

Group Continues Plans For Hospital District

Members of the Wayne Hospital Foundation continue to make preliminary plans for what they hope will result in the formation of a hospital district in the immediate area.

Bob Lund, president of the organization which was established to promote the interest of the Wayne Hospital and to plan for the eventual building of a new hospital, said Tuesday afternoon that Ellery H. Davis was recently in Wayne visiting with various hospital and foundation personnel. Davis is a member of Davis-

Fenton-Stranger-Darling Architects of Lincoln, a firm selected by the foundation to aid them in preliminary planning.

Davis was in Wayne seeking statistical data about the hospital, particularly information which will help determine the geographical area served by the hospital.

Lund noted that the representative of the Lincoln firm is presently gathering information for a feasibility report to be given to the WHF board at a later date. He also said earlier that the board has set up some temporary hospital district boundary lines with which to work. When boundary lines for the district are eventually established, the president explained, they will need to be approved by the Wayne County commissioners. Then an election would be scheduled to determine whether or not it is the will of the people to form such a district.

The WHF board members plan to meet at 5 p.m. Friday in the Chamber of Commerce building. On the agenda will be consideration of a proposal from the Robert F. Schweser Company of Omaha, fiscal agent for the foundation.

Original Works On Program for WS Stage Band

Some all-time favorites of pop music are on the program the Wayne State College stage band will play Monday night at 8 in Ramsey Theater. Also on the program are two original numbers written by members of the band.

One of the originals is the work of George Cook, a sophomore music major from Omaha. Entitled "Kathy," it is scored for the full stage band.

The other original, "Then Came Gringo," was written for a four-member combo by Mike Vondracek, a sophomore music major from Verdigris. Joining pianist Vondracek in the quartet are Larry Teager, South Sioux City, guitar and trumpet; Russell Roether, Clarkson, percussion; and Lee Carlson, formerly of Sioux City, now of Norfolk, vocalist.

Dr. Lee Mendy, director, considers his stage band a lab for experimenting with music. He encourages the musicians to compose and arrange.

Among selections the full band will play are "Green Bee" by Nestro and a Nestro arrangement of a theme from Rimsky-Korsakov's "Scheherazade." See BAND, page 6

Delegates Named For Boys State By Local Legion

Two Wayne High School juniors have been named as delegates to the 29th Commissioner Boys State—slated June 6-12 on the campus of the University of Nebraska, according to LeRoy W. Clark, commander of the Irwin L. Sears Post of the American Legion in Wayne. Legionnaires in Nebraska are sponsors of the annual Boys State program.

Mike Creighton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Creighton of Wayne, was named as delegate, and Craig Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Johnson of Wayne, is alternate delegate to the American Legion training school in citizenship and government. Legionnaires plan for approximately 400 juniors from throughout the state to attend Boys State.

Creighton has participated in three years of basketball, football and baseball at Wayne High School. He was a member of the Wayne Midget basketball team which went to the state tournament last year, and a member of the United Methodist Church.

Johnson played freshman football, and has participated three years in basketball. See BOYS STATE, page 6

Multiple Sclerosis Fund Drive Planned

Dates for the 1970 multiple sclerosis fund drive have been set according to Mrs. Jerry Malcom and Mrs. Euan Bennett, co-chairmen of the planning committee. The MS drive will be kicked off May 18 and will continue through May 24.

Area chairmen for the 1970 drive are Mrs. Dick Hamner, Mrs. Bob Wilson, Mrs. Larry Johnson and Mrs. Paul Otte. Pat Gross was named treasurer.

Top WSC Musicians To Perform Tuesday

Nine Wayne State musicians—including two from Wayne and one from Wakefield—will present an honors recital at 8 p.m. next Tuesday as a climax to the second-term recital series. They were selected as outstanding performers among the many who have appeared in earlier recitals.

The honor musicians include Paulette Merchant, piano, and Sallie Borg, soprano, both of Wayne, and Linda Anderson, organ, Wakefield.

Also to take part in the recital are George Cook, Omaha, clarinet; Vance Wolverton, Underwood, Iowa, baritone; Lee Carlson, Norfolk, baritone; Bonnie Goehneuer, Humboldt, Iowa, French horn; Heather Jackson, Omaha, cello; and Lita Beran, Tekamah, euphonium.

Signs Contract

Mrs. Sherlan Frey, art and dramatics instructor in the Wayne-Carroll school system, has decided to teach another year in the system, reversing an earlier decision to resign at the end of the present school year.

Superintendent Francis Haun said Mrs. Frey turned in her signed contract earlier this week, several days after the deadline for returning contracts by the teachers.

A graduate of Kansas State Teachers College at Emporia, Mrs. Frey teaches high school art and dramatics and Middle School art.

What else does a young boy do when he gets a vacation from school but go fishing? It's almost a tradition. Pulling a couple bunkers out of Logan Creek south of Wayne Monday during Easter vacation were Bret Seaman (left) and Donn Duffon. Fishing at another place on the creek didn't prove successful for Eric Lefstad and Bryon Biltoff. At least one of the youngsters got a short scolding from his mother for getting home late from the fishing trip. He missed his dinner meal. That's also close to a tradition for a young boy with a day off from school.

Council 'Buys' New Truck

The city of Wayne has ordered a new one-ton truck but has yet to vote whether to buy the truck, destined for the light department.

That seemed to be the predicament of the city council Tuesday night. Reason: the truck had been ordered from a local auto dealer after the bids on the truck had been turned over to the light committee for study. The light committee was supposed to report back to the council with suggestions about which bid to accept.

Instead, the truck was ordered after Bill Mellor of the city light department talked to committee member Ed Smith.

Councilman Anton Netherda Tuesday night questioned whether the truck should have been ordered without approval and vote of the city council since it involved expenditure of city funds. A member of the light committee, he had not been involved in the study of the bids prior to the decision.

Livestock Speaker To Look at Needs Of Communist Youth

Col. William Bowers, development officer of the University of Nebraska Foundation, will compare and contrast the wants and needs of the youth in Communist Europe and the United States at the coming annual Northeast Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association banquet.

The banquet will be held at the Wayne State College Student Union at 8 p.m. Saturday, April 18.

Col. Bowers is a retired Army officer who was in intelligence work in Communist Europe for two years. He served as a ROTC instructor at the University of Nebraska and an area ROTC commandant for one year before joining the non-profit foundation. Col. Bowers refuses to accept fees for speaking engagements; he has requested that any fee normally given a speaker be presented to the Foundation's 4-H youth development fund. Entertainment during the banquet will be organ music by Merle Ring, Wayne County feeder.

WS Coach Gunther Quits

Dave Gunther, head basketball coach at Wayne State College, has resigned to accept a similar post at the University of North Dakota, WSC President W. A. Brandenburg said Tuesday.

Gunther became one of the nation's winningest coaches in three years at Wayne as his teams posted a 70-13 record and won three straight Nebraska NAA District championships.

Although his resignation is effective at the end of the second term in April, Gunther will still direct the Wayne State Summer Basketball School, June 14-20. The school is open to high school athletes who will be in ninth through twelfth grades next fall.

Drive Builds Steam

The drive to raise money to purchase an artificial kidney machine for the Wayne area and to help with the huge expenses a Wayne resident is building up with his frequent trips to a similar machine in Sioux City had blossomed to $2,320 by late Tuesday.

The fund drive started the middle of last week with an initial $65 in contributions. By the end of last week the total was over a thousand dollars and still climbing. Members of the group which incorporated to conduct the drive noted that businessmen and individuals frequently told the solicitors to come back if they needed more money. Unbelievable was the way one member described the response to the drive.

Money being collected in the drive—donations can be sent to either bank in Wayne—will go toward paying for an artificial kidney machine which is available to anyone See DRIVE, page 6

These happy youngsters were prize winners in the second and third grade division of the annual Easter egg hunt, sponsored by the Federated Woman's Club, at the Winside auditorium Saturday. Winners, left to right, are Kathy Theis (fourth) and Becky King (second); Mitchell Pfeiffer (third) and Gregory Vriha (first place). All 75 children attending the party received treats. Members of the woman's club in charge of arrangements were Mrs. Kenneth Brockmoller, Mrs. Marvin Kramer, Mrs. Fritz With, Mrs. Jay Morse, Mrs. Alan Schrant and Mrs. N. L. Diltman. Fun to Win

Last summer Nebraska went to Scandinavia. Now Scandinavia comes to Nebraska—specifically, to Wayne State College for the "Spotlight: Scandinavia" conference scheduled Sunday and Monday.

The public is invited to participate in most phases, along with faculty members from the 10 Nebraska colleges involved with the Humanities and Social Sciences Development Program. The program, a function of the U. S. Office of Education, sponsors the conference, one of a series held on the campuses from time to time.

Norman Nordstrand, Wayne State assistant dean of faculties, views the conference as a natural response to the Nebraska-Scandinavian Institute which sent 22 Nebraskans to Denmark, Norway and Sweden last summer. He directed that institute and now has planned this conference, drawing on acquaintances as a former State Department official in Scandinavia.

Annual Spring Tour Set for College Band

The Wayne State College Band will go on its annual spring tour this week, playing at four high schools.

Conductor Raymond Kelton has arranged concerts Thursday at 10:30 a.m. at Lakeside High School, Columbus, and at Howells High School at 2:20 p.m.; Friday at Osmond High School, 9 a.m., and at Bloomfield High School, 10:45 a.m.

Vance Wolverton of Underwood, Iowa, and Joyce Koutecky of Omaha, will take solo roles, Wolverton playing alto saxophone, Miss Koutecky singing.

College Professor Now Laughs at Day of Anguish

Dr. Ben Bernstein wields words as well as a baton. This coming Sunday afternoon he'll be using the baton as he directs the Wayne State orchestra in its spring concert at 3 o'clock in Ramsey Theater.

Recently he put some memories to words, and the result is an article published in the March issue of "The Instrumentalist" entitled "General Omar Bradley and a Young Army Band—Reminiscences of the Good Old Days."

The article is a hilarious account of Bernstein's experience in the Army of World War II, when soon after induction he was summoned to his commanding officer's desk and asked—everybody who ever was in service knows what it means when the CO asks or suggests—if he Lose an Angel?

Phil Witt, senior at Winside High School, does considerable searching for Manuel in the senior class play "Down to Earth" slated for presentation at 1 p.m. and 8 p.m. Friday, and at 6 p.m. Saturday in the Winside auditorium. Who or what is Manuel? The class invites you to attend and find out. The three-act comedy-fantasy has to do with angels, one of whom has only one wing. There is, of course, a love affair in the plot and lots of laughs.

who knows what needs to be done in the crucial areas affecting us all. The taxpayers' revolt is a serious matter. The farmer of northeast Nebraska and small businessman on Main Street have a legitimate gripe about taxes. The dangerous thing is that the average working person is hitting out at the wrong things in his frustration, things like schools and hospitals. What is actually needed is a drastic overhaul of the entire tax system to eliminate the thousands of loopholes by which the 'fat cats' are getting richer and the average man poorer.

Other chairmen in the area include Mrs. Ronald Sampson of Wakefield, James Pearson of Concord and Ponca, Patrick Rogers of Randolph, Rev. Tom Peck of Bloomfield and Blair Richendler of Walthill.

Peterson is chairman of the economics department of the University of Nebraska. His father was born on a farm near Wakefield.

Pickup Strikes Auto

Wayne police were called to investigate a collision Saturday which occurred when a parked pickup rolled backward through an intersection and struck a parked car.

A 1967 GMC pickup owned by Gerald Baier of Wayne was parked on Blaine Street headed north. Officers said the vehicle rolled backward through the intersection at First and Blaine Streets, then proceeded downhill across the grass and hit a 1966 Ford owned by Donald and Robert Pfeiffer. The auto was parked in a driveway at 703 West First Street and sustained damages estimated at $347.15.

Monday, Wayne police officers received a complaint of a noisy party at the Woehler Trailer Court.

Funeral Services At Baptist Church For Lucille Likes

May Fulfill Sunday Obligations Saturday

St. Mary's Parish Council announced Sunday that beginning this Saturday, April 4, area Catholics will be allowed to satisfy their Sunday Mass obligation at a 5:30 p.m. mass to be held each Saturday evening. Permission was recently granted by Archbishop Daniel Sheehan, Omaha, for the Sunday Mass obligation to be fulfilled on Saturday wherever pastoral necessity warrants it.

Because of this permission, persons who work Sundays, or for other reasons find it difficult to attend Sundays may fulfill their obligation at this new time. The Sunday Mass schedule will remain unchanged.

A spokesman for the parish Council stated that this change is experimental, and the entire program will be reevaluated when the parish moves to the new church.

Counter Heights for Comfort
Unless the homemaker is one of the few who are standard height, she may be working at a disadvantage in her own kitchen. Unfortunately, the standard 36-inch counter suits only a small proportion of homemakers. Even those lucky few find the counter not of convenient height for many jobs.

Working at the wrong height counter is very tiring. According to research findings, one's elbow height determines the most comfortable height when standing. For most activities in the kitchen, the homemaker needs a work surface three inches below her elbow height. However, if she is holding a mixer or beater, or mashing dough, the work surface should be six or seven inches below elbow height. If she is sitting, the work surface should just clear her thighs.

It is obvious even the standard height woman needs more than one work surface height. If she can work with a straight back and relaxed shoulders, her work surfaces are well located.

Counters need changing, some easy adjustments can be made without rebuilding the kitchen. Height can be added to the counter by putting blocks under the cabinet or by putting a platform on top. For lower heights, use or install pull-out boards above or below the top drawer in a base cabinet. These usually can supply the sufficient work height needed for various jobs.

Kitchen storage units are important, too. Straining to reach articles stored on very high or very low shelves is tiring and can be dangerous. Consider storing the most used appliances and dishes where they can be reached easily. Save the inconvenient shelf for the very infrequently used items.

For comfort and physical fitness the homemaker should not try to fit herself to the standard cabinet. Her kitchen should fit her—not visa versa.

Carla Rethwisch, Clarence Abbott Married Saturday

The marriage of Carla Rethwisch, Lansing, Mich., to Clarence Abbott, Flint, Mich., was solemnized in Spiritual assembly of the Bah'ais rites at Credit Union Hall, 1101, Mich., Saturday afternoon. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Rethwisch, Carroll.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a white A-line short length dress featuring scooped neckline, and sheer white pleated sleeves, gathered at the wrists. She carried a nosegay of white daisies.

Honor attendants for the couple were Vaudeine Weber, Fremont, who wore a marigold colored street length dress, and Bates Abbott, Flint, Mich. The men wore blue business suits. Mrs. Rethwisch chose navy and white for her daughter's wedding.

Following the ceremony Kurt Rethwisch and Mr. and Mrs. John Rethwisch hosted a reception for 120 guests at the hall. Mrs. John Mohr, Wayne, registered guests. Sheryl Speer and Darlene Holly cut the cake, which was served by Susan Williams and Mrs. Alice Seacor. Mrs. Kurt Rethwisch poured and Marjanne Smith served punch. Mrs. Catherine McTulles and Mrs. Pauline Brown worked in the kitchen.

For her going-away ensemble the bride chose a yellow A-line dress. The couple took a wedding trip to Chicago, Ill., and Knoxville, Tenn., and will make their home at 1241 W. Knickerbocker, Flint, Mich., where the bridegroom is in real estate development.

The bride received her BA at the University of Nebraska and taught in the Macy Public School system and in the Portland Public School system. The bridegroom attended American International College and served four years with the U. S. Air Force.

Blue Devil Diamond Crew Looks Potent

Although several regulars are gone from last year's team, the Wayne High baseball squad should prove to be one of the strongest teams in northeast Nebraska. At least on paper.

Nine lettermen are among the 27 boys seeking starting positions on Mike Mallette's crew. Who Mallette will go with in the opener — with Dodge here Monday — is pretty much in doubt and probably won't be settled until he gets to see the boys in action outside, something the weather hasn't permitted much of going into this week.

Returning lettermen this year: seniors Terry Hurbert (cf), Rick Ginn (lf), Dennis Redel (rf) and Randy Helgren (c, ss); juniors Mike Creighton (c), Dick Tietgen (1b), Jim Kenny (2b, ss) and Rod Cook (p, 3b), and sophomore Mike Ginn (p, ss). Starters for last year's successful team were Hurbert, Redel, Helgren and Cook. Probably starters this season include the other lettermen and senior Mike Billoft at second base and outfield.

Last year's team went undefeated until getting knocked off by Valley in the finals of the state tournament at Lincoln. That loss was the first defeat in two years for Wayne, winners of the state Class B trophy in 1968.

Regulars gone from last year's squad include starting pitcher Wayne Magdanz, catcher Butch Meyer, second baseman Dave Tietgen, first baseman and pitcher Jerry Tietze and right fielder Steve Hix.

Overin Breaks Mark In Recreation League

Earle Overin didn't take long to break his own scoring record in recreation basketball action. After hitting 40 points earlier in March to break the previous record, he compiled 42 last week on the Middle School court to set another record.

Overin's scoring efforts are one good reason his squad is leading the seventh grade league with a 5-1 mark. Hansen's team is in second place at 4-2, followed by Meyer's team with 2-4 and Mitchell's team with 1-5.

Overin's 28-point average also is tops in his league as the youngsters enter the final week of play. Other high scorers among the seventh graders are Marty Hansen with a 24-point average, Jack Froehlich with 18, Mike Meyer with 18, Rick Mitchell with 15 and Greg Billoft with 13.

Scott Ehler's team leads in the eighth grade league with a record of five wins and one defeat. Trailing that squad are the teams of Jech and Bigelow with 3-3 marks and the team of Schwartz with a 2-4 record.

High scorers in the eighth grade competition: Scott Ehlers with an 18-point average, Kerry Jech with 17, Bill Schwartz with 15, Jeff Lamp with 12, Gordon Cook with 11 and Todd Bigelow with 10.

All-Star Coaches May Be Named

Coaches for the second all-star high school basketball game may be named Saturday by the basketball committee of the Nebraska Coaches Association, the sponsor of the game.

Basketball committee chairman Wally McNaught of Lincoln Southeast said the selection of the coaches and their assistants for the North and South squads is the primary item "on a rather ambitious agenda."

Last year's coaches were Ed Johnson of Lincoln Northeast for the North, Merle Bauer of Holdrege for the South. Assistants were the North's Tom Brosnahan of Creighton Prep and the South's George Pfeiffer of Boys Town.

McNaught said other matters on the agenda will include a discussion of training camps, advance ticket sales, game rules and a proposal for public relations and production of the game program.

Although selection of the players for the game will not be completed at Saturday's meeting, McNaught said a chart of the boys who have been nominated will be made available to the committee members.

McNaught said he has received 158 nominations naming 100 boys.

Goodwin Gains Another Laurel

Still another recognition for athletic achievement has come to Wayne State's Bill Goodwin. He is listed in the 1970 volume of "Outstanding College Athletes of America."

Nominated by coaches of their schools, these athletes were chosen to appear in this awards publication on the basis of achievements.

Goodwin, in February, received the honor of Wayne State's Outstanding Athlete of the Year. He has been cited on several all-Nebraska basketball teams and was honorable mention in the NAIA All-American.

The senior from Lawton, Iowa, also is a baseball star, both as a pitcher and outfielder.

"Outstanding Athletes" is sponsored by the Outstanding Americans Foundation, a non-profit organization dedicated to honoring Americans of achievement. The 1970 volume lists about 5,000 athletes with a biographical account of their athletic prowess.

Relay Date Changed

It's getting to be an annual thing to postpone the annual Blue Devil Relays.

The event, held each spring on the Wayne State track and field, had been scheduled for Friday, but snow and water on the track has forced the event to be moved ahead to Monday, April 27. Permission to advance the date, second time in a row that has been necessary, was gained early this week from the Nebraska School Activities Association.

The senior from Lawton, Iowa, also is a baseball star, both as a pitcher and outfielder.

Wayne High Golf Mentor Hopeful

Coach Harold Maciejewski says he has high hopes for his Wayne High golf squad this year. Reason: three of the four members of last year's winning team are returning for another go on the links.

A total of 11 hopefuls had turned out for the golf squad by early this week, Maciejewski said. Among those 11 are senior Jim Sturm, junior Jack Suhr and sophomore Kyle Williams, all members of last year's team which won the Husker Conference championship prior to earning a ticket to the state tourney. Lost from last year's team because of graduation was Chuck Fisher.

Also vying for positions on the first team are senior Ted Armstrong, junior Craig Johnson, sophomores Rex Murray, Dave Kurda, Mark Wiltse, Todd Bornhoff and Rick Fields, and freshman Max Teeter.

Last year Maciejewski turned out a golfing team which won the school's third straight Husker Conference trophy. The squad also qualified for the state affair for the third year running.

Although he's hopeful, Maciejewski says he's not sure how

Eagles' Job Not Small

The Allen Eagles have their work cut out for them on the baseball diamond this spring. An indication of how they are going to respond to that job might be available during the season opening game with Wakefield Monday.

Entering his second season as head baseball coach, Don Kruse can look to only three returning lettermen for a nucleus: John Axts, Dennis Geiger and Brian Linafelter. The majority of the Allen diamond specialists, almost all of last year's squad, were lost by graduation.

Kruse will send his squad up against the traditional rivals from Wakefield at 3:30 Monday to open the 1970 season. Next game on the schedule for the Allen nine is next Thursday when they host a respected team from Bancroft.

Although Kruse has been having the same difficulties as other

Nine Fined $670 In County Court

Nine persons appeared before Judge Luverna Hiltton in the Wayne County court Friday through Tuesday and paid a total of $670 in fines and court costs.

William M. Murphy, Ofutt AFB, Omaha, was fined $10 and costs of $5 on a speeding charge.

Dennis A. Hanson, Wayne, paid a fine of $10 and costs of $5 for illegal parking.

Kenneth Floer, Winslow, fined $10 for being overweight on capacity plates, and also paid a $75 fine and $5 costs on a charge of being overweight on axle.

Kevin Johnson, Hoskins, fined $10 and costs of $5 for passing on a hill.

Fined $100 and court costs of $5 on the charge of possession of alcoholic liquor by a minor were each of the following: Jerry Walsh of Hubbard, Terry Jones of Laurel, James Barnett of Hubbard, Dennis McCormick of Laurel, and Nicholas Kintberg of Laurel. Kintberg was also fined $10 for speeding in zone limits.

WSC '9' Makes Home Debut Friday

Wayne State's baseball team will make its home debut Friday afternoon with Southern State of South Dakota the opponent for a 1 p.m. doubleheader. The game will be played on the college diamond if the field is dry enough; if not, on a field in a neighboring town.

Saturday the Wildcats are billed for a 3-1 p.m. doubleheader with Dana at Blair, then another twin bill at home against Yankton next Wednesday, also at 1 p.m.

Wayne brought home a 1-3 record from a southern trip which was scheduled for eight games. Weather canceled doubleheaders with William Jewell last Thursday and the University of Missouri atolla Saturday.

Friday at Springfield, Wayne lost 2-0 and 5-3 decisions to a strong Southwest Missouri State nine which last year finished second in the NCAA college division national tournament.

Monday at Topeka, Kan., the Wildcats dropped their first game to Washburn, 7-0, but retaliated with a 3-1 win in the second. Jerry Nicolarsen of Hastings went four hits while Wildcat bats poled 11 hits. That was one more hit than Wayne got in the first three games total.

Coach Fred Pierce said Wayne pitching looked good for early season — "good enough to win except that we did not get enough hits, and errors also hurt."

But, Pierce noted, the team had not been able to practice outdoors for several weeks. Result: batting eyes and fielding hands were below par, he said.

Cage Clinic Set for WSC June 14-20

Wayne State's winning Dave Gunther — 70 victories against 13 losses — plans a first for the Wayne area this summer: a basketball clinic for area prepsters.

Helping Gunther with the school will be his assistant on the basketball court, Ron Jones.

The school will be a week long, from June 14 through June 20, and will include instruction in the fundamentals of basketball with special attention to defense. High school students who will be in the ninth through 12th grades next fall are eligible for the school. Cost of the school, which includes housing and meals for the full week, is $80. Attendance will be limited to insure proper instruction, says Gunther.

Both Gunther and Jones coached high school basketball before moving to the college level. Gunther was head mentor at Kimball High School in Royal Oak, Mich., from 1964 to 1967, developing a conference champion in his first year and being named Suburban Area Coach of the Year for the feat by the Detroit News. During three years at the school, Gunther conducted summer clinics similar to the one planned for Wayne State. Jones coached

Free Star Shows in April

With final installation of the student response system completed, area residents will now have an opportunity to visit the Fred G. Dale Planetarium for a series of introductory showings.

The planetarium will be open to the general public every Sunday afternoon through the month of April, with showings being scheduled for 2:30 and 4 p.m. The April 12 presentation is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. because of graduation exercises earlier in the afternoon.

The same basic show will be given each week and will be designed to show the capabilities of the planetarium equipment, as well as introduce some of the basic concepts of astronomy.

Each show will begin promptly at the designated time and will last approximately one hour.

Late arrivals will not be admitted. Because of the nature of the shows, it is requested that parents not bring children under five years of age. The planetarium is located on the first floor of the Ralph M. Carhart Science Hall on the Wayne State Campus.

The planetarium installation features an A4RP projector which can project over 2,000 stars, planets, comets and groups of stars known as constellations. Stereo music, coming from 16 hidden speakers, encircles the audience.

Showings during April will be presented by Carl Rump, director of the planetarium. Sunday afternoon showings during May are also being planned and will be presented by Prof. Larry Cottrell of the physics department. There will be no charge for these introductory shows.

Coach -

(Continued from page 1) and a letterman in football and track too, Gunther went on to cage fame at the University of Iowa. He earned most valuable player honors all three of his Hawkeye varsity years, was an All-American honorable mention, All-Big Ten and All-Midwest (Selected by Look magazine).

He played four years of professional basketball after 1959 Iowa graduation, coached at Charles City, Iowa, High School, was an assistant coach at Westmar College and coached three years at Kimball High School, Royal Oak, Mich. The Detroit News named his Suburban Coach of the Year after his 1965 Kimball team won a conference title.

Coming to Wayne from Kimball in 1967, Gunther gained several more honors. NAA District coaches twice named him basketball coach of the year and the five-state NAA Area 3 accorded the same honor last year. He was the Lincoln Journal and Star's Nebraska coach of the year in 1968, the Omaha World-Herald's coach of the year in 1969.

Drive -

Those sponsoring the drive emphasized that the machine will be used by Haberer only a very short time each week. The rest of the time, they point out, it would be available to anybody who needed it. The machine would also be there should a person swallow some solution such as a poison which the body could not remove safely. The small charge for operating the machine would amount to $40 or $50 considerably under the $400 charge for people who must go to a hospital for treatment, the drive members point out.

Names of people donating to the drive will be published weekly in The Wayne Herald. Donors who wish to remain anonymous should request that when they give their money. It was originally planned to publish the names of donors along with the amounts given. However, because of the number of people collecting the donations it became difficult to make sure whether donors wanted their names published or wanted to remain anonymous, Pat Gross, treasurer for the drive, said.

"So that no one will be embarrassed, the board has voted to only publish the names and not the amounts given," said Gross. "Of course, the records of donations are available to audit at any time," he added.

Following are those who contributed during the first week of the drive:

Law and Order Certificate

Sheriff Don Weible, at left, was presented a certificate containing the Ten Commandments of Law and Order from the American Legion during County Government Day, March 25 at the Wayne County courthouse. Carl Scheel, representing the Legionnaires, made the presentation. Sheriff Weible is completing three terms as county sheriff and will seek a fourth term in office in the election this year.

Clerk Updating Local Register Of Area Voters

White-card forms are being mailed to registered voters in Wayne County by Norris Weible, county clerk, in the process of updating the county's list of registered voters.

The cards are mailed and are not forwardable in case the address has moved to another address. Weible said Friday that his office has mailed the cards to five out of the 17 voting precincts and there seems to be a little confusion regarding the perforated portion of it. The recipient is to keep the perforated portion. The card is not to be mailed back to Weible, Clerk Weible explained if the registrant is still at the address indicated on the card, then he or she is to keep the perforated tag. Cards that are not deliverable are returned to the local postmaster and then to Weible.

The county clerk said some folk have taken the clerk's return address of his office to mean the cards was to be mailed back to him.

Weible noted that people who have changed address since registering for the last election must re-register.

Professor -

Well, of course, he could train some buglers. What else could he say? The story goes on to relate the anguish of training buglers who hardly knew which end of the bugle to blow on. But eventually a bugle corps emerged, then a full band.

Finally came the day when the CO announced that the band would play for The Parade, that being a ceremony in honor of the visiting division commander. Naturally, every move by every soldier was supposed to be perfect.

As it turned out, the band somehow turned one way instead of the other and ended up where it was not supposed to be. But it played dutifully under scorching sun while director Bernstein had visions of the big eternal.

What happened? After the ceremony, the division commander personally came to thank the band for its fine performance on a hot day. And, Bernstein concluded his story, he knows why Gen. Omar Bradley was revered as a "soldier's soldier."

Trombone - Bruce Linafelter, Allentown, Wis.; Woodbine, Iowa; Jackie Armstrong, Millford; Wayne Moorhead, Norfolk.

Trumpet - Keith Krueger, Winnsboro; Bonnie Doten, Wausau; Jack Fischer, Norfolk; Larry Teager, South Sioux City; Wally Schlenz, Madison.

Drums - Russell Roether, Clarkson, Spring Bass - Gary Dunker, Schuyler, Piano - Carol Bleanz, Tekamah, Tuba - Joe Aerialoph, Dodge, Frenchhorn - Loralee Nelson, Tekamah, Bonnie Cochenouer, Humboldt, Iowa.

Scandinavia -

All of these events are open to the public, in addition to an exhibit of prints by six Danish graphic artists, to be shown in the Fine Arts Center.

Also on the program, but limited to conference participants, is a lecture after lunch Monday by Dr. Norman Hansen of the Dana College English department, his topic: "A Nebraska 'New'ist: Sophus Hehl Winther." He will discuss the works of Danish-born Winther, who wrote several novels about Danish settlers in Nebraska.

Boys State -

(Continued from page 1) years in basketball and two years in golf. He is active in the youth group at the United Presbyterian Church.

Juniors named as delegates and alternate delegates to Boys State are preferably in the upper half of their class scholastically, stand well in school citizenship, have leadership qualities, and in good health.

Boys State is a workshop in government. Each boy is required to take an examination based on various phases of government after reaching Boys State and while there will hear lectures on governmental activities. The boys elect their own state, county and city officials and actually conduct all phases of governmental work.

Cattle Study -

Even though producers may not be able to have cattle ready for market Aug. 1, they and others interested are invited to take part in the selection of feeder cattle by their neighbors and in the final live evaluation and the carcass study.

Council -

(Continued from page 1) Next lowest apparent bidder was Lee Sweeney of Wayne with an $87,819.50 bid. Highest bid turned in on the work was $147,910.60 by Gerhold Construction Co. of Columbus. Alternates were included in most bids.

Other bids opened included those for the two wells to be dug north of the city, one near the Dude Ranch Drive-in and one on the northeast corner of the golf course. The wells will be 185 feet and 105 feet deep.

Apparent low bidder's were Layne-Western Co. of Omaha with a $22,311 bid and Salmon Well Co. of Wakefield with $23,757.40 bid.

Cedar Construction also turned in apparent low bid on the sanitary sewer work planned by the city. That bid, $32,737, was slightly under the one turned in by Gerhold Construction of $34,841.94.

In other action the city council:

- Approved purchase of 30 blue lights at $22 each for the cars of volunteer firemen.
- Accepted federal funds of $1,737.50 as matching funds to help the city and county with converting the radios at the hospital to a special hospital frequency.
- Agreed to purchase a new sewer cleaning machine which works on high pressure water. The machine will replace the present machine, considered by the council and street department as dangerous to operate and not satisfactory. Price of the new machine is $8,134.
- Gave Vern Schultz, streets commissioner, the authority to draw up specifications for an underground gas tank and pumps. The city, Schultz explained to the council, could pay for the tank and equipment in less than two years with the savings gained on lower priced bulk gas prices.

G. Gildersleeve Dies; Rites Held At Wiltse Chapel

Funeral services for Glenn Gildersleeve, 76, Wayne, were held Monday afternoon at the Wiltse Chapel, Wayne. Mr. Gildersleeve died March 27, 1970 at the Wayne Hospital.

The Rev. Cecil Bliss officiated at the rites. Music was special taped selections. Burial was in Greenwood Cemetery, Wayne.

Glenn Gildersleeve, son of Charles F. and Lillian Cunningham Gildersleeve, was born Feb. 25, 1894 in Wayne County. He married Hazel Wepping at Lincoln July 11, 1923. He served with the U.S. Army during World War I.

He was graduated from Nebraska Wesleyan University and received his master's degree from Columbia University. He had been State Director of Music in Delaware and was head of the music department at Madison College, Marietta, Va., until his retirement.

He was a member of Asbury United Methodist Church, Harrisonburg, Va., and was a 50-year member of the Masonic Lodge, A. M. and A. F. 120.

Preceding him in death were his parents and his wife. Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Gene Snyder, Harrisonburg, Va., and Mrs. Duane Branstetter, Fairfax, Va.; a sister, Helen Gildersleeve, Wayne, and six grandchildren.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The editorial department of a weekly newspaper is an important department. Normally it is one person's opinion of topics that concern most of the readers.

You may not agree with an editorial—but if you read the editorial and give serious thought to the subject discussed you have gained. You, as a reader, have given careful thought to an important problem and the writer is proud to have called your attention to an important subject that you may have overlooked.

How Safe Is Housing in Wayne?

Two trailer fires last week prompted us to start thinking about the safety of some of the housing offered renters in Wayne.

Just how safe is that housing? Are there cases where the housing is dangerous? Do fire and other hazards exist? Are renters living in homes and apartments that should be declared unfit to live in? In short, are some owners of rental property bending or breaking laws and ordinances either through neglect or a desire to make a few more dollars off their property?

Questions such as those are not pleasant to ask. However, it is better for somebody to ask them now rather than after a death or serious accident occurs because some unsafe condition was allowed to go unchecked.

Wayne is not large enough to afford a person who can check on all the housing in the city to make sure it meets standards and regulations regarding such things as fire hazards, water pollution and faulty construction. However, it can check out individual homes and apartments if somebody turns in a complaint about a danger he thinks exists. If the danger is real, the city can then act to force compliance to regulations.

That is one way the people in Wayne have of making sure the rented homes or apartments they are living in are safe. Another way is by relying on the integrity and honesty of the landlord. Thankfully, most of those can be relied upon. —NLI.

Sidewalks

A letter to the editor and an editorial concerning sidewalks in Wayne appeared in Monday's issue of The Herald bringing the community's attention to the lack of adequate sidewalks in certain areas of the city.

Various situations exist in Wayne related to sidewalks. Some property owners keep a watchful eye on the walks crossing their property. On the other hand, there are properties where no sidewalks exist.

Persons owning property where walks have been in for a number of years and are getting in bad shape might be interested in a recent decision made by the Nebraska Supreme Court.

A lady was walking in Lincoln and was injured as she tripped over a water pipe protruding from a city sidewalk. She sued and the jury awarded her $14,500 even though the property owner and city argued that the woman was partially negligent in her use of the sidewalk.

In an opinion by Justice Hale McCown, cities and property owners have a joint responsibility to maintain sidewalks in safe condition. Now that most of the snow is gone and sidewalks are readily visible it might be a good idea for those who own property in Wayne to check the condition of sidewalks on their property or properties.

Many homeowners carry insurance which would cover them if someone was injured on their sidewalk. Do you know the limits of your insurance if you have such? Is it adequate? Should the policy be broadened and updated?

The Supreme Court's ruling sets a precedent in Nebraska related to similar legal cases involving personal injuries on sidewalks. If someone is injured in front of your house, are your sidewalks in such a condition that a court could prove the city and homeowner negligent?

Now that warmer weather is coming, perhaps it might be well worth the time and effort to check the walks and see that repairs are made where necessary.

If the city and homeowners work cooperatively, everyone will benefit from the well-kept walks. —MMW.

Where's That?

Occasionally a person in high government office displays some reasoning which gives a person to hope all is not lost. Such a person is J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

One of the first prominent men to point out the ridiculousness of the Viet Nam War, Fulbright last week directed his attention to the stupidity of the nation's attempt to send an envoy to every country in sight. He made the comment after the appearance before his committee of the representative to Mauritius, a small nation off the east coast of Africa.

Fulbright seemed to paraphrase one of Parkinson's laws when he said, "It's a momentum in the bureaucracy to do everything in the biggest possible way," he noted, "We're broke now and I don't think the State Department realizes it."

Day in and day out we have late citizens complaining about the high taxes we pay on all levels. Without a doubt, every level has its ambassador to Mauritius. —NLI.

Meaning of M.I.P.

MIP means a lot of things, particularly if you have a teen age son. Those letters usually refer to charges in a numbered case on the court docket—minor in possession. The actual charge is something like "minor in possession of alcoholic liquor or drugs," but it happens so often that for the sake of brevity the charge is referred to as MIP.

MIP could also possibly mean "mighty important person." Do you consider your son as such? One thing for sure, when a young lad is picked up for being a "minor in possession," he certainly is also a "mighty important person."

Wayne police report 31 minors arrested in 1968 for being in possession of alcohol. Out of that total, four cases were dismissed, two cases were not filed and one was to appear after December 31, which put his case into 1969. Deducting those seven cases, it leaves 24 youths arrested who paid fines totaling $2,400. This is no small sum.

Then in 1969, according to the police report, 25 minors were arrested on MIP charges. Two cases were not filed, three turned states evidence and five cases were dismissed, leaving a total of 15 persons arrested paying a total of $1,200 in fines.

Capital News — NSAA Learns from Experience Shifts Track Meet to Kearney

LINCOLN — The traveling state high school track and field championships hit the road again.

The board of control of the Nebraska School Activities Association, which earlier had scheduled the spring sports carnival for Omaha, last week changed its mind and returned the event to Kearney State College.

The board members said there had been heavy pressure from parents, school officials and coaches to avoid Omaha this year—especially after incidents in the corridors of the Omaha Civic Auditorium after the Class A basketball championships.

The action last week concerned only the site for this spring's track meet, but the control board indicated the locations for the 1971 basketball tournaments hadn't been settled.

The board's decision wasn't popular with Hank Amend, athletic director at Burke High School in Omaha where the track meet was to have been staged.

"I'm so disappointed," Amend said. "We were excited about it. All the effort we put in is all down the drain now."

Amend said it was "ridiculous" to imply that the Omaha officials would be unable to keep the track crowds under control. "I can understand why they would discuss moving the state basketball tournament, but not the track meet," he said.

Lee Todd, superintendent at Grant and a board member, said the track meet takes in all four classes "and touches almost every community in the state. I don't know if fear is the word, but people across the state are concerned."

"We felt something might happen and we just didn't want to take a chance," Board President Les Chamberlin of Alliance said.

The board officials said they weren't as concerned about an incident at Burke, a new high school in west Omaha, as they were about the young athletes scattering throughout the city where trouble could arise with no school officials around.

The track event was held at the University of Nebraska's Memorial Stadium in Lincoln for years, but recent additions to the stadium made it unsuitable for a major track meet and for the past five years the championships have been held at Kearney State. Because facilities there weren't quite adequate to handle the 1,000 athletes and the crowds of spectators, the NSAA switched the meet to Omaha this spring.

Burke has a brand new all-weather track and plenty of seating. There are more than enough motel rooms in the vicinity, Amend said. "We have the finest would have reached a plateau of about 80 million people and, since a high percentage of them would be old fogeys like myself, our country would become a decadent nation, and lose its standing as a world power.

As you well know, my generation did not stand idly by and let the predictions of those prophets of doom come true. We recognized the problem and accepted the challenge to do something about it. Now instead of peacefully growing old in the company of a lot of fuddy-duddies, we compete in a dynamic nation of 200 million people, about half of whom are 25 years old or less.

Since your generation has inherited our intelligence and enthusiasm for action in meeting any problem, I know that you will rise to the occasion and solve your problems also. If you don't, you'd better teach your dependants to sleep standing up like a horse, for one square foot won't give them room to lie down.

Don't let the cowardly minority, who hide from the challenge of life behind their hair and dirt, scare you. Grandpa facilities for athletes and spectators in the state," he noted.

With the switch in sites, the title of meet director transferred from Amend, a former Ford coach, to Charlie Foster, the veteran athletic director at Kearney State.

Special Session There is renewed agitation for a special session of the legislature.

The most urgent pleas have been raised by Bellevue residents who are asking for an emergency appropriation to state aid to permit them to keep their schools running the rest of the year.

City, state and federal officials dealing with water pollution controls also have been eager for a special session so state funds could be appropriated to assist cities in upgrading sewage treatment facilities.

The Bellevue problems arose when federal funds the school system had expected were cut off. Because of Offutt Air Force Base, the global headquarters of the Strategic Air Command, the Bellevue schools have a large number of military dependents as students, but not of the taxable property base to go with it.

Federal programs have provided aid to school districts in this squeeze. It is called "impacted school district aid." But when President Nixon vetoed a Health, Education and Welfare bill earlier this year, the money which had been scheduled for Bellevue, and other districts, was eliminated and Congress didn't replace it with other funds.

Now State Sen. Orval Keyes of Papillion has decided there is no more chance of relief from Washington. He has called for a special legislative session so emergency aid can be authorized.

The Bellevue schools have ordered military dependent children to pay tuition to attend the schools.

The pollution issue also involves federal funds, but the circumstances are different.

The federal government has made $6.7 million available to Nebraska this year for use by cities in projects to upgrade their sewage treatment facilities.

The money isn't being used very eagerly because only 30 per cent of each project can be paid with the federal money and the local community must dig up the other 70 per cent itself. If the state would participate in the funding, however, the federal contribution would climb to 50 per cent and the state and city would split the other half.

That means a city would have to pay 70 per cent of the cost without state aid and only 25 per cent if the state does participate.

It is estimated that it would cost about $3 million a year for the state to join the matching game.

Federal regulations and state law require that the sewage facilities be built and there is pressure to get the state into the financial formula quickly.

There is some danger, according to some officials, that unless the state acts before the end of this year, the federal funds would be lost and future federal grants to Nebraska would be cut drastically.

The only way to avoid this, they say, is to have a special session of the legislature.

Out of Old

Fences Posed Problems

Prior to the invention of the first practical "barb wire" in 1874, the scarcity of adequate fencing materials posed a problem for settlers in Nebraska, and in the Great Plains.

During the era of the "open range," fences were unnecessary, but as the farming frontier moved westward, both cattlemen and farmers found it desirable to enclose their lands. The cattlemen fenced large areas of grazing lands, often illegally, against the influx of small farmers who wished to use the land for agricultural purposes. The small farmer found it desirable to fence his holdings to protect crops against damage by cattle and other animals, as well as for the security of his own livestock.

In the eastern United States, fences were traditionally constructed of wood or stone, but such materials were scarce in Nebraska and other areas of the Great Plains. The use of such commodities was an expensive proposition for the small farmer on the plains, who often began his operation with limited capital.

The report of the U. S. Department of Agriculture for 1871, copies of which are in the files of the Nebraska State Historical Society, provides some interesting statistics regarding fences in the United States, and particularly in Nebraska.

The Department conducted a survey of some 846 counties in the United States, regarding types of fences used, costs, etc. In the East the split rail or "worm" fence was predominant, and was so prevalent across the country as a whole that the report noted that this type of fence "may fairly be ranked as the national fence." In the Nebraska counties surveyed, however, split rail fences made up only three per cent of the total. Only types of wooden fences comprised 54 per cent of the total in the reporting counties, while the remaining 43 per cent were "other kinds" of fences. Among these "other kinds" were live hedge fences, some wire fences, and sod or earth-wall fences. Of the fences in Hall County, Nebraska, 25 per cent were of this latter variety. Although there were a limited number of stone fences in Nebraska, largely in Cass County, these were not mentioned in the report.

The report goes on to provide information regarding the costs of fences. In Nebraska the cost of fences of wooden construction averaged about $1.13 per rod.

Calculations based on three-fourths of the improved area of the state resulted in an average cost of $1.05 per rod for all types of fencing. Thus, in 1871 it cost a Nebraska settler about $420 to enclose 100 acres of land. The total cost of all fencing in Nebraska, according to the report, amounted to more than two million dollars, while the total cost of all fencing in the United States was nearly one and three-quarter billion dollars. Comparatively speaking, this amount was equal to the estimated value of all livestock in the United States in 1871.

Attempts were made to utilize less expensive means of fencing, as exhibited by the sod fences and live hedge fences, such as the Osage Orange. However, it was not until barbed wire became available in quantity, about 1880, that the Nebraska farmer and cattlemen had a practical and inexpensive means of fencing their lands.

Dr. L. Whitmore Services Held In Wayne Tuesday

Funeral services for Dr. Lillian E. Whitmore, were held Tuesday at the Hiscox Funeral Home, Wayne. Dr. Whitmore died March 27, 1970 in a car accident near Beatrice.

The Rev. Paul Russell officiated at the rites. Music consisted of recorded selections. Pallbearers were Richard Banister, Michael Rich, Cletus Sharer, Lloyd Straight, Kent Hall and Bud Munson. Burial was in the Greenwood Cemetery, Wayne.

Dr. Lillian E. Whitmore, child psychologist, Tulsa, Okla., daughter of Sylvanus and Nanma Whitmore, was born Jan. 28, 1911 at Venus, Nebr. The family moved to Wayne in 1922. She was a graduate of Wayne State College and held advanced degrees from the University of Iowa and the University of Denver. Upon receiving her doctorate, she accepted a position as child psychologist with the Children's Medical Center in Tulsa. She then became psychologist for the Child Study Clinic and then entered private practice. Dr. Whitmore was the founder of the Town and Country School in Tulsa.

Survivors include her mother, Mrs. S. B. Whitmore; three sisters, Mrs. Star Wood, Johnson City, Tenn., Dr. Irol Balsley, Lubbock, Texas, and Mrs. L. M. Rich, Sioux Falls, S. D., and a brother, Cdr. Q. R. Whitmore, Wallingford, Pa. Her father and a brother, Lewellyn, preceded her in death.

Win Scholarships At Wayne State

Cherie Kipple of O'Neill and Tom Barlow of Ewing have received scholarships for second-term study at Wayne State College.

Miss Kipple, a sophomore majoring in English and minoring in speech, has the scholarship awarded by Delta Kappa Gamma, a national sorority of women in education. She has maintained a grade-point average of 3.58 on a four-point scale.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.D. Kipple, she graduated from O'Neill High School in 1968. At Wayne State she is a member of Sigma Tau Delta, national honorary in English, and of the Wayne Student Education Association of Nebraska. After graduation she plans to teach and earn a master's degree.

Barlow, a senior, also majors in English and minors in history, maintaining a grade average of 3.77. He is a member of Sigma Tau Delta. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Barlow, he graduated from Ewing High School in 1967. His career plans include teaching in Germany.

Cattlemen Question Value of Roughage

Cattle growers, finishers and researchers have been re-evaluating the level of roughage needed in feedlot operations and are trying to determine what level is most profitable in growing and finishing rations, according to Paul Guyer, University of Nebraska professor of animal science and Extension livestock specialist.

Roughage has become a comparatively expensive feedstuff in recent years due to the decrease in the cost of feed grains and the continuing increase in cost of feed-lot operation, he said. "In relation to the nutrients it contains, roughage is expensive to handle in highly mechanized operations and higher levels of roughage limit rate of gain while increasing the fixed cost per hundred weight gain," Guyer explained.

"Because of these changes, cost of gain during the growing phase now may actually be higher than in the finishing phase," Guyer stated.

Guyer listed three reasons for adding roughage to the beef rations: its contribution to cattle health and management; its contribution to feed handling, and the nutrients it supplies.

"When adequate roughage is included, fewer digestive upsets, less founder and less bloat occur," he explained. "Some roughage tends to reduce the incidence of liver abscesses, rumen irritation, inflammation and matting of papillae and losses from enteritis."

The coarseness of processing the roughage and the uniformity of the ration mix are two of the most important factors affecting the feeding of roughage to reduce management problems in feeding cattle.

"Finely ground roughages are not as effective as coarsely chopped roughage in meeting this need," Guyer said. "Uniform mixing of ration ingredients apparently reduces the amount of roughage needed to hold digestive upsets in check."

Silage roughages have a plus factor beyond their nutrient contribution in that they help reduce feed ingredient separation and dust losses.

In discussing the different roughages and the nutrients they supply, Guyer said that while energy is the major nutrient supplied by most roughages, it is not one of the primary reasons for adding roughage to a finishing ration.

"Results of several tests indicate that roughage may make very little energy contribution in high concentrate rations," Guyer emphasized.

"Data regarding levels of roughage have caused us to recommend that cattle be fed the minimum level of roughage necessary to keep digestive disturbances, liver abscesses, etc., at a relatively low level," Guyer stated.

"Above this amount roughage appears to contribute less energy to the ration than feed analysis tables indicate."

"Up to this amount the 'apparent' energy contribution is often higher than indicated.

"On the other hand, we have a few tests when the energy contribution of low levels of roughage appeared to be 'nil,'" Guyer continued.

"We feel that adjusting final live weight for differences in dressing percentage is improving our evaluation of test results," Guyer said.

Good Morning Feeders & Hi Mom

By Eddie Collins

The Iowa House must be kidding! Passed a bill that requires all farmers to observe soil conservation practices—mandatory—to prevent the runoff of soil and farm chemical into lakes and streams.

One representative from Eagle Grove dramatically expounded that two man-made water bodies would be silted within forty years: Red Rock and Coralville Reservoir. His comments included "the most productive lands of the world... lost forever to humanity." True, because Corp. of Engineers built dams before upstream control. In time, another mud hole.

Funny, the Lord never planned trouble. Since creation, runoff rain has carried top soil to moving streams. In heavy rain periods, all streams overflowed and all river bottoms would be inundated. Upon receding, the silt became the choice soil of the world. Name the great natural producing areas of the world—the Nile, the Rhone, the Rhine, the Hudson, the Platte, the Mississippi, the Rio Grande, the Mighty Mo—all built by overflow. Since buffalo days. Since dinosaur days.

Now every farmer in the country might have to face the new battery of dog-godders. Over-enthusiased conservation addicts. Bench terraces, great. Tree planting, great. Water construction, great. Tile lines, great. But by compulsion? Lousy.

The burden of proof in all cases will be on the district board, not on the land owner. That means while the corporate farms with a battery of lawyers will not be subjected to such whims, the family farmer must know.

Budgets for financing enlarging systems usually covers only administration. Most counties help up to 50 per cent with $1,000 maximum. Yet, some farms

Fires Running High

More Nebraska acres have already been burned over in March than during January and February combined of this year, reports Joe Rang, fire control specialist for the state forester.

With over 50 wildfires reported in Nebraska during February, Rang pointed to railroads as the greatest cause of fires during that month.

The fire control specialist said that debris burning is the current major cause of wildfires, however. Debris fires usually result on warm spring days that begin calm, then become windy.

Rang noted that during one of the few warm days thus far this spring, several fire districts reported more than one fire per day. Trash and weed patch fires which blow out of control commonly occur in the spring, but can be prevented.

Rang offered these precautions on debris burning to prevent wildfires: burn in a safe incinerator, place incinerator in center of a 20-foot cleared circle, burn after 5 p.m., never leave fire unattended, and do not burn on windy days.

On the sire's side we have: Guzerat, Zebu, Brown Swiss, and Ayrshire--on the Dam; Chevrolet Coupe, Gurnsey, Jersey, and Holstien--from these F1 originals we get USDA "Mystery Meat".

The Case of the Wandering Cattle

by Nebraska State Bar Association

Fred and Ralph were farmers who owned adjacent tracts of land. For many years, the two had worked together in maintaining the common fence between their lands. Fred kept the south half in repair and Ralph kept the north half in repair. Eventually, however, Fred became somewhat lazy in keeping up his half of the fence. Ralph offered to help, but Fred never got around to the work.

Ralph kept several head of cattle on his side of the fence, while Fred kept a large stack of baled hay near the fence on his side. Eventually, because of the poor condition of Fred's fence, the inevitable happened—would be forced to spend a dozen times that; and what if they're not financially able? It would be like the USDA making hospital-clean laboratories out of aging local meat lockers; impossible, so close them down. With extra driver laymen or washed-up vets as inspectors.

Ecology is great. So was witch burning in Salem, Mass. Or slaughter in religious wars. All won their point... at that time. Trouble with compulsory rules, they are never, never removed. Everybody wants the other guy to take the brunt.

So the seventies start out in panic time.

Say, what do you think of Battling Lucius Liddy, Iowa Secretary of Agriculture? Two knock-down drag out contests in the Iowa State Capital within a month. Not even the Joe Louis campaign of a palooka a month could match the pace. Mr. Liddy takes on two at a time, with more right hand power than Ingemar Johansson.

Lucius took on the hippies, okay, but not the USDA.

County Agent's Column

by Harold Ingalls

"It Pays"

One to two pounds added grain per head per acre during the summer can be achieved for each pound of nitrogen fertilizer applied to bromegrass pastures, with comparable results from 40 to 60 pounds of nitrogen on warm season tall prairie grasses. These results have been obtained from agronomic research carried out in eastern Nebraska.

W. J. Moline, University of Nebraska Extension agronomist, reported the research findings and explained that the common situation is one of unimproved pastures barely producing enough beef to pay for pasture charges, taxes and other associated costs.

He therefore recommended three important rules:

—Use fertilizer on good stands of grass.

—Re-seed grasses that are not productive or are of unknown origin, which do not respond to treatment.

—Use cool season grasses early, as during spring and fall, and use warm season grasses during summer or winter.

Moline also pointed out that to remain productive, Nebraska bromegrass will require additional nitrogen, and a two to three fold increase in production can be expected from 60-100 pounds of nitrogen per acre per year.

On soils low in phosphorus, additions of phosphorus fertilizer plus nitrogen significantly increased pasture production above that of nitrogen used alone. The additions of potassium in the eastern Nebraska research, as well as sulfur and zinc fertilizer, did not increase dry matter yields of bromegrass pastures.

Significant quality changes do occur with additions of fertilizer. The crude protein content increases with the use of nitrogen fertilizer, and no changes were noted in the digestibility of the forage with additions of fertilizer, Moline added.

Hogs Getting Meatier
In the past decade the average live weight of commercially slaughtered hogs has held about steady, but the yields of pork and lard has changed significantly.

The Economic Research Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture says the yield of pork per hog rose from around 139 pounds in 1960 to nearly 154 pounds last year. Lard, on the other hand, dropped from 31 pounds to 22 pounds last year.

The ERS says these changes resulted from a gradual movement toward meat-type hog production as well as year-to-year shifts in trimming practices which are associated with price levels. These trends are expected to continue near the rates of recent years.

Conservation Grasses

Okayed for Silage

Millet, sudan grass and sorghum-grass crosses can now be harvested for silage from a farmer's conserving base acreage, according to Gordon L. Nuernberger, chairman of the state Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committee.

Previously, these crops could be used only for feeding, haying or green chop grazing, Nuernberger said. He said sweet sorghums are not affected by this change since they are a feed grain and are not eligible for use on conserving base acreage if they are to be used for silage.

With this change, Nuernberger reminded farmers that these crops when planted on conserving base acreage still may not be harvested for seed or grain—only for silage.

Finish Tractor Course

Over a dozen farmers from the Allen area have completed the tractor maintenance course held at the Allen High School this week. The course included ten weekly meetings, the last one held last week.

Completing the course were Harvey Hansen, Marlen French, Barney Gelger, Jim Warner, Bill Sachau, Norris Emry, Marvin Teuter, Fred Kraemer, Jim Stapleton, Allen Trube, Jim Furness, Bob Blotim and Kenneth Burcham.

Teaching the course was Lynn Schuckebler, vocational-agricultural teacher at Allen High this year.

Single Tax Payment

For Two Tax Bills

Could Spell Trouble

Anyone planning to pay two federal taxes at the same time should use separate checks or money orders to avoid possible billing errors, Richard Vinal, district director of Internal Revenue for Nebraska, said last week.

Under the IRS system, which has a different processing cycle for each type of return, the entire payment could be credited to one tax and a bill issued for the other.

Vinal said, "If one check or money order covers a 1970 estimated tax payment and a 1969 tax balance due, for example, when the returns are separated for processing, the entire payment might be credited to one tax, leaving the other tax unpaid." In such a situation, one tax would be overpaid and a refund issued, while on the other tax a bill would be sent, Vinal explained.

Taxpayers should put their social security number on all checks or money orders sent to IRS to make sure the payment is properly credited. Business taxpayers should put their employer identification number on the check.

Swine Expert: Confinement Rearing To Increase as Pork Demand Grows

As expansion in pork production occurs, confinement rearing of swine will increase according to the economic necessity for volume production.

According to Robert D. Fritschen, although pasture and drylot production systems are still an important part of existing production systems, pork production systems have changed significantly and now reflect specialization.

Fritschen, area livestock specialist at the University of Nebraska, Northeast Station, near Concord, analyzed several different types of confinement housing units.

He described the "modified open front" unit as one which has the capability of being enclosed whenever outside air temperature indicates.

Generally it is totally under roof and the material used to enclose the building is easily attached to existing members or braces. It may be hinged at the top and conveniently folded under the roof when not in use.

Plywood, corrugated fiber glass, metal roofing and shiplap siding were possible material choices that Fritschen listed as appropriate for use here.

Fritschen said that a slot inlet four inches wide and extending along the back side of the structure is recommended for air intake.

He recommends that in order to provide greater control over air intake and drafts, hinged doors six to eight feet in length should be installed to regulate the opening and closing of the slot. In addition, low-volume exhaust fans should be considered for installation in the ridge in longer modified open front units.

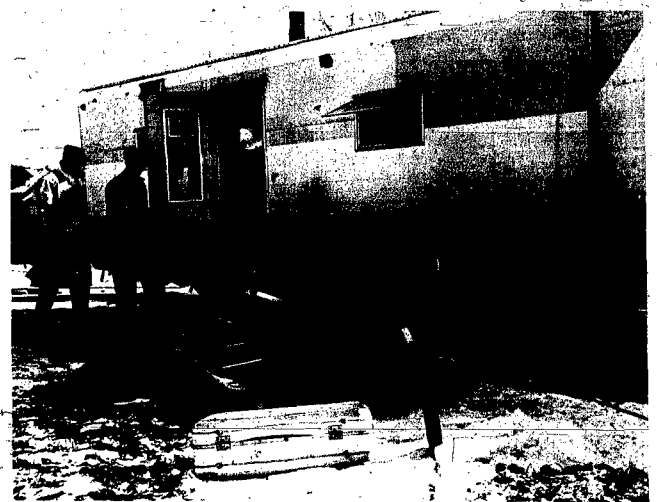

Another unit is the "open front-outside apron" unit. It is a growing-finishing unit similar to the open front units with an additional outside apron or feeding floor.

Typifying the transition from drylot to confinement, some of these units feature a deep narrow gutter which slopes to either end and which may be flushed periodically.

Fritschen pointed out that this structure also needs some form of weather protection and summer ventilation.

"Environmentally regulated" units are units which are insulated and mechanically ventilated, generally with supplemental heat. These are especially useful in the nursery and early growing period, he said, but generally cost one to three dollars more per square foot than the first two systems discussed.

The "two-unit system" is one in which there are two pens to maximize efficiency with regard to the area. A pen allows four square feet per pig until the pig reaches a weight of 100 pounds and is provided first with a change to

Fire Causes Extensive Damage To Trailer House

This trailer home owned by Don Johnson of Wayne suffered almost complete destruction in a fire Friday morning on West 13th St. The fire apparently started with an electric heating element under the north end of the trailer, according to Fire Chief Ivan Creighton. The fire crawled along some pipes under the trailer and up inside the trailer. Firemen had to break windows on the doors to get into the trailer to douse the flames because the person living in the trailer, G. I. Wiltoughby, was gone for the weekend and the trailer was locked. The fire was turned in about nine o'clock Friday morning.

a larger pen when the pig exceeds 100 pounds until he reaches market weight.

The "nursery-finishing combination" is one in which young pigs are provided a special climate control until they reach a weight of 40 pounds. They are then moved to growing-finishing unit.

In discussing waterers, Fritschen said that since water is considered as the single most important and least expensive nutrient in the pig's diet, any measure necessary to assure constant fresh, clean water should be considered.

The feeder size, Fritschen added, will depend on the number of pigs per pen with a general recommendation of one space for every four to six pigs.

Wayne Juniors Plan to Attend Science Confab

Betty Fisher and Tom McDermott, juniors at Wayne High School, and guidance counselor Ken Carlson are among the 90 students and counselors from Nebraska high schools who will be attending the Ninth Annual Conference on the Human Sciences slated for the University of Nebraska this week.

The conference will begin today (Thursday) at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education in Lincoln. Dr. Robert G. Osborne, director of medical services of the Department of Public Institutions and acting director of the Department of Health, will address the students at a banquet that evening. On Friday the conference will continue at the Nebraska Psychiatric Institute in Omaha.

During the two-day conference, planned for high school juniors, information on professional and non-professional careers in the field of mental health and mental retardation will be presented. The program includes discussion sessions with professional persons, viewing of films, small group sessions, tours of Nebraska Psychiatric Institute and opportunities to meet and talk with professional workers engaged in training, research, treatment and community services.

The theme of the conference is "The Challenge."

It is felt that this conference provides the students opportunity to visit with professional workers both in and out of their job settings and may help guide them in career selection.

Sponsors of the conference are the Medical Services of the Department of Public Institutions, Department of Health, and the Nebraska Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Honorees Wanted

Long-time patrons of the Omaha Livestock Market are being sought by the Omaha Chamber of Commerce for recognition at the 23rd annual Pioneer Patrons Recognition Banquet.

The Chamber's livestock committee solicits the help of everyone connected with the livestock industry to submit names of people who have been buying or selling stock on the Omaha market for the past 50 years. Anyone who has not received this honor before is eligible.

The banquet will be held Wednesday, May 13, at the Livestock Exchange Building in Omaha. Nominations may be made by candidates themselves, members of their families, friends or business acquaintances. Names should be submitted to Pioneer Patrons, Omaha Chamber of Commerce, 200 Farnam Building, Omaha, Nebr. 68102. May 1 is the deadline for nominations.

Board Sets Meeting

To Review Petitions

Members of the Wayne County Reorganization Committee will meet Friday in the county courthouse at two o'clock in the court room to consider two petitions, according to Mrs. Gladys Porter, superintendent of schools.

The committee will review a petition from District 25 to accept a portion of District 67 of Cumby County, and a petition from District 65 to dissolve.

District 65 has contracted for a period of two years with District 95R at Winslow, Supt. Porter noted, and according to a new law passed by the recent Nebraska Legislature, schools having contracted for two years must dissolve.

Over 93,000 such organizations as religious institutions, schools, service clubs, and groups of citizens sponsor the 152,000 Scout units in the Nation.

TRINITY LUTHERAN CHURCH at Hoskins is erecting this new sanctuary and educational unit at a cost slightly less than $100,000. Beams were installed Wednesday and Thursday. Even the shape of an ordinary clothesline post seems to take the shape of a cross.

Beams in Place On New Hoskins Church Complex

The Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church in Hoskins is erecting a new church-school complex estimated to cost slightly less than $100,000. The Rev. J. Edward Lindquist is pastor of the congregation.

Ground leveling on the site for the building was finished last summer. Kealher Co. architects from Wheat Ridge, Colo., designed the new units being built on the west edge of Hoskins. Beams for the overhead structure arrived and were installed Wednesday and Thursday. The unit containing the sanctuary measures 84 by 52 feet and will seat 360 persons with an overflow area able to accommodate another 150 worshippers.

The new school will be attached to the church structure giving the complex an L shape, containing two classrooms measuring 31 by 30 feet, an office and a library-instruction room, the school will be used together with the present school building to accommodate the 86 children who will be attending. Ronald Schmidt is principal of the school.

SMILE! Then everybody will wonder what you're up to.

34 Students at County Government Day

Thirty-four high school students from Hoskins, Winside, Carroll and Wayne reported at the Wayne County courthouse March 25 as participants in the annual County Government Day sponsored jointly by the American Legion and Auxiliaries of Wayne.

Chris Bargholz, chairman in charge of arrangements, said the area students registered around 9:30 a.m. and then assembled in the courtroom where county officers were introduced.

Officer R. L. Brown, Oakland, state safety patrolman, showed films on narcotics and led the group in a discussion related to drug abuse.

Prior to the noon hour, Judge Laverna Hilton administered the oath of office and the new officers-for-the-day were sworn in.

Members of the Legion auxiliary served a luncheon for the students in the Woman's Club rooms in the city auditorium.

During the afternoon, students reported to their respective offices and became acquainted with operational procedures and functions of officers.

Students from Winside and Hoskins participating were Gary Soden, surveyor; Dave Langenberg, sheriff; Dale Vanosdahl, judge; Kevin Johnson, assessor; Randy Ryan, commissioner; Rich Krause, superintendent of schools; Dale Miller, attorney; Roger Anderson, veteran's service officer; Gene Weible, commissioner; Paul Wantoch, commissioner; Terry Jaeger, probation officer; Debbie Meierhenry, treasurer; Cindy Moritz, clerk of district court; Mona Langenberg, county extension agent; Jane Witt, physician; Jeanette Hansen, welfare officer; and Barbara Jackson, clerk.
