Chest Drive Needs Nudge To Reach Quota for 1969

Wayne's Community Chest thermometer only showed about 55 per cent of the $10,000 goal had been reached at midweek, according to Jerry Malcom, chest treasurer.

Malcom noted that $5,500 has been contributed thus far in the 1969 Chest campaign. The goal is $10,000 to give seven agencies the amounts allocated by Chest directors.

Sixty-three per cent of the $10,000 goal would go to organizations serving youth in the city. Those who have youngsters in a Red Cross swimming class during the summer or who are active in either Boy or Girl Scout work, know the importance of reacting to the goal.

The $10,000 goal represented what the directors considered a minimum and reasonable sum to raise for the seven agencies participating.

After 14 years of exceeding Chest goals, Wayne has failed to meet goals for the past two years. Originally set up to eliminate a lot of different fund drives, the Community Chest invited the needs of various agencies and made it convenient for residents to contribute to the supported agencies with only one gift.

Anyone who desires to make a contribution to the Community Chest and has not been contacted is urged to contact either Jim Marsh and Mrs. Jim Hummel or mail the contribution to the Wayne Community Chest.

Clark said that the American Legion calls upon all citizens and business firms in the city to observe the day by flying the American flag. This will reaffirm our national unity and will show our support of the national government in her defense of freedom, Clark said.

"This will also be a perfect way to show recognition and appreciation of our newest generation of veterans, those willing to serve the national purpose is the finest tradition of our country," noted Clark.

Veterans' Day next Tuesday will mark the conclusion of the official observance of the American Legion Golden Anniversary.

Women Fly Here To Attend Meet At Local Field

Several Nebraska chapter members of the Ninety-Nines Inc., a national organization of women pilots, landed their aircraft at the Wayne airport Saturday morning for their November meeting. It was the first time for the organization to use the local airport as a meeting site, according to Mrs. Don Johnson, who assists her husband in managing the Wayne airfield.

Incident weather prohibited the Ninety-Nines from having their scheduled meeting at Wayne several weeks ago and a low cloud cover was thought to have kept attendance down Saturday. But the nine ladies who did arrive proceeded to have a business meeting in the Pilot's Lounge.

Evelyn Sedivy of Lincoln, chairman of the Nebraska chapter, was in charge. Topics discussed concerned painting runway markers and a membership drive. Following the business meeting the group had a noon luncheon in a local cafe.

Those attending the meeting Saturday were Sue Allen and Jeanne Given of Omaha; Mary Conley of Nebraska City; Vera Bartunek, Judy Kauffman, Jan Hines, Mimi Haworth, Evelyn

Her phone number, 256-3106, will be listed with the Laurel area news, which will generally appear in the Monday edition of the paper.

Mrs. Smith, in addition to her new job as correspondent, keeps busy with 11 hours of classes at Wayne State College, where she began this summer to pursue a degree in elementary education.

She has a son, Rick, 16, at home, and a daughter, Mrs. Gary Newton, who lives in rural Laurel. Her mother, Mrs. Earl Hmel, is also of Laurel.

Mrs. Smith has spent her entire life in the Laurel area, farming about 10 years with her husband, and more recently, operating with him a dry goods store in town. Mr. Smith died in March.

Wayne-Pierce Peek

"They're just plain bits. That's the usual response you get when you ask a football fan about the Blue Devils."

A Blue Devil fan will get a chance to see just how big those gridders are when they invade Wayne Friday night. The outcome of that game will determine which team wins West Husker Conference championship honors this year.

For a complete story of those Blue Devils, turn to the sports section of this issue. The story includes comments from coaches who have faced both squads, probable starting lineups and pictures of the Blue Devils and the Wayne defensive unit.

WHS Honor Society Has 'Fright' Night

The National Honor Society of the Wakefield High School sponsored a "Maroon and White Fright" Halloween party Friday night following the home football game with Scribner. Festivities were held in the multipurpose room in the elementary school.

A Witch and Wizard from the sophomore class were chosen. Barbara Munter was named Witch and Kevin Peters was named Wizard. Donna Johnson and Kim Kline, Witch and Wizard of 1968, crowned the new rulers.

Decorations carried out the Zodiac signs while lunch consisted of crackers served in an old black cast iron kettle and orange punch with "creepy crawlers" frozen in the ice.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Sundell were sponsors assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Clifton and Supt. Murl Beller.

Post Offices Closing

All post offices in the Wayne area will be closed all day Tuesday. In observance of Veterans' Day, according to Wayne Postmaster Don Wightman.

Wightman said there will be no city or rural delivery services and no window service that day. Dispatch and collection will be made on a Sunday schedule.

Wightman urges all patrons to prepare Christmas mailings for overseas and get them in the mail as soon as possible to be sure of delivery for the men in the armed forces by Christmas.

Students May Get Half-Day Vacation

Students in grades five through twelve will get a half day vacation next week if Wayne wins the West Husker Conference crown by knocking off Pierce in the home game Friday night.

Superintendent Francis Haun said the students would be dismissed at 1 p.m. Tuesday if Wayne gets into the play-off for the Husker Conference Championship. Wayne would be the site of that play-off if the Blue Devils can knock off Pierce. If Pierce wins the Friday game, the conference play-off would be played on the Pierce field. Pender will represent the Fast Husker Conference in that championship title.

Classes will be held all day Tuesday if Wayne is not in the play-off. Haun noted.

Wakefield Class To Give Comedy

Wakefield High School juniors will raise the curtain Nov. 25 at 8 p.m. on their class play, "The Boarding House Beach." The three-act comedy will be staged in the elementary school auditorium.

For many years Wilbur Maxwell, played by Kim Kline, has wanted a bicycle. His enterprising young mind finally comes up with a brilliant idea on how to get the money for his bicycle. Mom, played by Anne Leonard, and Pop, played by Dave Gardner, and all the others are caught up in the action of "The Boarding House Beach."

Cast members are as follows with the character they play in parentheses: Doug Samuelson (Mr. Potter); Herb Brownell (Hubby); Lee Miner (Connolly); Rita Bartholomew (Lucy); Kim Kline (Wilbur); Dave Gardner (Mr. Maxwell); Anne Leonard (Mrs. Maxwell); Alan Paul (Limpy); Keith Boeckenhauer (Hercules); Marjorie Sorenson (Bernadine); Debbe Heckens (Aunt Mary); Rhonda Anderson (Betty Lou); Mary Kaufman (Connie); Connie Twite (Nora); Larry Schantell (Olerman); and Janelle Schroeder (Mrs. Mott).

Crop Loans Ready when Grain Stored

Commodity Credit Corporation loans are available on price-supported crops as soon as the grain is in storage, according to Raymond Butts, manager of the local ASCS office in Wayne.

Corn, grain sorghum and barley farm-stored and warehouse loans are available for producers that participated in the feed grain program. Soybean and other grain loans are available to all producers, Butts noted.

Applications for the loan should be made at the Wayne county ASCS office. The grain will be measured and loans made on from 85 to 90 per cent of the measured quality.

The loan rates: Corn, $1.03 bu.; Grain Sorghum, $1.45 cwt.; Soybeans, $2.16 bu.; Oats, $0.62 bu.; Barley, $0.83 bu.; Rye, $1.00 bu., and wheat, $1.27 bu.

Loans may be repaid whenever the producer wishes. The interest rates is 30¢ per $100 per month.

The purpose of the price support loan program is to allow producers to retain ownership while holding the grain off the market and allowing them to take advantage of higher market price periods. If market prices remain below the loan rate the grain may be delivered to CCC to satisfy the loan.

'List' Deadline Nears

Relatives and friends of men and women in the armed forces have just one more week to submit addresses to The Wayne Herald so they can be included in this year's Christmas List. Deadline for names and addresses is next Thursday, Nov. 13.

The list, which will be published Nov. 20, will serve as a handy reference for anybody who wants to send cards or gifts to friends or relatives serving in some branch of the service this holiday season.

If the list continues to grow it has already reached nearly 50—it will certainly be larger than last year's.

If you haven't done it already, just jot down the name and address of that person you know in the service and sent it to The Wayne Herald. Make sure the spelling and address is correct.

The girls made $20 selling "spook insurance" to businesses and people in Wayne. The girls promised to clean up any damage done by pranksters on Halloween night for the price of a "policy". One of the "policy holders" had the girls clean the windows on his store Saturday morning.

In the other project, the annual UNICEF fund-drive, the girls collected a total of $157.35. Last year they collected $259.99.

Middle School has unusual class - - - Pioneering With 'Gifted' Students

Pioneering has returned to northeast Nebraska and this time it is in a classroom at Wayne's Middle School where, in cooperation with Educational Service Unit I, a pilot program for the "gifted" student is underway, according to Harry Mills of Wakefield, ESU I administrator.

Being an experimental class for students who rank in the upper 5% in nationally normed intelligence tests and the first of its kind within the boundaries of ESU I, the program is being observed with great interest by both local and area educators.

N. Loren Park, middle school principal explains that even as some students are especially talented in athletic ability and receive recognition for such talent, likewise about five per cent of any school population is "gifted" with a high level of intelligence. The student "gifted" in this way should be taught to use it for others as well as himself, the principal noted.

Instructing the 26 gifted pupils in Wayne's Middle School is Jan Woodward, who spends a block of three hours weekly with them as they meet in small groups. Participating in the unique program are youths selected through a strenuous testing program carried out last spring coordinated by ESU I staff members.

Four boys and five girls in the seventh grade, eight boys and two girls in the sixth grade; two boys and five girls in the eighth grade carry their regular course of study at the Middle

Knolls Zoning Request is Rejected by City Planners

After listening to arguments both for and against a request to rezone the proposed Knolls subdivision at the west edge of the city from an agricultural district to a single and multiple family dwelling district, Wayne planning commission members voted Monday night to recommend to the city council to deny the request of the subdivider, and recommended that the Knolls subdivision zoning of A-1 be changed to an R-1 residential district. Fifteen interested citizens appeared before the nine-member planning commission at the public hearing above the fire hall Monday night to voice pros and cons concerning the rezoning proposal.

Keith Mosley, commission chairman, stated the purpose of the hearing was to consider the subdividers request that the Knolls area, presently zoned for agricultural purposes, be rezoned so single and multiple family dwellings might be built there.

A petition signed by 20 persons, some of whom were present at the hearing, representing 26 lots adjoining the new subdivision on the east was presented to the planning members. The petition's statements were explained by Irvin C. Brandt.

Property owners signing the petition pointed out in the petition that they considered the inclusion of R-2 multiple dwelling zoning in the subdivision to be inconsistent with reference to the existing R-2 areas which bound the business zoned areas in Wayne and inconsistent with the zoning of recent developments located to the north and west of the areas zoned for business.

The petitioners also noted that multiple housing zoning would affect the existing residential district to the east and to the north and that the proposed R-2 zoning did not consider possible residential development to the west of the Knolls. They said the proposal was unsupported by any recent study to show the need for additional multiple dwelling

Club Told of Wills

Wayne Kiwanians held their regular weekly noon luncheon in the Woman's Club rooms Monday and heard one of the club's members explain the importance of having a will.

He went on to point out numerous advantages of specific types of legal wills noting that wills vary in relationship to particular circumstances of individuals, and that a properly written will may prove to be very advantageous for survivors.

Tall baskets and altar roses of yellow gladiol and charrusee carnations appointed the altar of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Winside, for the Oct. 25 wedding of Jodene Prawitz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Prawitz, Hoskins, and Lee Pfeiffer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Pfeiffer, Winside; Pastor H. M. Hilbert officiated at the 5 p.m. double ring ceremony.

Chaplain Rodney Hilbert, Omaha, sang "Song of Ruth" and "Wedding Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. Willard Prawitz, Pilger. Candles were lighted by Joe Miller, Pilger, and Terry Pfeiffer, Wayne.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride appeared in a floor length gown of antique white peau de soie, styled with leg of mutton sleeves, gathered to lace applied cuffs, lace overlay on the mandarin collar and bodice, and skirt which swept into a wide cotillon train. Her bouffant veil of silk illusion was caught to an ivory wataou bow accented with Venetian lace petals and she carried a cascade of Wobey Abyss roses and staphenotis with removable cattleva orchid corsage.

Mrs. Keith Sanmann, York, was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Mrs. James Moonly, Omaha, and Kathy Pfeiffer, sister of the bridegroom, from Winside. Junior bridesmaids were Kimberly Nelson, Freehold, N.J., and Sharon Miller, Pilger. The bride's attendants wore empire styled floor length gowns in moss and avocado green, each styled with a velvet bodice, silk organza sleeves, caught by velvet cuffs and fully gathered skirt of organza over taffeta. They wore wateau bow headpieces and carried semi cascades of champagne carnations with camellia foliage.

Barb Janke, Winside, who was flower girl, wore a short dress styled identically to the gowns of the other attendants.

sandra breikreutz, society editor

Attending the bridegroom were his brother, Larry Pfeiffer of Winside, who served as best man; Roger Hill, Crete, and Gene Langenberg, Hoskins, groomsmen, and Monte and Mitchell Pfeiffer, Winside, junior groomsmen. Ushers were Jim Prawitz, and Randy Janke, Pilger, and Randall Bargstadt, Winside. Kurt Janke, Winside, was ringbearer.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Prawitz chose a dress of champagne silk worsted. Mrs. Pfeiffer wore a moss green knit, and both had corsages of Wobey Abyss roses.

A buffet supper was held at Winside auditorium that evening for 235 guests. Hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Willers, Wayne, and Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Peterson, Winside. Guests were registered by Mrs. Clifford Koch, Pilger, and gifts were arranged by Mrs. Dale Habrock, Omaha, and Mrs. Duane Meyer, Lincoln.

Wayne, Pierce Squads Now Awaiting West Husker Conference Showdown

By Norvin Hansen

"Wayne's not a fancy club. They aren't going to try to fool you; they just run straight at you and overpower you."

That's how the coach at Stanton, Steve Liakos, sums up the 1969 Wayne High Blue Devils. He was one of several coaches interviewed by The Wayne Herald about the coming game.

That "fancy" squad will have to play its heart out Friday night against one of the toughest teams in northeast Nebraska—the Pierce Bluejays—in the regular season finale for both squads. The winner of that game earns the right to represent the West Husker Conference in the play-off against Pender, East Husker champion, next week.

If Wayne pulls off that victory—the Blue Devils are now tied with Pierce for top spot in the division with six victories and no defeats—the play-off will be played on the Wayne State field Tuesday afternoon at 1:30. But Wayne must win the game outright—no ties—in order to get a shot at the Husker crown. If Wayne only ties, Pierce will represent the division against Pender because Wayne has done so more recently. The Blue Devils took part in the Husker play-off in 1967 when they lost to West Point, 19-0. Pierce has never been in the play-off.

That Friday night showdown has every chance of turning into a repeat of the Wayne-Laurel thriller of a week earlier. The Blue Devils, aided by the long bomb from quarterback Randy Helgren, scratched out a 6-0 victory over the Bears to keep them in the running for divisional honors. Pierce rolled over the luckless Plainview team, 41-0, the same night.

But just what will the outcome of the Wayne-Pierce game hinge on? For that answer we went to the coaches who suffered defeats by both powerhouses.

Not too surprisingly for any fan who has followed the Wayne squad this year, those coaches give the Blue Devils high marks for their strong defense, a defense which they rank almost equal to that of Pierce. "Wayne's defense was great against us," said Marv Vrooman of Neligh. "Wayne is just fundamentally a good team on offense and defense and I don't know how I would go about trying to play them if I had another chance." But Vrooman, a 1963 Wayne State grad, doesn't slight the Pierce defense: "They have a great line with strong tackling and strong pursuit; they have few weak areas defensively."

Those coaches, when pressed for a reply, tended to rank Wayne's offense just a small notch higher than that of Pierce. Like the Stanton coach said, the Blue Devils aren't fancy. That offense is strong because it has good linemen opening up holes for the running backs, Liakos noted. And that strong running game, coupled with a good passing game, tends to overpower their opponents, said Liakos. So the West Husker coaches thought the game outcome might hinge on whether Wayne's offense is able to score against Pierce's defense. And if that is the case, the game could turn into another low-scoring battle similar to the Wayne-Laurel or the Wayne-West Point Catholic contests.

Some of the comments gleaned from the coaches: "Pierce is just plain big. They are tough to run against and they put a good rush on the quarterback club with just punting as their one possible weakness," said Laurel's Vince Brainer. "The first team to score could have the psychological advantage, but it still will be a low-scoring battle," Stanton's Liakos.

"If Wayne can handle the Pierce defense, they will probably win the game. Pierce's passing defense—quite a bit on—could be something Wayne could get to Friday night. Passing may determine the winner," Bloomfield's Terry Lippold.

"Pierce's defense is extremely tough. The only way I could think of beating them would be to throw the long bomb time after time because they can stop almost any running play you throw at them," Neligh's Vrooman.

"Lucky breaks might determine the winner of the game more so than anything else because both teams are so equal. There probably won't be more than three touchdowns scored in the contest," Plainview's Dale Lortz. Just how equal are the two teams? Take points scored as an example: Wayne has compiled 268 points in eight games this season; Pierce has come up with 294. Both teams have yielded fewer than 50 points to their eight opponents, Wayne giving up 46 and Pierce giving up 41. And both teams knocked off the third member of this year's powerhouse trio in the West Husker Conference, Laurel, by the same score, 6-0. And the sportswriters for the Omaha World-Herald won't go out on a limb and pick the stronger team. They ranked both teams at 10th in the state among class B teams just this week, the first time Wayne has moved into that select group.

But the winner of Friday's game will probably earn sole possession of that 10th billing—possibly higher—and will represent the West Husker Conference in the all-or-nothing battle against Pender next week. What's Pender got? The West Husker coaches avoided the question except to say that Pender has one of the speediest backfields in memory. Coach Allen Hansen at Wayne High had a similar comment: "I have reports on the Pender squad but I'm not even going to look at them until after Friday's game. We have to win that game or the season is over."

Wayne Possible Site For Husker Play-Off

Wayne will be the site of the Husker Conference play-off if the Blue Devils can come off a victory against Pierce Friday night. That's the word released from the Wayne High School.

The conference play-off, should Wayne win the West division Friday, would be played on the Wayne State field on Veterans Day next week at 1:30 in the afternoon, according to Superintendent Maun. The team the Blue Devils would meet would be Pender, champion already in the East Husker division.

Both Wayne and Pierce are sporting identical records: 8-0 overall, 6-0 in conference action. Pender is 7-1 and 6-1.

Wayne State Wildcats Savoring Sweet Victory

There's time these days for Wayne State's football team to savor a 49-0 triumph over Southwest Minnesota State last Saturday at Marshall, Minn. The Wildcats have no game this week, but the Southwest performance was a good model to inspire preparation for the season finale.

That will be against Lea College at Albert Lea, Minn., Saturday, Nov. 15. Game time: 7:30 p.m.

While coaches don't know a lot about Lea—a first-time opponent for Wayne—they and the team intend to keep the momentum that has raised the Wildcat record from an initial 0-4 to the present 3-4-1.

If they play as they did in dominating Southwest, Coach Del Stoltenberg sees optimism ahead. "We thought we could beat Southwest," he reflected, "but we were surprised at the margin. The boys did practically everything right. The pass defense was the best yet."

Defending against the aerial has been a weak spot in Wayne defensive machinery, but the Cats held Southwest to 39 yards on four completions in 24 tries. Meanwhile, the rushing defense performed as usual; limiting the foe to 38 yards.

The offense churned out 434 yards on the ground and did not have to rely much on passing (55 yards on three completions, with only ten passes).

Freshman Jim Leach opened the scoring parade with a first-quarter rush of six yards to the goal line. He started at wingback in place of another freshman, Mike Wise, who broke a collarbone in practice last week. After that TD, Freshman Dan Ernst of Aurora, kicked the first of seven extra points and ran his consecutive string to 13. Jerry Luedtke put another first-quarter touchdown on the board with a two-yard run, and he made his second zone appearance on another two-yarder in the third period. Tight end Jon Roberts teamed with quarterback Marty Going on a 35-yard scoring pass in the second quarter. Sam Singleton took the second-half kickoff 93 yards for a touchdown—longest Wayne play of the year.

Fourth-quarter scoring came on Greg Walker's pass reception from Going for seven yards this season—then Doug Radtke's 13-yard run. Radtke, a Pender junior, sparks the defensive backfield, most of the time, but occasionally gets a crack at rushing. And he would do more ball carrying, Stoltenberg says, "except we need him most of the time on defense."

The 49-point burst lifted Wayne's average to 30 in the last five games. After the first two games produced zeroes and the third only seven points.

"Experience and pride have made the difference," Stoltenberg believes. Several times recently he has spoken publicly about the hustle of both offensive and defensive units. There's brisk rivalry, approaching friendly scorn, between the two units, he says.

Singleton had another stellar rushing game against Southwest with 189 yards, raising his season to 705 yards—accomplished in five games. He played only defense in the other three. His six yards-per-carry is impressive. Luedtke added 96 yards rushing for a season 544, and Leach's 53 lifted him to 229. Walker leads pass receptions with 21 for 314 yards.

State Magazine Will Get Larger

With the desire to develop a magazine of greater family appeal and the opportunity to present more faces of Nebraska, the Game and Parks Commission's NEBRASKA magazine recently received the green light for eight additional pages. NEBRASKA moves to its new 68-page format in February 1970. Plans call for a revitalized "Where To Go" section featuring expansion of present camping and boating subjects along with the addition of spectator sports and Nebraska personalities. Introduction of a family to tenting is one of the extras in the February issue. Famed Nebraska world traveler Danny Liska of Nobrara, the Omaha Knights hockey team, are also scheduled for the expanded portion of the February NEBRASKA.

Subscription rates for NEBRASKA remain the same at $3 for one year and $5 for two years. The newsstand sale price also remains at 50 cents per copy.

Hunters, Sportsmen Not Hindered by Law

The Gun Control Act of 1968 was passed by Congress to help federal, state and local law enforcement officials in their fight against crime and violence. James Harmon, IRS Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms chief special investigator for Nebraska, Iowa and Missouri, said last week, adding that it was in no way intended to hinder the activities of hunters and sportsmen.

As an example, Harmon said hunters and sportsmen can purchase ammunition in any state, and can carry their own firearms across a state line as long as they are not convicted felons, under indictment for a felony, fugitives from justice, unlawful users of drugs or mental incompetents.

Harmon noted that hunters, sportsmen, competitive shooters or anyone legally using a gun in a state other than his home state can acquire another firearm if his rifle or shotgun is lost, stolen or becomes inoperative.

He said the law requires only that the buyer in these circum-

Archers Retire Bows

Archery-deer hunters retired from the field in southeast Nebraska Saturday, allowing firearm hunters there a go at bucks in the Blue and Nemaha units through this coming Sunday. Archers in the rest of the state must lay down their bows for the firearm season, this coming Saturday through Nov. 16.

So far this year, 376 bowmen have bagged deer. Latest archers to score include these northeast Nebraskans: Willis Hollman of Wisner, Lloyd Roth of West Point, Raymond Anderson of Pierce, and Lynn Bowers, Richard Lovig and Robert Beldin, all of Norfolk.

The red mark of the redear sunfish is nature's way of preventing him from interbreeding with other sunfish. If the red spot is removed, other species of sunfish accept them as spawning partners more readily, and hybridization may result.

'Mousetrap' Is Baited To Catch An Audience

"The Mousetrap" crew of Wayne High Thespians are sawing, nailing, pasting, coloring, painting, gluing and doing everything else necessary in the way of construction and rehearsals in an effort to produce the best "Mousetrap" in town Nov. 14 and 15 in the WHS lecture hall.

The two-act mystery, directed by Sherlan Frey, is even unusual in the number of cast members. There are only eight characters to bring the Thespian drama across the footlights. Written by Agatha Christie, the play is paced to tell a dual story of intrigue to trap the audience. Cast members are Chris Peterson, Ron Seymour, Jon Meryman, Jana Reeg, Mike Baler, Elaine Lundstrom, Tom Karel and Dennis Ellermeyer.

Zoning

zoning in Wayne and that it was inconsiderate of the fact that the property owners living to the east and to the north of the proposed R-2 area recently moved to their present locations for the purpose of enjoying the provisions of residential zoning and with the idea that R-1 zoning would be maintained there as Wayne grows.

The subdivider's legal advisor countered, saying that if the R-2 zoning was inconsistent then there is inconsistent zoning in every city in the state. He said that zoning systems set up five years ago cannot be expected to always remain unchanged and questioned as to whether or not the city is bound by what every other developer has done previously. The advisor argued that the subdivider was only proposing a multiple dwelling zoning for 13 out of 55 lots. The majority, or 42 lots, would be rezoned as residential, he pointed out. He also said the same people who were property owners on the east edge of the Knolls moved there knowing that zoning is subject to change.

Continuing, the counselor stated that Wayne needs some lower priced housing costing in the range of $12,500 and that setting 13 lots for low-income housing wouldn't hurt anyone. Protective covenants would prohibit the construction, he said, of such buildings as nursing homes, clinics, fraternities, sororities, group housing and mortuaries in the 13 lots if they were to be zoned R-2.

Opponents and proponents of the zoning proposal were each allowed a three-minute period to sum up their arguments at the close of the hearing.

With six "yes" votes and three abstaining, the commission voted to deny the subdivider's request and voted unanimously to recommend to the city council that the Knolls addition zoning of A-1 be rezoned to R-1 in its entirety.

'Gifted'

He said screening and testing of fifth grade children in the Wayne school is in process at this time. The students will be brought into the gifted program at the beginning of a new unit of study.

Francis Haun, superintendent of Wayne schools; Principal Loren Park; Jan Woodward, instructor, and Larry Clay, ESU I testing consultant, are coordinating the gifted program at Wayne designed to help the student achieve the following objectives:

- Become intellectually curious; search for meanings and new relationships.
- Improve ability to do independent study and carry on research.

- Learn to apply knowledge and principles to the solution of life problems.
- Gain skill in self-evaluation and to realize responsibilities as well as the power of knowledge.
- Extend tendency toward creativity.
- Perfect skills in communication.
- Develop a breadth of vision to see possibilities of the future, realities of the present, heritage of the past; all this in the continuing stream of man's ideas, questions and concerns.

So it is that Educational Service Unit 1 and Wayne Middle School personnel are cooperatively blazing a new trail in the field of educating the gifted middle school student in north-east Nebraska.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The editorial department of a weekly newspaper is an important department. Normally it is the person's opinion of topics that concern most of the readers. It is the duty of an editorial writer to search all available facts before he sits down to write. From this basis the writer should be able to give a clear picture of important topics.

You may not agree with an editorial — but if you read the editorial and give serious thought to the subject discussed you have gained. You, as a reader, have given careful thought to an important problem and the writer is proud to have called your attention to an important subject that you may have overlooked.

On the Hot Seat Again

Members of the city council last week certainly left themselves open for criticism when they approved an across-the-board pay raise of 12 per cent for all city employees who are not appointed by the council. We can imagine they were cornered on the street, given dirty looks while on coffee break and referred to unpleasantly in some conversations. But, sad to say, that is what they are going to have to put up with every time they make an unpopular but necessary decision. It goes with the job.

For the most part, we feel that the pay raise was justified. A city, just like any other business, cannot expect to hire qualified people unless it is willing to pay decent wages. The pay raise, in our opinion, brings the salaries the city pays its employees more in line with what other cities are paying their employees. Of course, there are probably a few city employees who are not deserving of the pay raise. Almost any business is saddled with those, but, as one city councilman noted, most city employees are doing their jobs and should therefore be paid a decent wage.

However, the pay hike does leave the council open to one criticism which we feel is justified. Early this year the council approved pay raises for city employees which averaged out at just over six per cent. Although hindsight is more common than foresight, we still think the council should have spent more time in finding out what the city employees wanted at that time rather than voting a raise then which later turns out to be not enough to satisfy the employees. That probably would have avoided some of the criticism the council is now subject to. — NLI.

A Little Point and Gumption

Several times we have mentioned how inadequate the directional signals at Seventh and Main are. The past couple weeks of dark, rainy weather have certainly emphasized their inadequacy. We assume we speak for the parents of the many children who daily use that intersection when we say it is time the city made that intersection safer by installing overhead signs to warn motorists about the stop lights there and to direct them to the correct lane for turning at or traveling through the intersection.

We must admit that the city councilmen have taken a small step toward getting overhead signs for that intersection — they have contacted the state of Nebraska to see if the Department of Roads will supply the signs. As of last week, about two weeks after the inquiry was made, nothing had been heard from the state. Apparently, the council plans on waiting until the state gets around to considering the request before doing anything more about the problem.

In due time the state will probably get around to considering the city's request for signs at the intersection. Then, after considerable more paper work and wasted time, we will probably be given the needed signs. And if we wait long enough the state will probably even tell us just where and how to install them.

How much simpler it would be if the city just decided to tackle the job all by itself for once. We have city employees who can use a paint brush, let's put them to work and get the signs made. Other city employees could certainly install them without too much cost to the taxpayers. That, we feel, would be local action by local people for local problems. And that is something which too often is sorely needed in this time of governmental "handouts" at every level. — NLI.

A Misinformed Person

Most communities have a few individuals who fail to keep themselves informed or who are misinformed and consequently create a considerable amount of ill will when they speak. Ironically, it so often happens that such a person feels he or she must be a spokesman without any authorization from his fellowmen to represent them.

Not long ago the telephone rang in a neighboring town. Answering was a man who planned on opening a business in Wayne. An unidentified male voice in Wayne told the prospective Wayne businessman, "We don't need any outsiders to run a Wayne business!" and then hung up. You can imagine how the out-of-town gentleman felt about his "welcome."

Wayne is a growing community. Wayne businessmen have worked individually and collectively in every conceivable way to bring new business into town. Many efforts have been made to create a continually healthy business atmosphere. A lot of Wayne businessmen were once "outsiders," but moved into the community and are making a great contribution toward its growth. A sizable number of employees in Wayne are "outsiders" who drive into town from neighboring communities. Wayne has always needed and appreciated "outsiders" and still does, in fact, the majority of people here were at one time "outsiders."

The crackpot that made the phone call has failed to keep himself informed, or has been misinformed as to Wayne's needs. New business, new residents, new students, new laborers are all "welcome to Wayne."

What a pity that prospective Wayne residents or businessmen might have to experience the harsh tongue of an individual who is so "brave" as to hide behind the telephonic cloak of anonymity.

We hope all new residents, employees and business people moving to Wayne will escape receiving crank calls, but will instead meet the "bell it like it is" group of Waynites who are glad to put out the welcome mat. If you have recently moved into Wayne or are contemplating doing so, we hope you'll feel right at home in a friendly community... which has at least one crackpot! You know the old saying, "It takes all kinds" — MMW.

Out of Old

"The State and the Stadium" It is a common experience of Nebraskans and other Westerners periodically to be placed under the cultural microscope of the Eastern social commentator. Although the foreigner (or should he merely be called an "outsider?") may not always adjust the lens to the proper turn, his report is often interesting and, at times, exasperatingly correct. Who can resist the temptation to read his own dossier? Then why shouldn't Nebraskans be anxious to look over the shoulder of the New York Journalist who published a description of the systematic raising of voices in the Cornhusker stadium's "paean of praise, 'There is no place like Nebraska,'" every Autumn Saturday. "The pride of Nebraska," the writer continues, "is her gangling university on the flats of Lincoln, and the chief business of the university is the manufacture of championship football teams." Dismissing its eastern foes, Pitt, Army or Syracuse, "out in the real America, the Cornhuskers are kings" — and gone are the weekends on which they do not proclaim "their royalty over the prostrate form of another" Plains university. "To the outlander beyond the Missouri or west of Scottsbluff, it may seem impious to emphasize the university stadium at the expense of a George Norris or a Willa Cather." But, the writer suggests, "only thus can Ogallala and Wahoo and Broken Bow be made comprehensible, for the city of Lincoln and its university are practically the only forces that hold this hodgepodge state together." Our journalist sees the stadium as even more vital to the state than its ten million dollar golden-dome capitol "because it takes the ranch-hand from Cherry County, the sugar-beet laborer from the western panhandle, and the packing-house boy from South Omaha, and for three months each fall makes them a crusading host for the defense of Nebraska honor." In the off-season the coaching staff offers seminars to local Rotaries and Chambers of Commerce on "the gospel of higher football... and every Nebraskan is pledged, by the head of the emperor, to assist in swelling the enrollment of the stadium courses at the university. Football has given this school a hold over its entire constituency such as no other state university approaches, with the possible exception of Wisconsin." A peculiar Cornhusker system of logic enables the gridiron addict to equate his university with Harvard, Oxford, the Sorbonne and Cambridge and Stanford added for good measure." Tellingly, the resume continues that the Nebraskan's "pride, however, does not touch his purse. He continues to complain like a stuck pig at the burden of the university appropriation, and to applaud the legislature for heroically keeping the salary scale of teachers below that of almost any other recognized university in the country."

Ever wonder why your kid doesn't take you seriously when you lecture him about drugs?

Surely we can fault the interloper on many of his details and discourage what appears to be a sneer in some of his phrases.

Supreme Court Will Decide Tiemann's Veto Authority

LINCOLN — The State of Nebraska is suing the State of Nebraska. It all stems from those problems the 1959 Legislature had getting its budget bills passed.

The State Supreme Court last week agreed to take the case as an original action — meaning tests in the lower courts could be bypassed.

The office of Atty. Gen. Clarence Meyer is bringing the lawsuit on instructions of the legislature, which decided the budget problems must be resolved in the courtroom.

After several weeks of study, Meyer and his staff decided the best way to present the issues was to bring a suit against Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann and a series of other officers in the executive branch. They will hire their own attorney.

In addition to the governor, the suit was filed against State Auditor Ray C. Johnson, State Treasurer Wayne R. Swanson, Administrative Service Director Robert D. McManus and the State Board of Equalization.

Equalization board members are Tiemann, Johnson, Swanson, Secretary of State Frank Marsh and Tax Commissioner Murrell B. McNeil.

The case is designed to test Tiemann's authority in vetoing $5 million in capital construction projects which the legislature, acting on advice from Meyer, contends were immune from a veto.

In addition, the seven high court justices are being asked to determine if the governor had the right to order state agencies to disregard annual salary limits the lawmakers wrote into the appropriation bills.

In arguing that the case deserved to be given priority consideration by the supreme court, Deputy Atty. Gen. Gerald Vitamus said in the application:

"The actions by the governor and the legislators have caused confusion among the various officers of the state having duties involving the validity of legislative appropriations and it is essential that these matters be clarified in order that the affairs of the state may be efficiently and economically administered."

Four Vetoes Questioned Four Tiemann line-item vetoes are being put under judicial scrutiny. The governor nixed $1 million

Even in the cold light of Sunday morning, as the objective (football-loving) observer sits amid the sports pages, he might consider cancelling his subscription to that slick-paper, muck-racking journal. If it weren't too late, that is. For the object of his wrath is not this week's magazine, but a November 1932 issue of Vanity Fair, a journal no longer published, realizing that, with satisfaction he would undoubtedly appreciate the journal's demise. The article was republished in Roundup: A Nebraska Reader, found in the library of the Nebraska State Historical Society.

As A Matter of Fact

The legal petition says that project received the 33-vote minimum and should have been counted. The case also involves the limits on salaries the legislature wrote into its operations budget bills. The senators said state agencies could spend only certain amounts of money each year of the biennium for personal services. Tiemann objected loudly to this restriction. He said the constitution requires the legislature to make biennial appropriations and it is exceeding its authority by setting annual limitations. Furthermore, Tiemann says, state officers who are restricted so tightly by the legislature are denied constitutionally provided administrative flexibility. He has issued a memo to all departments telling the directors to ignore the salary restrictions. This memo is a key to the court case. The attorney general's petition says the limitations are valid and the governor was wrong in telling the departments to disregard them. "EZ - BREATHE"

PORTABLE ELECTRONIC AIR PURIFIER from Mtron

A compact, light-weight air purifier specially designed for Hay Fever Allergy, Asthma and Emphysema sufferers.

Respiratory sufferers report getting dramatic relief with the EZ-BREATHE in their rooms. Stuffy noses clear up. That tightness of the chest, that "can't get enough air" feeling goes away. Coughing attacks are fewer and less severe. Many sufferers can once again breathe deeply and freely and enjoy a wonderful uninterrupted night's sleep.

HERE'S WHY
the EZ-Breathe air purifier
is so effective:

Medical researchers have discovered that millions of tiny particles floating in the air inside the home - smoke, dust, household sprays, cooking grease droplets - are the cause of a lot of the suffering asthma and emphysema patients have to go through, just as pollen was found to be the cause of hay fever attacks. These particles are so small that ordinary, fibreglass filters in furnaces and air conditioning systems cannot trap them efficiently. But the EZ-BREATHE totally removes all particles from the air, even bacteria and viruses, through a process called "Electrostatic Precipitation".

Good Morning Feeders & Hi Mom

By Eddie Collins

Import meat is the Black Plague to cattleman. Be he rancher or feeder. Partially controlled by Chancellor Clifford, imports stand ready to once again destroy any form of aggressiveness in the beef trade through the end of 1969.

For '69 the foreign nations can ship imports of 1,035 million pounds of boned meat plus a ten per cent allowance which, if exceeded, theoretically would trigger new quota regulations.

Last year Cousin Orval Freeman called the shots. Rather than calling for new quota regulations in the low grade meat, tonnage approached the limits, the U. S. and foreign representatives agreed on voluntary cutbacks... but who cut back? Voluntary cutbacks is a great idea for Australia, for New Zealand, for the Dominican Republic, for the Argentine. But not for Mom and Dad cattleman.

With so many loopholes that a Philadelphia lawyer would be recommended for an Oscar, the voluntary system permitted tons of excess meat. The 1969 quota was 990 million pounds but the final figures reached 1,001 million. And this expanding figure has grown from 614 million pounds in 1965.

I doubt if either Hardin or Freeman or any other future Secretary of Agriculture controls imports. The regulars, the Pentagon-type boys of the USDA, run the show. Odd thing, beginning in 1965, the quota meat total has always exceeded the allowable... without penalty.

But what about the stockmen? Cows from the west, from the dairies, from the high plains, from the corn belt take a ten to 30 per cent price tumble each fall. A good calf market last fall. Remember? The worn out mummies were bringing only 11 to 13 cents a pound under the pressure of fulfilling import quotas. And this year cows have dropped $50 a head since August and will digress more.

Import meat is the delight of metropolitan politicians. Who owns the majority of Australian cattle? Oh, did we forget to mention? Mostly Texans. Also, TV and movie stars, oilmen, financiers, you name them.

The supposed reason for imports is for the balance of payments. Tremendous idea... except the money goes to tax-dodging U. S. investors who leave the money overseas. Texas cows sent to Australia in the mid-50's were totally financed and transported by the USDA. These expanded herds, raised on $2 land with $25 cowboys today overwhelm our domestic meat.

Is import meat needed? If you answer for the USDA, yes. Through imports, pressure is exerted on domestic prices. When April, May and June cattle rose, the USDA reacted, opened the valve and feeders August and September meat imports flowed in. Problem was... boats are not airplanes. End result: fat cattle sit $60 to $70 below May.

The remaining allowable quota for '69 is 232 million pounds. Apollo XI splashed down inches from the Enterprise. But if the same "birds" were programmed the Cattle on Feed Reports and the import quotas were with NASA, Armstrong and crew would have landed in Moscow.

Solution: Limit each quarter to a maximum of 252 million pounds. Upon a surplus of any quarter, 50 per cent of the total proceeds would go to promote domestic quality beef. Also, put the supervisory capacity under cattleman, not the USDA Civil Service.

CATTLE FORECAST: No immediate relieve in sight.

What Can You Do?

What can you do to protect yourself and your family from nutritional quackery? Don't buy a product or alter your eating habits on impulse or from fear. Take enough time to ask yourself the following questions:

Does the promoter battle normal foods? This is the first sign of nutritional quackery.

Does the product, or the person, promise or imply a quick correction for a condition you think you may have?

Is the product sold in homes by people who tell you they are interested only in helping suffering humanity? These "doorbell doctors" who agree with any ailment you may say you have are not doctors, but only salesmen.

Top Ten 4-H Projects

From beef to clothing to foods and Junior Leader—the list of the "top ten Nebraska 4-H projects for the past year" reveals a great variety of interests.

Projects play an important part in achieving the over-all purpose of 4-H—the development of girls and boys into positive and useful citizens.

Nebraska 4-H'ers completed more than 87,000 projects during the past year. Most popular of the more than 90 projects offered were Market Beef with 6,493; Let's Cook, 5,292; Let's Sew, 4,846; Light Horse, 4,421; School Clothes, 4,080; You Learn to Bake, 3,850; Let's Groom Your Room, 3,150; Junior Leader, 3,075; Skirt and Blouse, 2,670; Work and Play, 2,650.

Volunteer adult leaders, numbering almost 7,500 during the past year, serve as leaders of club and project groups, assisting Extension personnel with the youth program.

Projects provide opportunities for practical educational experiences in real life situations. As eight to 19-year-old youngsters explore their chosen project, they learn by doing as well as the "why" of certain standards and methods.

Hog? Improved

Genetic improvement in pork production has been dramatic in recent years. Not only is pork a truly lean meat today, carcass suitability, or percentage of more desirable cuts, is rising rapidly. The average market hog has about 15 pounds more usable lean meat than ten years ago. Another way to describe the rate of improvement: At an area carcass show in March, 1969, the 1968 winner would have been in the thirteenth place. Average swine carcasses have moved from about 33 per cent ham and loin to 39 per cent

1. Stay out of debt. If you are in debt, get out as soon as you can. In reality, credit is a tool that can be used to make money. It is dangerous, as most good tools are. Axes and saws are dangerous. Learn to use them carefully to get work done. But if you want to fall, don't use credit to earn money.

2. Don't take chances. Suppose you can spend $10 per acre for more fertilizer, with a 50-50 chance of getting back $30 or more in increased yield. But if there is one chance in ten that you won't get your $10, back, don't take that chance.

3. Be independent. Don't get yourself tied up in rental agreements, partnerships, production and marketing contracts, and things like that. These are ways you can get the use of land, labor, capital—things you need to farm with. If you don't use them, you won't have enough money to do things you want to do.

4. Stand pat. Wait until nearly every farmer you know is using the new variety, method or idea. By then, most of the profit in it will have gone to them.

5. Work hard. If you do enough hard physical work, you won't have the time or energy to figure out how to make your farming operations pay.

Someone said, "But I was taught as a child that these five rules were virtues." Think them over. How do they apply to farming now as you know it?

AFS Student, 'Sister' Really Move at WSC

"Once they get the rhythm, they really go."
 So said Mrs. Nancy Lefstad, while watching her students practice new dance techniques in a WSC class room.
 Meanwhile, Teresita (Tessie) Urian and Nona Peterson were dancing away. During the class period they had demonstrated several traditional dances from Tessie's native land, the Philippines.
 Tessie is an American Field Service exchange student, staying with Nona and the rest of the Walter Peterson family. She arrived in Wayne last August after graduating from high school at her home town, Meyersvauyan, in the province of Bulacan.
 Mrs. Lefstad, assistant professor of health and physical education, had asked Tessie to demonstrate the Bamboo Dance to her folk and recreational dance class. After the girls' performances, with Nona emceeing the male dance steps, class members tried their agility with the routines.
 For the dance, two lengthy bamboo poles were used for each group. One person on each end clicks the poles together once, and then twice on a wooden slab, maintaining the three-beat rhythm.
 The basic dance consists of two quick steps between the poles, starting on alternate right and left sides of the poles. The dancers try to have his feet again outside the bamboo shoots to avoid having his ankles hit when the poles are clicked together.
 After her performance, Tessie explained that the basic purpose of the dance was entertainment, with traditional costumes worn by the dancers at special events. She said the Filipinos enjoy doing "normal dancing" like in the United States, too.
