Pender Farmer Selected 'Outstanding Stockman'

A Pender farmer who has done considerable work in the cattle feeding field was named Saturday night to receive the Outstanding Stockman Award given annually by the Northeast Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association.

Henry Bruns was singled out to receive the honor during the organization's banquet at Wayne State College.

John Servino of Waterbury, president of the group, cited Bruns for his outstanding service over the years to the feeding industry. Bruns, a 32nd degree Mason, has served in several positions related to the cattle feeding field. Among them: secretary and vice-president of the local feeders association, national director of the national feeders organization and member of the county ASC committee.

Bruns has served on the school board, township board and was one of the founders and directors of the Farmers Union Co-Op in Pender.

A large crowd attended the banquet, which concluded with the naming of the Pender farmer as the recipient of this year's award. Receiving the award in previous years were Claus Milberg, also of Pender, Wark Tolman of Wayne and George Paulsen of Dakota City.

Speaker for the evening was Emmett Butler, known nationally for his humorous dinner talks.

Cited for Service

Harold Ingalls, Wayne County agricultural agent, and Mrs. Val Dammie of rural Wayne were recognized Monday night for having contributed 20 years of service to 4-H activities. Mrs. Dammie knew the way to be honored, but Harold was surprised with his award. The two were singled out during the annual Wayne County 4-H honors dinner Monday evening at Les' Steak House. Receiving their 15-year service pins were Robert Hansen and Mrs. Harold Olson, both of Wakefield. Several other leaders received pins for fewer years of service to 4-H.

A total of 1,593,315 farms have been enrolled in the 1971 feed grain program, according to final figures issued by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

For Wayne County, results of the 1971 feed grain program sign-up show a total of 1,104 farms signed up 119,495 acres feed grain base, and agreed to set aside 23,899 acres.

Building on the record participation in the new program announced last week, the corn-sorghum base acreage on signed farms has reached 93,385,849 acres of 83 per cent of the national eligible feed grain base.

The 1971 program participation exceeds by 247,315 farms the previous record enrollment of 1,512,000 in 1969. The 1969 total does not count barley farms which were included in the program that year. Last year, 1,464,000 corn-sorghum farms were enrolled representing 69 per cent of the national corn-sorghum base acreage.

Enrolled farms this year include 79,043,849 acres of corn base and 21,342,000 acres of sorghum base. This compares with 99,887,602 acres of corn base and 19,439,036 acres of

by Myrtle Anderson

The canister and the upright vacuum cleaners today are coming closer to competing efficiently for the same home cleaning jobs with the new improvements made by manufacturers.

It used to be truthfully said that upright vacuums were better than canisters for carpets, and canisters better than uprights for above-the-floor jobs. However, today you can choose a powered brush canister without any sacrifice at all in performance.

Uprights still excel the canister vacuums which rely only on suction for cleaning deep carpet pile and picking up surface litter.

Other considerations to make in selecting a specific vacuum cleaner are: dragging a canister vs. pushing an upright, convenience in storage, basic cost and additional attachments, noise factor in operation and effort required in removing or replacing disposable bags.

Last, but very important, you need to know what is and is not covered in the guarantee. Using replacement parts such as dust bags and filters not made specifically for the particular vacuum, or using unauthorized repair stations, may void some guarantees.

This time to shop around, see demonstrations of different types, try them out in your own home and don't be in a hurry to sign on the dotted line before you are satisfied on all features.

Wakefield to Host District Baseball Tourney

Dodge was seeded first and Wayne second for the District B-3 baseball tournament scheduled to begin at Wakefield next week.

Meeting on the opening day, Monday, will be Dodge and Winnebago, Wayne and Wakefield, Bancroft and Allen, and Ponca and Snyder.

Dodge's 9-1 season mark at midweek earned that powerhouse top seed in the tourney, held a year ago at Wayne. Wayne, only winner over Dodge, had a 7-2 mark going into Wednesday's game at Ponca, earning the Devils second seed.

Semifinals in the tourney are scheduled for Thursday, May 13, at 1 and 3 in the afternoon. The championship game will be held Tuesday, May 18, at 2 p.m. Representatives of the eight schools in the district met in Wayne Tuesday evening to decide the site, dates and pairings for the tourney, winner of which will advance to the state Class B tournament at Lincoln.

Named to act as tourney director was Lynn Tomjack, head basketball coach for Wakefield. In case of rain during the tourney, games will be played the next day.

Representatives gave the nod to Ponca (3-1) for third seed and to Bancroft (4-3) for fourth seed.

A year ago Wayne High won the district and the state crowns.

WSC Gambles, Fails in Tilt Against Westmar

It was a gamble. All season it had worked, but this time it backfired.

This is the way Coach Fred Pierce tells about the 3-2 extra-inning loss his baseball team took from Westmar Tuesday at LeMars, Iowa.

The gamble was a ninth inning decision for catcher Pete Filippic to try throwing out a runner in case of a steal to second.

With two out, a runner on third and on first, the steal came. Filippic threw to second, the second baseman couldn't handle it on the bounce, the ball went into centerfield, and Westmar's Chad Pelti scored the winning run from third.

Wayne had scored twice in the fifth. Westmar knotted the count in the seventh. Gary Jamieson, who relieved starter Charlie Solano in the seventh, was charged with the loss.

That first-game loss apparently fired the Wildcats. They scored six runs in the first inning of the nightcap and added four more for a 10-2 rout.

Jamieson started for Wayne, but Pierce subbed Mike Reffert in the second — to save Jamieson for Thursday against Concordia. Reffert went on to post his first decision.

Filippic, blanked at the plate in the first game, hit two home runs in the second.

Wayne's record is 18-8 before the doubleheader with Concordia at 1 p.m. today (Thursday) on the WSC diamond. After that, Wayne hosts arch-rival UN-Omaha Monday at 1 p.m. for the season's last scheduled game.

With the state's best record, Wayne appears headed for the NAIA District II playoff. Coaches plan to meet Sunday in Lincoln to select the playoff teams and the site.

Trojans Cop Doubleheader

The Wakefield Trojans upped their season's record to 5-4 Tuesday afternoon at Wakefield by defeating Allen twice, 5-4 and 4-1.

In the first game sophomore Bob Tuttle notched his second win against one loss by scattering six singles, walking six and striking out four.

Allen managed to score four runs — one in the third and three in the fifth on a walk, an error and three singles.

The Trojans got on the scoreboard in the fourth on a two-run homer by Kevin Peters to the bleachers in dead centerfield, his second of the season.

Wakefield added three more in the fifth on two walks, a single and a double to the right field by Kirk Gardner.

The Trojans were led offensively by Peters, Gardner and Sam Utecht, who had two singles.

Although the Trojans committed three errors, they were aided by three double plays — in the fourth, sixth and seventh to stop Allen threats.

In the second game, a five-inning contest, the Trojans scored early in the first inning as Utecht singled and Utecht doubled him in with his third hit of the afternoon.

In the third, Wakefield added three more runs on a walk, Utecht's single to give him four hits for the day, a single by Peters and an infield error.

Allen scored their lone run in the fourth inning.

Junior Pat Starzi collected his first run of the season and evened his record at 1-1 by scattering two singles, walking two and striking out seven. He was never in serious trouble throughout the game.

The Trojans were led offensively by Utecht with a double and single.

Gary Troth pitched all 12 innings of both games and took both losses.

Next action for the Trojans will be this Friday at Dodge for a single game at 3:30 to decide the regular season.

State Game Dads Wheel 'n Deal for Fish

Nebraska's Game and Parks Commission is wheeling and dealing with agencies from other states and with the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service to obtain a variety of game fish for stocking in Nebraska's waters.

Most of the fish being imported into the state were traded for walleye and northern pike eggs, collected by Nebraska fisheries technicians from wild spawners. For example, Nebraska is shipping 500,000 walleye fry to Virginia in exchange for up to two million striped bass fry.

A deal with the federal agency sent Nebraska walleye and northern eggs to federal hatcheries. In exchange, Nebraska will get catfish, largemouth bass and bluegill fingerlings this summer for stocking in the fall.

The North Platte hatchery will handle the smallmouths, while facilities at Valentine and Park

Trojans' Baseball Luck Takes Dip at Bancroft

The Wakefield Trojans slipped to 3-4 for the season as they were defeated Friday afternoon at Bancroft, 6-0, in a game delayed an hour by wet grounds and sloppy condition of the field.

Bancroft erupted for six runs in the first inning on two triples, two singles, two walks, and an error to put the game on ice. Kevin Peters started on the mound for the Trojans and, although roughed up in the early going, held Bancroft to only two singles and one walk in the final six innings to even his record at 2-2.

The Trojans were once again plagued by weak hitting and have now been out scored 21-1 in their last three ball games.

Sam Utecht managed Wakefield's only hit, a single in the 3th when the Trojans loaded the bases on a single and two walks. The threat ended with an infield out.

On Friday, the Trojans travel to Dodge for a single game to close out the regular season.

Jury Trial Postponed

The jury trial on a personal injury suit which was slated to start Tuesday morning at the Wayne County courthouse has been postponed indefinitely.

Reason for the postponement was the inability of one of the lawyers to be present.

The trial was scheduled to get underway with the selection of the jury from the 40 petit jurors.

The trial is the result of a one-car accident on a county road in April of 1968 in which Patsy Gutzmann of Emerson, died. The accident happened southwest of Wayne.

Littering Is Big Business

Littering, the kind almost every person in this state has been guilty of at one time or another, is costing about $160,000 a year to clean up.

The littering done by drivers and passengers in cars on state highways is so extensive that the state must spend that amount just to try to keep the highways from looking too cluttered.

Where does the money come from to do this job? It comes directly from highway users' pockets through the taxes on cars, fuels, accessories and other requirements for owning and operating a car.

Although the cost of cleaning up the highways is considerable, the actual cost of littering is much higher. Littering means men and equipment are used for that task when they could be assigned to more constructive work. Littering means that tires are cut from broken glass, costing car owners and possibly causing an accident. Littering means that hundreds of animals and birds are attracted to the roadside to eat scraps of food thrown from cars, resulting in many of them being killed and injured.

The next time you drive down the road and want to throw an empty pack of cigarettes out the window, think a moment before you do so. Remember that it costs nearly $14,000 a month to clean up those crumpled cigarette wrappers. — NLIH.

Good Job

Another junior fire patrol class of fifth grade pupils will graduate Monday evening.

The students have attended eight monthly meetings, each lasting an hour, at the fire hall.

Class sessions, taught by volunteer firemen, covered such topics as inspection, fire extinguishers, self protection, rescue, fire first aid and a study of the local fire department.

The last session, slated Monday evening, is a brief graduation ceremony at which time those taking the class will receive certificates.

Co-chairmen of the junior fire patrol are Harvey Brasch, Paul Koplin, Clete

Sharer and Bill Kugler.

A couple dozen or more firemen have contributed their time and know-how in teaching the youths.

Volunteer firemen are already busy people giving their time as firemen while holding down steady jobs. For them to also teach the junior fire patrol shows their willingness to give time far beyond the call of voluntary duty. These fellows obviously deserve a word of appreciation.

In behalf of the parents of the fifth graders and the community, we tip our hats to the firemen for their worthwhile efforts and interest in the community. — MMW.

Out of Old

The Lincoln Statue

For nearly sixty years the bronze statue of Abraham Lincoln has stood at the west entrance to Nebraska's Capitol Building. Many Nebraskans may not be aware that the statue's sculptor was Daniel Chester French who later created the seated Lincoln for the Lincoln Memorial in Washington, D. C.

As early as 1897, the idea for a Nebraska monument to the Great Emancipator had been proposed. In 1903 the Nebraska Legislature appropriated $10,000 and provided for a commission to choose a sculptor and erect a suitable statue. The City of Lincoln was to contribute an equal amount. Under the direction of Secretary of State Addison White the Abraham Lincoln Centennial Memorial Association was established in 1907 to begin the project. The committee to choose the sculptor was headed by F. N. Hall of Lincoln.

In 1909 Daniel Chester French was selected to prepare the Statue of Abraham Lincoln for the grounds of the State Capitol. He immediately began the collection of photographs and other information regarding Lincoln in order to prepare a preliminary model. By the following year the model was completed; and, shortly before leaving on a visit to Europe, French expressed his feelings about the statue in a letter to F. N. Hall. The letter, dated April 20, 1910, is within the collections of the State Archives, Nebraska State Historical Society. French remarked:

"I consider this one of the most important works of my life and I prefer to take all the time that is necessary or even advisable to bring about the very best result. While I think pretty well of the model that I have made, I never feel that I can judge properly of my own work immediately upon its completion. Coming back to it after an absence of three or four months, I shall be able to view it more impartially and with a fresh eye and estimate its artistic value more nearly. I am sure you will agree with me that this course is best. I am writing you on my sixtieth birthday, but I have just begun to fight."

The completed statue of Abraham Lincoln was dedicated on Sept. 2, 1912, before a crowd of some 10,000. William Jennings Bryan was the principal speaker, and French and his daughter were in attendance. Many dignitaries, including Governor Chester Aldrich, were present at the ceremonies and a conspicuous portion of the crowd was composed of Civil War veterans.

Daniel Chester French died in Stockbridge, Mass., in 1931. Despite his more famous work in the Lincoln Memorial, the many tributes to the excellence of the Nebraska statue reflect French's dedication to his art and his ability to capture the dignity and spirit of his subject.

Governor Sustains Bruises In Bouts With Legislature

LINCOLN — Last week probably won't be an honored position in Gov. J. James Exon's memory book.

The Legislature exerted its independence at the governor's expense.

First, the senators killed his bill to exempt food from the sales tax at the grocery counter.

Next, they overrode his veto of a bill increasing the cigarette tax and earmarking the revenue.

Next, they killed a measure which would have created a separate environmental protection agency while Exon was telling an Omaha audience the bill was the most important ecology legislation in Nebraska's history.

And, then, the budget committee reported out an appropriations bill which cut the governor's recommendations for general fund — or tax dollar — expenditures and provided for increased spending by hiking cash and revolving fund totals.

That budget bill also stipulated how much each agency could spend on each of the programs it handles and how much it could use for salaries.

Exon had asked for budget legislation which would have assigned a lump sum to each agency, leaving it up to the administration to determine how the money should be allocated among programs.

But the committee, under veteran Chairman Richard D. Marvel of Hastings, wasn't buying that.

Let's go over Exon's week in more detail.

On the food sales tax, the governor's defeat was forecast ever since earlier in the session when he set-aside a bill which would have increased the food tax credit from $7 to $10. That per capita credit is claimed on state income tax forms.

At that time, Exon called the credit system a "glimpck" and said the "vast majority of Nebraskans" prefer to have food exempted at the grocery counter.

His bill to accomplish that, however, was stuck in the revenue committee, where there weren't enough votes to advance it to the floor or to kill it.

Finally, the full Legislature agreed to raise the bill out of committee and consider it. But when it was put to a vote, there wasn't enough support to advance it. A kill motion was offered and it passed.

That means the credit system continues — at the same $7 per person rate. It also means the state will continue to collect the $4.8 million in revenue above the amount of refunds.

The cigarette tax bill added a nickel per package to the levy on smokes. The first $695,000 in additional revenue was ticketed for construction of an activities building at the Beatrice State Home, while the remainder was to be divided evenly between funds for the new state office building and a University of Nebraska field-house.

Exon said he didn't object to the extra nickel in taxes, but he wanted the money to go into a sinking fund for unspecified construction projects and/or the general fund.

He spent two days lobbying hard in a series of private interviews with individual senators, seeking to get enough support to sustain his veto.

But he didn't get it. It took 30 votes to pass the bill over the veto and the motion received 31 votes.

On the ecology issue, Exon — as had his predecessor, Norbert Tilmann — supported the creation of a separate environmental agency. The Legislature, however, opted for a merger of the present air and water pollution control councils into a single council.

Under the plan with Exon's endorsement, an agency director would have the chief power. Under the plan the senators chose, the 16-member council — made up of representatives of specified industries and backgrounds — would have the power.

The budget bill wasn't really a defeat for Exon, but it wasn't written the way he would have preferred — especially in the area of agency flexibility.

The governor had argued that when there is a tight budget, which he said he had recommended, it was important to allow some elbow room for administrative decisions.

The bill the committee sent to the floor was short on elbow room.

It also was short by about $1 million on general fund money, compared with the recommendations the governor had made in his Feb. 4 budget message.

But the committee suggested giving agencies permission to spend $2.1 million more from cash funds than Exon had in his recommendations.

Cash funds are generated from such items as tuition and charges for state services. The committee raised the tuition for the state colleges and the non-resident rates for University of Nebraska students, accounting for much of the difference between its cash fund totals and those offered by Exon.

The grand total of the committee's omnibus appropriations bill for operating state government the coming fiscal year is $511.5 million. That total includes general funds, cash funds, federal funds and revolving funds.

Exon's budget message listed a grand total from all funds of $470.9 million.

The general fund comparison shows the committee recommending $183.9 million and Exon suggesting $185 million. During this fiscal year — which ends June 30 — state government is expected to spend $182.6 million in general fund money, while the actual expenditures in fiscal 1969-70 totaled $163 million.

Savings Bonds Mark 30th Anniversary

U. S. Savings Bonds marked their 30th anniversary on May 1, and much of the success of the program is due to the efforts of thousands of volunteers, including those in Nebraska, M.F. Oberg, volunteer state chairman of the savings bonds program, said last week.

Oberg pointed out that Henry Ley of Wayne, volunteer county savings bonds chairman, serves his fellow citizens, his community and the nation by encouraging bond purchases.

The success of the program nationally has been measured by the annual involvement of more than 500,000 volunteers and the fact that more than $185 billion worth of Savings Bonds have been bought since 1941, Oberg said.

The Business Scene

Dick Keldel, owner of Sav-Mor Drugs in Wayne, attended the recent annual convention of the Nebraska Pharmaceutical Association.

The convention was held in Omaha on Sunday, Apr. 25. Included in the activities was election and installation of new officers.

Former Police Chief Speaks at Kiwanis

Garth Dawson, director of the police division of the Nebraska Crime Commission, told Wayne Kiwanians at a Monday noon luncheon, "I think we're building a tolerance to crime."

Dawson, former chief of police in Wayne, pointed out to Kiwanians that tolerance to crime and death on the highways has become a national-wide.

He said crime has gone beyond the tolerance of those living in large cities. Seeing the need, Congress has made available monies for such programs as the Nebraska Crime Commission.

Noting that much of the federal money has been spent on purchasing new communications equipment for communities, Dawson said, "You won't solve crime by buying a radio." He believes the federal monies might better be spent by getting people on the local level interested in solving crimes and backing the police force.

Speaking of federal funding for controlling crime throughout the states, Dawson said, "The money isn't there to make the job easier but to make the system better."

Good Morning Feeders & Hi Mom

By Eddie Collins

Do not be too surprised if one of these days you'll be seeing your finished steers to a cattle buyer wearing a 10-gallon Reel-to and Tony Lama boots, and among all the ballpoint pens and cigars you'll see a shiny new tation.

No, it will not proclaim "Pigs Are Beautiful" or "Down With Spine." It will be a union pin. A union pin? For the cattle buyers? You bet, and it might not be too far in the making. Once fat cattle buyers were practically fraternity brothers through one common denominator: the Big Four: Swift, Armour, Wilson and Cudahy.

To have a Phillip Armour or a Mike Cudahy ride into a commission alley was like being blessed by Pious IX. To be a Chicago buyer was higher than an Alderman. Head buyers were the biggest boots, swore in the strongest words, rode the biggest horse and were followed by more runners than Stanley or Livingston.

But he knew all his buyers and protected them. During that epoch, buyers stayed 20, 30, 40 or 50 years with the same company. Some proudly dreamed of emulating the "old man." Boys rose from driver to gate-opener to runner to calf and bull buyer to cow buyer. Four, five or 10 years later came the big step: a yearling buyer.

Suddenly all the grading secrets fell in place. Not merely Armour or Morris Star or Swift Premium, but the 30's, 31's, 302's, 33, 303's, 34's, 304's, 35 or 36 steers, plus the 40 series, heifers. (Cows were designated 50's.)

The beef was all sold with the packers' nationally advertised label and grade designation. Buyers knew in eight that say, the big shorthorns would fit a Boston order, the 1,300-pound Angus could go to Syracuse, the 800-pound heifers could go local car route, the 950-pound hereford steers could go to Baltimore or Washington. This knowledge was non-transferable. It was a system as strict and thorough as the football dynasty of Vince Lombardi.

During and after WWII the Big Four sagged. A new breed developed, independent jobbers and wholesalers of challenging magnitude.

With them also grew the less restricted fat cattle order buyers who unhesitatingly paid up while the Big Four religiously followed government restrictions—and lost their empire.

In the forties and fifties, the Big Four-trained hundreds of student buyers. Once developed, these packers lost this aggressive talent when $20 more a month would have satisfied the immediate demands. Cattle were still stockyard sold, surely no place for schoolboys or college professor neophytes.

In the later 50's, decentralized cattle plants arose. At first only 60 to 90 head an hour site. Then came Currier Holman and the entire concept changed.

Big plants, with octopus arms. Buyers ranged thousands of miles. Drove new cars with a door emblem and two-way radios.

Buyers owned a built-in swag. He conquered new fields, actually conquered an industry. As new companies formed, buyers changed jobs. One was with six companies in as many years. Seldom was a buyer promoted—or given a raise. An annual bonus was the big deal, plus the weekly salary. The bonus was based not on numbers, but calculated on profit.

This meant, after a large bonus, the cattle feeding clients, who were now neighbors to the re-located buyer, had either been underpaid or were being picked clean.

A detestable method of selling evolved. Grade/yield or in-the-beef. The buyer needed little experience. Fact is, a hat check girl with a bunny tail could duplicate the service.

Mom, a hotel news stand operator selling the Wall Street Journal is not an economist. Likewise, some buyers are not buyers.

Some companies grew to gigantic operations. "Experts" took over. True, 90 per cent never had seen the rear-end of a steer. They ostracized the originals and disregarded them from future company plans. Many employees remain only because of fear that their kids and wife will miss their three-squares-a-day.

Many corporations merged. Results: buyers were released. At several plants new dictatorial management was brought in. Their claim to fame: a water-logged impregnation of Currier. Results: replace the faithful with questionable sophistocates and get hopelessly strike-bound trying to protect granted stock options and bonus benefits. Packing house management today is computerized. Little loyalty exists beyond the weekly check. At any time a $400-a-week veteran might be replaced by $175 tenderfoot.

At property-tax time, local packers really bear down. Even slaughter reservations are needed weeks in advance. The last hope is "buyer unionization." Currently there is no other protection.

Plant generosity or locally don't guarantee jobs. May be original owners still have sentiment but seldom do corporations. And never does the computer.

Tractor 10 Series
Machine-age farming is a serious and often dangerous business. The great varieties of sophisticated farm machinery being used on today's farm makes it necessary for Nebraska farm youth to learn the safe and correct way of operating this equipment.

Such an opportunity will be presented at 9 p.m., May 6, 13 and 20 as "Tractor 10" is aired on Nebraska Educational Television Network stations.

The three-hour-long programs, which first ran in 1970, are designed to make Nebraska farm youths eligible for exemption from the Hazardous Occupation Order issued by the U. S. Department of Labor.

The order, which does not apply to youth employed by their parents or guardians, protects hired farm workers under 16 from particularly hazardous jobs.

The order, which went into effect Jan. 1, prohibits 14 and 15-year-olds from operating tractors and farm machines, handling hazardous chemicals and explosives, working at high elevations, working in pens with breeding stock, working on heavy timber operations and working in other hazardous situations on the farm and ranch.

Instruction offered through the series, together with necessary driving exercises, classroom work and written examinations, will meet the 10 hours requirement for an exemption to operate a tractor. Twenty hours of instruction are required to operate other farm equipment.

County agents and vocational agriculture teachers must match each hour of television programming with at least one 1 1/2 hours training at the local level. Youths wishing to work toward an exemption certificate may enroll at county extension offices.

Nitrogen Carry-Over

Farmers who will be applying nitrogen fertilizer this spring will have to answer the question of how much nitrogen carry-over occurred in the past year on drought areas and fields, says Dr. Richard Wiese, University of Nebraska Extension agronomist.

Farmers should be aware that this carry-over will depend on many factors, including amount of growth and utilization, soil texture, precipitation this past fall and rain in the spring. One additional factor should be considered—the crop roots next spring will eventually get down to nitrogen that was applied during the previous year.

The nitrogen carry-over will range from an estimated 30-70 per cent, depending on how large a crop was produced on a particular plow of land.

Wiese estimates that the range is from 70 per cent carry-over where no feed was produced at all on down to only 30 per cent where 20-40 bushels of corn per acre were produced.

He recommends that a crop producer determine his carry-over rate through nitrate tests run with deep profiles early in the spring.

Irregular brown spots on lawn grass may be the first signs of sod webworm damage, according to a University of Nebraska Extension publication.

Yard & Garden Tips . . .

Q—What is a control for elm leaf beetle on the elm trees?
A—Sevin is highly active against this insect. Dieldrin and malathion can also be used.

Q—What is a proper way to re-seed bluegrass in small portions of a lawn?
A—The soil should first be stirred so black dirt is showing. Put the seed in this area and cover it lightly with soil. The important thing is to keep the area moist so that the grass has a chance to establish itself. This time of the year it usually takes two weeks of regular watering to prevent the new grass from drying out.

Q—How is bind weed controlled in gardens and flower beds?
A—The most effective method of control is pulling the weed out. Another method is waiting till fall when the garden is done growing. At this time let the bind weed grow into seed, then apply 2,4-D.

Q—What is a good control for box elder bugs?
A—Ester Sevin—used as directed spray in a solution of two tablespoons of 80 per cent or three tablespoons of 60 per cent per gallon of water—will kill the bugs that are present. But this will not stop the insects from continuing to come. There is no sure way to get rid of them permanently.

'SCS Has Plans to Help Halt Flooding'

A meeting was held recently in Fowler to discuss the spring flood which did considerable damage to land and property along the Logan Creek and the Flikhorn River.

Representatives from the U. S. Corps of Engineers, Bureau of Reclamation and the Soil Conservation Service attended the meeting to answer questions about possible solutions to flood control problems.

The watershed program administered by the SCS needs to be thoroughly understood by all people living in the area, says William Yost, with the Wakefield SCS office.

Individual conservation plans need to be written for the majority of the farms in the area, which indicates interest and cooperation from local people, says Yost.

On the land this means the application of conservation measures such as terraces, contour farming, grass waterways and grass seedings.

All of these are the landowners' and operators' responsibilities, Yost explains, but local people are asked to provide easements and rights of ways for the construction of dams.

The federal government, through SCS, provides 100 per cent of the engineering design, inspection and construction cost of the dams, according to Yost.

A flood control dam was built north of Plager under this program to protect that town from flooding. Plans are underway to construct a dam near Norfolk to protect parts of that town from floodwaters.

A watershed in the Ponca-Newcastle area will construct the first of 65 dams this year.

Residents along Logan Creek have ample programs available to help solve their flooding problems, says Yost. A visit with your local Soil Conservation Service representative will provide more details or answer any questions individuals or community representatives may have, he concludes.

Stewardship Week

Set for May 16-22

The Wayne Conservation District has furnished all churches in Wayne County with soil stewardship materials to mark the week of May 16th as Soil Stewardship Week.

Werner Mann, chairman of the local district, said that each person is responsible to making our area a better place to live by controlling soil erosion and water pollution.

The week of the 16th has been named by President Richard Nixon as the time to turn national attention to our environment. Gov. J. J. Parn has issued a proclamation to Nebraska citizens on the subject.

The task facing us in restoring the environment we have damaged, said President Nixon, will require the help of every level of government and all citizens.

Films on Water Resources Available

Four films on water resources in Nebraska were released last week by the University of Nebraska—Lincoln.

The 30-minute color films were developed by the University's Conservation and Survey Division and the Agricultural Extension Service to fulfill a request by the legislature for an educational program describing the state's water resources.

Titles of the four films: "Water—Nebraska's Heriitage."

"Living With Nebraska's Water."

"Working With Nebraska's Water."

"Nebraska's Water—Its Future."

All films in the series can be purchased or rented from the Film Library, Instructional Media Center, Extension Division, University of Nebraska, Lincoln, 68508.

Boys Display Talents at Wakefield Scout-O-Rama

An estimated 1,000 people crowded inside and outside the American Legion Hall at Wakefield Saturday afternoon as Scouts from across northeast Nebraska put on their annual Scout-O-Rama.

The event, held yearly by the Lewis and Clark Boy Scout District, included a tug-of-war and racing with miniature cars along with the displays and demonstrations of know-how the Scouts have acquired over the past year.

Displays varied from the sacks of trash picked up by some energetic youths to model airplanes to demonstrations on how to help a person who has broken his leg.

Winning the tug-of-war were Boy Scout Troop 172 of Wakefield and Cub Scout Pack 173 of Hartington.

Brett Bahle of Pilger Pack 128 won the pine-wood derby, the big attraction during the afternoon.

Best booths selected during the day were the ones by Pack 221 of Wayne and Troop 165 of West Point.

Selling the most tickets to the event were two West Point groups: Pack 165 and Troop 155.

Scenes from the day's activities:

Demonstrating first aid treatment for a broken leg on "patient" Richard Arens of Hartington are Sam Lambert, left, and Bill Karls of Wisner. Youths were literally hanging from the ceiling in an attempt to keep up on the racing of the miniature cars. Leon Miller winds strips of twine to make a rope for Belden's look-out post. Two youths examine some of the model planes on display, and Tom Parkinson of West Point tries his hand at making knots.

SMALL TOWN WATER FIGHTS

By Bill Nelson

The pumper engine roars. Water spurts skyward from two fire hoses, crackling and popping as the pressure mounts. Two-man teams of firemen face each other across a scant 50 feet of turf.

The sport is water fighting—man to man style—a wild, wet, wacky sport that's a consistent drawing card at small town celebrations and carnivals across the Midwest.

It's the rough and tumble pastime of volunteer firemen . . . men who can handle a fire hose like a baton, who enjoy a cooling diversion on hot summer days.

Six minutes of frenzied action!

Then the contest is over. But packed in those 360 seconds is a real wallop. To the crowd's delight, the lead usually seesaws back and forth.

The teams fight two rounds of three minutes each. The firefighting team battered with water the longest—a direct hit is between the head and knees—is ruled the loser. Two judges with stop watches make the determination.

Each team has a water steerer and a backer, to whom the hose is strapped. Both men face their opponents and must keep one hand on the hose. They fight in a 10 by 15 foot, staked box . . . and are free to scramble around within its confines to evade the torrents of water.

Two superstars are Willy and Harold Roberts of Delafield, Wis., a team of husky brothers unbeaten in 50 fights over a span of eight years. So relentlessly do they attack and so unerring is their aim that few firemen want to fight them anymore.

"To be a good water fighter, you can't be a lightweight," explains Willy. "You'd get knocked off balance too easy. You should really weigh 200 or better."

"You sort of lean into the spray and brace yourself," he says. "You try to keep the other team moving; that way they can't concentrate on hitting you."

What other tactics do they use?

"Well," Willy answered, "Harold is the steerer and we sometimes use him as a decoy. He'll duck, go up and down, drop down to his knees . . . anything to confuse the other team. While they're trying to hit him, I take over the aiming and let 'em have it. You see, they can't hit both of us dead center at the same time.

Did they ever drench the other team?

"Sure," Willy replied, grinning. "At Oconomowoc we fought the Ashippun team and had the water squarely on them for 2 minutes and 28 seconds. They got us only 34 seconds."

When a team gets bulls-eyed, its water stream goes hopelessly awry and sprays at such wacky angles that spectators often get wet. But no one seems to mind.

What's it like to be on the wrong end of a cascade of water?

"Very bad," Willy said. "It's like being slapped in the face; it really smarts. The water pounds at you; as if a huge hand is smashing you. If you're not careful, you can wind up flat on your back."

Any special problems in a water fight?

"I'd say correcting and readjusting your water stream when the other team shifts its position is one of the toughest," said Willy, who's been water fighting since 1956. "Sometimes you get caught in a bad wind or sun factor, too. When the sun's in your face, it's almost impossible to stay on target. But the rules call for you to shift ends after the first round."

GRASSROOTS GLEANINGS by Bill Stokes

The Wapello (Iowa) Republican provides the following definitions: Baloney: flattery so thick it cannot be true. Blarney: flattery so thin we like it.

"By the time a man becomes important enough to take two hours for lunch, all he can eat is crackers and milk," says the Lake Mills (Iowa) Graphic.

"It is a safe bet that the folks who sleep like babies don't have any," comments The Northwest Blade of Eureka, S. D.

"With prices the way they are, a little earning is a dangerous thing," says the Sturgis (S.D.) Tribune.

The Wayne County Press of Fairfield, Ill., says that a budget is a method of worrying before you spend, instead of afterward.

"Knitting seems to be gaining in popularity," says The Cannelton (Ind.) Tuesday News. "It gives the ladies something to think about while they talk."

If parents could go to P.T.A. meetings under an assumed name, maybe attendance would go up, suggests The Times Record of Aledo, Ill.

"The first thing a man discovers after saying, 'I do,' is a long list of 'do nots,'" says the Arenac County Independent of Standish, Mich.

The Morris (Minn.) Sun tells about the secretary who had no trouble landing a job because her measurements were 38-24-37-68. The 68? Her I.Q., of course.

Next time party conversation lags, the West Central Daily Tribune of Willmar, Minn., suggests that you smile and say, "A gallon of nectar can provide enough energy for a bee to cruise four million miles at seven M.P.H."

"It's too bad the future generations can't be here to help us spend their money," says the Huntingburg (Ind.) Independent.

Television has opened many a door, most of them on refrigerators, comments The Tell City (Ind.) News.

"Ah well! the first ten commandments are the hardest," laments The Jamestown (N.D.) Sun.

The Review of Plymouth, Wis., tells of seeing the following chalked on a sidewalk: "I wish I was what I was when I wished I was what I am now."

The Holt County Independent of O'Neill, Neb., defines a desk as a wastebasket with drawers.

Two kinds of people have lumps in their throat, says the Sturgis (S.D.) Tribune: the sentimental and the ones who try to swallow aspirin at a drinking fountain.

Sunny Salads for May

By Sandy Bloom—Farm and Home Food Consultant

As a harbinger of sunny spring and summer days, you'll find a bowl brimful of salad simply can't be topped. The fact that it meets many requirements of a balanced diet is just an added bonus.

Included are fruit salads, salads for the main dish, and an Ambrosia that could double as a dessert. Since easy party food is always a welcome addition to a recipe file, we've selected a dramatic molded salad, Cottage Cheese Asparagus Mousse. This pale green and cool-looking salad is special in delicate flavor and special in its appeal to the eye and the palate. There's a true asparagus flavor and enough lemon juice to add an appetizing tang.

Want to enjoy fruit salads at their best? Fix ahead and chill thoroughly so flavors blend. The fresh fruits, such as bananas, apples, pears, and peaches won't darken if you use an ascorbic acid mixture to coat the peeled fruit.

AMBROSIA

6 oranges	1/4 cup confectioners' sugar
2 teaspoons ascorbic acid mixture	3 bananas
	1 1/2 cups shredded coconut

Carefully peel oranges, removing all membranes. Section. Combine ascorbic acid mixture and confectioners' sugar. Peel bananas and slice into sugar mixture. Arrange alternate layers of orange and bananas in a glass bowl or in individual glass dishes. Sprinkle each layer with shredded coconut. Chill well before serving.

ZIPPY DRESSING FOR FRUIT SALADS

2 tablespoons pineapple juice	1 envelope onion salad dressing mix
1/4 cup vinegar	2/3 cup salad oil
	1/4 cup toasted walnuts

Pour vinegar and pineapple juice into mixing jar or blender. Add salad dressing mix and blend well. Add salad oil; blend again. Add walnuts just before serving. Serve with fresh fruits. Makes about 1 1/2 cups dressing.

Ideas for Tomorrow
home economists say:

"Homemaking begins with softwater"

Lindsay's Central Water Conditioning

Interviewed home economists Ruth Anne McKeown, Del Rae, and Joyce Sieferring, and Kay Jepsen discuss the new Lindsay Imperial Softener.

RUTH ANNE: "When the meal is finished, it's always back to the kitchen to do dishes. It's so wonderful to have soft water for sparkling clean china, flatware and glasses!"

DEL RAE: "For flavorful coffee or any water-based drinks you just have to have sweet tasting iron-free water in your kitchen."

JOYCE: "And how about the bane of every housewife's existence — washing clothes? Unless you start with soft water you'll have to add a fortune in soaps or detergents. Did you know that a Lindsay water conditioner can virtually pay for itself in detergent savings?"

KAY: "There's another beautiful thing about Lindsay's concept of Central Water Conditioning. It helps make you beautiful! That's right — hands are smoother, hair is cleaner and more lustrous — it's Lindsay's kind of Beauty Water."

That's only the beginning, ladies. There are lots more benefits from Lindsay's new concept of Central Water Conditioning. This simply means one water conditioning center tailored to your family, your home and your needs.
