

A Downtown Mall — Worth Considering for Wayne?

Francis Moul, author of the article on the opportunity Wayne has for creating a mall in the downtown area, was an instructor in political science for three years at Wayne State College before resigning the end of last term. A graduate of the Des Moines Register and Tribune and the Sioux City Journal before coming to WSC, he caught a course on the crisis facing our environment last year. One of that class drew the Environmental Action Committee, responsible for holding the monthly drives for glass and for putting on the recent environmental fair in Wayne.

Wayne residents have the opportunity to shape their downtown business district into a unique plaza mall designed with both profits and people in mind, beginning tonight (Monday) at a 7:30 meeting in the city auditorium.

The Wayne planning commission has set a meeting for formulating a downtown development project, with invitations issued to downtown business property owners, Chamber of Commerce members, the city council and all interested persons.

A project that could be considered at the meeting is turning the downtown area into an open plaza mall, a ready-made shopping center that could be both futuristic and practical.

An example of such a plaza-shopping center could be seen during the environmental fair in early April when part of Third Street (between Main and Pearl) was turned into a mall. A spirit of freedom pervaded the half-block, as people strolled among exhibition booths, around a flower cart or sat at an outdoor cafe—free from the worry of dodging traffic.

Main Street could well be the foundation for a similar permanent mall that should attract shoppers and tourists from the en-the Wayne region. From First to Fourth Street, the three business blocks of Main Street could be free of cars and available for people. East-west traffic could cross the mall at the intersections, but be banned from entering the plaza areas.

Each of the three plaza blocks could then take on a distinctive look or feature. In one block, for example, a permanent dome could be constructed for art displays from Wayne State College and elsewhere. Another could feature an outdoor sculptured fountain, with colored lights for night-time use. Such a fountain is being designed by Wayne State College sculpture instructor Ray Roglick.

A third centerpiece could be an outdoor restaurant and permanent playground of giant sculptured toys that would serve as a friendly babysitter while parents shopped at leisure.

Newsweek Magazine, in a cover story of the April 19th edition, notes that such plans are "the shape of things to come" in city after city.

"The city of the future will welcome diversity, mix diverse functions and residences, abolish the automobile," according to See CITY MALL, page 6

Ruling on Hospital District Scheduled by Board Today

Wayne County Commissioners Floyd Hart, Joe Wilson and Ken Eddle plan to make public at 2 p.m. today (Monday) their decision regarding 14 requests of precincts and townships to be excluded from the proposed Logan Valley Hospital District.

The requests were presented to the commissioners during a public hearing Wednesday.

An estimated 800 people gathered at the county courthouse shortly before 10 a.m. to attend the hearing. Size of the overflow crowd forced the county board to move the meeting from the district courtroom to the city auditorium where some were seated in folding chairs.

Wayne Hospital Foundation spokesmen Kenneth Olds and Robert Carhart reviewed past activities of the foundation in working toward the establishment of a hospital district.

Olds explained that boundary lines for the proposed district—which includes portions of Wayne, Dixon and Cedar counties—were drawn on the basis of a study of the service area and patient load of the present Wayne Hospital for the preceding five years.

Using today's prices and material costs, Carhart referred to a 39-bed hospital which he estimated would cost about $900,000. Of that amount, about $300,000 would be contributed in the form of assets of the Wayne Hospital and Wayne Hospital Foundation plus a land gift as a site for the new hospital.

Carhart suggested the remaining $600,000 cost of the hospital could be met by a bond covering a 20-year period.

Using the 1970 assessed valuation figure of $44,136,424 for all of the taxable property within the proposed district, Carhart said that the mill levy would be 1.128 for 20 years or 1.356 for 15 years.

He said that on the basis of a 20-year bond issue—the tax for the highest valued quarter section farm in Wayne County would amount to $21.78 per year. A similar quarter section in Dixon County would be taxed $13.13 per year while a quarter in Cedar County would be taxed $15.35 annually.

Bill Norvell of Laurel was general spokesman for property owners living in 14 precincts and towns within the boundaries of the proposed district. Each of the 14 precincts was represented by a single individual chosen as a spokesman to request exclusion from the district.

Following are the spokesmen and the precinct represented: Clark Hansen, 16 in Cedar County; Zachariah Boughn, 20 in Cedar County; Bob Dieke, 15 in Cedar County; Ed Fahrenholz, Clark of Dixon County; Don Langenberg, Hancock, Wayne County; Vernon Hill, village of Winslow, Wayne County; Harri; Helmenant, Brenna, Wayne County; Dennis Bowers, Chapin, Wayne County; Arnold Janke, Strahan, Wayne County; Carl Christenson, Deer Creek, Wayne County; L. J. Mallatt, 21 of Cedar County; Marvin Borg, Concord in Dixon County; Hollie Victor, Wilbur, Wayne County; and Marvin Draghu, Logan, Wayne County.

Other opponents included Phil Olson representing the Village of Carroll and Bernard Parelman of Plum Creek.

Norvell estimated that 90 percent of the residents in the proposed precincts had signed petitions prior to the hearing asking to be excluded from the hospital district.

It was pointed out by several of those speaking before the commissioners that the precincts they represented were not opposing a new hospital in Wayne, but were opposing the method of setting up a district in order to build such a hospital.

Concord Postmaster Gets $55 for Idea

Norman Anderson, postmaster at Concord, has earned himself a check for $55 for his suggestion to other postmasters about how to store ice melting compound.

Anderson suggested the idea and it was printed in the Feb. 11 issue of the Postal Bulletin giving postmasters in the 51 states, the District of Columbia and the Pacific Islands a chance to pick it up and use it in their post offices. His idea was to store the material in plastic bags.

Winside Pupils Receive Honors

Three Winside High School students were recently notified by the National Awards Program of Birmingham, Ala. that they have been selected as outstanding American high school students.

The students' names were submitted by Principal Roy Kramer who said the students will be notified in June as to whether they are eligible for the semifinals in the scholarship program.

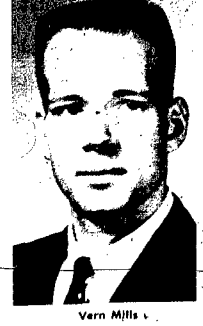

Kramer said the students were selected as to academic ability display of leadership in extracurricular and civic activities.

Mills to Return to WHS

A former teacher in the Wayne-Carroll schools, Verne Mills, has been hired to teach high school biology, filling the vacancy left by the resignation of Larry McClure.

Married and the father of two young children he received his undergraduate degree from Wayne State College in 1967. He received his graduate degree at Ball State in June of last year.

Leon Meyer, county treasurer, said Friday that payments for the first half of real estate taxes, delinquent next Saturday, have been "coming in rather well."

He pointed out that a few taxpayers have failed to return the tax notice card which is necessary for rapid processing. The card is an invaluable aid, he said, in handling the tax.

Supreme Court Upholds Local Free High Ruling

Wayne County officials learned Friday that the Nebraska Supreme Court has upheld a decision of the Wayne County District Court finding the non-resident high school tuition property tax levy law to be constitutional.

The ruling was handed down by the high court Friday morning after an appeal from the local district court of a suit filed by local taxpayers against the Wayne County board of equalization.

Wayne County District Judge Merritt C. Warren ruled in April last year that the 10.98 mill levy in Wayne School District 17 for non-resident high school tuition was lawful.

Vagabonds Wanted For 8 Free Vacations

Would you like spending a weekend taking in some professional baseball games in Cincinnati? Or how about going on a skiing trip at Denver?

These and numerous other weekend vacation possibilities await shoppers in the Wayne area as The Wayne Herald and 37 other businesses in the city combine to offer unique and valuable "Vagabond Vacations."

Winners of the weekend vacations—completely free with no strings attached—can spend them anytime during the next six months at such places as: Cincinnati, Denver, Chicago, Cleveland or Fort Worth. If the winners don't want to go to any of those places they can choose to spend a weekend at either St. Louis, Kansas City, Wichita, Louisville, Oklahoma City or Omaha.

How can you get in line for a chance at being one of the eight vagabonds? Simply by registering at any of the merchants joining forces to offer the away-from-it-all weekends. A list of those merchants appears in a full page advertisement announcing the offer inside this issue of the newspaper.

Families and individuals are eligible to win the free vacations, which include luxury accommodations for Friday and Saturday nights and complete meals throughout the weekend. Transportation is not provided in the promotion.

A couple winning the prize can take with them three children who are not married. A single person winning the prize can take another person with him.

Here's what is going to happen for the next eight weeks: Each Friday the participating firms will draw a name from those people who register throughout the week. Those names will be thrown into a hopper and the name of the person winning the prize will then be drawn.

No purchases are required to be eligible for the drawing. A person can register once each week in the participating stores.

A new contest for a vagabond vacation will be held each week for the next eight weeks. The first winner will be named in next Monday's issue of The Wayne Herald.

Barrels of Fun

The American Way

Anyone keeping score on the pros and cons of those for and against the proposed Logan Valley Hospital District now has a record showing a near draw.

Wayne County commissioners originally accepted petitions signed by 801 real estate owners—with a few less than 800 accepted as valid—calling for a hearing and election on the proposed hospital district.

Wednesday morning there was an estimated crowd of 800 or more persons attending a hearing in Wayne on the district hospital proposal and it appeared that all but a few asked to be excluded. So, generally speaking, about 800 petitioned the commissioners for the district and about 800 at Wednesday's hearing expressed opposition to being included in such a district.

It is always a thrill to observe the processes of American government in action. Pros and cons on any issue may be discussed openly and although each individual has his own opinion, he still realizes that the other fellow has just as much right to his opposing opinion. It has taken wars and rumors of wars involving the deaths of hundreds of thousands of military men to protect this form of government that grants every citizen the freedom of speech.

Whether one is for or against a hospital district, for or against any issue, Republican, Democrat or Independent, let us continue to display in orderly fashion the gift of self government.

A part of being an American is the freedom to express an opinion. Our neighbors, colleagues and friends may or may not agree. There is also the privilege of changing one's mind without losing face.

Law Day is Saturday. Take time to count the privileges enjoyed as an American. Then, regardless of the issue at hand, may we each get involved, whether it is seeking better roads, a hospital, a school, combating crime or taking active part in a political party.—MMW.

According to Webster, ecology means the branch of biology that deals with the relations between living organisms and their environment. So ecology is a branch on a biological tree: one of many in a forest of intellectual trees climbed by humans. From the top of this tree we look down on those who have not climbed it, thus establishing a superior relationship over those living organisms below. Then we bombard them with our ideological surpluses which contaminate their environment.

Using this method we can pollute others as we would have them pollute us but they can't do it because of our high level of operation.

Pollution really isn't anything to joke about but sometimes when we take ourselves too seriously, a laugh will give one new insight and more enthusiasm. Polluted people, more than anyone, may need a laugh, don't you think?

Spring is an invigorating tonic to many. Those sunsets exploding just over the western horizon leaving an occasional stream giggling in the moonlight just have to be an inspiration to all who stand in awe of creation.

If you live in the country and can step out-of-doors on a clear night, there awaits a star-speckled sky that never fails to be dazzling to the human eye. Sometimes the whole night stage like a baseball, especially if there is a breeze through the pine.

There are many things to see in this old world if there is a willingness to look beyond one's own reflection in the window. Aye! There is the rub since it is so easy to stop with self-sinnerness. Right?

Next time you want inspiration, step outside and watch the old lightning bugs in full voltage and listen to the locusts running their sawmills. It'll make a better day for you and help you realize not everything is polluted—yet.

In the last issue of The Wayne Herald we visited with several local barbers about modern gents wearing longer hair styles. Barbers seem to think long hair is a fad and they are probably right. It is not an easy matter to be ecologically unpolluted or even spell it. Anybody that writes in 1971 must mention ecological conditions or be accused of having a psychological condition. So there, and we're going to mention it.

—Don't use colored facial tissues, paper towels or toilet paper—the dye doesn't dissolve. (Switch to pages of a good catalogue.)

—Don't throw away hangers, return them to the cleaners. (Let them get the blame for throwing them away.)

—Don't buy unreturnable containers that cannot be recycled. (Even though Uncle Sam did when he bought Apollo 14.)

—Never flush filter-tip cigarettes down the toilet—they clog the pipes. (And then you couldn't flush the garbage.)

—Make sure fertilizer is worked deep into the soil of your garden; if not, it will be hoisted off into the water system. (So that's what's the matter! All the time Ma thought it was the coffee!)

—Report all junked cars to authorities. (But wait until you've got an inspection sticker on yours.)

—Be sure your car burns fuel efficiently—don't pollute with exhaust. (Right. If you're going to pollute, do it with something that will prove you are no amateur.)

—Make garbage as compact as you can; never burn it. (Yes, when you're fixing garbage, keep your oven at a low temperature.)

—Don't leave your water running—it has to be recycled too. (Important point! You see if you're so absent minded as to leave the water running, it is likely you will also leave the drain plugged and that means you're going to be recycling a lot of water off the floor.)

—Use a detergent that is low in phosphates and measure it carefully. (Always measure your detergent to make sure the manufacturer didn't fib to you

by Nervin Hansen

Rod Cook connected for a single and a double while hurling Wayne High to a 4-0 victory over Allen for Wayne's fifth victory in six starts this season.

Wayne will be able to use all psychological lift the victory can supply in preparation for the home stand against Dodge today (Monday) at 3 p.m. at the local diamond.

The Dodge players are the only ones to beat the locals this year and they had to go nine innings and take advantage of a Wayne throwing error to do that. Result: Wayne 0, Dodge 1.

Cook, whose record is now 3-0, Thursday held the Allen batters to two scattered hits—a double with two out in the second by outfielder Pete Snyder and a single with two out in the sixth by third baseman Roger Anderson.

Allen threatened to score twice in the game. In the opening frame when chucker Gary Troth made it to third base with the help of two batters, Wayne's three errors before being sent to the dugout by a throw from Cook to third baseman Randy Nelson. John Warner, catcher for the Allen team, made it to first in the bottom of the seventh on another Wayne error and advanced to third before Cook ended the game.

The victory, fourth straight after the 1-0 loss to Dodge early this month, is the fourth shut-out for the local club. Wayne's foes have posted only two runs against Wayne's 37 to date.

Four other local hitters ripped hits off Troth against the blustering wind at the Wayne State College field: Brock Giese with a double in the third, Mike Ginn with a single and Lynn Gunderson with a single in the fifth, and Gaylin Woodward with a one-bagger in the sixth.

6 Sophomores To Lead Calls For Mat Team

Sharing cheering honors during the reserve basketball season next year will be sophomores Lynn Kamish, Jean Proett, Carol Kregilton, Marie Lundstrom and Cathy Kraly. Freshman Jane King, alternate, will fill in for the girls when necessary.

Susan Dorsey, also a freshman, secured the high number of votes to represent the Pep Club as the Blue Devil mascot. She will accompany the varsity cheerleaders during the football and basketball seasons.
