Officers serving on the board include James Marsh, president; Darrel Fueborth, vice president; Jerry Matcom, secretary and treasurer; Troy Vaughn, Jane March, Vera Hummel, Norris Weible, Larry DeForge, Fred Pierce, and Dale Gutsall.

Board members will meet again Sept. 21 in the Birch Room, Student Center, on the Wayne State College campus at 7:30 p.m.

Drouth Damaged Corn Is Valuable As Silage

Drouth damaged corn is a much more valuable feed as silage than as a grain crop, according to Walt Tolman, cattle researcher at Northeast Station. Experiments at the station in 1968 and 1969 comparing drouth damaged corn silage from the 1968 crop with normal silage produced in 1967 and 1969 showed the feed value of the drouth damaged crop to be almost equal to normal corn silage per pound dry matter. Tolman attributed this surprisingly good feed value of drouth corn to its low fiber and high sugar content compared to corn which matures normally.

Dry matter yield of drouth corn can be very misleading, Tolman warned. Not only can high moisture content of the crop make its weight high in relation to dry matter, but it is bulky too, because it does not pack as tight and because the heavy grain is not there.

In the station tests silage appeared to deteriorate some in feed value, even with the best of storage, when carried over into a second year, Tolman reported. Even so, because of its low cash value, he suggests considering harvesting and storing two years' supply from this crop. Storage at the Northeast Station in 1968 was in a sealed plastic silo with the air pumped out. This "vacuum" packed the silage very tightly and the heavy plastic cover was excellent in weather resistance, standing up well over 2 year's time.

Corn, or sorghum with any green color or life should be left standing in hope of rain coming and increasing yields and also because such material is usually much higher in moisture than it appears. Corn or sorghum above 70 per cent moisture will probably "seep", leaching out the most valuable sugars. A moisture test before silage making is suggested.

Many small, uncovered piles of silage in Northeast Nebraska proved to be complete failures in 1968. Spoilage was so great as to be very wasteful and the piles often "took" rain becoming unpalatable. A good plastic cover for drouth silage which can not be stored in a structure is a "must" in Tolman's opinion.

Very short corn may not justify the cost of cutting and may be grazed. Some fields are now being green chopped and fed fresh. Low nitrate tests reported in this area recently indicate this is a safe way to harvest. When rains come, drouth stunted corn or sorghum may make quick regrowth and have high, dangerous, nitrate content for a few days. Feeding dry hay, a little ground ear-corn or similar feed in the morning before feeding green chop will reduce poison danger at this stage.

Much Work Remains On Highway Project

Construction work on about six miles of Highway 15 south of Wayne is continuing but Dale Pochman of the State Highway Department, Wayne, noted Friday that a considerable amount of work remains to be done before the project is completed.

Pochman said the Able Construction Company plans to begin paving the stretch of highway Oct. 1 with a seven-inch surface of concrete. Shoulders will be surfaced with asphalt.

Sewer Bid Is Awarded At Carroll

A contract to construct a sewer system in Carroll was awarded to the Scheel Construction Company of Omaha Friday as the firm submitted the lowest of nine bids on the project.

Village board of trustees opened and read the bids in the Carroll Auditorium Friday afternoon. The Scheel Company bid $67,750 on the sewer installation project or $8,650 below the engineer's estimate of $76,400.

Before the contract with the Scheel firm becomes official, it must be approved by both the FIA and the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration.

Ken Olds, Wayne, attorney for the village board, said Friday that the board will meet Tuesday night to authorize the issuance of revenue and general obligation bonds to finance the sewer system.

Olds noted the contractors expect to get preliminary work underway this week and plan to have the tapout and main line in place by Sept. 7.

Leila Pearson Is Grand Champion at Dixon County Fair's Dress Revue

Pretty girls modeling dresses they made in 4-H during the past year ended competition at the Dixon County Fair for 1970. The dress revue concluded the three-day affair, which began with Monday's horse show, followed by livestock judging on Tuesday.

Leila Pearson, Wakefield, won a purple ribbon and overall Grand Champion honors for her dress, followed by Karen Wallin, a purple ribbon winner from Laurel with the reserve championship. Karen will represent Dixon County at the Nebraska State Fair in Lincoln in modeling competition, along with Marilyn Eckart, Dixon, who won a purple ribbon for her skirt and blouse.

Although Leila will not model, her dress will represent the county at the State Fair. In livestock competition, Lori Erwin, Concord, won top honors with her Grand Champion Crossbred steer, David Hiffes, Danca, who took home Reserve Championship honors.

It's Back-to-School for Area Pupils

Wayne area High School students will join the ranks of thousands of other students across the nation as they begin the 1970-71 academic year, today (Monday). Although exact procedures will vary somewhat from town to town, most schools are scheduling a full day of class for their opening day.

WS Offices Now Moved Into Hahn

Administrative offices of Wayne State College are in a different building now after a two-week process of moving into the Hahn Building.

School of Education faculty members have moved into first-floor offices of the former administration building, which now will house most classes in education.

The Hahn Building was the home of Wayne State's laboratory school for several decades. English and foreign language classes met at Hahn in recent years until they moved into the former science building after completion of the new Carhart Science Hall.

On the first floor of the remodeled Hahn Building are offices of the registrar, business, admissions, purchasing and finance, and the postoffice. On the second floor: offices of the president, dean of faculties, dean of administration, dean of students, publications and alumni, financial aids, and housing. On the third floor: special services (Placement) office and a faculty conference room. On the ground floor: data processing and the campus patrol.

Misses $100

A rural Wayne resident missed getting a check for $100 in downtown Wayne Thursday night. George E. Claycomb was not in a participating store when his name was called as winner in the Cash Nite drawing.

If $150 could help you get your youngsters outfitted for school or pay off summer debts, perhaps you will be the lucky person to win that amount this week if registered for the drawing and in a participating store at 8 p.m. Thursday.

Gas War Continues

Area motorists were still getting a bargain on gasoline prices in Wayne over the weekend.

Date Announced For Grazing of Diverted Acres

Wayne county farmers participating in the 1970 feed grain and wheat programs may graze livestock on diverted acreage beginning Sept. 1.

Harry Heinemann, chairman of the Wayne county ASC committee, pointed out Thursday that the farm program agreements entered into by producers cover the entire calendar year. He explained that as part of the effort to balance production with demand feed grain and wheat producers agreed to divert a portion of their cropland from production and maintain it in a conserving use.

In return for participating in the programs producers earned price-support payments or wheat marketing certificates, and their program crops are eligible for price-support loans.

Infomed About Your Hospital?

Why is it so difficult to get Mr. Joe Average Citizen vitally interested in the hospital that may be a tool in saving his life?

Wayne residents now number around 5,400 and in a few weeks hundreds of college students will increase that number.

Do you suppose your neighbors next door could tell you what your hospital presently needs and what needs will be for the next decade?

State Fire Marshall Don Venter, Lincoln, recently informed the Wayne Hospital Board that unless considerable changes, corrections and modifications in the local hospital are made within 90 days, the hospital faces the alternative of losing its license qualifying it for the Medicare program.

Is there anyone wanting to build a $40,000 home on noisy Highway 35? Well then, how about you who have $15,000, would you like to put your new house on a thoroughfare bound to carry even more traffic in coming years?

A local businessman asked the city council Tuesday night something like, "Which one of you would like to build your new house on Seventh Street?"

Do you suppose it is just "normal" (whatever that means) upon hearing about any kind of problem at all to assume that nothing similar could be happening on a local basis?

To illustrate, when most of us hear lectures on driving safety, we sort of exempt ourselves because we "know" we are careful and "it will never happen to us."

How does your mind work when you are aware that cancer can be in your body in a painless state and you know you should have an annual medical exam?

We have all read or heard about air pollution, but, of course, that is something that happens in other places and not in Wayne, Nebraska, right? Wrong!

ment will not grant a license stating the hospital is certificated to handle Medicare patients.

We believe the Wayne Hospital Foundation is on the right track in making preliminary plans toward creating a hospital district.

Is there any good reason why Mr. Joe Average Citizen shouldn't have an ear to the plans and be interested in building a facility that would meet government standards, and even more important, might save his life?

Scenery around town is sure going through a sudden change. The swimming pool is closing, most vacations are over, summer baseball parks are quiet.

Did you watch some of those women-ladies they weren't on the tube last week hollering for equality via the Women's Liberation Movement? Come to think of it, maybe this bachelor has been missing the boat!

If you were driving along Seventh Street late last week you undoubtedly noticed that sidewalks were being installed along the south side of the street in a spot or two.

The tomato and sweet corn season is nearly over. That is one of the sad things about summer passing. Do you suppose that is what the cicadas are sounding off about in the evening or they are buzzing the doorbell of Fall?

Have you ever wondered what drivers who hold up car-tops with their left arms all summer do in the winter? Maybe both hands are on the steering wheel when winter comes? That is a good place to have them if you want to determine your own destiny.

This sign is near the eight-mile corner west of Wayne on Highway 35. Did you ever get the feeling that nobody wanted you to say anything?

Nine Wildcats Vying for Defensive Line Positions

There's a good scrap going in the front defensive line on Wayne State's football team, and defensive coach Ralph Barclay likes the competition he sees for three positions manned last year by seniors. Elsewhere, most slots currently have returning starters as top contenders, but the defensive line has only two starters back—junior tackle Mike Wynn of Grand Island, and Dan Boy of Chesterton, Ind. Last year teammates elected Wynn the most valuable player on defense. Barclay lists Ken Monroe of Arlington Heights, Ill., Mondy Miller, of Newcastle, and Rich Brandstetter of Battle Creek, as front runners at ends. Monroe, a defensive back last year as a freshman is a quick and rugged six-footer who, in March, won the national NAIA 167-pound wrestling championship. For football he's up to about 190. Barclay figures Monroe can fill one defensive end gap handily. Miller, a junior, and Brandstetter, a sophomore, saw limited action last year. Also end prospects are Everitt Wiseman, a freshman from Osceola, and Dick Berry, freshman from Grand Island. Karl Charipar, senior from Swisher, Ia., and product of Cedar Rapids LaSalle High School looks like the number one candidate at middle guard (Barclay rates him as good as senior Dwight Stewart last year). Charipar received the Fred Dale Athlete-School award last spring. Also vying at middle guard are Leo Hall, sophomore from Fremont, and Walt Fankhouser, sophomore from Chicago. A strong tackle prospect is Daryl Standfield, sophomore from Columbus, Ind., who, like Hall, was a wrestling regular last year. Several others could give any of these a challenge, Barclay said. Nebraska's near $80,000 budget for tourism promotion was the second lowest of 44 states responding to a recent survey conducted by Discover America Travel Organizations (DATO). The national average of travel promotion budgets for the 44 states was $590,000.

'Can You Beat That!'

Bob Barr, 20, of Wayne was obviously delighted about a hole-in-one on the 17th hole Aug. 22 during the noon shot at the Wayne Country Club. "It was an act of God that I made it," the youth exclaimed. Barr said his foursome included Mark Johnson of Carroll, Gordie Jorgensen and George Eynon of Wayne. After he made the 162-yard drive with a five iron they momentarily lost sight of the ball. When they saw it on the green, Barr said they started considering the possibility of a hole-in-one. It is a par three hole. Delmar Carlson, also of Wayne, had made a hole-in-one on the same green earlier this summer.

Allen Eagles Back For '70 Grid Year With 6-3 Record

Coming into the 1970 football season with a 6-3 record for last year, the Allen Eagles list 10 returning lettermen out of a total of 32 reporting for the first week of practice.

Under the new leadership of Coach Lawrence Batzlaff, who comes to Allen from Snyder, the Eagles list three returning senior backfield lettermen plus four returning senior linemen. Reporting back for backfield again this year are Brian Lanefelter, Gary Troth and Loren Rueter. Ends Kenton Emery and Jerome Roberts plus tackle Gary Lanser and center Mike Isom are expected to help handle line chores this year.

Returning underclass lettermen are John Warner, a 220-lb. junior listed as the Eagle fullback, tackle Fred Moore, and Jerry Geiger, expected to fill either an end or line position.

Two other seniors are likely to see quite a bit of action for the Eagles, according to Batzlaff. They are Gene Linefelter

Winside Workout

Winside Wildcats began sharpening their claws last week for the 1970 football season with Doug Barry, coach, and Harold Simpson, assistant. Coach Barry reports 34 boys are out for the team with 16 lettermen. The Wildcats will open the season Sept. 11 against Emerson-Hubbard at Emerson. Barry says he has nine freshman out for practice. Assistant Coach Harold Simpson, at right, watches several Wildcats toughening up

The coach also named several promising sophomores on the squad. They are twins Larry and Tom Stalbaum trying for positions in the line; David Retzlaff and Duane Mitchell, ends and Pete Snyder, backfield.

Retzlaff noted that he expects his team to be in good shape for the Sept. 11 game with Homer, but says depth could become a problem for the team. The Homer-Allen game will be played on the Allen Field.

Americans Fall In Wednesday Golf Action

A superior National League blanked the top four American League teams in the opening round of tournament action at the Wayne Country Club Wednesday night. Their winning play earned them berths in the semi-final round of play to be held this week.

The American League's first-place team composed of "Shorty" Ellis, Lee Tietgen and Jim Sturm fell to the team of Chuck McDermott, Wayne Tietgen and Bob Wilson, which held down fourth spot in the National League.

The second place National League team (Sid Hillier, Al Swan, and George Gottfrach) took out the team of Roger Bentley, Ray Murray and Herb Bergt to earn a match against the fourth finishing National League team.

LETTER FROM A LITTLE BOY:

On Monday, I'm gonna start to school again, and this year I'll be in the sixth grade. My little sister is going to start in Kindergarten and frankly, I think she is pretty dumb about a lot of things, but I guess we all are when we are just five years old.

She doesn't know much about safety, and like all girls she is a little hard to teach anything to. Mother keeps telling her not to cross the street until she has looked both ways, and never to run across the street, but I see her do it all the time.

Last night before we went to bed, we all talked about going back to school, and who would be our teacher, and I told Daddy my plans and mother fussed over the new dress she had made for Sis. After I went to bed, Daddy came in and told me I would have to watch out for Sis on the way to and from school and not let her do silly things like run from between parked cars and play in the street. He said motorists sometimes were careless and didn't always watch out for kids, he said that some adults drive like crazy and that the big kids in high school who have cars, show off for their friends when they get in a car and see how fast they can go. And when he left the room, I was pretty worried, what if someone in a car hit Sis and maybe killed her. Gee... she is a girl and she always wants to go where I go, but she always shares her candy with me and she feeds Tippy, our dog when I'm not home and— Well golly — I'm appealing to you —

The Wayne Country Club's tournament officially ended Friday when Jerry Miller downed Fred Gildersleeve to take it first in the second flight of the tourney.

Gildersleeve, down one stroke at the end of nine holes of play Sunday, was unable to gain a lead. He dropped two more strokes, falling to Miller 3-2.

Chuck Fisher took out Don Sund in the championship flight of that tournament Sunday.

VA Q & A

Q. I receive 30 per cent disability compensation from the Veterans Administration. However, I will soon be 65 and retired. Can I waive my disability compensation and come under the VA pension program if it is to my financial advantage to do so?

A. In a word, yes. The VA suggests you make application for pension. The VA will pay you the higher amount if you are eligible for two benefits.

Outlook Meeting Slated Sept. 14 By NEN Feeders

Will cattle feeding make money this year? Rising feed prices, drought damage to the corn crop, beef import changes and competition from large southern feedlots are only a few of the conditions that confuse the answer to this question.
 The Northeast Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association will hold their annual Outlook Meeting at the Wagon Wheel Steakhouse in Laurel, Monday evening Sept. 14 to help stockmen plan their feeding operations. Featured speaker will be M.F. Aegerter, vice president of the First National Bank of Omaha. Aegerter has a long experience with cattle, starting as a champion 4-H beef exhibitor from Seward County. More recently he has developed a reputation for information in livestock finance and business management.
 Colored pictures of cattle and the carcasses they produced at recent Association market study at Dakota City will be shown. The meeting will follow a dinner at the steakhouse.

Labor Department

Studying Ways to

Help Alcoholics

The U. S. Department of Labor is sponsoring an experiment in New York to find out how better to handle the growing problem of alcoholics and drug addicts.

Through a four-month Manpower Administration grant of $19,425, the Vera Institute of Justice, Inc., will explore the possibilities of operating a "supported-work" program for derelicts who are unable to remain employed.

The Labor Department grant will finance a study of existing programs designed to work with derelicts and will develop and design a large scale program of supported employment. The study will determine the number of participants that can reasonably be handled, the selection criteria to be used, the administrative structure required, and the costs of such a program.

The Vera study will also investigate available resources of financial support for a major demonstration effort to include support for long-term housing facilities for the participants. Staff at each of the existing Vera projects has emphasized that reasonable housing and intensive social and therapeutic services are essential to successful rehabilitation of this group.

WVFD Crew Wins At Dakota Fair

The Wayne Volunteer Fire Department was one of seven departments competing at the Dakota-Thurston County Fair Aug. 24 at the Atokad Race Park near South Sioux City in timed events. The WVFD crew took second place and won $75.

Chief Pinkartman, Wayne Fire chief, said there were three divisions in the contests sponsored by the fair and three top places were awarded to those with the best total times.

In the first division of competition each department had to dash for the fire truck, pick up a 50-foot hose, attach a nozzle and knock a bullseye target over. This same procedure was included in the second division but each department raced the clock in also adding another 50-foot-of hose after knocking the target over, and after putting up a ladder, had to knock down yet another target mounted on another truck.

In the final event each department dashed for the truck, attached two 50-foot-sections of hose, knocked a target over, added another 50-foot section of hose, then proceeded to hit a second target.

Pinkartman said firemen wore helmets, coats and boots in assumilating actual conditions of fire fighting. Wathill won first place and $100 while Wayne took second place and received $75. Third place went to South Sioux City. Their department won $40. Chief Pinkartman said each of the departments competing got a minimum of $25 for their efforts.
