Lexington is dead.

And with him should die the movements to picket chain stores because of the high prices for meat, says Eddle Collins, well known radio commentator and newspaper columnist.

Collins talks about Lexington, one of Nobraska's donations to those "mini-skirted dollies" who picketed because they thought the farmer was to blame for those high prices, in his column on the "Farm Page" of this issue of the Wayne Herrald.

Staty-seven new donors and another $858. That's a condensed version of the latest chapter in the drive to raise funds to buy an artificial kidney machine for the Wyne area. It brings the total raised from $3,024.50 to $3,882.50.

Actually, the kidney machine has been purchased — the additional money is being collected to help Wayne resident Pete laberer use the machine we'dy in order to stay allive— and is on its way to Sloux City from Minneapolis. The machine will stay in Sloux City for a short period of thm until the people from Wayne who will operate it for laberer become fully acquainted with it.

Then the machine will be shipped to Wayne and it will be made available to anybody in northeast Nebraska who may have need for it. The machine will save Mr. Itaberer several thousands of dollars over a year's time. It could do the same thing for anybody else in the area who may have or develop kidneytrouble, it could also prove to be literally a lifesaver for somebody who happens to swallow something such as a polson which the body could not deal with safely.

A spokesman for the Wayne Community Non-Profit Kidney Aid A spokesman for the Wayne Community Non-Profit kidney Aid Corporation, sponsor of the fund drive, said that the immediate goal in the drive is $6,000 - enough-to buy the machine and make sure Haberer can use it for one full year. Anybody wishing to donate to the fund can mall their donations of either bank in Wayne, the First National or the State National. Those wishing for remain anonymous should specify that when they make their donations. The latest donors:

A week later, sidegoads were muddy, grass was greening, and the air had been cleared by spring rain. Taste-test panelists have found all diet margarines tasty with no distinct differences.

Of more significance are the findings related to the health values of diet margarine and the pricing and labeling practices of its manufacturers. Diet margarines were found to contain about 40 per cent fat -roughly half the fat in regular margarine, therefore yielding about half the calories as regular spread. This, of course, is good news for the dieter.

To give the dieter this reduction in calories the manufacturers replace the fats missing from diet margarine with plain water. Therefore, you might expect to pay half as much for diet brands than for regular brands. Not so, Diet brands average about 47c per pound. #### Game Dads Doing Gavins Point Study Of Walleye, Sauger

A study of walleye and sauger in the stilling basin below Gavins Foint Dam now being conducted by Game and Parks Commission research technicians may yield information that could save the species should the ecology of the river be changed in the future. Exact location of their spawning grounds below the dam has always been a mystery, but fisheries technicians will have to know this if they are to save these areas from destruction by any future changes in the river such as pollution, channelization, or changes in flow and water level.

or changes in 110w and water level.

The stilling basin is considered a likely spawning area, and surveys conducted in past springs with electrical shocking apparatus show that walleye and sauger populations concentrate below the dam at that time each year. However, the shocking gear has turned up only males and females in early stages of egg production. Large "ripe" females ready to lay their eggs have never been found there at spawning time.

ready to las their eggs have never been found there at spawning time.

"If trap nets now being set in the basin fail to produce ripe females, the technicians will have to assume that they go back downstream to unknown spawning grounds to deposit their eggs. The search for the spawning grounds is but one plase of a continuing effort by the Came and Parks Commission to learn the life history of walleye and their smaller cousin, the sauger, in the Missouri River. During the past three years, some 3,000 of the fish were marked with special plastic tags. Returns from fishermen have provided data on the population, harvest rate, and range of the fish.

With the spawning area pin-pointed and with the data from past phases of the study, fisheries technicians will be better prepared to preserve these game fish should man decide to make any changes in the river that would threaten their survival.

Census Nearing End For Wayne Residents

For Wayne Residents

Digene Bargman, district manager, reports that the 1970 Certsus of Population and Housing its nearing completion in the Wayne area. In about another week the census takers should have visited every residence on their lists, he said.

Census takers began visiting households on April 1 and have been working continuously to cover their territories. The district manager asks that householders hold their questionnaires, which were delivered prior to April 1, and have them filled out and ready for the census taker to pick up. This will save time for both the householder and the census taker and speed up the completion of the census.

many to believe that to die in space is worse than dying on the surface of the earth.

Many are naturally concerned, and rightly so, about the safe return of the three astronauts. Because space travel is new, it remains spectacular, therefore receiving world wide news coverage.

While three men's lives hang in the balance during a voyage for which they volunteered, more than 300 persons have and will die on American highways alone. Some monitor the news in horror in contemplating possible death in space, but are nonchalant when over 100 Americans die in another machine — the car — every 24 hours.

Where is our sense of values when an entire world is concerned for three space-men, but show lack of concern when hundreds of human beings die weekly in Viet Nam? More than likely our spacemen will return A-OK, but many of the youths who did not volunteer to go to Viet Nam will not return home alive. These young men and the ones in space are serving their country with life itself.

What-Is-going on in space and what is going on in Viet Nam are both basically 'unincowns' to most of us. Let's hole on a balanced sense of values and be, just as concerned abut getting our men home from Viet Nam as we are in getting our men back from the moon.

A life is a life regardless of who he is, where he is, or what color of skin he has. Or has our distorted sense of values caused us to forget? — MMW.

It's going to be interesting to see what the Wayne-Carroll school board does when it comes time for a decision on what to about sports programs for girls. There's little-doubt but what a decision will have to be made within a year or so, considering the growing number of schools in this part of the state which are beginning competitive sports for girls. The present school board has only briefly touched on this subject during the ning competitive sports for girls.

The present school board has only briefly touched on this subject during the past few months. The board, although it has not come out and said such, has taken something of a wait-and-see stance in hopes the decisions of other school districts will better enable it to make a move when the time comes.

Although other districts have already decided to widen their athletic offerings for girls, we hope the Wayne-Carroll school board decides to hold the line when the time for a decision arrives. We hope this not because we are against competitive sports for girls, but because we feel the school board should do everything possible to keep the school budget from getting any larger than absolutely necessary. Expanding the sports program to include girls' volleyball and track contests with other schools would have one certain effect: a larger expenditure of funds. More programs mean more teachers and more spending. It's that simple.

ture of times, more programs mean more teachers and more spending. It's that simple.

Without a doubt, the girls in our schools should be given as much chance to build healthy bodies during their years in school as the boys are. But we wonder if it is necessary to offer a sports program equivalent to what is being offered boys in order to achieve that end.

It might prove worthwhile for you to find out how each of the candidates for the school board feels about this subject. The two new people who will take office in June will very likely be on the board when a decision has to be made on this subject. It would be helpful to them if they knew your feelings on the issue.—NLH.

Daily Weather - Daily Subject

It is doubtful there is another subject more talked over by earth people than the daily weather. What is going on out of doors directly concerns most all of our activities. Many persons even jot down temperatures and precipitation accounts day by day on various types of records. Let's take a look backward a few figures last year.

Let's take a look backward a few figures last year.

Evidently July 14 was the hottest day of 1969 when the mercury climbed to 98 degrees. Some of you oldtimers in Wayne would likely call that "cool" compared to previous hot summers when temperatures soared over the 100-degree mark for several consecutive days.

Actually the hottest weather last summer came in July when temps stayed in the nineties for 12 consecutive days with the 98 degree reading on the fourteenth. Coldest temperature to hit Wayne in 1969 was 22 debrees below on Jan. 3, however it was 20 below zero on New Year's Eve as 1969 was born and it was also 20 below towards the end of the year

Iz months later.

In April of 1968, just two years ago, we had 3.43 inches of moisture, but just a year ago the total precipitation amounted to only .33 of an inch. Rainfall in May last year amounted to 2.80 inches, however June was, as it has been for several years, the wettest month of 1969 with rainfall totaling 6.95 inches.

A dry spell on the tail-end of winter mixed with high winds early last week gave residents of this section of Nebraska a good look at both Kansas and South Dakotta far as flying over. But as the weatherman's favorite time of the week for precipitation came, the weekend, the area enjoyed a good rain.

TO THE STATE OF TH

Pressure Still Building for Special Legislative Session

LINCOLN — Pressure was continuing to build last week for a special session of the legislature.

The League of Nebraska Municipalities, after deciding Gov. Norbert T. Tlemann probably wouldn't call a special session, began working on the state senators to call themselves into session.

The League has urged its member cities to ask their local senators to support such a move. According to statutes, 33 legislators would have to agree.

The League has two issues it wants

The League has two issues it wants handled by the senators this year. In fact, Del Rasmussen, the executive secretary, said there is a "dire need" for immediate attention.

immediate attention.

He said the lawmakers should be asked to put the state government in as a partner in the financing of sewage treatment plants and to adjust the interest cellings on seven types of locally-issued bonds.

Tiemann has expressed sympathy with both issues, but has said they can walt until next January when the senators convene their 1971 regular session.

It a special meeting has to be called for something else, the governor has said he would consider adding those items to the agenda.

he would consider adding those items to the agenda.

The only "something else" Tiemann has said might require a special session would be the results of the State Supreme Court case on the budget bills passed by the legislators in 1969) ployees.

A decision in that court case was expected shortly.

Sewage Treatment Costs High
The League wants the state to provide funds to help pay for upgrading sewage treatment plants for Nebraska cities. The cities and the federal government now share the cost — with the municipalities picking up 70 per cent of the tab.
If the state were to join in the financing, however, the federal contribution would climb from 30 per, cent to 50 per cent. The state and the local community each would pay 25 per cent.
The choice for the cities, then, is 70 per cent or 25 per cent — and they are anxious for the state to join in. In fact, they are delaying construction plans to find out whether there will be state ald.

Interest Change Sought projects in several curse are specially of the "These rates must be corrected immediately," Rasmussen said in a memorandum to Tiemann and the legislators, "or the municipalities will suffer the various consequences onfit the next regular session of the unicameral."

The efforts to get a special session for the bond and sewage treatment issues has been endorsed by the League's executive council and its legislative committee.

The utilities section of the League recently passed a resolution making an urgent call for, a special session on the swage treatment matter. That resolution admitted, however, that it seems unlikely "since politics have been placed over practical realities."

The realities right now include the fact that this is an election year and it would require an appropriation of about $3 million to put the state into the matching arrangement with the cities and the federal government.

ing arrangement with the cities and ine federal government.

Since taxes and spending have emerged as two of the biggest issues in the election campaigns, there is a reluctance on the part of politicians to call the legislature into session to appropriate another $3 million.

the legislature into session to appropriate another $3 million.

The utilities section resolution said the cittes are unable to raise their share of the costs because of:

—Mill levy limits.

—Property tax protests.

—The statewide nature of the problem. The resolution also emphasizes that the total cost to Nebraska taxpayers will be less if the state enters the matching, program because the federal share climbs from 30 to 50 per cent. The difference would be that 25 per cent of the cost would be paid from sales and income tax revenues collected by the state and 25 per cent from city property taxes, instead of 70 per cent raised solely from local property levies.

On a related topic, the federal government is putting increasing pressure on Nebraska to set a deadline for implementing upgraded sewage treatment standards on discharges into the Missouri River. It was reported last week the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration was ready to impose its own timetable and treatment standards on the state, which was four weeks tardy already in making its own determination.

Pioneer Ranches, 1878

Much of the early history of the state of Nebraska can be found in the files of old newspapers at the Nebraska State Historical Society. The following article from the Omaha Bee of April 24, 1878, gives many interesting details about the early ranches of northern Nebraska.

"A few weeks ago Mr. James Creighton, being desirous of entering into the business of stock raising on an extensive scale, made a tour of observation through the northwestern part of the State to look up a location for a cattle ranch. He was greatly pleased with the comparatively mexplored region which he found to be well adapted for the purposes of stock raising. I abounds in nutritious grasses; has plenty of timber along the steams, and wild game in great varlety. But above all, there is an abundance of pure water, which is considered one-half of stock food.

"He selected a location for his ranche which is considered one-half of stock food.

"He selected a location for his ranche on a branch of the Niobrara River, about 40 miles west of Long Pine Creek... and about 140 miles due north-of North Platte.
"Upon his return to Omaha he immediately set about making arrangements to establish his ranche, and Thursday he left for the spot with an outfit consisting of two heavy wagons, one drawn by a fourmule team, and the other by a two-mule team. The wagons were loaded with one year's provisions, guns, ammunition, and tools to build cabins, and other ranche buildings. He expects to return to Omata in about six weeks, after getting his ranche under way. His men, of course, will remain there. He intends to put about 2,500 Texas cattle on his new ranche this season, which will be a very good start.

"Mr. Creightion's glowing account of this region, together with the bright prospects of success in the venture, has induced several others to oflow him thither. Mr. Herman Kountze also sent out yesterday a heavily laden wagon, drawn by a four-mule team, in charge of Mr. McClure, of Pittsburg, who will establish a ranche for Mr. Kountze about 100 miles west of New Mill City.

"Another outfit was sent out for the same purpose by a company composed of Massare.

"Another outfit was sent out for the same purpose by a company composed of Messars. Bassett, C. S. Carrier, and George and Charles Stebbins. Mr. Bassett be only one who goes out. All these parties left together, and will go up the Elkhorn Valley via Fontenelle, West Point, Wisner, Norfolk and O'Neill City. There are still others who are looking up locations for ranches in the same region, among them being Mr. Sharp and Mr. D. J. McCann. We understand that Capt. Nickerson, Dr. Tower and Col. Royall propose to locate a ranche there also,"

Men Yearn and Learn . . . to FLY

A WINSIDE WILDCAT leaps off Mother Earth during a recent track meet and momentarily knows the thrill of school room. Though his mind is grabbed by books, his heart is flying.

Summertime comes all too slowly when a lad can sit beneath the big top of canvas and watch daring muscled men actually glide from one trapeze to another. Oh! To fly!

Breaking the bonds of the surly earth, rising up on the springboard of his toes, a high school track man can icap heaven ward. Bp! Up! Wind plays in his hair as the wind struggles with the body to make itfly. For a few brief moments along a wayward horizon, a teenager has felt the victory of being able to fly higher than competitors. Onlooking book-keepers writer it for history that the boy has set a new altitude. record for his school. His team mates are proud.

Another youth with wings on his heart races down a track. There is a countdown and liftoff! Upward and forward his body straths to balance for one thin moment on the edge- of time - flying! His feet are no longer harnessed to the earth and, with face inclined toward the afternoon sun, a broad jumper knows the thrill of flying — only, like learus, to plunge earthward.

Parachuting is a phase of flying few get to feel. First, upon leaving the winged carriage that lifted you up from off the earth, there is the falling, falling, falling -falling and flying so freely! Soaring, dipping, and listening to the feet of the wind dancing on your cars. Then the billowing canopy opens overhead and its swinging chariot carries you earthward until once more the grass feels the weight of your feet. Such fun to fly and float!

Since the time of gas balloons, gliders and the Wright brother's machine, man has built for himself metallic monsters that can, flying on a tongue of flame, lift him to the moon.

Iligher and higher climbs a man's heart. And who knows how high a man can fly?

Planning Group Meets

Members of the Wayne Plan-ning Commission met Monday night last week above the first hall to review a plat and con-sider other items of business. A plat of Barclay's First Ad-dition was looked over but no recommendations could be made since the plat was incomplete, according to Mcrt Marshall, secretary. The property is located just outside the city limits north of the National Guard Armory. Chairman Keith Mosley appointed a committee of two, Dick Dion and Louis Meyer, to work with the Jaycees in making a local land-use survey. Commission members decided Friday the deadline for getting information compiled for updating the capital improvement program.

Scouting operates through three program phases, Cub Scout-ing, Boy Scouting and Exploring.

Health Tips ....

Here is a health tip from the Nebraska State Medical Associa-

Neorasha State medical resource rition:
Parents, you may not remember the three to six days of fevered misery you experienced as a child from uncomplicated measles.
You may have forgotten the childhood friends who died, or the bitter experience of families bitter experience of families whose children suffered from complications such as pneumonia or encephalitis. Also, those who were left with residual deafness were left with resistuas usus or mental defects. Measles can do this.

Vaccines are now available to prevent measles, Now is the time to have your children immunized. Measles reach peak proportions during the months of February, March and April. Your state medical association recommends immunization for all susceptible children over 12 months of age. Have your child immunized today.
