Winside School Board Adopts Salary Schedule

Adopts Salar The Winside board of educa-tion adopted a salary schedule for 1970-71 at their regular meet-ing earlier this month. It provides salary increases for both teach-ers and administrators. Firemen[®] Asking Your Help

The volunteer firemen in Wayne are asking for some help from the people they serve. In our opinion, the request is a simple one and those of us who benefit from the free protection these people give us should be more than willing to try to do everything we can to help. They are asking for people who turn in a fire alarm to make sure they are present near the scene of the fire when the fire trucks arrive.

pecially important, the firemen em-cases where the fire is producing smoke and is therefore difficult for-the firemen to spot. A recent fire in a trailer home was one of those fires. Another one was a smoldering fire in a parked car. Neither pro-duced enough smoke for the firemen to be able to spot quickly the source of the fire.

The firemen ask that the next tim fire and turn in an alarm, make one Small, Yes, But . .

Small, Yes, Well, that little difficulty over who was re-sponsible for furnishing a crossing guard for school students using the intersection at Seventh and Sherman has finally been solved. Method used: compromise. The city and the school decided that each should bear some of the burden of paying an adult, to be present during the times of heavy student traffic to and from school. That burden amounts to about 55 per day for wages - 31.60 an hour for just over three hours each school day. Prior to that compromise, neither the city - which had been paying the crossing guards up to the furst of the year - nor the school would admit it was-

But, as time passed and additional parents made their feelings felt, the compromise finally came their feelings feit, the compromise finally came about. A new dress code for the students at Madison High School has been adopted by the Madison board of education, according to a story in last The town of Pender rated an honorable men-tion in the 1969 National Clean-the Contest in which the town competed with others in the under 25,000 population category. A new oress code for the students at Marison board of education, according to a story in last week's issue of The Madison Star-Mall. Coming up with the dress code, which was accepted except for the part concerning the length of skirts, was the student council. The school board, in order to get a better idea of what the council's recommendations about the skirts would mean, watched as several girls on the council had their skirt-lengths measured during the meeting. That apparently opened the eyes of the board mem-bers, for they voted to allow the girls to wear skirts up to three inches above the koze cap. The students had proposed letting girls tailer than 67 inches wear skirts five inches above the imee and those shorter than 67 inches only four inches above

The meat market in Randolph, Ditman's Market, will close tis doors soon because it cannot comply with those regulations. In business for about 60 years, the meat market sold meat products over the counter and operated the locker plant along with the custom butchering and processing of meat. The two are involved in a law suit over issuing $1,645,000 bonds for a new school. The school board would like to test the constitutionality of the state law which requires a 55 per cent majority for school bonds. The taxpayers league has ob-tained a temporary injunction in district court restraining any action. Members of the league suggested that the arnount of money and have that determine the size and quality of the building. Your Place in the Stars *

by Tom McDermott To a confused teenager, astrology can be both boon and bane. I have received many letters from teenagers across the country. A few, it appears, tried to gain my approval by actually writing their letters at "fortunate" times and mailling them, perhaps weeks later, during another such period. Unfortunately, these people are too willing to believe, too guiltble. I have said before that astrologers themselves are less willing to believe in some of the prin-ciples of astrology than those who are the followers. I've never known of one astrologer who wears his "lucky astrology" gems and lets himself be so completely ruled by his stars.

Astrology is more boon than bane to the logical teen-ager, or for that matter to anyone. Vocational guidance is often the role played by astrology. Indeed, it "informed" me of a number of career possibilities, one of which I now plart to follow.

a number of career possibilities, one of which I now plan to follow. It was one year ago that "Your Place in the Stars" made its debut. Those other seven local borsy-had to prove themselves in the wrestle-backs Saturday if they wanted to join Wischhof for the trip to Lincoln. Those seven won their first two matches, then suffered defeats in the third round. But since the top three finishers in the district meets make it to state, those local grappiers had that one more shot at 115, Bruce Ring at 123, Jim Veyer at 130, Mike Beiermann at 137, Rick Ginn at 155, Doug Victory No. 19 went into the Wayne State basketball record book Friday night at the expense of visiting Doane College, 77-53. book Priday night at the expense of visiting Doane College, 77-53. The final margin pretty well tells the second-half story of Wayne domination. The first half, was something else. Doane's Th-gers, obviously expecting to re-peat their January victory over Wayne at Crete, scored first and made a tussle of it through 10 changes of lead 'intil the scoreboard read 21-21 with four minutes left in the half. Both teams showed tension through that time, Shooting ac-curacy was low, the number of turnovers high. Coach Dave Gunther solved the problem by sending-in fresh reserves, and it was subforward Mick Anderson who put the Wild-cats ahead to stay, 23-21, with a a spectacular lay-up.
