Firemen to Get Addition

The Wayne city council is determined to provide more room for the volunteer fire department even though voters in Wayne only last week rejected a bond issue which would have housed the firemen, police department and city clerk in a city complex.

Council decided in a special meeting Monday to advertise for bids for the construction of an addition to the west side of the present fire hall which would give the fire department six bays for its equipment. The addition is basically the same as the fire department's part of the city complex idea turned down by the voters.

Money to pay for the addition would come from the $30,000 bond issue which was passed by the voters in the city last year.

The addition is about 70 feet wide and 44 feet deep, according to the legal notice to bidders appearing in this issue of The Wayne Herald. Walls will be concrete block with brick veneer on the exterior. Roof of the building will be framed with open web steel joists. The roof deck will be metal.

Report: Law Enforcement Analysis

Half-Inch Rain 'Going to Help,' Say Ag Agents

An average urban police officer in Wayne County and in seven other counties in northeast Nebraska is 44 years old, works 59 hours a week, may have had some training and draws $400 a month, according to a recent report by Attorney Richard E. Mueeting of Norfolk. Mueeting is a consultant to the Region 11 and 25 Joint Planning Commission for Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice.

In his "Inventory Analysis of Law Enforcement," the Norfolk attorney made a report to the Regional Crime Commission last week concerning information gathered from law enforcement officers in the following eight counties: Wayne, Dixon, Antelope, Madison, Pierce, Knox, Cedar and Stanton.

Each of the eight counties have a full-time sheriff who draws an average wage of $4,850. Antelope County pays a low of $4,200 while Madison County pays a high of $5,600. Mueeting reports that all eight county sheriffs have at least one deputy and Madison County has two deputies. He said that all but Stanton County provides its sheriff with radio equipment. The Stanton County Sheriff provides his own radio, according to the attorney's report.

The highest budget for operating the county sheriff's office is provided by Antelope County ($13,240) while Stanton County has the lowest such budget ($7,515).

Counties participating in the Regional Crime Commission all have county jails, five of which are rated "good," one rated "poor," one rated "bad" and one not rated. Madison County, according to Consultant Mueeting's analysis, has the oldest jail, built in 1887, and Wayne County has the newest jail facility, built in 1966.

Though Madison and Stanton County Attorneys did not report, the other six counties have part-time attorneys. The hours they work vary from a low of 15 hours per week to a high of 30 hours per week with the average pay of $4,800. Only the Madison County attorney has radio equipment—one unit in his office and one in his car, the consultant's report states.

Five of the eight county judges sent reports to Mueeting for his See ANALYSIS, page 8

Brief Police Report

Wayne police notified two businessmen Thursday evening and two more on Saturday night that their business firms had been left unlocked.

Officers were called to investigate a bicycle-auto collision Monday afternoon at Seventh and Lincoln Streets. Dorothy Ellis was southbound on Lincoln in a 1965 Ford, according to the police report, and stopped for a stop sign at Seventh Street. She watched one bicycle pass the intersection, and then, believing the intersection was clear, entered the intersection and was hit on the right front fender by a bicycle being ridden by Randy Pinkelman, according to police. Randy was taken to the Wayne Hospital by police where an examination showed the extent of his injuries to be a bruised left leg.

Stanton Lady Wins Club Tourney

Naomi Siemsgluz of Stanton fixed a final round of 48 Sunday morning to win the championship flight in the women's club tournament at the Wayne Country Club.

She had earlier rounds of 52 and 51 on the previous Thursdays, giving her a 27-hole total of 151-five strokes better than Ivo Hein, who took second in the championship flight with a 156 total (52-52-52).

Winning the first flight with little trouble was Barb Dittman. She put together rounds of 51, 50 and 50 for a 27-hole total of 151 to capture that honor. Muriel Ingalls took second place in the first flight with a 27-hole total of 169 (57-54-58).

Irene Mason ballooned to a 58 Sunday morning but was still able to capture first place in the second flight. Her earlier rounds of 53 and 51 gave her a 27-hole total of 162, six better than Vi Rickers, who took second with a 168 (60-53-55).

Mrs. Siemsgluz will now have her name inscribed on the plaque hanging in the new clubhouse, right below last year's winner, Ann Barclay.

Duck Identification Tips Offered Hunters

A program which will attempt to improve the hunter's knowledge of duck identification for the early teal shoot which begins on Sept. 4 will be aired on Channel 4 in St. Louis City later in August.

The broadcast, along with several aired across Nebraska, will use films and slides supplied by the Game Commission and interviews with game technicians.

"Know Your Ducks," a 15-minute film produced by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, will be shown by many of the stations. The film gives clues to species and sex identification of ducks on the wing, including flight characteristics, size and coloration.

Studies during similar teal seasons in 1965, 1966 and 1967 show that many hunters shot ducks other than teal. The U. S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife indicated it would allow no more early teal seasons if this continues. Hunter education and strict law enforcement will be combined this year to prevent hunters from repeating the mistakes they made in past seasons.

The National League was organized in 1876, with teams in Boston, Chicago, Cincinnati, Hartford, Louisville, New York City, Philadelphia and St. Louis, says World Book Encyclopedia.

Sportsmanship Award Goes to Area Driver

Gene Wagner of Norfolk, formerly of Hoskins, won one of the biggest prizes of his life Sunday night when he was awarded the Bun Sportsmanship Award for 1969 during the racing action at Norfolk's Riviera Raceway. Wagner also raced his way to a second-place finish in the B Feature, just in front of Harold Lee Brudigan of Hoskins.

Bob Taylor of Dixon finished first in the Trophy Dash and captured seconds in the first heat and the A Feature. Gene Brudigan of Hoskins took first place in the first heat and ninth place in the A Feature. Racing to a fifth-place finish in the third heat and a sixth-place finish in the A Feature was Gerald Bruggeman of Hoskins. Bob Anderson of Stanton took fifth in the first heat.

Taylor and Wagner were the only area racers who pulled down first-place finishes in the action Friday night at Alblon's Boone County Raceway. Taylor won the A Feature and Wagner won the third heat. Taking seconds at Alblon were Gerald Bruggeman and Gene Brudigan. Bruggeman also managed to finish third in the second heat. Taylor grabbed a third in the third heat.

At the Clearwater oval on Wednesday of last week Gerald Bruggeman won the trophy dash, finished second in the A Feature and captured third in the second heat. The same night, Gene Brudigan took first in the second heat and second in the A Feature at Yankton's Westside Raceway. Brudigan also raced his way to a third in the A Feature at Collins Field in LeMars last Saturday night.

Only a few thousand antelope roamed the United States in 1922, but good wildlife management practices have since raised their number to more than half a million.

Naming, Taming Coyotes

(Editor's Note: Mr. and Mrs. John Greve live on a farm about 13 miles southeast of Wayne. Recently Mrs. Greve wrote a letter to the Herald relating the unusual and interesting experience she and her family have had in raising a number of baby coyotes. We thought our readers would find the story exceptionally interesting, as we did. A photo of "Pee-Wee," one of the pet coyotes, is reprinted above.—MMW.)

"Dear Editor, "On Apr. 22 my husband was plowing and saw a coyote across the field. He watched her all afternoon and it seemed she wouldn't leave. As soon as school was out he came home and got our two boys, Jeff and Joel. They drove over in the field and saw a hole which was the coyote's den.

"They dug down a bit and found eight baby coyotes. We figured they were only about a day old. That night I fed them each with an eye-dropper. "The next day we gave four away to three different families. I called the Wisner Veterinary Clinic to find out what to feed them. He told me to mix a formula of egg, milk and syrup.

"I bought a little doll's bottle and started to try and raise them. We fed them about every two hours for quite a while which became a real job. "One died about a week later so I had three left. The other ones we had given away all died about the same time. My third coyote, Pat, died when she was two weeks old. We watched as the other two coyotes, Mike, the male, and Pee-Wee, the little female, gradually grew up.

"First their eyes opened and then they learned how to walk. I had to take them to the Veterinary Clinic when they were five weeks old for they developed rickets in their back legs. Mike was the worst, so he got two shots that day and Pee-Wee had to take pills. A week later Mike was sick, so back to the vet we went. He had developed a terrible sore on his neck which was the result from a reaction to the shots. After it was lanced and cleaned I had to put powdered medicine on it for many weeks.

"They gradually grew and became real pets. They ran loose around the farm and would sometimes lay up by the house. Anytime we couldn't find them we would just call as they both came by name. Sometimes they would scratch on the door if they wanted in.

"We also caught a baby coon around the first of June. The boys named her "Cookee." It was just a lot of fun to see the three of them run and play. They would go fetch the ball when we would throw it.

"On July 16 we had the coyotes, coon and our German Shepherd dogs vaccinated for rabies. One week later Mike got on the road and was killed by a gravel truck. We were all very sad for many days.

"Pee-Wee, the smallest coyote in the litter, was the only one left. She seemed lost for many days after Mike was killed. She wandered around and wouldn't play or eat very much.

"She has calmed down and is her old self again running and playing around.

"Many people have come to see our coyotes and none could imagine them being that tame. Some have said that Pee-Wee will run away some day. I sure hope she doesn't for as each day goes by we all become more attached to her. It was also a great experience raising her and one we will never forget."

Pheasant Population

15 Per Cent Below

That of Last Year

Nebraska's 1969 summer pheasant population is down about 15 per cent from last year, according to figures from two separate surveys compiled by the Game Commission.

Counts made by game technicians in the field during July show a statewide drop of 15.8 per cent, while observations made by rural mail carriers in another study show a decrease of an even 15 per cent. Game Commission Director M. O. Steen said that hunters should not be unduly alarmed at the report, since many "hotspots" with locally good ringneck populations remain to provide good hunting.

"Even with a somewhat reduced pheasant population, there will still be plenty of harvestable roosters," he said. "After all, pheasants have their ups and downs just like any other crop. Farmers don't always get 100-bushel corn. They sometimes have to settle for 85 bushels. This just happens to be a year with an 85-bushel pheasant yield." Steen went on to say that hunting pressure this fall will not affect the 1970 crop, since only surplus roosters will be harvested. Taking these roosters can have no possible effects on future populations, according to Steen.

Game Commission technicians speculate that much of the decline is the result of changes in agricultural use of the land, especially changes that put areas of permanent nesting cover back under the plow. These changes include expiration of soil bank contracts and agreements under other land retirement programs. Bringing these acres back into agricultural production is bound to reduce pheasant numbers, according to the Commission.

Other changes include the trend toward "clean" farming, where farmers and ranchers "tidy up" their land by burning or cutting weeds and tall grasses in draws and ditches. This practice robs pheasants of places to nest, probably the most vital ingredient in production of sizeable ringneck crops.

Game Dads Set Hunting Hearing

A public hearing on several approaching hunting seasons will be held by the Game Commission Friday at the State Capitol in Lincoln. Topics will include turkey, waterfowl and upland and small game seasons.

Following the public hearing, Game Commissioners will set seasons, bag limits, possession limits and other regulations for pheasants, quail, grouse, cottontail, squirrel, waterfowl and turkey, and will decide which units will be open and the number of permits to be issued for the turkey hunt. Dates and regulations for trapping of mink, beaver and muskrat will also be determined.

Immediately after the turkey season is set, the Game Commission will begin accepting applications for the fall hunt. Permits will be distributed by lottery in over subscribed units, with only residents eligible to apply during the initial application period of Aug. 22 through Sept. 5. Drawings, if needed, will be held on Sept. 9. A second application period will open to both residents and nonresidents on Sept. 12, and permits in unfilled units will be distributed on a first-come first-served basis.

Opening dates for the seasons were set by the Commission earlier this year. Pheasant and quail shooting will begin Nov. 1 in all parts of the state except the southeast, where hunting will open Nov. 8. Grouse shooting opens on Sept. 20 and turkey on Oct. 25 and squirrel on Sept. 1.

Club Hears Coach

Wayne Envoy to State Meeting

J. Alan Cramer, Wayne, an Envoy in the Nebraska Diplomats, plans to attend the first annual dinner of the Nebraska Diplomats in Grand Island Sept. 16.

The Nebraska Diplomats is a group of the state's business, professional and civic leaders which was formed to assist the Nebraska Department of Economic Development in working for the industrial growth of Nebraska.

Approximately 60 of the Diplomats will be elevated from the rank of Envoy to that of Ambassador and additional Nebraska businessmen will become Envoys at the Grand Island meeting, according to John Strand of York, chairman of the Nebraska Resources Foundation which sponsors the Diplomats.

Scheduled to participate in the program is Governor Norbert Tiemann. W. A. Strauss, president of Northern Natural Gas, will be the featured speaker at the dinner.

Scouts Know Conservation

Earlier this summer a group of 37 Boy Scouts from Wayne and Winside took a trip to Itasca State Park in northern Minnesota. Among other activities, the young men worked on merit badges while camping out for nearly a week amid the northern pines.

In one course of study a requirement was to write and submit a story to the local paper concerning conservation. The purpose of the requirement is to give the scout experience in spreading the word about conservation of natural resources.

The 12 scouts involved in the project proceeded to take pen in hand and wrote to the "Dear Public."

A lack of space prohibits printing the entire letter of each lad, but perhaps the following excerpts will give you an idea as to what youthful Americans think about conservation.

"I think Wayne has helped itself by putting trash cans on every block and also a drinking fountain on every corner. I think Wayne should have more toilet facilities downtown. We should also have one more drinking fountain at the swimming pool. Wayne should also fix the drinking fountain in the park.

"I think somehow the state department should move those tar burners out of town. They pollute the air. But there are some things you have to say for Wayne is that we have clean air and water." Jeff Lamp, 13, Wayne.

"Many people think that pollution will not be a problem in Wayne. It may not be as bad as the big cities but it will get worse. Just think what it would be like for our grandchildren if there were so much garbage that you could not walk five miles without seeing a dump and having no topsoil to grow their food or grass to graze their cattle. Don't leave a polluted world for our grandchildren to live in. Nobody likes pollution, why should they like it?" Steve Niles, 13, Wayne.

"Wayne should be proud of its conservation because we do have a good sewer system and have a good supply of water and fresh water. I think it was also nice that the Wayne Jaycees to put garbage disposal cans on Main Street. I think Wayne should have more recreation areas in the city and in the country so that the people can enjoy conservation and wildlife." John Rockwell, 13, Wayne.

"The meaning of conservation is not too much or not too little. I think the area of Wayne can be described almost like this. Wayne's air is fresh, its parks are clean and its water is good. If Wayne had the immediate area) can stand this way it would be in good shape. But Wayne's citizens should still worry about the soil eroding, the rivers flooding and the trees dying.

"I don't mean to be knocking Wayne down but Wayne's citizens should get on the ball spraying flies and mosquitos, more contour plowing, more grass to hold the soil in place and more recreation areas in the country and outdoors. Wayne should be ready for problems in the future." Greg Swinney, Wayne.

"During our long-term camp out in Itasca State Park, Minn., we have had many films and lectures about some endangered species of northern animals.

"Two of these species are the moose and timber wolf. On one island conservationists have devised a way so the two animals can keep themselves alive! Yes, funny as it sounds, it's true. It works like this. There are so many moose on the island that they eat all the grass so they starve. That's where the timber wolf comes in. The wolf eats just enough moose to keep an ample supply of grass for the other moose so as to make a good balance.

"But there are still some people that think the timber wolf is of no use to man and should be exterminated. Well, one man thought of a good use for the timber wolf. If you ever want to blame something on somebody you could always blame it on him!" Mark Cramer, 12, Wayne.

"Wayne had better think of something about conservation pretty soon. Improving our downtown area is fine but there are other things too. Wayne should have more recreation areas as the Lake isn't enough because the whole public can't get into it and even if you can the lake isn't big enough to ski or boat in. How do you think people feel when they come into town and smell something that comes from the sewer. Wayne has a real good sewer system but that smell.

"Wayne does a fine job of trying to prevent litter but the people of Wayne litter so much without caring what it does to the city's reputation. Wayne does have clean water, clean air, nice parks, and a lot of clean, friendly people. For this, all Wayne residents should be thankful." Kerry Jech, 13, Wayne.

"I think that Wayne is having trouble on land, trees and water. Farmers go straight up the hill instead of around them and some are not terraces so when it rains the water takes all the top soil and then our soil isn't good enough to raise crops. For all the trees that are dying are being cut down should be replaced with new ones and the lake should be cleaned out and new trees planted to make it look neater." Brad Harder, 14, Wayne.

"The thing farmers use is terraces which slow up the water as it comes down the hill. They plow around the hill so it soaks in better. They also plant around the hill so the rows will hold the water so it doesn't wash down the hill." Jimmy Brasch, 14, Wayne.

"Conservation is a growing problem as most of us know. Around Wayne the farmers can contour plow to stop erosion. It is very hard because of lack of cooperation from the public for Wayne to carry out many needed conservation projects." Brad Hedrick, 12, Wayne.

"One of the most unnecessary ways of wastefulness is soil erosion. Water erosion can be prevented by contour plowing, strip farming, check dams and ground covering plants." Jeff Willers, 14, Wayne.

"To me conservation means conserving what we now have. If it were not for preserving the land we wouldn't have any food to eat. I think everyone should help preserve our top soil by proper planting things and by conserving what we have now." Roger Brandt, 16, Wayne.

"One of our greatest conservation problems in the United States is pollution of water. Wastes from factories are dumped into lakes and streams, killing our wildlife. Fish that live in these waters are killed. If a factory that made poison dumped some poison wastes into a lake or stream, the fish in it would die. Animals that drink this water would swallow the poison in the water and die." Ralph Arett, 12, Wayne.

Dehy Plants Looking At Whole Corn Plant

Dehydrating plants in the state may soon be adding dehydrated corn plant to their production, according to Wall Tolman, beef specialist at the Northeast Station near Concord.

In his monthly newsletter Tolman says that some Nebraska dehydrators are experimenting with processing the whole corn plant at about the silage stage of maturity. He says the result has great promise as feed and its production would extend the operating season of the dehydrators into the fall.

In a recent feedlot test, the dehydrated corn plant, fed with a supplement but without additional grain, produced excellent finished cattle, according to Tolman. Tolman says that the greatest value of the feed may be as a starting and growing ration.

Tolman also notes that dehydrators are experimenting with a larger dehydrated alfalfa pellet made from coarser ground alfalfa which is said to serve as the roughage part of the finishing ration, something the regular dehydrated pellet has not done.

Singed But Repaired, Buffalo Bill Awaits State Fair Visitors

A refurbished Fort NEBRASKA and a freshly-clad Buffalo Bill will be back on duty at the State Fair again this year, despite a fiery attack that burned off most of the 23-foot frontiersman's coat of fiber glass and left one corner of the fort's stockade in ruins.

The damage was not the work of rampaging redskins, but of vandals who set the blaze in a sneak attack last July 24.

The newly-reconstructed statue of Buffalo Bill, a landmark on the State Fairgrounds, will welcome fairgoers to a variety of displays and an all-new west show at the stockade. Displays include a booth that will help waterfowl hunters brush up on duck identification for the special teal season opening just two days after the Fair closes. The booth will offer literature on teal identification and will have on display mounted specimens of teal and other ducks so that hunters can compare them. Game biologists will be on hand to offer tips on sorting out the teal from illegal targets.

Also of interest to sportsmen will be a display showing the most successful baits and lures used in Nebraska and the number of Master Angler fish they have produced.

In addition to Buffalo Bill, the fort, the displays and shows, other diversions are offered at the Game Commission's corner of the fairgrounds. Attractions include live pheasants, quail, rabbits, raccoons, snakes, skunks and many other wild species native to Nebraska, and an aquarium that will show most of the fish native to the state. There will also be a casting pool where anglers can practice and youngsters can get instructions from fishing experts, and a firearm safety range where small fry can learn the do's and don'ts of gun handling.

Some Vets Paying Extra for Insurance

More than half of the 40,000 Nebraska veterans who hold more than $278.7 million worth of government life insurance have not yet converted these policies from term to a permanent plan.

World War II and Korean Conflict veterans hold most of the term policies. Now at an average age of 49.7 years, WWI veterans in the state who have not converted their insurance will soon find their National Service Life Insurance premiums going up as a result of advancing age. C. W. Nixon, manager of the Lincoln VA Regional Office, said Permanent insurance costs more to begin with, but the premium rates for permanent insurance never go up, Nixon noted. Permanent policies also have loan, cash-surrender, paid-up and extended insurance values, whereas term policies do not.

Veterans can obtain more information about the various government life insurance permanent plans from the VA Regional Office in Lincoln or from their local county service officer.

Linda Doring, Patrick Young Wed In Saturday Candlelight Ceremony

Nine branch candelabra and white pompons with blue tipped carnations appointed the chancel of Redeemer Lutheran Church, Wayne, on the 6:30 p.m. ceremony Saturday of Linda Ann Doring, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Doring, Wayne, and Patrick A. Young, son of Arthur (Ted) Young, Laurel.

The Rev. William Koerber, McCool Junction, officiated at the double ring rites. Mrs. Terry Bartling sang "The Wedding Prayer" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Ted Bate. Candles were lighted by John Suber and Randall Dame, Wayne.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride appeared wearing an A-line toe length gown of bridal satin with lace bodice, front panel and long lace sleeves, and featuring a full handkerchief train of bridal satin and matching lace. Her illusion veil was caught to a cluster of petals and she carried a cascade of blue tinted butterfly roses and white pompons.

Pamela McCright, who served as maid of honor, and Marcheta Fngle, bridesmaid, wore toe length sheaths in blue sheer crepe over taffeta, and carried toprary balls of white and blue pompons. Carla Meier, who was flowergirl, wore a dress which matched those of the bridesmaids.

Best man was William Young, Laurel, brother of the bridegroom. John Doring, Arnold Parks, Iowa, was groomsmen, and ushers were Dennis Ote, Harold Korn and Gary Sievers, all of Wayne. Ringbearer was Troy Young, Laurel.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Doring chose a navy sheath with black accessories. Mrs. Young wore a light blue three-piece ensemble and both had corsages of white sweetheart roses.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Benjamin, Omaha, and Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Sievers, Wakefield, hosted the reception at the church for 175. Mrs. Gary Sievers, Wayne, registered guests, and Mrs. William Young, Jayne Bruns, Marian Gee, Linda Brockman and Carol Ote arranged gifts.

Mrs. Willard Malchow and Mrs. Wilfred Nelson cut and served the bride's cake and Mrs. Wilbur Sydow served the groom's cake. Mrs. Art Barker and Mrs. Charles Brockman poured and Mrs. Hal Sandahl served punch. Waitresses were Pamela Nelson, Donna Damme, LeeAnn Hale and Ann Reese. LCW served.

For her going away ensemble the bride chose a light blue sleeveless A-line with white accessories, complemented by her corsage of white pompons and blue tipped white roses.

Following a wedding trip to Denver the couple will farm south of Laurel. The bride, a 1968 Wayne High School graduate, is employed at Wayne Hospital. The bridegroom is a 1966 Wayne High School graduate.

Airman Phones Wayne Parents About Camille

Airman Emery Field, 21, is stationed at Keesler AFB near Biloxi, Miss., and telephones his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Field, Wayne, Saturday evening that an alert was on at the Air Force Base due to the approaching hurricane named Camille.

Airman Field phoned his parents again Wednesday morning around 8:15 a.m. to inform them as to his well-being. Communication of the base, since the storm, had been impossible until Wednesday, he told his parents, consequently he reported a line-up of soldiers waiting to use the telephone.

Field said that the men on the base had been in a shelter from Sunday noon until Monday and that though there had been some damage on the base, it was nothing like that experienced in Biloxi. He reported Biloxi as being in ruins with "nothing left."

The youthful soldier told his folks that the water supply there is shut off due to contamination and that the food supply is in bad shape. He expected they would likely be on K-rations.

There isn't any way into or out of Biloxi, according to Field, who said the roads are closed. Waves reached as high as 35-feet and flattened a 5-story hotel along with everything else in Biloxi, a city of 44,000 population.

Field told his parents there was a possibility of the death toll mounting to nearly 1000, as he understood the count was already around 500 killed.

Airman Field is hoping the roads in the Biloxi area will not be closed too long as he plans to return to Wayne Aug. 30 where he and his fiancée, Deanna Jorgensen, are planning to be married. Should Field not be able to leave the AFB area, it would necessitate a change in wedding plans.

The Small Business Administration, a federal agency, announced last week that one of its representatives will be in Norfolk today (Thursday) to interview area businessmen interested in the various services available through the agency.

Through the cooperation of the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce, space has been made available in the city auditorium. Businessmen are encouraged to come in and discuss the financial needs of their businesses on a confidential person-to-person basis.

An agency which has helped thousands of small firms expand, SBA participates with local banks in furnishing long-term money.

Wayne Woman's Father Dies in Iowa Aug. 18

Leland B. (Pete) Wightman, 70, Sioux City, Iowa, died Monday morning at St. Luke's Medical Center East in Sioux City. Services were held Wednesday at 1 p.m. at Walter Funeral Home in Mapleton, Iowa, with burial at Sioux City Memorial Park Cemetery, Morningside. Mr. Wightman is the father of Mrs. William (Rae) Kugler of Wayne.

Analysis —

combined analysis. Judges in Stanton, Madison and Pierce Counties did not report. Of the five judges reporting, none indicated training; there were no radios reported; all have at least one clerk and office equipment.

Wayne and Dixon Counties each have a budget of $11,000 for the office of judge, the lowest such budgets in the eight-county area. Antelope County provides a high budget of $14,650 for the judge.

City, town and village police officers average 44 years of age, may have had some training beyond high school, may have had some law enforcement training, work 59 hours and week and receive an average of $400 to $450 a month.

The average ratio of policemen to citizens, Mueing states, is 1 to 580. The high is Neligh with 1 to 1,776 and the low is in Lindsay where they have 1 to 30.

Attorney Mueing reports that only 13 communities in the eight-county area indicated they furnished their policemen with a car, gas and maintenance; most towns do not have two-way radio communication for the police, and only two communities reporting have separate juvenile detention facilities.

Mueing ends his report stating, "The conditions of the jails reported are not the best. Seven are not fireproof, seven do not have plumbing and eight do not have separate cells. Seven communities indicated repairs are needed on their jails."

Honors —

similar high ability. The honor student may also take two special interdisciplinary courses during his college career.

A 1969 graduate of Wayne High School, Miss Stevenson earlier this year was awarded a $550 music scholarship to St. Olaf.

This summer she and about 70 other outstanding young musicians from across the nation made a good will tour of Europe. The students were chosen on the basis of taped auditions.

She had to rank high in her high school graduating class and had to score exceptionally well on college entrance examinations in order to enter the honors program as a freshman at St. Olaf. She was among 188 of the 750 students who will be freshmen there this fall who have been accepted into the honors program.

If the student maintains a sufficiently strong academic record to qualify for the honors program through his first three years of college, he will be eligible for the graduation honors program which requires him to complete a thesis in his major area and pass a comprehensive examination.

The idea for the Winter Program was based on the experience of these AFS volunteers that close, personal associations between individuals of different nations foster international understanding and friendship.

The Americans Abroad Programs were started in 1950 by the Winter Program students who, once they had returned home, wanted to offer young Americans the kind of opportunity which they had been provided in the U.S.

Following are the officers presently serving in the Wayne AFS Chapter: Robert Porter, president; Mrs. Howard Witt, secretary; Al Ehlers, treasurer; Home Selection Committee—Mrs. J. M. At the peak of the depression of the 1930's, 25 per cent of the nation's labor force was out of work. The unemployment rate in 1968 remained well under four per cent, according to the U.S. Department of Labor's Manpower Administration.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The editorial department of a weekly newspaper is an important department. Normally it is one person's opinion of topics that concern most of the readers. It is the duty of an editorial writer to search all available facts before he sits down to write. From this basis the writer should be able to give a clear picture of important topics.

You may not agree with an editorial — but if you read the editorial and give serious thought to the subject discussed you have gained. You, as a reader, have given careful thought to an important problem and the writer is proud to have called your attention to an important subject that you may have overlooked.

Council's Unfortunate Decision

Wayne city council approved an ordinance recently to sell a portion of city property in north Wayne to one of the city employees who also owns a business property adjacent to the city-owned tract.

Lone dissenting vote on the ordinance came from Third Ward Councilman Al Wittig. Councilman Smith was absent from the meeting.

Much criticism is now being leveled at the council and its employee over the transaction. Other parties are interested in the plot but no offer was made to the public. A check with the city attorney revealed that he advised the council that they need not hold public auctions or ask for bids on city property to be sold if they chose not to, but that they could if they so desired. Majority of the council decided against holding an auction or taking bids.

This was an unfortunate decision. Although a reasonable price has been tendered, all citizens should have a chance to purchase publicly owned property. Now an involved petition campaign is necessary should others be interested in an opportunity to own the land. The opportunity should have been available to anyone.

The council could have avoided much criticism had they followed Wittig's lead and asked for public auction or bids.—AC.

Another Word of Caution

Again, we would like to caution all motorists and pedestrians about the traffic hazard which exists at Seventh and Main. Extra caution should be taken by all people using the intersection in order to avoid what could result in a serious accident.

The hazard, which still existed at the intersection as of Monday, was caused by the State of Nebraska doing only half its job. Bright yellow stripes separating the traffic into two lanes at the intersection had been put down over a week ago, but then the State failed to paint the arrows indicating what lanes drivers should use when turning at the intersection or when going straight through. Numerous drivers have driven through the intersection in the wrong lane and have narrowly missed colliding with a car coming from the opposite direction which was going to turn at the corner.

We have blamed the State for this traffic hazard because they are supervising the work now going on at the corner. But we wonder if the city should not assume some of the blame for that mess which has existed there for nearly one year. We have legal and engineering officials. Maybe we should use them more often.

It was in September of last year that the contract for that work was approved. The initial amount of that contract was $31,800. Why such a small construction project should be dragged out this long is rather difficult to understand.—NLH.

Capital News — Signs Point to August 29 As End of '69 Legislature

LINCOLN—There seems to be good reason to believe the 1969 session of the Nebraska legislature will end Aug. 29.

The senators have set the last weekday of August as their target date—and have been making every effort to make adjournment then realistic.

Last Friday, they cleared off the bills remaining on general file, or first reading. That meant that of the more than 1,400 measures introduced all those which survived committee action had received at least initial consideration on the floor.

The budget committee, however, still had legislation to offer. Chairman Richard D. Marvel of Hastings said two supplemental budget bills would be put in the hopper this week.

The first is designed to make mechanical and technical changes in the operations budget passed in June. The changes involve adjustments in original decisions by the committee.

The second supplemental budget bill is designed to supply appropriations to finance programs adopted by the 1969 session. This bill is certain to stir some fights on the floor as senators who unsuccessfully opposed programs when they first were offered try to block their implementation by denying operating funds.

Welfare Woes Marvel has said throughout the session that one of the biggest budgetary problems his committee has had to tackle involves public welfare. And the biggest welfare problem is the Medicaid program.

He had launched a three-step plan designed he said to provide the legislature with more control over the costs of assisting the needy.

First, he successfully proposed an amendment to a pending bill to constrict the Medicaid program. Instead of the 21 categories of service under which Nebraska's poor had been able to receive medical assistance, the only qualified categories would be the basic five required by the federal government as a minimum.

Second, he has through the budget committee offered a resolution calling for an interim study of welfare. He hopes the budget committee can be assigned this interim duty so it can serve as an on-the-scene watchdog of how welfare money is being spent.

Third, he has included in the supplemental budget, language which will lift the earmarking of welfare department salary funds and permit officials to institute controls they promise will result eventually in savings.

The supplemental budget, however, doesn't increase the amounts of money already appropriated for the welfare programs. Welfare Director Robert McManus has said the appropriations already approved are large enough to carry the department through only 18 months of the biennium.

Marvel said if the budget committee is riding hard throughout the interim it will be in a position early in the 1971 session to know whether a deficit appropriation is needed in case the funds run out as predicted.

Tuition Increases Endorsed The supplemental budget recommendations from the committee would authorize the board of regents to increase tuitions for medical students and nursing students at the University of Nebraska Medical Center.

The committee bill permits the university to spend the additional cash income it would receive from higher tuitions—but it is up

It's nice to have enough money to retire on.

It's also nice to be around when it's time to retire.

You want to save a nest egg to retire on? Fine. All we suggest is that you be here to enjoy it. What to do? See your doctor for a thorough health checkup once a year, including a prostate. And for women, also a Pap test. In short, the works. Because most cancers are curable if spotted in time. But your doctor won't be able to spot anything—unless you give him the chance. If you do, you'll improve your chances of enjoying your retirement. To a ripe old age.

american cancer society to the regents actually to make the raise.

If the regents make the hikes contemplated by the legislators, medical students would pay $800 per year for their training, compared with the present rate of $650 per year. Resident nurses would pay $175. Instead of $115, per semester for their education.

The budget committee's recommendations also contemplate increases in the charges for patients at the University Hospital at the medical center. The rate would go up $8 this year and $4 more next year if the regents concur.

Tuition at the Curtis School of Technical Agriculture, a division of NU, also could be hiked by the regents under the committee recommendations. The committee figured on a boost from the present $90 per quarter to $110.

Personnel Study Suggested Marvel personally offered an amendment to the budget bills which would authorize $70,000 for a consultant's study of the state's personnel system.

He said the consulting firm could assist the infant state personnel department in drafting a classification program so every job the state offers could be given a rating based on responsibility and difficulty.

Once the classification is accomplished, the state would be in a position to prepare a pay plan so employees doing the same type of work would be paid the same no matter which state agency they worked for.

They way it is now, clerks employed by one agency may get higher salaries than persons doing exactly the same thing for another agency.

Marvel said he hopes the consultants not only would provide the classification but would train state staffers to continue the work so it could be kept up to date.

Northeast Extension Notes

by Janet Schmeckle

Pesticides, used according to manufacturer's instructions, are reliable and safe. Pesticides and their use are regulated by strictly enforced federal laws. Before any pesticide is marketed, it has been extensively tested by qualified experts. If there is any evidence that a pesticide on the market is causing undue risk to the health of people exposed, the USDA cancels the chemical's marketing registration, thus banning the chemical's use.

To provide protection for consumers and a means often in pellet form for use in vaporizers for continuous control of pests, has been banned from the market. Insecticide vaporizers, the small electric heating units that release lindane vapors, are not recommended for home use. Electrical vaporizers can be injurious to humans and animals. These vaporizers do not control the amount of insecticide released at a time. It has been medically documented that overexposure to lindane vapors causes eye, skin and lung irritation. If you have a lindane vaporizer in your home, discontinue using it and dispose of all pellets. Vaporize insecticide strips, a popular means of controlling small flying insects, should not be used in rooms occupied by infants or by ill or aged adults. Be sure to read all pesticide strip labels before buying. The strips are perfectly safe for home use if the consumer is aware of this statement.

The major cause of pesticide accidents involving children or pets is careless storage of pesticides. Store all pesticides out of reach in a cool dry place—one that may be locked. To avoid accidental poisoning, never store chemicals near food or medicine.

Battle of the Bugs

Mosquitoes, flies and ants can ruin summer fun with devastating swiftness as many a pick-nicker, vacationer and housewife knows. An onslaught of insects has destroyed or damaged crops, trees, flowers, livestock and even homes.

Insects have inhabited the planet Earth for some 500 billion years, and man's battle to control them is still going on. But the 20th century has supplied some very effective weapons—mainly scientific know-how.

Even grade school children, through their natural science studies now boost insect control. Among them are the 4-H youths engaged in entomology projects. They collect and study insects and pests around their home area. They learn how to control or eradicate them and how to keep pets or livestock insect free. Safe use of insecticides and pesticides is a common practice.

The 4-H entomology program is nationwide and has some 70,000 participants according to the Cooperative Extension Service.

Hill Damage Findings

Crop yield loss due to hail damage in corn, sorghum and soybeans is closely related to the plant's stage of growth at the time of the hail.

This is the finding at the University of Nebraska Field Laboratory after a hail storm on Aug. 2. NU agronomist Dr. William Colville said the storm "wiped out" many Foundation seed stocks at the laboratory.

Corn at the seven-leaf stage with 25 per cent leaf loss should sustain no crop yield loss, Colville said. At 50 and 100 per cent leaf loss, respectively, was estimated.

At the tassal stage, corn with 25, 50 and 100 per cent leaf losses had estimated 9, 31 and 100 per cent crop yield losses, respectively.

It was also reported that corn in the early milk stage with 25, 50 and 100 per cent leaf losses would reduce crop yields by 6, 20 and 66 per cent, respectively.

These crop yield losses reflected the effects of leaf destruction only, Colville explained.

Of the three crops, sorghum recovers better in generating

Aug. 17, 1939: Stella Traster is having a new garage built at her residence. A giant firecracker with a cigaret attached to the fuse was found Monday on the court house lawn by O. B. Nelson. The cigaret had gone out so the firecracker did not ignite. ## 120 Visit Senior Citizens Center During 1st Week

About 120 people spent some time in the recently opened Senior Citizens Center in Wayne during last week, the first full week the center has been in operation. Open house at the center was held Aug. 7.

Mrs. Eldon Bull, center director, said the people spent much of their time playing cards and table games, watching television and using the library at the center. She said there are many more elderly people in Wayne who could be taking advantage of the center and she invites them to visit the center and see what it offers.

No dues are charged the people using the center and the people can stay as long or as short as they want, Mrs. Bull noted.

She noted that the name selected from the hopper in the weekly Cash Night drawing will not be announced in the center as many people have been told. The name was announced there only the night of the open house.

Wednesday of last week a group from Dahl's Retirement Center in Wayne visited the center and participated in a program given by Mrs. Bull. Planned for this week was a game of white elephant bingo and a quilting bee.

Your Place in the Stars

by Tom McDermott

SIX SIGN DELINEATION FOR VIRGO, Vol. 1, No. 8. (For those persons born between Aug. 23 and Sept. 22 of any year. Remember, newspaper astrology is not legitimate astrology.) Virgos concern themselves with cleanliness, but if a Virgo you know looks like something the cat dragged in, then it's because they're too busy cleaning others and haven't time for themselves. Quite often, but certainly not always, Virgos are perfectionists and pay close heed to detail.

Depot at Allen May Disappear

Cutting unnecessary expenses caused by maintenance and taxes, the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad Company is asking the State Railway Commission for permission to remove its depot buildings at Allen, Randolph and several other towns west.

Anybody opposed to the razing of the depot buildings must protest on or before Aug. 29.

The railroad company received permission in 1968 to establish two mobile agencies based in Osmond to handle its business in the towns involved in the application to the Commission.

Other depot buildings which would be torn down or removed if the application is approved are located in McLean, Brunswick, Orchard, Page and O'Neill.

WHO SAYS

You Don't Make Enough Money to Have

A Checking Account?

Ever heard someone say, "I don't make enough money to have a checking account.?"

As a matter of fact, students (as well as adults) with a limited budget have more need of a checking account than anyone else.

First consider the extra safety. With a check book there is no need to keep large amounts of cash on hand. And your cancelled checks are proof of payment for all your bills.

Equally important is the convenient record it affords. You. No question about where your money went.

ANY SMALL AMOUNT OPENS A CHECKING ACCOUNT HERE AT THE STATE NATIONAL BANK & TRUST CO. AND THE COST PER CHECK IS VERY LOW. EVERY ACCOUNT, LARGE OR SMALL, GETS OUR PERSONAL ATTENTION. WE ARE INTERESTED IN YOU AS A PERSON, NOT A NUMBER.

MILK PRODUCERS NOTE

Dear Neu Cheese Co. Milk Producer,

As you will notice on this milk check, for the milk received July 16 to 31, the hauling rate is up the 5¢ that we informed you of in our letter of a month ago. You should also notice that the milk price is 9¢ higher, to $4.51 per 100. Neu Cheese Co. raised the hauling rate the 5¢ a 100 lbs. only because we are forced to because of increased trucking costs. We did raise the milk price at the same time because we realize that while our costs have been rising so have yours. Last winter did not help either of our costs of operations. You, as well as us are still feeling the effects of that winter on the amount of milk your cows are producing. While we have approximately the same number of milk producers selling to us as we did a year ago, the volume of milk we are processing is down. The net effect of this is an increase in processing costs which adversely affects the milk price. The Neu Cheese Co. would like to enlist your aid in attempting to secure more milk to process. If you know of any cream producer who may be interested in selling milk or of anyone now selling milk who is tired of paying certificate or revolving fund deductions or high hauling rates or is dissatisfied in any way with whom they are now selling, please let us know.

Call Us Collect 254-3250 at any time

We also would appreciate any comments on how we can be of better service to you.

Sincerely,

Jim Neu, Neu Cheese Co.

reasons why

Maverick is the fastest-selling new car in automotive history!

Our little car is making a big hit. In its first 100 days Maverick has outsold every new car ever introduced. And every day more and more smart drivers are discovering the fun of owning the simple machine. Take a few minutes to find out why Maverick's so popular. Then take a test drive at your Ford Dealer's.

New Ford Maverick... the simple machine

- 1. LOW PRICE. Maverick is the best seller at under $1900 at 1969 prices. And you get a lot more with it. A complete car gets ready to drive home.
- 2. LOW FUEL BILLS. In tests by professional drivers at our tracks where we do our best to duplicate actual driving conditions, Maverick averaged 22.5 mpg. (Some Maverick owners report they get 25 mpg and better.)
- 3. 105 HORSES. Maverick's high-spirited Six gives you nearly twice as much horsepower as the leading import's engine. You get fast acceleration, easy passing.
- 4. PEOPLE-SIZED INTERIOR. Maverick punches pennies, not people. Its front seat gives you nine inches more shoulder room than the leading import. Plus lots of leg room, hip room and head room.
- 5. EASY HANDLING. Maverick can outmaneuver the leading economy import. It can U-turn in a tighter circle, slip around corners and slide into tight parking spaces with amazing agility.
- 6. FEWER SERVICE CALLS. Maverick is actually easier and less expensive to maintain than an economy import. Maverick's oil changes come only once every 5,000 miles and chassis lubrications once in 36,000 miles. The leading import recommends an oil change twice as often and a chassis lubrication six times as often. (Maverick gives you economy without inconvenience.)
- 7. SIMPLE SERVICE AND REPAIRS. The Maverick Owner's Manual has 24 pages of instructions for routine maintenance jobs you can do yourself, if you wish. You can change spark plugs, replace fuel filter, adjust ignition timing, and more. Even a smashed grille can be replaced in as little as 13 minutes.
- 8. WIDE-OPEN TRUNK SPACE. No more cramming in luggage just because you have a small car. Maverick gives you 10.4 cubic feet of luggage space—nearly twice as much as the leading import. (With Maverick, you can take it with you.)
- 9. SOLID DURABILITY. Maverick's unitized body construction makes it light, strong and durable. (And Maverick's 3-speed transmission is tough enough to handle twice as much horsepower as the engine turns out.) (Maverick may be little, but you don't have to treat it like a kid.)
- 10. BUILT-IN SAFETY. Unlike most economy imports, Maverick's tread is wider than the car's high. That means stability—mighty important when the road is wet or the wind is strong.

First Day of School

By Merlin Wright

You know full well the day is coming. You are the mother of a manly 5-year-old lad who will be in kindergarten. Then all of a sudden the calendar date, around which you have drawn a circle, arrives. It is the first day of school. The many serious affairs of a busy world suddenly take on less importance. Strange emotions attempt to creep into your thoughts as you consider what lies ahead for this young man who has an incredible ability to steer and steal your heart... your own son.

He anxiously climbed out of bed this morning and, with all the seriousness of growing childhood, chattered away as you dressed him in fresh new clothes purchased particularly for going off to school. You found it hard to believe, while telling the clerk his size of shirt, that it had been five years since first holding the newborn bundle of dynamic personality and saying "my son!"

It was while looking across the breakfast table this morning that you felt a sharp stinging sensation in your eyes and a slight lump in the throat as you realized your baby was no longer such. Today, not next week, he was leaving you to face the world on his own for the first time! Managing to keep back the tears, you attempted to shrug off the feeling with a sip of hot coffee.

The hands of the kitchen clock were waving at you frantically, moving at breakneck speed. It was time to go.

Here you are in front of the school building, how many times you have seen the building before, but this morning, for some reason, it's different. You criticize yourself for feeling so tense when you knew all along the moment would come. Do other mothers feel like this?

How big and mysterious the building must appear to him! I wonder if he is frightened with all of the commotion? I do so hope he likes his teacher. How I wish I could take him back home with me and protect him from having to experience this... this... fear and separation. He is so small! This is not only selfish, but impossible, and it wouldn't be fair to him either. No, if I really love him, he'll have to let go of my hand and learn to walk on his own. "On his own!" echoes distortedly through your thoughts. "He's only five!" something inside of you hollers.

There is the bell. Time to go inside. "Goodbye darling!" Once again the tears well up into your eyes but you courageously fight them off, although one does manage to get loose and skids down the slope of your cheek. "Be a good boy, son. Mommy will come after you at noon." Hesitantly and hurriedly you touch your cheek with a handkerchief, turning slightly aside so he won't see you crying.

Isn't the fact that he won't be with you this morning, because you have left him at Grandma's more than once without all these emotions churning through you, but saying "goodbye" burns inside just a bit, though knowing you'll see him again at noon. You also know that your son will never be the same again. You won't either. The mother-baby relationship has slipped off into the shadows of memory lane.

Standing there with the wave of a little hand, he is off to an adventure which will last for a lifetime... the adventure of being dependent on self and learning of the world surrounding him. You find it a bit of a shock that he has all at once climbed down off your lap and is heading toward the beckoning embrace of manliness. And a real little man he is, you say! Look at him, momentarily, standing there, bold yet shy, excited yet fearful, curious yet doubtful, and manifesting the gallant bravery of a 5-year-old.

"Bye, Mommy!" It rings through your ears and into each corridor of your mind. Your mind suddenly turns to a bit of wit, and not knowing whether to laugh or cry you remind yourself that he is leaving you for another woman! "O dear teacher, do understand him as I do!"

You return his mischievous smile and he darts off into a new universe, into the mysterious halls of education, into playtime and study, having his mind formed and molded by strangers.

After getting into the car, you pull away from the curb and head home. All of a sudden a smile blossoms from inside out, across your face, as you realize that the graduating class of 1983 has just joined ranks.

PASSED AND APPROVED this 12th day of August, 1969.

Beavers can stay underwater for approximately 15 minutes, due to a reduced heartbeat, a decrease of blood pressure in the smaller arteries, and a special respiratory control system in the brain. A large liver stores oxygenated blood that helps him in his underwater stays.

Farmers Should Know the 'Bugs' In Corn, Milo

"Get to know 'bugs' that attack corn and milo - especially the difference between 'corn leaf aphid' and the dreaded greenbug - another kind of aphid," a University of Nebraska insect specialist advises.

Numerous types of potentially-destructive insects - depending on conditions at any given time and place - have been in the news of the Nebraska farm front this summer. And a look at the habits and characteristics of these pests - the well-known admonition to "know your enemy" - can give farmers some peace of mind and aid in making decisions, says Robert E. Roselle.

Here's his capsule description of corn leaf aphid and how to differentiate between this aphid and the greenbug:
In milo: corn leaf aphids rarely reduce yields. Even though a concentration of these aphids looks "terrible" in the whorls, nearly all of them disappear shortly after sorghum begins to head out. The only time control is recommended as being profitable is when aphids continue to be numerous in the developing head.

On the other hand, greenbugs can reduce sorghum yields. They usually start working on lower leaves of plants, rather than the tops as in the case of corn leaf aphid. They are lighter green colored than the corn leaf aphid, with a narrow, darker green stripe down the center of the back. If greenbugs increase to the point where four lower leaves of milo are turning brown, control usually will be profitable, the NU Extension specialist states.

In corn: aphids are rarely of importance. Corn leaf aphids will develop in tassels, at times by the thousands. Research on corn leaf aphids in corn indicates that after tassels have emerged, controls are not profitable, as yield reduction is unlikely.

In the eastern states, heavy populations of these insects in the early whorl stage of corn may increase the number of barren stalks. They rarely occur in damaging numbers in whorls of corn in Nebraska, however.

Nine District Dairy Shows Attract 1,123 Animals This Year

A total of 1,123 dairy animals were exhibited in the series of nine district dairy shows completed recently, University of Nebraska Extension Dairyman C. W. Nibler said this week.

The figure is down from the 1,202 head shown in last year's district shows, the third highest in the 23-year history of the series.
This year the nine shows drew a total of 677 purebreds and 446 grade animals, compared with 688 and 504, respectively, in 1968.
Judges L. C. Garrison Jr. and Nibler of the NU Department of Animal Science awarded 66 purple, 641 blue and 416 red ribbons.

Individual animals receiving purple and blue ribbons in the district shows qualify for dairy competition during the 1969 Ak-Sar-Ben Livestock Show. However, of the 707 head which qualified for the Omaha show (compared to 748 a year ago), about 400 head would be expected to actually show at Ak-Sar-Ben, NU dairymen estimated.

District exhibitors showed 112 junior herds, consisting of three animals each. Twenty-three purple and 49 blue ribbons were awarded to herds.
Holsteins led all other breeds in numbers, with 674 in all nine shows. Other breed totals were Ayrshire, 55; Brown Swiss, 128; Guernsey, 125; Jersey, 68; and Milking Shorthorn, 73.

There has been a marked change in the ratio of animals by breed to the total exhibited in the series of shows over the past 10 years, according to Phil Cole, NU Extension dairyman.
This year Holsteins accounted for 60 per cent of the animals shown. Brown Swiss accounted for 12 per cent; Guernsey, 10 per cent; Jersey, six per cent; Milking Shorthorns, seven per cent; and Ayrshire, five per cent.
Ten years ago the figures were Holstein, 46 per cent; Guernsey, 20 per cent; Brown Swiss, 16 per cent; Milking Shorthorns, eight per cent; Jersey, seven per cent, and Ayrshire, three per cent.

A top showman and dairy queen were selected at each of the nine shows. The nine district queens will compete for the honor of being named Ak-Sar-Ben Dairy Queen. That girl will be feted at a luncheon the day before the dairy show at Omaha in September.

The district dairy shows are sponsored by the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben, agri-business division of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce representing Nebraska-Kansas dairy interests, Omaha Junior Chamber of Commerce and Nebraska Dairyman's Association. The Chambers of Commerce, the Junior Chambers of Commerce and other groups in the nine towns are co-sponsors of the shows that have been conducted continuously for 23 years.

Jobs in rural beautification and small-town improvement projects were provided for over 15,000 poor and unemployed older workers during 1968 through the U. S. Department of Labor's "Operation Mainstream" program.

A Look at Lumber in 1910

The Darn, Rusty, Old Thing.

Guess it means another new mower. And here I bought this one only three seasons ago. It does beat all how soon one of these machines they make nowadays will wear out and go to pieces.

This spoke Farmer Careless.
Well? We wonder what on earth he expects. Hasn't any man of ordinary intelligence sense enough to know that rust and rot will put any machine to the bad a mighty sight quicker than wear and tear of ordinary use will wear it out?

If you have any machines standing around in field or barnyard, remember that good lumber for sheds doesn't cost anywhere near as much as machinery does.

Carhart's would like to help you make this savings. — We stock all the building material required. Why not come in today and let us show you how you can save money by trading with us.

FINAL SPRING PROGRAM - at school means performing to the best of one's ability in order to get summer off to a good start. Gary Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Anderson, Winside, participated in a graduation exercise at the Winside High School. There are times when a boy must turn his absolute best.

YOU DO IT LIKE THIS! - Jumping off the diving board is "old stuff" to Robert Johnson, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Johnson, Wayne. Boys and swimming sort of go together like cake and ice cream.

BEING A BOY SCOUT - means attending such special summer meetings as the Scout Fun Fair in Wayne. Scouts Jeff Groves, left, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Groves, Wakefield, and Larry Siebrandt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Siebrandt, Wakefield, relax in the sun during the exhibit. When you are a boy it is fun to build things.

BOYHOOD IN THE SUMMER

SEE WHAT I CAUGHT? - Boys are interested in many things, some of which may creep and crawl. Bret Spence, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Spence, Wayne, spent part of a summer day greeting snakes along a roadside in southwest Wayne when floodwaters caused them to swim ashore. Being brave is very important to all boys.

A COOLING OFF TIME - is of special importance on a blistering-hot summer day when you are thirsty, as was Rodney Longe, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Longe, Wayne.

READY FOR A SWING - into the wild blue yonder are Tommy, 6, (in back) and David, 4, sons of Mr. and Mrs. George Gahl, Winside. Swinging high can be lots of brotherly fun on a warm summer day.

REST'N ON A RAIL - in front of the judge's stand can be fun when you're watching exciting competition in a 4-H Horse Show at Carroll. Toby Cunningham, 9, (left) son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Cunningham of Laurel, and David Cunningham, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Cunningham of Wausa, are cousins and were cheering for their favorite riders. Horses are really somethin'!

The conferences are designed to help create a better understanding of the costs that make up the food dollar and provide consumers with buying information when they shop for food. They are sponsored by the University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service and the Nebraska Council of Home Extension Clubs.

NU Extension food and nutrition specialists, Sandra Dickson and Ethel Diedrichsen, will lead the audiences in a shopping game, "To Market We Go," in which the participants will study menus and grocery advertisements and decide which item would be the best buy.

Factors that influence food prices will be discussed by Dr. Glen Vollmar, chairman of the NU agricultural economics department and Dr. Allen Wellman, Extension economist.

A representative from the Food and Drug Administration, Mrs. Lorena Meyers, will explain the protection consumers receive from the Fair Packaging and Labeling Act.

A question and answer session will conclude each conference, scheduled from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Northeast Nebraska residents can attend the producer-consumer conference scheduled for the Norfolk city auditorium in October. The conference will be held on Oct. 7.

NOW A JUMBLE - SOON A CHURCH: Work is progressing fairly rapidly at the construction site of the new St. Mary's Catholic Church in Wayne. Workmen poured the first floor slab Tuesday morning and will soon begin building the frames for the concrete pillars on each corner of the six-sided building which will support the pointed roof. The contractor said Tuesday he is fairly certain the building will be enclosed by the time winter weather arrives. The new church is located to the northwest of the present St. Mary's Catholic School on East 7th St., visible in the left background.

Why dry corn
... when you can go directly from field to storage?

A HARVESTORE® system lets you harvest your corn early at high moisture. According to Purdue report AH-169, this high moisture feed can give you 15% better production than dry corn. You can haul your corn right from the field to the HARVESTORE structure and preserve more of its feed value until its fed. There's no waiting for corn to dry down in the field . . . no drying costs. And by avoiding extra handling, you can harvest more corn in less time.

But that's not all. With a HARVESTORE system, you can - materially reduce field losses . . . plant a cereal grain for spring forage feed . . . and avoid the risk of early frost and soft corn.

Let us show you how you can profit from processing corn through a HARVESTORE system.
