

Radio — A 'Vital Nerve' In Wayne Law Enforcement

Police Chief Fairchild ... "a life may depend upon a radio."

Protecting you and your property is but the one dedication of any law enforcement officer in Wayne County or elsewhere. Realizing how your life and his might easily, at some unexpected moment, hang in the balance, police officers are highly dependent upon good radio communication. As Wayne Police Chief Vernon Fairchild puts it, "Radio is a 'vital nerve' and lifeline in law enforcement."

Suppose you are a police officer whose duty it is to check out the business firms at 3 a.m. You are alone. About halfway through your check you discover a business house with a back door unlocked. Was it left that way by an absent-minded owner or employee? Or are there burglars at work? You enter cautiously knowing that should there be an encounter with those who flout the law and you are wounded, there is no way to call for help. Wayne officers do carry a walkie-talkie on their person when entering a building. Protecting private property and enforcing the law through out the night with only the reliability of a walkie-talkie may be like trying to call the Atlantic in a rowboat. It might eventually do the job but the time element could defeat you. How important is the "time element"? Fairchild states that, "It is very important in any of the departments in Wayne. Many of the complaints, if not received and checked out immediately, which necessitates instant radio communication, cannot be handled to our satisfaction or that of the complainant."

The officer went ahead to explain how important it is for the volunteer firemen to have reliable radio equipment, and more than that, to be able to call back to the base station for additional equipment. "Our problem right now," Fairchild noted, "is that we need a central dispatcher around the clock. If the fire department makes a run at night only to find out when they get to the fire that they need additional equipment, they now radio the City Light Department. If the fellow there happens to be busy with something else, elsewhere in the building, then the firemen would just have to continue calling." Time is of vital importance when a building is on fire. "If we had an around-the-clock central radio dispatcher," the officer explained, "then all calls put out by the police, firemen, city street department crewmen, light department personnel, WSC police, ambulance, and city clerk's office could be handled immediately without delay."

There is no such central radio dispatcher in Wayne at the moment. Having such a person would, Fairchild indicated, eliminate many "communication gaps." One such "gap" occurs when a Wayne police officer is checking traffic while driving one of the police vehicles. If the officer should need to contact the Nebraska State Patrol, his present chances of getting them on the mobile radio is only about "one out of four times." Fairchild noted, due to the amount of power a mobile radio has. "If we had a dispatcher at a central base station," he pointed out, "then we would simply call the dispatcher who would in turn radio the Nebraska State Patrol."

After making an analysis of the present need for an around-the-clock radio dispatcher in Wayne, Chief Fairchild made a request at the last city council meeting, asking the councilmen to consider the problems presently encountered and to establish such a full-time radio dispatcher service within the Wayne Police Department. Councilmen are presently considering the request to establish such a communication center for the police, firemen, ambulance, street and light departments in Wayne.

In his presentation to the council, Fairchild stated, "Because of the two different frequencies used in town and because there is not at present a central dispatch point, we have radios scattered all over town with a makeshift dispatcher system. For the police and ambulance, we have radios in the police station and four radios in the hospital. When there is no police officer in the station, telephone calls are transferred to the hospital. Council Awards Fire Hall Contract

Unless some unforeseen delay develops, construction of a new addition to the west side of the present fire hall should get underway early in October, according to Wilmer Marra, president of the city council. The structure will provide six bays for fire equipment.

Councilmen decided in a special meeting Tuesday night to award the building contract to the firm of Borst and Kent of Randolph whose bid on the work was the lowest submitted earlier this month.

Total contract price is $28,823. Borst and Kent submitted the lowest of three bids opened by the council early in September. Their bid amounted to $33,820. The plumbing alternate of $4,997 was dropped by the council from the bid leaving the total contract price at $28,823.

The $28,823 for the addition will come from the $30,000 bond issue which was passed by the voters in the city last year. The balance of nearly $1,200 will be used, according to the council, to rough in the needed plumbing.

Marra said Tuesday night that it is hoped construction can begin in about three weeks. Borst and Kent will have 225 days or about seven and a half months to complete the project once construction has started, he said.

The bid of $28,823 includes the material, equipment and labor required in connection with the construction of the new addition which will measure about 70 feet wide by 45 feet deep and be added to the west side of the existing fire hall. A doorway will connect the two buildings.

The 950-lb. grand champion Angus steer was sold during the evening auction to Norfolk Production Credit Association for $75 per hundred. The grand champion Hereford heifer was not sold.

Bringing home purple ribbons for their efforts were Jacques Sievers of Wakefield with a Hereford steer; Kevin Davis, Carroll, showed the reserve champion Hereford heifer. It was purchased by Grandfield Elevator, Carroll, for $33.50 cwt.

Results of the 1969-70 election of community ASC committeemen for the 13 precincts of Wayne County were announced Wednesday by John H. Mohr, chairman.

The election for the community committeemen was held by mail. Ballots were counted publicly by the ASC Wayne County Committee on Tuesday at the ASCS office. A total of 473 ballots were marked.

Ballots with the names of all the nominees in each of the precincts were sent to all eligible voters in the county, according to T. P. Roberts, manager of the ASC office in Wayne. These were filled out and returned to the ASC office with Monday as the deadline.

Elected community committeemen will officially begin their one year of service Oct. 1. They help the county committee in administering ASC programs, meeting several times a year in the Wayne office to review allotments, yields and other things pertaining to the ASC programs.

The ASC community committee chairman, vice chairman and third regular member automatically become delegates to the county convention which will be held at the Wayne County ASCS office, Sept. 26, starting at 9 a.m. Farmers are elected to the county convention to fill vacancies on the county ASC committee.

Alternate committeemen become alternate delegates to the convention, Roberts explained. He noted that after the county committee members are elected, the delegates determine which of the regular committeemen will serve as the committee chairman and vice chairman for the coming year.

Hoskins Drivers

Finish High at Three Area Tracks

Hoskins stock car racers continued to dominate racing events on area ovals during the past week. The men journeyed to Clearwater, Norfolk and Yankton tracks.

In action at Clearwater Sunday afternoon Gerald Bruggeman topped two first places. Bruggeman took first in both the second heat and A feature races. Hoskins driver Bob Anderson finished in fifth spot in the second heat.

At Riviera Raceway in Norfolk Sunday night four Hoskins drivers finished high in the standings. In the first heat Gene Wagner took second place and in the third heat Harold Brudigan and Gerald Bruggeman finished one-two respectively. Gene Wagner took top honors in the A feature race while Harold Brudigan finished in eighth position. Wagner also shut down all comers to win the trophy dash. Gene Brudigan completed the Hoskins domination by taking second place in the B feature.

Yankton's Westside Raceway saw Hoskins drivers finish in fourth position in three different races Sunday afternoon. Gene Brudigan was also awarded the high point trophy at the track.

Wayne High 'B' Squad Downs Laurel Team 52-0

Wayne High's reserve team had little trouble chalking up its first win of the season Monday afternoon, a 52-0 romp over Laurel.

The local gridlers, coached by Ron Carnes and Don Koenig, completely dominated the game played on the Blue Devils' practice field.

An overpowering offense was the key to victory as Wayne scored on plays from scrimmage twice in the first quarter, twice in the second quarter and once in each of the remaining stanzas. The other touchdown was credited to the defensive unit in the second period when Lony Biltoft intercepted a pass on his own 15-yard line and scrambled 85 yards to paydirt. Biltoft was also Wayne's leading ground-gainer as he carried the ball six times for 235 yards and three touchdowns. The first TD came in the opening quarter on a 50-yard sprint and the other two scores resulted from 40-yard runs in the second and third stanzas.

Other offensive leaders included Ron Ring with eight carries for 125 yards and one touchdown (a 79-yard gallop in the fourth quarter); Jim Kenny with four carries for 32 yards and a TD (a 24-yard sprint in the second period) and Tony Plueger with three carries netting 17 yards and one touchdown (a 10-yard run in the first stanza).

Blaine Ruebeck was Wayne's leading defensiveman with four tackles. He was followed by Ron Ring with three tackles; Dick Tietgen with two tackles and

This Is Don Cary

A '69 graduate of Wayne High, Don came to Carhart's in September of this year to work as a carpenter in their component shop.

Don is the son of Mrs. Edna Cary of Wayne. He has an older sister, Linda, and brother, Randy, who live away from home and two younger brothers, Arlin and Gene who attend school in Wayne.

A correspondence course from an airline training school is occupying Don's spare time at the present. When the correspondence course is completed, he will go to Kansas City to study for four weeks. He will then be tested and placed with a commercial airline. Don has hopes of being stationed in Denver. This winter he also plans to set aside time for hunting.

WSC 'Cats Fall to Emporia; Hiram Scott Saturday Foe

There's no gloom in Wayne State's football camp this week despite the 56-0 beating the Wildcats took in their first game last Saturday. Instead, the team shows high spirit in prepping for the home opener at 7:30 Saturday against Hiram Scott College, coaches said Wednesday.

Said Coach Del Stoltenberg of the Kansas State Teachers College team that downed Wayne at Emporia: "That probably was the finest team we will play this year, and I think our boys understand it."

The Kansans did most of their damage by passing, as expected, traveling 371 yards on 19 completions. On the ground it was a fairly equal tussle, KSTC gaining 93 yards, Wayne 88.

Another talented passing team is Wayne's foe Saturday. Senior quarterback Ken Kinsey threw for 1,373 yards and 15 touchdowns last year, and his No. 1 receiver, Walt Krause, caught 31 for 696 yards and eight TD's.

Wayne will have a one-game advantage over the Scotties from Scottsbluff, who have not played yet. In three years of football, Scott has won 15 games, lost eight, though outscored, 497 to 462. The Scott record last year: 5-3.

The Wildcats came out of the Emporia skirmish with no serious casualties. Starting quarterback Marty Goring is okay after a blow to the ribs which took him out of the game just before halftime. Starting offensive tackle Randy Cordes and Doug Barclay are hobbling but should be

Arrows Will Fly Saturday As '69 Deer Season Opens

The No. 1 business of practice remains the same this week - improving pass defense in the secondary, Stoltenberg said. Also vital is sharpening Wayne's pass attack, which lacked quickness against KSTC.

The Wildcats threatened a couple of times, pushing inside the Hornet 20 once and past the 10 another time, but stalled out without scores both times. Defensively, Wayne was tough as usual on enemy rushing. KSTC passing, however, rattled Wayne defenses for three touchdowns and set up four rushing scores. The other Hornet journey to the end zone came on a punt return.

Hunting seasons generally open with a bang, and grouse hunters in the Sand Hills should provide a whole earful of racket Saturday. But another breed of hunter will open a season the same day with the subdued twang of bowstrings, as archers across the state draw down on the state's whitetails and mule deer.

Archers in the field Saturday will be striving to maintain the 20 per cent success ratio they have chalked up since the bow-and-arrow chase for deer was begun 13 years ago. They fell somewhat short of the mark last year, with slightly more than 16 per cent scoring, compared to almost 25 per cent in 1967 and an all-time high of more than 26 per cent in 1964.

This year the bowmen should have a better chance of downing a deer with a generous season of more than three months, compared to 72 days of hunting in 1968. This year's hunt runs from September 20 through December 31, halting briefly during November for the firearm season. Archers will be displaced by firearm hunters from November 1 through 9 in the Blue and Nemaha units in southeast Nebraska and from November 8 through 16 in the rest of the state.

So far, some 1,700 archery deer permits have been issued for the 1969 season, according to the Game Commission. Last year, 3,579 deer hunters got bow-and-arrow permits.

A total of 580 deer was taken by archers last year, and all but 12 of the state's 93 counties gave up deer. Most productive for bowmen was Custer County, where 35 deer were downed. Other archery hotspots were scattered across the state and included

Buffalo County with 24 taken, Sarpy County with 21, Platte County with 18, Douglas County with 14 and Dawes County with 13.

Last year, whitetails accounted for more than 68 per cent of the deer tagged by archers. Hunters will find white-tailed deer in more wooded habitat in the eastern half of the state while mule deer tend to hang out in the open areas of central and western Nebraska.

Hot Dogs, Softball Entertain Area Men

The Hoskins men's softball team met the Winside men's team at the Hoskins ball diamond Friday evening and handed them a decisive 17-7 defeat.

Lester Deck handled the pitching chores for the Hoskins nine, with Lee Anderson catching. Eddie was on the mound for Winside with Bowers behind the plate. The men enjoyed a winer roast at the Hoskins park after the game.

In Memoriam

IN LOVING MEMORY of our mother, grandmother and great grandmother, Marie E. Lippolt: Do not stand at my grave and weep...

I am not there; I do not sleep. I am a thousand winds that blow. I am the diamond glints on snow. I am the sunlight on ripened grain. I am the gentle autumn rain. When you awake in the morning's hush I am the swift upflying rish. Of quiet birds in circling flight. I am the soft star-shine at night. Do not stand at my grave and cry...

I am not there; I did not die. Mrs. Louise Heese and families, Mr. and Mrs. George Lippolt, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Spath and family, Carl Lippolt and sons.

PROTECT THEM TOO!

Just as you and your family are protected from smallpox, polio, typhoid fever, etc. by vaccinations, so should your pet be protected against equally serious diseases...rabies, distemper and hepatitis, to name just a few. Puppies are usually given antiseptics or "puppy shots" to provide temporary immunity until they reach vaccination age, and kittens can be safely vaccinated shortly after weaning. Be sure that your animals have had their shots...because you love your pets...and because you love your family.

Grouse Season Opens Saturday

Some 285,000 acres of public land at the Nebraska National Forest, Crescent Lake, and Valentine national wildlife refuges will be open to grouse hunters again this year, according to the Game Commission.

Parts of the Crescent Lake and Valentine refuges have been open the past three years and should again provide good hunting opportunities when the grouse season opens September 20.

Both of the refuges are primarily waterfowl management areas, but each has more than 40,000 acres of grasslands and upland game habitat that provide good sharp-shooting. That part of the Valentine Refuge west of U. S. Highway 83 will be open to grouse hunting through October 17, when it closes for the regular duck season.

Most of the Crescent Lake refuge is open to grouse hunting. One change from last year's regulations at Crescent Lake allows hunters to drive on the trails to reach the area they wish to hunt. In past years, vehicle travel was more restricted, but hunters will still need strong legs to track down the grouse.

Closed portions at Crescent Lake Refuge will be posted, but those open to upland and big-game hunting remain so during the duck season.

Business Notes

Kent Feeds has introduced a new, economically-priced complete lamb feed designed for starting lambs on an immediate full-feed program, according to an announcement today from Orville Sherry, of Sherry's Farm Service.

The new product, called Kent Lamb Developer, contains 11.5% protein with 2.8% from non-protein nitrogen. It is a complete, pelleted ration designed for feeding lambs from 50 lbs. to market weight. The product contains 40 grams per ton of chlortetracycline as an aid against over-eating disease and for improvement in daily gains and feed efficiency.

Birds need great amounts of food. National Geographic says, Young starlings sometimes devour their own weight of insects and berries in a day. After one meal a flicker's stomach was found to contain 5,040 ants. A bobwhite's held 10,000 pine weed seeds.

The editorial department of a weekly newspaper is an important department...

Once upon a time there was a country called Sane-der-land which met up with some hard times. There just didn't seem to be enough food, warm clothes or work to go around...

Individuals, showing their consecrated devotion to the worship of Security, gathered symbols reflecting such faith, such as bigger automobiles, bigger houses, bigger scrolls named in honor of their subject of worship—'Security'.

He consumed much more time in this pleasant occupation than was necessarily needed, and having adjusted one of them in her ears, without changing his position put his arms around her neck in order to adjust the other.

Capital News — Question: To Move or Not To Move State Fairground

LINCOLN—More people than ever before attended the Nebraska State Fair this year and some thought it was too crowded. Among those who decided it is time to look into the possibilities of moving the annual exposition from its long-time home on Lincoln's northwest edge were the state senators.

Warner said it would cost 'substantially more' than the tentative estimate of $35 million to move the fairgrounds. He said it was unlikely the Legislature would be willing for a 'long, long time' to appropriate that kind of money for a new fair site.

HIGHEST RATED of All Encyclopedias Available In Supermarkets*

Now at less than one-third the price that all can afford a truly great encyclopedia that contains an enormous amount of helpful information for all the family arranged so intelligently that despite its vast scope it achieves an ease of consultation equalled only by its completeness in essential information. As a study aid, an encyclopedia but an encyclopedia for which no other encyclopedia concept that it has to make the really alphabetical dictionary-type encyclopedia obsolete.

UNIQUE METHOD OF ORGANIZING MATERIAL

Thirty years of experience in the field has convinced the publisher of THE ENCYCLOPEDIA OF WORLD KNOWLEDGE that the usual old-fashioned method of alphabetical arrangement still used by most of the multi-volume encyclopedias no longer is in keeping with modern-day needs. Our studies have shown that when totally unrelated subjects are randomly listed in a uniform A to Z arrangement a vast amount of material is needlessly duplicated. This means a great loss of space which under our plan is utilized for additional information.

Because of our extensive classification under subject and then alphabetical within the subject, rather than a system of general alphabetization, THE ENCYCLOPEDIA OF WORLD KNOWLEDGE contains the greatest possible amount of information in the smallest space so the reader spends much more of his time learning rather than just searching.

This work, much more than a mere source book of information presents a range of knowledge much greater than you might imagine possible. Some idea of the scope of this remarkable encyclopedia may be gained from the fact that it covers more than 26,000 index topics and 8,500 Dictionary subjects.

Good Morning Feeders & Hi Mom

By Eddie Collins

This past Monday evening in Levittown, N. Y., Al Nelson and I had the experience of meeting with the press, chain store representatives, trade organizations, and most important, housewives; housewives who had recently received a call as a result of their meat price protests. When we arrived only the housewives were frate - when we left, all were hollering, shouting, and even showing to the delight of the press - and ourselves.

First, the chain stores had on previous occasions refused to acknowledge the newly formed housewife organization, FLIP (For Lower Immediate Prices). This organization in one month has more PAID MEMBERS, than does the National Livestock Feeders Assn. In our state or in any state! The ladies mean business - they are developing plans thru a financed steering committee, to spread all thru New England, and the Atlantic Coast. Meat is their target - boycotts and picketing is their ammunition.

Chain store prices in the giant metropolitan area are out of line. While wholesale meat is selling at 49 cents on carcass sides, these major chains in the New York area had no cut under 89 cents, no ground meat under 83 cents. Most steak cuts ranged from $1.79 to $2.29. Sirlolinas an example, was $1.79 in Levittown, N. Y. Yet, the same chain in Davenport, Iowa on Tuesday ADVERTISED SIRLOIN AT 99 cents. The weekend meat special in New York was corned beef - IMPORTED!!!

So we met. No group could possibly know less about cattle. We had sent a steer - they felt it should have been a bull. Table scraps was its proposed partial diet. They wanted price and price only. They actually wanted to be subsidized by the farmer, feeling that farmers are totally subsidized by the government. This they have read forever. I'd rather try to change the direction of the Long Island Railway than give explanations to a Long Island housewife. They surround you, one - fully of eye to eye proportions of Wilt Chamberlain, nearly buried me because of the manipulation of Long Island potatoes. For three hours we battled, finally we escaped. How? Tactics - Al asked, "Ed, do the chain store prices look too high?" to which I replied, "YES - 10 to 20 per cent out of line!"

The hall erupted! Chain store voices defensively were ringing loud and shrill - housewives, angry and demanding. Flashbulbs exploded... Al and I slithered under the exit into the rain. (We preferred the wrath of Hurricane Gerda).

Market Forecast

Keep moving these hogs at the 220-230 figure - gambling

"But its got to grade--It was grand champion at three fairs!"

with them past that weight is like fixing a compicker without turning off the power, you might get by - but sooner or later these hogs will tumble, like a California hillside mansion on a rainy day.

Replacement stock will be as inconsistent as a pitcher's batting ability. From hour to hour, day to day, from sale to sale. Bids will vary $1 to $2 per hundred. If an early frost hits the Minnesota-Iowa line, stock cattle will jump $3 overnight. Texas, New Mexico, and Oklahoma cattle are now being fed locally. So corn-belt feeders must learn about Lake McCaughy, the Platte River, and the Sandhills. Instead of the high plains!! A dynamic change.

Should bottom out... It will still take two days - two consecutive days of short terminal runs to turn this runaway downmarket. But for two months, feeders have bunched receipts. Eastern chains can readily absorb up to 51-52 cent carcass beef. With the national economy at a whirlwind pace, this $47 carcass beef is far too SOFT. But - unless you use all five days to sell - instead of bunching on two or three days by habit - you cannot get this raise. How do you bid when an auction has a surplus? Suggested prices, hot weight basis, it's above the Yellow Sheet... 48.00 steers... 46.50 heifers.

The six recipients will receive beautiful walnut and bronze plaques at a special dinner at Ak-Sar-Ben Field on Monday.

They will then be guests at the Ak-Sar-Ben World Championship Rodeo, which is staged in conjunction with the Livestock Show from Friday through September 27.

Candidates for the awards were nominated by a panel of farmers, ranchers, agricultural journalists and radio-TV farm editors who are in constant touch with the Nebraska farm and ranch front.

Grain Drying, Silo Construction Hints Offered to Farmers

By Wayne Fisher

With improved crop prospects in much of the Northeast Nebraska area some operators are looking toward more storage space for grains and forages. There have been several inquiries into in-storage unheated air drying as well as several concerning bunker silos.

The main fact to consider when thinking of in-storage drying whether it be with heated or unheated air is that the drying front moves upward through the grain. The bottom layers of grain will dry first and very little if any drying will occur in the top layers until the bottom layers are dried. In a poorly designed system, the moisture driven off the bottom layers may cause the upper layers to become more moist than they previously were.

If one fully understands this fact in his management then in-bunk drying may be what will fit into his operation. Some supplemental heat will cost less and be more dependable in most cases than unheated air by itself. A large diameter bin that doubles for a batch dryer for the early part of the harvest and as a layer dryer and storage for the later harvest looks like a practical system where the operator has a need for a large volume of dry grain. This is an alternative that should be investigated when building drying or storage facilities. USDA Farmers Bulletin No. 2214 has a lot of good facts along these lines as well as U. of N. Extension Service Campaign Circulars 196 and 197.

As to bunker silo construction - if you are making a permanent construction of concrete look into concrete tilt up. This will most likely cost less than concrete blocks and be more durable. If you are working with concrete blocks make sure your contractor knows how to properly reinforce the blocks before you proceed.

Plans are available at the Northeast Station for concrete tilt-up bunker construction.

Little Increase in Food Costs Since '60

Food is today's best buy. The cash register tape from the supermarket keeps going up but so do the number of non-food items. For example, a grocery bill of a little over $24 included: 59 cents, dog food - Rover used to eat scraps; $1.79, bug spray - See FOOD COSTS, page 7

Farmers Should Test Soil Now for Spring Planting

Area farmers planning to test the soil on their farms should do so now, according to information released recently by agronomists George Rehm and Russell Moomaw of the University of Nebr. Northeast Station at Concord.

The agronomists said that by sampling soil now farmers can plan their fertility program during the winter and decide what to use next year and will not be forced to hold up planting next spring while awaiting the results of soil tests.

They also noted that the University's soil testing laboratory is also offering a test for soil nitrogen. This test will give farmers a better idea of the efficiency of their nitrogen fertilization program.

The procedure to follow in sampling fields is outlined below. 1. Divide the field or area for sampling. (a) Sample each kind of soil separately, especially where soil differs in sand and clay content. (b) Unless they are over five acres avoid areas in the field subject to overflow in the last three years; where water ponds or does not readily drain following irrigation, rainfall or snow thaw; where water table is within four feet of the surface.

2. Sample with soil probe, auger, or posthole digger (a) On ridged row crops sample between ridges and ditch. (b) For irrigated fields and dryland sample between row. (c) Fall grown crops should be sampled prior to planting. (d) Spring grown crops should be sampled after October 15.

3. Depth of sampling should be at least two feet (a) For P, K and N analysis, take samples from two depths. (b) The 0-6" sample will be analyzed for P, K, N and lime requirement if desired. (c) The 6-24" sample will be analyzed for N, but will also be analyzed for P and K if desired. (d) Fields under irrigation and/or sandy in texture should be sampled to three feet or more due to possible leaching of the N to lower soil depths.

4. On the box containing the 6-24" sample mark with "N only" and mark the information sheet with the correct depth for each sample.

5. Mix each sample thoroughly. 6. Place the samples on paper sheets or plates or in a box

County Agent's Column by Harold Ingalls

Ensilage Season As the ensilage season begins, farmers are reminded of the potential dangers of gases produced by ensilage fermentation.

Rollin D. Schneider, Extension safety specialist at the University of Nebraska, warned this week that certain gases from fermentation, especially methane, carbon dioxide, and nitrogen dioxide, can be toxic to the human body.

Methane's biggest danger is its explosiveness. Within 10 days to two weeks after cutting, explosions can occur when the ensilage is placed in the silo. Gas production declines considerably after a few months.

Schneider said that carbon dioxide, completely odorless and also frequently toxic, can suffocate persons or farm animals if the silo does not have adequate ventilation. The carbon dioxide masks oxygen in the air so that the human body cannot benefit from the oxygen.

If farmers noted a yellowish-brown vapor at the surface of the silage they should be aware of nitrogen dioxide. This vapor can appear at any time the ensilage is in the silo. A yellowish-brown liquid running from the silo is also an indication.

Nitrogen dioxide can mix with the moisture in the lungs to cause a diluted nitric acid, irritating the lung's interior. Symptoms of pneumonia then frequently occur.

The most harmful effects need not be immediate from nitrogen dioxide, but can occur within two to three weeks after exposure. Symptoms of this chemical pneumonia, which can result in death, are severe coughing or burning and choking pain in the throat or chest.

Aeration of the silo is a safeguard, Schneider suggests. Leaving the top open, or running a blower for 30 minutes before a person enters the silo, will reduce the danger. However, these vapors, heavier than air, accumulate at the surface of the ensilage, so all precautions must be taken. Management is key.

When it comes to cutting storage losses, management and kind of crop stored are often more important than the kind of silo used.

Paul Guyer, Extension beef specialist at the University of Nebraska, says that both research and farmer experiences show that losses are frequently high for stack silos and often high for bunker silos and can be high for concrete silos. "You must have a tight silo, especially for haylage and high-moisture corn, if you are to keep losses low," he says.

The maturity of the crop and its moisture content are extremely important. Fineness of chop is another important factor in reducing spoilage, Guyer points out. In addition, the quality of the silage is improved and the capacity of the silo is increased when haylage, corn and other silage crops are finely chopped.

complain of the cost of these 'food stores.'

Many use prepared foods, snacks, pop and candy, and non-food items, but when broken down into the proper categories, it shows that a food bill of 1960 cost $971.57 and the household items, $347.88. In 1968, food cost $975.65 and household items $725.62.

Northeast Extension Notes by Anna Marie Krotfels

Aerosol Safety Everything pushes and punches these days - from the pollah you slick on shoes to the mist you spray on your hair.

Do you look before you push? The homemaker who "polished" her dining room table with spray starch didn't look. Nor did the woman who "set" her hair with household spray cleaner.

These accidents weren't serious, but substitute an oven cleaner for spray starch or an insecticide for household cleaner, and the story becomes more serious.

To avoid such accidents, read the directions each time you use an aerosol. Look for the arrow on the spray button and make sure it points away from your eyes before pressing.

Aerosol cans are very explosive and should never be thrown on a fire. Most aerosols are packaged with internal pressures of about 40 pounds per square inch at 70 degrees F. Some food and soap products have pressure as high as 100 pounds per square inch.

Any rise in temperature causes the pressures in these cans to rise rapidly. A can that is carelessly tossed on the dash of a car and left exposed to the sun can explode if the temperature reaches 120 degrees F.

All aerosol cans should be kept out of the reach of children. Always use caution when handling products in aerosol cans.

WS Freshman to Enter National Pulling Contest

Doug Nelson, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Nelson plans to truck his 3010 John Deere to Kirksville, Mo., and enter the World Championship National Tractor Pulling competition Friday.

Nelson, a freshman at Wayne State College, will compete in the light weight class. In order to get his tractor into this classification it was necessary for him to remove the grill, starter and other excess weight from the tractor. He has replaced the regulation metal seat with a wooden one.

Nelson has already entered 14 pulling contests this year and has placed 20 times out of the 27 classes entered. He has won 11 first places, six second places and three third places.

The Wayne freshman competed at the Nebraska State Fair and won the light weight class there earlier this month.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Egbers and son Charles, 11, refresh themselves with some watermelon during the show Sunday. The family live at Uehling and brought the 5-horsepower engine with them for display. Egbers built the model steam engine.

J. W. Parolek Schuyler, exhibits his model Case steam engine valued at $3,000 and built in 1958.

Carl Frerichs, Allen, displays his 1928 Rumley Doall tractor which he obtained last year near Sheldon, Ia. He said the company only sold the model for two years and then started the Allis Chalmers line of equipment.

A crowd watches Marvin Fuoss, Winside, drive his 2545 Rumley Oil Pull tractor built in 1924.

1969 Steam Threshing Show

Nearly 1,500 people of all ages gathered on the Ray Magnuson farm southeast of Allen Sunday to attend the second day of the sixth annual Eastern Nebraska Steam Threshing Show. Several hundred spectators also attended the exhibits on Saturday.

"Isn't that something?" and "I can remember when the folks had one similar to that thresher," were remarks heard repeatedly. Small faces tilted upwards to see chaff flying from a cylindrical pipe high in the air as crewmen demonstrated how threshing was done near the turn of the century. One gentleman had a tape recorder to catch the throbbing whangs of old tractors and engines.

"Even the weather cooperated," remarked Carl Frerichs who was one of the originators of the show and who farms north of Allen. A south wind carried the smoke and chaff away from the crowd Sunday afternoon as they wandered through the lines of 150 units on display in the afternoon sun.

Frerichs mentioned that he and the other sponsors of the show have talked about eventually having a display of, not only the antique farm equipment, but also of the very latest models in farm machinery. "We have talked some of working the show into the Dixon County Fair," Frerichs said.

When asked as to his estimate of the worth of all the various engines, tractors, threshers and machinery on exhibit, Frerichs hesitated to make a guess. He pointed out, however, that some units were worth $3,000 and one worth $10,000.

Most of the equipment was demonstrated in some way during the afternoon show Sunday. Tim Rohan, Newcastle, was occasionally firing up a 1904 Huber steam engine by putting more wood into the burner. The engine, owned by Ray Magnuson, was supplying the power for a timber saw.

Older spectators watched reminiscently as the steam engine was jockeyed into its location enabling the belt to be connected between the engine and thresher. Young farmers were heard to comment concerning the present and "the way it used to be."

A similar show is scheduled for Sept. 27-28 at the Bill Masberry farm 11 miles east of Niobrara. A 10-ton Holt Crawler tractor, a Baker fan, steam, gas and oilpull engines will all be featured. Mrs. Masberry has an old log-house filled with a collection of antiques from yesteryear. The Masberry's invitation is "Y'all come!"

Frank Hamata of Schuyler tends a model Avery "return flue" steam engine valued at $1,500. The engine was built and is owned by J. W. Parolek, Schuyler, and is made out of "odds and ends" he said.

Photos by Merlin M. Wright

Emil Ulrich, Crescent, Ia., is operating a 1911 15-horsepower Case steam engine which is supplying the power for a 1935 Avery thresher which has a 32-inch cylinder. Ray Magnuson owns both machines.

Louis Rohan, Newcastle, also took a turn running the Case during the afternoon show.

Gerrit Havelar, Hudson, S. D., has attended the threshing show all six years. He built the one-half scale Avery thresher and wooden-wheel wagon. He also constructed a half-scale hayrack not in the photo.

This is the way it's going to be. Pontiac's 70's Surprised that Pontiac's setting the style for the umpteenth straight year? Of course not.

But you may be a bit dazzled to find out that Pontiac finally outdid Pontiac.
Take Bonneville. From the strong, new bumper grille to the standard 455 under the hood, it's a rouser.
Inside: instant limousine. So luxurious some of the traditional big boys are already screaming.
One of the nicest things we could have done for Grand Prix's luxury was to leave it alone. We did. But we popped in a 455 V-8 for you to order. (It's an old Pontiac proverb that luxury should have power.)
Enter LeMans Sport. A brand-new series in the Pontiac stable. Wait'll competition sees it pull the new 400-cubes-under-the-hood trick. We'll show you that one if you check the right box on the order form.
By now, you've spotted our '70 GTO. But maybe you haven't heard it. A sound so tough we've thrown modesty to the wind and dubbed GTO "The Humbler."
This is Pontiac '70. And we figure this is the way driving's going to be. So why wait?
It's at your Pontiac dealer's now.
