

Pig Conference to Offer Ideas

The Nebraska Feeder Pig Conference set for Feb. 10 and 11 at the Elks Club in Norfolk, will cover a variety of topics. Topics included are feeder pig pricing systems; health programs; the role of the artificial sow in feeder pig production; pre-conditioning feeder pigs; management and the feeder pig; commercial feeder pig production; design criteria for nurseries; regulations governing feeder pig movement; genetics and the feeder pig; sow leasing programs; designing and managing feeder pig co-ops; the logic and potential of feeder pig co-ops; and the risks and hazards in feeder pig co-ops.

associated with feeder pig production. Fritschen indicated that due to high building costs, the need for special management skill at farrowing time, lack of labor, as well as other factors, feeder pig production and finishing have developed into a separate component of the swine industry in Nebraska. The meetings are preceded by coffee and rolls at 9:00 a.m., with the program beginning at 9:45. The conference is co-sponsored by the Extension Service of the University of Nebraska, Madison County Extension Service, Nebraska Pork Producers Association, and the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce.

These two scouts from Troop 175, Gordon Emry, at left, and Ralph Aratt, did their good deed Friday by helping carry groceries for Mrs. Tracy Aratt, president of the Scout Auxiliary, and Mrs. Diane Cramer, at right, chairman of the Scout's chili feed slated for Thursday. The ladies were at Wittig's Super Valu making preparation for the annual fund-raising soup feed. $400 Looking for an Owner

A Wayne resident missed out on $400 of free money in the weekly Chamber of Commerce Cash Night drawing Thursday. Floyd Sullivan would have been the winner of $400 at 8 p.m. had he stepped forward in a participating store to claim the jackpot. Floyd Bracken, Chamber manager, said the drawing will again be worth $400 Thursday night. A new jackpot was started two weeks ago and is now at $200. The reserve fund will be the jackpot prize for the winner in the weekly drawing a week after the $400 is claimed. Shoppers can become eligible for the drawings by signing up, and being present in any of the participating businesses at 8 p.m. on Thursday nights.

The "swine summit meeting" was called by Hardin for discussion of ways to prevent massive declines in hog prices such as experienced recently by the U. S. swine industry. State Trims Aid to Wayne County State aid to Wayne County continues to grow less and less. For the third consecutive year the county is in receipt of a state aid check that is of a smaller amount than that received the year previously. Leon Meyer, county treasurer, said Friday that he had received a warrant from the office of State Treasurer Wayne Swanson in the amount of $67,627.87, the county's share of $9,740,612 from sales and income tax being divided up in state aid to Nebraska cities and counties. The $67,627 is $418 less than the check $68,045, received from the state last year, and $5,537 less than the $73,164 check received in 1969. The 1967 Legislature repealed the intangible property tax, household goods tax and the head tax. Proceeds from these taxes had been used to finance local government. The money is proportionately divided among counties, half on the basis of the most recent federal census and half on the previous year's tangible property tax valuation. One-fifth or 20 percent of the $67,627 remains in the county's general fund. Meyer said, it means the county will keep $13,525 of the 1971 check.

The remaining 80 percent of the funds is divided among the incorporated cities in Wayne County according to population in the last federal census. Meyer said he understands the state is distributing the aid funds on the basis of the 1970 census. He indicated there appears to be some question among county treasurers concerning the distribution on that basis since the counties have not as yet received any official population figures. "Until we get official notice," Meyer explained, "the only thing we can do according to statute is use the 1960 census." He said he had visited with several county treasurers in the area and they are also planning to use the 1960 census figures for distribution of the funds on a local level.

Barn Fire Destroys 18 Pigs Near Allen

Flames that destroyed a large barn late Friday afternoon on a farm located three miles south and two miles west of Allen also killed 18 small pigs. The blaze destroyed about 70 bales of straw and burned approximately 100 bushels of shelled corn, according to Marvin Borg of Wakefield who owns the farm and rents the buildings to Paul Kerr. Kerr is employed at the Northeast Station at Concord. Fire departments from Wakefield, Allen and Concord were on the scene. The firemen were unable to save the barn. Borg said the fire was thought to have started around 4:30 p.m. He said Howard Kimball of Allen was driving by the place and noticed the fire. Kimball reportedly went to the house to tell Mrs. Kerr and then went to the blazing building and was able to save a few hogs and a motorcycle. Four small pigs were rescued but 18 died in the fire, Borg said. The pigs, straw and corn all belonged to Kerr.

Local youth and adult sponsors met Wednesday night at Wittse's Mortuary and adopted a constitution which officially identifies the group as the Wayne Youth Club. The constitution states the objectives of the club are to provide recreation for area youth; provide a public place for youth to congregate, and to present pertinent, contemporary programs of interest to youth. Youth eligible for membership are those of junior high and senior high school age from Wayne and the surrounding area. Wayne State College students less than 20 years old may also join. Time for An Answer

Although we are well aware that the Wayne-Carroll school board has many problems and chooses to take care of, especially at this time of the year when salary negotiations are going on, we think it high time the board made a concerted effort to solve what we feel is a very big problem — traffic control at the high school.

You can stake money that each school day there is a traffic jam — it's hard to call it anything else — at the high school as cars pull up and stack up while the drivers eagerly await their children, lovers and friends. Those who make their pickups early but who are stuck down the line from the entrance to the highway are simply out of luck. They must sit there with their engines running and radios playing while other drivers, with passengers less prompt, block the drive. There's no courtesy shown — it's simply a "wait until I get my kid" proposition. If you can't wait, tough luck.

We'll ask just one question: What would happen if there were an emergency at the high school some time between 3:50 and 4:00? A fire or an explosion, for instance? Would the same lack of courtesy be shown to emergency vehicles and personnel? It's a good question to ask. As taxpayers, you have a right to know the answer, and the school board has the responsibility to give you that answer, bright and clear. — NLI.

Planning Ahead?

A good businessman knows the necessity of planning ahead. Our forefathers, as they came across country to settle in this area, found that planning ahead was a matter of survival.

It is possible for the present generation to applaud the foresight of their grandfathers, but at the same time neglect to plan ahead for forthcoming generations?

Wayne, likely to soon be announced as a first-class city, is the county seat and hub of a sizeable trade area. Due to the size of our city it is only natural that we should be expected to lead the way in urging the entire county to plan ahead.

Question we all might ask ourselves about the future of Wayne County involves county property in Wayne. The question is how long is the county going to make the present courthouse building serve as office space and a symbol of our county's progress?

fathers looked into the future of the county and constructed a building that was adequate for its time and extremely pleasing to the eye.

A building, regardless of its beauty, continues to age and demand increasing maintenance costs. It also one day ceases to be adequate to serve the purpose for which it was built.

We believe it is time we Wayne Countians begin to make definite plans for the future regarding a new county government building. Our forefathers provided the present building. It has served well. Can we do as much for the generations to follow?

Perhaps it would be worth the time to investigate the possibility of incorporating city and county government offices into one building.

JUST WRIGHT

After hearing the Wayne High School stage band, directed by Ron Dalton, during the annual Chamber of Commerce dinner last week, all we can say is "Wow! Those kids are terrific!"

There just isn't any way to tell you folks who haven't heard them just how good they are. Those of you who have already heard them don't need convincing.

Take our word for it that the WHS stage band could probably go on tour on a professional basis if they had the time and money. Maybe J.W. can get up to the high school one of these days and do a story on that group. There has to be a good story behind any group of people that can blend their talents that well.

After the stage band had played several numbers at the dinner Monday night, they added one more selection as an encore and got an immediate burst of applause. Although the title was just a little elusive to some, most folk recognized the familiar old melody "The Stripper" and broke into applause after the first few bars.

There was no doubt but what the youthful musicians had bridged the generation gap and hit those of us over 35 right in our memory basket.

By Merlin Wright

Hearing those kids play one song is like trying to eat only one potato chip. It's great to have a man like Dalton using his talent to co-ordinate all that other talent.

Don Koenig, another member of our very capable teaching staff in Wayne, stopped in the office for a few minutes the other morning. He was telling J.W. just how much he appreciated those fine people up there at Plainview.

Koenig said the bus carrying the Wayne High wrestling squad to O'Neill for a match Tuesday night ran into trouble when both tires on a dual wheel went flat. There was a real possibility that with 38 grapplers on board sitting five miles from no place that the meet would have to be forfeited.

Koenig said the Plainview people saved the day for them by loaning one of their school buses so the boys could keep their wrestling date. "Those people are really great," Koenig said. He said his squad was in a Plainview bus and back on the road just 45 minutes after the flat tires.

After the 25-25 match with O'Neill was over, the WHS team returned to Plainview via the borrowed bus. Koenig said the guys at Plainview had the tires fixed on the Wayne bus and also had it all warmed up ready to go.

Now how can you beat that kind of neighborliness?

We think that was a real fine gesture on the part of you folks up there at Plainview. There are a lot of towns that would not have responded such as you did. It would sure be great if every community would practice your demonstration of concern for others.

Man is all too often ornery to man, but there are also a lot of great people. You might not notice them while passing on the street, but when trouble comes, those people are always the first to stick out a helping hand. They still know the warm feeling of being able to help somebody out.

It must be nearly beyond the imagination of some of those people who live in huge sprawling jungles of humanity called cities to realize that there are still places on earth where people can be trusted to care. We're glad to be living out here in the wide open where there is still elbow room. How about you? In fact, a person could probably walk down most any main street in northeast Nebraska and somewhere along the way find that strangers can still smile.

The big cities not only have a problem with air pollution, but all too often human behavior is such that it is dangerous to smile at anyone.

It's usually safe to smile at most anyone in Wayne County, except maybe your mother-in-law.

There are, of course, a lot of nice people living in the larger cities who do know how to lend a helping hand and are well experienced at it. Big cities have so many social problems that the image one gets is generally not that of neighborliness. If you have ever lived in a city of 100,000 or more, you know there really are lots of good neighbors even though the crime rate mars that image.

Isn't it interesting what those things on the ends of our arms — hands — are capable of doing? The hands of a mother can soothe, spank or caress. Hands can wipe away tears or cause them. Hands on the wheel of a car can deliver or kill.

One's hands can write the endearing words of a lover or the unkind words of a fool. Hands may pen notes of gratitude or paragraph venom. Hands that know how to wrap a gift may also pull the trigger in a fit of anger. A father's hand of discipline may also lift up a son who has stubbed a toe.

Each infant discovers his hands and looks at them. We put the hands of children and hold the hands of those we love. Our hands applaud what we appreciate and when silent they express our boredom or respect.

Actually, whether living in a rural town like Wayne or a city the size of Chicago, it forever remains up to each individual as to whether hands are to be used in a neighborly fashion or used to choke the artery of kindness.

There are still hundreds of area residents who have not as yet set foot inside the new planetarium at Wayne State College. Sometimes folk may think they have to drive to Omaha, Sioux City or Norfolk for unusual entertainment. Not so!

The Milky Way Galaxy: Our home in the Universe is the celestial program being shown at 3:30 p.m. on Sunday afternoons and again at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesdays. Though the 45-minute show is well worth a $2 ticket, there is no cost to get in. That's right. The shows are free.

The programs are made possible due to the cordiality of the college and staff members who are willing to work overtime.

If you have any banking at all to combine something educational with entertainment, go to the south entrance of the new WSC science building either Wednesday or Sunday. Our bet is that you'll "kick" yourself for not having attended the other shows in previous months.

Be sure to get to the planetarium a little early as seating is limited and once the show starts no one can be admitted due to the darkened theatre. Carl Rump is planetarium director. You'll undoubtedly want to thank him for his hospitality.

A few more birthdays impresses one with the reality that you're young when it's as easy to go upstairs as down, and you're old when it's as hard to go downstairs as up.

May the great God of the wide-open country in Nebraska give you a good horse and saddle as you ride down the trail of life. Stay in there tight'n' buddy, and we'll see you next week.

Stark, 27, will work with Dean Chase of Allen, winner in the race for the county sheriff's office over veteran incumbent Gus Schutte. Stark farms near Ponca with his brother and father.

Borrowed from the "HUN" column in Thursday's Pierce County Leader: A couple of guys are promoting the newest in adult entertainment... of all things, goat races. In a short time dates will be set for this colossal event, and the official "goat roosers" will be Ken Scheer and Cliff Pentico. The event is to be a fund-raising deal for the Pierce Centennial. (Folks, this is for real).

Members of the University of Nebraska football team will be in Randolph on Sunday, Feb. 7, to play a benefit basketball game with a group of former Wayne State College eagers. The game will be at the Randolph High auditorium.

Thirty-one veterans are taking part in the farm cooperative training class being held on Monday and Wednesday nights at Pender High School. The class is open to nine more veterans who were honorably discharged from the service since Jan. 31, 1955. Those wishing to sign up for the course should do so at the Thurston County veterans service office in Pender.

Joe Flack, editor of The Madison Star-Mail, continued his rantings about South Dakota's George McGovern in last week's installment of "The Way It Looks To Me". It's official! Sen. McGovern will be a candidate for president of the United States. In this country everyone has a chance to become president but, in the case of Sen. The Ponca volunteer fire department was called to two fires the past few days — at the Nebraska Journal-Leader office and the Jon Schulte home east of Ponca. Little damage was done at either site.

An overheard conversation in a South Sioux City restaurant has led to the arrest of three teenagers for possession of marijuana.

The trio, from outside Nebraska, was arrested at the Travelodge Motel after South Sioux police received a tip from a woman who called police to report that she heard somebody talking about a sale of $40,000 worth of narcotics.

The three young people, all from Colorado, were arrested after police found the car with the help of the license plate number copied down by the woman.

Police found six bags of marijuana, some cigarettes, a cigarette roller, pipe and knife in the hotel room. The marijuana was of Mexican origin and was valued at $125 to $135. Police theorized the marijuana may have been a sample of more to be brought into the area for sale.

Ever notice a mistake in The Wayne Herald?

Even the wire services are not with these wits (?) of the printed page. The story on the front page of a recent Sunday city paper reads in part: "The windshield of one car was smashed, and the tires and taillights broken or the other."

Remember when the airliner went to the end of the runway — and a bit beyond — at the Sioux City airport? Not an amusing story, but I chuckled near the end when it read: "There were no serious injuries but... the stewardess, who was cut by flying glass, and other members of the crew."

What about this from a neighboring town? "About 1958 he came to... with his brother, James, and they operated K & K Market here until about 1958."

Or the front page of the Society Section, which pictures a nice looking miss holding her storybook aloof with the completely readable words about Handoll, yet the subs and story are about "Randoll."

And so, in this day of mechanization, an occasional little thing tends to remind one that we're all human, and machines are manipulated by men (or women, can't neglect Women's Lib) if only to press a button.

Yet the Wayne paper still makes mistakes. Think of the league they're in! Besides, I've heard little rumors here and there that there's a human or two there too!!

Thus, a hearty "Bless your Press, Harold, and keep 'em rolling!" S.E.D.

Cats Win, Lose in Week's Cage Action

By Ron Anderson

The Winside Wildcats 70-71 basketball season showed no improvement during the past week as they split a pair of games, but the Cats did not play in an uncomfortable position, as that loss for them tied them with Omond for the lead in the Lewis and Clark conference.

In the fourth quarter, most of those one-and-one situations. Gary Soden was the top shooter for the Cats, sinking nine field goals and three free throws for a total of 21 points. Soden was followed by Kevin Frevert with nine points, eight of which came from the field. G. Kalvelage took scoring honors for the victors, with 14 points, assisted by R. Barnes with ten centers.

Wayne Winside 7 21 8 13 49 11 13 9 12 45

It was an entirely different story Friday night as the Wildcats used a balanced scoring attack to sneak out a 74-65 victory over conference leading Randolph.

That scoring attack, which saw all four quarters of scoring with in four points for Winside, was again led by Gary Soden with 26 points. Soden's scoring came from eight field goals and ten free passes for his 26 points. Soden shared scoring honors with Wildcat Kevin Frevert who put down six field goals and four free throws for 16 points.

Winside 17 17 21 19 74 Randolph 10 8 18 29 65

Randolph's scoring was led by D. Pfanz with three field goals and 10 charity tosses for 15 points. Other Randolph cagers in double figures were D. Boatman and R. Dommesse with 14 each and R. Sauser with 13.

All Three Rec League Winners Add One More

Wayne's city recreation basketball league saw a repeat performance by teams V, IV, and I Wednesday night as each added another win to their credit. The three teams edged out teams VI, III, and II.

George Eymon paced the winning V team over team VI in a close contest, adding 22 points to the victors 55-51 score, aided by Tom Dendinger with 15 points. Dennis Spangler led the losing team, pumping in 17 points, with Wayne Wassel adding 13.

The game was more or less of a seesaw battle which saw the teams tied 13-13 in the opening stanza, a 25-23 halftime score in favor of V, from which they finally managed to put the game on ice 55-51.

Some hot shooting by team IV's pacesetter, Jim Florine with 32 points put that team out of reach for team III in the second round of league action Wednesday night. Florine's 32 points, along with Brent Lessman's 14 points added to a comfortable seven point margin for the victors, 63-56. Three men shared the scoring honors for the losing team III, with Don Koerber dropping in 12 points, followed by Dick Dittman and Ron Dalton with eight each.

Despite 28 points by team II leader Ken Dahl, that team was unable to overcome the balanced scoring of team I as they fell 58-50 in the final round of league action Wednesday night. Dahl chalked up 28 points for the losers, followed by Dick Hamer with 12, Harlan Freese was top gun for the winning team, pumping in 21 points, followed by Lynn Lessman with 17.

Next Wednesday night will see team II matched with team III in the 7 p.m. game, followed by 1 vs. VI at 8 and V meeting IV in the final game at 9 p.m.

Coach Jim Winch attributed the Cats win with his team's ability to slow the traditionally running Randolph squad and force them to play basketball Winside style.

Following a Saturday night game with Wymot, the Wildcats will host the Allen Eagles next Friday night.

THIS LAY-UP by Laurel's Steve Smith added two points to the Bears' 76-39 victory over Madison Friday night.

Bears Trounce Dragons; Season Mark Now 9-4

By Ron Anderson

A press early in the game plus what Coach Darrel Moore considers the best defensive game of the season proved too much for the Madison Dragons Friday night as the Laurel Bears overwhelmed the Dragons 76-39.

That win upped their season tally to 9-4 after a slow start early in the season.

George Schroeder paced the Bears in his second game of the season, dropping a total of seven field goals and four charity points for 18 points. Schroeder was assisted by the always-hot Steve Erwin, who added five field goals and three free throws for 13 points.

Laurel 26 21 16 13 76 Madison 6 11 10 12 39

On the boards it was the Bears' game all the way as they pulled down a total of 64 rebounds to the Dragons' 27. Erwin was the top rebounder for the Bears with a total of 18, followed by Erwin with 15 and Regg Swanson with 9.

That press by the Bears gave Moore's team a commanding 26-6 lead at the end of the first quarter and a good 47 per cent accuracy from the field helped the Bears widen the margin to 47-17 at the end of the first half as they continued on to their 76-39 win.

Next Friday night will see the Bears trying to down a second sandhills team as they take on O'Neill High. The Bears downed their companion school, O'Neill St. Mary's last Saturday night 68-61.

Bodlak, E-H Too Much For Wakefield Cagers

by the name of Lanny Bodlak sealed the fate of Coach Ernie Kovar's Wakefield Trojans Friday night, as they were smothered by the E-H 65-46.

That third quarter, which saw the Trojans able to capture only five points against 21 for the Emerson squad put the game out of reach for the Trojans. Up to that time, the Wakefield squad was still winning distance, as they trailed by one—15-14—at the end of the first quarter and only by five—34-29—at the halftime buzzer.

Three Trojans were in double figures at the close of Friday night's action. Rick Olson was the team leader with seven from the field and three at the free throw line for 17 points. Consolation action, slated for

The Wayne (Neligh) Herald, Monday, January 25, 1971

Sluggers, Boxers Needed for Team

Want to try your hand at the manly art of boxing? If so, somebody's in search of you.

Larry Wiebelhaus of Wayne said last week that he is trying to gather together a team of novice fighters to enter the 34th annual Golden Gloves boxing tournament scheduled for Norfolk the first week in February.

Qualifications necessary? Willingness to train thoroughly for the next two weeks to get in shape, he said.

Benefits available? Pride in helping Wayne defend the title won a year ago as champion novice team, he noted.

Wiebelhaus said that at least two local fighters will fight in the open division at Norfolk. Vaughn Korth in either the light heavy or heavyweight division and John Doddicker, Wayne State student.

Winners of the open division at Norfolk advance to the Omaha tournament. Winners at Omaha go on to the national affair at Las Vegas.

Wiebelhaus said that boys have to be under 19 years of age to compete in the novice division at Norfolk. Fighters from 100 pounds on up are welcome to join the team, regardless of whether they go to high school or college.

In 1970 Wayne won the novice trophy when six fighters won their bouts (one of them won twice the same evening). Only one on the Wayne squad lost at Norfolk last year.

Anybody who would like to try out for the team should contact either Wiebelhaus or Korth as soon as possible.

Novice winners at Norfolk receive trophies. Open winners receive jackets when they arrive in Omaha for the next level of competition.

THINK! — Before you lose something up.

Winside Wrestlers Swamp W.P., 35-9

By Ron Anderson

The Winside Wildcat wrestling squad proved once again that they are determined to be number one in Northeast Nebraska Wednesday night as they met—and defeated—West Point High's matmen 35-9.

That win, the seventh straight for the Wildcats was the result of four pins and five decisions over the West Point squad, with only three decisions falling in the direction of the losing team.

Getting those four pins for the Cats were Dave Jaeger, Roger Anderson, Terry Jaeger and Larry Cleveland. Dave Jaeger, who wrestles in the 105-lb. class, proved his worth to the team, by adding the second straight pin to his career, outclassing West Point's Scott Warner in 3:31.

Roger Anderson took only 34 to take command of Cal Peters in the 125-lb. class to give the Winside club their second pin of the dual meet. Anderson's win came on the heels of a decision win last week over Randolph's Kevin Kuhl.

Terry Jaeger and Larry Cleveland added the final two pins to the Winside victory. Jaeger and Larry Cleveland added the final two pins to the Winside victory.

Jaeger, who wrestles in the 145-lb. category took 4:56 to down his opponent John Wimmer.

185-pounder Larry Cleveland added the fourth pin to that team total of 35 for the Cats, defeating Clark Lowe in :35. That pin for Cleveland was his second straight for the season also, as he overcame Randolph's Dan Gubbers in the last week's meet with a pin in 4:54.

Wildcaters defeating their foes Wednesday were Steve Suhl, Doug Lage, Dale Miller, Brian Hoffman and Dennis Wade. The Cats' next action will be their own invitational tournament, slated for Tuesday, Jan. 26.

The club will play host to Leigh, Howells, Niobrara, Hartington High, Columbus, Zebulon and Randolph in that action, scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. Tuesday.

Peru Win Coup for Wildcats

By Dick Manley

Wayne State pulled off a major basketball coup Friday night with an 87-84 victory over Peru State—and the Wildcats did it in Peru against a Bobcat quint ranked 18th in the NAIA.

It was the second straight year Wayne had won at Peru, an uncommon feat.

Making this year's win more impressive was the come-from-behind surge that gave the Wildcats their first lead a minute and 30 seconds from the end. They had trailed by 10 earlier and by 16-39 at the half.

With four seconds left, Wayne leading 85-84, Peru's Larry Green had a one-and-one chance at the free throw line, but missed. He had hit 11 of 12 previous free shots. In those last four seconds, Wayne's Donn Siefkes scored the last of his 11 field goals in a 30-point total.

Steve Hoffman posted a fine night at the nets with 17, and freshman forward Ron Jones added 13 as he continued to improve his recent scoring surge.

Improvement marked the whole team effort as the Wildcats came through in clutch shooting of 59 per cent from the field and 79 per cent from the free throw line. They have generally been erratic at the line.

Peru outrebounded 49-57, and had 25 points from Ananias Montague, 23 from Tom Patton. Ironically, 11-2 Peru now is 1-2 in Nebraska College Conference play, Wayne 1-2 in conference, 6-9 overall.

The three-point win soothed a three-point loss Tuesday at Doon, when the Wildcats built a late lead, but let it slip. They were ahead at the half, 40-38.

Hoffman led Wayne with 17. Siefkes hit 16.

Siefkes, Brown Big Scorers

Wayne State's Dennis Siefkes, a 6-7 sophomore, and Chadron State's Rick Brown, a 6-4 junior, were the highest scorers among Nebraska college cagers going into action last week, reports the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

Both have scored 40 points for their season high already this year, Siefkes against Southern (S.D.) State and Brown against UMKC.

Siefkes stood eighth in scoring with a 16.6 average per game. Tom Haabe of Concordia with 21.3 and Chadron's Scott Jones and Rick Brown, tied at 21.2, led the scoring column.

Jerry Wooden of the WS Wildcat club was holding down third place in accuracy from the free throw line, hitting 72 per cent of his tries. Siefkes was eighth in rebounding, pulling down an average of 9.7 a game.

Wayne-Carroll Schools Use Many Methods

Teaching ABC's in Multi-Paced Program

By Merlin Wright

"Pat the fat cat. Is the fat cat Nat? Nat is the fat cat. Pat, pat, pat. Pat Nat, the fat cat."

A new form of poetry? Nope, just one of the many word families playing a big role in the Wayne-Carroll first grade reading program.

There are few similarities between the reading programs offered a first grade student today and those offered as recently as a quarter of a century ago.

A student learning to read in the Wayne-Carroll school system today is taught by teachers who not only believe each child has a right to read, but who also believe that all children do not learn best through the same method or at the same pace.

Richard Metteer, principal at West Elementary, says that the reading program in use by the 65 first grade pupils and their four teachers is based on a concept that if reading skills are mastered when taught, there is no need for a later remedial or corrective program.

Metteer says he is convinced it is more important to prevent reading problems than allowing them to develop and then trying to correct them.

First grade reading in the Wayne-Carroll schools is based on the idea, Metteer said, that people are inherently different. Teachers must provide for these differences and not try to mold everyone into one educated mass, he said.

In the past all students, regardless of abilities, were placed in a single class for all subjects, including reading.

The revolution in the classroom in recent years has done away with that, says Metteer, having a similar learning pace.

If you were to walk into one of the reading classes at West Elementary or Carroll you would discover that learning to read in the first grade is now such an individualized program that there is never a time when all of the pupils in a class are doing the same thing.

In Mrs. Donald Mallette's classroom youngsters are learning to read by using both books and machines—library books, record player, chalk board, games, puzzles, sentence cards, painting projects and a controlled reader.

Mrs. Mallette said that after a pupil learns the basic reading skills, he enters the individualized program and may select a book from the school library.

She explained that a child usually likes the idea of being big enough to go to the library and pick out a book.

After the student has read the book, he is tested over its contents to determine his comprehension and reading skills.

Mrs. Judy Koenig demonstrated a Talking Pages machine she puts to use in teaching reading. A student is seated before the equipment, which he can operate himself, and is able to both hear and see a story at the same time.

If the youngster is having a particular problem with a word or word family—words that sound alike, such as cat, rat and bat—the machine allows him to see and hear the word and how it is used.

The machine has the capability of instant replay making it possible for the student to drill in word usage at his own speed. Another machine used by first grade teachers, called a controlled reader, uses filmstrips to project stories in word form on the screen. Only a few words or one line at a time is visible for reading. The rate at which the words or lines appear for reading is determined by the student operating the machine. The equipment increases speed and comprehension.

Metteer pointed out, "Machines are used as a means of reviewing skills, presenting a concept through a different medium, providing an individual program, increasing speed and comprehension, reinforcing the left-right sequence of our written language, increasing interest in reading and broadening the child's perspective."

Puppets are used in first grade reading at Carroll. Mrs. Ruth Kirstine said her pupils have grown very fond of the puppets and have put on several shows related to the reading program.

Mrs. Kirstine also uses a word tree. Printed words are attached to a mounted tree branch and pupils pick the words off the tree, much like picking berries. She said the visual aid strengthens the pupils' recognition of words.

Mrs. Carol Edmunds said her students in West Elementary daily look forward to feeding Nat the Cat. The cardboard cat has an open mouth through which printed words are passed. As he puts a word or sentence into Nat's mouth, the pupil must pronounce the word correctly. If he mispronounces it, the word or sentence is rejected.

Other materials used by Mrs. Edmunds in the classroom include word wheels, records, chalkboard and laminated drawings. A student is also taught to arrange the alphabet in sequence by using a cardholder.

A board with raised letters permits a youngster to trace the form of each letter with his fingers. This helps strengthen the image of the letter in his mind, Mrs. Edmunds said.

Mrs. Marian Rennick's classroom at West Elementary surrounds the student with numerous articles designed to interest a child in the ability to read.

She pointed out, "We are finding that children with reading problems are not necessarily slow learners, but need a different method of instruction." She said her work is designed to prevent reading problems before they develop.

Mrs. Rennick said that youngsters must learn that one letter stands for one sound and that sounds can be blended into words. She first uses phonetic words and progresses to words com-peating sounds like that of "oa" in boat and "oi" in oil.

"The important part," she emphasized, "is arduous drill."

"The multi-sensory approach is the best technique because it involves sight, hearing and feeling, with much drill to make it all firm in the memory," she said.

Machines used in Mrs. Rennick's class include motor-perceptual training devices, tape recorders, the Talking Page machine and a Language Master. The latter is similar to a tape recorder. A student can study a particular word on a card which is placed in the machine and the machine repeats the word so the pupil can hear how it is pronounced.

If you walk into a first grade reading class one of these days and hear a student read "Nat ran to Dan. Tap! Tap! Tap! Nat sat on Dan's lap. Nat can nap on Dan's lap," you'll know another child is starting out on an adventure in reading that will continue throughout his lifetime.
