Chamber Week Spotlights Group's Cold Cash Value

"Why send it to Washington?" Is the theme being used locally in observance of Chamber of Commerce Week all this week.

The slogan pinpoints one reason why people should support the local Chamber—money spent on dues will do much more good for the local economy than if sent to the federal government as taxes, according to the manager of the local organization, Floyd Bracken.

Bracken said that all dues paid for membership in the Chamber are tax deductible. The money spent for those dues will help people in Wayne directly through the Chamber's efforts to keep the city a healthy business and shopping hub for this part of the state, he said.

Bracken outlined three purposes of the observance of Chamber Week:

- To create public understanding of the purposes and needs of the Chamber.
- To recognize the efforts of volunteer community leaders and staff on the Chamber.
- To further strengthen the relations with organizations and agencies in the community.

"The activities of a Chamber are varied," said Bracken, "and the large number of people involved in its work are trying to realize one goal—development of the total community."

Businessmen, city residents and rural people are invited to stop in at the Chamber building at 108 W. Third St. anytime this week and learn more about what the organization is trying to do. Either Bracken or a member of the Chamber will be there to visit about the organization.

The Chamber, which is currently conducting a membership drive, has a total of 93 paid members for the current year.

"Officers of the organization are Larry King, president; Bob McLean Sr., vice president, and Dr. L. L. Tiska, treasurer. On the board of directors with the officers are Lawrence Shupe, Marvin Dunham, Phil Griess, Steve Bracke, Orvid Owens and Arnie Reeg, immediate past president who acts as an advisor.

Herald Cited in Newspaper Contest

The Wayne Herald earned two honorable mentions in the Nebraska Press Association-sponsored annual Better Newspapers Contest for 1970.

The newspaper was cited for honorable mention in the contest for best advertising idea and for honorable mention in the contest for the best photograph printed by offset newspapers.

Two extra-curricular issues last fall earned the advertising award. A close-up picture of a milkweed earned the photo award.

A year ago the Herald took three honors in the contest: first place in general excellence for newspapers printed in towns over 2,000 population, second place in best photograph printed by an offset newspaper and honorable mention for the best advertising idea.

Set-Aside Program Altered

Farmers who don't participate in the feed grain set-aside program may be eligible to have their cropland, feed grain base and allotment acreages preserved for future programs, says Harry Heinenmann, chairman of the Wayne County ASC committee.

Present regulations stipulate that if a producer does not plant an acreage of feed grain crops at least equal to 45 per cent of his feed grain base, he will have his base reduced in future years.

It has now been announced that farmers not participating in the program and not planting the required acreage may receive credit if they have established and maintained a vegetative cover practice since 1965. Feed grain planting credit will be allowed for the acreage of cover established in excess of the farm's conserving base, says Heinenmann.

Credit for preservation purposes will be given only if the producer makes a request at the ASC office, according to Heinenmann.

Producers who are in danger of losing base history and have established a grass cover in recent years should inquire at the office as soon as possible to insure credit, says the chairman.

Peters, Mattes Get Top Honors At AHS Banquet

Freshman Charles Peters and senior Lynn Mattes were singled out for recognition during Friday night's FFA banquet at Allen High School.

The two youths received special awards for being the outstanding members of the Future Farmers of America chapter at Allen.

Charles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Donald Peters, received the Star-Greenhand award as top first-year chapter member, and Lynn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Mattes, received the Star Chapter Farmer award for top member in the chapter over one year.

About 130 people attended the dinner, an annual affair.

Also singled out for their contributions to the Allen club were three non-members: sophomore Craig Blöhm, son of Mr. and Mrs. See AHS BANQUET, page 10.

Rescue Unit Drive Continues to Grow

A fund drive to purchase a rescue unit for use in the Wakefield area is now near the $10,500 mark and contributions are still being sought in the drive.

Art Lange, rural chairman, said recently that although the original goal of $20,000 is not likely to be reached, total contributions will be "close enough to get a good unit."

A story appearing in Thursday's issue of The Wayne Herald erred in stating Lange estimated that $10,000 would buy a satisfactory rescue unit.

Winside High School sophomores have announced they plan to wash cars and have a bake sale all day Saturday.

The car wash will be held at the high school and the bake sale at Winside Building Supply. Proceeds will go for class projects.

Hearing on Hospital District Nears

The three commissioners for Wayne County—Floyd Burt, Joe Wilson and Kenneth Eddie—will hold a public hearing Wednesday to permit people to ask that their property be included in or taken out of the proposed Logan Valley District Hospital.

The hearing will be held at 10 a.m. in the county courthouse in Wayne. Anybody with an interest in the proposed hospital district is welcome to attend.

Informed sources anticipate a large number of people at the hearing, many of them with petitions asking that their property

Goodbye to Spring Outfits

Two area women might have had the fun of buying several new spring outfits had they been in Wayne for the Cash Night drawing Thursday.

The name of Mrs. Hurschel Manning of Pender was announced in participating stores at 8 p.m. as the winner of a $400 jackpot providing she was present to claim it. She was not.

At 8:15 p.m. a second name, that of Margaret Peterson of Winside, was drawn. She too could have claimed the $400 had she been in a participating store. She was not.

Floyd Bracken, manager of the Chamber of Commerce which sponsors the weekly drawing, said the $400 will be up for grabs again this Thursday and the reserve fund is now at $150.

'Excellent Results'

The results of the freshmen orientation program at Wayne High School Thursday night were termed "excellent" by Ken Carlson, guidance counselor at the school.

Carlson said that a record 90 percent of the students who will be entering school as freshmen next fall took part in the program which featured information on registration, school policies and courses. School officials expect about 120 youths in the freshmen class next year.

Students are reminded by Carlson that the forms they were given during the evening have to be turned into the schools they are now attending by Friday.

Any youths who were unable to attend the program can call Carlson at the school for information. They will need to enter Wayne High next year.

IBP to Host Cattle Study Once Again

Marketing Division will cooperate in grading.

A similar event last year attracted entries from some 30 cattle feeders who had cattle of the right stage of feeding and a large crowd of feeders, market people, 4-H and Vocational Agriculture students and others interested in knowing more about selecting and handling cattle for maximum economical production of desirable beef.

Cattle feeders who wish to follow some of their cattle in this event should contact a director of the association, their county agent or the Northeast Station at Concord. Packing plant facilities will limit the number of cattle that can be handled in this special way.

Fund Drive Tops Goal

Wayne County residents exceeded the goal of $1,920 set for the 1971 Heart Fund Drive, according to Mrs. Carl Lentz, county chairman for the drive.

Mrs. Lentz said that a total of $2,100 had been collected by the middle of last week. However, she said there are some envelopes in the rural areas which have not been turned in yet. Those envelopes should be sent to Robert Jordan, treasurer for the drive, at the State National Bank in Wayne as soon as possible, Mrs. Lentz said.

The $2,100 contributed this year is several hundred dollars over the $1,920 contributed a year ago.

Mrs. Lentz cited several people responsible for the drive. Mentioned by her were Mrs. Harry Bressler and Mrs. Free-See FUND DRIVE, page 10.

3,000 Youths to Attend District Music Contest

Something over 3,000 high school musicians from 30 schools will come to Wayne State College for the annual District II (eastern division) music contest Thursday through Saturday.

Dr. Raymond Kelton, contest director and chairman of the WSC music department, said competition will go back to the three-day schedule, instead of the two-day that proved too busy last year.

The schedule has bands and orchestras of Classes A, B, C, D on Thursday, Vocal and Instrumental Solos and Ensembles Friday, and mixed choruses and glee clubs Saturday.

Schools participating: Allen, Hancock, Hecker, Houghtonfield, Coleridge, Crofton, Emerson-Hubbard, Hartington, Cedar Catholic of Hartington, Homer, Laurel-Concord, Madison, New Castle, Norfolk, Osmond, Pender, Pierce, Plainville, Ponca, Randolph, Rosalia, South Sioux City, Stanton, Wakefield, Walthill, Wausa, Wayne, West Point, Winnebago, Winside, Wisner-Pilger and Wynot.

50-Year Masons Set for Honors

Two Wayne men will be honored as 50-year members of the Masonic Lodge during ceremonies Tuesday night at the local Masonic Temple.

Ray Ash and Dave Theophilus will be honored at a 6:30 dinner for Masons and again later at 8:15 during a ceremony open to the public.

John Brown of Omaha, Masonic grand master, plans to attend and participate in the presentation of 50-year pins.

Flag Pole, Plaque Dedicated to Allen Youth

John Smith, shot to death about one year ago, had a flag pole and plaque dedicated in his name in a brief and simple ceremony at Allen High Thursday afternoon.

The flag pole and plaque were the results of a fund drive started by Mrs. Harace Tibbits of Allen shortly after the shooting last May 1st.

It shows that young Smith, 16 years old when he died, had a great influence on the people in and around Allen, said Father Anthony Malone of the Dixon-Waterbury parish, speaker for the ceremony.

Father Malone, noting that Smith was neither an all-state athlete nor an outstanding student, said that the flag pole and plaque in front of the school should remind the adults of the worth of young people. It should also remind the youths that the adults do care about them, he said.

The flag pole and plaque should serve as a reminder to everybody that any evil or good a person does will have an influence on a community, regardless of how small or secret it might seem to the person doing it, he said.

Smith, a junior at Allen High when he was killed in the shooting last spring, was one of 13 children of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Smith of Allen. All except one of those children attended Thursday's dedication.

All students in the school were dismissed shortly before 3 o'clock for the affair. The Allen High band played three numbers and a small wreath was placed at the base of the flag pole during the dedication. Several adults from the community also attended the event.

Serving a sentence of from 10 to 25 years in the Nebraska Penal Complex in connection with the shooting death of Smith was Richard Hamilton, also of Allen.

In thought during Thursday's memorial dedication to their son and brother John Smith are Mr. and Mrs. Bert Smith, Larry and Joe.

Omaha Man to Speak School Nurse Named Again For Drug Study

J.W. Byrnes, director of vocational centers in Omaha, is scheduled to speak at the West Elementary School tonight (Monday) at 8 p.m. to members and guests of the Northeast Nebraska Association for Retarded Children. The public is invited.

Byrnes will talk about vocational services to the retarded and will include the use of films. A question and answer period and refreshments will follow the presentation.

'Cabaret' Part Goes To Mary Stevenson

The daughter of Dr. and Mrs. T.H. Stevenson of Wayne has been cast in the St. Olaf College student production of the popular musical, "Cabaret," which will be presented April 22-24 at the Northfield, Minn., college.

Selected for a part in the musical was Mary Stevenson, a sophomore. She graduated from Wayne High School in 1969.

It had not been determined by the middle of last week who was driving the motorcycle.

Surely you have at one time or another thought how nice it would be not to have to worry about the kids taking the car on dates, living when there was less noise from radio and television, and living in an era when there were no sonic booms or rush hour traffic?

Are you sure you would like that?

Any idea you might have that teenagers had fewer problems years ago is easily proved in error by going back into the Good Book and reading some of the things that happened in Old Testament times. After reading some of that history, it is rather nice to be alive and going in the 20th century.

Whether it be by chariot, buggy, auto or airplane, parents still worry.

You know, many of us live as if we wondered when life was going to begin. It isn't always clear just what we are waiting for, but we persist in waiting in such a way that life slips by—finding us still waiting for something that has been going on all the time.

Fathers may wait until obligations are less demanding to become acquainted with their sons. But one of these days that boy is going to be grown and gone. There are mothers who sincerely intend to be more attentive to their daughters—only to suddenly wake up and watch them going down an aisle to be married.

Many of us have good intentions but when are we ever going to get around to the action?

When are we going to slow the pace of living and start living? Do we understand that today is life? Today is our time, our day, our generation. This is what we came here for—even if it isn't what we think it ought to be.

This is life—it whether we are thrilled or disappointed, busy or bored.

This is life. It is passing by. What are we waiting for?

Something to Think About

Since the need for a new hospital appears genuine, it has been suggested by some that if the county commissioners were to permit the proposed hospital district area to be trimmed to a minimum, making it financially unfeasible, the only practical alternative would be a county hospital.

Nebraska statutes provide that any county with 3,600 or more residents with an assessed valuation of all taxable real estate and personal property amounting to $10 million may legally build a county hospital.

In such a county the commissioners may issue and sell bonds for construction or acquisition of a county hospital and suitable equipment.

The board may issue such bonds after approval of a majority of the electors voting on the proposition.

Such an election may be called by the county board or by a petition bearing the signatures of 10 per cent of the number of votes cast in the county for the office of governor at the last general election.

There are 2,890 persons in Wayne County who voted for governor in the 1970 general election. Ten per cent of that number—289—would be sufficient to bring the matter of a county hospital to the county board. Those signing such a petition need only be qualified voters.

A county hospital cost plan is not based on the factor of service areas as is a district hospital, but would affect all property owners in the county regardless of location.

It appears the question is not whether the area needs a hospital for its sick, but rather what method is the fairest to all in bringing such a hospital into reality.

As long as there is life in the area there will be sickness. As long as there is sickness there is need for a hospital. How is it to be built? —MMW.

Lt. Calley: Murderer or Hero?

The following article, written by a person who served in Viet Nam, expresses an opinion we feel is not being voiced loudly enough. The article was written by Richard Peterson, editor and publisher of the Benson County Farmers Press in Minnewaukan, N. D. —NLH.

The soul-searching going on following the sentence of Lt. William Calley has apparently weakened a basic American trait—the ability to distinguish between right and wrong.

Many find it hard to believe a massacre occurred. It did. There is documented evidence to prove it. Even Calley himself never denied that a massacre occurred, but attempts to absolve himself from blame by saying he was "just following orders."

But what is frightening is that so many Americans sincerely believe he was "just following orders" and "just doing his job." If lining up a minimum of 22 unarmed, unresisting civilians in a ditch and mowing them down was his job, then he deserves a medal. But the fact is, that was not his job. His job was to resist and disobey an unlawful order such as that, if he did receive such an order.

One of the six combat veterans who sat on the jury said they tried hard to find some flaw in the testimony of witnesses which would give them some reason to find Lt. Calley innocent. He said there was just no way the jury could find him innocent because of the evidence against him was so obviously overwhelming.

Another said, "There are some things that a man of common understanding and common sense would know are wrong. If you worked for me and I told you to go out and steal a car, would you do it?"

Ever since the Uniform Code of Military Justice was instituted under President Eisenhower, soldiers have been duty-bound to disobey unlawful orders. Now, some are saying that Calley's conviction will undermine the traditional authority of an order. But actually, nothing has been changed. Lawful orders must be obeyed and unlawful orders must be disobeyed, just as before.

Military personnel can rest assured that reasonable acts committed during the stress of combat will not be construed as criminal. But cold-blooded, unnecessary, unreasonable, criminal acts cannot go unpunished. The law must be obeyed.

And parents can rest assured that their sons will not be taught how to kill and then be punished for it. Army training does not include teaching soldiers how to line up unarmed, unresisting civilians and killing them.

The argument can be made that a bomb kills just as surely as a bullet. True. But bombing is officially sanctioned by the U. S. government. Massacres are not. Bombing is not prohibited by a U. S. military law, while massacre is. A pilot has little idea of knowing who or what his bombs may hit. Lt. Calley had his victims brought to a ditch where he was certain his bullets would strike flesh.

The question arises as to who else is directly responsible for the crime. Captain Medina said he gave no massacre orders to Lt. Calley and that Calley took it upon himself to murder the inhabitants of My Lai. Perhaps Medina is guilty, too. His court martial will tell. But at any rate, Medina is not implicating anyone higher in the chain of command, and consequently no higher ranking officer than Medina is likely to be tried for the crime itself. Colonel Oran Henderson, however, is being tried on charges of attempting to cover up the fact that it did occur.

Ever since our involvement in Viet Nam we have been faulting the Communists for the even more horrible massacres they have been committing, for the human treatment of Americans in North Vietnamese captivity, and for other breaches of international law. If we are going to hold them to this law, we ourselves must obey it. The guilty verdict against Lt. Calley is an indication that the United States intends abiding by the law.

If political pressure should build up to the point of an executive pardon for Lt. Calley, it will mean that the rule of law will be sacrificed to misplaced compassion for one individual and war crimes will go unpunished. It will mean that we do not intend to judge ourselves by the same law that we judge others.

Dear Editor: I recently spent some time in our Wayne Hospital and fully realize the need for a new one.

Honestly, the rooms are hardly big enough to turn around in and no "facilities" except at the far end of the "un-private hallway." And it is so small one has to almost back in. No shelves to even put your toothbrush on, no mirror and not even a towel bar.

The doctors and nurses do their best with what is available but wouldn't it be nice to have at least a small sink in each room for them to use. These things are minor, I am sure, compared to the real needs of the hospital which I can not fully comprehend not being a doctor or nurse. But I am sure there is room for much improvement in the surgery room and of course there is no such thing as a recovery room here, which is a must I feel. I shudder to think how this community would suffer from the loss of having to give up a good doctor to a larger city. Let's don't let this happen! These doctors pay their fair share of taxes, you know. Let's quit bawling this thing around and do it the American way by casting our ballots at an election.

JUST WRIGHT

Though it seems nearly impossible six months has passed since area clocks were all returned to Central Standard Time, it will again be time to advance the timepieces one hour next Saturday night to Daylight Saving Time.

All activities on the final Sunday in the month will be on DST. If all of the hoopla over changing the time amounts to nothing else, it gives one the feeling of being better acquainted with clock mechanisms.

If it was in your power, how far back would you turn the clock if you could also return your body-age? Would you care to be 16 again? Or have you ever acted like anything but a kid?

A local Wayne youngster of 45 who has attended both wrestling and dancing programs at the city auditorium notes that the difference between the two is that some holds are barred in wrestling.

Say, do you remember some of the tongue twisters that used to be tossed around in competition by all the kids? Try this one: Betty Botter bought a bit of butter. "But," she said, "this butter's bitter. If I put it in my batter, it will make my batter bitter. But a bit of better butter will make my batter better." So Betty Botter bought a bit of better butter, and it made her batter better.

Then, take this old one: A skunk stood on a stump. The stump think the skunk stunk, but the skunk think the stump stunk.

How did you do? Can you say it rapidly without tripping your tongue?

Better lighten your dentures for this one: Theophilus Thistle, the thistle-stuffer, sited a stove of unsifted thistles. If Theophilus Thistle, the thistle-stuffer, sited a stove of unsifted thistles, where is the stove of unsifted thistles Theophilus Thistle, the thistle-stuffer sited?

But you can think up a few of those old twisters yourself? Did you ever try your talent on these? Sister Susie's sewing shirts for soldiers. Slippery sleds slide

National Library Week Is Observed

Wayne Public Library, along with many other libraries across the nation, is observing National Library Week, April 18 through 24. In past years, the library will conduct "forgiveness week" when borrowers with overdue books may return them without paying the fines.

The local library organized in 1898 by a federation of local club women, was originally directed by a board of six members representing each of these six organizations. At least two of these clubs, Acme and Minerva, still hold regular meetings.

About 1910 the city took over support of the library, which shortly became eligible for money from the Carnegie Fund to help construct a building. When the library moved from the courthouse to the new Carnegie building in 1913, there were 2,182 books on the shelves. By 1927 this number had grown to 5,000 books, and now there are 18,498 books.

In addition, borrowers have access to 657 records, 245 film strips, and 100 periodicals. Five hundred fifty new books are added each year, some of them memorials to loved ones from families and friends. Circulation the past year was 52,566.

The library also provides other services. A six-week reading program for children is conducted during the summer, and a Saturday afternoon story hour, also for children, is held each week from January to Easter.

The assistant librarian visits the Wayne Senior Citizen's Center once a month with 15 or 20 books which may be checked out from the center, and rural school teachers may check out two books per pupil for a fee of $15 a year. Thirteen teachers took advantage of the service this year.

Wayne State College students are required to make a refundable $5 deposit when checking out books, and rural people are charged $1 per year for a library card.

Since the city took over support of the library, board members have been appointed to three-year terms by the city mayor. Present board members are Mrs. Roy Christensen, Mrs. Don Wightman, Sidney Hillier, Donald Merriman and Mrs. Orville Sherrill.

Librarian Mrs. Harriet Kerl and Assistant Librarian Mrs. Wes Plueger are helped by Jana Reeg, Karen Wax and Dennis Ellermeier, all Wayne State College students, and Tom McDer-mott from Wayne High School. The library is open Monday through Friday from 2 to 9 p.m. and Saturday from 2 to 6 p.m.

Your Place in the Stars

by Tom McDermott
I recently came across an interesting paperback for use in high schools, "Constructing a Life Philosophy" contains 12 "alternatives" or philosophies written by representative atheists, agnostics, theologians, humanitarians, hippies, etc. In fact, Billy Graham even has an essay in this short book.

The essay I was most interested in was "The Science of Astrology—Why I Believe in It" by Mr. Grant Lewi, well known in astrological circles as the former Dartmouth English professor turned professional astrologer. Lewi stated three popular arguments against astrology and then attempted to refute each one.

First argument against astrology: It is superstition because it came into being in an age full of superstition. Second: It is absurd to think that the planets influence man. Third: I've had a horoscope cast before and everything it said or predicted was false.

Now the rebuttals. For a person to believe astrology to be superstition because it was founded during a superstitious age is illogical. We are forgetting that the foundations of astrology were being laid, so were the foundations of mathematics and physics.

Concerning the second argument that planets don't influence man, it is common knowledge that every body in our solar system has at least a small influence on man, either directly or indirectly.

The third and last argument holds that astrology is false because a horoscope you had once was completely wrong. To this argument any good debater would be led to draw the obviously ridiculous conclusion that, for example, the science of medicine is false because there have been so many quacks, or architecture is false because the Tower of Pisa leans. Of course, we can't judge the principles of any art or science simply on what we know about its practitioners. The opposite of this is true, too. Neither should we accept any theory as true simply because its proponent is educated, worthy or capable.

To sum up, here's a pertinent quote: Mr. Halley the astronomer and discoverer of "Halley's Comet": "I don't believe in astrology!"

Sir Isaac Newton (who was, to the embarrassment of many astronomers, a supporter of astrology): "Sir, I have studied the subject, you have not."

Dear Mr. McDermott: Thank you so much for the lovely write-up you gave us in your Herald. We are deeply appreciative of your nice article. The press has not always been so kind to Spiritual Frontiers. We are printing your article in our Newsletter and you will receive a copy.

Gratefully, Jean V. Smith, Public Relations, Nebraska Chapter of Spiritual Frontiers Fellowship, Omaha.

Ginn Guides Wayne Past Bancroft, 3-0

By Norvin Hansen

Pitcher Mike Ginn made up for those mistakes which proved costly in Wayne's loss to Dodge by completely overpowering Bancroft, 3-0, in a road game Thursday afternoon. The win, Ginn's first in two outings, gives the local club a 3-1 mark to take into today's game against Wakefield on the Wayne diamond. Wakefield is also 3-1, losing to Dodge by a 3-0 mark. The game starts at 3 o'clock.

Ginn gave up a single to the first batter to face him. Bancroft pitcher Zwargart, and then pitched near perfect ball to strike out 14 batters, walk only two and hold Bancroft hitless.

No slouch at the plate, Ginn helped his own cause when he homered to open the fourth, frame to give the Blue Devils a 2-1 lead. He also scored a run in the opening frame when he drew a walk and came home on Rod Cook's single.

Cook scored Wayne's other run when he walked after Ginn's homer, stole second and came home on Lynn Gunderson's two-bagger.

Getting Wayne's other three hits off Zwargart were Charles Roland with a double to open the third inning, Cook with a single in the sixth with one out and Roger Saul with a single to open the seventh.

Wayne's performance at the plate pleased Coach Mike Mallette, who has shown concern for that phase of play from the defending Class B state champions. Those six hits, four of them for extra bases, came in spite of the strong wind which occasionally hampered the hitters, said Mallette.

But Mallette was more than pleased with Ginn's pitching performance, a performance he called outstanding.

Ginn, who had a hand in helping the Blue Devils to the state crown a year ago as a sophomore, was in trouble only twice during the contest—both times as a result of walks he allowed. Lead-off hitters.

Bancroft runners made it to third in both the sixth and seventh frames, but Ginn ended the sixth inning with two fly balls and a grounder, then ended the game with three strikeouts. He also struck out three men in the first and fifth frames.

Zwargart walked two Wayne batters while giving up six hits. He struck out seven batters.

Thursday afternoon the Blue Devils host Allen, a team they beat by an 11-0 score in the season opener for both clubs.

Moore Resigns Duties at LHS

Successful Larry Moore of Laurel High School last week signed a contract for the 1971-72 school year at Nebraska City, a Class B school about 40 miles south of Omaha.

At Laurel the past 10 years, Moore said he thinks the type of boys he will be coaching at Nebraska City will be different than the ones he has been associated with during his career at Laurel. In the past Moore has been highly complimentary to those youths for their actions both inside and outside school. He will be head basketball and assistant football coach at Nebraska City and will teach physical education. He has been head basketball and head track coach at Laurel for several years.

Moore, one of the most successful case mentors ever to coach in northeast Nebraska, has placed together an enviable record of 116 wins and only 20 defeats. He guided the Bears to the state tournament the past two years, watching them earn runner-up honors last year. This year the club bowed out in the opening round.

Moore's resignation from Laurel came shortly after that of Vince Brammer, head football coach and guidance counselor. Brammer has taken a consulting position with the Millard school system.

Wausa Replaces Randolph in New Loop Arrangement

A change in the membership of the Lewis and Clark Conference for the 1971-72 school term was announced Wednesday at a meeting of the conference held at Osmond.

Randolph has submitted a letter to withdraw as a member effective at the close of the 1970-71 term. This withdrawal was due to the increased size through consolidation of St. Francis and Randolph Public School.

Wausa had indicated interest in membership of the Lewis and Clark Conference and upon formal application was accepted for membership in the conference beginning with the 1971-72 school term.

The two divisions of the Lewis and Clark Conference for 1971-72 school term are as follows: —Lewis: Allen, Emerson-Hubbard, Homer, Newcastle, Ponce, and Walthill.

—Clark: Coleridge, Hartington, Osmond, Wausa, Winside, and Wyncot.

Earle Overin

Overin Now Holds 3 Scoring Records

Earle Overin is the undisputed scoring champ in eighth grade intramural competition after completing a highly productive season.

Overin holds three records, all set this year; top output in a single game of 65 points (breaking Marty Hansen's mark of 47 set earlier this year), top total for the season of 262 (breaking Doug Sturm's mark of 231 in 1969) and top scoring average of 37.4 (breaking Sturm's 25.6 set two years ago).

Overin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hank Overin, accomplished those three feats in seven games—two fewer than Sturm had to set his two marks in '69.

Trailing Overin in scoring averages for the season were Hansen with 27, Rich Workman with 16.1, Rick Mitchell with 15.9, Mike Meyer with 15, Jack Keating with 12.7 and Bob Keating with 12.4.

The scoring champ's team led the eighth grade intramural competition with a final season mark of six wins and one loss. Tied for second were the teams of Keating and Rick Mitchell with 3-4 marks. Marty Hansen's club with a 2-5 record trailed.

The seventh grade intramural action will be over today (Monday).

During 1969, some 182,500 persons visited Arbor Lodge State Historical Park.

Productive 4th Frame Gets Trojans 3rd Win of Season

The Wakefield Trojans ran their season baseball record to 3-1 Thursday afternoon by ripping visiting Winnebago, 10-2, for the second time in two weeks in a game called after five and a half innings due to darkness.

The Trojans could only muster two runs in the first two innings but sent 12 men to the plate in a wild fourth inning in which they scored six runs to put the game out of reach.

In the first inning with one out, Kirk Gardner tripped to deep left field and scored on a single by Kevin Peters. In the third, Peters walked, advanced to third on a balk, went to second on a wild pitch and scored on a sacrifice fly by Bob Twite.

Winnebago came alive in the bottom of the third and scored two runs on consecutive singles by Bass, Decora, and Walker and a throwing error on the Trojans.

In the frantic fourth, Dave Rouse and Keith Soderberg reached safely on errors. Doug Soderberg singled in one run, Gardner drove in two more runs with his second triple of the day, Kevin Peters singled in a run, Pat Starzl tripped in Kevin and Bob Twite singled to drive in Pat for the final run of the inning.

In the fifth, Gardner reached first on an error; Peters singled and Sam Uecht doubled in the final two runs of the game to end the scoring.

first complete game of the season for the Trojans as they finished Winnebago to only two runs on six singles while walking two and striking out eight.

Consistently cool under pressure and continually mastering the Winnebago team by a variety of curves and fastballs, he ran his season record to 1-0.

Offensively for the Trojans Peters led the attack with three singles and three runs.

Gardner collected two triples and scored three runs, Pat Starzl one triple, and Soderberg, Uecht and Twite each had a single to round out the hitting. Gardner, Peters, Uecht and Twite also drove in two runs each.

Today (Monday) the Trojans match records with a strong Wayne team at Wayne in a single game slated for 3 p.m. On Wednesday the Trojans continue on the road for a single game at Allen scheduled for 4:30.

Glass Blowing Just Another Venture for Frey

Carlos "Inventor" Frey, builder of numerous items for the art department, has come up with another innovation for art classes at Wayne State College. This time: glass blowing.

To accomplish it, Frey needed a kiln to melt glass. Simplest solution: make one.

So, starting only with an idea, the art teacher stacked up fire bricks until he got the form he thought would be efficient. Then he welded an angle-iron frame to clamp the bricks after mortaring, built a single door, installed a gas line with blower, and finished it off with a pair of wheels to make moving the kiln around his yard handier.

Next steps: collect glass bottles from neighbors, fire up the kiln to about 2,000 degrees, dump in glass, mix in some soda as a flux to lower the glass-melting temperature, test the molten mass periodically for viscosity and finally—the big test, blowing glass.

Turned out to be a considerable test. First trials fell something short of success because of such problems as:

—Keeping a batch of glass hot enough at the end of the four-foot pipe to expand when blown, but not so hot that it ran too

—Rotating the pipe while blowing to keep whatever shape the blower hoped to create.

—Quitting when the artist was ahead, fancy bubble-gum blower understands this.)

—Cooling the glass slowly to avoid fracturing it into a pile of splinters.

Eventually, Frey and students got on top of the problems after days and nights of experimenting, and bringing enough gas, Frey said, "to heat my house for weeks." They produced a variety of globes, vases and miscellaneous items.

One other thing they produced, said the instructor: "A high regard for the skilled art of glass blowing."

Carroll — Looking into the Future

By Merlin Wright

People convinced that small villages are breathing their last just haven't been watching the community of Carroll.

Perry Johnson, mayor, said Thursday that shortly after the first of the year the population of Carroll increased another 10 to 220 as a result of Carroll's annexing several homes into the village.

The village board sent letters several months ago to residents living on the west side of Highway 57 and some at the north edge of town regarding the proposed annexation.

Johnson said all letters were returned giving approval to the annexation, which resulted in those homes being provided the opportunity of connecting onto the new sewer lines recently buried throughout the village.

By combining local, state and federal funds, Carroll is presently having a complete sewer system installed. The financial planning of the project was started over a year ago. Sewer lines were buried last fall and the new lagoon — located about three-fourths of a mile southeast of town — is now nearly complete.

Morris Sandahl's repair shop, and the moving of Mrs. Esther Hansen's grocery from a small building into larger quarters.

Phil Olson, president of the Farmer's State Bank, said there is a good possibility a coin-operated car wash will soon be built in Carroll. He also said that plans are in the making for a coin-operated laundry to open.

A little more than a year ago a new four-bay fire hall featuring a meeting room and kitchen was completed. The meeting room is also used as the Senior Citizen's Center, which is open week days with a schedule of activities for all those 55 years old or more. Mrs.

Marie Herrmann of Laurel is in charge of the center's activities. Carroll Community Club members have launched a community-wide clean up, with residents being urged to take advantage of the spring weather and clean up both private and commercial properties.

Not to be outdone by the big folks, students in grades one through four at Carroll Elementary are launching a campaign against littering.

The youngsters also made posters reminding themselves to avoid becoming litter bags.

"Carroll has something better than a big red carpet at its front door now that Highway 98 three miles south of town is completed.

Area residents have now turned their attention to paving the rest of Highway 57 north from Carroll to Highway 20 at Belden.

The three miles of Highway 57 south of Carroll has been paved for several years.

Anyone having doubts about the ability of a small community getting things done would do well to take a look at the 220 busy people in Carroll.

ious spots throughout town.
