

NE Tech School Will Open Inside Temporary Housing

Northeast Nebraska Vocational Technical School's board of governors decided Wednesday evening in a meeting at Norfolk to go ahead with plans to offer a program in temporary quarters.

F. Don Macley was given the authority by the board to make arrangements for a lease on at least one Norfolk building, with the possibility of securing a second.

Macley pointed out to the board that classroom space could likely be made available for fall classes in welding, drafting, electronics, two shops and a general classroom.

At the board's next meeting Macley will submit a recommendation for a beginning curriculum, based on space available in the buildings secured.

Board members decided to proceed with training courses in temporary buildings, though Macley had presented a report of his visit last week to the vocational school at North Platte and had not been particularly impressed. North Platte's vocational classes are offered in an old library and warehouse.

Macley said North Platte personnel had advised him against commencing instruction in temporary buildings due to the sizable cost for one year of operation. Governors of the vocational school at North Platte have not approved any new building plans. Governors at the Norfolk meeting decided to proceed with a curriculum in rented space, however, as it was agreed the general public is urgent to get classes started.

Macley was given the authority by the board to make any necessary arrangements to move or dismantle a house and several other buildings on the school site northeast of Norfolk. They also authorized him to hire the Omaha Testing Laboratory to make soil tests on the building site.

LB 979, which proposes dividing the state into area colleges for both academic and vocational two-year programs was discussed at some length.

To be eligible for the honor, next step from being a National Farmer, Anderson had to rank in the upper one-quarter of his class scholastically, pass a test about FFA and have a very good job program.

Anderson will be initiated into the group Thursday. The FFA convention and contests last Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Schluckebier said he has chosen 15 boys to take part in the contests at Lincoln.

Area Crime Commission Recommends 10 Ways to Better Law Enforcement

The regional crime commission for eight northeast Nebraska counties met last Monday and voted to recommend to the Governor's Commission on Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice a total of 10 programs for better law enforcement in this area.

The commission, which was formed in late January to coordinate planning activities for improvement of law enforcement in the area with funds provided by the Governor's commission, includes Wayne, Cedar, Dixon, Knox, Stanton, Madison, Pierce and Antelope Counties.

The commission has received a grant of $5,534.08 for its activities during fiscal 1969.

The list of 10 programs was drawn up as a step toward qualifying for funds authorized by the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968.

Presiding at the meeting was Henry F. Heimer of Bloomfield, member from Knox County. Also present Norris Weible of Wayne, Wayne County member.

Programs selected by the regional group included: Improved communications, including a regional communications hookup with every law enforcement officer and every community in the eight-county area; training schools for law enforcement officers conducted in the region; upgrading and revising the system of criminal justice to make it more swift and sure; more law enforcement personnel; new and improved equipment and mutual aid between law enforcement agencies; schools for present officers and county judges; new and improved facilities; juvenile delinquency probation system; increased academic standards for law enforcement officers, including a system of education for present officers; and improved public relations.

Use of the alleys was restricted earlier this spring because of conditions brought on by the combination of heavy snow and spring thawing.

Veterinarian Rolls Vehicle; Continues Work

A Winside veterinarian, Dr. N. L. Ditman, considers himself fortunate to have escaped what might have been a fatal accident Easter Sunday, when the vehicle he was driving hit a soft spot in the road causing the panel truck to leave the road and roll over twice, landing back on its wheels.

Ditman was three miles north and a half east of Winside around noon Apr. 6 when the accident occurred. After hitting the spongy soil, Ditman said Thursday, that his truck rolled toward the north ditch and downhill. He lost wheels in the panel along with a spare tire which landed in the front seat when the vehicle came to rest.

Though he received no broken bones the doctor suffered a mashed left hand. Not letting that bother him too much he drove the panel to the farm where he was originally destined, made his call and drove the badly dented panel truck back to town. After that he sought medical attention for his injury and then went out to make two more calls. He said Thursday that his hand is improving.

Supervisory System Sought By County Progress Group

by Merlin Wright

With the philosophy that Wayne County can be and should be one of the most progressive counties in northeast Nebraska, a group of both farm and town businessmen are in the process of organizing the Wayne County Progress Committee.

Several informal meetings have been held throughout the county during the past two and a half months at which the following men have voluntarily served as temporary officers: Bernard Barcliman, who farms in southern Wayne County north of Wisner, chairman; Bill Hainsy, Wakefield, secretary; and Clark Khl, who farms near Pender, has been serving as treasurer.

Purpose of the committee's formation was given in a meeting at Altona Thursday night as being that of providing an organizational instrument through which to inform residents of Wayne County that a supervisory form of county government could be more efficient than is the present commissioner system, and to assist in bringing such a change into realization.

"We need a county government system," Bernard Barcliman noted, "which will allow close supervision of roads throughout Wayne County and which will make every dollar do a dollar's worth of work. We believe a supervisory system of government will come closer to this realization than our present form of the three commissioner system."

The Progress Committee members are working to contact residents in all Wayne county precincts for organizational purposes, although the temporary officers stated this will naturally take some time. Organization on the precinct level has already started in Leslie, Plum Creek, Logan, Branna and Hoskins. Barcliman said one of the reasons for commencing in these localities was the fact that the people in those areas are already familiar with the supervisor-type of government in nearby counties.

Alvin Svoboda, who farms near Pender, pointed out at the Thursday night meeting, "In a supervisor-type of county government you have more people involved in seeing that county funds and equipment are utilized to the greatest degree."

Although announcement of the Progress Committee's formation was only recently made, there are already around 75 members, who are agreed that some of the advantages of a supervisory form of county government over the commissioner-type of administration are: (1) more local control (2) more people involved (3) more efficient use of county funds (4) greater utilization of county equipment (5) road maintenance operators would like-

Eleven Households Buy Food Stamps

Wayne County Welfare Director Ethel Martelle said Friday that $185 worth of food stamps were sold to eleven households Wednesday, the first day the stamps were on sale in the county.

There were 321 bonus stamps given. In other words the eleven households have a total of $516 worth of purchasing power with an outlay of $195.

People buying the stamps are to purchase a month's supply at a time. They can do this on either of the two Wednesday's in each month when the stamps are on sale.

April 23 is the date for the next food stamp sale. Qualifying households may purchase the stamps that day at Ditman's clinic in Winside from 9 to 10:30 a.m.; at the Farmer's State Bank in Carroll from 11 a.m. to 12 noon; and in Wayne at the Welfare office in the courthouse, from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Director Martelle also stated, "We cannot make new certifications for food stamps on the day the stamps are sold." She went ahead to explain that on the day the stamps are on sale, there isn't adequate time to allow for the making of new certifications.

Those applying for the program will need verification of residence, income and resources. Mrs. Martelle pointed out, income for farmers, she noted, will be verified by the 1040 federal income tax forms for the past three years.

Households on public assistance are automatically qualified for the food stamp program.

The food stamp program is administered by the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service in cooperation with state welfare agencies, food retailers and the commercial banking system.

OLD HOME DISMANTLED. Lee Swinney and crew were dismantling this residence at Fourth and Lincoln Friday. The building was originally a home built by John T. Brassler, Sr. in 1870. MR. FARMER:
Now that the snow has left it is time we start to think about our alfalfa fertilizer needs.
When and How Can I Apply Phosphate and Potash on Old Stands of Alfalfa?
The preferred time of application is in early spring before the alfalfa begins to grow. The fertilizer may be broadcast on the surface of the soil but better results are obtained if the phosphate and potash is put into the soil at seeding time. As always use soil tests to help decide on the amounts of phosphate and potash to be applied.
Come in or call us anytime for a fresh, water soluble blended fertilizer.
If we are unable to contact you feel free to call us for an appointment day or night to figure up your 1969 agricultural needs.

We care where our product is served.

Beer served in pleasant and wholesome surroundings is the aim of the United States Brewers Association. And we are always striving to do something about it.

The USBA is represented by field men around the country. They meet with proprietors of establishments where beer is sold. They work in every way possible to promote a set of high standards wherever beer is served.

This USBA effort means even more enjoyable places for America's great beverage of moderation.

OK's Dixon Request for State Assistance

The application by the town of Dixon for state aid to help it pay the costs of removing snow the past winter was approved Wednesday by Gov. Norbert F. Tiemann.

Dixon will receive a check totaling $297.57 from the state within a few weeks, the state's share in helping snow removal.

Engineer Tells Executives of Highway Plans

Wayne's Chamber of Commerce manager, Roger Elder, attended a meeting in Lincoln Thursday which was held for Nebraska Chamber of Commerce presidents, executives and highway Commission chairmen.

The group met with Marvin Nuernberger, State highway engineer, who presented a sketch of state highway programming for the next two decades.

Nuernberger told those attending, which numbered around 60, "We would be derelict in our responsibilities to the people of Nebraska if we did not provide them long-range planning."

Continuing the engineer noted, "We are going to present to you today a 2200 mile Freeway-Expressway System. We are going to present to you a definite interstate construction time-table that is geared for the earliest possible completion, the 1973 construction season, and remains to be the most important highway in the world and it is Nebraska's economic lifeline for transcontinental travel."

"We are going to present," Nuernberger went on, "to you a proposal for the eradication of the backlog needs from our state highway system. We are going to present all of this as a balanced work load between today and 1989, a span of 20 years."

The speaker said Nebraska will need $20 million of highway revenue bonds in 1969 for the "specific original purpose of buying time on interstate construction."

He indicated the State will need an additional $10 million in bonds in 1971 to "increase the tempo of the elimination of backlog needs."

LB 905 will have a hearing in the Revenue Committee at 2 p.m. tomorrow (Tuesday). It would authorize legislature to issue $20 million in highway revenue bonds in 1969 and $10 million in 1971.

Wayne Defeats Allen 8-2; Wins 2-0 Game at Bancroft

Wayne High School opened the 1969 baseball season on a winning note Thursday afternoon on the local diamond by posting an 8-2 victory over Allen. Wayne Magdanz, giving up one run in 7 1/3 innings, was credited with the win although three Blue Devils saw action on the mound.

Light players managed to connect for base hits for Wayne, six of them, including two triples by Randy Helgren, were for extra bases. Allen gathered four hits with a two-run double by Bob Anderson being the only one for extra bases.

Randy Helgren drove in three of Wayne's runs in the bottom of the second inning with a bases-loaded triple. He then added another run by crossing home plate on a double by Jerry Titze.

Both teams went down in order in the third stanza before Wayne ignited for two more runs in the fourth inning. The first one came with two outs when Helgren slammed a triple and then scored on a single by Titze.

Titze then added an insurance run by stealing second and completing the circuit via an over-the-throw from Allen's catcher, Larry Carr, to second baseman Kevin Hill.

Allen threatened to score in the fifth inning when John Abts led off with a walk, Carr struck out, Brian Linafelter drew a base on balls and Bob Mitchell took a called third strike. Kevin Hill then loaded the bases with a walk before the rally ended with Bob Anderson grounding out from second to first.

Two more runs were added to Wayne's score in the sixth stanza when Dave Tietgen reached first base on an error. Jerry Harbert walked, Mike Hiltroff drove Tietgen home on a single and Hurlbert scored on one-base hit by Steve Hix.

Allen failed to close the gap in the top of the seventh inning although it did manage to score on a two-run triple by Anderson with Mitchell and Hill abroad.

Not All Wayne Inspection Stations Receive Stickers

Although the first inspection deadline is Apr. 30 for vehicles with license plates ending in "99" and "49," the state hasn't sent out inspection stickers to some licensed and approved motor vehicle inspection stations in Wayne.

Fourteen vehicle inspection stations in Wayne were contacted Thursday morning. Six of the fourteen stations called said they have not received the necessary beige-and-black stickers for April inspections.

Some of the Wayne operators have been promised by the Motor Vehicle Department in Lincoln that they will have their stickers in a few days.

One local firm has made five telephone calls trying to find out why the stickers haven't been sent, two other firms have also called the State MVD in Lincoln only to get the same answer, "you should be getting them in a few days."

Confusion has plagued the motor vehicle inspection program from its inception and until the sticky sticker problem can be solved it appears the confusion will continue.

gested as a first step in the revision of the criminal justice system a survey of the existing conditions, facilities and procedures in the region.

Members feel that such a survey would provide statistics so a comparison of sentencing, arrest, prosecution and other law enforcement practices in the region could be made.

The programs are included in a plan to be submitted to the state commission by today (Monday).

A more detailed law enforcement plan must be submitted to the state by Aug. 1. It must include an inventory of existing law enforcement capabilities and equipment in the eight counties and proposed projects for law enforcement improvement.

All communities and county boards in the region have been invited to submit projects to the commission. Any community wishing assistance in preparing such a project should contact the consultant to the group, Richard E. Muegling, Box 995, Norfolk.

Members on the group from Wayne County are Norris Weible and Vern Fairchild, both of Wayne. Dixon County members are Jerry Knerl of Ponca and Doyle Hanson of Newcastle. Cedar County members are Norbert Oberdier of Randolph and Edward Stevens of Hartington.

Next meeting of the group will be May 1 at 7:30 p.m. in the Taylor Professional Center, Norfolk.

The Woman's Club has scheduled a meeting at 8 p.m. Apr. 15 at the fire hall at which more plans will be made. Groups and organizations interested are asked to send representatives.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The editorial department of a weekly newspaper is an important department. Normally it is one person's opinion of topics that concern most of the readers. It is the duty of an editorial writer to search all available facts before he sits down to write. From this basis the writer should be able to give a clear picture of important topics.

You may not agree with an editorial — but if you read the editorial and give serious thought to the subject discussed you have gained. You, as a reader, have given careful thought to an important problem and the writer is proud to have called your attention to an important subject that you may have overlooked.

Concern Over Highways of Mud and Blood

While much concern in northeast Nebraska has recently centered on roads impassable due to snow and mud, perhaps it would be well for residents to also be equally concerned, especially now with springtime weather, with Nebraska's bloody roads.

According to a report released from the Nebraska Motor Vehicle Department Wednesday, there were 40,447 traffic accidents last year in the state which involved at least $100 worth of damage to one vehicle in each accident.

The MVD report said 451 people died in 374 accidents. Another 18,478 individuals were injured. If you were among those involved, or had a loved one killed, then you know these figures are not just cold statistics.

Young fathers headed home at the end of the day to wife and family little realizing the morning's possible loss had been exactly that — forever.

Youth on "kidding," having what they considered to be the "time of their life" had, instead, the last ride of their lives. Their lifeless bodies were carried, not home but to a funeral home, because of someone's carelessness, maybe their own.

Nebraskans suddenly confronted with their own death on a highway numbered more than one each day in 1968. Some of the victims were sweet mothers who were engaged in love last Mother's Day but this year will not be aware when the family arrives to place flowers on the grave.

The Motor Vehicle Department's annual report is more than statistics. It is a graphic picture of agony.

heartbreak, sorrow, loneliness and tragedy. According to the report, the most dangerous time to be on roads within the state was from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday was the day on which more accidents occurred than any other. Wednesday had the fewest number of wrecks.

There were 67,524 drivers involved in the accidents, with 11,688 coming from the 20-to-24 age bracket and 7,194 from the 18-to-19 age group.

In the last decade the MVD says there have been 3,363 persons killed on Nebraska's streets and highways. This means that during the last ten years the populations of Allen, Wakefield, Carroll, Winslow, Hoskins, Concord, Dixon and Laurel have been wiped out in highway accidents.

Disregarding all of the insurance, worth of wrecked vehicles, cost of burials, hours of grief, shattered homes, and dreams, bewildered orphans, broken hearted widows and widowers, there is also the removal from society lives which may have contributed in some magnificent way toward the benefit of all mankind. Now they will not because of an "accident".

May we each remember that driving is not a right but a privilege. Each time you get behind the wheel of a vehicle, imagine that every car you encounter is being driven by the one you love the most, then drive accordingly. Courtesy on the road may mean your relatives will not have to disrupt their busy schedule to attend your funeral.

The other fellow may not have the right-of-way but who is left is what counts. MMW

There Is No Escape

Where there is smoke, there is fire — so goes the old expression. It appears particularly applicable to present discussions of federal tax reform. One of the last official acts of the Johnson Administration was to submit proposed changes in the tax laws to make the system more equitable and to extend its reach to incomes that it has been claimed escape their share of the tax load. The Nixon Administration is also concerned with tax reform.

For longer than most of us can remember, there have been proposals of one kind or another to improve and reform the tax laws, but instead of reform, taxes have gotten higher and the rules more complicated year after year. Perhaps at last, the pressure of taxpayer resentment will force change, but no miracles should be expected — at least of all a substantial lessening of the tax burden. As long as the cost of government continues to rise disproportionately to the productive capacity of the people, taxes will become increasingly burdensome.

Reform of the tax laws may mean more equitable treatment of taxpayers. But, reform should not be confused with reduction. Because of their number, the great body of U.S. citizens of modest means, in the future as in the past, will remain the target of the tax collector. There is no other way. MMW.

Is It the Springtime Weather?

Life in Lincoln last week for government officers and legislators appeared to have caused some of them to be as limp as a homesick frog. Gov. Norbert Tiemann accepted the resignation of State Motor Vehicles Director Emmett Dennis on Tuesday. The resignation ended a rather controversial six months in office for Dennis. Tiemann indicated that Dennis resigned because programs in the Motor Vehicle Department were not progressing as rapidly as the Director felt they should. His resignation is effective tomorrow (Tuesday).

Complicating the Motor Vehicle Department problems is the motor vehicle inspection program which became effective April 1. Inspection stations in various areas throughout the State are still waiting for the beige-and-black stickers for April inspections, although the first inspection deadline is April 30. Dealers are blaming the Lincoln MVD personnel and the MVD is blaming the printers. As to whom the printers are blaming we do not know.

Sen. Terry Carpenter, Scottsbluff, got things off to a start Wednesday when he said he was going to propose a bill to abolish the State School Board. His intentions were expressed after Education Commissioner Floyd A. Miller released to the press a letter thought to have been written by John K. Landay of Omaha. The letter, revealed plans for a "power play" at a State School Board meeting scheduled Friday. So many charges were exchanged in the uproar that it will likely be some time before anything like all the facts will be known.

An estimated 1,500 Nebraskans jammed the galleries with some left standing in the rotunda outside the legislative chamber Wednesday afternoon when LB 1342 requiring school reorganization was aired. No action on the bill was taken. Also held for further study were LB 1339 and LB 1341 which deal with the abolishment of the office of county superintendent and reducing the number of educational service units from 19 to 13. Testimonies were running high in the meeting of the Legislature's Education Committee when LB 1342 was aired in the legislature chamber.

Another bill creating intense feeling is LB 6 which would require at least a 10 per cent markup on all retail sales in the state. The Omaha Chamber of Commerce board of directors went on record Wednesday in opposition to the measure with president-elect John Delsing stating that the bill was "directly against the law of supply and demand which has built retailing to the position it enjoys today in the United States."

Tax deadlines are here and the State office is being flooded with last-minute returns, many from irate taxpayers.

Northeast Nebraskans are beginning to climb out of real mud just at the time when it appears some interesting mud-slinging has commenced in our State Capitol's affairs. Ah! Spring! MMW.

Did your Mother take you for your last checkup?

We know some big, strong men who turn out to be stubborn little boys at the mere mention of a checkup. They can't seem to understand the importance of spending a short time with a doctor, just to make sure they're as healthy as they thought they were in the first place.

Their time is too precious to waste. Hah.

If you stopped going for checkups you've just stopped getting lollipops for your trouble, so that you're old enough to learn the truth.

What you may consider a bother is one of your best defenses against cancer. Checkups help your doctor keep tabs on you. So if anything looks even the least little bit unusual to him, he can do something about it. Fast.

200,000 people were saved last year. Annual checkups can save thousands more.

What are you waiting for?

Are you going to go like a big boy, or do we have to call your mother?

Farmer Meets with Accident
Joseph Schmitt, a prominent farmer of Osmond, was picked up in his cattle barn in an insensible condition. A physician was hastily called and after working over him for over two hours he succeeded in restoring him to consciousness, but found that Mr. Schmitt was in a paralyzed condition.

Sharks from the Wires
A ball of fire which came from the clouds created havoc in Montclair, N. J., destroying two houses and injuring several persons.

Nearly every vessel at the Chicago end of Lake Michigan has been chartered and loaded with grain awaiting the opening of navigation. Among recent presents sent to Admiral Dewey is an annual pass to a theater named for him.

To Float Stranded Vessels
Vessels can be easily removed from sandbars by a new apparatus consisting of an endless chain of buckets to be attached to the sides of the vessel and driven by engines to excavate the sand from around the hull until the ship floats free.

Sen. Roman Hruska will address the noon luncheon Friday, first day of the meeting.

Friday afternoon a general panel on water and soil conservation, flood control and recreation will be held. Participants will include city, state, federal and university officials who are experts in these fields.

Workshops will follow this session with topics including housing, recreation, beautification, downtown improvements, city-county planning, zoning, code enforcement, the 1969 Community Improvement Program and how planning commissions can be established.

A special tour of the Norfolk area will be hosted by the Norfolk planning commission and the Chamber of Commerce.

Saturday's sessions will be divided into discussion groups for cities, counties, villages and regions. Sen. Herb Nore, Genoa, will be the speaker during the Saturday noon luncheon. Afternoon workshops will conclude the program.

As A Matter of Fact

Wayne's City Code:
Section 18-825: "No vehicle, except those operated by members of the fire department or except by specific direction of the chief of the fire department, shall follow, approach, or park closer than three hundred feet to a fire or to fire apparatus."

Section 18-804: "It shall be unlawful for any person to operate a motor vehicle upon any street of this city when such a person has in his or her lap, or in his or her embrace, another person, package, or other inanimate object."

—x-x-x-x-x—
The man behind the gun? Everyone was trying to do their share. Unconditional surrender and words like "win" and "victory" made headlines daily in regards to determination to overcome the enemy. How different now in 1969 when such words are seldom used and we hear of "controlled bombing", "hoilition governments", "bombing balls", etc.

—x-x-x-x-x—
A full page ad appears with the giant headline, "All Out For Victory at Nebraska Defense Corporation." Then Firestone, who operated the Nebraska Defense Corporation, continues to list about 30 different products manufactured by them for the war effort. Every company was proud and advertised the fact that they were helping win the war! They wanted to get our fine young men back home! Things have changed.

—x-x-x-x-x—
We no longer officially even go to "war", though thousands of our finest young men are dying in Vietnam. And now, if a company is manufacturing a product for use in Vietnam, very few know about it, and when it is found out, there are always those who feel it their duty to demonstrate, riot, yell and holler. Let the heel of state controlled communism step on the demonstrator's right to free speech (which many use to berate their own country) and perhaps, after seeing several thousand put to death because they did speak out against their government in communist controlled countries, they would begin to appreciate the many freedoms in America that are taken for a "right" rather than a "privilege".

—x-x-x-x-x—
Would you care to return to the "good old days"? Not many folk would because they weren't that good. In 40 years or in 2009 the lad who is now 10 years old will be 50 years old and will likely look back at his childhood and 1969 as being some "good old days" but who would want to actually return to today's problems? It is good that generations cannot turn back.

—x-x-x-x-x—
There will never be an end of war as long as man inhabits the earth because humans have fought with each other since being on earth and it isn't very likely they will quit now. According to many philosophers this viewpoint is neither optimistic nor pessimistic but very realistic.

—x-x-x-x-x—
Methods of fighting change as can be observed in the moving from bow and arrow to hydrogen bombs. Space war may be next using tools of devastation so powerful as to make our present day weapons look like the work of amateurs.

—x-x-x-x-x—
So Dad, you'd better bounce that boy on your knee now while you can because all too soon he is likely going to be a soldier. He is going to be fighting for that in which he believes, because you and I have utterly

McLusky & Needham will soon begin the erection of a new elevator on the east side of Vietnam street south of the track. Local and Miscellaneous
A jury trial was held before Justice Feather on Tuesday in which Plaintiff J. S. Lewis Jr. sought to oust Mrs. J. M. Gillaspay from the building now occupied by her at the corner of 1st and Main sts., the jury found for defendant, who will continue to occupy the building until next September.

The grocery dealers are hustling for business these days. They are out bright and early every morning taking orders at the homes of the people throughout the city. The telephone has saved the good housewife many a step and now the kind grocer is doing even more than that, by calling in the morning to procure the order. There's nothing like it.

The Germans of the City and immediate vicinity contemplate building a large and commodious church edifice as the present structure is entirely too small to accommodate the congregations. The Herald hopes that this people, which has grown to be one of the main stays of Wayne, will be successful in their enterprise.

Davis & Busby's Big Ten Nights in a Bar Room Co. will appear here Friday evening. This is a large company and carries a long list of high class novelties and specialties of all kinds. They have engaged E. E. Nickerson's Red Hussar band for this tour and will be heard at 3:00 p.m. in your principal streets. The company played 14 performances last week at the Lyceum Theater, and go direct from here to the Grand at Sioux City.

Swine Specialist Outlines Methods To Overcome 'Cost-Price' Squeeze

The much mentioned "cost-price squeeze" in putting pressure on the profit potential in swine production; however, the pork producer of 1969 has a wealth of information available to assist in making decisions, according to Bob Fritschen, swine specialist at the Northeast Station near Concord.

Fritschen lists several cost-reducing - production increasing swine enterprise inputs as possible methods of overcoming the cost-price problem:

Limiting the energy intake prior to and during gestation represents the leading method of reducing costs while increasing production. Limit-fed females not only cost less to keep but do better reproductively as well.

Boying production tested boars can increase profits. But the important fact is that non-tested boars or boars with poor performance records can cost additional money. Adequate boar power generally pays off by grouping farrowing more closely and increasing conception rates.

Having records on all pigs can increase profits and reduce costs. In a hurry. For example, by identifying the fast growing pigs in a herd and propagating them and by identifying the slow growing pigs and eliminating them, a rapid improvement in growth rate can be predicted. Far nothing is basic to production oriented decisions.

Flushing gilts prior to breeding represents profit at farrowing time. It should be remembered that expected benefits from flushing are dependent upon gilts being on a limited energy diet prior to flushing.

Supplemental iron for piglets can reduce costs by preventing expensive problems that result from sub-clinical anemia. Also, iron treatment is necessary to normal, healthy fast growing pigs.

Market pigs at desirable weights. Heavy market pigs cause pocketbook paralysis. Also, feed requirements for heavy hogs cut into the profit. The fact that heavy, fat hogs produce a less desirable carcass should not be minimized.

Proper adjustment on equipment can reduce costs by preventing expensive problems that result from sub-clinical anemia. Also, iron treatment is necessary to normal, healthy fast growing pigs.

'Crofton' Soils Have Low Productivity

by Donald E. Kerl, Soil Scientist
Soil Conservation Service

Buckskin hills, yellow clay hills—these are names used locally for the Crofton soils as determined by the Wayne County soil survey presently being carried on by the USDA Soil Conservation Service.

The Crofton soils have earned a bad name in this area because they are the poorest producing upland soils of the county. Nearly all farmers claim they are their problem areas.

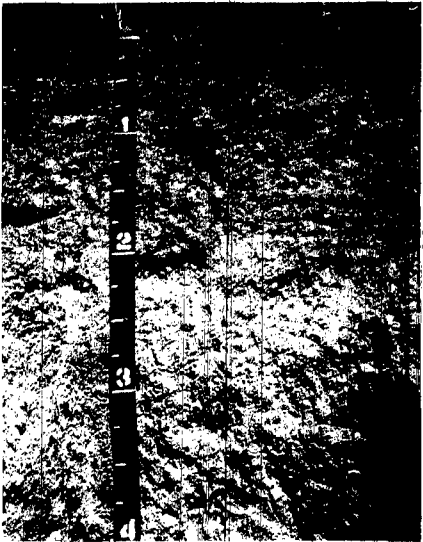

They occur on the convex or rounded slopes, the most exposed area in a field. They normally do not occur as large areas but as knobs within an area.

They have very light colored surface soils which are usually about seven inches thick, to a depth of about 18 inches there is some weak structure which is developed by roots and water penetrating into the soil. Below this is parent material which is generally unchanged from the material that blew in approximately 10,000 years ago. This means that the Crofton soils are only about 75 inches thick. This is not very much soil to raise a crop on.

Crofton soils are very erosive and need to be treated to control excessive loss of soil.

They always have many large lime concretions. King on the surface and are moderately alkaline, with a pH about 8.0 to 8.5. This causes a tie up of phosphorus and these soils usually respond well to the application of phosphorus. The Crofton soils will probably be the first soils to show deficiency of trace elements, such as zinc and sulfur.

These soils are low in organic matter, around one per cent as compared to about three per cent for some of our darker colored soils.

CROFTON SOIL PROFILE. This view of the Crofton soil with marks every foot shows how the roots of the plants reach into the soil, the weakening of the soil down to about 18 inches and the parent soil underneath.

soils. Of course, this means not much nitrogen. The addition of manure helps maintain the productivity. Legumes, in rotation are very important with this soil.

Most of the rain that falls on this soil runs off before it can soak in. Anything you can do to help hold the moisture in this soil will help increase production. Improved tillage practices, drainage, manure and legumes will help this soil store moisture.

MELTING SNOW this week uncovered what has been painfully obvious to many Wayne area farmers this winter — heavy livestock losses. This photo, taken on Highway 20 near Bressler's Station shows four cattle which apparently died during one of this winter's many severe snow storms. They represent a potential loss of about $1,000 to the unlucky owner.

Area Farmers Have Chance to Question

Ag Secretary Hardin

Farmers, businessmen and all other interested persons in this area will have a chance to make their views known either orally or in writing — to Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin in Lincoln Saturday.

Secretary Hardin will hold a regional "listening" conference at the University of Nebraska Union, beginning at 9 a.m.

A wide variety of presentations will be heard on agriculture, adequate nutrition and rural development.

A part of the afternoon session will be reserved for unscheduled comments to be recognized from the floor. All persons giving oral comments are asked to submit written statements as well. In addition, written statements will be accepted for study by Hardin from anyone wishing to offer them, whether or not time allows an oral presentation.

The meeting, formally titled the Secretary's Hearing on Agriculture and the Rural Economy (SHARE), will be held in the Nebraska Union's Centennial Room, which seats more than 1,000 persons.

In addition to Nebraskans in all walks of life who have a direct or indirect interest in agriculture, the Lincoln meeting is being arranged especially for residents of North and South Dakota, Iowa, Wyoming, Colorado,

Surcharge Giving Taxpayer Fits

A nationwide sampling of nearly three million Federal income tax returns processed this year shows that many people are ignoring their tax surcharge incorrectly.

These mistakes take time to correct and consequently delay any refund the taxpayer might be expecting, the Internal Revenue Service reports. If the mistake caused an understatement of tax the taxpayer will either get a smaller refund or a bill for additional tax.

Although the surcharge is generally described as a 10 percent tax, IRS says, it did not become effective until Apr. 1. The law therefore provided that taxpayers pay a seven and one-half percent surcharge on the tax based on all of their 1968 income, rather than a 10 percent surcharge covering the period from April through December 1968.

Persons whose tax before adding the surcharge is less than $734 do not have to make the surcharge calculation since they may obtain the figure from tables provided in the instructions that come with Forms 1040 and 1040A.
