of that disenchantment.

Ask yourself before the polls close tomorrow night if you are satisfied with the way things are moving in your school and the city or village. If you answer that you are not satisfied, show your disapproval by casting your vote against those in office seeking reelection. If you answer that you are satisfied, show your support of those people by casting your vote for them. But, cast your vote. It's an important right of citizens in this country. — N.L.H.

Quotable Notables:

One of our defects as a nation is a tendency to use what have been called "weasel words." When a weasel sucks eggs the meat is sucked out of the egg. If you use a "weasel word" after another there is nothing left of the other.—Theodore Roosevelt, 1916.

The inevitableness, the idealism, and the blessing of war, as an indispensable and stimulating law of development, must be repeatedly emphasized.—Bernhardi, in "Germany and the Next War."

Drivers Exams Manual Revised

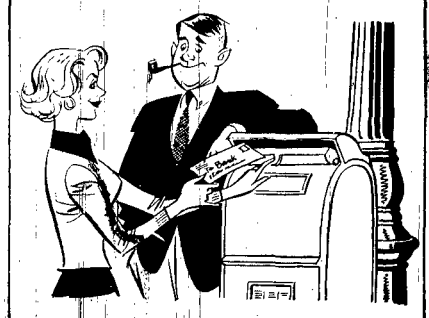

Plans have been made to publish a new Nebraska drivers manual and new drivers examination questions, according to Emmett Dennis, Jr., director of Nebraska's Motor Vehicle Department in Lincoln. Dennis stated that the actual test questions will be included in the new manual, with reference to appropriate sections of the booklet providing the answers. He thought the revised manual and exams should be ready for distribution by mid-summer.

Wayne County treasurer, Leona Bahde, said Friday, "We have received no notification from the Motor Vehicle Department but the new manual and examinations should be ready for distribution by the middle of the summer."

Miss Bahde pointed out, "Present manuals and drivers examinations will continue to be used until the new ones are available."

The county treasurer said a number of Wayne county residents had inquired about the new manual and tests, but that she does not have them on hand and will likely not have them until possibly some time in July.

Certain Limitations

On $600 Exemption

A $600 exemption may be taken for a baby born any time during the year as long as certain tests are met, Richard P. Vnal, district director of Internal Revenue for Nebraska, said this week.

The basic requirement for claiming a child as a dependent is that the taxpayer provide more than half the child's support for the entire year. If a child is born, or dies, during the year his support test has to be met for the months the child was alive.

Another requirement is that the child must either be related to the taxpayer or be a member of the taxpayer's household.

The child must also be a citizen or resident of the United States. The exceptions to this rule are for a child who is a resident of Canada, Mexico, Panama or the Canal Zone.

Mr. Vnal said the requirement that a person cannot have income of $600 or more a year and be claimed as a dependent by another taxpayer does not apply to a child who is either under 19 at the end of the year or a full-time student for some part of five months of the year.

When the child is under 19 or is a full-time student his exemption can be claimed on two tax returns. The child would claim his own exemption on the return he was required to file and his parents would still be entitled to claim his exemption on their return.

Publication 501, "Your Exemptions and Exemptions for Dependents," which furnishes more detailed information on this subject, may be obtained by dropping a post card to the District Director, Internal Revenue Service, Omaha, Nebr. 68102.
