

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The editorial department of a weekly newspaper is an important department. Normally it is one person's opinion of topics that concern most of the readers.

It is the duty of an editorial writer to search all available facts before he sits down to write. From this basis the writer should be able to give a clear picture of important topics.

You may not agree with an editorial -- but if you read the editorial and give serious thought to the subject discussed you have gained. You, as a reader, have given careful thought to an important problem and the writer is proud to have called your attention to an important subject that you may have overlooked.

A Comment on Appreciation

The turnout at the steak fry Wednesday night honoring the basketball all-stars and their coaches was quite small. There were about 23 businessmen and sports fans who attended the dinner—a small number indeed considering the size of Wayne.

We feel that many more of the businessmen and others who should be interested in the future of this city could have better shown their appreciation for having Wayne chosen as the training site for the athletes. We compliment those people who took the time to attend the welcoming breakfast and the dinner.

Too many people apparently feel that because Wayne is one of the largest towns in northeast

Nebraska, is the county seat and is the site of Wayne State College there is no reason we should go out of our way to promote the city. If that kind of attitude is allowed to exist this city will never become anything more than it already is.

A city, regardless of its size and attractions, should constantly strive to make itself better and more attractive. What better way could there be than to become the traditional training site for some of the best athletes in the state?

A group from the Wayne Chamber of Commerce tried to make the visitors feel welcome during their short stay here. It's too bad more people in the city couldn't have done the same.—N.L.H.

Tax Treadmill

If you feel as though you're on a tax treadmill, don't worry about it. You are.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States observed recently that the Federal Government is spending tax money a lot faster than you can earn it or send it in.

Taxes are paid daily in some form. Most of us work at least one day a week for Uncle Sam. Have you figured out lately just how much is being taken out of your paycheck each week?

If it takes you an hour to fill out your tax return—and most people struggle with it much longer—the government will spend $22 million in the same amount of time, before you even get the envelope stamped.

The calculation is based on the Federal Budget for fiscal 1970, which proposed outlays of $192.9 billion, or $100 billion more than 1960, just 10 short years ago.

Because the total figure is so large as to be almost incomprehensible, it may register more clearly in terms of spending speed. Counting every day and every hour during the year, including weekends and holidays, the spending pace is:

$22.02 million per hour; $367,000 per minute, or $6,116 per second.

Converting dollars into feet, that's a spending speed of nearly Mach 6—almost six times the speed of sound, 1,088 feet per second.

No wonder taxpayers are beginning to question why they should pay higher taxes, when the Federal Government keeps spending more and more.

Let us not forget that one of the reasons government is spending more and more, however, is that all too often we, as citizens, are asking for more and more services, more and more aid, more building projects, more assistance to the "over 65" programs, proposals for guaranteed incomes, more job training and more "let Uncle Sam do it" ideas.

We are still a government "of, by and for" the people. So whenever we become completely "fed up" with government spending, we the people who make up the government, will bring a halt to the spending.

It is termed a "taxpayer's revolt" about which there seems to be more and more talk.—MMW.

JUST WRIGHT
by Merlin Wright

Once in a great while a "perfect day" will arrive at your address. Everything is "right." Nothing can seemingly go wrong. Such days make life worth living. Autumn will soon be on the front porch and she usually brings at least one "perfect day" with her. That day comes when the lawn no longer needs mowing and the leaves haven't yet started to fall.

Things were not so perfect in downtown Wayne Wednesday when several customers took their first sips of coffee in a cafe. With surprised looks they began to sputter a little and called the waitress. The coffee had salt in it! Another customer complained of salt in the iced tea. She received the news with her eyebrows hoping the fellows were speaking extemp-erroneously. They weren't. An investigation revealed the water softener was malfunctioning. Sodium chloride is a marvel for buttered-corn but a genuine dud in java! Do you suppose it could be a new development in preserving customers?

In a near-collision recently at what is now becoming the famous Seventh and Main Street intersection in Wayne, a charming lady, whose voice was husky to that fascinating point just short of asthma, gave the male driver she had locked horns with a gift. . . a look which ought to have stuck at least six inches out of his back. It was not a "perfect day" for either of them.

The human face is quite an expressive mechanism. If you want to kindle a quick blaze on its surface, try rubbing two fingers together at Seventh and Main. Then she tried to explain to a police officer, "I didn't understand what all those lines are painted for." To a smart girl men are no problem—they're the answer. So this lady driver never made a fool of the man. She just directed the performance. She had a sweet smile.

Actually, what is the sweetest smile in the world? Maybe my answer is all wrong, but here it is. First, just think how many kinds of smiles there are in the world—many of them are not sweet at all! No lie! The sneering smile and the cruel smile that curls the lips in scorn are ugly. In our search for the world's sweetest smile we rule out the ghastly grin of the glad-handman. He smiles not because he wants to, but because it is his job. No doubt he takes off his smile at night and hangs it up on the bedpost, glad to be rid of it. He must, however, put it on again in the morning like a mask. Not much better is the smile of the man whose thought is "keep smiling" no matter how thin the smile may become in the face of certain facts.

Yet there is a point in that idea of "keep smiling" for we tend to become what we think about, and if we're smiling, perhaps the smile will eventually become genuine. To be sweet a smile must come from the inside of us, born of joy in the heart, not by any art from outside. But a try at smiling will perhaps at times help us to change our disposition.

The sweetest smile isn't found in a youngster, though it is sunny and joyous, but it lacks background and depth of life. Nor is it any smile of middle-life, which is apt to be questioning, if not a little quizzical. No, the sweetest smile is the smile of a grandmother as she looks at a little child at play. It is a tender smile, a tolerant, wise smile, a wistful and serene smile, a rich smile formed by memories, melted by pathos. . . like the smile of God at sunset.

It would seem to me that our best Viet Nam-type guerrilla fighters are on our college campuses, but they have deferred military status. It might be wise to rotate personnel, let the students go to Viet Nam awhile and give the Viet vets a chance to come home and tear up the schools. Wouldn't that be only fair?

Are you planning on doing any reading this winter? Do you have any new books in your library? Do you have a library? Both the man who cannot read and the man who will not read are in the same boat. Purposeful reading requires the finest books. Purposeful reading, reading for information, reading to increase one's store of knowledge, reading to extend one's culture, is the highest aim of reading. To acquire a love for books, it is necessary to own them, if only a few. To build a personal library is one of the essentials of acquiring culture and its delights.

How do you build a library? Start out by purchasing the books you love and find delight in having them on your shelves. Books are like good friends and their very presence will provide inspiration. Be just as "choosy" about what books you bring into your home as you are about what kind of people come into your hospitality.

Here is a suggested starting list as to a few of the books you'll undoubtedly find profitable to commence your library. First, get a good dictionary, the larger the better. For an American the dictionary should be an American. How important that a student have a good working store of words. What else, if not words, provide a highway to knowledge? It is hardly possible to understand truth and wisdom without a knowledge of words. Close kin to the dic-

Linda Neiman and Larry Chamberlin Exchange Wedding Vows Last Sunday

Linda Neiman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Neiman, Wayne, and Larry Chamberlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Chamberlin, Kearney, exchanged wedding vows in double ring rites last Sunday afternoon at the Wayne Assembly of God Church.

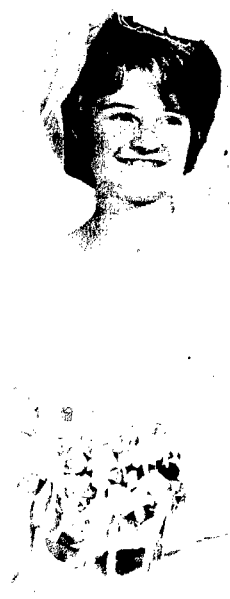

The Rev. Robert McCown officiated. Mrs. Ron Novak, Winslow, sang "The Lord's Prayer" and the bride and groom sang "Each For the Other." Accompanist was Mrs. Joe Grashorn. Candles were lighted by Keith Meyer, Atkinson, and Steven Sorenson, Wakefield.

The bride appeared wearing an empire gown of angelmist taffeta and re-embroidered lace with portrait neckline, long tapered sleeves and tiered chapel length train. Her silk illusion veil was caught to a petal crown and she carried white carnations and pink roses.

Lorraine Neiman, Wayne, served her sister as maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Carol Chamberlin, Kearney, sister of the bridegroom, and Roberta Stahlecker, O'Neill. Their floor length gowns were of blue sculptured taffeta and each carried a single mum. Flowergirls were Marsha Doblas, Atkinson, and Brenda McCown, Wayne.

Best man was Bill Woodward, Kearney, and groomsmen were Steve Lenden, Wakefield, and Jim Hensel, Henderson. Ushers were

'Tessie Is Here from the Philippines

By Merlin Wright

Tessie is here. Those three simple words cannot begin to convey all of the dreaming, work and planning it has taken to make that sentence a reality. Teresita Abacan Urian is here in Wayne, several thousand miles away from her native home in Meycauayan, Philippines.

Without going into detail, it may be enough simply to say that between the time a person in another country makes application to travel to America as an American Field Service exchange student and the time he or she actually sets foot on U. S. soil, many hundreds of people are involved. . . and interested.

Tessie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Urian, had considerable information about youth traveling across the world's seas to pursue education and friendships prior to Tessie's leaving. In fact, the Urians were hosts for two months in 1968 to Elize Tribble, 18, from Asheville, North Carolina, as she visited in the Philippines through the Americans Abroad Program.

Since the day she was informed that her trip to America would actually be a reality, Tessie had to make many arrangements and plans. Now Tessie is here. She arrived in San Francisco Aug. 4, along with about 90 or 100 other AFS students, aboard a jet plane.

All of the AFS students were taken to Stanford University for a three-day orientation period during which time each of the various nationalities presented a program in their own traditional native style. Students from Singapore, Australia, and other countries were good, but not as good as the 41 AFS students from the Philippines who were chosen for top honors. Tessie did her part in helping win the honors as she is a very talented young lady.

When Tessie was in the Meycauayan Institute, located in Meycauayan, a community of about 3,200 population, she was president of her school dance troupe; mayor of the student council; president of the English club; associate editor of the yearbook; staff member of the school's newspaper and was chosen as "Miss Meycauayan" in 1968.

Miss Urian, who is 16 and will be 17 on Sept. 29, plays the guitar, piano and also sings. Yes, she speaks the English language with ease as she has had to study English since being in the third grade.

Her father works in the Central Bank of the Philippines in Manila. She has four brothers whose names are Michael, Nestor, Eduardo and Isidor, and a sister Maribou.

Tessie says that after the three-day orientation she boarded a plane and flew to Kansas City, then on to Des Moines, Iowa, and Omaha by bus. Just why the AFS routed her from Kansas City to Des Moines, instead of directly to Omaha, isn't known.

There to meet her in Omaha were her "new American parents," Dr. and Mrs. Walter Peterson of Wayne.

The Petersons have two daughters, Winona 17 and Chris 14, both students at Wayne High School. Now, for the next school term, there are three daughters who will be involved in the busy schedules of school.

Dr. and Mrs. Peterson have lived in Wayne for 15 years. He is the Dean of Education at Wayne State College and will soon begin his fifteenth year on the campus. So the family of five will not only be learning during the day at school but will likely be learning from each other in the home when everyone is together in the evening. . . that is, if the day this reporter was visiting was an example.

Tessie was teaching her new family the techniques of the "bamboo" dance. Rhythmic music was provided by phonograph records she brought from her homeland. Winona and Chris operated the bamboo poles, and Tessie danced. With poise and ease she stepped into and out of the area made by the poles as they were clapped gently together in toe-tapping rhythm. The young lady, with a winsome smile, made the dance appear to be easy to perform. . . but trying it is something else! It is just possible that the "bamboo dance" may be the "in thing" for many WIS students this year.

When asked as to the American television programs she prefers, she confessed being a fan of detective shows and likes "Mad Squad," "Mission Impossible" and "Tom Jones."

Tessie is a member of the Catholic Church in the Philippines. She especially likes such favorite foods as steak and shrimp. Her favorite subjects are English and chemistry. She would like to someday be a doctor.

"She is a very sweet girl," Dr. Peterson commented as our visit came to a close. It's true and Wayne residents can be glad that Tessie is here.

A Look at Lumber in 1910

The Darn, Rusty, Old Thing.

Guess it means another new mower. And here I bought this one only three seasons ago. It does beat all how soon one of these machines they make nowadays will wear out and go to pieces.

Thus spoke Farmer Careless. Well? We wonder what on earth he expects. Hasn't any man of ordinary intelligence sense enough to know that rust and rot will put any machine to the bad a mighty sight quicker than wear and tear of ordinary use will wear it out?

If you have any machines standing around in field or barnyard, remember that good lumber for sheds doesn't cost anywhere near as much as machinery does.

An Ol' Swimming Hole

By Merlin Wright

Deep in the woods it lay, lazy and still—a pool of enchantment casting a spell far too strong for youth to resist. Sunlight filtered through the treetops, turning just below the surface. Birds flew along the banks, unafraid; bees droned and butterflies fluttered, their wings flashing like burnished brass.

When you came back years later, irresistibly drawn by long-treasured memories, you were amazed to see how the old swimming hole had shrunk. Why it was only a tiny thing—muddy and sluggish and weed-grown. Yet in your mind's eye you still saw it as an unforgettable spot around which most of your childhood's summer days revolved. It recalled care-free hours when you trudged barefoot down a shadowy lane, keen and hungry for that first plunge.

The years might have dimmed many memories; names and faces might have grown hazy and hard to recall. But the old swimming hole remained bright and fresh and clear. You remembered every turn, every tree along the path which drew you like a magnet to the water's edge.

At dawn and at nightfall, the pool was the abode of a placid forest silence.

Then suddenly, of an afternoon, it would be invaded by half a dozen boys, who tossed off their clothes and stood for a few moments—a little shivery—on the banks. Then one would climb up on the homemade springboard—which might be a rock—and splash in headfirst. Soon all of them would be splashing and shouting and roughhousing, as though the silence were an enemy to be frightened away.

Perhaps we country boys of yesteryear were poor, as wealth is usually measured. But life was so full of pleasant things, we did not realize anything was lacking. Indeed, we had incalculable riches—freedom, fresh air and sunshine, bubbling health and spirits, miles of ever-changing landscape and, best of all, the old swimming hole near the muddy Missouri River. What did it matter if the water was sluggish and muddy? Who cared if our swimming stroke was little more than a dog-paddle? Stripped of clothes and of cares, we could splash and shout to our heart's content.

Ah! When school was out we made a beeline for the pool, for it was there in moments of sheer boyish relaxation that we drew the blueprints for each of tomorrow's dreams!

County Fair —

Jerry Munter, purple, Garry Roerber, Stan McAfee, blues; Regg Swanson, Taml Nettleton, Scott McAfee, reds.

Gary Lanser was the only exhibitor with a Shorthorn heifer and he received a red ribbon for his animal.

Crossbred heifers were owned by Terry Trube, Bill Sachau and Scott McAfee and they all received red ribbons.

Randy Lanser was the only one who showed a breeding heifer. She received a blue ribbon.

Kurt Grosvenor received a blue ribbon for his Charolais crossbred heifer and Nancy Chapman received a red for her Charolais steer.

Dudley Kendall received a red ribbon for his pen of five Angus steers.

Each livestock club is allowed to show a group of five steers in each of the breeds (Angus, Hereford, Shorthorn and Crossbreds) and a mixed group. No calf may appear in two groups. Seven groups of calves were shown this year. They were: Angus—Future Feeders Club, purple, Wranglers, blue; Hereford—Future Feeders, blue, and Wranglers, second with a blue also. In the mixed groups, Pop's Partners were first with a blue, Guys and Dolls second with a blue and Future Feeders third with a blue.

"The first meeting was held," he said, "at the Carroll auditorium Oct. 6, 1944 with Burr Davis acting as chairman and C. A. Bard acting as secretary."

Secretary Roberts noted the names of the men who have served on the District Board for many years. Frank Vlasak has served 23 years; Laurence Jenkins, 15 years; Albert C. Sabs had served 20 years at the time of his death and his position was filled by his son, Gilmore, who has now served six years.

Levi Roberts had served as president for 25 years but left the office due to health. His son, Lynn Roberts, is now serving on the board. T. P. Roberts has served as secretary and treasurer since the district was organized.

Roberts said Friday that is was

HOUSE ON WHEELS. This house, known in the past as the Dr. Hess property in the 400 block on Main Street, made an unusual sight early Tuesday morning as crewmen moved it east of Wayne via Seventh Street. The structure was moved to a site east of Wayne on Highway 35, across from the airport, where it is to be remodeled and used as a home for the Wayne County Historical Society Museum. Mrs. Clarence Sorensen contributed the ground, upon which the building is located, to the Historical Society last year.

Trip from Comstock West Interesting

By Ed Kriak
The Comstock News

The Nebraska Petroleum Council and the State of Nebraska have been suggesting that people within the state take week-end vacations and thereby become better acquainted with their state. So, my best girl friend and I took off on a recent Thursday night, stopping first for supper in Arnold and then on to North Platte and Paxton.

At Paxton we stopped briefly at Ole's Big Game Lodge. This is well worth seeing. Ole must have well over a hundred big game trophies, including two Cape buffaloes, elephant, giraffe, lion, leopard, caribou and numerous African deer and other animals. He is expecting a life-size polar bear which he shot last year. Anyone who is a hunter should talk to this mild-mannered man. He does not bragging—just answers your questions and grins slightly.

Our next stop was Ogallala for the night. A visit to Front Street was interesting and then we went on to Big Mac, otherwise known as Lake McConaughy. We took the new road on the north side of the lake to Lewellyn.

We ate my birthday dinner in Bill Lilly's town of Bridgeport. From there we went to Gerling, Scottsbluff and Mitchell, viewing all of the great sites in this area. We then went on north to Agate, the fossil headquarters, and on into Harrison.

Near Harrison we started looking for the ghost town of Andrews because it had been platted and surveyed by one of the old residents of Comstock, Dr. George Bartholomew. We missed finding Andrews by about two hundred yards, but did locate another ghost town of Glen, which is marked by a couple of old store buildings but still boasts a grade school.

Then we went on to Fort Robinson State Park and on to Crawford, Hemingford and Alliance where we stopped for our second night.

Our first stop the next morning was Antioch, which during the potash boom of World War I boasted of a population of over 3,000 but now is down to about 15. It still has a post office, a grade school and a combination store and service station. We had a pleasant visit with the post-mistress, a woman who had lived in Antioch since she was a small girl and remembered the boom days.

We then stopped at Lakeside and had a visit with another woman postmistress. She had owned and operated the last store in town, which went out of business several years ago. Only a service station remains, but Lakeside does have several nice residences, one of which has a large outdoor swimming pool and is the site of a leading store.

In visiting with these women we found that they were still very proud of their towns. Had there been more of their type a few years back these towns might not be in the condition they are today. It's their type we need in our town and many other small Nebraska towns.

WINSIDE BANK EXPANDING. The building which housed the Winside Produce until recently is being dismantled to make way for an expansion program of the Winside State Bank. Built in the early 1900's the building being torn down has served as a general store, pool hall, liquor store, and produce house. David Warmund of the Winside bank said the site will be used for expanding present bank facilities and that more details concerning the project will be forthcoming.

OS Meeting Held
Faithful Chapter 165 met Monday evening at the Masonic Temple. Lunch was served afterward at Witt's Cafe. Next meeting will be Sept. 15.

Engaged in Job Training
Rodney Hilpert, son of the Rev. and Mrs. H. M. Hilpert, Winside, will be engaged in on the job training at Immanuel Hospital, Omaha, beginning in September. Rodney, who is a seminarian, will return to St. Louis in November where he has been attending Concordia Seminary.

Hold Circle
Social Circle met Wednesday in the Mrs. Ralph Prince home. Guests were Mrs. Russell Malmberg and Marsha Nelsen, Norfolk, Mrs. H. L. Neely and Mrs. Leo Jensen. Ten members answered roll with quotations. "R" Set prizes went to Mrs. Kent Jackson and Mrs. Warren Holtgrew. Aug. 27 meeting will be in the Harold Quinn home, Wayne.

Wayne Man Named Head of Area Board

Head of Area Board

Dave Ewing of Wayne was elected president of the Lewis and Clark Board of Realtors at an organizational meeting at the Wagon Wheel Steak House in Laurel recently. He will serve for the remainder of the year.

The new group will be affiliated with the Nebraska Real Estate Association and the National Association of Real Estate Boards. It will have jurisdiction over Wayne, Dixon, Cedar and Knox Counties.

Other officers elected at the meeting were Don Pfel of Wausa, vice president, and Willard Burney of Hartington, secretary-treasurer. Named to the board of directors were Walter Moller of Wayne and Don Miller and Lawrence Hossiter, both of Hartington.

Membership in the board is open to all real estate brokers and salesmen in the four-county area. Active membership in the group will include membership in the state and national associations and adherence to the realtor code of ethics.

Next regular meeting of the group will be held at the Wagon Wheel Wednesday evening at seven o'clock. All brokers and salesmen in the area are invited to attend.
