

Council Nixes Sunday Liquor Sales, 4-2

For the second time in two weeks the Wayne city council voted on — and defeated — a request for permitting sale of beer and liquor by the drink on Sunday.

Area Residents Short of Water May Cut a Slice

Humidity has been so high throughout the area during the past week that most any resident in need of water might nearly have walked outside and cut off a slice of moisture.

Fog has been the prevailing actor on the weather stage of Wayne County and Northeast Nebraska for the past seven days. Few folk have found reason to complain about the cooler temperatures accompanying the wet air.

a change in the local laws which would permit Lutt to open his eating and drinking place on Sundays.

Voting against the request were Dick Banister, Ed Smith, Keith Mosley and Harvey Brasch. Casting votes in favor of the request were Darrell Fuelberth and Pat Gross.

A similar request last month resulted in a 5-1 vote against permitting Lutt and the owner of the other bottle club license to operate Sundays. Fuelberth cast the lone vote in favor of that request.

Over a dozen people appeared at the meeting, some in favor and some in opposition to changing the Sunday closing law.

The spokesman for Lutt told the council that the request was being made because the present laws force a lot of people to travel 30 to 50 miles on Sundays because there is no steak house in Wayne open that day.

Those contracted to teach in the system this fall include Mrs. Zita Jenkins of Carroll, principal and seventh and eighth grade teacher; Mrs. Rita Roberts of Hoskins, fifth and sixth grades; Mrs. Elsie Houdek of Norfolk, third and fourth grades; and Mrs. Martha Werner of Norfolk who will teach kindergarten, first and second grades.

Mrs. Edwin Broege and Mrs. J.E. Paniel have been hired as cooks. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sommerfeldt will serve as custodians.

Classes will not be held on Labor Day.

Nod Given To Carroll For Sewer

The Village of Carroll received word Monday that the Federal Water Quality Administration has approved plans for a new sewage and lagoon system proposed for that community.

Attorney Kenneth Olds of Wayne, legal consultant to the village board of trustees at Carroll, said the Nebraska Water Pollution Control Council had approved the plans for the sewage system earlier in June.

Olds pointed out that all grants have been approved, plus an FFA loan, so the village is now advertising for bids on the project.

The attorney said bids on the job are to be submitted to Bob Johnson, village clerk at Carroll, sometime before two o'clock Aug. 28. At that time the bids will be opened and read aloud at the Carroll Auditorium. Olds said the letting of contracts is scheduled for the same day.

Job engineers estimate the total construction cost of the sewer project to be about $76,000. This figure does not cover acquisition of land, cost of engineering services, legal costs, or right-of-way purchases, Olds said.

As for easements, Olds noted that most of them have been secured in the village. He said condemnation procedures may be seen CARROLL SEWER, page 6 on Sundays, he said, the council is actually forcing them to close that day because they cannot operate profitably by just serving food.

Just before the council voted against permitting the bottle clubs to open Sundays, councilman Gross moved to allow any holder of a beer or liquor license in the city to stay open on Sundays. That motion died for lack of a second.

Gross said during the discussion that it would be a good thing to have the steak houses open on Sundays but that it seemed to him that it would be discriminating against the places which sell beer and food.

Speaking against the request was Rev. C. Paul Russell, minister of the United Presbyterian Church in Wayne.

Russell, noting that he was speaking as an individual and not as a spokesman for his church, said that the city of Wayne must maintain at least a semblance of opposition to the unlimited distribution of alcohol.

Wayne businessman Ed Nieman told the council that the Sunday liquor law is driving tax money out of Wayne. Nieman said that Wayne has some fine eating establishments and the city might as well start taking advantage of them.

Herb Bergt, retired farmer, said that people in Wayne always talk about keeping business in Wayne and that a Sunday closing law just helps drive it out.

Another local businessman, Al Cramer, told the council that families in Wayne have no place to take their weekend guests for a meal on Sunday evening because of the closing law.

There are two places where beer and liquor by the drink are sold on Sundays — at the Wayne Vets Club within the city limits and at the Wayne Country Club on the north edge of the city limits. Both places hold licenses which legally permit such sales that day.

Patriotic Theme Chosen for Service

"My Country 'Tis of Thee — To Thee We Sing" has been chosen as the theme for the fourth annual inter-faith worship service which will open the Dixon County Fair at Concord later this month.

The patriotic theme was chosen this year because, according to Rev. John C. Erlandson, chairman of the county worship steering committee, there has been so much desecration of the nation, its flag and its leaders.

Says Rev. Erlandson: "This service is not billed either as an anti-war or pro-war demonstration, but rather as a recognition on the part of Dixon County residents on the positive aspects of our life as citizens of this great nation of our United States of America as it has been blessed-by a Provident God."

The five American Legion posts in Dixon County have been asked to provide color guard units for the service and all county Legionnaires are being asked to turn out for the service in full dress.

A member of the county's American Legion organization has been asked to give a brief address about the place of the flag in the nation's life, says Rev. Erlandson.

A portion of the service will be devoted to group singing of favorite hymns, some of them being led by the youth of the county with guitar accompaniment.

The service, scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 23, is a unique service where Christians of all denominations come to sing and pray together, says Rev. Erlandson, and is co-sponsored by the Dixon County Fair Board and the county ministerial association.

Where's the Food?

Who said the free barbecue at the Wayne County Fair isn't a popular attraction? This year's barbecue was one of the most successful ever put on by the donors in and outside the county. A total of about 5,000 people were fed during the affair by cooks and servers who donated money and food in order to make the feast possible.

Treatments Get Underway Today For Tommy Gahl

Tommy Gahl, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Gahl of Winside, is scheduled to begin X-ray treatment today (Thursday) in Omaha following surgery early last week in Children's Memorial Hospital for the removal of a tumor located at the base of his brain.

Tommy's father, manager of the Sears Catalog Store in Wayne, said his son now has the bandages off, except for a small covering, and has walked some but spends most of his time in a wheel chair when he is able to be out of bed.

Doctors informed the parents after surgery that the tumor was malignant. The youth will now undergo a series of X-ray treatments.

Winside residents started a fund raising drive to help cover surgical and hospital costs. A total of $912.45 was in the fund as of Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Jay Morse and Mrs. Kenneth Brockmoller of Winside were in charge of a booth at the Wayne County Fair last week which raised $135 for the fund. The booth was donated by the Wayne County Fair and was tended by TOMMY GAHL, page 6

Friday's Livestock Field Day Offers Variety

THE SEWAGE LAGOON at the swine center at the Northeast Station gets a quick inspection by Bob Fritschen, left, swine specialist, and Dan Howaldt, swine technician. It will be one of the points of interest during Friday's livestock field day at the University of Nebraska research facility.

Frank Baker's review of the livestock industry in Nebraska, results of the beef and swine research, and an opportunity for livestock producers to test their own ability to make "on foot" estimates of beef carcass quality and yield grades will highlight the Northeast Stations Livestock Field Day scheduled for Friday.

The beef carcass evaluation is a special interest item on the program. Walter Tolman will select five Charolais cross steers for visitors to evaluate and will send the carcass data to participants after the steers are slaughtered.

Bob Fritschen, station swine specialist, says, "We have found definite differences in the general health of pigs grown in our 'one-unit' and 'two-unit' housing systems." Fritschen will review those results and results on slotted floor and open vs. enclosed buildings.

A portable slotted-floor building, a canvas front on one open building and a water and new swine facilities that may be seen.

Lunch will be served by the Northeast Feeders Association and the Northeast Pork Producers Association.

The day's schedule: —6:00, assembly at Northeast Station, a mile east of Concord. —6:30, swine center, Robert Fritschen. —7:30, beef center, Walter Tolman. —8:45, Northeast Station headquarters — "The Livestock Industry in Nebraska" with Frank Baker. —9:45, lunch.

All people interested in beef and swine production are invited to attend.

An agronomy field day is scheduled at the Station in September.

Northeast Extension Notes

August is Lemon Time!

The lemon, a citrus fruit native of India, was introduced to the New World by Columbus. At that time it was prized by the sailors for its prevention and cure of scurvy. Today it still is a favorite fruit for various reasons.

About 45 per cent of the world's lemon crop is produced in California, Arizona and Florida.

While scurvy is no longer the scourge it once was before ascorbic acid or Vitamin C was discovered in lemons, everyone needs daily supply of Vitamin C to maintain healthy gums and teeth. During these hot August days, a glass of ice cold lemonade at meals or snack-time is a health-giving drink as well as a thirst quencher.

Audience Enjoys Last WSC Production

by Sandra Breitkreutz

"My Three Angels," familiar to many of us through the movie version, "We're No Angels," was the Wayne State Players' final presentation of the season at Shore Acres Summer Theatre in Slou City last weekend.

Written by Sam and Bella Spewack and directed by Dr. Helen J. Russell, professor of theatre at Wayne State College, this is the story of a soft-hearted shopkeeper in danger of going broke in his Cayenne, French Guiana shop. The play takes place at Christmas time and involves the shopkeeper, Duocet, his wife and daughter, three convicts hired by him to do some work on the house, and a cousin, who has financed Duocet's business and who with a nephew, Paul, has come to inspect the falling business.

Felix Duocet was portrayed by a young man fairly new to theatre, Fred Fiddleke, who successfully and believably became the aged, tottering and somewhat insignificant shopkeeper. His lines were not overly impressive and occasionally had a recitative quality to them, but he seemed to completely adopt the old man's character nevertheless.

Emilie Duocet was played by Linda Knoebel, who also quite successfully adopted the gestures, facial expressions and general personality of an average, worried-wife type. The expected vocal modulation, however, interfered with an otherwise acceptable portrayal.

The daughter, Marie Louise, was played by Phyllis Mausebach, who seemed a bit too bold for the "sweet little thing" she represented. Her make-up was too harsh and her hair and clothing could have been softer, more fluid, to promote the naive, innocent young girl image necessary here.

The extremely funny lines of the three convicts—Joseph played by Ken Grafius, Jules played by Fred Wington and Alfred played by Dwight Meyerink—actually made the play the success it was. The delivery of Grafius and Wington showed unbelievable professional aplomb, and their accents not only were faultless but added greatly to the general charm of the pair. Dwight Meyerink as Alfred seemed not quite as at ease on the stage, but shows promise.

The minor parts of Mme. Parole, a vicious woman of the town, and the Lieutenant, Marie Louise's broken heart, were carried by Barbara Pruden and Frank Gray, both well cast.

Ingenuity was shown in the scenery, almost to the point of being distracting until one became accustomed to it. Actors' legs, visible behind the steps in the living room scene, were bothersome, and the cafe doors, presumably leading to rooms off-stage, took an over abundant amount of "fixing with" on the part of all who made an exit through them.

If not the best of the shows put on by Wayne State Players this season, this must have been one of the most enjoyed. Applause belied the size of the house and the appearance of the principal characters, who seemed to have enjoyed the production as much as anyone in the audience.

North All-Stars Start Training Today

Training camps open Thursday afternoon at Wayne and Kearney State Colleges for the North and South squads of the second annual Nebraska Coaches Association All-Star High School Basketball Game.

The 12 North cagers will report to head coach Gene Kruger of Elkhorn and assistant coach Bob Morris of Alliance beginning at 4 p.m. Coach Bill Kropp of Aurora and his assistant, Bill Ramsey of Cozad, have scheduled check in for the South at 5 p.m. at Kearney.

Both coaches are planning three-day practices. Kruger, in Alliance on Sunday for pre-camp planning with Morris, said the North would go on the floor at Rice Auditorium Thursday evening.

Kropp said the South will also have a light workout Thursday evening. Both camps will open with buffet dinners for the players, their parents, and the coaching staffs. The Chambers of Commerce in both Kearney and Wayne are hosting the dinners.

Kropp seems pleased with reports on his squad. He said, "We have heard from the boys from time to time and they indicate that they have been working out."

Neither coach feels foot blisters will be a problem. Last year, blisters plagued both camps, forcing a change in some workout plans.

Kropp said the South will hold workouts of one and a half hours

Area's Ringneck Population Up 17%

Pheasant hunters in the Wayne area should have better luck this season than they have in recent years, results of the annual summer survey conducted for the Game Commission by rural mail carriers reveal.

That survey shows that the pheasant population in northeast Nebraska is up 17 per cent over last year—the largest increase recorded by any area in the state.

five per cent over the same period last year.

The carriers sighted more birds during this year's survey than last year, but the numbers of chicks per brood was lower. Rural mailmen have cooperated with the Game Commission in such surveys since 1945, giving game technicians valuable information for pheasant management. Their assistance makes a much wider sampling than would be possible using only the limited number of game technicians and conservation officers available.

In all, the carriers participate in three surveys per year. In addition to the recently completed summer production survey, they conduct a late-winter sex ratio survey to determine the past season's harvest and a spring survey to determine the available breeding population.

Wakefield '9' Denied Chance at State Crown

By Norvin Hansen

Wakefield's Legion team hoping for its second straight shot at the state baseball crown, bowed out of its own area baseball tournament Saturday night, 1-0 victims of Oakland.

Arlington-Elkhorn, a team which had handed Wakefield a 4-0 blanketing in the Legion's second round last Friday night easily handled Oakland in Sunday's finals, 7-0.

Arlington-Elkhorn joins the Dodge Midgets, winners over Wayne and Valley-Waterloo, in making the trip to the state tournament at Rushville, a year ago.

The Wayne Midgets and Wakefield Legion were making that trip, victors of the area action at Lyons.

A walk, a stolen base and two wild pitches in the top of the third allowed Oakland to score the only run in the contest with Wakefield Saturday night.

Wakefield bettered the winners at the plate, collecting five singles off Oakland's Ed Thompson, Wakefield's young Jerry Walsh, finishing out a fine year his first time with the Legion, struck out two, walked two, and a double while striking out two and walking only one. Thompson connected in two at bats. Connecting for Wakefield's other three scattered singles were Jerry Paul, Kevin Peters and Walsh.

In Saturday night's Midget finals, Dodge pasted Valley-Waterloo, 12-1, in a game which saw five Dodge hitters pocking out two hits each. The Dodge hitters knocked starter Larry Hascall off the mound with five hits and five runs in two innings. Bernie Fikmeyer pitched his way to the win with five strike outs, five walks and three hits. Both teams committed three errors.

Arlington-Elkhorn's Terry Buhl had two singles, a double and a triple to pace his team to its 7-0 win over Oakland in the Legion finals Sunday. The winners knocked Ed Thompson off the mound in four innings. Winner Terry Buhl struck out six—including all four batters—in the bottom of the last inning and walked just one.

THIS DODGE TEAM earned a berth in the state Midget tournament of Rushville by getting past Wayne, 2-1, and Valley-Waterloo, 12-1, in the area tourney at Wakefield last week, Arlington-Elkhorn's Legion team won over Wakefield, 4-0, on the way to a ticket to the state meet.

Free Listing Offered Area's Campgrounds

With the growth in popularity of camping as family outdoor recreation, the Game and Parks Commission is trying to get campers and operators of campgrounds together in a listing of all available camping areas in the state.

Many national and international publications request such information, and it will be included on the 1971 NEBRASKA Land Road Map and Travel Guide and the 1971 NEBRASKA Land Camping Guide.

The questionnaires were sent recently to known campground operators, chambers of commerce, and to NEBRASKA Land and their deputies, the Commission's ambassadors of good will for tourism throughout the state. However, anyone knowing of a campground not included in the 1970 Camping Guide can assist the search by notifying Ken Bouc, Game and Parks Commission, State Capitol, Lincoln, Nebr. 68509.

The questionnaires ask details of facilities available, rules, fees, season dates and other information of interest to campers. The camping guide and the road map will be widely distributed through NEBRASKA Landers, at tourist welcome stations, travel shows and in information packets mailed by the Commission. The publications will include private, municipal and state campgrounds.

Sidewalks on Sherman Become Curbwalks

Sidewalks will be put in right next to the curb along North Sherman Street if the majority of the property owners want them located there. That's the result of a compromise worked out Tuesday night between the property owners and the Wayne city council.

The compromise marks another step in the council's efforts to get sidewalks installed along the street, one which the council considers most in need of sidewalks to handle the heavy load of students going to and from school.

Council has been working for the past few months in trying to get residents along the street to put in sidewalks. Property owners have objected to putting them in, saying that they are not needed and that they will greatly harm the terraces and that other places in the city should be required to install them if they must be put in on their property.

Presented to the council by Bob Merchant, one of the people who lives along Sherman Street, was a petition with several signatures requesting that the property owners have some say in where the sidewalks are to be placed.

Pointed out during the meeting by the property owners was the irregularity of the sidewalks as proposed. They vary from 16 feet to just over 22 feet from the curb and would not look nice if installed that way, the owners said.

Council voted to permit the walks next to the curb after the council pointed out that several city officials have recommended against that practice. Voicing opposition to sidewalks next to the curb have been the police department and the streets department.

The city planning commission in the past has noted that they do not allow a buffer zone between the walk and the traffic in the street.

Council failed to complete the public hearing on the request by Wayne businessman Roy Coryell for rezoning a strip of land on the west edge of the city from agricultural to highway business.

Coryell, owner of Coryell Auto Co., now has a large number of vehicles parked on the land, located along Highway 35 east of Oak Drive. The vehicles earlier this year prompted a local citizen to ask if they could be legally parked there. Council later asked Coryell to show why they shouldn't be removed. Coryell then asked that the area be rezoned.

The planning commission had recommended to the council that Coryell's request for rezoning be denied because it would be detrimental to the trend to make the area residential and because the high school needs to be surrounded by residential areas.

A legal spokesman for Coryell told the council that the area should be opened up for businesses because there are several restrictions for growth along the other three highways entering the city.

What is being considered for the area, he said, would not be detrimental to a residential area. Zoning is good and necessary, he told the councilmen, but it also has to be practical.

Coryell showed the council preliminary plans for an auto agency on the land. He said the land behind the agency could be later developed for housing or apartments.

Reason for the rezoning, said Coryell, is lack of room for parking vehicles at his business on East Second Street.

Council will take up the hearing again at 8:30 on Tuesday, Aug. 25.

A public hearing on a request for permission to put in a trailer court very near to the land Coryell is seeking to have rezoned will be held at 8:30 on Tuesday, Sept. 8.

The request comes from Werner Janke and involves land just west of Oak Drive.

Wayne's planning commission recommended the request be denied. Reasons for the recommendation included that a trailer court there would be detrimental to future residential growth and that there seems to be enough trailer courts in the city at the present time.

The council also:

- Forwarded a request for renovation of the lighting at the local ball diamond to the committee looking into the repairs which are needed at the park.
- The request came from the recreation board.
- Passed an ordinance which requires putting in sidewalks whenever new housing is constructed. The city can put the sidewalks in and bill the property owner if he fails to comply with the regulation.
- Hired for another year consolidated engineers as the city engineering firm. The new contract calls for raises in the hourly rate charged by the engineering firm.
- Received figures showing what would happen to the city mill levy if a city sales tax were

Only Five Days Left in ASC Nominating Period

Eligible farm voters in Wayne County have only five days left in which to circulate and sign nominating petitions for ASC committee members. Monday, Aug. 17, is the final date petitions may be filed at the Wayne County ASC office.

Mail elections are set for the second week in September.

"I want to re-emphasize to farmers who are eligible to vote that nominating candidates by petition is of prime importance," said Harry Hebenmann, chairman of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

"In the past the incumbent community also had the privilege of making nominations. Now, a community committee may nominate only if fewer than six eligible candidates are nominated by petition—and the committee may nominate only the number of candidates needed to make up a full slate of six nominees," he said.

No special forms are required for a petition—only a sheet of paper naming the candidate and the ASC committee.

Signatures of at least six eligible voters in the community are required on each petition. Only one candidate may be named on a petition, but voters may sign as many petitions as they want, said the chairman.

In general, to be eligible either to become a candidate or to vote a person must have a farm interest in the community and must be eligible to participate in one or more programs administered by the county ASC office.

Full details on eligibility requirements for candidates and voters are available at the county ASC office, along with a list of known eligible voters in the county.

Each year eligible farmers nominate and elect ASC community committees of three members and two alternates. The community committees elect persons to fill vacancies on their county ASC committee and also help administer farm programs such as farm acreage allotments and bases, and conservation cost-sharing.

"They are the key people the U. S. Department of Agriculture relies upon for direct contact with producers. Community committees help keep farmers informed of farm program provisions. They advise their county ASC committee on the farm situation in their communities and assist in administering farm programs on the local level," Hebenmann explained.

"Our county ASC committee hopes that this year farmers will nominate by petition every candidate whose name goes on a ballot," he concluded.

Census Bureau Sets Another Area Survey

The Bureau of the Census will conduct a survey of employment and unemployment in the Wayne area during next week, Guy A. Lutz, director of the Bureau's regional office in St. Paul announced today.

The survey is conducted monthly by the Bureau for the U.S. Department of Labor in a scientifically designed sample of households throughout the entire nation.

The employment and unemployment statistics based on the results of this survey are used to provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the nation as a whole and of its major regions. In June, for example, the survey indicated that 82.1 million persons were employed, and 3.9 million were unemployed, with an unemployment rate of 4.7 per cent.

Facts supplied by individuals participating in the survey are kept confidential and the results are used only to compile statistical results. The law safeguarding the privacy of the individual applies to all information collected by the Census Bureau.

Interviewers who will visit households in this area included in the sample survey, are: Ruth Koehler of Norfolk and Catherine V. Moeller of rural Windsor.

TWO ITEMS which may interest area farmers at the North Star Livestock Field in Carroll are the unique feed wagon and the Charolais cattle at the beef center. Duane Rudebusch, beef herdman, fills the feed bunks several times a day at the facility.

Kiwanians Told Need for Blood At Local Level

The need for more blood donors at the Wayne Hospital walk-in blood bank was explained to Kiwanians Monday at a noon luncheon in the Woman's Club room.

Charles Thomas, hospital administrator, and Mrs. Judy Woehler told the club that the local hospital needs approximately 125 pints of blood a year and that there are presently only about 40 on the active donor list.

Thomas said the hospital would like to have at least 100 active donors for each of eight different blood types. Mrs. Woehler described the 15-minute process involved in donating a pint of blood. She noted that more donors between the ages of 21 and 50 are needed.

The hospital administrator pointed out that blood is one of the few rare commodities for which there is no substitute. He asked the Kiwanis Club for its help in securing additional donors. He said the hospital would type the blood at no cost.

Members of the Kiwanis board of directors voted to take on the project of seeking new donors in the immediate future.

Why Improve the Ball Park?
In the last issue of The Wayne Herald we pointed out in an editorial how little it would actually cost to make the local baseball park once again one of the finest in northeast Nebraska.

It may come as a surprise, but a professional person estimated that $1,000 spent on supplies such as paint and lumber would do the job. In order to save money, the labor could be donated by a group of people interested in seeing the facility restored. We think that's a mighty small sum.

But why should money be spent on the park? Isn't it doing its job the way it is? What does Wayne need with a better ball diamond than it already has?

Those questions need to be asked and deserve answers.

There are several reasons why the city should take quick steps to improve the diamond and its facilities. Among those reasons:

— It would improve the pride of the people living in Wayne if they knew they didn't have to take a back seat to anybody in the area as far as having a fine baseball facility is concerned.

— It would increase the chances of Wayne's being chosen for future district, area and possibly state baseball tournaments. It takes work and cooperation before Wayne will be able to host those events. It will also take good facilities. — It would reduce some of the hazards now present at the park. Those hazards include weak boards in the stadium which may break under a person's weight, no guard railings on the bleachers, low-overhanging branches and rotting seats throughout the bleachers and stadium.

But possibly more important than any of those reasons is the fact that the city should begin shouldering its responsibility in maintaining a public facility. The ball diamond is exactly that—a public facility which is used by people ranging from the middle-aged softball player in the summer to the grade school football hopeful in the winter. And in between them, it's used by literally hundreds of youngsters in the city.

We fail to see the reasoning which says that a facility which gets such wide use by the public should be maintained and repaired only when conditions become such that it might not be able to be used if repairs aren't made.

Every time the question of repairs for the ball park has come before the city council in the past couple years the issue has been sidestepped. We think it's time the issue should be met head on. —N.H.

OBSERVE TRAFFIC LAWS

eclipse of March 7, 1970, which centered in Eastern America, of totality crossed Nebraska. Beginning in Siberia, the moon's shadow passed over portions of Alaska, Western Canada, Montana, the Dakotas, northeastern Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Kentucky, Tennessee, and North Carolina, before disappearing in the Atlantic Ocean. In much of eastern Nebraska the eclipse was nearly total, and the phenomenon was viewed by many citizens of the state. Accounts of the eclipse subsequently appeared in several eastern Nebraska newspapers, copies of which are in the files of the State Archives, Nebraska State Historical Society.

The Omaha Weekly Herald of August 11 reported: "As the obscuration progressed, it gradually became dark and increased until at half past four, the streets almost assumed the appearance of being lit up by a very clear bright moon. The complexion of people assumed a peculiar pallid hue and storekeepers systematically and sensibly lighted their lamps, prepared for an contingency. We were surprised to notice the extraordinary interest displayed by our citizens generally, and the unanimous desire to witness every phase of the eclipse. . . . Every corner along our streets, house tops, balconies, porches, express wagons, vacant lots, and every other point from which a good view of the sun could be obtained, was occupied by pseudo-astronomers. . . . Rumors of fearful character came to us last night of the effects the eclipse had upon the animal creation. . . . Cattle in the fields ceased grazing and dropped to the earth, chickens sought their roosting places, the cows unconsciously wended their way homeward, and even malds seized their milking pails. . . . To those who gazed so eagerly. . . . we wish simply to state they witnessed a sight they will not witness again this century. . . ."

The August 12 edition of the Nebraska Herald at Plattsmouth reported that in that city, "the eclipse. . . was a perfect success. It commenced last Saturday according to published programme, and continued throughout the entire performance to rivet the gaze of the large and appreciative audience. It was not quite total at this place, but there was only visible a very small strip of Old Sol. Smoked Glass can now be had of the small boys at reduced prices. . . ."

At Nebraska City, clouds apparently obscured the eclipse. The Nebraska City News noted on August 9: "The great total eclipse which was announced for Saturday last was a total failure in these parts, owing, we presume, to the fact that "Old Sol" did not make his appearance at the expected time. . . . The general appearance of all nature was unchanged; we failed to observe anything grand, beautiful or sublime. In this city, we did not notice that the eclipse had any effect upon men, animals, and flowers as predicted by astrologians. The eclipse in this city was a dead failure."

Senator Cries 'Stacked Deck' After Results of Federal Study

LINCOLN—A federal consultant, after studying juvenile facilities and programs in Nebraska, has concluded the state doesn't need a separate institution to provide diagnostic and rehabilitation services for youthful offenders.

The consultant is Kenneth S. Carpenter of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration in the Justice Department. He conducted his study at the request of the Nebraska Legislative Council Executive Board.

The board was interested in getting a federal opinion on the implementation of a law passed by the 1969 Legislature. The law, sponsored by Sen. Fred W. Carstens of Beatrice, calls for the establishment of such a center somewhere between Lincoln and Omaha.

When Carstens first heard last winter that Carpenter was to make a study, he complained bitterly to the executive board that an attempt was being made to "subvert an act of the Legislature."

He said it would be "a fake" study designed to "fool and defraud" the public. The board said then, however, that the federal government would conduct the study without charge to the state and that the board was satisfied it would be an impartial look at the situation.

When the results came back last week, Carstens said he wasn't surprised Carpenter had concluded the diagnostic and rehabilitation center isn't needed.

The senator said he still felt there had been "a stacked deck" and that Carpenter was "a hatchet man."

Although Carstens' bill was passed 29-13, the Legislature only appropriated $15,000 to implement the program. There was no appropriation for construction.

Carstens said he has investigated the possibility of establishing the center either at John F. Kennedy College in Wahoo or at the Mead Ordnance Plant.

The Carpenter report said Nebraska would do better to beef up staff and facilities at its mental health institutions, improve its county detention facilities, and step up a foster care program than to create a new institution.

Carstens submitted the bill for the youth center after conducting a study committee between the 1967 and 1969 sessions. His committee hired Dr. William Perl of Washington, a psychologist, for $18,000 to help with the study. It was the Perl-Carstens conclusion that juvenile offenders shouldn't be sent directly to the Boys Training School at Kearney.

They said the center should be established to diagnose the problems the youth face and keep those who could be handled there for rehabilitation. The Kearney school would be used only for tougher cases. . . .

Electronic Age
Computers will be used during the 1971 Legislature to help write the bills. The executive board of the Legislative Council, the unicameral's administrative arm, has commissioned the University of Nebraska computer center to prepare a system to assist in the bill drafting.

The decision was reached after the board considered a series of offers from private firms for an electronic bill drafting system. Don Nelson, who heads the computer center on NU's Lincoln campus, said he could devise a system using state equipment and he was given the job.

The process is complicated, but it works something like this:

All existing statutes are put into the computer's memory. When a senator wants a bill to amend an existing statute, the bill drafters "tell" the computer what is to be done and the machine kicks out a copy with the desired changes.

An example would be the changing of the name of a state agency—the State Normal Board recently changed to the Board of Trustees of the State Colleges. The computer would be asked all the times the State Normal Board appears in existing statutes and then told to prepare a bill amending each statute necessary.

The computer will print the bills on a "mat" which can be used on offset printing presses and the state plans to use this system for its printing of bills introduced and on that reading.

Senators To Have Offices
There will be other changes, too, when the senators convene next winter for the 1971 session.

Quotable Notables:

But not what you want, but what you have need of, that you do not want is dear at a farthing. —Cato.

Schoolhouses are the republican line of fortifications. —Horace Mann.

For the first time, all senators are supposed to have office space in the Capitol. Until now, the lawmakers have used their desks on the floor. A search is on to find enough office space in the crowded statehouse for the senator.

The legislative chamber also will have a "new look." The walls have been cleaned and new drapes have been purchased—for the first time since the statehouse was built. Also, the original carpeting is in for its first shampooing.

The desks on the floor have been rearranged to give the senators more space. Instead of four to a row between the center aisle and the side, there will be only three. This means more rows are needed and space formally used by lobbyists and visitors will be occupied by senators.

Another new item for the senators will be individual telephones on their desks on the floor. This is designed to permit the members to remain at their desks more during sessions.

The Legislative Council executive board is considering further changes to streamline Nebraska's lawmaking.

They have served under three mayors, which in itself is an indication of the confidence each city administration must have in them. They are conscientious, hard-working men who are devoted to seeing that Wayne will have the best development possible. They deserve to have the proper information printed if they are to be criticized.

The Little Pulpit

"Let no man say when he is tempted, I am tempted of God: for God cannot be tempted with evil, neither tempteth he any man: but every man is tempted, when he is drawn away of his own lust, and enticed." James 1:13-14 KJV.

Wayne

Dear Editor: In the editorial, "Surprise! Surprise!" of August 3 concerning low rent housing for the elderly, N.H. writes "and the people of this city have really not had much of a say in whether it should be built. . . ."

N.H. is apparently unaware of the facts (1.) that prior to the initiation of the referendum a well attended meeting was held in the Birch Room of the college about three years ago at which time the pros and cons of the development were well discussed in what at times became rather heated sessions; (2.) a referendum was held and the people voted in favor of inflating the housing project.

As for public meetings, I have no argument except that they are the right of the people. I do wonder, however, if any effort has been made by your reporters, and if so, whether they have been denied access to them?

Wayne has several boards, such as the library board, hospital board, recreation board. Each of these is responsible for the expenditure of public funds as is the housing authority. It would occur that there is little reason to sing out one board as having no "open" meetings without questioning how the others operate.

This is not intended to be a defense of the housing authority. The same mem-

Thanks, Wakefield

Speaking of baseball, we would like to extend our thanks and congratulations to Wakefield for hosting the recent area baseball tournament in such a fine fashion.

We attended three nights of the tournament and each time it was evident that a host of Legionnaires and other people were going a good bit out of their way to make sure the fans and players left with good memories of Wakefield.

The people were courteous and friendly, the seating and parking areas were cleaned after each round of games, the diamond was in excellent shape and the umpires were as fair as possible. On top of that, the Legion post at Wakefield went to the trouble to print up a roster of all the teams and their records. On the back of that sheet were notes of welcome from the commander of the post, the mayor of Wakefield and the state Legion department commander.

As those notes made clear, Wakefield was proud to be named to host the area tournament. With a welcome like that, the small baseball-oriented community has a fine chance of hosting the area meet one year from now. We wish them luck if they decide to make another bid for it. —N.H.

Those Flowers Help

Have you heard anyone comment that they appreciate flowers while they are alive and don't want to have to wait until they die to get them? Perhaps you have said it yourself.

Flowers are special. They can brighten a sick room, hospital corridor, or the home. Flowers are traditional at special occasions such as weddings, anniversaries and special dates. Flowers have always been used as a language all their own at memorial services.

What else contributes more to a city's beauty and eye appeal than scattered beds of flowers exhibiting rainbows of color? Have you noticed the many flowers on private lawns?

Have you noticed how much more attractive the U. S. Post Office in Wayne is with those colorful flowers by the front steps? Paul Rogge has put a lot of work into that project.

If you have been out driving around the city recently, you may have observed that many homeowners have enhanced the looks of their property with genuine flower power.

Trees are not flowers but are necessary to any community. The Wayne County Club planted new trees on the added nine-hole golf course not long ago. During the recent dry spell the trees were much in need of water so Boy Scout Troop 175 took on the project, assisted by adult sponsors, of seeing to it that each tree had the needed moisture. Water was hauled in barrels on pickups and the scouts watered each tree by hand. Those young people made a real contribution.

A beautiful city takes hours and hours of planting, growing, tending, watering and trimming.

Those of you who have raised flowers on your property may have little idea as to how many other folk have enjoyed your efforts. It is a great contribution to make to a growing community. —M.W.

We've Lost It

A sparkling gem in the ring of society has been lost. It was a jewel called respect. Like those little jewels in the intricate parts of a fine watch, respect was an invaluable asset in the making of America. It now appears that we have lost the gem—all of it—at least for the moment.

During the parade Thursday morning which opened the 1970 Wayne County Fair there were an obvious number of tired Americans. As the color guard moved south on Main Street an alarming number of adults were either ignorant of how to properly honor Old Glory as it passed by them, or they no longer respect the flag of their country.

A number of people were seated on the curb in downtown Wayne during the color parade. Too many of them didn't bother to stand up when the flag went by. Numerous men not only failed to stand but also failed to remove their hats. Why?

Is it any wonder the younger generation has at times shown a complete lack of respect for the flag? Did they learn it from their elders?

In years gone by, students had a deep respect for teachers, ministers, law enforcement officers and the elderly. The students had the respect because they were taught such by their parents. When parents started tearing teachers and ministers apart verbally over the dinner table, started trying to outwit the law enforcement officers and oftentimes nearly abandoning the elderly, then the younger generation followed that example.

There is at least momentarily very little respect left for anything. The gem has been tossed out the behavioral window. Who is to blame?

Had some of the younger generation ran into the street Thursday and proceeded to trample and spit on the flag, most of those sitting on the curb would likely have jumped up and created a near riot in disciplining those youths. There were no such youths dishonoring Old Glory. Old Glory was dishonored by a few of the older generation who apparently felt to stand up and honor the flag just wasn't worth the effort. We're talking about respect, gentlemen. We've lost it. —M.W.

Wayne Kiwanians Plan to Attend Club Convention

Four Wayne Kiwanians will join nearly 1,000 Nebraska and Iowa Kiwanis Club members expected to attend a district convention Sunday through Tuesday at Fort Dodge, Iowa. Those going from Wayne are Kent Hall, Jim Hummel, Max Lundstrom and Bob Carhart.

The convention will feature reports of Kiwanis activities for the past 12 months and election of new district and division officers for 1970-71. Presiding during the three-day conclave will be Kiwanis District Governor Arthur Brownlee of Council Bluffs.

Heading a long list of guest speakers at the Nebraska-Iowa District Kiwanis convention will be Clark Mollenhoff, chief of the Washington bureau for the Des Moines Register and Tribune. Also on the list are Dr. Phillip Levine of Des Moines, a Drake University professor and Iowa state coordinator for the Governor's Committee on Drug Abuse, and Charles M. Roberts, International Kiwanis Trustee from Fort Myers, Fla.

Election of new officers for the Nebraska-Iowa Kiwanis District and for the 14 divisions which make up the district will conclude the convention on Tuesday, Aug. 18.

Good Morning Feeders & Hi Mom

By Eddie Collins

Farm Moms, I look at the hog and turkey reports and my own bloods for a while. Top desirable hogs for the late fall and winter are in the 19c range and August 5. That means the average 1-3 year, by speculator's estimate, evaluated at no more than $15 a cow.

Because faith and optimism are usually obliterated by the pig intentions report, and a "good" sound—but in reality, pig with whom did this year's hog disease counter? It's a first grader—on the farm.

"No, Your honor, I don't have any bred hogs," I said. I had 11 hogs, 10 of them 1-3 year, 1 hogs, 1 pig, more even. Does that count as a farm? Sure, it does. My little brother is raising him. We're going to raise him on this farm. Our dad says that...

If you succeed, the hard heads will say that it was bound to happen anyway. If you fail, you lose impact on your program. I forget it, but report the market with humor and be light." He is right.

But, Mom, I can't sit by. My program has been built to help prices and with the hope to help again. We've checked cattle drops a half hundred times, often showed the futures on both cattle and grain. Now hogs.

From there on, the fact you are moving gifts is the news. A shortage rather than a glut. Black market demand rather than bargain basement and crazy days giveaways.

NAYI GUEST, Layne Mann and his weekend guest, Patrick Leo of Hawaii, looked over the family farm before leaving Wayne Monday morning. The boys joined other NAYI students at Halsey National Forest for a second week of study.

NAYI Lads Visit Here

Layne Mann, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mann of Wayne, was host to 18-year-old Patrick Leo of Kaneohe, Hawaii, Friday through Sunday as a part of the 1970 National Agricultural Youth Institute.

The NAYI program is designed to acquaint outstanding young men from all over the nation with opportunities in agriculture. The Institute got underway Aug. 10.

Mann is one of 113 young men participating in the Institute from 46 states and Puerto Rico. Delegates spent last week on the UNL campus, and then out-of-state guests were hosted in Nebraska homes over the weekend. Layne, representing Wayne County at the Institute, took his guest from...

Hawaii to the Wayne County Fair. The two youths left Wayne Monday for Columbus where they joined the entire NAYI group. After touring Columbus the delegates went to Halsey National Forest where final sessions were held. Delegates will return home today (Thursday).

At the close of the institute, each delegate is asked to prepare a 10-year plan for his education and early life's work.

Business Notes

Nine Wayne farmers, members of the Farmers Co-op of Wayne, visited the Felco Land O'Lakes Demonstration Farm at Fort Dodge this week.

The farmers—Walter Baier, Erwin Heer, Ed Gathje, Ed Gronc, Arthur Bargholz, Harold Gathje, Herbert Hansen, Melvin A. Torn, and Rachel McCare—were among 11,000 farmers and local cooperative officials who will visit the farm during the two-week period ending Friday.

The visitors get a chance to visit the various animal and poultry test trial locations, tour the dairy, swine, poultry and beef facilities, and inspect displays of merchandise. They are also transported through acres of test plots where various tests are being conducted on seeds, chemicals and fertilizers.

Felco, a cooperative in the upper middle west, is now merged with Land O'Lakes, a Minneapolis-based cooperative. Headquarters for the new company is at Minneapolis. Fort Dodge is the headquarters for the Felco Agricultural Services Division.

You Don't Make Enough Money to Have

A Checking Account?

Ever heard someone say, "I don't make enough money to have a checking account."?

As a matter of fact, students (as well as adults) with a limited budget have more need of a checking account than anyone else.

First consider the extra safety. With a check book there is no need to keep large amounts of cash on hand. And your cancelled checks are proof of payment for all your bills.

Equally important is the convenient record it affords. You. No question about where your money went.

ANY SMALL AMOUNT OPENS A CHECKING ACCOUNT HERE AT THE STATE NATIONAL BANK & TRUST CO. AND THE COST PER CHECK IS VERY LOW. EVERY ACCOUNT, LARGE OR SMALL, GETS OUR PERSONAL ATTENTION. WE ARE INTERESTED IN YOU AS A PERSON, NOT A NUMBER.

Climate Extremes
The variability and changeability of Nebraska climate are pointed out by several unique features, according to Harold H. Gilman, extension conservationist at the University of Nebraska.

Gilman noted the variability of Nebraska's weather in its rapid weather changes. These extreme changes, he said, are caused by the invasion of large air masses of different characteristics, such as warm, moist air from the Gulf of Mexico; cool, dry air from the Southwest; hot, dry air from the North Pacific Ocean, and cold, dry air from northwestern Canada.

The predominant moisture supply in Nebraska comes from the Gulf of Mexico, Gilman noted. He added that the amount of rain received varies because of the distance from the Gulf and it is often deflected eastward before it reaches Nebraska.

Gilman cited several specific aspects about Nebraska weather that explained the variable climate:

—There is a variation of 35 inches of precipitation received annually in the extreme south-eastern corner of the state to about 14-16 inches in the extreme western part of the state.

—Average annual snowfall varies from a high of 45.9 inches at Chadron to a low of 23.9

inches at Falls City, with a state average of 29 inches.

—Air-temperature varies widely from year to year and sometimes hour to hour. Daily temperatures are recorded at about 135 locations across the state.

and defense of our great industry.

The first essential step is to expand communication within agriculture. We must talk to each other and reach out to talk to others who would join us. It won't be as difficult as it sounds, if we make full use of modern communication tools available to us. So start communicating with your retailer, minister, banker, lawyer or anyone of your city cousins and show him your business. We must have new friends for agriculture in this decade.

Yard 'n' Garden Tips

Q—Another question concerning birch trees, involved the forming of boils on the bark. When pushed, sap squirted out of them.

A—Birch trees are susceptible to having areas die out. The boils are due to yeast getting into certain areas. They are not disease agencies, but removal can be accomplished by cleaning the wounded area back to the live bark and painting over it with tree paint.

Q—Is it all right to plant roses on the north side of the house?

A—Yes, it is, in fact, some roses do require an extra amount of shade. The light colored roses reflect much of the sun's rays, but dark red roses will absorb them. If exposed to too much sun the edges of the rose petals will turn.
