Sydow Says He'll Run for Council Post

Alfred Sydow will also be campaigning for votes for the city council seat from the First Ward in Wayne, making that a three-way race for incumbent Wilmer Marra's post. Also seeking that seat are Jim Thomas and Harvey Brasch.

Sydow, who filed late last week, was inadvertently omitted from the story in the last issue of the paper listing the people who had filed shortly before Friday's deadline.

Seventy-four years old, Sydow farmed southeast of Wayne from 1923 until he retired and moved to Wayne in 1946. He now lives at 307 1/2 W. Fourth St. He and his wife have two children—Logene of Rock Island, Ill., and Murlie of Grand Island.

Sydow is a veteran of World War I, served as the chairman of the Wayne County veterans organization for six years and was chairman of servicemen We Appreciate You for three years. A member of the Wayne Masonic Lodge, he served from 1932 to 1946 as chairman of the Wayne County Extension Service. He also spent from 1932 to 1938 on the county ACP committee.

A past member of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce, Sydow belongs to the Redeemer Lutheran Church in Wayne and has served in the church as a lay chairman for six years.

His candidacy brings to a total of 16 the number of people who are seeking the mayor and city council positions which will be vacant this spring. Another five people are seeking the two positions which will be up for grabs on the school board of the Wayne-Carroll school system.

A complete listing of the people seeking offices on the school board, city council and county level can be found on page seven of this issue of The Wayne Herald. Also included on that page are pictures of Sydow and three other candidates who filed too late for their pictures to be included with last Monday's story about the latest filings. The other pictures are of Keith Moseley and Darrel Ueberth, candidates for city council, and Wilbur Giese, candidate for school board.

Mau Farm Named Best

The farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Mau northwest of Wayne has been named the recipient of this year's conservation award in Wayne County. The Mau farm is located 10 miles northwest of Wayne.

The Maus, who received a large aerial picture of their farm as part of the award, purchased their farm in 1926. Since then they have terraced and contour farmed the land. They follow a conservation crop rotation plan and the waterways on the farm are shaped and seeded to grass. A windbreak planting protects the farm. A total of five acres of waterways have been shaped and seeded on the Mau farm and 18,000 feet of terraces have been finished.

Selection of the farm exhibiting outstanding conservation practices is done annually by the supervisors of the Wayne County Soil and Water Conservation District. Those supervisors are Werner Mann of Winside, Leo Hansen and Fritz Temme, both of Wayne, Stanley Morris of Carroll and Glenn Olson of Wakefield.

Making the award possible each year are the banks in Wayne, Winside and Hoskins in order to honor a farm family which has applied a good soil and water conservation program on their farm.

TALK ABOUT A DOG'S LIFE: Let me tell you, those humans in there don't understand a dog just might want to hear that piano concert too. Anybody with my cosmopolitan ancestry — I'm a bit of Scotch, Irish, English, French, German, and maybe some Norwegian — and I ought to appreciate a concert by that Mogens Dalsgaard (he's from Denmark) as well as anybody. Hey, someone in there, open up the door.

Dalsgaard Displays Piano Artistry

By James Day, Associate Music Professor at Wayne State
Wayne State's visiting Danish pianist Mogens Dalsgaard captivated a large audience Sunday afternoon in Ramsey Theatre in the Val Peterson Fine Arts Center.

Opus 54, Fleet fingers, subtle tonal shadings and phrasings which stressed Grieg's typical short-breathed statements emphasized Dalsgaard's affinity for Grieg's music.
One of the Debussy selections was the delightful "Golliwog's Cake Walk" from the "Children's Corner Suite" which offered Dalsgaard one of many opportunities to add helpful comments on works performed.
After the Granados Spanish dance "Playera" in which the Danish pianist showed a flare for good rhythmic control, a short Shostakovich work was offered.
The audience especially enjoyed the Liszt and Chopin selections. Dalsgaard performed the famous "In Sospiro" (A Sigh) of Liszt and three often-played Chopin pieces, the "Minute Waltz," "Military Polonaise" and the grand example of all polonaises, Opus 53 in Ab Major.
While the program mainly consisted of well-known short piano compositions of popular appeal, the Danish pianist's secure interpretations provided an afternoon of piano artistry of high level and pure enjoyment.

Wayne audiences should look forward to hearing more from this talented pianist on Wednesday when he will solo with the Sioux City Symphony in Ramsey Theatre, performing the Grieg A Minor piano concerto.
Another additional solo concert featuring Dalsgaard will open Wayne State's "Spotlight: Scandinavia" conference on April 5.

Spring Concert Set for College Sunday Afternoon

Wayne State's concert band and symphonic wind ensemble will present their spring concert Sunday afternoon at three o'clock in Ramsey Theater, playing a repertoire that includes music by Bach, Rimsky-Korsakov and modern composers.

The symphonic wind ensemble, a select group from the full band, will open with "The Vanished Army," a Kenneth Alford march; the majestic "Professional of the Nobles" by Rimsky-Korsakov, and "Tulsa — a Symphonic Portrait in Oil" by Don Gillis, all directed by Dr. Raymond Kellton.

The full band then will take the stage, beginning — as band concerts should — with a march, "Parade March No. 1," by one of America's foremost band composers, Edwin Franko Goldman. "Overture for Winds" by Charles Carter will follow.

The band's assistant conductor, Dr. Lee Mendyk, will conduct three selections, "Jesus, Joy of Man's Desiring," a perennial favorite from Bach literature; "Sinfonia Nobilissima" by Robert Jager, and "Shield of Freedom," a march by Mark Azzolina.

Returning to the podium, Dr. Kellton will direct "Caribbean Fantasy" by John Morrissey and the finale, "Gagakur Festival Galop" by Yosaku Suma.

The public is invited, and there will be no admission charge.

2 Memorials Started To Find Cancer Cure

Irma Foulks, chairman of the Dixon County unit of the American Cancer Society, has announced that memorials have been received for two Dixon County residents.

Friends and relatives of Mrs. Betty Paul, recently of Concord, and Floyd Park, Wakefield, have donated money to the Dixon County unit of the American Cancer Society in their memory.

"This money will be used wisely for research and education," Mrs. Foulks stated. "We need to find the causes and cure for cancer." We also need to be educated so we know the danger signals and know when to get our check-ups. We are looking forward to the day when cancer will be as rare as smallpox, polio or the other dreaded diseases of a few years ago.

If anyone wishes to add to these memorials, the money can be sent to Mrs. Foulks at Ponca. She will acknowledge your gift, and send a card to the relatives.

Commissioners Pass New Tax Resolution

Wayne County commissioners, meeting at the courthouse Tuesday for one of two regularly scheduled monthly business meetings, passed a resolution which resolves that all real estate taxes that are delinquent for two years or more shall be collected by the foreclosure of liens.

In other action the commissioners also convened as a board of equalization and approved about 50 additional homestead exemptions, rejecting one, according to Norris Weible, county clerk.

Three Wakefield Men Seek Place On School Board

Three Wakefield residents have reportedly filed as candidates for one of the two vacancies on the Wakefield school board. School board members whose terms expire are Elmer Carlson and Dr. T. E. Peterson.

Filing as candidates for the board positions are Elmer Carlson and Leroy Blevins, both farmers, and Sid Preston, who is employed by People's Natural Gas Company at Wakefield.

Mayor Ed Schnasse will seek another term in office as incumbent candidate. Eugene Erb, a councilman from the second ward and Phil Rouse, councilman from the first ward, are both incumbent candidates seeking another term. Schnasse, Erb and Rouse have no candidates opposing them in the campaign.

Bryan Johnson has been police magistrate, but reportedly has not filed for another term in office. There were no other filings for the office of magistrate, so according to law, Johnson's term will be extended. If he no longer cares to serve in the office and resigns, then the town council is obliged to appoint someone to the office.

Commission Revises Action Grant List

Members of the Region 11 and 25 Joint Planning Commission for Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice decided earlier this month during a meeting in Norfolk to revise the list of action grants to be made in the attempt to control crime, according to Norris Weible, secretary.

The Wakefield police department was given number one priority in their purchasing of communications equipment with a total cost of $2,165. Federal help on the project would amount to $1,263.

Past, present and future all look rosy to Wayne State Wrestling Coach Don Pate. He's still feeling cheerful in the present about the recent past, namely his team's eighth place finish in the NATA National Tournament.

One major reason for cheer: the championship by freshman Ken Monroe at 167 pounds. Another reason: the fourth place by sophomore Mark Brannum, who wrestled his fourth and fifth matches with a painful back muscle injury suffered in the third. The injury finally forced Brannum to default the third-place match at 134 pounds to Landy Walker of the University of Nebraska at Omaha, team champion.

Pate has regarded both Monroe and Brannum as potential national winners. He noted that the 167-pound class had more entries than any other, including two national champions from 1969, and Monroe defeated foes who had defeated them. And it was the 134-pound titlist, Larry Rippey of Lock Haven, who administered Brannum's third-match loss—and the injury, which led to a pin at 8:38. Brannum never had been pinned in a two-year record of 20-4 and 24-4-1.

Additional reasons for Pate's optimism: All but one of his squad are freshmen or sophomores. Six of the seven who wrestled in the national last weekend at Superior, Wis., won first-round matches.

Said Pate: "Some of the wrestlers and coaches we knew, wrestlers we had gone against, were amazed at the way our kids performed, the way they were prepared for this meet."

Monroe was a two-time Illinois state champion at East Leyden High School. Formerly of Rosemont, he now lives in Arlington Heights. He mounted the college heights with a 4-0 decision over Santo Nicocia of Clarion State, Pa., in the champion round. His season: 24-4.

Brannum, of Park Forest, also was an Illinois state champion and runner-up.

Another Wayne freshman, Lee Hall of Fremont, had a chance for sixth-place or higher in the wrestlebacks, but was forced to default because of injury in his second match. He finished the season at 9-11, but gained Pate's praise for late-season improvement.

Sophomore John Kleitnick of Park Forest, Ill., won two, lost two matches in the national—the last loss on what Pate called a strange decision by the referee. Kleitnick was another strong doer in late season with a 16-5-1 mark.

Sophomore Harvey Rosenbaum of Ybion, earned another coaching plaudit with his first-round victory by pin, his sixth pin in seven victories. The second round gave Rosenbaum, a Nebraska high school champion, his fifth loss. Pate terms his a "pleasant surprise" this year.

Junior John Yoder of Woolstock, Iowa, won his first match, lost his second in a 3-1 overtime grind which derailed his bid to finish again among the national placers. He was fourth last year. His record this year: 15-8.

Freshman Daryl Stanfield, heavyweight from Columbus, Ind., lost his opener and finished with 9-9-1.

Before the tournament, Pate hoped his youngsters could finish in the top 10 after Wayne placed fourth the last two years with a veteran-loaded team. The eighth place on 33 points looked good, and next year could be better, Pate said, adding, "With a break here and there, minus the injuries, we could have been several notches higher this year."

The Laurel Bears had to settle for the second-place trophy in the Class B state tournament in Lincoln Saturday after suffering a 78-69 loss to No. 1 seed Cozad. The Bears had scored victories over Lincoln Plus X and Fairbury in the first two rounds of the tourney.

Fisherman Scores

Orto Luther of Wisner hooked a large enough rainbow trout to earn him a Master Angler Award from the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission. Luther caught his trout, five pounds and one ounce, in the Nine Mile Creek.

Fish continue to grow throughout their lives, but like humans, they tend to slow down and become paunchy in later years.

Game Fish Offered for Farm Ponds

Game fish will again be stocked in farm and ranch ponds and other private waters this spring courtesy of the Game and Parks Commission, provided the water meet habitat requirements and landowners submit applications before April 15.

Most commonly stocked fish are largemouth bass, bluegill and channel catfish, but others such as walleye, northern pike and rock bass will be introduced if the water meets their requirements and if they are available. Bullheads, crappie, white bass, green sunfish, perch and carp have not proved satisfactory for small ponds, and only occasional experimental stockings are made.

Fish for farm pond stockings come from state and federal hatcheries, but state-owned and public waters are given priority on those from state hatcheries.

Only the state facilities raise walleye and northern pike, and they are stocked first in lakes, reservoirs and streams. If supplies are used to meet those needs, none will be available for private waters.

Requirements for stocking include an adequate year-round water supply and an area not less than one-half acre in size. Run-off ponds must be at least 10 feet deep over one quarter of their area in winter months, but size and depth requirements of spring-fed ponds are left to the discretion of fisheries biologists.

Livestock must be partially excluded from ponds less than five acres in size and from the supplying waterway for 100 feet above the pond by fencing, or other means. Adequate overflow systems must be provided to protect the dam. If the pond is needed for livestock water and is not fenced it will be stocked with channel catfish only.

Owners of private waters are encouraged to allow an adequate harvest of fish and must agree that they will not charge anglers a fee before fish will be allotted them. However, the landowner controls all access to his pond, and everyone fishing must have the landowner's permission. All fishermen over 16 years of age including the landowner must have a valid Nebraska fishing license.

Application for stocking of private waters may be made through local Soil Conservation Service offices, Game and Parks Commission district offices in Bassett, Alliance, North Platte, Lincoln and Norfolk, or directly through the Game and Parks Commission Farm Pond Biologist in Lincoln.

Nebraska Fishermen Score Heavily in '69

Fishermen scored on Nebraska's Master Angler-sized fish during 1969 at nearly twice the 1968 rate, according to records of the Game and Parks Commission.

The 1,267 citations earned during 1969 fell only 168 short of matching the combined total presented during 1966, 1967 and 1968, the first three years of the program. The last certificate for 1969 brought the total number of lunkers officially recognized since 1966 to 2,702.

Rainbow trout led the list with 529 fish topping the five-pound minimum weight standard, and walleye were a distant second with 168 fish topping the eight-pound minimum. Other species providing good numbers of lunkers were largemouth bass, northern pike, bluegill, channel catfish, brown trout and smallmouth bass. Three species made their Master Angler debut in 1969, though only in limited numbers. Striped bass, a relative newcomer to Nebraska's waters, accounted for 26 awards, while kokanee salmon earned five and coho salmon garnered one. Another relative stranger to the list was the muskellunge, a fish not common to Nebraska. Two of the monsters were caught at Merritt Reservoir early in the year.

Make-Up Funds To Aid Counties In Road Work

Financial help for county road operations will come through a 50 per cent payment of "make-up" funds in July, according to the Nebraska Department of Roads.

A spokesman for the Department explained that under recent legislation, counties not receiving as much money in 1970 from motor vehicle fees and gasoline taxes as they did in 1967 are entitled to "make-up" funds for the differences.

"Rather than work a financial hardship on counties with ongoing projects, the payments will be made in two installments," Marvin L. Nuernberger, director-state engineer said.

The July payments will be based on revenues from January through July and projected through the rest of the year. Counties will receive their second half payments in December.

Laurel Falls to Cozad in State Finals

"We weren't ashamed at all to get beat by Cozad," Coach Larry Moore commented following Laurel's 78-69 defeat in the finals in the Class B state tournament at Lincoln Saturday.

Cozad is a well-balanced team with great quickness and Laurel began faltering only late in the game, Moore pointed out. His Bears, who ended the season with a fine 25-2 mark, had not met a team this season as fast and quiet as the Haymakers, he said. He also put emphasis on the grueling three-game schedule in just three days which the Laurel team had to meet. "We were tired by that third game and it began to show. You can't expect to play our kind of running game three days in a row without it showing."

The Bears battled to a 40-40 tie at intermission after trailing Cozad by 18-16 going into the second period. Cozad pulled into a two-point edge, 57-55, going into the final period.

Laurel's fine 6-6 junior, Steve Erwin, scored an individual high mark in the tourney by pumping in 31 points on 13 field goals and five of nine charity shots in the game against Cozad. It was his scoring which kept Laurel in the game much of the time until he and several teammates began fouling out in the closing moments of the contest. Also scoring well in that season finale was George Schroeder, a 6-3 sophomore. He came in with 18 points in the action for the only other Bear to break into double figures.

Laurel	16	24	15	14	69
Cozad	18	22	17	21	78

The loss to Cozad in the finals brings Coach Moore's record for his five years at Laurel to an enviable 98 wins and 14 defeats.

Laurel had moved to the finals in the state tourney by knocking off Lincoln Plus X in the opener Thursday and Fairbury in the semifinals Friday. In both games the Bears were picked as underdogs by most sportswriters.

The showing at the state tourney — which Moore says did quite a bit for the sport of basketball in northeast Nebraska — lifted the Bears to the No. 3 spot on the Omaha World-Herald's final listing to the top 10 Class B teams in the state. The Bears went into the state affair in No. 10 spot following the loss to Class C West Point High in the Husker Conference play-off.

Cozad finished the season with a perfect 22-0 record, one of two teams in the state ending with undefeated marks.

Laurel lost that game to Cozad primarily because of the Bears' performance at the free throw line. Laurel jumped in only 11 of 28 attempts for a dismal 39 per cent showing. Cozad hit 20 of 34 for 59 per cent. Both teams hit 99 field goals.

Although Laurel was unable to rip into the Cozad team with the fast break as the Bears had done throughout the season, Cozad was also hindered in its running game, Moore said. He noted that although his players were tired from the competition and pressure, they were able to stop that Impressive Cozad running game.

FFA Chapters Taking Part in 'Acres' Program

Future Farmers of America chapters across Nebraska are once again vying for awards in the annual FFA competition in wildlife habitat development.

Competition for the 1969-70 school year will be based on participation in NEBRASKAland Acres for Wildlife, the Game and Parks Commission's program to involve the state's boys and girls in maintaining habitat for wildlife. Besides giving Nebraska youths an opportunity to participate actively in a much-needed conservation effort, the program helps foster a close working relationship between the youngsters and ranchers or farmers.

Each year, the Nebraska Council of Sportsman's Clubs awards plaques to the best FFA chapter in each of the Game and Parks Commission's five districts. The awards will be presented in May of 1970. Individuals in the chapter are eligible for certificates and shoulder patches in the Acres for Wildlife program.

Suitable spots for maintaining wildlife habitat include wooded areas, creek bottoms, fence rows and roadside ditches. Farmers and ranchers who have any idle acreage are urged to cooperate with these young people. The assistance of landowners will not only aid Nebraska's wildlife, but will help teach the state's youth valuable lessons in conservation.

Anyone desiring further information about the FFA competition or the NEBRASKAland Acres for Wildlife program should contact the Land Management Supervisor at the Game and Parks Commission district offices, located in Alliance, Bassett, Norfolk, North Platte and Lincoln, or write: NEBRASKAland Acres for Wildlife, Game and Parks Commission, State Capitol, Lincoln, Nebr. 68509.

Conference Topic Set

An organizational meeting will be held April 3 at Kearney to discuss the formation of a new conference. The schools involved at the present time are Chadron State, Kearney State, Wayne State, Peru State and Hiram Scott.

Several other schools may be interested in joining the new loop. The agenda of the meeting will include scheduling, the formation of a constitution and other pertinent details.

College NAIA Game On 'Guessers' Slate

Sports fans in and around Wayne will have a chance to see action films of the Wayne State-Gulfport College basketball game at the NAIA national tournament during the Second Guessers meeting today (Thursday).

The Second Guessers will meet at noon in the Student Union Birch Room on the Wayne State campus. Any area sports fans are welcome to attend the weekly get-togethers.

Films of the recent NAIA national wrestling tournament may also be back in time for showing. Those action films would include one of Wayne State's Ken Monroe, NAIA individual national champion at 167 pounds.

LH Bears Soar To No. 3 Spot On W-H Chart

Laurel's exceptionally fine showing in the Class B state basketball tournament — runner-up behind undefeated Cozad — earned the Bears the No. 3 spot in the final listing of the top 10 cage teams in the state by the Omaha World-Herald's Conde Sargent.

Sargent placed Cozad in first place and Lexington — who never made it past the district tourney because of a loss to Cozad — in second place. Cozad ended the season with a 22-0 mark and Laurel a 25-2 mark. The rest of the top 10, in order: Fairbury (20-3), Holdrege (11-6), Schuyler (18-3), Valentine (24-4), Geneva (17-4), Omaha Cathedral (18-3) and David City Aquinas (17-6).

The undefeated seasons of Cozad and Pawnee City (24-0) mark the first pair of clean slates in a decade. Pawnee City won the Class C end of the tourney and Sargent's pick as the best among the Class C quint in the state.

Laurel, a cage team picked as underdog by Sargent in every game at Lincoln, whipped Lincoln Plus X in the opener and Fairbury in the semifinals. Cozad came out on top of Laurel, 78-69, in the finals Saturday night. Laurel had been ranked No. 10 going into the state fracas.

The only team to defeat Laurel in the regular season, West Point gained the No. 7 spot on the Class C list. The Cadets, 17-3 for the year, whipped Laurel, 67-64, in the Husker Conference play-off. Norfolk Catholic, Laurel's first victim of the season, ended up in eighth place with a 22-3 mark and Madison (15-6) ended up in ninth on the Class C list.

During spawning, the male kokanee salmon is easy to identify. His body color changes to deep red with a greenish head, the jaws become hooked, and the back becomes humped.

Bears' Fortunes Rise and Fall

Keeping a sharp eye on a team's cheerleaders will almost always give a person an indication of how the team is doing during the competition.

The Laurel Bears—in their first trip to the state basketball tournament since 1929—had their ups and downs as they took on Lincoln Plus X, Fairbury and Cozad. The Bears downed the first two teams, fell to Cozad in the finals.

Leading—and pleading—during those games were the Laurel cheerleaders: Star Dickey, Debbie Brandow, Rosemary Hirschman, Yolanda Kraemer, Sue Schaar, Val Hirschman and mascot Sherry Hanson.

Taxpayer Goofs Slowing Returns

So far this year 3,080 taxpayers in Nebraska have used the wrong tax table or rate schedule in computing their 1969 Federal income tax. Not only have refunds been delayed but many taxpayers have overpaid their income tax as a result, Richard Vinal, district director of Internal Revenue for Nebraska, reported this week.

So far errors in arithmetic are causing delay in sending refunds to 1,528 taxpayers in Nebraska. Through last week, there were 348 tax returns filed without signatures, including those of husband or wife on joint returns. These have to be sent back to the taxpayers before refunds can be processed. Vinal said 86,319 taxpayers in Nebraska have received refunds totaling $17,722,414 since January.

Kiwanis Club Hears ESU Administrator

Educational Service Unit I personnel consider speech therapy as having top priority in the many services provided for schools in the six-county area within which it serves, according to Harry Mills, ESU I administrator from Wakefield.

Mills was guest speaker at the Kiwanis noon luncheon in the Woman's Club rooms Monday. He told the club of the Educational Service Unit's various services provided to schools unable to provide the programs themselves.

He pointed out that great emphasis is being placed on providing services related to the correction of speech difficulties for students in public schools.

Mills said ESU administrators have considered including a film library for elementary and secondary students as a part of expanded services.

The administrator told Kiwanians that ESU I board members would soon be asked to consider the possibility of purchasing a driving simulator at a total cost of $50,000. He said the state would pay half the cost or $25,000. This amount includes the $8,000 dollar salary of an instructor for the driver training program. Mills said the simulator allows 10 students to "drive" or be subjected to driving conditions at the same time. After the first year, he said, the state would assume half the operating cost of the simulator driving program.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The editorial department of a weekly newspaper is an important department. Normally, it is one person's opinion of the subjects that concern most of the readers.

You may not agree with an editorial—but if you read the editorial and give serious thought to the subject discussed you have gained. You as a reader have given careful thought to an important problem and the writer is proud to have called your attention to an important subject that you may have overlooked.

Choice in Candidates Is Surprising

We are absolutely amazed by the choice that will be offered the voters in Wayne and the surrounding towns when election time rolls around in a few weeks. We doubt if anybody anticipated this kind of turnout by the candidates for the various county, city and school board offices that will become vacant this spring.

proves different, we are going to have to assume that this change is at least partly the reason for this increased political activity. Also, we are surprised by the youth of many of the people who have stepped into the political ring this year. It's a good thing that citizens in their 20's and 30's are taking an interest in how their county, city and school is functioning.

Let's Look for Another Way

We do not think we are too far off base in saying that quite a few people were disgruntled when the school board of the Wayne-Carroll system agreed to give across-the-board raises to all the teachers in the system.

board had little choice but to offer the teachers a package something close to what was finally agreed upon. Few can find fault with the courses and teachers in the Wayne-Carroll system. We are not going to keep them unless we offer teachers an attractive wage.

Hawkeye with Defective Vision

A woman, whose tongue became as barbed as a wire fence during the debate of a "self-protection" bill in the Iowa House in Des Moines last week, remarked, "I don't think we should pattern our laws after Nebraska's because everyone knows that next to Mississippi, Nebraska is the most conservative and backward and dumb state in the nation."

So we Nebraskans are conservative because we want to have the right to protect our private property from violent intruders? Remember several weeks ago when an Iowa farmer rigged up a gun which would go off to fire at any would-be intruders? A man did indeed intrude while the family was gone and was wounded.

Know What It's Like?

If you had the good fortune of being born into a family where there were both a loving mother and thoughtful dad, then perhaps your lot in life has been far richer than you have ever imagined.

and for a mother to be that and dad too. How fortunate you are if you were blessed with both a mom and dad in your house! Can you imagine what it is like for a young lad to compete in athletics but never have a cheering dad on the sidelines? Can you understand what it is not to have a dad to romp with, play horse, play ball, or to give you courage when you are afraid?

Abraham Lincoln speaks on The Peace Corps. "To correct the evils, great and small, which spring from want of sympathy and from positive enmity among strangers, as nations or as individuals, is one of the highest functions of civilization."

Capital News — Nebraska Drivers Are Angry Over 'Slip' by 2 Legislators

LINCOLN — Nebraskans have reacted with some heat to the discovery that the 1969 Legislature required them to pay a new fee for a driver's license if they move to another county.

trophy from the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Texas. But it's being sent back. It seems the fans thought the huge orange and white Sun Bowl flag flying over the El Paso stadium would be a small memento of Nebraska's routing 45-6 victory over Georgia. So, they hauled it down.

The Public Works Committee attached the amendment to the bill, which originally dealt only with allowing spouses of servicemen to drive back to Nebraska if their driver's license expired while they were stationed away from home.

Committee Studies LR 15 — A committee of private citizens and state officials has been organized by the governor to develop guidelines for state government to use in implementing a law passed by the 1969 Legislature.

holding an office. These ideas are the result of three-quarters of a century of observation and working at many community activities. Believing that the responsibility for the education of all the children of the state must be the responsibility of all the taxpayers of the state, the following constitutional provision is submitted for consideration.

of effort for financing various education programs. Each community should finance their own buildings and attendance units for reasons which are very obvious.

A law shall be enacted requiring all county redistricting committees to include all areas of their county in any and all plans for attendance units and cooperating with all adjacent counties to provide for the educational benefits suited to the community which lies within reasonable distance of all homes.

Dear Editor: For many years non-resident students paid so much per day for their high school education. The Attorney General ruled to the 1969 Legislature this was unconstitutional as schools who took in non-resident students are entitled to charge actual costs or full costs, consequently became the new law.

The department shall require all professional personnel to stress the importance of developing in all the pupils the desire to achieve to the best of their ability. In order to determine a uniform mill levy, a committee of not more than three persons should be created to whom every school district in the state would transmit their entire budget, for operating expenses only (not capital investment), whose responsibility would be to total these amounts, then compute from the total assessed value of the state, the mill levy needed to raise the amount of the financial needs of the schools.

This mill levy would then be certified to each county treasurer in the state for use in figuring their share of the cost of education. In some counties this would produce a surplus. In others there would be a deficiency. It would be the duty of the state committee to direct the counties who produced a surplus to what county with a deficiency should be the recipient of this surplus or part thereof.

Good Morning Feeders & Hi Mom

By Eddie Collins

Chicago Stockyards is closing down its hog division - after 103 years. That is the old college try . . . backwards . . . by the same guardian of the livestock industry who inherited Armour . . . now a component of a bus company.

You, Moms, need a strong terminal stockyards for cattle, for hogs. And now you lose. Worry not for William Wood Prince. Shed not one tear. Fortune magazine rates him at 300 million. Besides, he opened a hog auction at Atkinson, Ill. But you lose. You lose traditionally the highest selling hog market in the world. True, they always sorted off a highly publicized top sale, usually a part load. But this added spice for the entertainment, a talking point, a psychological point and that is the name of the marketing game.

Closed within thirty to ninety days. Commission men are out and so will be long-time, real long-time stockyard employees. Enter another dozen pickle factories and computer servicing firms in the expanding industrialization of Chicago.

On cattle, reliable reports are it is merely a question of time to allow commercial real estate value to climb . . . then a complete shut down. With the spacious livestock auditorium so busy, due to the burning of the McOrnick Building, to close the cattle now would conceivably lose the International Livestock Show. So prestige takes over and cattle remain.

Chicago closed, Mom, why? Transportation. Direct buying. Inconsistent selling. But mostly demoralized commission men and Calvin Coolidge conservatism. From a national landmark to small pickle factories. Like turning the White House into a travel bureau office.

Other terminal stockyards face the same peril. And then who loses? Not the holding companies, for the land value far exceeds the annual yardage return. Commission men, yes. A lifetime of effort exhausted. Big loser? Again you, the producer.

We need a strong central market that can and will fight for packery outlets as well as supply. You need an alternate system as opposed to direct sales. You need commission men unafraid to battle packers and antiquated P & S regulations. To solicit, to compete, to lead. Who will forget the nostalgic value - Chicago will be industrialized, not made a national park nor agricultural shrine. All stockyards no longer are needed as an annual meeting place for the old timers, but must exist for sound aggressive business.

Mom, terminals need your help. And you need their help. More important, they need their own

Feeding Moldy Grain

In general, most moldy grain, silage or hay is not severely toxic to livestock. Thus, farmers or feeders should be able to feed moldy grain which is present in Nebraska in abundant amounts - if some caution is practiced in its use.

Of all livestock consuming feeds which may develop molds, cattle seem to be affected the least.

Two problems can exist in help! I hope the final effort is not another car giveaway.

FORECAST: As of March 11 move hogs to alternate buying stations to resist demoralized price ideas. Hog packers will expect you to pay them if you allow further unrestricted drop.

Cattle: Continued strength at from $49.50 to $51 dressed market. If cattle work, use the April future, no panic please. Sell for delivery . . . not as a hedge.

-Deadly toxins which will kill animals if fed in large enough quantity or which reduce gains when fed in smaller amounts.

-Undesirable flavor or odor which results in reduced intake of feed containing the moldy grain. The feeding program should be planned to minimize both of these potential problems. Before processing or feeding moldy grain, remove as much of the surface mold from the grain as possible. Running the grain through an auger and a blower before processing often will remove a high percentage of the external mold, which reduces both the hazards of toxicity and poor consumption.

It is suggested that moldy grain be fed to one or two test animals, beginning a few days before feeding the whole group. To start with, moldy grain should comprise not more than 15 to 20 per cent of the ration. If all goes well after the first few days, the rest of the cattle can be started on the moldy grain and the amount in the ration increased as the feeder consists advisable.

Price Tables
Since the Nebraska cattle feeder can sell slaughter cattle at either live or carcass (wholesale) prices, it is important that he be able to translate easily from one price to the other.

Extension Circular 70-839, "Dressed and Live Price Tables for Beef Producers and Feeders," states that live slaughter cattle prices reflect the wholesale price of the carcass plus the value of offal, less the cost of processing and transportation. The circular helps to convert live prices to dressed cost, carcass prices to on-foot prices and gives shrinkage tables to calculate actual price from bids offered or asked.

The differences in weight and grade of both live cattle and carcasses will influence the base price of either live cattle or carcasses. The cattle feeder should be certain that he has the appropriate live or carcass price for his weight and grade of cattle when evaluating market alternatives.

Stockmen interested in these price tables should contact their county Extension agent for a copy of EC 70-839.

Minimum Tillage Will Increase Income

By Wayne F. Fisher
Area Agricultural Engineer,
NU Northeast Station

Spring is just around the corner and it's time to get that farm equipment ready for the planting rush.

As the number of farmers declines and the size of farms increases, the planting operation seems to be more rushed even with larger machines. One answer to this is fewer trips across the field. If the old stalks can be chopped or knocked down with the disk and the planting done with just one more trip across the field, a lot of time and money can be saved.

One of the biggest worries when considering some type of minimum tillage is high yields. It has been well proven at the Northeast Station and at other locations in the state that corn and sorghum handled under minimum tillage conditions will yield as well or better than the same crops under conventional tillage. It has also been shown that the comparative costs per acre of minimum tillage is about one-half to two-thirds conventional tillage. The hours needed to plant an acre of feed grain under minimum tillage can be as little as half that under conventional tillage.

Most operators and research people working with minimum tillage agree that this type of tillage takes a higher level of management than conventional tillage does. Operations have to be more timely.

It doesn't take as long to do the work and a good operator can handle more acres if he realizes he must stay on top of his work. More decisions have to be made to make allowances for conditions that are not normal. Herbicides and other chemicals have to be different in some cases. Adjustments and tool equipment for the machine have to match field conditions more closely.

At times the pattern of tillage may need to be changed to fit the actual conditions in the field. An example of changes in patterns of tillage is the acceptance of the disk as a part of the minimum tillage system. When stalks are heavy it may pay to disk ahead of planting to break up and bury part of the residue. This has not been considered a good practice in the past; however, with the use of good herbicide it has been found that weed control is just as good or better in minimum tillage fields which have been disked as those on which the stalks were only chopped.

The main drawback of the disk has been that it has been shown to be a good weed seed planter which increases weed germination and growth. Use of herbicides has corrected this, however.

Chisels are also being used in conjunction with minimum tillage. The chisel does a good job of loosening soil if the soil is in the right condition. One should avoid going on clay soils that are too wet to work with a chisel. Most operators using chisels tend to go deeper than necessary to prepare a seed bed. Four to six inches deep in most circumstances is more than enough to prepare the soil. Actually the depth at which all chisels on the machine will remain covered and not drag trash is deep enough.

Any method you can use which reduces the power requirements or the number of times that you have to till the soil before planting can increase your income. Increasing your income for the present plus being able to sustain the crop potential of your land over the years should be the main considerations when you are choosing tillage methods.

Net income, money which you can use for your family, should be the prime objective of your farming operations. To obtain the highest possible yields is a good goal but this is not always the best answer. Highest possible net income and sustained production from your land should be more important over the long run.

Minimum tillage can reduce your field operational costs and labor requirements. With good management, crops under minimum tillage will yield as well or better than those under conventional tillage.

Changes like this take courage, patience and willingness to learn from your experiences. The type of outlook you take on reducing your costs of operation may determine your future in agriculture.

Exon, Ley Review Plans

Democratic candidate for governor J. J. Exon (right) was in Wayne last week to discuss some aspects of his campaign with his campaign treasurer, Henry Ley. Ley was named to that job recently by the Democratic hopeful. Exon, 48, is the president of Exon's, Inc., of Lincoln, an office equipment company. Opening his campaign for governor late in November last year, Exon pledged himself to a "frank open discussion of legitimate issues." He sought the vice-chairmanship of his state party in 1964, and later the Democratic National Committee spot in 1968. Exon served on the Democratic State Executive Committee from 1964 until his resignation last year to seek the governorship.

Program Signup Extended

Deadline for farm program signup has been extended through April 3 in Nebraska and ten other Great Plains states, according to Gordon L. Nuernberger, chairman of the Nebraska State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture in announcing the extension noted that this will give farmers in these regions a better opportunity to plan their operations after heavy snow and winter runoff.

Signup for the 1970 wheat and feed grain programs began Feb. 2 in all states.

Producers who sign up as participants get certain advantages over non-participants. Nuernberger pointed out. Price-support and acreage diversion payments earned by grain producers, for instance, provide incentives to avoid buildup of costly surpluses. These payments also provide substantial financial security for farmers because they are not subject to weather as are the crops themselves.

Total incentive payment benefits of the various programs in 1970 will be made available much earlier than in prior years. They are to be expedited as soon as possible after July 1, and completed in many instances up to two months earlier than ever before.

Those farmers who haven't been signed up have only a relatively short time left. Only those signed in advance of the deadline can become eligible for program participation, USDA officials stressed.

Nuernberger urged farmers to come into the office as soon as possible where details on the commodity programs are available from ASCS personnel aiding in signup.
