And Dead Skunk In Police News

Wayne police investigated an accident Saturday on the south side of the Lift 'Duffer when a 1964 Volkswagen driven by Terry M. Meyer collided with a 1966 Mercury driven by Samuel Noyes. Meyer was backing from a parking stall when the accident occurred, according to the police report. Damage to the Noyes vehicle was estimated to be $40,55. Officers were called Saturday to remove a dead skunk from the street in front of Andy's Pizza in downtown Wayne. Police theorize the dead skunk was thrown onto the street by a prankster.

A complaint was received by the police department Monday that a large dog from the 1000 block on 'Pearl had broken some dishes on a family picnic table in the 1000 block on Lincoln.

City Mill Levy Increased One-Half Mill by Council

The city council Tuesday night

The city council Tuesday right voted to raise the tax mill levy from last year's 19,30 to 19,95, an increase of .65 mill. The council also accepted the resignation of one of its members, Jack Kingston, and took steps in an attempt to rid the city of three of its current pestsarmy worms, starlings and bolsterous parties.

Council based its mill levy increase on an estimated budget of $1,959,000 for the fiscal year from August 1 to July 31, 1970. The estimated budget was approved June 10. True Melodrama

For their last production of the season, which will coincide with the Sloux City Rivercade, Wayne State Players have selected "The Drunkard; or The Fallen Saved," an authentic melodrama, to hopefully set the audience rolling in the aisless at Shore Acres Summer Theatre.

"The Drunkard," which was originally written and produced in Boston in 1844 to advocate the Temperance Movement, was adapted by W. H. Smith from a moral dialogue, made famous by P. T. Barnum, and has been performed continuously for over 50 years. Wayne State Players will perform in the original style of acting and in the original type setting for their rendition of this play which opens tonight (Thursday) and runs through Sunday with performances at 8:15 p.m. each evening.

A smile chased its way across her face as she pointed out that many varieties of insect share her home and occasionally a rat. "We finally found a poison to kill them, however," she said with feminine confidence.
Scann Creek Town has a population of around 7,000 hinbitiants and the school house in which Miss Blecke teaches is a wooden structure near the sea. It does have cement filors for the 150 students to walk upon. Most of her students have very dark skin being descendants of runaway African slaves from the West indies who intermixed with the Arawak Indians along the southern sea coast.

Recreation is often softball for the girls and soccer for the men throughout Stann Creek Town. There is a theater with a small screen which shows "ancient cowboy shows," she said. Saturday night is "pay day" which usually means dancing and many of the men drinking rum.

Poor roads are the rule throughout the area, the Peace Corps teacher noted, with only four highways and only one of those is hard surfaced.

What about the food? "There is a definite lack of fresh vegetables with the reason being very few farms. Fresh vegetables are bought in the market place when they are available. Meat is scarce, particularly beef, it is extremely hard to get, Milki salso difficult to obtain. I use all canned milk," she pointed out. The major money crops are sugar cane and citrus fruits. In the way of transportation, most people either walk or ride a bleycle. "Cars are owned by the wealthier people," Carol explained. "I ride a bleycle to school each day which is about three-quarters of a mile," she said.

Wakefield Legion, Wayne Midgets Advance to District Baseball Finals

Eaton Blanks Wavne Legion Tuesday Night

Wakefield's Rob Eaton Tuesday night held Wayne Legion to only one hit, a double in the first inning, as he pitched his team into the finals of the district Legion tournament at Wayne with a 2-0 win. wen. victory, third in a row a 2-0 win.

The victory, third in a row in the tournament for the scrappy squad, earned Wakefield the right to go upagainst Ponca Wednesday night for the tournament crown-Ponca drew a bye in the first round, won its next two games. Although running into occasional control problems – he walked six Wayne batters and hit another – Eaton was faced with the threat of Wayne scoring only twice in the contest. Dave Titchgen connected for a double with one out in the top of the first rame and theh Eaton walked one batter and hit another to load the bases. But a fielder's choice picked off Tietgen at home and a grounder to the baseman forced a runner out at third to choke Wayne's threat.

Only other time Wayne challenged the Wakefield hurler was in the top of the sixth when Eaton's counterpart, Wayne Magdanz, drew a walk with one out. He made it to second on a passed ball and went to third on an Infield grounder. But Fâton fielded the next grounder and threw the runner out at first, leaving Magdanz stranded on third and Wayne without a score.

As if to emphasize his control of the game, Faton set all three Wayne batters down on strikes in the top of the seventh Inning. Faton also came up with two of Wakefield's seven hits in the contest and scored one of their two runs.

Wakefield scored a phenomenal 32 rums off 26 hits as they rolled over winless Decatur, 32-1, Sunday night in seven innings. Leading the Wakefield into to the league records in both scoring and hitting in one contest were Randy Jacobsen with five hits and Vaugin Benson and Bob Rabe with four hits each, Dick Brownell homered for Wakefield in the second frame and Vaugin Benson tripled twice.

In the cellar position with an 0-11 record, Decatur finally got on the scoreboard when Dick Zortman smacked a 400-foot home run off Paul. Eddle in the fifth frame.

Cortman smacked a 400-foot home run off Paul. Eddle in the fifth frame.

Wakefield came close to equaling their biggest inning of the season when they scored 10 runs in the first inning. Farlier in the season they drove in 11 runs against Lawton in one frame. Faul Eddle struck out 13 batters in the seven-inning contest and gave up six hits.

The victory, which raised their record to 8-6, put Wakefield in fifth place in the Northeast Nebraska League and opened the door for them to compete in the six-team playoff for the league championship. Wakefield meets Wayne tonight (Thursdax) on the Wayne dlamond in the first round of the playoff. Lawton traveled to lomer Wednesday night and Whitnesseen to Brown health.

Granted a request by Jim Thomas, member of Penway Association, for a special use permit for an area between the National Guard Armory and the Highway Department building along Highway 35. Thomas said he and other members of the group hope to build a driving range and a miniature golf course at the site. Whether they do so will depend on their luck in getting state's okay for access to the highway.

COMMENT EDITORIAL

The editorial department of a weekly

The editorial department of a weekly meuspaper is an important department. Normally it is one person's opinion of topics that concern most of the readers.

It is the duty of an editorial writer to search all available facts before he sits down to write. From this basis the writer should be able to give a clear picture of important topics.

You may not agree with an editorial — but if you read the editorial and give serious thought to the subject discussed you have gained. You, as a render, have given careful thought to an important problem and the writer is proud to have called your attention to an important subject that you may have overlooked.

Looking Over the Lunar Landing

Law Enforcement Turns to Computers

Even as Armstrong and Aldrin were eating a lunch of bacon squares, peaches, sugar cookle cubes and drinking fruit juice after landing Eagle on the moon, a number of earthlings were crying out that the $24 billion spent on the project might have been better spent on urgent problems existing on earth.

have been better spent on urgent problems existing on earth.

These critics fall to realize that the $24 billion was spent over a period of years and provided take-home pay for thousands of American laborers. This is to say nothing of all the taxes generated from the same laborer's salaries and from the sale of hardware in the production of rockets.

More important than money are the technological advances made through research for the moon adventure. All mankind will eventually benefit from their application.

Furthermore, the U.S. has spent billions in foreign ald, for which we have, all too often, been hated instead of thanked. Being first on the moon has brought prestige back to the U.S. We needed it.

Why shouldn't the richest nation on earth go to the moon? A better question is, could we have afforded not going to the moon." Can man afford to limit his curiosity?

"A suspect has about as much chance of eluding the law as a Nebraska resident has of evading taxes," Such was the comment of David L, Chambers, editor of the Nebraska Minicipal Review, after touring the Nebraska Safety Patrol's communication system in Lincoln.

After describing the law Pnforcement Telestype System in the July issue of NMR, Editor Chambers explains the methods by which information is made available to Nebraska's lawmen via the National Crimo Information Center in Washington, D. C.

tion is made available to Nebraska's lawmen via the National Crim- Information Center in Washington, D. C.

"The machine in Lincoln looks just like a teletype machine. The main computer with the memory is located in Washington, D. C. Every state Is connected in the system as well as Canada. A dispatcher in Lincoln can query the computer and receive an answer in five to eight seconds. Any query must be codable, but that is not too difficult.

"For an example of how this works, an officer may suspect that an auto he is following may be stolen. He radios the license number to the dispatcher who places the query in the machine via code. In five to eight seconds the answer is typed lack at the rate of 100 words per minute, If the car is not on the list, no more is said. If it is on record, the officer can proceed accordingly, the certainly would approach it differently than a usual investigatory run."

Chambers continues writing, "The ultimate system for the State of Nebraska is a state computer along with the national computer. Michigan, for example, has a state computer. If a query is given the state computer and there is no applicable answer, the query is automatically fed into the national computer for an answer. The state computer would provide a method of checking such things as bad checks which is not included in the national memory."

And what if the dispatcher errs in placting a

And what if the dispatcher errs in placing a query as far as coding is concerned? The computer rejects the item and tells the dispatcher where the mistake occurred.

Who was able to foresee the importance of Christopher Columbus taking such a far-fet thed trip? Many in his time undoubtedly only considered the foolishness of his trip by its cost. Would you say now that his trip was expensive?

The weakness of the critic's position bears directly on the extreme difficulty of offering an objective judgment of any great event while it is occurring, whether the event is in scientific exploration or in the humanities. In the latter, few great works of art are acknowledged as great until years afterward. until years afterward.

few great works of art are acknowledged as great until years afterward.

Going to the moon should be recognized by educated Americans as an event that will remain a reference point in history. Landing on the moon has projected us into the interplanetary space age. No flying man can foresee the result. If money is all you want, the trip could return the $24 billion a hundredfold, and will. But if you want something more for mankind you will have to stick around and see, it is just possible that what it has cost to go to the moon will turn out a bigger bargain than the purchase of Alaska from Russia about 100, years ago. There were also critics then. Alaska has paid for itself many times over. Perhaps America has once again "struck it rich!" — M MW.

use to the local law officers? Yes. Our Wayne police or county sherlif can contact the Nebraska Safety Patrol in Norfolk from mobile radios. The messages pass through the sherlif's base station at the courthouse.

If the Wayne police or the sherlif's office suspected that a car observed on Main Street was one that had been stolen elsewhere, the officer would radio the Norfolk Safety Patrol office, in turn the Safety Patrol office, in turn the Safety Patrol office, in turn the Safety Patrol office, the new of the Lincoln office, query the computer in Washington, D. C. and the local police would have the answer as to whether or not the car was on the list of stolen vehicles within a matter of minutes. Undoubtedly the state will eventually have a computer. Then as one projects needs in the next decade for local law enforcement, surely the computers will also be installed on a county level.

As a resident of Wayne, it might be well for each of us to seriously consider as to whether or not our law enforcement officers, presently and in the future, are going to be able to continue getting their job done while operating out of an area much smaller than some of the front porches on Wayne homes.

Wayne is growing and will soon be a first class city with over 5,000 population. Police work increases right along with the population growth. Any resident wanting good police protection might well do some very serious thinking about giving their local lawmen adequate room within which

'69 Legislature Surprises Many, Charts New Ground

LINCOLN — The 1969 Legislature has been full of surprises and often has charted new ground.

The senators had killed a meat inspection bill by a good margin, then restored it to life. They had raised the gas tax to the highest level in the nation, then cut the increase in half.

The legislators had insisted for months that a tunnel be built to connect the proposed state office building and the capitol, then killed on final reading a bill authorizing the tunnel.

They took a bill originally designed to prevent merchants from charging below-cost prices and wound up with a measure to allow Jewish funeral homes to receive burial certificates.

They have set a new record for the number of bills introduced and seem certain to shatter the previous record for the length of a session.

So, it probably shouldn't have been a shock that they created confusion when they passed—maybe—the capital construction budget bill. Because the bill calls for expenditures beyond those recommended by Gov. Norbert T. Tie mann, the constitution requires it to have 33 votes.

But the bill was given a 26-12 vote.

But the bill was given a 26-12 vote.

That raised a flock of legal questions. Was the entire bill invalid, or just those appropriation items which exceeded Tiemann's recommendation?

1t. Gov. John Everread tossed the question to Atty. Gen. Clarence Meyer.

As reported to the floor by the budget committee, LB 1425 was smaller than Tiemann's recommendation. But there was a flurry of amending on general file and menoation. But there was a flurry of amending on general file and the total was swollen until it exceeded Tiemann's total by about $11 million.

The big change was $45.2.2.

the total was swollen until it exceeded Tiemann's total by about $11 million.

The big change was the addition of $10.3 million to finance construction and land acquisition on the various campuses of the University of Nebraska.

This amendment — which was adopted on a 22-18 vote June 24-probably cost the bill support on final reading.

The measure's first test drew only 24-15 support, At that time it still carried the emergency clause—which would make it effective upon the governor's signature. Bills with that clause must have 33 votes to be passed.

When the bill failed with the emergency clause, it was resubmitted to the senators without the clause—and the vote was 26-12. Twenty-five votes normally are needed to pass a bill without the emergency clause, and it appeared initially that LB 1425 had squeaked to victory and would become law 90 days after the end of the session if signed by the governor.

Then, the constitutional provision about exceeding the governor's budget recommendations was uncovered.

Clerk tingo Srb, who has served every session in Nebraska unicameral history, or more than three decades, said he never had known of a budget bill which exceeded a governor's recommendations to fall to get at least 33 votes.

So never before had the constitutional provision needed intertutional provision needed inter-pretation by the attorney general's office or the courts. As the week drew to a close, there was a possibility the im-mediate problem would be settled -even if the constitu-tional problems wouldn't be answered.

Sen. William Wylie of Elgin filed a motion asking for reconsideration of the 26-12 vote. If that happens, the bill could be put back on the floor and made eligible for amendments.

Those amendments may reduce its price tag enough to generate at least 33 votes in support, thereby avoiding the constitution's restrictions.

thereby avoiding tion's restrictions tion's restrictions.

Another possibility – one the attorney general's office was asked to study – was a line-item veto by the governor of those appropriations which surpassed his recommendations.

recommendations.

All told, the capital improvements budget the legislature gave 26-12 endorsement called for $26 million. Tiemann's total in the capital category was $15.4 million. Most of the difference is in projects for the university's Lin-projects for the university's Lincoln and Omaha campuses. Gas Tax Rises, Falls

The gas tax rate had its ups and downs last week. After voting to raise the motor fuel levy 1½ cents — instead of the one cent requested in the highway financing bill—the legislature changed its mind and reduced the increase to a penny, after all.
While the gas tax bill still stood at a 1½ cent increase, the senators agreed to divert only half of the sales tax revenue on motor vehicle purchases to the per cent of the motor vehicle sales.

The adjusting was done to maintain the $19 million annual increase in revenue Sen. Jerome Wainer of Waverly said is necessary to fulfill the road improvement promises held out by other bills in his highway package. Warner's funding proposals wound up about the way he had wanted them to after the smoke had 'cleared - but he had to weather an attempt to eliminate his suggested increases in vehicle license fees first.

Sen. George Syas of Omaha, arguing that 'the poor little guy with a car' would get hurt by the license increases, came within a whisher of scratching the increases for passenger cars.

All of Warner's financing legislation finally reached final reading. They will be bracketed there for joint consideration with his proposals to streamline the management of the road programmand allocate state-collected funds to allocate state-collected funds among the state, city and county

Bromegrass a Problem

Bromegrass a Problem
Eradicating brome grass from lawns is difficult but can be done. Dicamba, a product soid commercially under the name of Banvel-D, is recommended for treatment. The plants should be thoroughly sprinkled or sprayed beginning in early spring (when plants reach four inches in height). Mix six tablespoons of Banvel-D in a gallon of water. Repeated treatments at ten-day to two-week intervals are generally required. You will get some blue grass injury depending on the humber of treatments. Here is where a choice must be made between killing some blue grass or not eliminating the brome grass. Brome grass kills have been achieved withone to several applications. It may take a dozen.

Care must be exercised if treating near trees or shrubs. Injury can come from both follage and root zone contact, Shrubs may show moderate damage but damage damage but damage but damage but damage but damage but damage dam

A home is not an industry and a home maker is not asproduction engineer. Yet the homemakers' job demands time, skill, competence and energy, too.

Here are some work methods that are kind to your muscles:

—When there is a big job like cleaning the basement, do it in shifts. Half an hour today, half an hour tomorrow. Set a timer to remind you to stop.

—Put rhythm in your work. A dressmaker cuts heavy material with long strokes. Relaxing after each few strokes prevents her fingers from tiring. Apply this work/relax to dish washing, vacumming — any form of re-

Jobs like ironing use the same muscles over and over. Do these jobs in several short spans during the day. This makes good muscle sense.

Stop hurrying and avoid fatigue. Running up a flight of stairs puts a greater strain on body muscles than slowly walking up. (Walking upstairs takes 1336 per cent more energy than lying still).

Try lying flat and relaxing for two minutes every hour during a long job. This practice is more likely to prevent muscle exhaustion than lying down for a couple of hours after the job.

It doesn't

It's great for parking, great for handling, great for zipping through traffic

It doesn't cost a lot for maintenance.

You can do most maintenance jobs yourself, if you want If your mechanic does it, he can do it in a lot less time. Great when time is money and the money is yours.

It doesn't need a lot of service.

Maverick oil changes and chassis lubrication come less often than in the leading import (Isn't it time you started seeing less of your mechanic and more of your car's)

Cheaper by the doesn'ts.

It doesn't skimp on essentials.

Maverick gives you tough brakes, unitized body construction, rustproofing, and four coats of paint. Its 3-speed transmission is able to hand'e twice as much horsepower as the engine

Club Hears of WCPP

Wayne Kiwanians met Minday moon for a luncheon in the Woman's Club room and heard Cal Comstock explain the work program of Wayne Country Public Power operations.

Max Lundstrom, Kiwanian president, introduced the guest speaker as "Mr. Electricity". Comstock noted that WCPP has 1,110 miles of line and five substations to maintain. He used colored slides to further explain the expansion of rural electrification in the last decade.
