What Is Going On in the Wayne County Courthouse?

By Martin Wright

(First in a series of three articles explaining the operation of county government.)

It seems you must live with someone awhile before you can really understand them. So it is with taxation. Residents of Wayne County, along with millions of fellow citizens in the United States, have lived with taxes just long enough to have a good case of misunderstanding.

Have you ever wondered what people were talking about when they spoke of a "levy"? Fearing you would be thought totally ignorant you likely didn't voice your question, "What is a mill levy?". There are other questions many would like to ask, but haven't, such as "How are mill levies set?", "Why do mill levies differ from one community to another in the same county?", and "When I give the county a check for my taxes, where exactly do those dollars go?"

There is an obvious information gap between taxpayers and their courthouse or capital building. How are the tax dollars used behind those walls which enclose the complicated workings of government? If a person does not understand how his government functions, whose fault is it? Should those who hold offices be expected to explain government operations? Or would it be correct to assume that anyone paying taxes should inform himself as to where and how his tax dollars are used?

Americans may often be heard to comment that government is "too big" to understand. Holding to that opinion, such persons may grow apathetic toward even making an attempt to understand what happens to their hard-earned dollars.

The taxes you pay annually into the Wayne County treasury are earned by your initiative. You have every right in the world to know exactly what happens to every cent. No one is more interested in your knowing where your tax money is spent than those people whose daily job it is to run the affairs of county government.

To begin with, we live in a country where we, the citizens, are the government. Through election we select those people who function in offices of governmental authority.

They, in turn, abide by the laws which we have written for ourselves on county, state and national levels.

County officials are elected by county residents. The officials are given the direct responsibility of keeping the county's business affairs running smoothly, thereby providing Wayne County citizens with those services they demand.

Those of us living in Wayne County want good law enforcement, good schools, good roads and bridges, weed controls, a welfare system and a court system to provide justice. We also want attractive communities with libraries, parks, good streets, fire departments, hospitals and recreation. All of these programs need money to make them possible.

A government of the people, by the people and for the people turns to the people for the necessary funds to support the projects the people desire. The process by which people go to themselves for needed funds is taxation.

Wayne County needs someone to decide, through a system of valuation, what each resident of Wayne County is to be taxed for his or her share in supporting various programs. The value of all the property in the county needs to be determined and people tax themselves through the county government on what they own. The individual elected by the people to do this work for them is called an assessor.

Henry Arp is the present assessor of Wayne County. He, of course, works in cooperation with other assessors in Nebraska and the State Tax Commissioner to work out a program by which those in Wayne County pay about the same amount on what they own as those who live in other counties pay on similar properties.

To handle these thousands of dollars in tax money county residents elect a person to act as their treasurer. Our present Wayne County Treasurer is Leona Bahde.

Her duties consist basically of collecting and dispersing funds. Wayne County is like a large business corporation and each taxpayer is a stockholder. The treasurer handles the collection of monies coming into the county treasury and writes checks to pay the county's obligations.

The treasurer acts as collector and custodian of all state, county, school, city and village taxes as well as special taxes for local improvements. She deposits such funds into banks designated by the commissioners.

Among other duties the treasurer of the county sends tax notices, issues driver's licenses, motor vehicle licenses, collects sales tax on motor vehicles, keeps a record of all monies collected for each rural fire district in the county and issues checks to the fire district treasurers upon request of the fire district officers and keeps a record of all monies collected for each school district in the county, plus issuing checks to the school treasurer by order of the school board of each district.

The county treasurer also maintains a record of the funds of each town in the county and distributes the consolidated funds to them as requested.

Wayne County residents elect three men who are "commissioned" to oversee the county's business affairs. The three men presently serving as commissioners are George Stolz, John Surber of Wayne and Roy Davis of Winside. Stolz is chairman of the commissioners who meet on the first and third Tuesdays of each month at the courthouse.

Even as all good businesses are run on a budget, so is county government. The commissioners, being directly responsible to the people in Wayne County, want to see that all the programs desired by the county residents are carried out. This, of course, demands adequate money necessary for the operation of each county office.

The commissioners know that the people in the county need to have accurate records maintained for them so it is necessary to have a clerk. Norris Weible is presently the clerk of Wayne County.

A very brief list of the clerk's duties include the filing and indexing of financial statements and security agreements; recording and indexing all real estate mortgages, deeds, releases and assignments; recording articles of incorporation and bonds of county officials, notaries public and the recording of school, county, city and township bonds, recording proceedings of the commissioners; issue certificates of title for motor vehicles and keep inventory of all county property.

The clerk also lists all real estate transfers, prepares the county budget and accounts for all money spent by each office; computes tax levies for all subdivisions; calculates; deducts and remits income and social security taxes for all county employees; registers all births and deaths in county; handles voter registration and supervises elections.

Each of the county offices need staff members and a budget. Because income and expenses vary from year to year it is necessary for the three commissioners to ask each of the county offices to submit a proposed schedule of anticipated costs for the coming year.

After the commissioners have these budgets in hand and determine a total proposed budget for the county, then the proposed budget is printed in The Wayne Herald and the commissioners schedule a "hearing."

Any resident in Wayne County may appear at the hearing to protest any or all proposed expenses and give reason why any particular account should be increased or decreased.

In case no one protests the proposed budget, which was the case this year, the commissioners proceed to adopt the proposed budget and make it official for the county.

The commissioners proposed a budget for the fiscal year which began July 1 and will end June 30 requiring the raising of $325,631.42 by taxation.

The next article in this series will explain mill levies, how they are set, who sets them and why they vary from one community to another. We'll look over the shoulder of the county assessor and see how his work is coordinated to those duties of the county clerk and treasurer.

A chart is being prepared to accompany the article to show the various mill levies in Sholes, Hoskins, Wakefield (Bellevue Addition), Winside, Wayne and Carroll.

Jerry Kingston Gets Doctorate from PSU

Jerry L. Kingston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kingston of Wayne, has received his doctor of philosophy degree in economics from Pennsylvania State University. He has accepted an appointment as assistant professor of economics at Arizona State University at Tempe.

A 1962 graduate of Wayne State College, he specialized in International trade and economic development. His doctoral dissertation was a statistical investigation into the relation between fluctuations of foreign exchange receipts and the economic development of the principal Latin American countries in the post-war period.

Wayne Native Forms Unique Organization

A former native of Wayne and a 1942 graduate of Wayne State Teachers College has opened a new business in Tucson, Ariz., which is probably unique in the West. It will serve 11 western states, Hawaii and Alaska.

James M. Kingston recently opened his new company, Financial Placement and Counselors, in an effort to help banks hire and retain capable professional people. The placement division of his company will work with client companies in securing executive talent, according to Kingston, after starting with assistance in placing clerical and other staff members.

Kingston had stepped down from his position as vice president and personnel relations director at Southern Arizona Bank and Trust Co. in order to form the business. He joined that organization in 1958 to establish a personnel department. Previously he had been a personnel officer with First National Bank of Oregon at Portland.

He did graduate work in personnel administration at the University of Southern California and graduated from the Pacific Coast Banking School. A past president of the Tucson Personnel Club, he is a member of the Society for Personnel Administration.

Wakefield Holds Tapping Service For Six Pupils

The Wakefield chapter of the National Honor Society held tapping ceremonies for six new members Oct. 1 in a 3:15 p.m. service at the elementary building.

New members tapped into the society were Lynn Jepsen, Marlene Mills, Keith Boehlenhauer, Barb Brownell, Donna Johnson and Mary Kaufman. Eligible students must have maintained at least a "B" average and show qualities of leadership, character, service and scholarship.

The Wakefield High School Trojan Band participated in the afternoon program with a presentation of "Vanguard for Victory" under the direction of Mrs. Lyle Trullinger.

Rae Johnson, a former NHS member, was the guest speaker at the 6:30 p.m. banquet held at the Cornhusker Cafe. The following officers were inducted: Bob Johnson, president; Keith Boehlenhauer, vice president; Muriel Kai, secretary; Mary Kaufman, treasurer and Donna Johnson, historian.

M Monday Is Go-Day for Wayne's Community Chest

Several dozen Wayne citizens will begin visiting business firms and homes to receive contributions toward the Chest's 1970 goal. That goal of $10,000 will help seven agencies finance their work for youth, for charity, for disaster relief during the year.

Jim Marsh is chairman of the business division campaign, and his workers will visit not only the business firms but their employees. Meanwhile, Mrs. Jim Hummel and her residential division workers will visit homes.

The two chairmen expressed hope that every Wayne family share in the giving, either at work or at home. The Chest campaign relieves Wayne people of running seven separate drives and relieves the seven organizations of at least part of their fund raising, the chairman note.

True, the Chest does not raise funds for all organizations, said Norris Weible, president of the Chest. Some major agencies choose to solicit their own, but the Chest does represent agencies that are well known and most of them active in Wayne.

Concord Lady Reaps Cash Night Benefits

A Concord lady realized the value of shopping in Wayne, especially on Thursday nights.

Mrs. Helen Rice took home a check from the Wayne Chamber of Commerce after hearing her name called during the weekly Cash Night drawing. Value of the check: $150.

Only a week earlier a Wayne lady took home a check for $400 when she was present as her name was called.

Next week's drawing will be worth $100. To be eligible to win make sure you register in one of the stores taking part in the promotion. After that the only requirement is that you be present when the drawing takes place.

Judges Pick Top Wayne State Displays

Pile Hall won first place in the dormitory division of Wayne State's homecoming display contest, and Epsilon Pi Tau, the industrial arts honorary, won the organization division. Judges announced Friday.

Selection of three winners in each division posed a puzzle for the judges, who had to decide on such factors as design, originality, animation, craftsmanship and a subject fitting the general homecoming theme. "Sights and Sounds of Sixties."

The Pile Hall display featured a rotating wheel with the 12 signs of the zodiac, a legend saying "The Stars Predict a Victory—All done in brilliant colors.

The Epsilon Pi Tau display's centerpiece was a dragster and a sign, "Racing to Victory Over the Eagles."

Other dormitory winners: Terrace Hall, second, and Bowen Hall, third. In the organization division: Pi Kappa Delta, forensic honorary, second, and WSEAN, student education club, third.

Thursday night Nelhardt Hall women won first place in the freshman skit show, Pile Hall women second and Morey Hall men third. Nelhardt dwellers took special pleasure from this victory— their second major honor after Beverly Prosch of Nelhardt became homecoming queen the previous night.

Miss Prosch, a senior from Bloomfield, is a business education major. See DISPLAYS, page 5.

Wayne Man Injured

Bill Preil of Wayne was injured in a fall while working Thursday on a bridge approximately six and one-half miles north of Hoskins.

He was reportedly working on the bridge when he fell about 10 feet injuring his head and neck. He was taken to the Wayne hospital by the Hoskins' Rescue Unit.

Winside Man Injured

Otto Koch, 60, who farms northeast of Winside, fractured a pelvic bone Wednesday around 11:30 a.m. as he jumped from a tractor.

Koch was reportedly moving the tractor and loader in order to repair the machine shed when the tractor started to tip. He jumped from the equipment and was injured. He crawled to the house and telephoned a neighbor, Malvin Nydahl, who took him to the hospital in Wayne.

Survey Set by Commission

Members of the Region 11 and 25 Joint Planning Commission for Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice meeting in Norfolk Thursday night approved a proposed eight-county survey of police, prosecution, court and penal institution practices, according to Norris Weible, commission secretary.

Richard E. Mueeting of Norfolk, consultant, outlined the proposed survey to commission members at a meeting early in September. At that time Mueeting said concerning the survey, "It seeks to determine what differences and similarities exist in the daily implementation of Nebraska's criminal law by police, prosecutors, judges and jailers."

The principal objective of the study, according to Mueeting, is to determine the practicing standard or standards followed by law enforcement officials in the region. He pointed out that the study will also be a benchmark from which the future course of Contestants for queen this year include Laurie Wolters, Linda Penn, Winona Peterson, Cindy Froehlich and Beth Bergt. King contestants include Les Echtenlamp, Dan Sutherland, Randy Helgren, Doug Mamer and Ted Armbruster.

Wakefield Boy Gets Association Award

Alan Jensen of Wakefield was named to receive the Nebraska Agricultural Chemicals Association's first place entomology award for his first-year exhibit at the recent Nebraska State Fair.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Jensen, is 13 years old and is a member of the Pals and Partners 4-H Club of the Wakefield area.

For his exhibit he collected and displayed at least 25 different insects. As part of his project he learned how to identify insects and made equipment needed to correctly kill, mount and preserve his insect collection.

MRS. HELEN RICE accepts her $150 check from Alan Wittig at Super Valu in Wayne.

Is Your Child Taking the Tour?

Adventure is important to children. Real or imagined, adventure plays a great part in the daily activities of a growing youngster. A child's imagination, like that of an adult, is the mental harbor in which many hours of entertainment are spent.

Children are always "on tour" observing the world around them. What they see makes a great impact upon their understanding and formation of opinions about things. Would you take your child, for instance, on tour of murderer's row each day to visit with those who have killed?

What fun to watch the splinters of gold and red come to rest in the unsuspecting trees while the overflow plummets earthward to hide in the underbrush. Look at the browns, oranges, yellows and greens running into a patchwork of whirling color, then leaping toward the horizon to rendezvous at the foot of a dazzling fall sunset!

Well, look at it this way. Who gets the most use out of your best silverware and china dishes? You say the family does? Nope! Your guests eat off the china and use the best silverware far more often! We humans usually "save" the best dishes, the best silverware, the best sheets, pillowcases and linens to be used by people we'll never love as much as we do our own families! It's actually a bit funny that we "save" the best for people we "like," but use most any old thing for those we love the most—our family.

Blue Devils End Stanton Skein Friday

The Wayne High Blue Devils bulldozed their way past the previously undefeated Stanton Mustangs Friday night to the note of 46 to 13. The score is deceiving to those who didn't see the contest as the Blue Devils only out-gained the Mustangs by 123 yards—Wayne's total offensive production was 449, Stanton's was 326.

Wayne pounded their yardage out on the ground, gaining 328 yards to Stanton's 85. But the Mustangs found the Blue Devils weakness as they gained 241 yard—through the air to Wayne's 121. The only trouble was that Stanton couldn't find the goal line often enough.

The Mustangs kicked off to Wayne and the Blue Devils returned to the 31 yard line of Wayne. The Blue Devils marched down the field in 11 plays and Randy Helgren began the scoring on a one-yard plunge. Wayne led 6 to 0 as the two point conversion was no good at 8:06 in the quarter. Neither team could mount a sustained drive in the remainder of the first quarter and the score stayed 6 to 0 in favor of the Blue Devils.

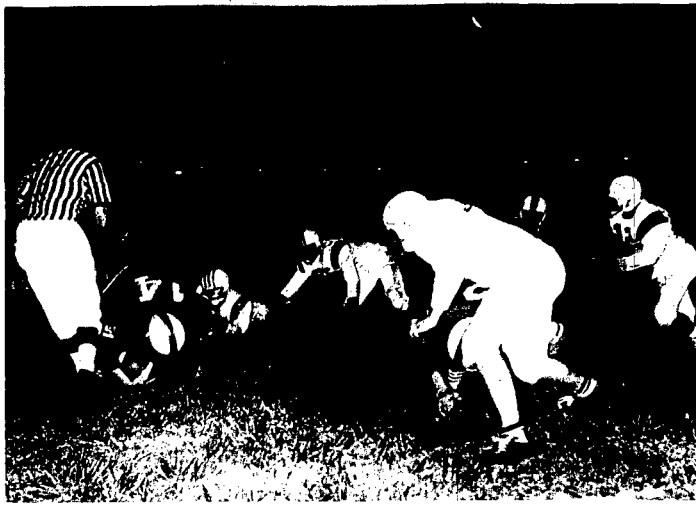

Wayne's offensive attack went into full swing in the second stanza when it produced 18 points. The first TD was set up when the Blue Devils forced Stanton to punt deep in their own territory and the ball was returned to Stanton's 22. Seven plays later Helgren hit Doug Maurer on an eight-yard scoring aerial; the two point conversion failed and Wayne led 12-0 with 9:41 showing on the clock.

Three minutes and 12 seconds later Mike Biltoft plunged over from 1:18 and Wayne's lead jumped to 18 to 0. Helgren scored again, this time from the four with 2:21 remaining in the half. Randy Robins stopped the Stanton's only threat of the first half on Wayne's 12 as he intercepted a Mustang pass in the end zone. The clock ran out with Wayne leading, 24-0.

The Blue Devils kicked off to the Mustangs to open the second half, downing the Stanton runner on his own 38-yard line. The fired up Mustangs marched to Wayne's 22 before Robins again intercepted one of their passes at the 10 and returned it to the Blue Devil 45.

Then Wayne again put together a sustained drive which was capped by a touchdown pass of 29 yards from Helgren to Robins. The two-point conversion was good on Biltoft's run and Wayne held a 30-0 lead at 7:49 in the third quarter.

The Mustangs scored their first touchdown of the contest

A SHOESTRING TACKLE by an unidentified Mustang defender stopped this end sweep by Wayne's Randy Robins (14). Two Wayne blockers hidden by a Stanton player and Dan Sutherland (41) and Jim Kenny (32) watch the progress of the play.

with 2:31 showing on the clock as Marland Erbst ran 60 yards to paydirt for the Mustangs on a pass batted in the air by Rick Robins. Jon Roberts picked it out of the air at the 11 of Stanton and ran it into the end zone to add a little icing to the cake and giving Wayne its 46 to 13 victory.

The powerful running attack for the Blue Devils Friday night was led by Biltoft with 77 yards in 11 carries. Dan Sutherland wasn't too far behind as he piled up 61 yards in 12 carries. They were followed by Les Fechtenkamp with 53 yards in 12 carries, Robins with 46 yards in seven carries, Helgren with 45 yards in 12 carries and Jim Kenny with 25 yards in six carries.

Coach Al Hansen's fine defensive unit was led by Kenny Jorgensen with four tackles and two assisted tackles, Bill Fletcher with three tackles and three assists and Fechtenkamp with two tackles and four assists. They received help from Sutherland who had three tackles and one assist and Kenny and Helgren with three tackles each.

The Blue Devils next see action this coming Friday at home against the Plainview Pirates, the Blue Devil homecoming game.

Winside Garner's Third Grid Win Friday Night

Winside posed its third win of the season by knocking off Walthill, 8-6, Friday night in a road game. The ground game proved to be the determining factor for the Wildcats as they out-rushed their opponents 194 yards to 23.

Winside's attempt to open the second half with an on-side kick only resulted in the hosts' getting good field position. Walthill fumbled a few plays later and Winside's Caylon Stevenson landed on the ball on the Winside 35. Then Winside put together a long 65-yard march which was climaxed by Phil Witt diving over from four yards out to knot the game at 4-0.

Witt proved his value to his team a few seconds later when he broke the knot by running the ball over on the two-point conversion attempt.

About the only highlight in the final stanza was Winside's driving to the 20 of Walthill. But a stout Walthill defense stymied that drive and held Winside from gaining another score.

Leading Winside ground runners for the night were Phil Witt and Bob Jackson. Bob Meyer collected the most yards for the Walthill squad.

Bears Rip Plainview, 46-6

Steve Smith, a junior at Laurel High, set the stage for the evening's action Friday when he returned the opening kick about 51 yards before being hauled down by a Plainview defender.

When the final gun sounded, Laurel had handed the hosts a convincing 46-6 defeat, partially making up for Laurel's 6-0 defeat at the hands of a rugged Pierce squad a week earlier.

Second quarter scoring was all by Jim Schroeder. He turned a Plainview punt into a score after taking it on his own 45-yard line, added another six points on a three-yard run.

Quarterback Steve Erwin connected on a pass to Dennis Dickey in the third period which covered seven yards for six points. Erwin then came back with another pass completion—this one to Jim Schroeder's brother, George—for the two-point conversion. Laurel's final six points came on a 20-yard run by Dickey.

Plainview's only score in the embarrassing evening came on a 28-yard pass completion to Mike Naprstek.

Leading rushers for Laurel were Carria with 122 yards in seven carries, Jim Schroeder with 88 yards in 12 carries, Rod Erwin with 69 yards in seven carries and Dickey with 43 yards in four carries.

Stopping the Plainview runners repeatedly throughout the game were Rod Erwin, Jim Schroeder, Rod Spath and Dennis Dickey. They received plenty of help from Paul McCoy, Steve Smith and Regg Swanson.

Next action for the Bears is Friday night when they host Stan-

Eagles Nip Crofton, 8-6

A successful two-point conversion run by senior Bob Smith enabled the Allen Eagles to eke out a slim 8-6 victory over Crofton in a road game Friday night. Smith's successful conversion came after quarterback Gary Troth fired a pass to Bob Mitchell and Mitchell lateraled to Loren Reuter for the Allen touchdown in the second period. Mitchell had snared the ball near the Crofton 25, handed it to Reuter on the 20.

Although the visitors dominated most of the statistics during the action, the Allen defense wasn't able to blank the Crofton squad. Crofton finally scampered over the Allen goal in the fourth period. The score came on a 31-yard run by strong Brad Schumacher. Schumacher's attempt at giving Crofton an 8-8 tie failed when the Allen defense pulled him down short of the goal.

Schumacher, a senior at Crofton, did most of the running for the hosts. He tallied a total of 93 yards on 15 carries. Teammate Pat Steffen came up with to the board they accept the three low bids and their alternates for construction. After thoroughly discussing the matter, the board approved the recommendations. All approvals are, however, subject to further valuation by the architects, the board president noted.

The Shaver and Co. architects estimate the costs of furniture and equipment will total around $150,000. This is $25,000 less than they had estimated and budgeted. Sixteen companies bid on 15 groups of furniture and equipment, but the bid will be withheld until the quality of the equipment offered can be studied by the architects.

A bid of $35,894 for carpeting from Ballantyne's Furniture, Inc. of Norfolk was low bid of eight which ranged to $46,507. Buller Fixture Company, Omaha, was the low of four bidders for kitchen equipment with a bid of $50,679.

Chausen Electric, in addition to the $188,000 bid for general electrical work, also received conditional approval on two other bids totaling $14,224 for lighting the outside of the two new structures.

The board's next regular meeting Oct. 9 will be changed to Oct. 14, according to Cramer, providing Shaver and Co. time to make recommendations.

Administrator F. Don MacLay informed the board they could expect approximately $2 million in taxes from the 14-county district for construction and furnishing the college buildings by the time the structures are finished.

Construction on the buildings will start late this month with the completion date set early in February 1971.

The survey, scheduled to get underway to Nov. 1 and end by Jan. 1, 1970, will be made, Muehlenberg said, by eight people who will be supervised by the commission and consultant. Eight people—one for each county—will carry out the survey in the following co-operating counties: Wayne, Dixon, Antelope, Madison, Pierce, Knox, Cedar and Stanton.

Consultant Muehlenberg noted the project will be the first of its type to be conducted in Nebraska.

Cost of the survey is estimated to be slightly more than $2,000. The money will come from planning funds of the Regional Crime Commission, Muehlenberg said.

Winside Pupils Hear Business Professor

Business students at the Winside High School heard Dr. Orvid Owens, business division chairman at Wayne State College, advise high school students to further their education following graduation. Dr. Owens addressed the class Thursday in the Winside school gymnasium.

The college instructor explained how business changes and rules daily living. He also briefly visited with the class concerning the relatively new field of data processing.

In responding to the question as to whether or not a student should seek further training beyond high school, Dr. Owens presented several illustrations to emphasize the benefits of advanced study, regardless of the field of work a student might choose.

NROTC Test Set For December 13

Test date for the 24th annual national competitive NROTC examination has been set for Dec. 13. Parents and high school officials should remind eligible high school seniors and graduates interested in a career in the Navy to submit their applications before Nov. 14.

The regular NROTC program offers an opportunity for a young man to gain a regular commission while studying at one of the many NROTC colleges and universities. The Navy furnishes tuition, fees, books and uniforms, plus a subsistence allowance of $50 per month to NROTC midshipmen. Each summer NROTC midshipmen go on at-sea training cruises. After finishing his college course and all military requirements, an NROTC midshipman is commissioned as a regular officer in the Navy or Marine Corps and goes on active duty with the operating forces.

The program is available to male high school seniors and graduates who will have reached their 17th but not their 21st birthday by July 1, 1970. Those who make a qualifying score on the Navy College Aptitude Test will be interviewed and given thorough medical examinations early in 1970. About 1,700 young men from those remaining in the competition will be selected to attend college next September to prepare for their naval service.

The 1970 NROTC bulletins of information and application forms are available from high school counselors, the nearest Navy Recruiting Station or from the Chief of Naval Personnel (Pers-B6411), Department of the Navy, Washington, D. C. 20370.

Dear Editor:

Our son Pfc. Robert Dangberg received SWAY's gift of $10 last Friday. But it was one day too late to reach him personally as he had left Thursday night to report back to Oakland, Calif. Sunday we received a telephone call from him saying he would be leaving for Viet Nam this Monday, Sept. 22.

May we say thanks to SWAY for Robert as of now and as soon as we have his address we will forward the $10 to him.

We sincerely appreciate what SWAY Inc. is doing for our servicemen.

Youth Tells of Work Behind Iron Curtain

David Rees, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Rees, Wayne, is presently a student at the University of Nebraska. The Wayne youth recently filed two reports with the American Friends Service Committee, who sponsored his working in Czechoslovakia and Hungary for several weeks last summer, and described his work in Czechoslovakia.

"The camp in Bratislava, Czechoslovakia, from July 7, 1969 to July 26, 1969 was a truly international camp. It contained 10 males (one British, one Dutch, one Norwegian, one French, two Italian, two Bulgarian, one Swiss and one American) and four females (two French, one Finnish, one Swedish) or a total of 14. Besides this, we had two Slovak leaders — one a cultural leader and the other a work leader. We lived in a college in Bratislava, with about a 10 minute walk to our working site — a new hospital. We ate breakfast and supper at the college and had our mid-morning lunch and noon meal at the hospital. All our meals were prepared for us and we cooked nothing. The primary food stuffs were bread and potatoes. Four people lived in one room and they were segregated according to sex. The camp leaders did not live with us, but occasionally stayed a night.

"We left for work each morning at 7 a.m., supposedly, but often not until 7:30 or 7:45 and worked until 10 a.m. when we had our noon meal, and then from 1 p.m. until 3 p.m. Our work consisted primarily of grounds work around the hospital. We were usually either raking grass, cleaning streets or digging holes. Most times, we did not work together, but in small groups of four or five. The work was not especially difficult and we were not pushed to do great amounts of work. We often wondered whether or not our work was at all necessary — perhaps the regular maintenance crew could not have done our work as well. As a result of this, we began to question if maybe the organization running the camp was not just wasting its money housing and feeding us since it seemed almost certain we weren't doing enough to earn our board and room.

"As we worked only eight hours a day and for five days a week, there were also many opportunities for us to see Bratislava, the Danube River, the surrounding area and to learn much about the people of Czechoslovakia. Sometimes trips were organized by the leaders, but often we would just ask to see something and they were most willing to take us and see that we got what we wanted. However, in respect to our free time, and the members of the camp, it was very rare that the whole group did something together. We were completely free to do whatever we wished at any time and on week-ends some members of the camp traveled to Vienna or to Prague. This, to me, displayed well the lack of group spirit brought about largely by poor work."

"To make it a better camp I

Father Seeks Missing Son
The Wayne County Sheriff's office received a letter of appeal this week from an Illinois father seeking the whereabouts of his 21-year-old son.

George J. Moran, a justice in the Fifth District Appellate Court in Illinois, is making an attempt to locate William M. Moran, 21, who is six feet tall, has blue eyes, brown hair, wears a crewcut and has a tracheotomy scar on his throat. Bill was last seen wearing brown shoes, olive jeans and a white T-shirt, but could be dressed differently now. The father states that his son is a very gentle young man, but is confused as a result of a bad accident four years ago.

Judge Moran reported in his letter to the Wayne County Sheriff's office, "I would appreciate it very much if you would be on the look-out for my 21-year-old, brain damaged son, Bill, who, because of his peculiar injury could be almost anywhere. Bill was so badly injured in an automobile accident about four years ago that he was not expected to live. However, he has to this date made a remarkable recovery except that some of his primary functions, such as his recent memory and ability to find directions, have been severely impaired.

"As one of the final steps in his rehabilitation we recently placed him at a rehabilitation center in the East. However, on Sept. 3, 1969, he wandered away from that place and we have been desperately trying to find him since.

"Our most distressing problem is this. Bill's doctor tells us that in his present condition, Bill would tend to walk and walk aimlessly, never knowing exactly where he was going. In all probability he would not hitchhike, but he would accept a ride if one was offered him and he would ride in any direction the ride was offered. Since we do not have the faintest idea where Bill is at this time, we are asking the sheriffs in the different counties where he may wander to be on the look-out for him."

Anyone seeing William M. Moran is asked to call the Wayne County Sheriff's office.

How much is a fair share for a Wayne citizen - individual or family - to the Chest?
