

Data on Farm Census Will Arrive Here Soon

Chairman Nuernberger said

Troop 174 Holds Court of Honor

Boy Scout Troop 174 held a court of honor Monday night at the Presbyterian Church, according to Paul Banks, scoutmaster. Two boys were awarded the rank of tenderfoot and four youths received special awards.

Bob Barr, assistant scoutmaster, was in charge of the tenderfoot investiture which bestowed that rank upon Brian Lessman and Randy Park.

Awards were presented to the following scouts: Dan Rose, life award and the fishing merit badge; David Anderson, Star award and rowing, cooking and fishing merit badges; Dale Tomrdle, fishing and rowing merit badges, and Joe Manley, not present, was awarded the swimming and life-saving merit badges.

Marvin Sword, district scout representative, spoke on the importance of scouting.

Withee Nominated for Presidency of NSEA

James Withee, former superintendent of schools at Laurel, was one of two men who emerged last week as nominees for president of the Nebraska State Education Association.

Teachers attending the delegate assembly in December will vote for either Withee or Emmett Cannon, supervisor of Holdrege City Schools, to serve in the one-year post.

Withee, now superintendent at Nebraska City, headed the Laurel public school system for six years before resigning after the 1968-69 school year. From 1952 to 1957 he taught at Wakefield and Tilden and was later a teacher-principal at Plainview. He is a past-president of the northeast Nebraska district of the NSEA and served on the NSEA board of directors before moving to Nebraska City.

In late November the Bureau of Census in Washington will send to all county ASCS offices an information packet containing a reference handbook, an introductory letter and a sample questionnaire. Information in the packet will help county office employees answer questions from farmers about the 1969 Agricultural Census.

The chairman said farmers will receive the 1969 Agricultural Census questionnaire by mail on or about Jan. 1, 1970. The questionnaire should be filled out and mailed back to the Census Bureau not later than Feb. 15.

Nuernberger noted that farmer cooperation in this census is very important because decisions that will lead to improved farm programs are based on the data.

Junior Cadet Band Plays at Convention

The Junior Cadet Band from the Wayne City Schools had the honor of performing during the opening session of the district Nebraska State Education Association convention in Norfolk today (Thursday).

Made up of seventh, eighth and ninth graders, the band was selected for the honor several months ago. On the program for the youngsters were two marches by Osterling, a trumpet trio and "Concert Overture" by Johnson. The trumpet trio playing for the area teachers attending the two-day convention was made up of Shane Giese, Tom Kerstine and Charles Morris, all freshmen at Wayne High.

In other band action at the school, the Senior High Marching Band will be competing in Lincoln this Saturday during the annual marching band festival sponsored by the Nebraska Band Masters Association.

Similar to the district vocal music contests held each year, the contest will take place all day Saturday in Pershing Auditorium. The Wayne band will march during the evening portion of the program.

Wayne took part in the contest last year and about five years ago.

Allen Juniors Take Part in Government

Fourteen students from the junior class at Allen High School spent all day Tuesday in Ponca learning about how the county form of government functions. They were joined by juniors from the other high schools in Dixon County for the one-day affair, the annual County Government Day.

Students were chosen last week at the Allen school through elections similar to those which take place on a county or state level. Students campaigned for certain county posts, gave speeches and then put their drawing power on the line in the elections.

Successful "politicians" at Allen were Corinne Beacom, county superintendent; Linda Book, county clerk; Rhonda Schultz, county assessor; Janean Fahrensee ALLEN JUNIORS, page 5

Community Chest Has Slow Start

The 1969 Community Chest campaign is off to a rather slow start but Norris Weible, president of the Chest board, said Wednesday, "I am confident that continued efforts by the block chairmen will make it possible for the drive to reach the $10,000 goal." Weible also noted that he hopes the campaign can be completed by next week.

Jerry Malcom, treasurer, reported that $2,750, or twenty-seven and a half per cent of the goal has thus far been contributed.

The eight participating agencies benefited by Community Chest funds are Wayne Youth Activities, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Red Cross, Salvation Army, United Service Organization, Florence Crittenton Home and campaign administration costs.

2 Near Fatal Accidents Occur in City Monday

Quick reactions Monday afternoon by a Wayne policeman might be responsible for a Wayne construction worker being alive today.

Taking the quick and decisive actions was Police Chief Vern Fairchild; benefiting from them was Paul Otte, partner in Otte Construction of Wayne.

Fairchild gave mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to Otte when he found him gasping for breath after striking his head in a fall at the construction site of the new St. Mary's Catholic Church in the east part of the city. Fairchild said Otte's face was beginning to turn blue from lack of oxygen when he arrived at the scene about five minutes after the accident.

In a separate accident earlier that afternoon one worker was buried over his head and another worker was partially buried in a trench cave-in at the site of the sewer work being done on Wayne State College. A state safety inspector Tuesday afternoon ordered that work to halt until the construction firm, Ehning Concrete of Wayne, was able to shore

Ooops, Wrong Witt

Cousins Dave and Phil Witt may look quite a bit alike to some people, but not that much.

Dave Witt, the 1969 Winside homecoming king, was incorrectly identified as Phil Witt in the picture on the front page of the last issue of The Wayne Herald. He and Queen Bev Gries were crowned Friday night in after-game ceremonies. Winside won the homecoming game with Randolph, 36-24.

Dave is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Witt; Phil is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Witt.

up the trenches to meet state regulations. The construction company met those regulations within a few hours and work started again later Tuesday afternoon.

Otte and another worker, Gene Mitchell, fell from the top of a 15-foot scaffold when one of the legs of the scaffold broke through a thin layer of concrete on the slab floor of the church. Otte, 32, apparently struck his head on the edge of the concrete floor when he fell, knocking him unconscious. Mitchell, about 29 years old and also from Wayne, fell on the ground just off the slab floor.

Fairchild found Otte lying on his right side with his chin pressed down on his chest, partially obstructing his breathing. He was afraid Otte had broken his neck in the fall but decided to move his head and attempt to get his breathing started again because he was afraid he would suffocate if he left him in that position. Breathing was started again almost immediately, Fairchild noted.

Musical Variety Concert Theme

Music to fit everyone's taste will be offered the public by the Wayne High School vocal department during the "Circle of Sound" fall concert scheduled for Tuesday evening at eight o'clock.

Planned for the lecture hall, the concert will include such varied pieces of music as the popular "Aquarius/Let the Sunshine In" by the concert choir and the Israeli folk song "Turn Balalaka" by the freshman choir. Also on the concert choir's program are the di lasso "Ecco Song" and "Lost in the Night" with Beth Bergt as soprano soloist and "O No, John," an English folk song. The freshman choir will perform three other selections. See VARIETY, page 5

Both men were taken to the Wayne hospital for emergency treatment and x-rays. Otte suffered a severe concussion, a neck injury and cuts on the head, according to Dr. Roy Matson. Dr. Matson had him transferred to St. Luke's East in St. Louis City for more extensive examination of his neck. Mitchell suffered a minor back injury, according to Dr. Walter Bentback. Mitchell was still in the Wayne hospital Tuesday morning.

Kurt Otte, Paul's brother and partner in the construction firm which is building the new church, said the log of the scaffold crashed through a thin piece of concrete which should have been knocked out along with several others earlier. Ducts, wiring and pipes come up through the slab floor where those "knock-outs" are located. This one happened to be missed when the others were knocked out, Otte said. "We're very thankful the police were able to get to Paul as quickly as they did," his brother noted. "He might have See ACCIDENTS, page 6

Of those 54 charter members, three will be honored during Friday's affair: Mrs. Fred Berry, Mrs. J. W. Jones and Mrs. C. M. Craven, all of Wayne. Included in Friday's activities are a program beginning at 2:15 p.m. and serving of refreshments at the city auditorium. A dinner is planned later in the day and state and district officers are expected to attend.

WS Dramatists Open Fall Slate With 'The Roar'

To open the fall season Wayne State Drama Department has chosen a musical comedy, "The Roar of the Greasepaint; The Smell of the Crowd." The play will open with a 2 p.m. matinee Sunday at Hamsey Theatre in the Val Peterson Fine Arts Center. Performances will also be held at 8 p.m. Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Starring in this take-off on the game of life will be Gary Ehlert, who has had semi-professional experience at the Omaha Playhouse, with his portrayal of Sir, the one who "gets"; Brad Ford, no newcomer to the Wayne state stage, as Cockey, the one who "gets taken" and Phyllis Maustach, who will be making her debut on the boards at Wayne State, as The Kid.

The Girl is Barbara Forman, who also played that part in summer stock this year. The Negro is Scotty Dashiell and The Bully is Richard Ludwick. Urchins are played by Bill Brozek, Ron Fazio, Lannie Hofmann, Louise Kamish, Sherry Cole, Joe Fresquez, Mary Houlehan and Jane Knoll.

Musical accompaniment will be furnished by Claudia Thomas on percussion, Joan Clark at the piano and Peg Neldeberg on flute.

Learn some of the precautions you should take before you send your children out to trick or treat on Halloween by reading Mary Schluckebier's column in this issue of The Wayne Herald.

Bright New Uniforms Add Spice To Wayne High Band

Wayne High School band members will be stepping lively in new uniforms Saturday as they march in the Band Day parade in Lincoln.

Doug Stanley, at left, is wearing the complete new marching band uniform which includes white spats, braid and decorative overlay. Doug adjusts Jim Sturm's lapel on his formal concert band uniform. The basic suit coat worn by Jim is styled in a formal "coat and tails" fashion. The overlay is added to this coat to make up the marching band uniform modeled by Stanley.

Tom Karef's flashy drum major uniform did not need replacing to match the recently purchased outfits. Both Bergt, wearing a new Blue Devil band uniform, gives Tom a helping hand with a chin strap.

Wildcats Tie Favored Kearney, 0-0

Steadily improving, Wayne State's football team goes to Peru State Saturday night with growls audible in the Wildcat throats. The Wayne spirit, strong all season, got stronger last Saturday as the Wildcats stopped a favored Kearney State with a 0-0 tie. Some 2,900 fans in Memorial Stadium needed no statistics to see that Wayne had steady control of the game, and veteran observers commented that the Wildcats never lost their poise.

Kearney a week earlier had trounced Peru, 49-6. Last week Chadron beat Peru, 40-7, after previously downing Wayne, 34-20. Peru is winless in six games; Wayne now is 1-4-1.

A measure of Wildcat improvement can be taken from coach and player remarks these days: "Wish we could play those first four games over. It would be different now." Those first four were losses — only one of them a rout, by Kansas State of Emporia, 56-0 — and the main reason for the losses was inexperience of a young team.

Now, say the coaches, the team has conquered many of its earlier mistakes, and the offense is able to move consistently.

Move it did against Kearney, a team that had given up an average of only 60 yards rushing to five previous opponents. The Wildcats compiled 181 yards on the ground while holding the Antelopes to 46, far below their 185 average. Neither team got up to par in passing, Wayne with 52 yards, Kearney with 100.

Both teams mounted tough defenses when they had to. The Wildcats stalled out a first-quarter Kearney drive to the 11, then threw the invaders back 24 yards on three straight plays.

Only once more did Kearney threaten seriously. Then Wayne's linebacker Doug Anderson intercepted an Antelope pass in the end zone early in the third quarter.

The fourth quarter was a rouser. The Wildcats, after twice finding themselves on their own one-yard line, made three assaults on the Kearney goal. Two of them ended with pass interceptions, the other ended on a field goal attempt which went a bit wide.

Wayne's offense found a third dimension in the rushing of freshman wingback Mike Wise, a 5-9, 180-pounder from Avoca, Iowa. On 11 carries he slammed 78 yards, including sorties of 26, 18 and 18. Thus the dependable pair of Sam Singleton and Jerry Luedtke, who rushed for 75 and 67 yards, have a potent running mate.

The tie score was Wayne's first since 1959, against Hastings, 7-7. The last scoreless tie was against Augustana in 1955. Kearney and Wayne last tied in 1938 at 12-12, after a 1937 deadlock of 7-7. They had 0-0 blanks in 1932 and 1929.

Cage Workouts Set

Basketball workouts for the men who want to play in this year's city basketball league will be held on the first three Monday nights in November, according to Hank Overin, city recreation director. First games in this year's schedule will be played on Nov. 12.

Overin said he has about 42 people signed up for the sport this year. These, and any others who may want to play in the league, will be divided into about six teams of seven players each.

City cage games will be played on Monday and Wednesday evenings.

Norfolk Will Defy Reserves' 4-0 Stale

Wayne High's reserve football team, sporting a perfect record of four straight victories this season, will meet one of its toughest tests of the season this coming Tuesday afternoon, according to Coach Ron Carnes.

The reserves will play host to a tough Norfolk High squad in a four o'clock game on the practice field south of West Elementary. After that contest, the going doesn't get much easier. On Monday, Nov. 3, the reserves will travel to West Point Central Catholic for another tough match. That game will be the last one of the season for the reserves.

Already the Wayne squad has posted victories over Laurel, Pierce, South Sioux City and Wisner.

Jr. High Gridders Win 8-0 Contest With Wakefield

Thwarted for a full three quarters of action, Wayne's junior high football team finally put together a successful drive late in the game to eke out an 8-0 victory over Wakefield in a road game Monday.

After playing the first period in the center of the field, Wayne came up with two touchdowns in the closing seconds of the second quarter, but both were nullified because of offside penalties. The first worthless TD came on a Gordon Cook off tackle run from 12 yards out, the second on a Bill Schwartz-Earle Overin pass which covered 17 yards.

Wayne drove to inside the Wakefield 20-yard line twice in the third period but both times the local squad had to hand over the pigskin on downs because of the stout Wakefield defense, a defense the Wayne coach cited for its strength everywhere but up the middle.

Wayne finally scored in the fourth period when the locals drove 50 yards for a touchdown after taking a Wakefield punt on fourth down. The TD came on third down and eight yards to go on Wakefield's 35 when quarterback Schwartz fired a cross-pattern pass to Overin. Overin snared the aerial on the 10 and went in for the score. Gordon Cook took the ball over the goal off his left tackle for the conversion to give the Wayne squad its eight point advantage.

Coach Hank Overin noted that the whole Wayne defense played outstanding football during the contest, giving up only one first down to the bigger hosts. Making up that defense are Kevin Heitold, Bruce Kucera, Jim Chapman, Jeff Lamp, Kevin Jech, Ed Sandahl, Greg Swinney, Gordon Cook, Kerry Jech, Scott Ehlers, Todd Bigelow and Clark Clatanoff. Offensive standouts included Bill Schwartz, Marty Hansen, Greg Cook and Kevin Jech in the backfield and Earle Overin, Kim Baker and Mike Meyer in the line.

The Wayne team, which was scheduled to meet Laurel in an away game Wednesday afternoon at 3:15, will play at home on Tuesday evening. The game is with the Walthill junior high team and will be played on the city ball diamond at 7 p.m.

Score by quarters:
Wayne 0 0 0 8-8

172 Wins Jr. Kegling

Virgil Kardell rolled a 172 series to win the individual honors in Saturday afternoon's junior league bowling. Three young kegglers, Steve Meyer, Bill Schwartz and Mike Foote, rolled single high games of 133 to tie for second place. Taking team honors with a 530 series were Kardell and Phil Koeber.

THESE TROPHIES will be up for grabs during the second annual Cubmobile Derby slated for Sunday afternoon at Laurel.

Weatherman Says Yes

By Jim Hinrichs, Correspondent, Laurel Pack 176
Yes, the weatherman says yes. We're expecting the sun to be with us Sunday afternoon for the annual Cubmobile Derby. The boys of Pack 176 have been giving their cars the final fine tuning for a chance at the three place trophies being offered. Also the three place winners will be interviewed on KTCH radio.

Everyone is invited to the finest little race in northeast Nebraska. Yes, Cedar Street at Laurel is the official race track for the second annual derby. With registration at 1 o'clock, the first cars will be leaving the starting gates at promptly 1:30 p.m.

Plan today for the race Sunday, Oct. 26, the most interesting and exciting afternoon that anyone could expect.

WSC Reserves Top Midwestern

Wayne State's junior varsity gridders defeated Midwestern College, 7-6, Monday night at Denison, Iowa to end their season at 1-1.

The young Wildcats got their score in the first quarter on a 22-yard pass from Jim Cartwright to Dan Buss, followed by Ron Dietz's extra point kick.

Midwestern came back in the third period with a Jim McDonough pass to Jim Pratz for 16 yards to the goal. The conversion failed, and the hosts were unable to push another drive in the final quarter over the goal line. Wayne defense held at the one-yard-line and pushed Midwestern back on the next two plays.

Allen Whipped, 26-0

Coleridge took over the top spot in the Lewis and Clark Conference by knocking off the Allen Eagles, 26-0, Friday night.

The victory gave Coleridge a record of five wins and one

Hunter success during last year's fall turkey season was nearly 52 per cent.

Wayne Frosh Fight Stanton to 0-0 Tie

Although the Wayne squad made deep penetration into the opponents' territory several times late in the game, the local freshmen were unable to monopolize on those opportunities to score and had to settle for a 0-0 tie with Stanton in Tuesday's road game.

Wayne probed to about the Stanton five late in the final period but penalties threw the locals back 30 yards. Another penetration, down to the 10, was abruptly halted when a Stanton defender pirated a Wayne aerial.

Leading the Wayne defense were Vaughn Glassmeyer, six tackles and several good defensive plays; Charles Morris, 14 tackles, and Randy Nelson, 10 tackles. Workhorse Randy Nelson gained 64 yards for the local squad in six carries. Jim Sturm had 32 yards in seven carries and Glen Birkoff had 28 yards in six carries. Wayne came off the field with 125 yards rushing, 97 passing.

Next action for the frosh is Thursday, Oct. 30, when they host West Point Central Catholic in a 4 p.m. tilt. They meet Winer-Pilger there on Nov. 4 to make up a postponed game.

Keith Farenholz of Allen holds the state record for a typical white-tailed buck with one taken in Dakota County in 1966. His buck sported a rack scoring 192 points on the Boone and Crockett Club scale.

School Bells Silent

Those darn school bells will be silent for at least two days (so the students might say) this week while teachers from all over Nebraska are attending the annual Nebraska State Education Association district conventions at several sites across the state.

Students in the public schools in Wayne and all the surrounding towns will have all day today (Thursday) and Friday off during the convention for teachers in this part of the state. It is set for Norfolk. Students in Wayne City Schools were dismissed early Wednesday afternoon with buses starting their afternoon rounds at 2:30.

The district conventions also forced a change in the usual Friday night football schedule. This week Wayne and area towns played games on Wednesday night. Wayne played host to West Point Central Catholic, Winside hosted Coleridge, Laurel journeyed to Madison, Allen traveled to Randolph and Wakefield hosted West Point.

AFS Chapter Is Lost to Pender Field Service

Members of the local American Field Service chapter were hosts to AFS guests from Pender in a meeting at Wayne High School Oct. 16, according to Robert Porter, chapter president.

Porter said that among guests from Pender was Adadu Yeman of Ethiopia, an AFS guest of Mr. and Mrs. William Biles Jr. of Pender. Ken Rhancek, president of the Pender AFS chapter, was present, accompanied by three student representatives and other Pender AFS members.

Purpose of the meeting, Porter noted, was to get the two AFS chapters together for an exchange of ideas.

Reports from various committees were given. Ted Armbruster, student liaison, reported that Wayne High School students are planning a "mile of pennies" project for helping secure another AFS student in Wayne next year.

President Porter said that Wayne High student council members will be selling Christmas cards from door-to-door in Wayne on the evening of Nov. 24. Proceeds from the card sales go to both the AFS International and the local chapter for support of an AFS student in Wayne next year. Funds raised by card sales last year helped make it possible for Tessie Urian of the Philippines to be in Wayne this year. She is making her home with Dr. and Mrs. Walter Peterson and attends Wayne High School.

A new home selection committee was announced. Members are

Police Blotter Bulges With Many Complaints

Wayne police officers were deluged with complaints over the weekend. Complaints varied from lost dogs to auto accidents and from vandalism to street fighting.

Early Saturday morning around 12:35 a.m. officers were notified of a fist-fight going on in a downtown alley. Several college students and other local youths were involved. Officers are continuing to investigate the disturbance.

Other complaints received by police Saturday were those noting that a dog was running loose in the 1000 block on Walnut Street; someone had kicked in the front door of a residence on Windom and taken the telephone; a stray dog was impounded; a car was reported to be parked overtime on West Fifth Street; another dog was reported lost; a business firm manager was told a door to the business house had been left unlocked and officers were asked to make a periodic check on a fire near the Wayne Sporting Goods at the east edge of town.

A final Saturday complaint was filed with the police around 10:40 p.m. when a resident in the 1000 block on Walnut told officers that a group of boys were serenading college girls at a nearby residence. The complainant said he was a taxpayer and wanted the disturbance stopped. Officers investigated but the serenaders were gone.

The new 24-hour communications system at police department in Wayne continued being put to use when a case of vandalism was discovered around 12:35 a.m. Sunday morning. Vandals had kicked in the front door and broke it off at the Midwest Marine firm on West First Street.

Drivers Escape Accidents With Minor Injuries

Two separate accidents recently involved four Wayne area residents who reportedly escaped with minor injuries, according to the Wayne County Sheriff's Office.

Around 4:58 p.m. Friday, autos driven by Donald Boyce and Curtis Foote collided four miles south of Wayne on Highway 15. The Sheriff's office reported that Foote was southbound in a 1968 Pontiac and was attempting to make a left turn into the Farmer's Cash Market when in collision with the northbound Boyce vehicle, a 1969 Mercury.

Foote was brought into Wayne by ambulance, checked and released. Boyce reportedly received only bruises. Both autos were damaged extensively.

Another collision occurred Tuesday afternoon around 1:45 p.m. six miles north and nearly a mile west of Wayne when an eastbound 1965 Chevrolet pickup driven by Floyd G. Echtenkamp, 52, and a westbound 1964 Chevrolet, driven by Patrick A. Young, 22, hit head-on just over the crest of a hill, according to the Sheriff's office report. Both vehicles sustained extensive damage.

Convention at Carroll Friday

Members of the American Legion and auxiliaries in Wayne County will meet at 8 p.m. Friday in the Carroll auditorium for the 1969 county convention, according to Vern Schnoor, commander of Post 165 at Carroll.

David Rees, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Rees, Wayne, will be guest speaker for the event. Rees spent the past summer working in Europe behind the Iron Curtain in a program sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee. He will relate some of his adventures in Czechoslovakia and Hungary at the convention.

During the business meeting there will be an election of officers.

suffocated in a few more minutes."

The call to the police, which was made shortly after four o'clock by one of the nuns at the Catholic school, was received by the communications dispatcher on duty at the police station. Although Fairchild and Officer Keith Reed, who helped Fairchild at the accident scene, were at the police station when the call came in, Fairchild noted that the new communications setup could have proved its worth had they been in the police car at that time. The dispatcher could have then radioed them immediately and there would have been little time lost, Fairchild said.

In that other construction accident, which happened just before three o'clock, Henry Kuhl and Irvin Pospisil, both of Norfolk, were buried when the sides of a 10-foot deep trench caved in on them while they were working on the city sewer lines being installed across Wayne State property. The cave-in occurred

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The editorial department of a weekly newspaper is an important department. Normally it is one person's opinion of topics that concern most of the readers.

You may not agree with an editorial — but if you read the editorial and give serious thought to the subject discussed you have gained. You, as a reader, have given careful thought to an important problem and the writer is proud to have called your attention to an important subject that you may have overlooked.

Criticism of Press Unjustified

The nation's newspapers, radio and television have come under considerable criticism lately because they have been giving so much space, time and emphasis to such things as the hippie movement, the use and abuse of drugs and the moratorium on the war in Viet Nam.

Without a doubt, great attention has been paid by the nation's press to these and other things which are not always flattering to our country. Whether too much attention has been paid to them is, of course, a highly debatable question. But, whether we like it or not, it is the responsibility of the press to report them, to emphasize them, to bring the nation's attention to them. We do not feel that the people who have been making the decisions about what should and should not be reported — whether it be a series of sex murders in some large city or a riot during a large political gathering — have been blind to their very important duties. The world is not all sunshine and lollipops. Those people who would wish it so are great a danger to this country as any "radical" group now in existence. For if we heed the cries of those who want to keep the unpleasant from the pages of our newspapers or from the nightly news reports, we take a giant step toward restricting the freedom of the press. That it would be self-imposed would make it no less dangerous. And once we take that step we take a giant step toward relinquishing our other freedoms.

Those of us who would rather live in a never-never land of happiness and contentment would be much better off if we gave up reading newspapers and listening to news reports. Some more palatable reading or listening is certainly available. But those of us who want to see a reflection of the present time can only get it through responsible reporting of all the things that are going on in this nation and in the world. That reflection won't be handsome all the time; it may be downright ugly. But if we value our freedom, we had better not turn our eyes from that reflection. And if we value our freedom, we had better think long and hard before we ask that certain events not be reported by the press. — NLII.

What Is An American, Anyway

"What is an American, anyway?" He yells for the government to balance the budget and then takes the last dime he has to make the down payment on a house. He whips the enemy nations and then gives 'em the shirt off his back. He yells for speed laws that will stop fast driving and then won't buy a car if it can't make 100 miles an hour. An American gets scared to death if he votes a billion dollars for education, but he's cool as a cucumber when he finds out we're spending three billion dollars a year for smoking tobacco. He gripes about the high prices of things he has to buy, but gripes still more about the low prices he has to sell. He knows the line-up of every baseball team in the American and National Leagues — and he doesn't know half the words in "The Star-Spangled Banner."

An American will work hard on a farm so he can move into town where he can make more money so he can move back to the farm. When an American is in his office he talks about baseball, football or fishing, but when he is out at the games or on the creek bank, he talks about business. He is the only fellow in the world who will pay 50 cents to park his car, while he eats a 25-cent sandwich. An American likes to cuss his government, but gets fighting mad if a foreigner does it. We're the country that has more food to eat than any other country in the world and more diets to keep us from eating it. We're the most ambitious people on earth and we run from morning until night trying to keep our earning power up with our yearning power. We're supposed to be the most civilized nation on earth, but still can't deliver payrolls without an armored car. In America we have more experts on marriage than any other country in the world — and more divorcees. But we're still pretty nice folks. Calling a person 'A Real American' is the best compliment you can pay him. Most of the world is itching for what we have, but they'll never have it until they start scratching for it the way we do. (Author of the foregoing is unknown. We think it is worth sharing. — MMW.)

How Time Changes Things!

In a 60-page "Souvenir Edition for Wayne County" booklet printed in 1914, Aylett C. Gant wrote, "Wayne has an ideal location for an assured steady growth. It is forty-eight miles from St. Louis City on the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha railroad and 114 miles from Omaha. Its railroad connections are ideal. It is located in the center of the richest agricultural section in the United States. It has unexcelled educational advantages in the Wayne High School and the Nebraska State Normal School, the latter which offers free tuition. Wayne has three banks, two hotels, five grain elevators, one of the largest roller flour mills in the west, a brick yard, co-operative creamery, four automobile garages, an opera house, two motion picture shows, two oil depots, five real estate firms, two weekly newspapers, six churches, a public library, a livestock pavilion, a commercial club, municipal electric light plant and water works, sewerage system, telegraph, telephone and express company office." The writer noted that the population of Wayne at that time was "more than 3,000 people." Enrollment in the Normal School was "from 300 to 400 pupils." According to the booklet, Hoskins was served by the railroad, had a town marshal, high school, four churches, two grain elevators, a hotel, two lumber yards, various general businesses and a weekly paper edited by Harry Ruhlow. Wakefield was a city of "more than 1,000" population, had four grain elevators (one was doing a $30,000 a month business), three banks, a commercial club, five churches, library, high school, two lumber yards, and "Land about Wakefield is selling at from $100 to $150 an acre and is considered a good investment even at this price." Sholes, according to the booklet, was served by the railroad, had a bank, two grain elevators, a lumber yard, an auto garage, and several stores, plus a school. Winside had two banks 44 years ago, four grain elevators, a commercial club, opera house, hotel, two lumber yards, a stock yard, high school, three churches, good railroad service and a weekly paper edited by John McCoy. There were many other general business houses in the village. Altona, the 1914 booklet reported, had a bank, a general store, an auto agency, a garage, a blacksmith shop, a church and a school. Fifty-five years ago Carroll had a population of 500, good railroad service, four churches, a bank, three grain elevators, two lumber yards, a public library, high school, feed mill, general businesses, hotel and a weekly paper. Many changes have been made in the past 55 years throughout Wayne County! Has the county had its share of growth? Can most of Wayne's growth be accounted for by the enrollment at the college increasing from 400 pupils to 3,000 students? What will it be like in the year of 2024, just 55 years away? — MMW.

Nebraska

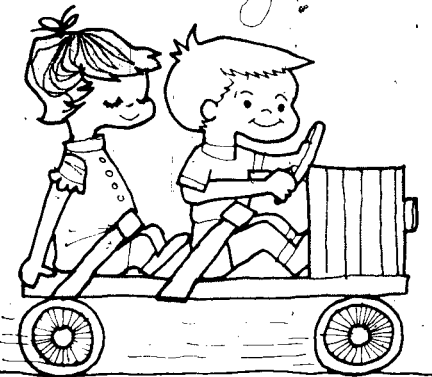

University Commencement, 1902 Colleges and universities have traditionally attempted to secure nationally recognized speakers for their commencement exercises. One who was in great demand was Booker T. Washington, prominent black leader, and head of the Tuskegee Institute in Tuskegee, Alabama. Born into slavery, Washington had worked his way through college, and later taught school for several years, prior to becoming head of the newly founded Tuskegee Industrial School in 1881. Beginning with forty students and one building, Washington was instrumental in the development of Tuskegee as a large and well respected institution of higher learning by the time of his death in 1915. On June 12, 1902, Booker T. Washington delivered the address at the University of Nebraska's 31st Annual Commencement. This speech, like many he gave, emphasized the value of education and the virtues of hard work as means for the advancement of the Black Race. During his own lifetime, Washington was sometimes criticized by those who felt that he failed to sufficiently emphasize political rights for Negroes. However, he was more concerned with making his race worthy of the franchise, rather than agitating for it in such a manner as to inflame public opinion.

The June 13, 1902 edition of the Nebraska State Journal, currently within the State Archives, Nebraska State Historical Society, reported on the commencement activities under the headlines, "LOGIC AND ORATORY, Famous Afro-American Tells How a Race May be Uplifted — Industry and Education." According to this account, portions of which follow, Washington's address was well received.

"The thirty-first Annual Commencement of the University of Nebraska yesterday morning was attended by an immense audience which overflowed the auditorium. . . . The speaker of the day, Booker T. Washington, was welcomed enthusiastically by the general audience and with University cheers by the students, and was heard with close attention and great delight throughout his address.

The order of exercises opened with "The Ambuscade" . . . played by the University Cadet Band. After prayer, conducted by the Rev. B. M. Long, Miss Florence Fiske sang two contra alto solos . . .

Mr. Washington then gave the commencement oration. His subject, "The Race Problem" was presented in a broad, far-reaching, and entirely unprejudiced spirit. He was interrupted by frequent and hearty applause, for even slightly unpalatable truths were kindly clothed and disguised in humor. The address was interspersed with applicable and most delightful Negro stories of which Mr. Washington seems to have an inexhaustible stock.

The solution of the race problem to Mr. Washington is industrial. He considers the Negro best fitted for agricultural work in the South and that his chance of advancement lies in learning, with modern methods of labor.

Mr. Washington has a strong and agreeable voice and is easily heard in most parts of the auditorium. He made a pronounced impression upon the audience and large numbers remained for a handshake after the program. . . .

4,000 Soaked Students Hear Roll of Dead Called

LINCOLN — The Nebraska Capitol was the scene of one of the major events of last week's Viet Nam moratorium.

About 4,000 rain-soaked students gathered on the statehouse steps and listened in silence as the names of the more than 300 Nebraskans who have died in the southeast Asian war were read.

Most of the young people who participated in the event were students at the University of Nebraska and Nebraska Wesleyan University.

The rain was falling in sheets as the students mobilized their march at Love Library on the NU campus. Wearing black armbands, they sloshed about 11 blocks to the statehouse.

Although some high school students wearing red-white-and-blue armbands staged a small counter demonstration, the march and the "peace vigil" were quiet and orderly.

Speeches and "teach-ins" were held on both campuses before and after the march. At Wesleyan, about 900 were on hand for a keynote address delivered by Robert Koehane, a professor from Swarthmore College.

Koehane said the U. S. Government has deceived the American people with false charges of aggression, deceptions about the Geneva accords and claims there were defensive alliances to protect South Viet Nam.

The other side was given at a symposium later at Wesleyan by Frank Landis, a Lincoln attorney and former state American Legion commander.

Landis said the United States effort in Viet Nam is designed to "stop the spread of communism. I am a member of the generation," he said, "which is alarmed as one by one a number of nations has slipped quietly under the cloak of communism. We have a moral commitment to be there.

"If the people of the world can't look at our country as a beacon and banner of freedom," Landis said, "we have failed." He proposed the war be settled "by force of arms" if negotiations fail. It could all be over within three weeks, he said, if the proper effort were made to earn an American victory. Governor Norbert T. Tie-

But I support President Nixon in his withdrawal of troops from Viet Nam."

On other statements on the subject, the governor said the participants in the moratorium "could be creating dissent, even of a peaceful nature, that could be interpreted by our enemy as criticism of the President and the American form of government."

Town Hall Series Starts The Blair town hall, at which Tiemann received a 20-second burst of applause for his comments about the moratorium, was the second in the new series.

The governor launched the series at Omaha where fewer than 100 persons showed up. At Omaha and the next night at Blair, Tiemann was asked about his political future.

"The decision has not yet been made," he told both audiences.

The decision may still be unmade, but some observers commented that Tiemann might be laying the groundwork for a reelection campaign in some of his remarks at the town hall meetings.

He stressed that the budget adopted by the 1969 Legislature was smaller than the budget he had recommended, implying that the senators, not the governor, were to blame for the new, higher tax rates.

Tiemann ducked a question about a constitutional amendment which will be on the 1970 general election ballot. The amendment would permit state tax funds to be used to support non-public schools, including parochial schools.

"There are three topics to avoid in politics," the governor said. "They are money, religion and children. This involves all three. You have the say in 1970. It would be pointless to take any position for or against."

The amendment was put on the ballot by the legislature. Throughout the 1969 session, Tiemann and the legislators had a running battle on a number of issues. But the governor told the Blair town hall audience "there is a lot of mutual respect" between him and the legislators.

However, Tiemann did renew his stand in favor of a partisan legislature. That issue isn't going to be on the 1970 ballot, the way it looks now. The Republican Party, which fell far short in a petition drive in 1968, isn't expected to renew its efforts next year.

Another legislative reform which Tiemann said he backed will be on the 1970 ballot, however. That's an amendment offered to the voters by the lawmakers to have the legislature meet annually in sessions limited in length.

Conference Draws 600 Some of the top officials from the U. S. State Department were in Lincoln last week to conduct a regional conference on foreign policy at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education. About 600 attended.

The main attraction was U. Alexis Johnson, undersecretary for political affairs.

The session was held the day before the Viet Nam moratorium and Johnson told a news conference his concern was whether Americans "are moving toward government by demonstration."

If that is true, he said, the side which states the better demonstration will prevail and that, he added, wouldn't be good.

WAYNE STATE'S LIBRARY has two new books of unusual nature, given by a market research firm. They are unusual because business firms pay $350 for the pair to help them plan advertising campaigns. Pictured with the books, entitled "Demographics" and "Goods, Services, Activities," are Dr. Orvid Owens (at left) dean of the school of behavioral and social sciences, and Yale Kessler, acquisitions librarian. Dr. Owens described the statistic loaded volumes as valuable for students preparing to enter business. And the book publishers, Daniel Starch and Staff, explain the gift this way: Business educators need the same marketing data that business executives need to make their daily decisions.

Good Morning Feeders & Hi Mom

By Eddie Collins

The Farm Image in the metropolitan east was long ago shattered by spectacular, juicy press releases. Mostly of excessive subsidy payments to farmers. Add then all the consumer allegations, plus the fabulous reported values of Connecticut and Hudson River real estate. Net result: the average New Yorker would as soon fight the corn belt farmer as the Viet Cong.

Why so? Simple. The Country Bumpkin image, daily displayed on TV, and the rumors of farm profiteering. There is a constant rumble in the city. High living costs. The city squeeze. An unescapable trap. People living a nightmare.

Six weeks ago Al Nelson and I walked New York City seeking a broad understanding of attitude toward beef prices. Not one person encountered understood the price squeeze. Not one person cared. Rent was three-fold the Midwest, services double. But only beef costs had caught the brunt of the housewife's ire. The picketing. The constant bad publicity. Together we traveled the market areas. Meat there was reasonable. But in the chain stores, someone had forgotten to tell them of the $70 per carcass drop.

On the East Side, two blocks from the river front, we visited with a conglomeration of recess mothers. The streets were blocked off. The kids ran wild. Screaming and jostling while ten to twelve mothers jabbered and gabbed unconcerned.

These ladies were wives of stevedores. Every color, every nationality. More combinations than Mulligan stew. A fun group. Al and I approached, dressed in western attire.

"Ladies, what do you think of the price of meat?" In chorus, "Too high!" Then came a dozen versions of farmer's profiteering. Of the filthy, rich farmer, subsidized by government. Of their own husbands, often unemployed. Meat was now only an occasional experience. Not steak, not roast, but all meat was beyond their mental means... yet no base wage was less than $5 and usually from $6.50 to $7 an hour. But... beer and cigs were 40c.

These vociferous ladies had recently viewed a Nebraska ranch fashion show on the 'Cet and David TV program. A wealthy affair, of the registered 'horsey' set, covered nationally. This substantiated their ideas of rural America.

"I suppose you flew here in your Lear jet?" (I had made the trip by credit card.)

"I'll bet those boots cost $200." ($30 plus tax).

"Our taxes support you farmers."

"All the farm women we saw buy $1,000 dresses, go to Florida in the winter, have a half dozen Mexican maids and pay more for a horse than my husband makes in a year."

These things we heard. The cartoon this week is our answer. These are the farm Moms we know - the best doggone hired man in the west today.

MARKET FORECASTS: Hogs: a short-lived decline. No panic button needed. Expect a solid resurgence that will carry through the winter. Cattle: It took 20 days of bearish beef pressure with daily talk of a dressed beef collapse. But, we lost only 50¢. Some day, and soon, we'll get two consecutive runs and that'll trigger an Apollo 11 market. Eastern Dressed Market will return to the 45-45.50 level. Hefifers to 43.00. Terminal yards are currently boating the country bids a full dollar dressed.

WANTED: 4-H'ers to take the crops projects - corn, grain sorghum, soybeans and weeds; material available now. Excellent opportunity for learning about varieties, insects, fertilizers and weeds. Chance to exhibit at County Fair and State Fair and enter judging and identification contests.

Northeast Extension Notes

by Mary A. Schluckebier

Make Halloween Safe
Halloween season is here again, but don't let an exciting Halloween turn into a disaster for your child.

A saw-toothed jack-o'-lantern grinning into the dark is a Halloween tradition. Unfortunately, that tradition can be a fire hazard.

Don't use a real lighted candle with plastic or cardboard pumpkins; substitute a small flash-light fastened so the hot bulb is well away from the pumpkin side. In a real pumpkin, fasten candles securely in an upright position.

Of course, never leave a lighted jack-o'-lantern unattended. And, don't let your trick-or-treater carry a lighted candle in any holder as part of their costume.

What's a Halloween costume without a mask? Yet, that mask can be dangerous if it blocks your child's vision. Use your imagination to create a safer disguise. With water-soluble poster paint, your goblin, ghost or pirate will look genuinely ferocious - safely. And it washes off easily.

Costumes can be hazardous, too. Many costumes bought at the store are not fireproof; most are extremely flimsy. Shorten costumes that trail on the ground. It's too easy to trip and fall while dashing back and forth in the dark.

Ghosts are safer than witches - at least on dark streets; motorists can see light costumes much more clearly. If your trick-or-treater insists on being Batman or a witch, sew strips of light-reflecting tape on the costume. A responsible adult should accompany any pre-schoolers.

Halloween hazards can be internal, too. Children who eat a six month's supply of candy in one night will probably be miserable the next day. Put some of the wrapped treats away and dole them out for several weeks. They may even last until Christmas.

Think about the goodies you're handing out; avoid suckers with hard sticks - a fall could spell real trouble. Individually wrapped homemade treats are most popular. If you can take the time and trouble. Or, why not give fruit, cookies, popcorn balls or small packages of raisins this year?

'Farm Safety Is Extra Important Now'

Can you afford to be laid up by an accident during harvest? Can you afford to have a machine in the repair shop during harvest due to an accident? What will happen to your crop if you are not able to harvest it properly?

These questions are asked by Wayne Fisher, area agricultural engineer at the Northeast Station. Fisher reminds operators that they are pushing harder, day light hours are less and weather isn't cooperating. These and other factors add up to more farm machinery accidents in the fall than any other time of the year.

Most steps to prevent accidents are just good common sense. Stop the machine completely to clear it, put blocks under headers or other hydraulically held parts before working under them, keep shields in repair and in place, keep a workable fire extinguisher handy. These and many other safety steps make sense and few would say they are a waste of time, but every day someone takes a chance and gets injured because he feels he doesn't have time to be careful. If you were able to save 30 minutes per day by being careless during harvest it would take you 20 years to accumulate enough time so you could sit out one harvest. If that accident did occur you might still have medical bills to pay, have a chance of losing the crop because you couldn't work or possibly end up with a ruined piece of machinery.

Fisher said that statistics indicate that the changing accident trends are from field to road. Accidents in the field used to predominate the farm picture, but at the present time the largest number of farm accidents occur on the road.

The National Safety Council at Washington, D. C., exploration of means to expand opportunities for participation in the 4-H program in Nebraska and election of the Association's executive council.

has shown that the use of the "Slow Moving Vehicle" sign has helped to reduce the number of accidents on the road. This, along with cabs and roll bars, has helped to reduce the number of serious injuries in tractor upsets. Even so, with the declining number of farm operators, road travel of farm tractors and harvesting machines increases and the danger are more common and pronounced.

The combine overturn in Dixon County last week points up the fact that machines other than tractors can be involved in road accidents, notes Fisher. While combine movement on roadways is not as frequent as the movement of tractors, it does present a greater danger to the operator as well as to other traffic. Fisher said that most operators can recognize that combines and other self-propelled harvesting machinery are large and awkward to handle. These large machines warrant extra safety precautions.

A lot of the safety measures can be carried out before the machine is moved. Make sure that the "SMV" sign is in place. An extra SMV sign on the back of the combine platform, on the side toward the center of the road as well as one on the extreme rear, will be worth the effort. A red flag on a pole may be needed where hills are peaked and roads are narrow, says Fisher.

Another important step for preparing any machine for the road is to make the machine as narrow as possible. Fold in wings, spouts, augers, shift tongues or even remove parts if necessary. This is not only for convenience but is an important safety step.

Make sure your brakes are in good shape and balanced so you can stop without the machine dragging to one side. Braking systems on harvesting machines are designed for field use and not for making crash stops on roadways so don't depend on your brakes to get you out of a jam.

Before you start out make sure you can see - have the glass on the cab clean, adjust the lights for road position if you are traveling at night.

Better still, stay off the road at night with combines and wide machines if at all possible. If there is no other choice but to travel at night be sure you know the road. Have a vehicle ahead and behind with flashing lights. Definitely do not travel high traffic roads at night, warns Fisher.

Whether it is dark or daylight proceed with caution when traveling on the road. Be safety conscious. If you have a cab, have a seat belt and fasten it. The habit of fastening a seat belt is a good one. It protects you as well as reminding you that you are in a dangerous position. This helps you to think "safety".

With today's power machinery, safety pays both from the standpoint of peace of mind for you and your family as well as from the economic standpoint. You, the operator, are essential to the farming operation. You or your machine can not afford to be laid up during the harvest season because you foolishly tried to beat the clock. Time spent being careful is a good investment, Fisher concludes.

Farm Competition Growing
Some reasons why farming must remain competitive are cited in an article published recently by the Nebraska Department of Economic Development.

"Agricultural materials have been losing ground to synthetic materials in industrial, feed, fiber and food markets," it notes. It goes on:

"In years the technological pace has quickened in the food industry with the development of synthetic food flavoring and coloring agents, the ability to synthesize most of the important amino acid groups and other technological breakthroughs. These advances permit food processors to produce synthetic foods approaching natural foods in quality and cost. Similar advancements have taken place in industrial, feed and fiber markets. Synthetic animal feeds and leather substitutes are examples of recent technical advances. Such developments have accentuated the need for an overall assessment of the future for agricultural materials."

Many of the synthetic materials are derived from non-agricultural sources. Others are synthetics in the sense that they displace traditional products even though they may be partly derived from ag sources themselves.

Techniques have been developed to process vegetable proteins which can be used then to dilute hamburger, frankfurters and other food products which use finely-ground meat. In another form, these proteins are used to create complete substitutes for ham, bacon, seafoods, roast beef, etc. A recent estimate is that over 30 million pounds of soy protein are used annually in processed meat products alone. While no estimates are available on the amount of vegetable protein used as complete substitutes for meat, it would appear that large amounts might appear in this category soon. Prices are more than competitive with natural meat products. Many factors such as controllability of nutritional content, no trim and shrinkage losses, etc., make the complete substitutes attractive to manufacturers and retailers.

4-H Developers Meet October 25

The 11th annual meeting of the Nebraska Association for 4-H Development will be held in Lincoln on Oct. 25, according to W. M. Antes, Association secretary. The session will get underway at the Lincoln Hotel at 9:30 a.m.

All people interested in furthering the 4-H program in Nebraska are invited to attend, Antes commented.

The agenda will include the annual financial report, discussion of proposals to establish district 4-H camps near Sidney and near the Harlan County Reservoir at Alma, discussion of Nebraska's efforts in a drive to expand the National 4-H Center

The BILL NORVELL Agency Breaks 60-Year Record

EARN'S PRESIDENT'S TROPHY FOR FOURTH STRAIGHT YEAR

When Bill Norvell accepted the President's Trophy from M. Rey Dodson at the Denver Hilton Hotel last month, it marked the first time in the 60-year history of The Ohio National Life Insurance Company that any agency has ever won this coveted honor for four consecutive years. The President's Trophy is Ohio National's highest sales honor for an agency. It is awarded for excellence of service to current policyholders and for adding new ones during a special month set aside each year to honor our Company President.

Earning this significant honor four years in a row obviously is no quirk of fate or chance. Instead, it underscores both the stability of the Norvell organization and the quality and competence of the individual staff members. Nine of the Norvell career agents (including Bill himself) earned "Wall of Fame" honors for individual performance during the President's month: Robert Dittman, Rick McGeorge, Daniel Morgan, Richard Rimel, Paul Steffen, Jimmie Thompson, Charles Girdner, Cameron Sutton, and Don Poelstra.

Bill Norvell personally placed among the top five of all company representatives in total sales volume, and Richard Rimel was second in number of new policies.

Those who insist on the highest degree of professional competence in matters concerning life and health insurance, for family and business, can look with confidence to the men from Norvell. They're winners!

Warning: Fall Most Deadly Driving Time

The Wayne (Nebr.) Herald, Thursday, October 23, 1969

Falling leaves and smoke scented air, reminders of autumn, should also be a warning to motorists that this is the most deadly driving season.

Some 30 per cent of all traffic fatalities occur during the months of October, November and December and the largest percentage of pedestrian, railroad crossing and blind intersection accidents occur during this time, according to Tom Ryan, chief of the State Bureau of Accident Records.

Drivers must stay alert to the fact that autumn weather does affect road conditions unfavorably, Ryan said.

Frosted, steamy windows, conditions of autumn and early winter driving, reduce the seeing ability of motorists. Cars are also made sound-proof by closed windows and heater noise. The additional danger of autumn frost on the roads reducing stopping ability has been further compounded by early ice and snow in many parts of the state this year, Ryan said.

In making a conscious effort to prevent accidents, drivers must also keep an eye out for pedestrians. School is open and parents should take special care to instruct their children how to cross streets and ride bicycles safely, Ryan said.

"Ghost" in white or costumes which will reflect light should be planned for Halloween safety. There is always the danger that children may be playing in piles of fallen leaves by curbs and driveways, Ryan continued.

Harvest time in Nebraska means an increase of slow moving vehicles. Drivers must be on the alert for the slower travel of hunters who may also leave cars parked along side local roads. Tall crops and weeds around intersections and railroad crossings are a most serious problem in fall, Ryan said.

Over 50 per cent of all railroad train-car collisions occurred during the last four months of 1968, Ryan said. Persons should take an active interest in their community to eliminate these hazards by seeking the aid of local and railroad officials in securing adequate crossing signals and keeping the area mowed.

An "Acre for a Life" program, organized by the Nebraska Women for Highway Safety, is being promoted in many counties by asking farmers to keep as much as an acre mowed back from the road on dangerous corners and otherwise blind intersections.

Most of the responsibility of preventing accidents must rest with the driver alone, Ryan said. Some 90 per cent of all fatal accidents are still caused by driver misbehavior.

With football season here and the holidays approaching, drivers should know that nearly half of all fatal accidents last year involved drinking, Ryan said.

The families of some 180 persons had little to celebrate after the loss of a loved one who in many cases was the innocent victim of a driver who had been drinking.

Nebraska's traffic death record has improved greatly this year, Ryan said, and the credit must be given to defensive drivers who are aware of the hazards of the road and are courteous to other drivers.

Safety bills enacted by the Legislature, too, have helped by taking unqualified drivers off the roads and unsafe vehicles out of circulation.

The Department of Roads has worked to advance highway safety through spot improvement programs, mile posting state roads for better identification of accident locations and hazards, widening of narrow bridges, elimination of highway curbs, installation of protective guard rails, using reflectorized paint for signs and striping and making plans to increase the miles of quality road.

Businesses, local organizations and the news media have done much to help promote the "Mission 100" safety program, Ryan said.
