

City Warns: Trim Trees Or Pay Us

Property owners who have trees on their lawn or terrace with low hanging branches had better get the limbs clipped or the city will do it for them and send them the bill.

That reminder comes from Vern Schultz, streets commissioner, who noted that he has received several complaints about the low branches over sidewalks.

Limbs must not hang lower than seven feet above the sidewalks, he noted, and it is the property owner's responsibility to keep all the trees on his land trimmed so they don't hang over the sidewalk or the street. This goes for all the trees on the terrace, he emphasized, since the city is not responsible for them and will only trim them when the property owner refuses to do so. The bill for trimming trees on private property will be sent to the owner of the land, he pointed out.

Schultz said that the property owners could save themselves a lot of trouble and probably some of their trees if they would do the trimming now. He said that all the trees in town have grown greatly in the last year and if they are not clipped soon they will lose some of their branches in the first strong wind. This may mean that some of the trees will die.

He pointed out that the city will issue a three-day notice to those people who do not get their trees trimmed. After that the city will trim them - send them the bill.

Past VFW Commander Named State Chairman

A man formerly active in Wayne County veterans organizations has been named Nebraska Veterans of Foreign Wars American Chairman.

Named to the post Tuesday was Keith M. Boughn Sr. of Norfolk, James E. Burt of (right), commander of the Department of Nebraska VFW, made the announcement.

Boughn, a native of Randolph and a graduate of Wayne State College, is a past commander of the Wayne VFW and past Wayne County American Legion commander. ASC Warns Farmers About Compliance for Multiple Operations

"With allotment crop acreages now being certified, producers with an interest in more than one farm should bear in mind the need for compliance on each farm," Chairman John H. Mohr of the Wayne County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Commission said this week.

This means that if someone is participating in the wheat or feed grain program on his farm and has an interest in a second farm, he must stay within his allotment or base for each crop on that second farm, even if it is not signed up to participate in the program," the chairman said. "If he does not, he will be out of compliance and lose program benefits on all allotment or base crops on his participating farm," he continued.

Mohr said that multiple operations affect every state and a substantial number of farms. Nationally, some 337,000 farms are owned by producers who also have an interest in two or more farms. "Responsibility for making certain that the offsetting compliance requirement is met falls on the producer rather than the landowner, if they are different people," said Mohr. "The producer has the responsibility for offsetting compliance." He warned that offsetting compliance is subject to check and that the requirement goes across both county and state lines. This reminder will be a helpful hint to farmers who might need to think about their compliance with programs in which they are signed up, he concluded.

NE Station Included in Fertility Tour Itinerary

Fertilizer dealers in northeast Nebraska and anybody else interested in research work being conducted in this part of the state will have the opportunity to tour the area next Wednesday and Thursday.

Those are the days for the 13th annual Nebraska Soil Fertility Tour, slated this year for this part of the state. The tour is sponsored by the Nebraska Fertilizer Institute, Inc., in cooperation with the University of Nebraska Agricultural Extension Service.

The tour will include stops at the Northeast Station near Concord and various fertilizer firms in the Wayne area.

Made by chartered, air-conditioned bus, the tour will begin and end at Norfolk each day. Tentative plans call for stopping at various points in Wayne, Dixon, Madison, Antelope and Pierce Counties.

Those making the trip will be able to observe the effects of sulphur materials on alfalfa, nitrogen and sulphur on corn, fertilization of wet meadows, corn planted directly in sod, fertilizer applied in the irrigation water and several other experiments, according to George Rehm, area agronomist at the Northeast Station.

Anybody who has not registered for the tour and who would like to take part in it should telephone Howard Elm, executive vice president of the Nebraska Fertilizer Institute, 522 Terminal Building, Lincoln.

Wayne Post Office Will Close July 4th

Swine Center Dedication Draws over 1,000 People

Adkins: NU Center Proof of Industry's Importance in State

Development of a new swine research center at the University of Nebraska's Northeast Station near Concord "is a tangible indication of the reawakening which has occurred in Nebraska's pork industry," Richard Adkins, president of the NU Board of Regents, said Tuesday night. Speaking at a twilight dedication of the newly-completed complex, which includes six swine finishing units and an office-headquarters, Adkins termed the event "significant in the history of the expanding pork industry in northeastern Nebraska."

Underlining the growth of the swine industry and its present importance to the state, Adkins noted that 100 years ago there were 60,000 hogs in Nebraska, with an estimated value of $30,000.

Today, the state ranks sixth nationally in the production of pork, with a swine population which has reached as high as 5.5 million, Adkins said. Nebraska realizes more than $200 million annually from the sale of hogs, the Osmond farmer and banker said. He noted that during the past two years there has been a one million increase in hog numbers in Nebraska.

He pointed to the importance of the 17-county area served by the Northeast Station in the fact that nearly half of all hogs in Nebraska are located there. The facilities at the Northeast Station are designed to help NU scientists close "a critical information gap which has developed on the production of swine in confinement," Adkins told those attending the dedication ceremonies and open house.

He cited an accelerated trend towards forms of confinement rearing of swine in the face of limited information available to the producer who wants to utilize this production technique.

The buildings, designed and constructed in a multi-disciplinary effort involving NU engineers and animal scientists, are of flexible design to allow changing emphasis on several research areas, Adkins explained.

Principal objectives of current studies involving feeder pigs are to determine optimum ventilation, manure disposal and heating procedures, and the best arrangements in open versus closed growing-finishing buildings and slotted floors.

Adkins paid tribute to a "partnership" of pork producers, agribusinessmen, scientists and educators which made the development possible. The complex was financed by a combination of funds

Area Vocational School Seeking First Students

Northeast Tech at Norfolk is now accepting applications for students for its first year of operation.

The new vocational-technical school, which will be located in northeast Norfolk, will hold registration Aug. 25-29. The fall quarter begins Sept. 9 and will run for 12 weeks. Winter quarter begins Dec. 1 and spring quarter begins Mar. 9.

The school will operate from temporary quarters, according to school officials. They hope that construction of the school can be completed by October of next year.

Programs offered the first year include automobile mechanics, building construction, air conditioning and appliance repair, drafting, welding, electronics and data processing. Students completing 36 weeks of study will be issued certificates of completion; those finishing 72 weeks will be awarded associate degrees. Welding is the only course which can be completed in 24 weeks.

Tuition for each 12-week quarter is $84 for Northeast Tech area residents. Non-area Nebraska residents must pay $300 tuition per quarter. Out-of-state students will be charged $450 tuition per quarter.

Students will be admitted if they are a high school graduate, can pass a general education development examination or if they pass a general aptitude test to determine interest, ability and aptitude. Applicants must be 16 years old to enroll in the school.

More information about the school may be obtained by writing Northeast Tech, 0120 Norfolk Avenue, Norfolk 68701.

Other increases are noted as follows with the number of cases in parentheses following the year. Figures for 1966, 1967 and 1968 are given for 12 months while the 1969 figures are for only one-half year. Tornado Warning

The sighting of a tornado in the Wayne area will be signaled by a 30-second blast of the fire siren, followed by a 15-second lapse and then another 30-second blast. The all clear signal is one 30-second blast. The warning system was incorrectly reported in the last issue of the newspaper.

Anybody sighting a tornado in this area should immediately telephone the city police at 375-2826 or the county sheriff at 375-1911.

Sorenson: Industry Needs More Work On Swine Housing

Over 1,000 people, some coming from as far away as Minnesota and North Dakota, turned out Tuesday for the open house-dedication of the recently completed swine research center at the University of Nebraska's Northeast Station near Concord.

Bob Frittschen, a swine specialist at the Northeast Station, estimated that 1,000 people turned out for the free pork barbecue sponsored by the North Central and the Northeast Pork Producers Association.

"I was very happy with the large turnout during the day," Frittschen noted. "It was about 200 more than we had anticipated."

Farmers, businessmen and the curious turned out to learn what that new building complex is all about. Many of them expressed surprise and wonderment on seeing the building. A few expressed disbelief at some of the things being tried, especially open housing for hogs in this part of the nation.

Speaking at the dedication of the seven-building complex were Richard E. Adkins of Osmond, president of the NU Board of Regents, and Dick Sorenson of Wayne, vice president of the Nebraska Pork Producers Association and president of the Northeast Pork Producers Association.

Sorenson, who farms north of Wayne, noted that there is probably no area of swine research which is more questioned than housing. This can be seen by the large number of letters received from across the nation asking about the preliminary results of the work being done at the swine research center, he said.

The future for the pork industry looks very promising, according to Sorenson, but there is still much to be done in the areas of pork promotion, improvement of the quality and quantity of pork and the eradication of such diseases as hog cholera, brucellosis and trichinellosis.

Small groups of people began touring the research center at four o'clock in the afternoon. Cars arrived continuously until about seven o'clock.

Those attending the open house-dedication were shown a research center unique in the state. Made up of six swine housing units and an office, the center is designed to reveal how hogs react to such things as slotted floors, various types of ventilation and various forms of open housing.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The editorial department of a weekly newspaper is an important department. Normally it is one person's opinion of topics that concern most of the readers.

It is the duty of an editorial writer to search all available facts before he sits down to write. From this basis the writer should be able to give a clear picture of important topics.

You may not agree with an editorial but if you read the editorial and give serious thought to the subject discussed you have gained. You as a reader, have given careful thought to an important problem and the writer is proud to have called your attention to an important subject that you may have overlooked.

Freedom of the Press

According to a recent press release the South Vietnamese government closed down the English-language Saigon Daily News because it was critical of Premier Tran Van Huong. The newspaper was the twenty-sixth to be either closed or suspended during the past year.

A spokesman for the government said the paper was closed down because it published material harmful to the national cause.

Abraham Lincoln wrote in 1854, "In all that the people can individually do well for themselves, government ought not to interfere."

A free press is one of the great monuments of a free society. It is well for each of us to be reminded, especially on Independence Day, as to the privileges enjoyed in a nation where the press is not without government intervention. Government ought not to interfere.

Thomas Jefferson wrote to John Jay in 1786 and among other things stated, "Our liberty cannot be guarded but by the freedom of the press, nor that be limited without danger of losing it." Then in 1829 a 1929 Herbert Hoover pointed out, "Absolute freedom of the press to discuss public questions is a foundation stone of American liberty."

The press in America must always be allowed to operate without the fear of interruption by government. For a government to close down a newspaper which has an opposing opinion or words of criticism means the death of debate and an attempt to control public opinion by allowing the public to only hear one side. Samuel Clemens (Mark Twain) explained, "It were not best that we should all think alike; it is difference of opinion that makes horse races."

Our nation is but one of few in which men may speak openly that which they consider to be the truth. Freedom of speech and freedom of the press go hand in hand. Let us be grateful for their existence in America.

A free press is not something "allowed" by the rulers in Washington but it is a power derived from the consent of the governed. We, the people, are the government and we allow ourselves the freedoms we enjoy.

Independence Day should remind us of all those fortunes included in what is called "The American Creed" as adopted by the House of Representatives April 3, 1918: "I believe in the United States of America as a government of the people, by the people, for the people; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic; a sovereign Nation of many sovereign States; a perfect Union one and inseparable, established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes. I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it, to support its Constitution, to obey its laws, to respect its flag, and to defend it against all enemies."

While continuing to enjoy the freedom of the press in America, let us be determined to keep it, and take great concern for a people who government finds it necessary to close down the press because of criticism. — MMW.

Taming a Mini-Monster

On any summer day in Wayne one can hear the rhythmic sputtering of a mini-mower making its way back and forth across a lawn devouring most everything getting in the way. They come in all sizes, colors and gadgets but all powered lawnmowers have the common denominator of being potentially vicious.

A power lawnmower not only has a tiger in its tank but also some very sharp claws. When it bites and scratches, you know it!

Any mini-machine, especially if self-propelled, may be considered by some youth as a thing with which to play. The modern power mower is far from being a toy. It should have great respect, like that which you would give to a loaded gun.

Does familiarity breed contempt? Yes, especially when you have fired up that little jewel so often, mowing the lawn, back and forth, over and around, without ever having had even one small accident. It purrs like a contented cat yawning on a green carpet.

Machinery for instance seems to have a "mind" all of its own. For times a car will give you fits with a peculiar noise, but when you take it to the garage it "shushes" up! The mechanic may take a ride with you or both of you may lean over the fenders looking into its cavernous mouth, but the doggone thing won't hiccup, burp or do anything but sit there and run like a 21-jewel watch. Drive it home and she knocks all the way. Maybe you have done some flying and the minute that airplane gets over water all the engines go into automatic "rough". Even so your lawnmowing mini-monster is just waiting to catch you one of these days, and while you think it is just barking, it is going to also bite you!

A friend of mine in Sioux City was parading his new little power job around the lawn on Memorial Day when the machine evidently decided to really make it a day to remember and chewed the tennis shoe off his right foot . . . along with five toes.

Most of the doctors were out of town and two and a half hours lapsed between the time his lawn-bog hit him and the doctor started working on repairing what was left of his foot.

You mean just a little old ordinary power lawnmower chewed off five toes and a shoe? Sure did! Besides the two weeks of hospitalization and several weeks in a wheel chair, the lawnmowing mini-monster's bite will cost a total of about $2,000 to say nothing of income lost from being off the job. When an adult can have this kind of an "accident," just imagine how easy it would be for a youth to receive similar injuries!

Need it be said, BE CAREFUL! That mighty-mini can be a monster loose on your front lawn. — MMW.

Capital News — As Omaha Burns, Senators Pass Riot Control Bill, 41-6

LINCOLN—The state's legislators are touring their home grounds this week during a mid-summer break from their chores in the chamber.

And, after the hectic windup last week, some of them may still be gasping for breath.

The last two days before the week-long Fourth of July recess began were among the wildest in Nebraska's legislative history.

It began last Thursday when, all of a sudden, it was discovered LB 1381, a riot control bill, wasn't on the senators' desks when the day's session was ready to start. LB 1381 was one of five bills which had been maneuvered into position for passage prior to the recess.

The constitution requires that bills must sit on the senatorial desks at least one day before passage — and that has been interpreted to mean printed copies of the measure must be there before the session officially opens for that one day.

LB 1381 would have been there on time, but the press used to print legislative material broke down during the night. So, when the 9 a.m. opening time arrived, all but three senators refused to record their presence and officially there wasn't a quorum.

Most of the senators accepted Scott's bluff. Sen. Terry Carpenter's invitation to gather in the coffee shop at his expense and wait for LB 1381's arrival. After a delay of about an hour, the session started.

Later that morning, a group of youngsters dressed in patriotic costumes and led by a mini-sized trumpeter playing, "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" marched into the chamber to present a flag to the legislature.

Sen. William Wylie of Elgin, who was presiding at the time, shook his head. "I wonder what will happen next," he said.

What happened next occurred in Omaha where an outbreak of civil unrest followed the fatal shooting of a 14-year-old Negro girl by a policeman.

In the eyes of a few senators, the tense situation in Omaha made the morning delay so LB 1381 could be passed in appropriate. Sen. Richard F. Proud of Omaha said it made the legislature look "like a lynch mob."

Friday morning, when the riot control bill came up for final reading — after another night of violence on Omaha's Near North Side — Proud and Sen. Wayne L. Schreurs of Seward attempted to delay consideration until after the recess.

But they were voted down at every turn and the bill eventually passed on a 41-6 count.

The bill defines a series of crimes in connection with civil unrest and provides penalties ranging up to three years in the penitentiary. It passed with the emergency clause, making it law upon Gov. Norbert T. Tie-mann's signature that afternoon.

Because it was passed against the background of the trouble in Omaha, LB 1381 was the most dramatic of the bills which received final approval during the hectic Friday. But it wasn't the only one with heavy impact.

That morning, the senators also passed a $297 million budget bill, a measure permitting cities to levy a sales tax, a proposal liberalizing welfare payments and a bill creating a division of juvenile delinquency within the Department of Institutions.

The operations budget is the largest ever passed — but it is $17 million lower than Tie-mann had recommended.

At the constant urging of Carpenter, the senate hurried the bill through the legislative processes — casting aside all efforts to increase the money total without prior approval by the budget committee — so it could be passed Friday.

There were two reasons to hurry, according to Carpenter. One was to have authorized appropriations at the start of the 1969-71 biennium, which began July 1. The other was to give the lawmakers something to test public opinion with when they meet their constituents during this week's recess.

The city sales tax bill also carried the emergency clause and Omaha appeared to be poised to take advantage of the new law as quickly as possible. By this fall, the city may be levying a half-percent tax on sales in Omaha — and reaping a $4 million annual dividend.

Lincoln, also, is expected to tap the sales tax source.

But smaller communities were considered unlikely to exercise their option to tax sales.

In a nutshell, the senators were saying to cities of all sizes which have been asking for additional state financial aid: Here's a way to raise your revenues, but take the political heat at home.

There were rumblings that county governments might be given the sales tax option as well.

More Power for Review Board

Sen. C. W. Holmquist of Oakland left a "time bomb" behind when he left Lincoln for the

DON'T LEAVE SAFETY BEHIND!

Fourth of July recess.

He announced that he intends to offer amendments to pending legislation which would give the Power Review Board the authority to establish rates for all public power suppliers — wholesale and retail — in the state.

His amendments would affect the major districts, such as Consumers Public Power District, Nebraska Public Power System and Omaha Public Power District, as well as rural cooperatives and municipal systems.

They all now have the authority to set their own rates.

Holmquist said the power agencies operate within chartered areas as monopolies and there should be a state-wide agency with the authority to supervise their rates to insure protection for the public.

The legislature last week refused to put back before the voters a constitutional amendment they rejected in 1968 which would have authorized creation of a public corporation to handle power matters.

Weeds Should be Controlled

Landowners in Wayne County planted 20 thousand tree seedlings this spring.

Weather and soil moisture conditions for establishing young trees have been very favorable this planting season and new plantings are off to a good start.

During the establishment period (the next two years) weed control is of utmost importance. Many people in the county have applied a herbicide to control weeds in the row; however, the area between rows should be cultivated or mowed regularly to conserve as much moisture as possible.

Weeds should not be permitted to use moisture which the trees may need badly before the summer is over.

Fly, Mosquito Control Programs

A new publication outlining chemical suggestions for community fly and mosquito control programs in Nebraska has been produced by the University of Nebraska and is available in County Extension offices.

Extension Circular 69-1514 is available free of charge in single copies. It has been prepared by NU Extension entomologists, Department of Entomology and the Environmental Health Services to aid communities in control programs. The publication includes procedures for aerial spraying for mosquito control and guidelines for spray operators.

The circular's authors pointed out that although suggestions are based on the latest pooled information available from federal agencies and research from state universities, chemicals listed are subject to change or withdrawal at any time.

Simple Steps Might Prevent a Drowning

Knowing how to do the new form of artificial respiration called mouth-to-mouth breathing may one day help you save a life, according to the Nebraska State Medical Association.

The Association suggests you learn the following steps, just in case:

- If a child or infant should stop breathing, start immediately.
- Place him in a face-up position, head tilted backward. Lift the child's lower jaw with the fingers of both hands so that it "juts out." Keep him in this position so that his tongue will not fall back to block the air passage.
- Take a deep breath and place your mouth over the child's mouth and nose. Blow your breath gently into the child's mouth and nose until you see the chest rise and you feel his lungs expand.
- The air you blow into the child's lungs has enough oxygen to save his life.
- Remove your mouth and let the child exhale. As soon as you hear the child breath out, replace your mouth over his mouth and nose and repeat the procedure. Repeat 15 times per minute.
- Do not wait or look for help, and — do not give up!

Insect Repellents

The touch, not the smell of an insect repellent keeps biting insects away from a person. A personal insect repellent should be both safe and effective.

According to USDA, a chemical commonly known as "deet" wards off bites effectively.

Effectiveness of an insect repellent depends, to an extent, on how easily the product can be wiped off, especially when the skin is damp from sweat.

Insect repellents are available as liquids, creams, foams, sticks and pre-moistened towlettes. The liquid form in a pressurized can is considered easiest to apply.

If used on clothing, the repellent should be applied in a narrow band on the inside edges of sleeve, pants legs and other clothing openings. Socks should be treated from the top down to below the shoe level. Remember that repellents can stain and weaken some synthetic fabrics, particularly acetate, rayon and dyne.

Plastics such as eye glass frames and lens may be damaged by some repellents. Read all precautions on the label.

Insect repellents should be kept away from eyes, lips and any mucous membranes. Repellents may be toxic if ingested, so keep them out of reach of children.

Turnure's Decatur is third with .556, Randy Olson of Whiting fourth with .529, and Dick Brownell of Wakefield, fourth overall last week, jumps to the top spot with a .455 batting average.

Turnure has the most hits, 11, and triples, five. Other leaders are Oordt, five home runs; Dick Jacobson of Homer and Oordt, nine runs scored; and Dick Jacobson of Homer, four doubles.

Both pitchers have dominated. Turnure has won two games and Oordt one or no losses.

Decatur Drops 6th NEN League Game

Ponca's town team kept Decatur winless for the season by knocking off the host squad in a low-scoring game Sunday night. Ponca, now with a record of three wins and four defeats and tied with Wakefield for fifth spot in the league, dropped Decatur, 4-3.

Ponca gained one run in the first, two in the fourth and one in the sixth off eight hits. Decatur tallied runs in the first, fourth and seventh off its eight hits.

Ponca will meet Wayne tonight (Thursday) on the Ponca diamond. A win by Ponca would boot Wayne out of fourth place in the league.

Potent Whiting Bats Ravage Lawton, 11-2

League-leading Whiting kept its record spotless with an easy 11-2 victory over Lawton Sunday night.

Doug Jones took the defeat, the first one he has ever suffered at the hands of the Whiting squad.

The lusty Whiting hitters again dominated the game as they rapped out 15 hits to Lawton's three. Whiting's Denny Turnure, leading the league in hitting with a .591 average, Randy Olson, fourth with a .529 average, and Mike Caldwell each had three hits in the contest. Art Oordt, Whiting stand-out with a second-place average of Taking third in the championship flight with a 107 was Bill Erickson (left). Jim Marsh captured fourth place with a 109. Dahl and Marsh are from Wayne. Schultz, head football coach at Besmer, is presently enrolled in summer school at Wayne State College; Erickson, a native of Iowa and a graduate of Wayne State, is presently on summer vacation from his high school teaching job in Las Vegas. Bob Rees of Wayne came in eighth in the championship flight. The sixth golfer from Wayne who took part in the tourney, Bob Dilman, was runner-up in the seventh flight. About 160 golfers turned out for the one-day tourney.

Brownell's Big Stick Paces Wakefield to 5-4 Win Over Remsen

Two home runs by Dick Brownell paced an improving Wakefield team as the visitors knocked off host Remsen Sunday night, 5-4.

Brownell sent pitches over the fence in the second inning, a two-run clout, and in the sixth, a solo blast. Brownell, fifth in the batting race in the Northeast Nebraska League with a .455 average, also managed two other hits to go four-for-four Sunday. Wakefield led the hapless Remsen squad 5-2 going into the bottom of the seventh inning, but a two-run circuit blast by Fred Bleil pulled Remsen within one run. Delmar Wacker, who went the full distance for the winners, held Remsen scoreless the rest of the game as Wakefield upped its record to three wins and four defeats. Wakefield is now tied with Ponca for fifth place in the eight-team league and three and a half games behind league leading Whiting.

Wakefield, sees more action tonight (Thursday) when the squad travels to Homer, currently second in the league with a record of six wins and two defeats.

Cook Hurls 1-Hitter As Wayne Midgets Defeat Pender, 9-1

A single with two out in the top of the fourth inning ruined Rod Cook's no-hitter as the Wayne Midgets rolled by Pender, 9-1, Sunday night in a home game.

Cook, who went all the way for the Wayne squad, struck out 11 Pender batters and walked six as he went about posting the victory. The one run he allowed came in the third inning when he ran into control problems and the Wayne infield committed two errors.

Although coming up with only four hits in the contest, Wayne

Local Chamber Slates Welcome for All-Stars During Training at WS

The Wayne Chamber of Commerce is planning a welcome for some of the finest basketball players in the state when they come to Wayne State College to train for the first All-Star High School Basketball Game, scheduled for Lincoln on Aug. 22.

The local Chamber has arranged to hold a morning coffee session on Aug. 15 at Wayne State, the day after the players on the North Squad arrive at the campus to begin their training.

The Nebraska Coaches Association, which has arranged the all-star game, has invited the state's sports announcers and writers to the coffee. Guests during the morning session will be the basketball players and coaches. The players, which include the cream of last year's graduating seniors, will be available after the session for pictures and interviews.

Kearney, training site for the South Squad, is planning a similar welcome for the basketball players training there.

Selected to play on the North Squad were Brent Farnestock, a 6-4, standout for the Laurel Bears last year. Joining him on the squad will be Wausa's 6-2 Dave Holmquist, Hartington Cedar Catholic's 6-7 Steve Becker, South Sioux City's 6-3 Tom Zimmerman and Norfolk's 6-4 Dennis Edwards.

Also selected to the North Squad were two guards from class A state champion Creighton Prep — 5-9 Bob Matthews and 6-1 Mark Langer. Other squad members: Gothenburg's 6-2 Vernon Banks, Lincoln High's 6-2 Gary Langough, Lincoln Northeast's 5-10 Dan Cook, Elkhorn St. John's 6-2 Dave Lahn and Omaha North's

6-2 Jerry Sorenson.

Also attending the morning coffee at Wayne State Aug. 15 will be Wally McNaught of Lincoln, chairman of the N.C.A. basketball committee responsible for setting up the all-star game—the first one of its kind in Nebraska.

Coach for the North Squad will be Ed Johnson of Lincoln Northeast. Merle Bauer of Holdrege will guide the South Squad.

The team will report to Wayne State Aug. 14 for the week of training. The game will be held at Lincoln's Pershing Municipal Auditorium at 8 p.m. Aug. 22. The following day will see the annual Shrine Bowl football game in Lincoln.

Champions and runners-up in the 1969 state high school gymnastics meet have been invited by the N.C.A. to perform at half-time of the basketball game. Cheerleaders for the event will come from Boys Town, Creighton Prep, Lincoln Northeast and Holdrege—the four schools from which coaches were selected to train the all-stars. The pepclubs will be formed from pep club members at the schools represented by a participant in the game.

Bottom of the first to go ahead 9-2.

Relief pitcher Habe shut off Winside's scoring spree in the third and fourth innings while his teammates tallied two runs in the bottom of the third and six more in the bottom of the fourth to give Wisner a 10-11 lead.

Winside gained a shaky one-run lead their next time at bat, then saw their efforts go to waste when Wisner came back for six more runs in the last of the fifth inning.

Plugging at the lead, Winside added two more runs in the sixth inning and then came up with seven big runs in the seventh to gain the victory.

In the top of the fourth inning only to see Wayne move out front 10-3 their next time at bat.

The other three Wayne runs came in the bottom of the sixth stanza when Zwagart, who relieved Simonson after four innings, hit one Wayne batter and walked two others with the bases loaded.

Magdanz, credited with the victory, struck out eight men in his five innings on the mound. He walked two and gave up four hits. Tietgen pitched the sixth inning for Wayne and put all three Pender batters out on strikes.

The Wayne Pee Wees, leading Hoskins 4-2 at the end of two innings, came up with four hits and seven runs in the third inning to take a comfortable 11-2 lead. Hoskins fought back for four runs in the fifth inning after giving up one more run to Wayne in the fourth to suffer the 12-6 defeat.

Wayne's Hix gave up six hits and fanned 11 in posting the victory. He walked four.

The Wayne Ponies made it a clean sweep for the evening when they pounded the Hoskins squad 12-2.

Wayne batters went to the plate in the first inning and seven runs scored before Kleen-sang, coming in for starter Walker, succeeded in ending the spree.

Wayne added two more runs in the third inning and five in the fifth.

Hoskins' two lone runs came in the second inning.

Winning pitcher Schramm fanned 11 Hoskins batters, walked one and gave up five hits. Wayne collected four hits off Walker, Kleen-sang and Braugemann.

Nebraska has more than 225,000 acres of fishing water.

Jackson Sweeps Two From Allen Sunday

An error in the bottom of the fifth inning allowed the Jackson Pee Wees to score the winning run in a closely fought game with Allen Sunday at Jackson.

Allen had tied the game at 3-3 in the fourth inning when nine batters went to the plate and three runs came home. Allen left the bases loaded when the hitters were unable to come up with the needed hits.

Allen out-hit Jackson nine to five, but the four Allen errors, twice as many as Jackson committed, proved costly.

In the second game the Allen Midgets lost their first game of the year, 3-0.

Allen collected only one hit and committed two costly errors as they went down in defeat to a greatly improved Jackson squad. Allen had defeated the same squad earlier this season, 12-1.

The young baseball enthusiasts at Allen will see more action July 4 when they host Martinsburg at 4 p.m.

NOTICE

The First National Bank and the State National Bank and Trust Co. of Wayne will be closed Saturday morning, July 5, for the long holiday weekend.

Winside Midgets, Legion Split Tilts With Wisner Sunday

Wisner's Koehlmoos pitched a three-hitter and struck out five as the Winside Midgets rolled past Winside Sunday night, 9-2.

Winside Legion opened the score in the second game by coming up with a late-game rally to knock off the visitors, 20-17, in what turned out to be a wild affair.

Wisner Midgets tallied runs in the first, second, third and fourth stanzas while shutting out Winside. The hosts finally scored in the sixth but couldn't keep the rally alive as Koehlmoos denied the Winside hitters any substantial hits.

Winside's Gary Soden suffered his third loss of the season.

The Winside Legion exploded for seven runs in the top of the seventh, then held Wisner to one run their last time at bat to pull down the 20-17 victory.

Winside started off strong in the game, coming up with five runs in the first inning when Phil Witt sparked his team with a double. Winside added four more runs in the second after giving up two to Wisner in the

Wayne Legion Routs Pender, Sunday, 13-3

Short Stop Randy Helgren connected for two singles in the long third inning as Wayne Legion went about its work knocking off visiting Pender, 13-3, Sunday night.

Helgren, one of Wayne's most dangerous hitters, had started the inning with a lead-off single, opening the door to seven runs on five hits before Pender's Simonson cut off the spree by striking out the 12th man to face him.

Wayne had gone ahead in the bottom of the third inning by one run after giving up two to Pender in the top of the third. Pender tied the score at 3-3

Hoskins Drops Three Tilts to Local Nines

Wayne recreation softball and baseball teams swept three games from Hoskins Monday night in games on the local diamond.

The girls softball team whitewashed the Hoskins squad, 10-0, in the first game. Wayne tallied 16 hits in the game while the Wayne pitchers held Hoskins to only seven hits. Wayne came up with seven of its runs in the long third inning when 12 batters went to the plate and collected eight hits.

When you're paying by the hour for service or repairs, speed is important. And at times like this, nothing can beat a simple machine.

Most new cars are more and more complicated. And more expensive to care for. Maverick's so simple to service, you can do it yourself—if you really mean it about being independent.

You won't feel like an orphan either. Our Owner's Manual shows you how to handle all the routine service. You can tune and time your engine, change plugs and points, adjust the idle, the headlamps, the handbrakes, do nearly 40 different service operations.

And if you create a fender or crack a grille, you can almost smite. Maverick's front fenders bolt on and grilles are replaceable in minutes. And where time means money, fast means savings.

Stop in once every 36,000 miles for a lube job. Oil changes are 6,000 miles apart. (The leading import suggests oil changes twice as often and lube jobs every 6,000 miles.)

While still being simple, Maverick is big enough to take the whole family—without streaming luggage from the roof. It's small enough to park easily, and go light on gas. A 105-hp Six gives you real passing power. (You get 52 more horsepower than the leading import offers.) And the wider stance gives you a smoother ride, better handling and roadability.

It's no accident that Maverick is the hottest selling new car to come along in five years. We designed it that way. See it at your Ford Dealer's.

Homer '9' Hands Wayne Its 3rd Straight Defeat

Leadoff hitter Gerald Jacobson, short stop for the Homer squad, connected for a home run off Wayne's Don Goeden in the bottom of the first inning and Homer was never behind from then on as the Hawks battled to a 6-4 win over Wayne Sunday night at Homer.

Homer came up with two more hits and one more run in the bottom of the first, then rapped out four singles and scored four runs in the bottom of the third inning to move in front of Wayne 6-2. The loss was the third in a row for Wayne.

Wayne came up with one run in the top of the first stanza when right fielder V. Woods got on with a single and came home on a wild pitch by Winter.

Kenny Jorgensen connected for a home run as he led off the batting order in the top of the third inning, the only bright spot for the Wayne squad. Wayne's other two runs came in the fifth and sixth stanzas.

Goeden, relieved by Bill Goodwin in the third inning, suffered the loss. Homer's Keith Winter was credited with the win.

Homer came up with 10 hits in the contest, one more than the Wayne squad.

The victory kept Homer in second place in the Northeast Nebraska League, one game behind Whiting. Wayne now holds a record of three wins and three defeats in league play. The local squad takes on Ponca tonight (Thursday) in an away game.

Wayne Ponies Drop Wakefield Nine, 8-3

Pitcher Randy Nelson rapped out three straight singles his first three times at the plate as he sparked the Wayne Ponies to a 8-3 victory over Wakefield in an away game last Friday.

Six of Wayne's runs came in the third inning when Wakefield's Uecht gave up three hits as he ran into ball control problems. Wayne added its other two runs to the scoreboard in the fourth inning when Nelson led off with a single and Woodward, Wayne's first baseman, tripled.

Wakefield tallied one run in the second inning off Paul's sacrifice fly and two more in the third when third baseman Ewite doubled with two out to drive in two runs.

Winning pitcher Nelson struck out four men, walked five and gave up four hits. Wakefield's Uecht, relieved on the mound in the fifth by Ewite, fanned one Wayne batter, walked two and allowed seven hits.

New Record Set at Norfolk Oval Sunday

Driving a nearly perfect race, Don Weyrich of Norfolk set a new track record in the A Feature at Norfolk's Riviera Raceway Sunday night. He finished the race in 6:47.8, almost five seconds faster than the old record of 6:52.2.

In his first full year of racing, he received a check of $25 for his new track record. His total winnings for the night amounted to $139.

In the B Feature, Gene Brudigan of Hoskins lugged Don Lau's bumper almost the whole race but was unable to overtake the Norfolk driver. Brudigan came in second in the event. Bob Anderson of Stanton came in third in the C Feature, and Gene Wagner of Hoskins came in fourth in the A Feature.

In other events Sunday night on the Norfolk track, Gene Wagner took third in the third heat and Gerald Bruggeman of Hoskins and Gene Brudigan came in fourth and fifth in the fourth heat.

Tag possession limit is eight bullfrogs per person. Artificial lights may be used.

The Norfolk oval will be the scene of the Mid-Season Championship Race on Friday night at eight o'clock. The Fourth of July action will include a fireworks display and 160 laps of racing for a purse of $1,200.

Gene Wagner racked up a few first places for himself in last week's racing. He took first in the third heat Friday at Albion's oval and at Yankton's track Wednesday. He came in first in the third heat and won the trophy dash. He also came in second in the A Feature at Yankton.

Gerald Bruggeman took first in the second heat at Yankton and also captured first in the A Feature. Gene Brudigan took fourth in the third heat. Gerald Bruggeman rapped up a third place finish in the second heat at Albion and a fifth place finish in the A Feature. Coming in third in the B Feature was Gene Brudigan.

July 4th Golf Meet Set for Wayne Links

The annual Fourth of July four-man best-ball handicap golf tournament will be held again this year at the Wayne country club. The meet is open to club members and their guests.

Golfers wishing to compete in the tourney should choose their own partners and contact Jim Christensen, club professional, before the 4th.

Cost of the tournament is $3.75 per golfer. That fee will cover the cost of breakfast before the tournament. Breakfast is set for 7:30, shotgun start for 8:30. The tournament will again be 18 holes of competition.

About 50 golfers turned out for the tournament last year, won by Wayne Wessel, George Thorbeck, Bob Lund and Jim Marsh. They won the tourney on a coin flip - after being tied with an-

The total number of liquor cases in 1969 may decrease from those before the judge in 1968 if the present trend continues: 1966 (26), 1967 (46), 1968 (107) and mid-year 1969 (26).

According to the report there is also a mid-year trend toward a reduction in traffic violations: (includes both city and state) 1966 (240), 1967 (377), 1968 (460) and there have been 196 in the first six months of 1969. This may change rapidly, however, during the summer months and if it does it is possible a new Wayne County record may be set. In such an event the records would show an annual increase in total traffic violations over the past five years.

The total amount in fines levied by June 30 during the past four years are as follows: 1966 ($3,911), 1967 ($5,599), 1968 ($7,847) and 1969 ($5,629).

Two Mishaps -

Fritschen hopes the floors will reveal which types produce the strongest legs on the hogs, which ones keep the pens cleanest and which ones are easiest for the hogs to walk on.

The units also vary from completely enclosed units where the environment is controlled to one almost completely open.

When several people expressed surprise at trying to raise pigs in a building with only half a roof and no supplemental heat, Fritschen and an NU scientist noted that even they still don't know what the effects of such housing will be on the pigs. "But that is one of the reasons for research centers such as this," Fritschen said. If the winters or summers are too hard on the pigs, heat or cooling systems can easily be added, they said.

The buildings were built for costs ranging from $3.54 per square foot for the completely enclosed building to $4.82 for the open front building. Those conducting the tour emphasized that the buildings could probably be built on a farm for less than they cost at the station. They also pointed out that buildings are still in the research stage and even swine experts can't predict how the hogs will react to the vast types of housing.

The research center was possible when Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Haskell gave a 30-acre farm to the University of Nebraska and the Northeast Experimental Farm Association in 1956. The idea for the swine research center came about in 1965 after urging by pork producers that such a center be established at the Northeast Station. The first two buildings, a well and sewage lagoon were started in 1967. Since then the four additional buildings and the office have been completed.

Additional funds were raised from pork producers and the businessmen to supplement the limited University funds.

I'm writing to you to ask your help. If any individual or organization feels he would like to help us attain our goal, we would be very appreciative. The biggest need is money for the new school, but there are others. My school right now needs a typewriter, our school library is very short of good fiction books, and we could use sports equipment, especially softball equipment.

If anyone is interested and would like more information on the situation here, the country, the people, etc., I would be glad to tell you more. You could write to me by post, better yet, contact me at my home between July 25 and August 15, as I will be spending part of my summer vacation in the States during that time. Two year stays, but the new director has lifted that and we are now allowed to travel where we wish. Consequently, I will be home for a few weeks and if anyone would like to hear more about British Honduras, I would be happy to talk with you. I will be leaving here around the middle of July, so if anyone wishes to write to me they should do so before July 10.

Thank you for "listening" and I hope to hear from some of you.

Tiny Scratch Could Result in Lockjaw

Here's a health tip from the Nebraska State Medical Association that is particularly important in the rural areas of Nebraska.

We have all been warned about stepping on rusty nails, but did you know that tetanus - sometimes called lockjaw - can also be caused by cuts or scratches so minor they are hardly noticeable? Cases of tetanus have been recorded following insect bites and even a scratch from a rope thorn.

Protection against tetanus is a simple matter. Immunization with tetanus toxoid is almost always effective.

Although the toxoid is inexpensive and readily available, fewer than one-third of the preschool children in Nebraska have received the triple vaccine against diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus. About three-fourths of all Nebraska adults are probably lacking in immunization.

If you have not had a tetanus vaccination, or if it has been a long time since you had a booster shot, you should ask your family physician about tetanus toxoid vaccine.

KEEPING BOOKS is but one of the jobs demanding time and attention in operating a successful flight operation such as Wayne Air Service. Betty Johnson works on the books at her desk.

SOLO! Sixteen-year old David Johnson prepares to land a Wayne Air Service Cessna 150 ending his first flight alone. Dave got his driver's license in February and soloed his father's airplane May 13. The aircraft at left waits to be added.

LOOKING NORTHEAST along 2,800 feet of hard-surfaced runway which is 50 feet wide and 11 inches thick. Opened for traffic Sept. 1, 1967, the all-weather runway makes Wayne municipal airport one of the finest in northeast Nebraska. This is the pilot's view just prior to take-off. The runway is lighted for 24 hour operation.

UP DOWN AND BACK! Dale Johnson, oldest son of the Don Johnsons, poses with the airplane he soloed Oct. 7, 1966. Dale received his Private pilot's license before he had his driver's license. He is a 1969 Wayne High graduate and is working on the State Highway road maintenance crew this summer.

AIRPORT

By Merlin Wright

Man and flying machines have been united at the Wayne municipal airport for the past 40 years now. A few residents in Wayne County may remember the first locally owned plane in this area as one started by Shorty Hines, Slim Robertson and Clarence Sorenson...back in the days before airports, hangars, and modern facilities.

The first airport in the county was established privately near Wayne in 1928 and has been under city control since 1932. In the brevity of four decades, progress has observed aviation jump from kites to jets. Our present generation has watched man build machines with which to thrust himself to the moon.

Wayne is second to none when it comes to having a modern flight operation for a city our size. Managed for the past 18 years by Mr. and Mrs. Don Johnson, who have three sons and a daughter, the airport has been in a continuous upgrading program resulting in new hangars, a pilot's lounge, an all-weather hard-surfaced runway lighted for 24-hour operation, new pilot-training programs and Wayne Air Service has just been notified of approval by the Federal Aviation Agency to qualify it for Veteran's Flight Training. This is a splendid record of which Wayne may be proud, especially when comparisons are made with other communities similar in size. A flight operation must meet stiff standards in today's world of government red-tape to qualify for training veterans to fly in that to be approved, three government agencies must first find the flight operation's standards meeting their department's requirements.

Don Johnson's first interest in aviation started when he entered the mechanics course at the University of Omaha in the fall of 1941, but like thousands of other young men he was called to the service before he could complete his education. While in the service he served as a crew chief with a troop carrier command in the South Pacific. Upon his release in 1946 from the Air Force, Don enrolled at Lincoln Aviation Institute to take a refresher course for his mechanics license. He was fully certificated early in 1947.

His first job as a civilian was with Lincoln Air Service, then he accepted a position as shop manager for Prairie Airways, Inc. at Lincoln. While there he learned to fly on "off" hours and earned his commercial license and instructor's rating. At that time he was maintaining aircraft operated by the Nebraska State Department of Aeronautics.

The Johnsons moved to Wayne in March, 1951 to operate the flight service owned by R. G. Fiedler and later took over the entire operation in April, 1955.

Operating Wayne Air Service has been a full-fledged family affair ever since. Both Johnson and his wife, Betty, are licensed pilots. Their oldest son, Dale, was a licensed pilot before he got his driver's license. Sixteen-year-old David has a student's license. Daughter Donna and son Danny are awaiting a few years to slip by before they can legally qualify to learn.

Manager Johnson is not only an FAA approved A & E mechanic capable of handling both major and minor aircraft repairs, but he is licensed to fly commercially, holds an instrument certificate and is a chief flight instructor, which highly qualifies him for every phase of airport operation in these years of increasing demands.

Mrs. Johnson, or Betty as she likes to be called, not only assists her husband in flight operations but also monitors the Unicom radio, manages a household of six, functions as the bookkeeper, refuels aircraft when her husband is on a charter trip, raises a garden and fields the phone calls. Most important of all, Mrs. Johnson says is her role as a mother and wife.

Wayne residents may fly anywhere at anytime in keeping up with the space age due to having a good airport and management.

FLIGHT LINE. Flight operator Johnson refuels a Piper aircraft while an executive Cessna 411 is parked at right. Many business aircraft fly into Wayne carrying executives on important business trips. Wayne's new hard-surfaced runway is very important to all aircraft, but particularly to the larger ships such as the Cessna 411 which is heavier and costs around $175,000. Nebraska's Governor nor Tiemann's executive craft lands here several times each year when the Governor comes to Wayne or speaks in the area. A twin-engine Beechcraft belonging to the University of Nebraska used the field Tuesday as staff members were in town on business errands. More and more businessmen travel by air when possible because of the comfort and speed.

New 4-H, FFA Beef Marketing Program

Set for Sioux City

A unique 4-H and FFA beef marketing program will be held at the Sioux City Stockyards July 24 and 25.

Designed to go beyond the usual show ring experience, the program will give Iowa and Nebraska youngsters the opportunity to become involved in a realistic marketing program—from buying and feeding cattle under actual farm and feedlot conditions, to marketing them in a competitive environment.

Educational evaluation of live animals and carcasses will add the exhibitors in learning to select cattle on the hoof—the kind of cattle that will feed into the high cutability carcasses demanded today by packers and retailers.

One unusual aspect of the program is that market incentives will be paid to participants if cattle meet the minimum USDA quality grade of choice. Incentives will be paid as follows: USDA Yield Grade 1 and 2—blue ribbons plus $12.00; USDA Yield Grade 3—red ribbon plus $6.00; USDA Yield Grade 4 and 5—white ribbon plus $1.00.

Any 4-H or FFA member enrolled in the advanced (formerly known as the Junior) Cattle Feeding Project is eligible to market cattle through the program. The event will be open to the public and is expected to attract considerable interest among cattle feeders and breeders.

Ed Kimbrell, from the USDA Consumer and Marketing Division, Standardization Branch, will evaluate three head from each person's consignment on a live basis. Then each consignor will identify one head from this group to be evaluated in carcass form.

Carcasses will be displayed in a nearby packing plant and each exhibitor will have the opportunity to look at the carcass from his steer or heifer.

All cattle, except for the animal selected for carcass evaluation, will be offered for sale to all buyers by professional Sioux City market salesmen.

Participants can watch the actual sale of these animals, then visit with the market salesmen as they explain why an animal brought a certain price.

In addition to the marketing program, a live cattle evaluation contest will be held for all interested 4-H and FFA members.

A trophy and ribbons will be awarded to top-ranking individuals. Adults may participate in the contest too, but will not be eligible for the prizes.

Twenty Nebraska and Iowa counties are expected to participate in the event.

The event is sponsored by the Sioux City Stockyards Market News and Educational Foundation in cooperation with Extension Services from Iowa State University and the University of Nebraska, and the Department of Vocational Agricultural Instruction.
