

Opponents of Higher Taxes Slate Meeting Here Friday

A new statewide organization known as Copact - Committee of Parents and Concerned Taxpayers - will hold a public meeting in Wayne at the city auditorium on Friday evening at eight o'clock.

Ken Olds Receives Intern Assignment

Kenneth M. Olds, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth M. Olds of Wayne, has received his internship appointment. He will intern at Weld County General Hospital in Greeley, Colo.

Olds is one of 94 seniors at the University of Nebraska College of Medicine who learned of his appointment this week. The internship is generally considered postgraduate education for the physician, a time when he gets supervised practice of the theories he studied in medical school, according to Dr. Robert Kugel, dean of the College of Medicine. Most internships start July 1 and last a full year.

Lions Club Plans Special Auction

A white elephant sale is being planned by the Wayne Lions Club as a fund raising project and will be held in the near future, according to Willis Johnson, president. Johnson said last week that the club has not as yet set a definite date for the auction which is being held to raise funds for a new eye institute being built in Lincoln. A major function of the Lions Club on a nationwide scale is related to aiding individuals who are visually handicapped. The auction, according to Johnson, is one way of helping to erect the new institute in the capital city. Wayne Lions are asking residents to take note of any items they may have in or around the house which are "white elephants," but usable, which they may want to contribute to a good cause - that of helping build the eye institute. Persons having such items should contact the club.

The local Lions president said an exact date for the auction will be announced soon. Wayne Lions have also resumed work on the new Lions Club Park located east of town near the airport. President Johnson said that the club hopes to gravel roads to the park and plant a few trees in the area this spring. Present plans call for opening the park as a tourist's rest stop and camping area by June 1.

Board Sets Meeting To Hear Petitions

Members of the Wayne County School Reorganization Board will meet at the Wayne County courthouse Tuesday at two o'clock in the office of Mrs. Gladys Porter, county superintendent of schools. The board is conducting a hearing to act on petitions filed recently by several districts. Supt. Porter said that a part of District 67 in Cumming County has filed petition to merge with District 25 in Wayne County. Also to be considered by the board are petitions which would transfer Floyd Johnson's quarter from District 7 to District 1, District 7 has petitioned to go into District 25, according to the superintendent of schools.

Following the board meeting Tuesday, the action taken will be sent to the state reorganization committee. When the state committee returns their acceptance or disapproval of the petitions, the local reorganization board will then hold a public hearing on the petitions, Mrs. Porter said.

Another Coffee Slated

Another businessmen's coffee has been set for the month of March, according to the Wayne Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the informal get-togethers. The next coffee will be held at Claude's Standard Service at 409 Main St. this coming Thursday from 9 to 11 a.m. All businessmen and their employees are invited to attend the coffee and visit with the owner of the business, the primary reason the Chamber plans the affairs at different firms throughout the city.

The Wayne Baseball Association was recipient of a $200 check from the local Lions Club last week. Willis Johnson, president of the Lions, at left, presents the gift to Ted Bahr, treasurer of the association. Wayne Lions have donated similar amounts annually in support of the community fund drive for the Wayne Baseball Association's operating expenses and the town team.

land and unless taxpayers from one end of this state to the other were willing to band together into a statewide effort, no one could put a halt to increased state and local spending," said the Copact chairman, at one time a member of a rural school board near Hastings.

"Every candidate running for state office," said Illorran, "must be evaluated with regard to his stand on spending and increased taxes. This is not something which can be done on a county or legislative district basis, but must be done on a statewide basis by a statewide committee."

When our tax burden increases from $590.2 million to $1.03 billion dollars in the period from 1965-67 through 1989-71, this is not only frightening and something to become alarmed about, it is time for taxpayer action," Illorran declared.

He said, "Property owners, both urban and rural, stand to lose their property because taxes have nearly reached confiscatory proportions. Unless the taxpayers earning ability is allowed to catch up with the ability of government to spend their money and unless people become informed with the facts first and understand what has happened and then become personally involved, there is no one to blame but themselves because nothing was done."

Donald Strate Electrocuted

Funeral services for Donald Strate, 18, of Hoskins, one of three northeastern Nebraska college students electrocuted Wednesday afternoon about nine miles southwest of Norfolk, were held at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Trinity Lutheran Church at Hoskins. Burial was in Spring Branch Cemetery near Hoskins. The youth was a freshman at the college and the son of Mrs. Edith Strate of Hoskins.

State Patrol Sgt. Gerald Essley said Friday that he was called to investigate the freak accident which killed the Hoskins youth; Carolyn Osborn, 21, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Osborn of Norfolk, and Myles Patton, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Patton of Norfolk, and was assisted in the investigation by Lt. Omar Young, Trooper Ferris Rogers and the Madison County sheriff's office. Christy Graber, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darrel Graber of Norfolk was the fourth occupant of the car and the only one to escape. Sgt. Essley reported Friday, "We assume one of the youths was standing outside the car, a two-door hardtop, after one of them used a rifle to shoot an insulator on a power pole." He emphasized that this was an assumption. When the insulator shattered, the wire was permitted to drop onto the car.

The officer noted that the youth evidently then grounded the car by touching the door, completing the circuit, and three of the youths were electrocuted. Sgt. Essley said Christy Graber used a safety strap to get through a back window. Christy reportedly went to a farm home for help and was finally assisted by a passing motorist. Essley said the auto was burning when they arrived on the scene. Survivors of the Hoskins' family are his mother, a brother, Larry of Hoskins; two sisters, Mrs. Harry Armaganian of Racine, Wis., and Mrs. Justin Peterson of Fort Dodge, Iowa.

All-Star Cagers, Coach Named

A special treat is contained in this issue of The Wayne Herald: the second annual West Husker Conference all-star basketball team. Selected again this year by the division coaches with the help of The Wayne Herald, the team is made up of one cager from Wayne, two from Stanton, three from Laurel, two from Bloomfield and three from Madison. Named this year for the first time is an all-star coach, continuing the practice begun with the naming of Wayne's Allen Hansen as the coach of last fall's second annual all-star football team.

Idea Contest Is Extended

Due to the interest expressed in The Wayne Herald's contest to find new uses for used offset news plates, it has been decided to extend the deadline for the contest to April 15.

The contest, which offers free one-year subscriptions to The Wayne Herald for the top three ideas, requires only a little ingenuity. There is nothing to buy as two plates will be given to anyone wishing to enter.

New uses for the plates are being found every day, some new uses for the plates are such items as decorative serving trays which incorporate a special event, such as a wedding. The plates have also been used to make children's costumes, such as suits of armor, "apartment houses" for purple martins, and one enterprising man in Wisconsin even built a boat from the plates.

The plates are made from an aluminum alloy and measure approximately 23x32 inches. They are easy to bend and in shape, yet they are set, durable and will not rust or corrode.

Public Hearing Set at Carroll On Sewer Work

A public hearing to determine if 80 per cent of the potential users of a proposed sewer system would be in favor of having such a system installed is set for eight o'clock tonight (Monday) in the Carroll Auditorium.

Carroll's village board of trustees scheduled the hearing in order to sound out village residents as to their interest in seeing the project carried out. Robert E. Johnson, village clerk, recently noted that a total of $48,000 has been made available by the IHA which can be used if the decision is made to go ahead with the sewer installation. He said the village has $16,000 on hand and would expect to collect another $4,000 in connection fees. Other monies available to Carroll for the sewer project would be a state FEA development grant amounting to $16,000 and a Federal Water Pollution Control Agency grant of $11,700.

One Last Fling At Winter's Fun For Wayne Girl

For a while it looked as if winter would come and go without giving snowmobile fans a last chance to coast across fields on their machines. Then the recent snow storms hit, dumped several inches of snow on the area and gave them chances galore to use their snowmobiles. Among that growing number of snowmobile fans is Amy Coyall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Coyall of Wayne. She would have competed in the powderpuff portion of the races at South Sioux this winter had not the weather melted most of the snow a short time before the event was to take place. WSC Schedules Difficult 'Peter Pan'

"Peter Pan," the most technically involved play ever attempted by the Wayne State College theatre department, will be produced March 31 through April 3. The production is the ever-popular account of two boys and a girl who follow Peter Pan and the invisible fairy Tinkerbell into the Never Neverland where children always stay young and where Captain Hook and his pirates are outwitted. Two of the play's major problems include four characters who are to fly and five separate set changes. An added attraction of the production is the Peter Pan Poster Contest open to kindergartners through eighth graders. Posters should be drawn or painted on 11-inch by 14-inch paper. Every school selects the winning poster from each grade in its school. These Peter Pan posters will then be judged by the Wayne State art department on originality and artistic achievement. Winning posters must be submitted by a school official not later than Friday to Dr. Helen J. Bus-all, Theatre Department, Wayne State College, Wayne, 68787. Cash prizes will be awarded. Last year Ramsey Theatre was filled to capacity with 3,500 persons of all ages attending "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." This year the theatre department is anticipating an even larger attendance than ever before.

College Government Post to Local Youth

Michael L. Garvin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carlyle Garvin of Wayne, was elected secretary of the St. Benedict's College Student Government Association for the 1970-71 academic year. He was unopposed for the post. A freshman at the Kansas college, Mike's successful slogan was "Project Communications." He is an economics major at St. Benedict's.

Job Help Offered

The Wayne Chamber of Commerce office at 108 West Third St. will be the place where the representative of the Norfolk employment office will hold interviews in April. The interviewer, L. M. Wicks, will be in the Chamber office on April 8 and 23 to offer help to any area residents having difficulty finding employment. He will be available for visits beginning at 9:30 in the morning those two days. Those wishing to telephone him during the time he is there may do so by dialing 375-2240.

No Winner

Streets and highways covered with slush, which was threatening to turn into ice, may have been the reason Randy Olson of Wakefield was not present Thursday night in downtown Wayne to claim a check for $100 which would have been his had he been in a participating business store. Whether it was the weather or something else, Randy wasn't around to claim his winnings. Since there was no winner, the cash prize will be $150 for some lucky individual whose name is called Thursday night, providing he, or she is present to claim the check.

Twenty Teachers Sign Contracts at Winside

A report of teachers signing contracts to teach in the Winside Public Schools next term shows 20 instructors have contracted to teach and seven teachers plan to leave the system at the end of the present term. As announced earlier, M. J. Masten, superintendent, and Ronald Kramer, principal, have signed their contracts as administrators. Supt. Masten said Thursday the following staff members plan to return next fall: James Winch, industrial arts, head baseball coach, girls track coach and athletic director; Lancelle Lynch, commercial teacher who will again be in charge of the school's paper and annual; Nancy Ju Powers, library, English, and freshman sponsor; Marton Iversen, English and social studies, sophomore sponsor; John A. Schlueter, band instructor and part-time elementary principal. Others signing contracts for next year are Lena Miller, sixth grade; Reba Mann, kindergarten; Gladys Reichert, fourth grade; Shirley Floor, second grade; Ruth Puls, remedial reading, Dale Puls, math, business, and junior class sponsor; Helen Denkinger, third grade; Judith Peters, fifth grade; Ruth Grone, first grade; Carmen Brim, guidance counselor; Glenda Hammer, English and Spanish; Lee Johnson, social studies and junior high sponsor. Coaches Harold Simpson and Doug Barry plan to work again with the Winside Wildcats. Simpson will teach physical education, driver's education, serve as head wrestling coach, head track coach, assistant football coach and sponsor the senior class. Doug Barry will, besides being in the physical education and science departments, serve as head football coach, assistant basketball coach and assistant track coach. Supt. Masten noted that Beth Monson has contracted to serve as speech therapist during the summer school program at Winside. Teachers leaving the Winside school system at the end of the present term are Gerald Overton, Mrs. Barbara Fletcher, Candace Shubbs, Mrs. Shirley L. Lipp, Ronald Novak, Lola Bressler and Lois Bertsch.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The editorial department of a weekly newspaper is an important department. Normally it is one person's opinion of topics that concern most of the readers.

You may not agree with an editorial — but if you read the editorial and give serious thought to the subject discussed you have gained. You, as a reader, have given careful thought to an important question and the writer is proud to have called your attention to an important subject that you may have overlooked.

Mr. Policeman, Hand Out Some Tickets

It happened again Thursday night when a fire alarm was turned in. By the time the fire department vehicles arrived at the site, the large number of motoring motorists made the place look like 72nd and Dodge at noon. A couple of firemen were in the middle of the street trying to direct the flow of traffic so the fire trucks could get to and from the area. They weren't very successful. The icy streets, the cars parked on both sides of the narrow side streets, the darkness, the slow speed of the drivers as they attempted to see what was happening, all of these made the place a mess of cars and confusion.

at every fire call in the city, so be it. If it entails arresting 10 drivers each time, so be it.

We think it's time something is done to stop this. We have said exactly that before. Nothing has been done by those with the power to correct the situation. Although the firemen have the power to ticket and arrest drivers who are interfering with their job, we think the city police — the people we hire to enforce our laws — should take the problem in hand and cure it as quickly as possible. If that entails handing out 50 tickets

Luckily, Thursday's fire was minor and was out by the time the fire trucks arrived. But what will happen next week or next month when a large fire breaks out? Will the firemen be allowed to get to the scene to save property and lives? To make sure they are able to do so, we suggest you begin calling the city police and the city council to express your feelings about those drivers who seem compelled to tag behind fire trucks. — N.H.H.

Striking Carriers

In these days of togetherness, what happens in New York has its effect here in Nebraska and all over the nation. As you know, one of the seven unions operating within the nation's postal system went on strike in New York last week. The carriers' union there wanted higher wages.

social security and pension checks to thousands of people back east.

As The Wayne Herald went to press there was a possibility of the strike spreading throughout the country. In a world made small by near instant communication and rapid transit systems, what affects others most generally also affects everyone else. The New York carriers were to vote Saturday as to whether or not to end the walkout.

It will be interesting also to see what happens when draft notices are held up and not delivered. What are the legal complications? It is doubtful anyone presently knows.

Mail addressed to New York City was being held locally and elsewhere Friday because of the striking carriers, according to Don Wightman, postmaster. He noted that the New York City mail would continue to pile up here and everywhere else until the strike was settled in that there is no way of getting it delivered.

At the time this was being written the stock market was being affected. This is due to the stock being undeliverable after being purchased.

Many problems are bound to develop due to the strike such as the delivery of

Since the strike situation was changing hour by hour as this was written it is difficult to anticipate what the situation would be by the time this paper reaches you.

Motor-itus

What fools we mortals be. Someone mentions the word cancer or leukemia and immediately we pay attention because we understand all too well the relationship those words have with life and death.

for the conditions of the roads. This driver's disease is exhibited when motorists will try to drive home after having a "night on the town."

How strange it is, then, even after more than 55,000 people lost their lives in auto accidents last year, that seldom are people impressed with the frightening emotional disease of motor-itus. Motor-itus is our word for acting like a fool while operating a deadly weapon, namely the automobile.

Motor-itus is displayed when a driver shows a complete lack of respect or fear for his machine's capability of killing. The word gun immediately brings into mind such related words as "kill" and "death." Perhaps more people would be alive today if the word "automobile" brought the same image to one's thoughts.

If you have read this far, likely you have already excused yourself of ever taking silly chances while driving. Most of us do not have the intestinal fortitude to be honest with ourselves to the point where we can objectively analyze our bad driving habits. Any close calls we may have encountered in traffic have always been the other driver's fault, right?

Motor-itus is being crazy behind the wheel, passing on curves, on hills, and taking chances in order to save seconds, but usually losing days and weeks in a hospital or eternity.

Motor-itus is playing the part of the village idiot on a stage that is usually not much more than 18 or 22 feet wide, and mile after mile in length. The disease is the one that invades the mind without the slightest pain — until the fatal accident.

Motor-itus is risking the other person's life as well as one's own but having no qualm of conscience about it.

Motor-itus is driving behind other autos at night without dimming the headlights; meeting oncoming night traffic without dimming; turning on the park lights at sunset rather than the headlights.

In its final and fatal phases, motor-itus is having law enforcement officers, judges and courts for getting in the way when you have finally become a maniac turned loose to prey upon the public at will.

Motor-itus is parking on a country road to spoon without having any lights turned on at all. It is driving on a rural road without lights and running into parked vehicles that have their lights turned off.

As the countdown continues on the disease, the diseased believes he is the only one deserving of rights on the road and hates anyone or anybody in his way. He decides he will drive like he wants to — so 55,000 graves were dug by his kind in 12 months.

Motor-itus is driving at a speed that is legal, but beyond that which is sensible

If you got into your car today and drove it anywhere thinking you were not likely to have an accident, watch out, because motor-itus has already started invading your normal processes of logic.

Let the disease go unchecked and your family will have to call the undertaker sooner than you may imagine. Drive like your life depended on it. — M.M.W.

Recalls Meeting With President Lincoln — Perhaps no American President is more noted for his interest in the private soldier than Abraham Lincoln. Among the many Civil War soldiers who had an opportunity to meet the President personally was Ad-son Waite, who later served as Nebraska's secretary of state from 1911 to 1915. Waite recalled the incident in a speech delivered at the 1912 annual meeting of the Nebraska State Historical Society: "In the spring of 1864, my regiment

It was bound to happen sooner or later. The Icehouse Blues band, a rock group from Miami, Fla., was making a special appearance in Pasadena, Calif. last week when the reverberations brought down the roof. Owner of the building said it had survived three major earthquakes before collapsing during the loud playing of the combo. Who knows maybe new dance floors will be called Shake Pits.

was detailed with 100,000 other men of the Northern Army in rendezvous about the city of Washington. You remember that General Lee had threatened the city of Washington and he so frightened us that we had gathered about 90,000 men and were scattered all over Arlington Heights and Potomac Hills. We were placed in a cordon of fort on Arlington Heights east of the Potomac River. I was detailed, after the post was established, as mail carrier of the post. I was then a little over 17 years of age and weighed about 126 pounds. On the 26th day of May that year my 18th birthday occurred.

"I received a furlough with four other comrades in my company to visit the city of Washington and spend a few days there. We visited all the places of interest at that time and along in the afternoon of the day our furlough was to expire, it was suggested by some of the boys (by the way, there was not one of us 20 years of age) that we go to the White House and that possibly we might see the President. On the suggestion of this comrade, we went to the White House and were admitted. At that time, visitors were received in what was known as the Blue Room.

"Fortunately, we were there when there were but few present, but it was the custom of President Lincoln to always give preference of time to a soldier. It did not matter whether he was general of the Army or whether he was a private, he had a right of way in the Blue Room. So we asked if it were possible for us to see the President, after a few minutes the guard at the door said that President Lincoln would receive us.

"I remember very distinctly when the President came through the door. There is more significance attached to it in my memory now perhaps, than there was then. He is known as being tall and a rather homely face, but it did not appear that way to me when I met Mr. Lincoln at that time. He appeared to me more like a father coming to greet us, shake hands and congratulate us as he did on that occasion. He came to each and every one of us and shook hands with us, spoke to us, inquired where we were from, what regiment we belonged to and stood talking with us perhaps five minutes and in a very fatherly way.

"Among other things, he said, 'Boys, don't forget to write your mother.' As we passed out he shook hands with us and bid us good-bye saying, 'Boys, I am going to let you go home, the war will soon be over.' That was the last time I ever saw President Lincoln and I have never forgotten that interview. It impressed itself upon me, as a boy, that Abraham Lincoln was a father more than anything else to the soldiers of the Civil War...."

If you have ever been around a 14-year-old boy, you know there isn't a whole lot that escapes his imagination. According to a report out of Potstown, Pa., a 14-year-old recently showed police how he opened what were supposed to be burglar-proof mail boxes in the lobby of the Potstown Post Office. "I couldn't believe what I was seeing," commented Postmaster Alfred J. Marquet. "The boy just went from box to box and opened them without much hesitation or difficulty."

The youth told officials he learned to spring the combination lock by practicing on his mother's mailbox. How does he do it? By using what was described as a mysterious touch and sound. Hooky is when a small boy lets his mind wander — and then follows it.

How has your day been going today? Have you ever gotten out of bed in the morning knowing that you were headed for a good day, or a day when everything is going to go wrong? Mrs. May Clarke of Homes Chapel, England, got up early one day earlier this month and wrote a note, "No coal today." She then planned the note to the door of her home. Shortly afterward a truck crashed into her front garden after its brakes failed and poured 14 tons of coal on her doorstep. Undoubtedly, we have all had days when things like that happen.

For instance, just last week here in Wayne, a lady who is skilled in the operation of puppets invited her mother to assist her in an afternoon presentation of a puppet show. The puppeteer explained to her mother and her husband, as they loaded the puppets, puppet house, scripts, etc., that the program was to be given for some senior citizens. By a misunderstanding, all of the props were taken to a local nursing home, however, since she was already there, rather than at the Senior Citizen's Center, she went right ahead and entertained the surprised audience. Finishing the show, the troupe then moved the program to the originally scheduled location — and everybody at both locations had a good time. Here was a case when a mistake turned out to be fun.

Spring officially arrived Friday. Wasn't it a job though to scoop it off the sidewalks?

Many avid newspaper readers have found the delight of reading the want ad section. One can really broaden his education sometimes. Did you know, for instance, that they have Gambler's Anonymous in Omaha? It's no joke. The ad suggests that gamblers and gambler's wives call a certain telephone number for help, much in the same manner as Alcoholics Anonymous. Now if someone would just start a Fatso's Anonymous for all of us who are overweight, know it, aren't proud of it, but love to eat those buttered rolls, mashed potatoes and groovy gravy.

More and more people are seemingly aware of the kind of tactics being employed by liberal newsmen. Vice-President Agnew charged the liberal press for some of its hatchet work several months ago and the echoes of the arrow hitting its target still linger. Sen. James O. Eastland, a Democrat from Mississippi, told the Senate Tuesday that a virulent and hostile press employed "professional hatchet men" in an attempt to discredit Judge G. Harrod Carswell, President Nixon's Supreme Court nominee. He charged that scores of reporters had been sent out to search for some evidence to discredit him," Eastland said. Continuing to speak of Carswell, Eastland claimed, "He was faced with a press that had the motive and intention to get the nominee." "They are determined to prevent the President from giving balance to the Supreme Court," the Mississippiian observed.

News of Note around Northeast Nebraska

All area farmers around Laurel are being invited to the 15th Annual Town and Country Night scheduled for Wednesday evening in the city auditorium. Scheduled for showing is the film "The Noble Breed." There will be a buffet luncheon and door prizes will be given away.

The newspaper reported, McNeill had seemed cordial and helpful when first telephoned by the newspaper, but he then changed after talking to the secretary of state. The secretary of state told him not to become involved and to be very careful about what information he gave out to the press, the story said.

Voters in Randolph will go to the polls Tuesday to decide the fate of a $895,000 bond issue. The bond issue would supply money for building and other expenses involved in taking over the education of some 300 students who will enter the public school system from the soon-to-be-disbanded Catholic school system. A total of $390,000 of the money would be allocated for purchasing the St. Frances school building; another $305,000 would provide for building an addition to the St. Frances building.

Farmers around Emerson have banded together to finance a dry fertilizer blend plant. The plant, which will be located in the southwest part of Emerson, should be in operation by the last part of this month. The building will have three bins with a capacity of about 90 tons each. A garage for storage will also be built.

The only other instance of a similar election which authorized purchasing of parochial school property by a public school system, according to The Randolph Times, was in Loup County. That bond election, for a total of $551,000, passed by a huge vote of 722 to 67—91 per cent approval.

Steven Liakos, head football coach at Stanton High School, has been hired as principal of the Coleridge Community Schools for the coming school year. A graduate of Alliance High, he was a four-year letterman and a wrestling letterman during his time at Kearney State.

The James Mable family of Pender has been selected to be the host family for next year's AFS student. Officials will now try to match the family with a suitable student from some foreign country who would spend a school year in the Pender system.

John W. Sanders of South Sioux City has filed for election on the Democratic ticket for Dakota County sheriff. A veteran of two years on the South Sioux police force, he is a member of the Nebraska Peace Officers Association and the Northeast Nebraska Mutual Aid Society.

Pierce County is certainly having its troubles in finding a candidate for the office of county assessor, according to a story in last week's issue of the Pierce County Leader.

About 25 farmers in the West Point area met recently to organize a Cuming County soybean growers association. Named to head up a membership drive to enroll area farmers in the state organization were Fred Meyer and Paul Meyer. Other area representatives were also named to work for increased membership and eventually qualify Nebraska for a spot on the National Board of the American Soybean Association.

The story, given top emphasis on the front page, outlines some of the problems the county is having now that the county assessor, Leo Synovec, has said he has "had enough" complaints from taxpayers and deflection from the state legislature and has decided not to seek the office again. One of the reasons for the problems in that county is the law passed by the last legislature which requires certification of all county assessors. Most of the possible avenues of escape from the problem stop at a dead end because of this certification requirement.

Arlo Wirth of Hartington has been appointed to the board of governors of Northeast Nebraska Technical College. He will fill the unexpired term of the Rev. J. Keith Cook of Laurel, who moved to Omaha recently. Cook's term will end in January and Wirth has filed to run in this year's election for four more years in the post as representative of Cedar and Dixon Counties.

When the state tax commissioner Murrell B. McNeill was told about Pierce County's problems, he laughed and said, "I've never heard of anything like that."

Message from the city park board in Hartington: "Keep those snowmobiles off the golf course."

Cigarette advertising on television and in some newspapers appears to be on the way out. The Boston Globe with its huge circulation has announced this week that it was ending publication of all cigarette advertising. How different television and reading are going to seem when no one claims they would walk a mile, rather than switch, have something for the two of you, and claim you can't take the country out of something. How strange it will be not to see young lovers compare the length, mildness and filters of their favorite brands. Gosh, what will they have left to talk about now?

like to attend Friday. A real nice gesture to be followed, right?

You are probably aware that the evening newscast known as "The Huntley-Brinkley Report" is on its way out and will be replaced August 3 by "NBC Evening News." Newscasters on the new show next summer are reportedly Frank McGee and John Chancellor. Do you suppose it will be listed as "The Frank and Johnny Show"?

The American Legion and Legion Auxiliaries, plus other organizations in the area have been naming delegates and alternate delegates to both Girls State and Boys State scheduled to be held on the University of Nebraska campus June 6-12. Being selected as a delegate or alternate to either is a real honor. J. W. wants to compliment each of you chosen by your hometown organizations as your selection speaks well of the way you work, play and study. Congratulations for conducting yourself in such a manner as to win the honor and approval of your school and community organizations.

The hometown newspaper reader makes more money, is better educated, and buys more goods than the average member of the audience for television, radio, general circulation magazines, and large metropolitan daily newspapers, according to a survey made by Daniel Starch & Staff, Inc. The report notes that hometown newspaper readers are better educated and that three-fourths of them are homeowners. There, how does that make you feel?

Say, would you like to start planning on doing a good deed as you plan your spring housecleaning? The Wayne Lion's Club is planning a white elephant sale in the near future. Items contributed will be auctioned and the proceeds will be used to construct a new eye institute in Lincoln. This early notice may help you decide what to do with a good usable item you no longer want around the house. More details will be announced later.

Just heard that the Retail Committee of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce is suggesting to local merchants that employees be allowed time off their jobs to attend Good Friday services at their respective churches if the employee would Isn't that some small that greets you occasionally as you step out-of-doors here in Wayne? Some say it is the sewer lagoon while others claim it is from other sources. Regardless of its origination, the odor is enough to make a person join all the others talking about pollution. Changing from the fragrance of your wife's "Evening in Paris" to the outdoorsy odor of a "Living Lagoon" is sure enough to make one strike out toward finding a solution to pollution. Perhaps we should consider spraying our beautiful city with a huge can of Right Guard?

PHYSICS LAB. Dennis Miller, Larry Cottrell, assistant professor of physics; Jaume Shaver and Larry Hesse were examining the hydrogen gas spectrum Monday afternoon in one of the new science building's laboratories, getting an idea as to the wave length emitted. Results of the observations will aid in constructing a model of the hydrogen atom via blackboard equations.

The storage room for the radioactive materials is an area constructed of earth and cement to insure proper shielding purposes. To eliminate the possibility of contamination, a special radiolabels counting room is designed to accommodate twenty students.

Our host observes, "Hopefully, in the very near future, a multi-channel analyzer and a sub-critical neutron source for conventional experiments and research projects will be added to the present scaler holdings."

It was thoughtful for the instructor, to explain it to this layman, but it reminded me of talking to my physician-as I got lost somewhere in the last sentence. But all of the spotlessly clean equipment and white laboratories kept nudging my thoughts saying, "Don't you wish you were back in school!"

We walked across the hall into the optics lab which is a versatile area where experiments in general physics as well as in optics may be performed. Presently, Tom Weiss, a senior physics student, is doing independent study of the Zeeman and Stark Effect. Dr. Brandt notes that a precision laser-based optical bench is anticipated to complement additional independent research by junior and senior students. Through yet another door we look into a dark room used in conjunction with the optics course and any astronomical photography which may be done in the future.

The electronics lab is expected to emphasize the use of the latest equipment in solid state physics. Students will encounter topics of quantum mechanics, modern physics, electricity and magnetism in the lab.

Our host points out that the general physics laboratories are designed on the 24-student module size to permit the laboratory approach to science instruction at the elementary level. The labs are conveniently arranged with a large storage area between the two, and with faculty offices and independent research areas nearby.

While touring the labs we are fortunate to observe several associate professors of physics at work with their students. Larry Cottrell is busy in the area of mechanics and optics; Dean Metz

New Laboratories Aid Physics Studies

Dozens of Wayne State College students walk into the new Ralph M. Carhart Science Hall daily where they attend various classes, lectures, and information centers in their pursuit of education. In this third article of a series in which Dr. Irvin Brandt has been our guide and host through the new science building, we will open a few classroom doors on the lower floor.

EXPERIMENTS in another laboratory in the new WSC science building were carried out Monday by these students in a class studying electricity and magnetism. Lionel Moore, assistant professor of physics, checks out an oscilloscope in the background. Seated students, from left to right, are Bill Wylie, Tom Weiss, Don Ankeny and Eldon Taake. Ankeny and Taake experiment with the measurement of voltage. Students Carol Wetrosky and Jean Earhart take a look at the oscilloscope screen. Dean A. Metz, assistant professor of science and mathematics, is at right.

This is the artist's conception of the central heating and cooling plant which Peoples Natural Gas will build at Wayne State College. The plant should be in service by November.

WS Heating, Cooling Plant Planned

Peoples Natural Gas, a division of Northern Natural Gas Company in Omaha, announced today it will construct a central heating and cooling plant on the Wayne State College campus.

The plant will produce steam for heating and chilled water for air conditioning for 23 buildings on campus. Peoples is the retail supplier of natural gas to Wayne.

Jack Osborne, president of Peoples, said construction is scheduled to begin in mid-April following the awarding of contracts on April 10. The plant is expected to be in service the first of November.

Two natural gas-fired boilers, capable of producing 48,000 pounds of steam per hour and two absorption-type chillers with the capacity of 1,062 tons, will be placed into service.

The steam and chilled water will be transported to the individual buildings by 10-inch pipes to be buried underground.

In addition to the steam and chilled water lines, condensate from the heating system will be returned to the plant for re-use through a four-inch underground return line. The distribution system will total 6,500 lineal feet.

Wayne State is presently served by heating and cooling equipment located at several sites around the campus.

The new plant will offer the most modern and efficient heating and cooling equipment available today. It will replace older pieces of equipment, some installed nearly 40 years ago.

The new plant is designed to be operated by one attendant during each shift.

"The project is the result of two and a half years of consultation with the Board of Trustees of Nebraska State Colleges, the State Attorney General's office, the Budget Committee of the State Legislature and with Dr. W. A. Brandenburg, president of Wayne State, and his staff," Osborne said.

Architect for the project is the Leo A. Daly Company of Omaha.

The Wayne campus plant capacity could provide enough steam to heat 480 average-sized homes each hour and enough chilled air to cool 350 average-sized homes per hour.

300 New Books Set for Exhibit At Winside Fair

New books are slated to be a big part of the scene in the elementary school at Winside as the school holds a student book fair March 31 through April 3, according to Mrs. Richard Powers, high school librarian.

Dan Ruess, a Wayne State college student teacher working with Mrs. Powers, is in charge of directing the four-day exhibit of approximately 300 new books written for students in grades primary through sixth.

Students will be able to browse and purchase books of their choice during the fair in the elementary art work room.

The book fair committee invites all students, parents and visitors to attend. The librarian noted that the fair will not only help spur student interest in reading and building home libraries, but will also contribute to a worthwhile project. The school earns 20 per cent of all sales and profits will be used for additional elementary school library materials at Winside.

Director Ruess pointed out that the book fair display will include attractive new books from many publishers in all popular price ranges. All reading areas of interest to students will be represented, including classics, fiction, biographies, adventure stories, science, nature, crafts, mystery and reference books.

A program related to the books and book fair will be presented during the Winside PTA program Tuesday night at eight o'clock.

Soloists with the orchestra will be Mogens Dalgaard, a young Danish pianist who is spending a month at Wayne State as musician-in-residence, and Jay O'Leary, assistant professor of music whose specialty is woodwind instruction.

Dalgaard will play the Edward Grieg "Concerto in A minor for Piano and Orchestra," one of the few longer works Grieg wrote. During his lifetime, 1843-1907, Norway became an independent nation, and Grieg, perhaps foremost among Norwegian composers, developed the first truly Scandinavian musical expression. His music is considered among the finest examples of nationalism in musical literature.

Final Rites for Frank Hamm, 81, Held in Osmond

Funeral services for Frank Hamm, 81, Osmond, were held Monday at the Stanosheck Mortuary, Osmond. Mr. Hamm died March 12, 1970 at the Osmond General Hospital, being in poor health for two years.

The Rev. Hervey Porter officiated at the rites. Recorded songs were "How Big Is God," and "The Old Rugged Cross." Pallbearers were John, Clarence and Vincent Hamm, Ora Wax, George Farran and George Johnston. Burial was in the Osmond Cemetery.

Frank Hamm, son of John and Ruth Hamm was born Nov. 6, 1888 at Shenandoah, Iowa. He married Nellie Mae Wooden Feb. 6, 1910. They moved to Wayne County where they lived until 30 years ago, when they moved to the Osmond community.

He was preceded in death by his parents, five brothers and six sisters. Survivors include his widow; two daughters, Mrs. Frank Lindsay, Wayne, and Mrs. Lloyd Sams of Cambria, Wis.; four sons, Ben of Osmond, Walter of Winside, Donald of West Point and Donald of Wayne; 14 grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren.

Guests Wednesday afternoon of Mrs. Jo Thompson for her birthday were Mrs. David Welch and Timmy and Mrs. Ella Graef.

Wayne State Symphony Finishes Special Programs

The Sioux City Symphony Orchestra, joined by two soloists from Wayne State, will present a concert Wednesday evening as the finale of the college's Special Programs for 1969-70.

The eight o'clock performance in James Theater of the Fine Arts Center is open to the public on a space-available basis. Tickets for the public will be sold at the door - $2 for adults, $1 for high school and elementary students. Admission is free to Wayne State students and faculty.

Symphony Conductor Leo Kucinski has chosen works from five masters - Wagner, Handel, Rimsky-Korsakov, Grieg and Tchaikovsky.

Soloists with the orchestra will be Mogens Dalgaard, a young Danish pianist who is spending a month at Wayne State as musician-in-residence, and Jay O'Leary, assistant professor of music whose specialty is woodwind instruction.

Dalgaard will play the Edward Grieg "Concerto in A minor for Piano and Orchestra," one of the few longer works Grieg wrote. Jay O'Leary at Wayne last Sunday, explained and played several Grieg works that expressed the Norwegian mood.

O'Leary will solo on Handel's "Concerto in G minor for Oboe and Strings." He plays oboe with the Sioux City Symphony and has soloed on clarinet many times in Wayne concerts.

Handel, though best known for "The Messiah" and other massive works, also wrote often for instrumental solos with orchestra. An oboe player himself, he was especially interested in writing music for it. The concerto that O'Leary will play is somewhat a trio for oboe,

Have You Read...

THE WORLD OF THE IMPRESSIONISTS

How long has it been since you've gone to the library? "I don't have time for reading any more," you say? At the pace we live today, that is probably true. Still, have you noticed that if the book is there - on the television, the night stand or cupboard shelf - it will somehow get read, during commercials, before going to sleep or while stirring the pudding?

The Wayne Public Library is constantly receiving new books. To say nothing of the classics and long-time favorites that line its shelves. Take a few minutes on your way home from work or from picking up the children today to stop in and browse.

If you honestly feel you don't want to spend several hours on something as involved and demanding as a novel, take a look at this recent addition to the city library, "The World of the Impressionists." This is a large, beautiful book of the works and biographies of 15 impressionistic artists: Jankind, Pissarro, Manet, Degas, Sisley, Cezanne, Monet, Morisot, Renoir, Seurat, Signac and Toulouse-Lautrec. The volume includes 112 full color illustrations and 66 portraits, photographs and documentary pictures.

When the works of these artists were first exhibited they were greeted with jeers. The public, accustomed to labored academic approaches to painting, laughed at the vivacious brushwork technique, the natural settings opposed to the studio compositions, they were familiar with and the artists themselves, who were so bold as to stray from convention and put on canvas their own "impressions" of life about them. The term "impressionism" began as a jest by the critics, but was adopted by the painters to announce this new way of seeing and painting.

These painters were primarily concerned with art's emotional power, and their works range from sunny visions of pretty women and children in poppy-strewn fields to eerie impressions filtered through haunted imaginations.

The author of this book is Professor Hans L. C. Jaffe, who was for a time curator and associate director of the Amsterdam Stedelijk Museum.

This is not a textbook, and requires no more than a few moments to be enjoyed. However, you will find yourself leaning through it again and again, and you will probably surprise yourself by being able to identify the style of several artists by the time you are ready to return this book.

first violin and second violin, with the lower strings accompanying.

O'Leary, a member of the Wayne faculty since 1966, has music degrees from the University of Colorado and Boston University. He also studied with Gino Cioffi, solo clarinetist with the Boston Symphony.

The orchestra will play the overture to "L'Enfer," first of Wagner's operas to be staged. Though it established him as an important composer, "L'Enfer" was only the beginning of the complete revolution that Wagner later achieved in opera.

Two Russian masterpieces will complete the program: Rimsky-Korsakov's "Capriccio Espagnole on Spanish Themes for Orchestra" and Tchaikovsky's "Marche Slav."

3 'Cats Named State College All-Stars

Ten men have been selected by coaches of the Nebraska state colleges as members of the Nebraska State College All-Star Basketball Team.

Wayne State and Kearney State each placed three men and Chadron State and Peru State each placed two men on the team.

Five of the choices are seniors and five are juniors.

Chosen from Wayne are Dave Schneider, 6-9 senior from Blair; Bill Goodwin, 6-3 seniors from Lennox, Iowa, and Dean Eloffson, 6-8 senior from Wayne.

Kearney's representatives are Jerry Wiley, 6-5 senior from Grand Island; Larry Hummel, 6-4 junior from York, and Wes Walden, 6-4 junior from Seward.

Chadron players are Steve Aggers, 6-2 senior from Taramie, Wyo., and Dale Eastman, 6-2 junior from Fremont.

Peru's selections are both juniors: Larry Green, 6-8 giant from Brock, and Clyde Wilkens, a short 5-10 guard from Lake Charles, La.

Difficult Problem Solved; 3 Wildcats Named MVP

The question of who was the most valuable player posed a knotty problem for the Wayne State basketball team, noted for balanced effort in its third straight Nebraska NAAIA championship season, just ended.

So the team solved the annual problem by electing three most valuable players—seniors Dean Eloffson of Wayne, Paul Emanuel of North Bend, and Bill Goodwin of Lawton, Iowa, Coach Dave Gunther said Wednesday.

The coach's selection of most improved player went to senior Dave Schneider of Blair. It was his third straight most-improved citation, though he shared it as a sophomore with Emanuel.

All seven seniors were named as a freshman and ran his career starting total to a Wayne 95, passing the 92 starts by Ron Hintz.

Schneider's statistics—13.9 point scoring and 7.0 rebounding for three campaigns—round out the team balance. But he was a rare performer in one way—starting only four games in four years but leading the scoring the last two years.

NU Annual Rodeo Set

Students from about 22 colleges and universities in seven states are expected to compete in the University of Nebraska's annual rodeo, scheduled April 17 and 18 at the State Fairground in Lincoln.

Contestants from schools in the Great Plains Region of the National Inter-collegiate Rodeo Association (NIRA) will represent Nebraska, Kansas, North Dakota, South Dakota, Iowa, Wisconsin and Michigan.

The NIRA-sanctioned rodeo features events for both cowboys and cowgirls. The top three contestants in the region in each event, as determined at the end of the rodeo season, will go to the finals in Bozeman, Mont., June 23-26. The NU Rodeo team is vying with teams from other schools in a series of NIRA Rodeos this spring, including the two-day event at Lincoln.

An evening performance will be held April 17 and an afternoon and evening performance April 18. The Saturday matinee will feature "Kid's Day" reduced admission prices.

During this performance, the NU Rodeo "Little King and Queen" will be crowned. The new contest for small fry is in addition to the annual contest conducted by the Rodeo Club to name a queen from a field of NU coed candidates.

Free Film Explains Recent Lending Act

A color filmstrip designed to acquaint consumers with the major provisions of the Truth in Lending Act is now available for borrowing free from the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City, a continuation of the effort by the Federal Reserve System to acquaint consumers and consumer creditors with the provisions of the Truth in Lending Act.

The filmstrip and accompanying phonograph record explain in easy-to-understand terms the meaning of the "finance charge" and "annual percentage rate" as they are required by the Truth in Lending Act. The filmstrip also explains the rescission and advertising provisions of the law.

Bankers, educators, newsmen and other persons interested in borrowing the 15-minute filmstrip may do so by contacting a Federal Reserve Bank, head office or branch. Requests from people in the Wayne area should be made to one of the following: Lewis Smith, Kansas City; Edward Schwartz, Denver; E. P. Farley, Oklahoma City; or Carl Tollander, Omaha.

Persons interested in purchasing a copy of the filmstrip and record may do so by writing the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System in Washington, D. C. 20551. The purchase price is $10 per set.

Exon to Arrive Here Today on Campaign Trail

J. J. (Jim) Exon, Democratic candidate for governor of Nebraska plans to be in Wayne today (Monday) around five o'clock when a social hour in his honor has been scheduled at the Black Knight, according to Leo Wortman, Wayne County president of the Exon for Governor campaign. Wortman is also area coordinator of the campaign in northeast Nebraska.

Wortman said the gubernatorial candidate will stop in West Point around nine o'clock today, travel to Beemer, then will be a luncheon guest at Wisner, travel to Pilger and Stanton before arriving in Wayne for the five o'clock social hour and 7:30 p.m. meeting on the Wayne State College campus.

The Wayne County campaign president noted that the public is invited to stop in at the Black Knight at five o'clock or shortly thereafter to meet Jim Exon during the informal get-together.

The Young Democrats at Wayne State College have arranged for an informal coffee hour at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Center with Exon as guest. Once again the public is invited to attend and get acquainted with the candidate.

The Democratic candidate has held a number of political, government, business and professional positions, as well as being a Thirty-Second Degree Mason, Shriner, member of the Lincoln Optimists Club, past I. A. Governor and member of the American Legion.

Business Notes

Dean Bruggeman, Standard Oil agent for the Wayne area, has received a diploma from one of the oil industry's most comprehensive agency operation training courses.

A two-week agent-training course, is conducted at a specially equipped training center operated by the Standard Oil division of American Oil Company at Fremont. During the course, Bruggeman was provided with technical knowledge required by today's farmer. Product knowledge and salesmanship also were stressed during this intensive period. In addition to the in-school training, Bruggeman received two weeks of on-the-job training from a company trainer agent.

Bruggeman, born at Laredo, Texas, graduated from school at Laurel. He joined Standard in 1969 as manager of the company's fertilizer plant in Wayne. He and his wife, Diane, make their home at 409 W. Seventh St. in Wayne.

LOCAL STAR: Dean Eloffson of Wayne set a new record at Wayne State for the number of games as a starter.

Friends Start Fund Drive To Buy Artificial Kidney

A group of friends and neighbors of Pete Haberer met Wednesday night and started procedures to raise sufficient funds, about $4,000, to purchase an artificial kidney machine for use by the Wayne resident.

Haberer has found it necessary to depend upon the machine for almost a year. It necessitates his going into Sioux City, Iowa, for a $400 day-long treatment once each week. Friends are hoping to raise the necessary funds as soon as possible so an artificial kidney can be placed in the home for his convenience. The machine replaces the normal function of the kidneys and cares for body waste from the blood.

The group of friends sponsoring the fund drive are forming a non-profit corporation to accept responsibility for the artificial kidney. A spokesman for the group said should the time come when Haberer no longer needs the machine, the corporation has expressed the idea of presenting the artificial kidney to the community.

Winside Pupils Plan to Attend Shriner Circus

Winside school students in kindergarten through the sixth grade will head for Sioux City, Iowa, March 31 to attend the annual Abu-Bekr Shrine Circus at the Sioux City Auditorium, according to Ronald Kramer, principal.

Kramer noted that the school will furnish bus transportation to and from Sioux City for the occasion. He said buses will leave from the elementary building in Winside at 12:45 p.m. Students plan to get back into Winside around 5:30 or 6 p.m.

The administrator is urging all students in those classes to participate in the outing as the board of education has approved it. However, he noted, that parents who do not wish to have their children attend may pick them up from the school at two o'clock.

Junior high and high school classes will be in regular session March 31, Kramer pointed out. He also explained that junior high and high school pupils will be responsible for their transportation home from school since the buses will be in use transporting elementary students to Sioux City.

In other Winside school news, students will be dismissed from school at 2:30 p.m. Thursday for a four-day vacation. Students will return to classes March 31. The seventh grade's roller skating party will be held April 10 at Randolph. It had been scheduled earlier for Wakefield but plans were changed.

manufacturing the equipment has assured the group that a machine will be available when they have sufficient funds to purchase it.

Contributions toward purchasing the needed equipment may be made at either First National or State National banks. Haberer's friends launching the fund drive have emphasized they are optimistic that such a friendly community as Wayne, its residents, businessmen and townsmen, will respond generously and have the needed funds soon.

Artificial kidneys are necessary when the kidneys suddenly cease to function as a result of disease or injury; when slowly progressive disease destroys the kidneys over a period of years; or when a person accidentally, or purposely, takes an overdose of a substance usually removed by the kidneys.

Auto's Exhaust Sneaky Killer

Carbon monoxide, a sneaky killer, is the motorist's deadliest enemy according to the Nebraska Department of Roads.

A main component of exhaust gases, carbon monoxide is colorless, odorless, tasteless and does not irritate the eyes or nose. But even in small amounts it can cause dizziness, nausea and slows a driver's reaction time to the point that an accident might result.

In large amounts carbon monoxide is fatal.

Warning symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning also include drowsiness, headache, poor coordination and faulty vision. If any of these reactions occur, the occupants of a car should immediately inhale deep breaths of fresh air.

Carbon monoxide is produced by imperfectly burned fuel. Excessive amounts may be caused by faulty engine adjustment. But even the best adjusted engine may leak enough of the gas to be fatal. The main danger points are clogged exhaust pipes, defective exhaust systems and faulty gaskets.

Here are suggestions for avoiding the dangers of carbon monoxide:

—Never run the motor of a car in a closed garage or other unventilated inclosure.

—Always keep a car window open to assure air circulation.

—Shut off the motor if you are sitting in a parked car for more than a few minutes.

—Check your engine for proper combustion.

—Check all points of the exhaust system for leaks and stoppages.

Scouting's main purpose is character development, citizenship training and mental and physical fitness for all boys.

Wayne State Sorority Plays Santa Claus

Last Thursday, with the Wayne area blanketed with perhaps the last snow of the season, Phi Mu Sorority at Wayne State played Santa Claus at the Mary Elizabeth Day Nursery in Sioux City.

Having decided to help children as one of their service projects for the year, the girls began last Christmas to make their project a reality. Over Christmas vacation each of the girls in the sorority collected repairable toys in her hometown. When the girls returned to school for the second term they asked Wayne residents to help by donating any repairable toys they had.

With the gifts from the Wayne people, the girls then pitched in, cleaning and repairing the toys, getting them ready for a sleigh ride to Sioux City. Working diligently like good Santa's elf's they were finally ready on Thursday.

All that remained was for three girls—Cheryl Bessey, Kathy Hunter and Mary Sherry—to load the toys in their car and head for Sioux City. Then like their counterparts in the North Pole, Phi Mu smiled to itself and returned to its schoolwork, knowing that in Sioux City the sun shone for a little while.

'Cash Basis Farmer May Defer Reporting Insurance Proceeds'

Under the Tax Reform Act of 1969, a cash basis farmer may elect to defer reporting receipt of certain crop insurance proceeds until the taxable year following the taxable year of destruction or damage of crops.

The decision may be made for taxable years ending after December 30, 1969, which includes calendar year 1969.

Richard Vinal, district director of Internal Revenue for Nebraska, said that under the new law a taxpayer may make this decision if he can establish that the income from the crops which were destroyed or damaged would have been reported in any taxable year following the taxable year of destruction or damage.

The election must be made on the taxpayer's return for the taxable year of destruction or damage by attaching to the return a separate statement signed by the taxpayer.

The statement must contain:—A declaration that the taxpayer is making the decision under Section 451(d) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954.

—The specific crop or crops destroyed or damaged.

A declaration that under the taxpayer's normal business practice the income derived from the crops which were destroyed or damaged would have been included in his gross income for a taxable year following the taxable year of such destruction or damage.

—The cause of destruction or damage of crops and date occurred.

—The total amount of payments received from insurance carriers, showing the amount for each specific crop and the date each payment was received, and —The name of the insurance carrier or carriers from whom payments were received.

Farmers who have already filed their calendar 1969 returns and made the election but who did not attach the required statement may still file the statement on or before April 15, 1970. Vinal said the statement should be forwarded to the IRS office with which the return was filed. He emphasized that the statement should include the taxpayer's name, address and identifying number as shown on the return.

Farmers who have already filed their calendar 1969 returns and did not make the election may make the election on a corrected return filed on or before April 15, 1970. Vinal said that corrected returns should be filed on Form 1040X, available at all IRS offices.

Three Wayne County Women Hear About Methods to Eliminate Hunger

Three women from Wayne County—Mrs. Eldon Bull, Mrs. Cheryl Asbra and Mrs. Ethel Martelle—were among those attending the Governor's Conference to Eliminate Hunger in Nebraska. They were given the charge to seek out any and all persons in this area who live with hunger as a daily companion.

During the day-long session in Lincoln Tuesday they were briefed on the workings of current government programs designed to alleviate hunger and aid the poor in obtaining the right foods for nutritionally-balanced meals on a regular basis.

Dramatizing the problem faced by low income groups, including welfare recipients, in making food purchases, was a sparse noon meal served to the 600 persons attending the conference at the National Guard Armory.

The meal was prepared on a budget of less than 25 cents per person. It consisted of a hot dog, beans, cole slaw and gelatin.

The conference was conceived by an ad hoc committee of concerned citizens representing numerous groups, organizations and state agencies as a follow-up to the White House Conference of Food, Nutrition and Health held in December, 1969.

Nebraska delegates to the national conference were leaders in planning the state conference.

The conference was the kickoff of "Project 93," a sustained statewide effort to find hungry people in Nebraska and feed them. Aim of the meeting was to organize and brief the nucleus of a task force to work in each county to extend the search. Underlying the conference and furnishing impetus for further action is "the sincere admission that the problem of hunger exists in Nebraska."

Delegates to the Lincoln gathering, planned with the full sanction and support of the governor's office, included representatives of Community Action Program (CAP) groups, welfare recipients, city and county officials, farm organizations, church groups and other civic organizations.

Conference participants heard addresses by Governor Telemann and Arthur McCaw, Deputy Administrator for Management, Food and Nutrition Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. McCaw is formerly from Omaha. A panel moderated by Elmer Schlaphoff, State Director of Agriculture, probed the complex question, "Why are people hungry in Nebraska?"

Following an explanation by appropriate officials on the operation of food stamp and other programs, delegates split into discussion groups to critique the programs and explore ways of improving them and expanding their outreach to greater numbers of persons.

At the end of the afternoon, ways in which county delegates may develop action programs in their respective areas following the conference were outlined in a general discussion led by Dr. John Orr, associate state leader of 4-H and young men and women at the University of Nebraska.

The group from Wayne County said the conference was useful in gaining a better understanding of the tools now available through various programs to deal with the hunger problem. However, they agreed that any real and lasting benefits will come only from application of any new insights to conditions in the county.

Win Cash Drawings

People from Wayne and Wakefield won the drawings for $40 the first two days at the Wayne Farm and Home Show.

Ed Kluge of Wayne won the prize on Thursday night, LeRoy E. Johnson of Wakefield won on Friday night. Winning the $25 prizes were Mrs. Louise Kahler of Wayne on Thursday and Mrs. Stanley Hedel of Winside on Friday. Mrs. Ted Armbruster's name was drawn for the $15 prize Thursday evening and Norman Malen's name was drawn for it Friday evening.

All-State Rank To Steve Erwin

Laurel's 6-6 Steve Erwin last week gained one of the highest honors possible for a high school cager when he was named to the Omaha World-Herald's Class B all-state squad.

Erwin, who averaged 21 points over 27 games this season, joins standouts Mike Sitorius of Cozad, Gene Harmon of Schuyler, Doug Hasby of Lexington and Jerry Clark of Imperial. All of the cagers named to the team are seniors except for Erwin, a Junior at Laurel Hills.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Verdel Erwin of rural Concord, Steve averaged over 16 rebounds a game and made 51 per cent of his attempts from the field.

Storius had a great deal to do with Cozad's whipping Laurel in the finals of the Class B state basketball tournament in Lincoln despite Erwin's 31-point production.

George Schroeder, a sophomore teammate of Steve's, was one of several players highly considered for the all-state honors. Also considered were Oakland's Allen (Anarsky and Tekamah's) Cem Mock.

Pork Meet Set For NE Station Next Monday

A program aimed at informing the pork producers in northeast Nebraska of the workings and functions of the Mercantile Exchange and the Board of Trade has been set for Monday, March 30. The meeting will be held at the Northeast Station near Concord and begins at 7:30 p.m.

According to Bob Fritschner, area swine specialist at the Station, there has been a great deal of interest among pork producers concerning the function of the Board of Trade. He indicated that a few are using the future market as a management tool and many more are interested in learning if it is something they should use. Pat Butera and Jim Masonbrink of First Mid-America of Lincoln will be featured on the program, designed for questions and discussion.

The pork producers' wives are encouraged to come also as the Northeast Porkettes are having a separate program for their interest. Coffee and ham sandwiches will be served.

All pork producers as well as agri-business associates are welcome. The program is co-sponsored by the University of Nebraska Extension Service and the Northeast Nebraska Pork Producers Association.

1969-70 All-Star Basketball Team Husker Conference - West Division

By Norvin Hansen

The emphasis is on youth in this year's West Husker all-star basketball team, the second one to be chosen by The Wayne Herald with the help of the eight division coaches.

Making up this year's team are two sophomores, three juniors and six seniors—a total of 11 because of a tie. That's a far cry from last year's squad of nine seniors and one sophomore. Named "cream of the crop" by the coaches were Wayne's Randy Helgren, Laurel's Steve Erwin, George Schroeder and Rod Erwin, Bloomfield's John Scott and Randy Stein, Madison's Ric Rotherham, Dave Wehrle and Mark Rakowsky, and Stanton's Rick Vranicar and Marland Erbst.

Although all eight teams in the west division of the Husker Conference failed to have representation on the mythical team, they did manage to have players among those receiving honorable mention. Gaining that distinction: Pierce's Kirk Hever, Kim Thomas, Gary Garvin, Mark Luebe, Brian Pitt and Rich Nave, Stanton's Don Eberly and Ted Poeschel, Plainview's Mike Mueri, Bloomfield's Larry Larson, and Neligh's Larry Helges.

Named coach of this year's team—also by a vote of the coaches—was Laurel's Larry Moore, most successful of the eight mentors this season.

Sophomores on this year's squad are George Schroeder from Laurel and John Scott from Bloomfield. Only sophomore impressing the coaches enough last year to be selected to the team was Laurel's Steve Erwin. Erwin makes the team again this year, as do junior's Marland Erbst from Stanton and Mark Rakowsky from Madison.

Making the biggest impression on the coaches in the conference in basketball this season—just as he did in football a few months ago—was Steve Erwin. He pulled down a total of 27 votes in the balloting—only one shy of the highest number a player could obtain in the system used. Not far behind him in second place in the voting was his teammate, George Schroeder, with a total of 23 votes.

The all-stars chosen by the conference coaches give a good indication of the strengths of this year's West Husker teams. Laurel, with three on the team, and Bloomfield, with two, both made it to the state tournament in Lincoln. Madison was one of the few teams to give Laurel a difficult time during the regular season, bowing to the Bears by a 69-68 score.

Each player named to the team receives a framed certificate of recognition. Complimentary copies of this issue of the newspaper are sent to each person on the team and to each school in the West Husker Conference. The all-star basketball and football teams were started by The Wayne Herald in the fall of 1968 in an effort to give recognition to the outstanding athletes in the eight schools. The West Husker Conference does not choose its own outstanding players.

Following are brief sketches of the cagers making up this year's squad:

Randy Helgren

Although he's the smallest man on the team at 5-8 and about 160 pounds, Helgren makes up in desire, and determination what he lacks in physical size. For example, he began averaging about 23 points a game the last half of the season after he shrugged off sickness and a wrist injury. He also ranked third high in re-bouncing for the Blue Devils, led his team in free throw shooting (73 per cent) and field goal shooting (38 per cent). One of Helgren's best games of the season came when he pumped in 26 points, grabbed eight rebounds and was credited with seven assists—all in less than three quarters of play. That effort helped the Wayne quintet knock off Neligh, 94-45, and earned Helgren the Herald's "Athlete of the Week" tag.

Helgren, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Helgren of rural Wayne, has an excellent attitude and high leadership capabilities, according to his coach, Dick Nelson.

Another thing Helgren has going for him is his academic ability. Like several other players on this year's squad, he is an honor student.

Steve Erwin

Tallest man on the squad is 6-6 Steve Erwin. No stranger to honors handed out for his athletic showings, Erwin led the Bears in all the important departments this season. He hit from the field at a fine 51 per cent clip, averaged 65 per cent from the charity stripe and pulled down just over 16 rebounds a game. One of the leaders of this year's high scoring Laurel team, he averaged 21 points in 27 outings.

Erwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Verdel Erwin of rural Concord, was also chosen for "Athlete of the Week" honors. Like Helgren, he is also maintaining fine marks in his classes at the same time as he competes in several sports.

George Schroeder

The second Laurel player on the team, sophomore George Schroeder, is also a fine student in class. Although one year young-

All-Star Coach
Larry Moore

Moore Heads All-Stars

Larry Moore, a graduate of Kearney State College, has been chosen to lead the latest edition of West Husker all-stars.

If those cagers ever got together and if Moore had a chance to guide them, the combination would be a potent one. In five years as head basketball mentor at Laurel, Moore has chalked up an impressive record of 98 wins and only 14 defeats.

Top season for Moore was the one just completed when he directed the Laurel Bears to their first trip to the state tournament since 1929. And in that state fracas the Bears produced one of the best showings among the eight Class B teams in the affair, defeating Lincoln Plus X and Fairbury before falling to top-ranked Cozad in the tourney finals. The Bears ended this season with a 25-2 mark and third position (behind Cozad and Lexington) on the Omaha World-Herald's list of top 10 Class B teams in the state.

One of Moore's opposing coaches noted that he was able to do a great deal this year with the material he had. That material was some of the finest around, the coach noted, but Moore taught his players a lot in such areas as fitness in handling the ball and rebounding.

Another coach noted that the Laurel players displayed excellent attitude this season, something which enables the other coaches and players to say they are proud they were in the West Husker Conference.

Moore, married last summer, has been teaching and coaching at Laurel for nine years. He took the Laurel job on after graduating from Kearney.

er than Steve, he was second high in those important statistics this season. He played in every game this year and came up with a 48 per cent average at the free throw line and a 62 per cent average from the field. Those averages enabled the 6-3 cager to maintain a 20.8 scoring mark this season. Also, Schroeder gave Erwin assistance under the boards, pulling down an average of just under 10 rebounds this season.

Schroeder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Schroeder of rural Laurel, also earned the Herald's "Athlete" tag during the basketball season.

Rod Erwin

Last man on the squad from Laurel is 6-0 Rod Erwin, cousin to Steve. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Quinten Erwin, also farmers in the Concord area, he was the spark plug for the Bears much of this season. He averaged 11.3 points a game (40 per cent from the line and 60 per cent from the field) and pulled down an average of about three rebounds in 27 games.

All three players receive praise from Moore for their hustle and willingness to work together for the benefit of the team. Those are some of the reasons the Bears were able to claw their way to runner-up position in the Class B end of the state tournament at Lincoln.

Marland Erbst

Concern about the final score of the game and not who makes the most points is the characteristic of Stanton's 6-2 Marland Erbst. An indication of his willingness to work for the team was in the game against Plainview when he pulled down 17 rebounds, had six assists and stole the ball four times. Although he averaged 10.3 points a game, he led his squad in assists, a distinction usually reserved for the guards on a team.

Marland, who ranks in the upper third of his junior class, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds Erbst of Stanton. A discus thrower and sprinter on the school's track team, he shot 39 per cent from the field and averaged eight rebounds and five assists during the season.

Rick Vranicar

Marland's teammate on the all-star team, Rick Vranicar, produced his best in the district tournament game against Battle Creek when he poured in 28 points, grabbed five rebounds and had four assists. That effort helped the six footer average 15.9 points, five rebounds and three assists during the year. He was top in several statistics for the Mustangs this season, including field goal shooting (46 per cent), free throw shooting (81 per cent), scoring and steals (two a game).

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Len Vranicar of Stanton, Rick displays an outstanding attitude toward both sports and school work, says his coach, Denny Doyle.

Dave Wehrle

Madison put three players on this all-star edition: seniors Dave Wehrle and Rick Rotherham and junior Mark Rakowsky.

Wehrle, standing just over 6-3 and weighing close to 200 pounds, averaged 20 points a game this year for Madison. Described by Coach Fred Letheby as a good shooter and a fine driver, Wehrle has taken part in both basketball and football for four years.

Ric Rotherham

Rotherham, a 6-2 senior, was right behind Wehrle in scoring this season, averaging 19 counters a game. A four-year cager in basketball and football, Rotherham is given credit by his coach for his quickness and his ability to bother his foes on the press.

Mark Rakowsky

Final Madison player to make the team, Mark Rakowsky is a 6-3 junior who should figure importantly in next year's team. This season he pumped in 19 points a game and made his presence felt under the boards. He has been out for football and basketball all three years in high school.

Bloomfield's Randy Stein and John Scott, important cogs in the first Bloomfield team to make it to state in several years, round out this year's team.

Randy Stein

Stein, 6-3 and 170 pounds, pumped in an average of 12 points a game this season (41 per cent shooting) and came off the boards with just under nine rebounds each contest. His free throw shooting was also better than 50 per cent. Best game for Randy was against Hartington. Cedar Catholic when he had 24 points and 18 rebounds.

John Scott

Scott, only other sophomore on the all-star team, averaged 14.4 points and 11 rebounds for the Bees this year. His best game this season was against Wausa when he tallied 24 points and fought for 16 rebounds. Scott stands 6-2, and weighs 190 pounds.
