

Winter Is Reading Time

Now that winter is really here it is time to check out a good book from the Wayne Library, according to Librarian Harriet Kerl.

And there are plenty of good books available, she reports. Among them are Ernest Hemingway's "Island in the Stream," Irwin Shaw's "Rich Man, Poor Man," Pearl Buck's "Mandala," Erich Segal's top selling "Love Story" and Edwin Teal's "Springtime in Britain."

Also available at the library are "The Child in the Family" by Maria Montessori, "Confusing Collectibles" by Dorothy Hammond and "Snowmobiles and Snowmobiling" by James J. Tulle.

Children's books available include Patricia Combs' "Dorrie" See READING TIME, page 9

'Cancellation Not Aimed at WSC'

Five insurance companies have expressed interest in insuring Wayne State College buildings since Friday when President W. A. Brandenburg told the State College Board of Trustees that existing insurance would be cancelled January 15.

Dr. Brandenburg said Tuesday the cancellation was not aimed at Wayne State, but that the company which currently insures revenue-bond financed buildings at Wayne is generally withdrawing from insurance of college buildings nationwide, apparently because of heavy losses at some universities.

Wayne buildings—the dormitories and Student Center—have been insured for years with negligible losses, Dr. Brandenburg said.

Hids for the new insurance will be opened January 12.

Santa, Singers Visit Shut-ins

Several elderly and shut-in Carroll residents were surprised Saturday night by a visit from Santa Claus and a group of 50 carolers.

Santa first stopped at the Carroll auditorium at 8 p.m. to give treats to all the kiddies. He then, role with the 50 Carroll carolers on a tractor and hayrack furnished by Gordon Davis. The group went to various homes with Santa surprising a number of adults.

Mrs. Vernie Hulbert was in charge of leading the carolers in the singing. The Forktook care of Santa's duties.

Following the caroling, the group went to the Jack Kavanaugh home for a cooperative lunch. Mrs. Kavanaugh said since the caroling group consisted mainly of women and children the sub-zero weather kept them from stopping in even more homes.

The Gifts of Christmas

JOY— The JOY of CHRISTMAS is the spirit that makes our hearts leap in excitement among friends and relatives. But the real JOY is the praise and thanksgiving we have in the prophecy of Christ's birth fulfilled which renews within our hearts and minds and becomes our identity for the year ahead.

HOPE— The HOPE of CHRISTMAS is the promised birth of Christ, the Son of God, complete and the security of the future that we all hold so dear. A promise eternal which man can fully search for but which they need only believe and trust in for a full life.

PEACE— The PEACE of CHRISTMAS is the perfect sacrifice of Christ for all mankind—as the angels proclaimed to the world, "Peace On Earth and Goodwill to ALL Men" Surely, he was the total answer to man's desires for all times.

LOVE— The LOVE of CHRISTMAS is the concern and sincerity, joy and affection which we exchange and share with all mankind. But it was the perfectly given gift of undeserved LOVE that was expressed by God in the birth of the Christ child which is the ultimate expression of LOVE to everyone.

Let JOY and HOPE revive you as you celebrate the enfleshing of God in Jesus Christ!

May it bring you and the rest of our world PEACE and LOVE.

MAY EACH OF THESE GIFTS BE PART OF YOU THIS CHRISTMAS.

Fluffy Scenery

Several days of fog and freezing conditions in the Wayne area produced fluffy results such as this one on weeds, trees, fence lines and power lines. The weather conditions made driving difficult at times and dangerous much of the time as the most air produced slick roads and limited vision.

Big Task Now Faces WS Tourney Defenders

Laurel High School's Bears and Wayne State's Wildcats will have championships to defend when eight teams square off in the Wayne State Christmas Holiday Basketball Tournament next Tuesday and Wednesday, Dec. 29-30.

Defending those championships won't be easy. Laurel, 2-2 before its Tuesday night game, will meet stiff opposition in its 4-0 Norfolk Catholic first-round foe at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday. West Point and Wayne High are matched in the other high school game at 6:45 Tuesday.

Wayne State, winner the past two years, may be pressed to repeat. Its first opponent, at 8:30 Tuesday, will be Missouri Western College of St. Joseph, Mo. Now in its second year as a four-year school, Missouri Western has its six top scorers and five top rebounders back from last year's 11-14 team.

Roundout the college division are Evangel College of Springfield, Mo., and Western New Mexico University of Silver City, who will open the tourney at 3:15 Tuesday.

All three visiting college teams are newcomers to the meet, now in its 13th year of college competition. Norfolk Catholic makes its first appearance in the third annual high school bracket. Laurel, twice winner, West Point and Wayne State. See DEFENDERS, page 9

Herald Workers Get Holidays Off

Subscribers to The Wayne Herald will not receive a Monday newspaper because the Christmas holiday this year would make it too difficult to publish that issue.

Also, the following Monday issue of the newspaper will not be printed because New Year's Day falls on the same day of the week as Christmas.

The curtailed printing schedule being followed by the newspaper over the two holidays will allow all the employees a chance to spend them with their families.

Yuletide Fines Costly to Three

Yuletide fines are no less costly than at any other time of the year as was discovered by three persons appearing in Wayne County court during the last few days.

Judge Luverna Hilton fined William Armentrout, Emerson, $15 and costs of $7.50, plus restitution of checks, on a charge of issuing insufficient fund checks.

George Henderson Jr., Wayne, paid a $10 fine and $5 costs for operating a motor vehicle without a license.

John K. Olson, Crete, paid $5 court costs and fines on two counts. He was fined $15 for intoxication and $19 for resisting arrest.

Local Snow Just Right For Santa

Well, kids, you're in luck. Although the area has not received any more than a few flakes of snow this last week, there is still enough of the white stuff around that fell Dec. 11 to guarantee Santa Claus good sledding. He may even have an extra sled or two in his pack.

Postal Services Curtailed Friday

The Wayne, Winside and Carroll post offices remind patrons that there will be no window service, box deliveries, collections or city or rural deliveries on Christmas Day this year. Saturday there will be no window service, but there will be mail placed in the box section in the post office. Also on Saturday there will be no delivery service to the city or rural routes. Collection and dispatch that day will be made on a Sunday schedule.

Today (Thursday) there will be window service at the three post offices only in the morning. The other services today will be the same as normal.

'Santa Claus Left Boot Tracks in Snow'

Anne Gentrup remembers the time when people put candles on the Christmas tree instead of lights. She also recalls that she believed that Santa Claus was the one who decorated the tree; and says she believed in that jolly

Local Residents Attend National NFO Convention

Four Wayne County members of the National Farmers Organization were among 41 northeast Nebraskans attending the annual national convention of the NFO in Louisville, Ky. Dec. 14-19.

Ernest Muhs, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Glassmeyer and Elmer Roemhild returned home from the three-day affair reporting "the most determination, solidarity and spirit of purpose ever exhibited at an NFO convention. The 1970 convention theme was "NFO, The Farmer's Only Hope."

Those attending from Wayne County, said Oran Lee Staley, national NFO president, brought the estimated 12,500 delegates to a standing ovation 16 times as he outlined the plans ahead emphasizing that collective bargaining is needed for agriculture and not individual begging.

Staley noted in the main address, "Farmers defeat themselves by selling their production as individuals, but farmers blocking their production together and then bargaining together and selling together through NFO collective bargaining program, build prices together."

Convention entertainment was provided by sub Grand Ole Opry stars as Lester Platt, Betty West, Claude King and Stonewall Jackson.

Not Mentioned

The names of two Wayne business firms—Kuhn's Department Store and Andy's Pizza House—were left off the list of contributors to the recent Christmas party for area youngsters published in the Monday issue of The Wayne Herald.

A total of over 100 businesses and individuals contributed in order to put on the second annual party, a project of three Greek organizations at Wayne State College.

Hours Changed At Courthouse

but she still recalls that the family went to midnight mass and they celebrated Christmas day with uncles and aunts, with goose as the main course.

Jocielle Bull, a little girl in Wichita Falls, Texas, in 1936, remembers the joy she felt when she received a Negro doll for Christmas. The doll was quite rare, she says, but she loved it because she had been taught that Negroes were equal to white people.

Richard Manley recollects a Christmas in England in 1944. It was during the Battle of the Bulge, he remembers, and he spent several days before Christmas in his bomber waiting for the fog around England to lift, so that if the planes took off they would be able to land again. The fog cleared the next day, Christmas, and the Eighth Air Force flew—but Manley's crew did not. It was due to a three-day pass on Christmas Day.

Counseling Service Offered

A confidential farm counseling association which may be just the thing some farmers need to help them better their operations has been formed for northeast Nebraska.

The service will be available to farmers in the counties of Wayne, Cedar, Dixon, Thurston and Dakota.

To be governed by a board of directors named by the members, the association will help farmers analyze their business by the use of good records and on-the-farm counseling by a trained farm management consultant.

Serving on the group's steering committee from Wayne County are Jim Gustafson and Alden Johnson of Wakefield. Both men have membership applications for 1971 enrollment. The applications are also available from Harold Ingalls, county agent.

Cash Awaits Contest Winners

Cash prizes of $5, $2 and $1 are awaiting the winners of the annual Wayne Herald Christmas Coloring Contest.

Any youngster through the eighth grade is eligible for the contest. All they have to do to enter is pick out one of the advertisements in this issue of the newspaper, color or paint it best they can and enter it in the contest before noon next Thursday, Dec. 31.

Entries will be judged in two divisions—Division I for youths through the third grade, Division II for youths from the fourth through the eighth grade. Winners will be announced in the Jan. 7th issue.

Prizes and individuals throughout the Wayne area are wishing their customers and friends a happy holiday season in their advertisements in this issue of the newspaper. Many of those ads are ideally suited for the contest.

Wakefield Drawing Winners Announced

Winners of $50 each in the Christmas drawing at Wakefield Saturday afternoon were Louie Hansen and Harley Bard.

Santa and his ponies were slated to visit the kiddies in downtown Wakefield at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday. Prizes of $300 in cash and a pony were also to be given away.

Santa Gives Treats

Santa arrived in Concord Saturday and distributed sacks of candy, nuts and fruit to all the children. Arrangements for his arrival were made by the Concord Commercial Club.

Winners of free groceries at the Hanson's Grocery Store during a drawing were Mrs. Mabel Erwin, Carl Koch, Mrs. Clarence Pearson, Mrs. Everett Johnson and Glen Rice.

Wrecks Follow Pill Schedule

Vehicle accidents in Wayne over the weekend occurred on a schedule similar to that for taking vitamins, one a day.

Two autos collided Saturday in the alley behind Little Bill's. Officers said a 1970 Plymouth driven by Rodney Reeg was westbound and a 1963 Oldsmobile driven by Douglas Nelson was southbound. The vehicles hit at the alley intersection.

Gerald Wacker, Winside, was backing up in his 1969 Buick at the College Crest Apartments parking lot Sunday, police said, and hit a parked 1967 Chevrolet owned by Dean Pearson.

Monday officers were called to East Eighth and Logan Streets after a northbound 1970 Ford driven by Bernice Bressler, Dixon, was hit by a 1960 Pontiac driven by Debbie Allen who was southbound. She reportedly told police that she touched the brakes and slid sideways on the ice.

A New Way to Spell

Mrs. Clarence Boling, Wayne, holds the $50 check she won Monday in the Chamber of Commerce Christmas cash drawing. Santa presented the check and showed the lucky winner a new way to spell Christmas. Mrs. Boling commented "This is just something I thought always happens to somebody else." She had never won anything before and noted, "I couldn't have come at a better time." She and her husband have two children and five grandchildren. Asked about spending the $50, Mrs. Boling said, "It is easy to spend at this time of year." Another $50 drawing was slated Tuesday and $2,500 was marked for giving away Wednesday.

Treats Await Holiday Readers

Several treats, including some of Christmas holiday nature, await the readers of this issue of The Wayne Herald.

Readers will find inside:

- A letter from Catherine Hepburn, Wayne High's contribution to the Americans Abroad program. She writes from Germany as she prepares for Christmas overseas.
- A feature story on the auction of the Altona General Store. The store closed its doors last week for the second time since it was opened in 1898.
- Results of Wakefield's just-second basketball win over Walthill Friday night. That and other sports treats can be found on the sports page.

—Letters of Christmas greetings from two former American Field Service students at Wayne High: Margot McKay and Tereesta Urian.

—A special story on what it's like to run a greenhouse during the holiday season.

—Comments on why advanced learning and education is so important to the farmer of today. Harold Ingalls, Wayne County agent, talks about that subject in his column on the Farm Page.

BEEF RIB ROAST IS TOP CHOICE for Christmas table.

Add gay platter garnish—Meringued Peaches.

No better selection can be made for holiday dinner than tender, juicy ribs of beef. Impressive, delicious and easy to prepare, it's a choice that's backed by both tradition and taste.

Be sure to have your retailer loosen back chine-bone of rib roast by sawing across ribs and then tie the roast, advises Boba Stages, home economist of the National Live Stock and Meat Board. This makes carving easier.

To prepare the beef, place a 3 to 4-rib roast, fat side up, on rack in open roasting pan. Insert meat thermometer so bulb is centered in the thickest part, making sure bulb does not rest in fat or on bone. Do not add water. Do not cover. Roast in slow oven (325 F.) to desired degree of doneness.

The meat thermometer will register 140 F. for rare; 160 F. for medium; 170 F. for well done. Allow 23 to 25 minutes per pound for cooking roast to rare, 27 to 30 minutes for medium and 32 to 35 for well done.

Roasts are more easily carved if they "stand" in warm place 20 minutes after removal from oven and before carving.

Meringued Peaches
Fill centers of drained canned cling peach halves with mince-meat. 1 tablespoon in each half. Top with stiff meringue. 2 table-spoons per peach white and bake in 190 F oven 5 to 7 minutes, until lightly browned.

Barner and Pat Wert, Members decided to remember a resident of Dahl Retirement Center with a Christmas gift.

Following the regular meeting the group held a Christmas supper. Mrs. Bred Hedrick will entertain at 8 p.m. Jan. 5.

Annette Cage Friday Bride

In 5 p.m. rites Friday afternoon at St. Mary's Catholic Church, Wayne, Annette Louise Cage, daughter of Mrs. Corinne Cage, Wayne, became the bride of Arnold Henry Zach, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Zach, Winnebago.

The Rev. Paul Begley, Wayne, officiated at the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. Pat McCaslin, Winnebago. Gift bearers were Mr. and Mrs. Gene Fletcher, Wayne. Organ selections were by Marvin Schurman, Nicholas. The church was decorated with pink glads and mums, red roses and white candles.

Wearing a gown of white sparkle crepe, fashioned by herself and her mother, the bride was escorted down the aisle by a friend of the family, William Filter, Wayne, and given in marriage by her mother. Her street length dress of empire style featured cuffed, bishop sleeves and Chantilly lace poncho and was accented with embroidered seed pearls. She wore a pearl trimmed mantilla and carried a prayer book, rosary and a single, long-stemmed red rose.

The bride's honor attendant, Marlon Kappelmann, Tempe, Ariz., also wore a street-length dress designed by the bride of pale pink sparkle crepe. The A-line fashion was styled with bishop sleeves and a short train. She carried a cascade of red elf roses and pink azaleas matching the wreath of flowers in her hair.

Best man was David Zach, Winnebago, brother of the bridegroom, and ushers were Kenneth and Henry Zach, Winnebago, also brothers of the bridegroom.

Tommy Fletcher, Wayne, was ringbearer and Cynthia Filter, Wayne, wearing a red velvet and white lace dress, served as flowergirl.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Cage chose a coral and dress ensemble in brown and bone diamond print knit with beige and brown accessories. Mrs. Zach wore a blue knit jacket dress with black accessories and both had red and pink rose corsages.

Mr. and Mrs. William Filter, Wayne, served as hosts for the reception held at St. Mary's Hall following the ceremony. Susie Hamann, Wayne State College, registered about 85 guests and Beth Meason, Wayne, cut the cake. Others assisted were Mary Zach, Winnebago, and Cathy Fletcher, Wayne.

For her going away ensemble the bride chose a brown and white batte knit coat and dress ensemble with bone accents. The couple took a short wedding trip to Chicago and South Dakota and are making their new home at 104 East 11th Street, Wayne.

Northeast Extension Notes

by Anna Marie Kreifels

interlinings are not always necessary, but they do add warmth to a coat. The interlining may be a separate layer of fabric such as a finely woven wool or a fuzzy cotton fabric. When the lining back has a metallic surface or a fuzzy surface it shows the interlining has been applied to the lining. Consumers can determine the type of interlining by pulling up the lining. The more expensive coats usually have the wool interlining.

In short, consumers should get the "inside story" before they invest in a winter coat.

Altona's General Store—The First and The Last

by Merlin Wright

Altona, once a community of 50 people but now home to only 13 people, has lost its original landmark—the general store. Mr. and Mrs. Leon Meyer and sons, Tim, 17, and Larry 15, locked the front doors of Altona's General Store after an auction of its contents Friday. The store was the first business to open in the hamlet and the last to close, operating for all but one of the last 72 years.

In the spring of 1898, J. G. Bergt and F. G. Panning, both of Hooper, formed a partnership, erected the store building on a two-acre tract of land bought from George F. Thies and opened the General Store featuring a variety of merchandise. A post-office later operated out of the store with the U. S. Postal Department in Washington, D. C., suggesting that the community's name be Altona.

Frank Leuck of Wakefield built a blacksmith shop in the new hamlet in 1898. The following year George Thies erected a new store building and stocked-groceries, dry goods, hardware, harness and farm implements.

Bell Telephone Company brought a branch line out of Wisner to Altona in 1900. The growing community in 1901 added a town hall, the center of social life until it was destroyed by fire.

F. G. Panning and Jesse McNish of Wisner were instrumental in establishing the Farmers State Bank of Altona in 1908. The concrete block structure still stands and has been used for storage since it closed in the 1920's before the depression years.

Another blacksmith shop was operated by Henry Hogrefe of Hooper but the business burned in 1920. William Assenheimer was in the implement and auto business between 1912 and 1919. Herman Assenheimer operated the garage for some time afterwards.

Leon Meyer noted Sunday that the General Store was closed for a year between 1919 and 1920, but has otherwise been open since first established as the first business in Altona.

Major took over the store in April, 1958. He pointed out, "We've been here the longest of any owner. We're rather proud of that."

After operating the General Store for more than 20 years, Meyer decided to run for public office and was successful in being elected Wayne County treasurer in the 1970 general election. He decided, after being unable to find a buyer for the store, to auction its contents.

Several hundred people attended the public auction which got underway at 10 a.m. Friday. "It took the three auctioneers three hours just to sell the groceries," commented Mrs. Meyer. Leon said Orville Lage, Tom Hughes and Stanley Baler worked continuously, taking turns to eat at noon. "and we got through with the sale at 6:10 p.m., after eight hours of selling."

"We'll miss the store," Mrs. Meyer noted, "especially since it was so convenient to run in if someone needed something."

Meyer, in recalling some of the memories connected with the business, told how a Northeastern gathered in the hamlet. Undoubtedly, should the choir sing "O Little Town of Bethlehem," many of Altona's rural residents will also be thinking about treasured memories of another little town which has meant so much to them in past years.

about 42 there," Mrs. Meyer said, "and we had a real good time." A structure that will likely long remain the outstanding landmark in the hamlet is First Trinity Lutheran Church. Its spire is visible for several miles in each direction and though the parochial school is closed, the congregation continues to worship in regular services with an average of between 80 and 100 in attendance. The Rev. E. A. Blinger is pastor.

Come Christmas Eve there will be the voices of children singing inside the sanctuary as the rural congregation holds its traditional Christmas Eve services at eight o'clock.

There being no business firms now in Altona, the church remains as the single place of

"Our parochial school at First Trinity also closed for the first time this year," Meyer said. "Seeing the school and store close is rather sad, especially for the older people."

There is no doubt but what Altona's General Store is going to be missed. It was a popular place for neighbors in the area to chat and pick up items ranging from toothpaste to seed corn.

The old store building, empty of its stocked shelves, came alive one more time for a few hours Saturday night when those who helped Meyers with the sale got together for a party. "There were

Ley Tells of Coming Duties in State Post

by Merlin Wright

"Make your office such so the governor doesn't have to read it in the newspaper to find out what is going on," was the answer of 67-year-old Henry E. "Hank" Ley in response to a question Saturday as to the philosophy he will use in his office as state banking director.

J. J. Exon is inaugurated governor Jan. 7. Governor-elect Exon disclosed his appointment of Ley to the state office Dec. 15. Campaign treasurer for Exon, Ley was state banking director from February, 1964 until he resigned to run for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in March, 1968.

Ley's predecessor in the state office is Edwin Langley, Lincoln. "I think Mr. Langley has done a good job in handling the office," Ley noted, adding, "and I anticipate carrying on any changes in the office that appear to be beneficial."

As the state director of banking, Ley, assisted by a staff of about 30, including examiners, will control the securities operations that fall under the regulatory acts in Nebraska under the Department of Securities. His office also will act as a counselor for all of the previously mentioned financial institutions in the state.

Appointed to the office by Exon for a four-year term, Ley pointed out that he will keep the governor informed in all matters of regulations, chartering and other significant activities taking place in his office located in the Executive Building.

USDA Charges Firm With P&S Violation

Wood Bros. Livestock Commission Co. at St. Louis City has been charged with violating trust account, payment, conflict of interest and accounting requirements under the Packers and Stockyards Act, the U.S. Department of Agriculture said last week.

The firm's trade area includes northeastern Nebraska.

The administrative complaint was filed by USDA's Packers and Stockyards Administration (PASA). Filing of a complaint does not prove that the firm has violated the P&S Act. It has a right to a hearing to determine if the evidence supports the charges.

May joy fill your heart and enrich your life this Christmas Season. We extend our warm thanks to you.

Late Basket Gives Trojans 1st Cage Win

Young Dave Scheel made only one basket in Wakefield's clash against Walthill Saturday night, but that one basket will probably be remembered by him for a long time.

A 6-1 sophomore, he stole the ball from a Walthill opponent at midcourt and turned the steal into a game-winning lay-up with less than seven seconds left in the game.

Scheel's cool play, plus some fine clutch shooting by another young Trojan, 6-1 junior Pat Starzl, helped the Wakefield quintet break their losing streak at three straight and gives them a 1-3 mark to take into next week's Christmas holiday tournament at Emerson-Hubbard.

Walthill, on top of Wakefield by as much as seven points with 5:27 left in the game, had two starters foul out late in the last period, opening the way for the Trojans to overtake the visitors.

With Wakefield behind by 55-50 with just 59 seconds left, Starzl, a transfer student from Emerson-Hubbard, hit a jumper to cut the lead to three points. Another Starzl jumper, this one with 20 seconds left, pulled the hosts to within one point and left the rest of the job up to Scheel.

The Trojans had gained and lost the lead several times throughout the game, falling behind midway in the final quarter as Bluejay Ward Cina repeatedly hit on 15-foot jump shots.

Rick Olson, top scorer for the victors with 18 points, had his finest showing in four outings

Pat Starzl, at left, signals he is open. TROJAN RICK OLSON tries to get away from two Walthill defenders as teammate

Starzl had 14 points and his share of rebounds. Kim Kilne ended the evening with 10 points, Kevin Peters with six. Scheel had eight points - six of them coming from six tries at the free throw line.

Top scorer for the visitors was smooth Cina, a 6-1 junior, with 23 points, Curtis Walker, a senior, had 19.

Wakefield lost the reserve contest to Walthill, 29-24.

Cage Antics Steal Week's Sport Spotlight

By Norvin Hansen

Dick Nelson, former head basketball coach at Wayne High, isn't doing too badly for himself as freshman cage boss at Augustana College in Sioux Falls.
 He had a 3-2 record the middle of last week against junior varsity teams. His Vikings knocked off Northwestern of Orange City, Iowa, twice and Dakota Sports of Sioux Falls. He's been beaten by College Masters Life of Brookings and Traub Silo of Sioux Falls.
 A graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan of Lincoln, where he set the career scoring record, Nelson resigned his job last school year after three years head coach of the Devils.
 *****
 Another person familiar to area sports fans, Brent Fahnestock of Laurel, is also making an impression in sports circles in southeastern South Dakota.

Fahnestock, a 1969 graduate of Laurel High, scored 30 points in the University of South Dakota junior varsity's 102-90 loss to Creighton University last week. That scoring total gave him high point honors for his squad. He's a freshman at the Vermillion school, stands 6-4 and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Fahnestock of Laurel.

A total of 167 followers of the University of Nebraska football team from the Wayne area paid their 15 cents to have their names added to the long list of signers to the congratulatory telegram which will be given the Cornhuskers during their New Year's Night encounter with LSU in the Orange Bowl.
 The drive for signers for the telegram had a goal of over 42,000 signatures in an effort to top the number who signed the one given to Bart Star by followers of the Green Bay Packers. It would be quite a compliment to the NU fans if they can reach that goal, but regardless of the final number it should bolster the Big Red for what might be their biggest test this season.

Fans of the Wakefield basketball team missed quite a game if they didn't take in the Saturday contest between the Trojans and the Walthill Bluejays.

A senior, a junior and a sophomore figured importantly in the 56-35 last-second win over Walthill.

Senior Rick Olson pumped in 18 points, junior Pat Starzl hit 14 and sophomore Dave Scheel stole the ball with about seven or eight seconds left and drove half court for a lay-up to give Wakefield its first win. That bucket by Scheel was his only field goal of the evening, although he scored six points from the free throw line. Starzl hit a couple buckets with Wakefield trailing by five to set the stage for Scheel's steal.

Winside High Wrestles To Win over Stanton

Winside's mat club won all but two matches to walk away with Tuesday night's home meet against Stanton, 44-8.
 The Wildcats, who have yet to lose a meet this season after three outings, won six of the matches by pins:
 —Felix Durrin over Dave Kuester at 1:59 in 98-pound class.
 —Roger Anderson over Walt Jensen at 5:23 in 126-pound class.
 —Terry Jaeger over Tom Barry at 1:57 in 145-pound class.
 —Dean Krueger over Greg Hill at 3:00 in 155-pound class.
 —Brian Hoffman over Lowell Christensen at 3:09 in 185-pound class.
 —Dennis Wade over Gary Kopletz in 1:35 in heavyweight division.
 Winning their matches by decisions were Bob Langenberg, 9-0 over Steve Kander at 132 pounds; Dale Miller, 9-0 over Tim Davidson at 138 pounds, and Gaylen Stevens, 2-1 over Dan Davidson at 167 pounds.
 Dave Jaeger won the 105-pound division by forfeit when Stanton was unable to field a wrestler.
 Losing their matches: Steve Suelhi by a 2-47 fall to Warren Jensen at 112 pounds and Doug Lago by a 6-1 decision to Tom Bretkreutz at 119 pounds.
 Winside competed in the Logan View holiday tournament on Wednesday of this week. The squad takes in the holiday tournament at Howells next Wednesday, Dec. 30, before preparing for a dual at Hartington on Jan. 7.

Howells Rips Local Frosh

A tall club from Howells kept the Wayne High freshmen looking for victory No. 1 by handing the locals a 70-61 loss Thursday afternoon.
 Despite the fine scoring efforts of Scott Ehlers and Kerry Jech, the local club fell behind by 42-18 at intermission after trailing by only five, 19-14, at the first quarter rest. A number of turnovers played an important part in that disastrous second period for the hosts.
 Ehlers finished the day with 21 points, Jech with 20. Also contributing were Gordon Cook, Todd Bigelow and Jeff Lamp, all with six each.
 Wayne hit 34 per cent from the field (26 of 76) and 42 per cent at the line (6 of 14).
 Next action for the Wayne yearlings, now 0-2, will be Jan. 8 at Madison. Next home game is against Norfolk on Jan. 14 in the city auditorium.

Winside Cats to Vie In Rosalie Tourney

The Winside Wildcats put their 2-3 mark on the line Tuesday night in the second game of the opening round of the Christmas holiday basketball tournament at Rosalie.
 Also in the meet are Beemer and Bancroft, pitted to open the two-day affair.
 The Wildcats, victors of the Christmas affair a year ago at Lyons, will have to overcome the depressing overtime loss to Coleridge last week. Earlier in the season the club won over Wakefield and Newcastle while losing to Ponca and Walthill.

Mat Action Slim Over Holidays

The wrestling squads at Winside and Wakefield will compete next week in holiday tournaments for the only area mat action on the local season until early in January.
 Winside will travel to Howells while Wakefield will go to Baile Creek, both on Wednesday, Dec. 30.
 On Jan. 4 the Wayne club travels to Plainview for a Husker Conference meet.

Wakefield
An open letter to Northeast Nebraska Pork Producers:
This past few months have been a difficult time for the pork producer. It would be easy for us to sit back and gripe - try to blame someone else - but, really do nothing constructive to help ourselves.

I think any business has its ups and downs so let's see if we can't get our present "down" up again. The near future doesn't seem to promise too much in a cut back of number of pigs farrowed.
So what can we do? Let's see if we can't do a better job of selling our product - really good tasting, nutritious and wholesome pork - to the consumer.
How can we go about this? The same way any other business sells their product - by advertising.
Where will the money come from for this promotion? From the Nickles for Profit Program. Support the market that is willing to check out your nickles.
Oh, yes, spend two dollars and join the Pork Producers Association and have a voice in where and how the nickles are spent.
Paul Everingham, President
NE Nebr. Pork Producers Association

back with paternal fondness to 1959 when he spent Christmas with his first grandchild in St. Paul, Minn.
But perhaps the loveliest memory of a favorite Christmas comes from Paul Russell, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Wayne. Reverend Russell looked back to a 1927 Christmas in Texas and said:
"This was the year when the big boys told us that there was no Santa Claus. I was only nine years old at the time. This was also the first time that I had ever snowed in my life.
"On Christmas eve we let the fire die down in the fireplace so that Santa could come down the chimney. The next morning I looked out and saw cowboy boot tracks in the snow going to every house that had children and skipping the houses that did not have children.
"Later on I found out that the tracks were made by the milkmen bringing milk to the families that had children. But when I saw those tracks there was no one who could convince me that there was no Santa Claus."

FINAL EXAMINATION? That's right, this is a final exam in the modern dance class, one of the physical education courses taught by Mrs. Nancy Lofstad at Wayne State.
Each student prepared an original dance for the test. Some turned out as solos, others as ensembles by several dancers, and some were more like games taught to the whole class. One of the solo dances was performed by Jacque Metcalf of Maville, Ia., (above) who displayed the skill she has acquired with the Sioux City Ballet.

Game Dads Against Altering Big Mo

Nebraska's Game and Parks Commission has gone on record against a proposed U.S. Army Corps of Engineers project that would channelize the last major portion of the Missouri River still in a natural or semi-natural state.
In a resolution passed at its December meeting, Commissioners cited reasons for their opposition based on potential losses to fish, wildlife and outdoor recreation. The Commission also questioned the economic benefits the Corps claims channelization would bring to the area.
The Corps project would straighten the Missouri from below Gavins Point Dam to South Sioux City, directing flow of the river into a single channel about 300 feet wide and nine feet deep so that barges could move to the mouth of the James River and north into South Dakota.
This is almost certain to wipe out or seriously deplete populations of at least 12 species of fish below Gavins Point Dam, as well as eliminate the river's waterfowl habitat and interfere with its rugged scenery, according to the Commission.
The resolution emphasized that the segment in question is the last sizeable portion of the river largely unaltered by man. It said that alternate means of transportation exist or can be developed, but nothing will be able to take the place of the natural qualities of the river once they are destroyed.
Channelization would eliminate or reduce small channels not subject to the strong current of the river, gravel bars that serve as spawning grounds for fish and resting places for ducks and geese, brush piles that harbor both game and forage fish, and many other types of aquatic habitat. All this would be replaced by a single, relatively deep and fast moving channel, reducing water area by about two-thirds, the Commission says.
Game Commission fisheries biologists predict that elimination of backwaters and slow-moving chutes would severely deplete or eliminate species such as largemouth bass and bluegill.
Other fish that would suffer include walleye, sauger, white crappie, blue catfish, flathead catfish, paddlefish and three varieties of sturgeon, they say.
Besides endangering the excellent fish population that now live in the river below Gavins

Feeder Short Course Planned at Lincoln

A short course geared to the problems and opportunities of the larger commercial cattle feeder will be held at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education in Lincoln Jan. 4-5.
"The short course program will focus on the rapid changes taking place in our dynamic beef feeding industry and the implications these changes have for the large farmer and commercial feeder in Nebraska," according to Paul Guyer, University of Nebraska Extension livestock specialist.
The speakers will present up-to-date information, he added, as it relates to the needs of the farmer who is feeding 1,000 or more cattle each year, in the areas of business and personnel management, ration formulation, feedlot health and marketing.
Other topics to be discussed include new methods of processing cattle, new marketing patterns, trends in financing the larger feeder, waste management and air pollution control regulations and progress, effective use of by-product feeds and quality control in ration formulation.
Two panel discussions are planned, one on shifts in the source of feeders and the other on new ideas for feedlot design.

$17.50 Top Bid At Laurel 'Sale'

Mickey Mallatt brought the highest bid, $17.50, from Dave Gowery, during the "slave auction" at Laurel High Friday night. She was one of 28 track girls at Laurel who went up on the block during the two Laurel-Coleridge basketball games.
Second highest amount paid in the auction was the $13 paid by Bill Sorvell for June Kwois. Marvin Dahlquist paid $12.50 for Norda Ertwin.
Total amount earned in the auction was $195.48.
Another 15 girls will be auctioned off during the O'Neill St. Mary's game scheduled for Saturday, Jan. 16.

Point Dam, the Corps' work would also virtually eliminate waterfowl hunting by taking away slow water and gravel bars where birds rest and will cut into deer and small game habitat along the river's banks, according to the Commission.

The Corps of Engineers first proposed the project in the early 1960's and public hearings were held on the subject in 1964. Since then, the project plan has been revised by the Corps and was included this year in the Rivers and Harbors Omnibus Bill of the U. S. House of Representatives.
The bill was passed by the House, but provisions for the Missouri River channelization were dropped in the House-Senate Conference Committee because the project had not yet cleared the Federal Office of Management and Budget.

PRACTICES SET
Practice the next two weeks in the city recreation basketball league will be held at the National Guard Armory.
Practice for Monday for the A League teams will be 7:15 for Teams I, II and III, and 8:30 for Teams IV, V and VI.

Selective Service Director Explains Draft System

Colonel Lee Liggett, state director of Selective Service for Nebraska, recently reminded registrants in the 1970 lottery pool of the two important directives recently issued by National Headquarters Selective Service.

The first directive relates to the draft vulnerability of registrants with low lottery numbers who have entered the 1970 pool too late to be inducted before Dec. 31, 1970. These registrants with low numbers would have been issued orders for induction earlier in the year except for the fact that they were deferred or in some form of delay in their processing.

These men, if classified I-A by December 31, 1970, will be placed in an extended priority group and be ordered for induction during the first three months of 1971 along with the members of the 1971 lottery pool. The group of registrants in the extended priority group will have top exposure for the months of January, February and March. If not needed for the March call, their names will drop to what is called "second priority" and their chances of being needed will be greatly reduced.

Registrants who may be on procedural delay when the last call of the quarter is issued and would have been ordered except for the delay, will be ordered for induction as soon as they become available.

The second directive issued by Dr. Curtis Tarr, national director of Selective Service, pertains to registrants holding high lottery numbers in the 1970 pool that will probably not be reached by their respective local boards during calendar year 1970. These registrants, if deferred in I-S, B-A, II-C, or III-A, may request the local board in writing to reclassify them to I-A.

If the young man with a high number that is not reached in 1970 is in Class I-A on December 31, 1970, he will automatically pass from the top priority induction group to the second priority group on January 1, 1971, thereby considerable reducing his exposure to the draft and removing the uncertainty relating to his status with Selective Service.

The highest number reached is the number of a registrant issued an order to report for induction by a local board during the calendar year. All local boards have reached the same number during 1970. This is obviously caused by differences in population spread, dates of birth, enlistments, deferments, etc. Therefore, it is important the registrant check with his local board to determine the highest number reached in his board. The highest number estimated to be reached by any local board in Nebraska during 1970 is 190.

Colonel Liggett encourages registrants to contact their local boards regarding these two important changes or call state headquarters, whichever is more convenient.

Colonel Liggett has also announced that Selective Service is instituting a greatly expanded information program developed by the Public Information Office at National Headquarters. The new information includes a detailed publication entitled "Prospective on the Draft," new booklets on various aspects of the draft, such as the lottery, conscientious objection, hardship deferments, etc. State headquarters of Selective Service is contacting high schools in Nebraska relative to their interest in this material and providing them with information as to how it may be obtained.

Any bona fide draft counseling service within the state will also be placed on the mailing list for this up-to-date information, if it is requested by them. Any such counseling unit should advise the state director of their desire and they will be placed on the mailing list.

Area Newspapermen Will Discuss 1970

The editor of the South Sioux City Star, Herb Tryala, will join several other area newspaper editors in a televised round-table discussion on the important news events of 1970 and their implications on the year to come.

The hour program, "A Conversation with Area Editors," is part of the "M-A-T" Channel 9 "Dateline: Sioux City" series and will be aired at 8:30 Sunday evening.

Also on the program will be Bob Rague, editor and publisher of the Oakland Independent and Republican, and editors of newspapers in Yankton and Vermillion in South Dakota, and Sac City and Cherokee in Iowa.

The discussion will be hosted by Charles Harness, REAT news director, will cover topics of local, regional and national interest.

To old friends and new go our wishes for a wonderful Christmas season.

NSEA and Politics

The Nebraska State Education Association (NSEA) decided Saturday to establish a political action arm. The NSEA Delegate Assembly, meeting in Kearney, approved a resolution authorizing its board of directors to establish a non-profit corporation to be known as the Political Action Committee for Education (PACE).

PACE will reportedly involve itself in political issues and candidate races, and use funds to support or oppose issues and candidates.

We question the need for organized teachers to establish a political organization. A school teacher, like any other citizen, is free to have political opinions and act on an individual basis. But it is the business of those in the teaching profession to organize a political arm that will act in certain interests when the teachers are employees of the public.

When a school board goes about hiring a teacher, it cannot constitutionally inquire as to the prospective staff member's political party or viewpoints. It is generally considered that politics should have nothing to do with the hiring of a teacher.

This is a matter that is extremely touchy, but if political views cannot be involved when a teacher is hired, then how can the organization representing teachers on a state level justify in establishing a political action committee?

Teachers have positions that make them extremely influential, individually, teachers have every right to political viewpoints, but for them to organize for the purpose of politicking appears, in our opinion, to be out of step.

This writer believes NSEA is erring in establishing PACE. — MFM.

Tighter Security Promised For Legislators' Stockings

LINE OLN — Santa Claus is bringing extra security to the Nebraska Capitol. It will be noticed most around the West Chamber when the 1971 Legislature gets going, but there will be tightened security throughout the Statehouse.

There's even talk of a closed-circuit television system so guards may monitor all the doors. Electric locks with master controls also are being considered.

It's all part of planning to protect public property from vandals — and possibly mobs protesting something.

Identification cards are to be issued to senators, legislative employees and newsmen who have access to the floor of the chamber during the session. The cards will carry a color picture of the person with floor privileges.

Even lobbyists will have to get special credentials. They will be restricted to a small corner under the north balcony. Previously, they had a larger area in the rear of the chamber in which they could conduct at least semi-private huddles with senators.

The general public will do its legislative viewing from the balconies. But even that will be subject to heightened security.

Visitors are to be required to get passes from legislators — much the same as visitors to Congress do. The sergeant-at-arm staff is being increased and three state troopers are to be stationed at chamber doors. Two sergeants-at-arms used to constitute the complete chamber "security force."

The patrolmen are said to look into large handbags or packages if there is suspicion they might contain a bomb. Although there has been some comment that the security arrangements have something to do with the arrival of Omaha civil rights activist Ernest Chambers on the legislative scene, officials insist this is nonsense.

They said it is only a coincidence and the security program would have been instituted in any case.

The orders to implement the program came from the Legislative Council's executive board. Sen. Jerome Warner of Lawler attended a national meeting of legislative officials and spoke on a panel about security.

When he returned from that meeting, Warner told his colleagues it was prudent to take precautions. This was during the summer — just after a building on the University of Wisconsin had been bombed. Warner said all public buildings were jeopardized these days and it was only smart to be ready.

Sen-elect Chambers and another rookie legislator, John DeCamps of Neligh, scheduled a couple of exchange visits. Chambers went to DeCamps' northeast Nebraska home and found out how rural residents feel about state issues. DeCamps is to visit Chambers at his home in Omaha's Near North Side to get a better understanding of how the black community lives.

Tiemann Makes Last Trip

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann has been traveling, too.

Tiemann, his two administrative assistants and his personal secretary were in Sun Valley, Idaho, last week attending the national Republican Governors' Conference.

It probably was Tiemann's final journey as Nebraska's chief executive. He will turn over the governor's office and the mansion to Democrat J. J. Exon Jan. 7.

Exon, meanwhile, is getting ready. He appointed two more members of his administrative family last week. Henry Ley, 67, president of the State National Bank in Wayne, was chosen to serve as state banking director, and 30-year-old John L. Sullivan — that's his correct name, although he says he's no relation to the heavyweight champ — was appointed an administrative aide.

Ley, who ran unsuccessfully for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in 1966 (when Phillip Sorenson won), had served two years as banking director under former Gov. Frank B. Morrison. Ley, who will succeed Tiemann-appointed Edward Langley in the director's office, said he would resign as president of the Wayne bank but probably would continue to serve as chairman of the board.

Exon said there would be no conflict of interest because the Wayne institution is a national bank and isn't inspected by the state banking department. Sullivan also is a northeast Nebraska. He lives now in South Sioux City, and travels as a salesman for Lederle Laboratories, calling on doctors and druggists.

Sullivan joins former Sen. Norman Otto of Millard (who will resign as a member of the State Board of Education when Exon is inaugurated) as one of Exon's two top aides. Otto is to be the senior assistant.

Legislators who often had criticism of Tiemann's relations with the unicameral members have said privately they are looking forward to working with Otto, who was a popular member of the 1955, 1957, and 1959 sessions as a senator from Kearney. Otto also served as an assistant to Morrison.

Despite Otto's popularity and his knowledge of legislative procedures, Exon is expected to have some tough sledding with some of his recent initiatives — particularly in the area of tax reform. Many senators already have commented that they don't expect the food sales tax to be eliminated as Exon wants.

Dear Editor: I wonder if it's possible for me to send my yuletide greetings to the people of Wayne through The Wayne Herald?

Now that the yuletide season has come, I would like to greet all the wonderful people of Wayne with a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

I would also like to take this opportunity to tell you again that my 31st year in Wayne will never be forgotten; that it will always remain to be a lasting memory of a great experience among wonderful and fascinating people.

Again, thank you and I wish you all a happy holiday.

Editor's note: Tessa also says in a personal note that she is not going to school right now and may work before next semester starts. She enclosed a colorful greeting card sent to the wonderful people of Wayne.

Britsbay, Australia

Dear Editor: Through the medium of The Herald, would you please extend to my friends in Wayne my greetings and all my very best wishes for the new year?

It is hard for me to realize that really two and a half years have passed since my year in Wayne and the many happy memories and friendships that were formed during that time.

I could very much enjoy a white Christmas this year — at the moment all these "down under" are sweltering in over 90 degrees.

The past 12 months have been extremely happy and successful for me. I have now completed half my arts degree with a major in psychology and am working professionally in radio and television while studying at University.

During the year I had the pleasure of seeing Miss Vera Emdeler. I certainly hope that anyone else in the "vicinity" will not miss the opportunity of dropping in and saying "hi!"

In the meantime, I hope that the peace and contentment of Christmas will be with you now and throughout the new year. Margot McKay, AHS Australia, 67-68

(Margot McKay was the second American Field Service student to attend Wayne High School. She was here during the 1967-68 school year and stayed with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wolke.)

Dear Editor:

We would like to take this opportunity to inform the residents of Wayne and the surrounding communities of a special kind of person and of a Christmas spirit that lasts all year long.

As background information, approximately two years ago a local farmer, Peter Haberer, was stricken with a deterioration of the kidneys which has been requiring dialysis treatment since June, 1969. Mr. Haberer initially started these treatments once a week at a hospital in Sioux City, Iowa at the approximate cost of $425 per treatment plus an additional $150 doctor fee per treatment.

Mr. Haberer's age ruled out the possibility of a transplant, and realizing it would not take long for the cost to be extremely prohibitive, some citizens of Wayne formed the Wayne Community Non-Profit Kidney-Aid Corporation in order to purchase a home dialysis machine which would considerably reduce the expense, as well as increase his comfort and convenience.

A fund drive was initiated to raise monies in order that the machine could be purchased and in a short period of time, over $2,000 was raised.

The fund raising was considered quite successful, however, it was not until after some forty-three treatments and a total doctor and hospital bill in excess of $24,000 was incurred that the Kidney-Aid Corporation was able to have the home dialysis set in operation for Mr. Haberer.

It was Louie Jennes, a registered nurse, who volunteered to operate the dialysis machine for Mr. Haberer and it was not until then that the Corporation felt the entire situation was well in hand. Louie took it upon herself to travel some ninety miles round trip to the hospital in Sioux City about fifteen times in order that she could become trained on the machine and operate it by herself.

Each dialysis treatment, including preparation and clean-up, requires about gentlemen engaged in a game of target shooting. In the evening they met at the Astor House for "church" Christmas, theatrical exhibitions and music. There is no mention of a special religious observance, though the Biblical background of the holiday undoubtedly did not go unnoticed at Sunday church services.

In 1861 the diary of James M. Patterson of Rock Bluff, Cass County, mentions a supper at "church" Christmas eve, a "sup" dance following; in 1862, a turkey for the Yule feast; and, in 1864, since the holiday fell on Sunday, the day was spent in quiet religious observance without giving way to more earthly pursuits. Patterson mentions no gift-giving.

Dorothy Luse Syberg in her Wayne County History describes an 1890 community Christmas celebration at the courthouse in LaPorte. To finance it $35 had been raised. A decorated box elder tree lighted with candles and surrounded with simple gifts, was placed in the courthouse and residents invited. Those attending received gifts, and some folk brought their own presents. One woman gave her husband a home-made overcoat.

Though the elaborate electrically-lighted municipal decorations are a 20th Century addition to the holiday scene, there were instances of it much earlier. Trenton had an outdoor Yule celebration in 1890; and Santa Claus, real or imagined, though not as numerous as today, was a part of the Christmas fun for stock-exchanging youngsters of pioneer decades.

Criticism of Christmas with a non-religious motif has long been voiced in the Nebraska press. As a result, the church-related Christmas party with its program, refections and creche — but with a Santa Claus for the children — became a fixture in Beatrice in 1900 the cost of gift-giving children was not too high, either. Dolls were from 39 cents up, and evergreen trees could be bought as low as 39 cents.

Regardless of viewpoints of celebrants, religious or secular, a central theme of comradeship is present in all recorded accounts of Nebraska Christmas masses from earliest days to the present.

Out of Old

Nebraska

Nebraska Christmasmas.

Most of the customs associated with Christmas have an origin in antiquity and are a blend of religious and pagan customs. In America, after its original settlement by groups essentially British who brought their Yuletide customs with them, the holiday has undergone changes as immigrants from the European Continent added to it their Christmas folkways.

Look at the literature the Nebraska State Historical Society has on the holiday reveals a wealth of information about Christmasmas, past and present.

The frontier way of life, which characterized early Nebraska, also added its hard realism to the observance of the holiday — the cottonwood branches in lieu of an evergreen tree and popcorn strings to decorate it are examples. But even before settlers began to arrive in the Territory, sojourners here observed the day though without much ceremony. The earliest white men known to have been in the area on a Christmas Day were Robert Stuart and his companions who spent an uncomfortable snowy day in 1812 near Scott's Bluffs. They were the epic overland march from Astoria to the Pacific to St. Louis.

In 1820, Col. T. Chambers of Cantonment Council Bluffs, later known as Fort Atkinson, issued an order suspending work on December 25 to permit soldiers "to amuse themselves," but knowing the tradition of the wassail bowl cautioned them not to give in to "impropriety of conduct on the occasion."

When the Nebraska Palladium, first Territorial newspaper, made its appearance in 1854 at Bellevue a Christmas observance in the tradition of early America was recorded. Actually the celebration occurred across the Missouri River in St. Mary. There a "large and respectable party met at 3 o'clock p.m. and after partaking of refreshments. . . the

Chamber Manager Says 'Wayne Can't Stand Still'

by Merlin Wright
 "We're going to move either forward or backward. The move backward starts at a slow pace and then accelerates rapidly," Floyd Bracken, manager of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce since July, recently made that observation and added, "We can't sit still—we can't remain on a status quo. I believe it was George Bernard Shaw who once wrote, 'Satisfaction is death.'"

Such is the progressive philosophy of the Chamber manager who works with that organization's president, Arnie Reeg, in heading up local Chamber of Commerce activities. The two men co-ordinate 13 active committees consisting of business-

In response to numerous questions about the Chamber and those committees, Bracken explained that the local Chamber of Commerce is incorporated and works with the Nebraska Association of Commerce and Industry. He said there are an estimated 160 members in the local organization which has a board of directors made up of eight men with a headquarters building located at 108 West Third Street.

If you have noticed the new Little Santa Claus house on Main Street in which children may visit the old gentleman from the North Pole, or if you have attended such things as the Farm and Home show, Moonlight Madness, sales, Dollar Days and Cat

'n Dog Days in Wayne, then you have seen some of the results of the Chamber at work.

Promoting business in Wayne is sparked by the 12 members of the Chamber's retail committee which meets monthly. The group has charge of promotions such as those mentioned earlier plus "Back to School Days," Christmas's holiday sales and Christmas promotions.

Eight members of an education committee are responsible for setting up an annual dinner for new teachers at Wayne State College and in the Wayne Public Schools. They also sponsor a management course at Wayne High School.

The Chamber's legislative committee of seven members does such things as hold town hall meetings with senators and congressmen, and keeps the Chamber informed regarding some of the major bills before the Nebraska Legislature when it is in session.

A liaison committee keeps an exchange of information flowing between the businessmen and Wayne State College for the maintenance of good relationships between the city and college.

Besides seeking new members, the membership committee men greet each new business coming into the city and presents each with a six-month membership in the Chamber. Membership fees in the Chamber are based on varying factors such as the size of the establishment, number of employees and other similar considerations.

The 30 members of the transportation committee dig into the problems of state highways and city streets, passenger service, freight mail and county roads, as they relate to the immediate area.

If you have ever attended one of the free barbecues at the county fair, then you can appreciate another Chamber committee.

The agriculture committee works in conjunction with fair officials in holding the barbecue and also works with other phases of the county fair, 4-H programs and the 4-H calf sale.

The annual dinner committee sets up plans for the yearly dinner in January which serves as a kickoff for the Chamber's new work year. The dinner in 1971 is set for Jan. 18 at the city auditorium.

Bracken says plans are to add a hospitality committee in 1971 which will include the present sign committee. The group will work in promoting tourism. Previously, the sign committee was in charge of overseeing the large "Wayne" signs erected near each highway entrance into town, and signs near the junctions of Highways 275 and 15 south of Wayne, and Highways 9 and 20 north of Afton.

The Chamber's Christmas committee is in charge of Christmas lighting, making arrangements for free movies, Santa and having candy for the kiddies.

An eight-member task force in the Chamber works in heading up information campaigns regarding local projects.

The special events committee takes care of such things as working out arrangements for the north squad of the all-star basketball team which has used Wayne as a training base for the two years.

An accreditation committee is in the process of getting the local Chamber of Commerce accredited on a national level.

Bracken said he hopes to have an industrial committee soon and hopes to stress that part of work in 1971.

The Wayne Chamber of Commence also supplies the community with an employment service in cooperation with the Nebraska Employment Office, puts out the American and Welcome flags on special occasions, supplies information to businessmen in cooperation with the Nebraska Better Business Bureau, and cooperates in having a state tax department representative in Wayne each month to assist businessmen with tax forms.

Bracken says the Chamber is also now a member of the Nebraskalanders, a tourism program being promoted by the tourist division of the Nebraska Game and Park Division.

The 1970 Chamber officers and directors other than President Reeg include Steve Brasch, Gene Fredrickson, Bill Richardson, Max Lindstrom, Kent Hall, Larry King and Phillip Griess.

Larry King was named Chamber president for 1971 during an election about a month ago. He will take over the reins of heading up that office in January.

Among the many Wayne people and organizations that will be out working in 1971 to make Wayne a city of progress and pleasant place to live will be the Wayne Chamber of Commerce. Bracken emphasized that the city has to move either forward or backward and the Chamber is pulling out all the stops, so to speak, in boosting the community ahead.

Book Has Tips on Buying Insurance

State Insurance Director Ron Neff announced last week that his Department has published and is making available to the Nebraska citizens a "fact book" on insurance.

The booklet, titled "Insurance Facts for Nebraskans," reviews all lines of insurance and is being printed to acquaint the Nebraska family with some basic facts and tips on purchasing insurance coverage on their health, lives and property.

Neff noted that since his Department undertook the project numerous state insurance departments have shown an interest in publishing such literature for their citizens. He stressed that the other states have also recognized their responsibility of educating the public in the insurance area.

According to Neff, the booklet may be obtained by writing the Department of Insurance, 1315 "L" Street, Lincoln, Nebraska 68509.

Flowers Still Popular at Christmas Time

By Burns McCulloh

favorite among shoppers. A good example of this is the Wayne Greenhouse which began the Christmas season with about 7,000 poinsettias in red, pink and white. Of these plants, about three-fourths were sold to florists in fifteen towns around Wayne.

The Greenhouse, which also counts Azaleas and Cyclamens with the top Christmas plants, is owned and operated by Kent Hall and his wife, Lois. Kent is the third generation Hall to own the greenhouse since it was built by his grandfather in the 1920's. Hall employs nine full-time and part-time people during the year and another two part-time during the gardening season. The full-time employees include Mrs. Alta Meyer, who specializes in wedding designs and permanent arrangements; Jean Proett, who specializes in wedding designs and permanent arrangements in addition to fresh flower arrangements; Shariene Brockmiller of Winkside as clerk; Mrs. Janet Topp, clerk and bookkeeper; and Verne Sylvanus, who drives the delivery truck and helps around the greenhouse.

The local firm delivers within a 25-mile radius of Wayne, although there are few rural deliveries because of the occasional difficulty in locating people at farmhouses. There are deliveries twice daily to the hospital in Wayne. All of northeast Nebraska is included in their trade area.

Nearly all of the deliveries in Wayne are made on the same day they are received, usually within an hour or less. Pickup service on orders can be made in a few minutes, according to Hall.

For flower orders outside of the immediate Wayne area, the Greenhouse is a member of Florists' Transworld Delivery Association, an organization which delivers flowers all over the world, and can usually make deliveries within the United States on the same day the order is received.

Last year, Hall said, there were approximately 5,000 incoming LTD orders and 4,000 outgoing from the Greenhouse, 99 per cent of these within the United States.

The business sells about 30,000 potted plants a year, growing nearly all of the plants with-

Because it must maintain an optimum temperature level for each type of plant, the greenhouse uses enough natural gas to be the third or fourth highest consumer of natural gas in Wayne. Most of the gas is used during the night or cloudy days, according to Hall, because the glass is the greenhouse absorbs enough sunlight on clear days that the furnace is not needed. This is true even when the outside temperature is as low as ten below zero, although Hall emphasizes that at this time of year there is enough sunlight for this purpose only between 11:30 and 2:00. With sudden drops in temperature during the night, an all-night watchman would be a necessity at the greenhouse except for the fact that Hall and his family live within the greenhouse complex.

The Hall family includes four children, two boys and two girls. The oldest boy, Steve, is attending an electronics school in Kansas City, and the other three children, Lou Ann, Scott and Lori live at home with their parents.

Besides working with flowers, Hall also makes and sells creative and original arrangements using artificial flowers. For these arrangements Hall brings in an assortment of items from different locations and works them into decorative centerpieces and conversation items. Hall says the greenhouse makes several hundred of these a year, all on a seasonal basis with no two items alike.

Hall said the greenhouse and its business are not very much affected by changes in clothes and other fads, although he says that he has noticed that button-down shirts for men are becoming more fancy and elaborate.

SS Q. & A.

Q. My husband is 69 years old and is not able to do any work, can he receive disability payments from social security?

A. No, the disability program is for people who become unable to do any substantial gainful work before they become eligible for full retirement benefits, that is people under 65.

Q. I would like to retire, but I hear social security has an income limitation. I have some rental property that I'd like to keep. What do I do, keep on working?

A. Social security has an earnings limitation, not an income limitation. The amount that you can work for and still get payments is limited, but there is no limit as to the amount of other income you may have. Therefore, your rental income will usually not interfere with your social security payments. However, if you're a farmer or realtor you should check with social security about rentals.

The Wayne (Nebr.) Herald, Thursday, December 24, 1970

Q. I am 68 years of age and am receiving social security. I have a son who is 35 years of age and has been unable to take care of himself all his life, is it possible for him to receive any social security benefits on my record?

A. Yes, a child who has been unable to care for himself since birth or became unable to do any substantial gainful work anytime before he became 18 years of age may be eligible for disability benefits based on a parents social security record. You should contact your local social security office as soon as possible.

Q. I want my Medicare at age 65 because my insurance man said my Health Insurance will change that month. I am still working, what should I do as I am not ready to retire?

A. Medicare benefits are payable at age 65 whether or not you are retired. Your Medicare doctor bill insurance can begin with the month you become 65 only if you sign up in one of the three months before the month of your 65th birthday. So make application for Social Security in the three-month period before you are 65.

ALWAYS THINK POSITIVE — and, who knows, JUST MAYBE things will work out for you.

VA Q & A

Q -- Following discharge from the Armed Forces, I received dental treatment from the Veterans Administration. Later, I needed further treatment, but was denied. Why?

A -- A veteran is entitled to one-time dental treatment if he applied within one year of discharge. If he applies within six months, it is presumed that certain of his dental conditions are service-connected, and may be treated without a review of service records. The following categories of veterans are entitled to repeat dental treatment: those whose service-connected non-compensable dental conditions or disabilities resulted from combat wounds or service-injuries; former prisoners of war with service-connected non-compensable dental conditions may have repeat treatment for the service-connected dental conditions; veterans receiving compensation for a service-connected condition or disability may receive treatment for those dental conditions which the VA finds directly related to or aggravating the service-connected condition or disability; disabled veterans receiving training under the Vocational Rehabilitation Act who need dental treatment to prevent interruption of their training.

'71-72 Farm Loan Programs Announced

Commodity Credit Corporation has announced the farm storage, reseed and extended, warehouse-storage loan programs for the 1971-1972 storage period.

Harry Heinemann, chairman of Wayne County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said in making the announcement now the U. S. Department of Agriculture is providing farmers the opportunity to market their crops in one or two calendar years.

Loans on crops not authorized for reseed will mature this coming spring and summer, Heinemann said.

The announcement for farm storage reseed is as follows: Barley—Reseed loans are authorized for the 1968, 1969 and 1970 crops. This will require settlements of loans on the 1965, 1966 and 1967 crops.

Corn—Reseed loans are authorized for the 1969 and 1970 crops. This will require settlements of loans on the 1967 crop. The Department is awaiting additional information pertaining to stocks of corn before deciding whether to extend on-farm loans on 1968-crop corn.

Grain Sorghum—Reseed loans are authorized for the 1969 and 1970 crops. This will require settlements of loans on the 1967 and 1968 crops.

Oats—Reseed loans are authorized for the 1968, 1969 and 1970 crops. This will require settlements of loans on the 1965, 1966 and 1967 crops.

Soybeans—No reseed program is authorized. This will require settlements of loans on the 1967, 1968 and 1969 crops.

Wheat—Reseed loans are authorized for all classes of wheat from the 1968 crops except hard red spring, and all classes of wheat from the 1969 and 1970 crops. This will require settlements of loans on the 1967 crop and of loans on hard red spring wheat from the 1968 crop.

Barley—Extended loans are authorized for the 1970 crop. This will require settlements of loans on the 1967, 1968 and 1969 crops.

Corn—No extended loan program is authorized. This will require settlements of loans on the 1970 crop.

Grain Sorghum—Extended loans are authorized for the 1970 crop. This will require settlements of loans on the 1969 crop.

Oats—Extended loans are authorized for the 1970 crop. This will require settlements of loans on the 1967, 1968 and 1969 crops.

Soybeans—No extended loan program is authorized. This will require settlements of loans on the 1970 crop.

Wheat—Extended loans are authorized for the 1970 crop. This will require settlements of loans on the 1968 and 1969 crops.

Heinemann advised producers to be sure to request the proper authorization from the ASC office before selling or moving any CCC loan grain.

County Agent's Column

by Harold Ingalls

Each year we get an enrollment report from the Nebraska College of Agriculture which shows the number of students enrolling from each county. I find it rather odd that Wayne County has so few compared to our neighboring counties.

How many students does Wayne County have this year in the College of Agriculture? Just two. This low comparative figure is not just a one year oddity, but has persisted for many years.

So what? There are only seven out of Nebraska's 93 counties which have fewer enrollees in agriculture than does Wayne.

Our first reaction in looking for reasons might be that we have a more convenient college right here at Wayne. This seems less valid when we look at enrollments from our neighboring counties and in counties where other state colleges are located.

For example, Madison County has twenty enrollees in the College of Agriculture, Cedar has 18, Thurston has 17, Dixon has 15, Pierce has seven and Stanton has five.

Buffalo County, the home of Kearney State College has 22 students enrolled in the College of Agriculture at Lincoln, Nemaha County, where Peru State College is located has 14 students at Lincoln.

Our question now is who influences who to go where?

Today, advanced training beyond high school is considered essential for competitive pursuit of jobs. It is mandatory for most professions.

If special training is worthwhile for other professions, why not in agriculture.

There is far more to agriculture than farming. Agricultural related industry is by far the most important part of our national economy.

Wayne County ranks among the top quarter of Nebraska counties in value of agricultural products. Gross sales of farm products average about $30 million annually. Can we fairly conclude that agricultural training is less important for our youth than for the rest of Nebraska?

I am not saying that successful farmers need a college degree. But I do think that the size of investment and managerial skill required on a modern farm today justifies as much, or more, schooling than in most other professions.

We must realize, too, that less than half of those enrolling in college will complete requirements for a degree.

How about job opportunities for ag college graduates? The latest information indicates that demand still exceeds the supply. This is not true for many other kinds of college degrees.

Right here at Wayne I can think of a dozen jobs which require a degree in agriculture and many more for which ag college training would lend a high priority.

In addition to actual farm operation, here are some kinds of jobs available to those with special agricultural training: Farm supply and service (including sale of feed, fertilizers, pesticides, machinery and buildings), farm management, credit, livestock purchase and sales, government service (such as Soil Conservation, Farmers Home Administration and ag extension), landscaping and turf management.

Our College of Agriculture offers courses in pre-veterinary medicine and where promising students are subsidized to attend veterinary schools in neighboring states.

We also have a combined study program in agriculture and law which terminates with degrees in both areas.

College-bound high school graduates should know also that there are 120 scholarships worth $32,000 awarded annually to men in the College of Agriculture. In addition, some 600 students holding regents scholarships may use these in the College of Agriculture.

Despite the temporary gloomy farm picture, the production and distribution of food remains an important and essential element here and everywhere.

The average American in a lifespan of 70 years eats five tons of meat, 14 tons of milk and cream, four and a half tons of wheat and great quantities of other products coming from the earth. It takes manpower and ingenuity to supply these needs.

Good Morning Feeders & Hi Mom

By Eddie Collins

Mrs. Mickey De Lorenzo takes from the pocketbook. Your Levittown, New York Santa is the American Farmer. Dear Mickey: Remember a year ago, you had national publicity with F.L.P. (The Long Islanders protest-picketing against beef prices). Beef prices, nothing else. By September '69 cattlemen had suffered a $60 a head drop from late June, in fact, sharply lower from the moment the June contracts at the Chicago Mercantile Cattle Futures closed about noon, June 20. Today's spirit of giving comes from the land of farms and ranchers, Mickey. Giving does not necessarily come for the heart, but week reopened the story of F.L.P. F.L.P. was a Nebraska-born Angus-Herford Crossbred calf, renamed after your "For Lower Prices" club and shipped from Lexington to New York City. Reason shipped, two early morning phone conversations to you, as well as a Staphlet of Melbourne Beach, Fla. You both expressed confidence in feeding cheaper than the store prices.

The cattle producers were envisioned as black-hat-villains; the Eastern suburbanite wage earner as the smooth-shaved-victim. Your group wanted publicity. They already had the attention and sympathy of the national press, which incidentally, with their complete ignorance damned the farmers with their "milk underwear wives." (So help me, that quotation was directed to me at your meeting in Levittown.)

"People," mostly irate housewives, who knew not a center cut pork chop from a rump roast, who thought a 3/4 cent gain in second in size only to the King Ranch, who believed beef comes from the Marlboro way—a puffly-puff, with a posed gaze at the horizon or from country humpkin bleeks like the Clamptons or extension agent on Green Acres blamed western feeders for chain stores inflated prices. Remember Al Nelson and I met with the metropolitan chain store representatives and your F.L.P. organization? It was the first and only time they acknowledged you ever existed. Remember, I almost punched the big apple for finger thumping on my chest after I said the meat markup too high?

We later tried to tell a frac-torpedo for Australian import boats, summer underwear for strike pickets, eye glasses for federal graders, disappearing ink on notes overdue, razor blades for my boy in college.

tion of the problem on the "Today" TV show. Joe Garagola, Barbara Walters and Edwin Newman had prepared a script that I was supposed to answer like the country hick—"yep" or "nope." Somehow that did not fit my character.

Mickey, a multi-billion dollar industry cannot be explained in three minutes. When a New York harpie doesn't know the difference between a gummer dairy cow and a kosher-killed prime steer, (then the entire cattle industry from Shanghai Pierce to Charley Goodright, from Doctors Good and Ritchie to Esra Taft Benson, from the London House to Michael's Hamburger bar, has failed.) While Mrs. Olson established mountain coffee, Mayor Lindsay and Senator Javits sought and preferred increased import quotas.

Mickey, according to Hank Logeman, you did not want a calf. You certainly had the press pre-informed when we shipped F.L.P. to you. You had boots, Sombrero and duds that even duds would envy. While you supposedly wanted no calf, over 3,000 other women from all fifty states and even Japan, Korea and Mexico wrote for one to feed and love and eat.

True, the calf died...hard-wear disease (ate wire, Mom). True, the vet bill was high. (Chihuahua dog specialists are not too good at treating a calf. Popcorn, salt, and candy wrappers at Eisenhower Park Zoo was not good for diarrhea.)

True, Lexington or F.L.P. was a pawn. My regrets are, I didn't send Mayor Lindsay and Betty Furness a pair. Or when hog prices started to crash, I didn't get not giving away a pot-belly-truck load of shoots at high noon on Times Square.

Mickey, New Yorkers are helpless, totally dependent on crop producing farmers and livestock producers. Yet, farmers are kicked around more than Brazilian soccer ball. Those chain stores over-charged and blamed the innocent western cowman. No one stood up.

Mickey, while a farmer should have rights, civil rights, they also need push, drive and resistance. They need promotion and leadership. You merely brushed agriculture for a few glamour days. Your loss was complete, a 100% death rate. The IPI searched for a dead story. They missed the true one of collapsed milk prices, strikes, of government manipulation, all situations still in existence.

Merry Christmas, Mickey. Truly, you looked good in the tight jeans. All of us at Claus cattleman and hogmen would have appreciated you all duded up in your western clothes.

German, U.S. Youths Not So Different

Germany

Dear Family and Friends,

The German youth. How do they differ from young Americans? They say that when a person begins to dream in a foreign language, it has really become a part of his subconsciousness.

Well, it has been a long haul after 2 1/2 months, and I've got a long way yet to go. More and more now when giving English lessons, I take off from German, I speak back upon German for explanations or speaking or speaking a mixture of German and English—so that I really have to concentrate when speaking my native tongue! Nevertheless, I must say I attend school reluctantly each day, fully realizing the resulting struggle to understand in each class.

Will there ever come a day when I can understand everything that is spoken around me? Learning the language has lots its challenging luster; I've advanced to the stage where it is either sink or swim, and I'm really struggling to swim and reach the opposite shore of comprehension. My next letter will be crammed full of all the exciting things I learned from my trip to Berlin. I received a letter from a fellow AFS'er last week who explained that she was so excited planning the things to tell us, that she finds it hard to concentrate any more in class. I sympathize with her, because next letter will be counting the days before I see the other AFS'ers again and can share my wonderful experiences with them.

I received train tickets in the mail last week, as unfortunately AFS Hamburg chose to place me in charge of the roundtrip train tickets for all AFS'ers in South Germany (yagads). I take off from Frankfurt at 10 next Thursday morning (Dec. 3), switch trains in Frankfurt, and travel the 4-hour route to Hannover. After a mad dash tour of this city (I meet the other AFS'ers here) we fly across Soviet territory and into West Berlin.

We'll have a fantastic five days of sightseeing tours of West and East Berlin, lectures, museum visits, discussions and evaluations of our year in Germany so far, etc. Plus we'll be spending Sunday getting acquainted with another family in their various homes. Unbelievable, huh?

You might find it interesting that Wednesday weeks ago was a strangely named holiday—Bundestag, which literally means day of Penance and Prayer for All Protestants. For once, the Catholics got to sleep late instead of attending Mass!

I've started to read "Of Mice and Men" by John Steinbeck in German. How's that for a knock-out? But his style and vocabulary is relatively easy. It was a holiday present.

Love and peace to all,

"Karin"

fig if the entire class comprehends or not. Jubilation! I had my first dream in German two nights ago! They say that when a person begins to dream in a foreign language, it has really become a part of his subconsciousness.
