Wayne Herald Offers $25 To Top Glass Collectors

The Wayne Herald is offering a $25 cash prize to the individual or group which collects the largest pile of glass for recycling over the next six weeks.

The decision by owners of the newspaper to offer the prize was made in an effort to stimulate more concern and action about environmental problems in the Wayne area. "If the contest results in just a few people or organizations collecting glass over the next few weeks, the cash will be well spent," said Norvin Hansen, editor of the newspaper. Hansen said he hopes that the contest attracts a lot of interest both in Wayne and the surrounding communities. It's possible that some other business might contribute money to make the contest even more inviting to both youths and adults, he said.

The contest is an attempt by the newspaper to live up to its responsibilities in the area of service to the public, explained Jim Marsh, manager of the newspaper. Any group or individual in the Wayne area is eligible to enter the contest. The only stipulation is that the glass be washed and have any metal removed before being delivered to The Herald.

The contest will end on Monday, Aug. 2. The winner will be announced the following Monday. Glass collected during the contest will be taken to the glass pile along the railroad tracks just east of Pearl Street. That pile has been collected by members of the Environmental Action Committee in an effort to get a railroad car full to ship off to be melted down and used again.

Glass can be gathered in any manner from anywhere in the area. Businesses in Wayne and surrounding towns can be contacted by those in the contest to see if they will donate glass which might otherwise be taken to a landfill site.

SWAY Seeking Addresses

Addresses of 41 servicemen from the Wayne area are being sought so letters of appreciation and $10 checks can be sent to them. Asking for relatives and friends to send the names are members of SWAY, a unique organization which attempts to show men in all branches of the service that they are appreciated.

The organization—Servicemen We Appreciate You—has been inactive for about a year and a half. When it was in operation, checks and letters were sent out to servicemen after names were drawn weekly. The 41 names are those men who have entered the service from the Wayne County selective service office since November of 1969.

Anybody knowing the addresses of the servicemen can send them to either The Wayne Herald or to Darrel Soden in Wayne.

Soden, one of the organizers of SWAY, said the addresses should be sent as soon as possible so all servicemen can receive their checks and letters.

Following are those servicemen the group needs addresses for: Keith McClark, Larry Redel, Delmar Wacker, Roger Schwabke, Ray Vrtiska, Randall Lutt, Dennis Jensen, Dennis Juncak, Larry Grone, Dale Johnson.

David J. Roberts, Melvin F. Meyer, Rocco H. Marr, Hamon F. Larson, Monte W. Barcus, Gerald C. Juncak, William E. Baier, Craig M. Cook, Harold R. Hamilton, Michael V. Dekalb.

Tornado Warning

Hoskins area residents are reminded that if a tornado is sighted in that area they are to call the Hoskins Volunteer Fire Department at 357-4444.

Residents will be warned by a full minute blast of the fire siren. The all-clear signal will be a 30-second blast.

Motorists Share Common Problem

Seven motorists from seven towns all had something in common last week. Each paid a fine at the Wayne County Courthouse following arraignment before Judge Laverma Hilton.

Paying $5 court costs and fines for speeding were James Sleverson of Perch, $11; James Elms of Silver Creek, $12; and Woodrow King of Winside, $17.

Betty Otedahl of Wayne was fined $15 and costs of $5 for not having an inspection sticker.

David Hammer of Wakefield paid $5 costs, a $10 fine for not having a driver's license and a $10 fine for not having Nebraska license plates.

Illegal use of ten per cent of his registration fee cost Lester Greiner of Randolph a $50 fine and $5 costs.

Donald Bodenstedt of Carroll was charged with making an illegal left turn and fined $5 plus $5 costs.

Mrs. Owen Kliegl has her hair set by Jeannette Stratman at Pat's Beauty Salon. Mrs. Kliegl was a preliminary "Vagabond Weekend" winner at the salon and went on to win the free weekend trip.

Belgium to Be Summer Home For Hoskins Girl

A Hoskins teenager has received word that she will leave Omaha Tuesday for Belgium where she will spend the summer as an American Field Service student.

Denise Puls, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Puls of rural Hoskins, was recently notified by AFS International that she will fly to New York City Tuesday and to Belgium Wednesday where she will join other AFS students in orientation sessions.

Her hosts in Belgium will be the Josef Ackerman family, including a daughter, Agnes, 18, of Aostacker. Ackerman is a building contractor and neither he nor his wife speak English, however Agnes does. The family language is Dutch.

While in Belgium, Denise will have opportunity of seeing most of the country as Belgium is somewhat smaller than Nebraska.

The family plans to tour the cities of Brussels, Ghent, Antwerp and Bruges.

Denise will be a senior this fall at the Norfolk High School where she has been active in the National Honor Society, choir, Pep Club, French Club, triple trio and editor of the school paper.

Former Winside Grad Receives Scholarship

Mrs. John Lange, formerly Cheryl Behmer of Winside, recently received a $600 scholarship plus tuition and eight hours graduate credit from the National Science Foundation to attend a summer institute in physical science.

The institute got underway early last week and will continue through Aug. 6 at Nebraska Wesleyan University, Lincoln. Mrs. Lange teaches physical science at Mission Junior High School at Bellevue. She is a 1965 graduate of Winside High School and a 1968 graduate of Wayne State College.

Laurel Seeking Parade Entries

All groups or organizations in the area are being invited to have entries in the parade scheduled for the second day of Laurel's Jamboree Days.

The two-day celebration begins Tuesday. The parade is scheduled for 10:30 the second day.

Anyone wishing to have an entry in the parade is asked to get in touch with Dick Manz of Laurel.

Sponsored by the Laurel Chamber of Commerce, the celebration includes carnival rides and concessions, tractor pull, dances and ball games.

The tractor pull, featuring a guaranteed purse of $500 gets underway at 1 Tuesday afternoon. Prizes of $50, $40, $35 and $30 go to the winners of the six pulling classes.

A square dance is scheduled for Tuesday evening from 8:30 to 11:30 in the city auditorium. A teen dance is set for the auditorium the following night from 9 to midnight.

Water fights will be held next to the fire hall at 5 on Wednesday afternoon. Ball games between youngsters from Winner and Laurel will get underway at 1 p.m. Tuesday. A girls softball game is set for 1:30 Wednesday afternoon.

Ten Area Schools File For Free High Tuition

Ten area schools have now filed claims with the Wayne county superintendent of schools for their share of non-resident high school tuition for the second semester of the 1970-71 term. Fred Rickers, superintendent, said Friday that the non-resident tuition payments are to be paid on or before July 1.

Schools and their claims include Allen, $500; Laurel, $8,550; Wayne, $51,012; Norfolk, $8,447; Pierce, $3,150; Pender, $6,600; Randolph, $12,075; Wakefield, $11,140; Winside, $16,350 and Winner, $4,000.

Manske Hired, Anderson Promoted

Jack Manske, 22, has been hired to sell advertising for The Wayne Herald, according to Jim Marsh, manager of the newspaper.

The large amount of business the newspaper has gained over the past couple years makes it necessary to have somebody overseeing all production, said Marsh.

2 Area Students On Midland List

Junior Marion Geewe of rural Wakefield and sophomore Peggy Holkamp of Carroll are among the 194 students honored for their academic achievement during the second term at Midland Lutheran College.

The students had to have a minimum grade point average of 3.50 for the term and must have taken at least 12 credit hours at the Fremont school.

Parents of the youths are Mrs. Alma Geewe and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Holkamp of Carroll.

WS Grad Named Award Recipient

A graduate of Wayne State College has been named the first recipient of the Francis Christensen Award. The award honors a renowned rhetorician who was a Northern Illinois University faculty member until his death last year.

The award goes to Mrs. Sally McCluskey, a NU doctoral candidate. Consisting of several new books of her choice, the award seeks to recognize in an NU graduate student "those ideals of scholarly excellence and humanistic commitment" that marked Christensen's long career.

Mrs. McCluskey, 30, received her undergraduate degree from Wayne State College in 1962 and her master's from the University of Arkansas.

Cash Jackpot Grows

For the second consecutive week the person whose name has been drawn at 8 p.m. on Thursday for the Cash Night drawing has failed to step forward in a participating store to claim the cash prize.

The name of Mrs. Alex Jeffrey of Wayne was called Thursday for a jackpot of $150, but she was not present to claim it. Thursday night the drawing will be worth $200 which is enough to go a long way in providing either an individual or family with some extras for the house or to spend on vacation.

Any area resident may register in a participating Wayne business firm and be eligible for the drawing.

Setting Forms
Workers for a Norfolk construction firm were busy Thursday setting up forms for the foundation of the new fire department building at Allen. The building, which will be all steel, will be 52 feet and will have plenty of room for two trucks. Being built by the rural fire district, it should be completed this week.

Ambulance Driver Is Hired by City

Miron Jenness of Wayne has been hired as driver for the ambulance working out of the Wayne hospital.

He will drive on calls between noon and 11 at night, said Dan Sherry, city administrator. Chuck Thomas, hospital administrator, will be available to drive the ambulance the rest of the day.

In case of emergency the police will drive the vehicle. Jenness will drive the ambulance all this summer or until another person can be found for the job. He is a teacher at the middle school in Wayne during the school year.

School Retains AA Accreditation

The Wayne-Carroll school system has received the coveted AA accreditation from the State Board of Education for another year.

The recognition was approved by the board during a meeting in Lincoln earlier this month. Schools meeting several high standards set by the board are given the ranking. Only 26 school systems across the state have earned the accreditation.

Seventh Winner Is 'Happy'

"Surprised and happy" was the way Mrs. Owen Kliegl of Wayne described her feelings Friday morning after being informed earlier that she was the seventh winner in the weekly drawing for a "Vagabond Weekend."

Children away from home are Dick at Cheokee, Iowa, Bill in St. Paul, Minn., and Kathy in Mason City, Iowa. Ron, a senior at Wayne High School next fall, and Dean, a fifth grader in the middle school, still live at home.

Mrs. Kliegl had registered at Pat's Beauty Salon for the free weekend away from it all. Asked how her husband responded when she told him she had won, she said, "He thought it was wonderful too." He works as a territory manager for a feed company.

Mrs. Kliegl said she has never won anything before. The trip she has won now will probably be the last this fall. "We haven't decided where we'll go," she said, adding, "maybe to the twin cities, but we're not sure."

They may choose to go to Cincinnati, Minneapolis, St. Louis, Cleveland, Chicago, Detroit, Kansas City, Wichita, Lincoln, Colorado Springs, Omaha, Oklahoma City or Denver.

The Kliegls will have their room and lodging paid; however, they must provide their own transportation.

All Wayne area residents are eligible to participate in the contest. You need only register each week at any of the stores participating in the promotion.

Names of the last group of preliminary winners appear in a two-page advertisement in this issue of The Wayne Herald. The last winner will be named next Monday.

Loans for High Moisture Silos Available

Commodity Credit Corporation loans are now available to erect high moisture, oxygen-free silos on eligible farms, says Larry Heinemann, chair man of the Wayne County ASC committee.

Loans have been available only for conventional storage structures such as corn cribs and grain bins up to now.

Applications for loans on wet storage structures will be accepted after July 1. Regulations governing the loans will not be received until July or later, Heinemann said.

WSC Frosh Orientation Is Planned

Freshmen enrolling at Wayne State College this fall are being invited to one of five orientation programs scheduled July 1, 7, 9, 13, 15.

Changes in harvesting, storing and feeding methods are causing increased need for structures for wet as well as dry storage, Heinemann said. Making loans available to eligible farmers needing wet storage to carry out their farming operations is consistent with the USDA's position of encouraging the development of adequate on-farm storage and drying capacity for today's agricultural commodities.

Storage structure and drying equipment loans are made to eligible producers at a six per cent annual interest rate. The loans are repaid in four equal installments with the first installment due one year from the date of the loan.

Director of Admissions Jim Hummel said the new students will be able to register for fall courses, take an English aptitude test and learn what they want to know about college life. Several brief talks are scheduled by student leaders and the faculty.

The USDA's position of encouraging the development of adequate on-farm storage and drying capacity for today's agricultural commodities.

Parents of the new freshmen also are invited, and several programs are planned for them while the students are busy elsewhere.

Orientation days begin at 9 a.m. in the Fine Arts Center and end with campus tours in mid-afternoon.

The Danes are scheduled to arrive late Saturday at the Sioux City airport; in the following two weeks they will have a variety of lectures and demonstrations on American education, science, psychology, computer use, drug abuse and political science. On Sunday, July 4, the Danes will be guests at Wayne church services.

33 Danes to Invade Wayne Saturday

A group of 33 Danish educators will take a look at Nebraska as guests of Wayne State College June 26-July 11 while 130 Nebraska collegians are spending five weeks in Scandinavia on trip.

The Danes are scheduled to arrive late Saturday at the Sioux City airport; in the following two weeks they will have a variety of lectures and demonstrations on American education, science, psychology, computer use, drug abuse and political science. On Sunday, July 4, the Danes will be guests at Wayne church services.

 Dear Editor:
 Enclosed find a check for one year's subscription to our favorite paper. I wish to put in a suggestion for public restrooms in the city of Wayne. Since the one in the auditorium closed, it's rather unhandy for mothers with children and also some of us oldsters. I know it's a problem to keep up restrooms because so many people are destructive and what have you.
 I have heard a few mothers wishing for this type of facility, too. A few filling stations are fairly close, but a person feels he is intruding unless you are trading at their station. I hope you understand what I mean.
 Name Withheld Upon Request

Editor's Note: Public restrooms were included in the plans for the city complex which was turned down by the voters a few years ago. The subject has been discussed occasionally by city officials but nothing has been done to provide the facilities. The city administrator, Dan Sherry, said there is currently no place to put public restrooms. The city, he said, is open to suggestion.)

It's Your Environment — Keep It Clean

Here's a start—let's see what we can do to improve on it. The contest The Wayne Herald is sponsoring has as its main goal the collection of a huge pile of glass to add to this existing pile which will be recycled.
 Anybody in the area can enter the contest. The winning person—or group—will be presented a $25 cash prize by the newspaper.
 This glass pile is located along the railroad tracks in the southwest part of town. It is the glass collected during the monthly glass drives put on by the Environmental Action Committee.

 The newspaper urges all residents and businessmen in the area to support the glass drive being sponsored by the newspaper and the drives held monthly. We feel the results—reused glass—will benefit everybody for at least two reasons.
 First, it will remove many of the bottles and pieces of glass from the environment.
 Second, it will eventually help lower the cost of products packaged in glass because the manufacturer can depend on some of that glass being returned to be used again.

Good Luck

The Wayne city council may have bitten off more than it can chew when it decided to change the zoning of a strip of land along West Seventh Street.
 The decision, which came on a split vote, has prompted a petition campaign in the area. The petition lists numerous reasons why the signers think the council erred in changing the zoning from residential to business.
 However, it may not even be necessary for the petition to be circulated and presented to the council. Why? Because there is reason to doubt that the proper procedure was followed in advertising that a change in zoning was being considered by the city governing officials.

 If that is true, the vote may be cancelled and the zoning of the area will remain the same as it was prior to the last council meeting.
 We wish luck to those people who are trying to retain the residential zoning for the strip of land. — NLI

A Name Is Needed

What's in a name? Everything. A name builds an image of either a place or product and is therefore extremely important.
 Members of the Wayne Housing Authority are currently sponsoring a contest offering a $25 U. S. Savings Bond as first prize for a name that will identify the local low-income housing project.
 The person who can come up with a winning name will have the bond and the housing project will have a name to properly identify it.
 Those of you talented along the line of originating names might well put that talent to work before the July 1 deadline. Entries in the contest should be submitted to either Mrs. Elden Bull at the Senior Citizen's Center or to Mrs. Elsie Peterskamp of the Wayne Housing Authority. You'll most likely come up with a name to enter by experimenting with a variety of words and sounds. A name should be easy to remember, easy to spell, not lengthy and should present an image of a pleasant nature.

 Business firms and manufacturers spend considerable sums of money to come up with a name that will build the right image of a firm or product. Your talent can perhaps provide a name in this case that will give the housing project a good name at minimum cost.
 Even if it was the same location, would you prefer living at Scenic Acres or Roughroad View, Pleasant Hill or Cluttered Gulch? It's all in a name, but the name is important.
 Why not try your luck naming the housing project—and winning the bond? — MMW

Pollution, Buddy, Is You and Me

With this issue we kick off a public service campaign which is probably unique for The Wayne Herald. The issue marks the start of a glass drive sponsored by the newspaper, the first such attempt by the newspaper to focus attention on environmental pollution.
 The campaign—which offers a $25 cash prize to the individual or group collecting the most glass over the next six weeks—is simply an attempt to live up to our public service responsibility.
 Everybody in the area is eligible to take part in the contest. That includes residents in and around Allen, Carroll, Concord, Dixon, Hoskins, Laurel, Wakefield and Winslow.
 We hope scouting groups and 4-H clubs become involved in the contest because society is going to have to rely heavily upon the enthusiasm of our youth if we ever hope to halt and clear up the pollution occurring daily all around us. If groups or organizations of adults join in, the contest is bound to be a success.

 The glass drive will end the first Monday in August. By that time we hope a considerable amount of glass has been collected. If so, it will make a big contribution toward the Environmental Action Committee's goal of a railroad car of glass by next spring.
 Businessmen and homeowners in the area are urged by the newspaper to help collect glass if they are asked to do so by somebody who has entered the contest.
 Pollution is you and me, buddy, and if we don't do something about it here and now, it won't get done. — NLI

Out of Old

Nebraska

Patrick Egan, Irish-American
 One of the last of Lincoln's downtown business district residences, a box-like two-story frame structure facing north on 1447 Q Street, was razed in 1969. In the 1880's it had been the home of Irish patriot Patrick Egan, Mrs. Egan, and some of their fourteen children, only one of whom was born in the United States.
 Egan (1841-1919), an individualistic Irishman, was a native of Ballymahon (Longford) County, with a background of anti-British revolutionary activity long before he emigrated to Nebraska. Soon after his arrival in Lincoln he was elected president of the Irish National League at its national convention on the basis of his political experience, and in 1884 he transferred his headquarters to Lincoln. In 1896 John Fitzgerald, another Irishman and prominent railway builder living in Lincoln, became his head.
 Even before Egan's arrival in Lincoln, the city was a center to Irish Home Rule activity in the United States. First indication of it was the founding of a chapter of the Irish Land League of America, the president of which had also been Fitzgerald. It found strong support among Irish settlers in Nebraska and included at least one non-Irishman, colorful Civil War General Victor Villhain, who, though a Belgian, had gone to Ireland in 1867 to aid the revolutionaries. He was vice-president of the league. The Rev. M. A. Kennedy, Thomas Carr, and E. P. Cagney were other officers. In 1883 at Philadelphia the Land League merged with Egan's new organization, the Irish National League of America.
 In Ireland Egan took part in the insurrection of 1867 against the Crown. In 1871 founded the Home Rule League, and in 1876 cooperated in organizing the Irish Land League. He had been a confident and co-worker of the famed Charles S. Farnell, with whom he was prosecuted unsuccessfully for conspiracy by England. He "was regarded as if not the ablest at least one of the most important factors" in the Nationalist movement in Ireland, according to Hays and Cox's 1889 History of the City of Lincoln on the shelves of the Nebraska State Historical Society library.
 During Egan's two-year term as head of the League, $350,000 was collected in a nationwide financial campaign and forwarded to the Sinn Fein revolutionists in Ireland. In 1888 the Lincoln chapter contributed $500 to hostessess hardest hit by the Great Nebraska Blizzard.
 In Lincoln he entered the real estate and grain milling fields, the latter having been his business in Dublin. He operated grain elevators at Fairmont, Saroville, and Harvard, Nebraska. Unlike most Irishmen, who were Democrats, he joined the Republicans because he regarded American "free-trade theories as certain to produce the same calamities as British free-trade has brought to Ireland." In 1888 he was a delegate to the national GOP convention which nominated Benjamin Harrison for President. A conspicuous convention figure, he declined the temporary chairmanship in favor of fellow Nebraskan John M. Thurston. After Harrison was inaugurated Egan was appointed

What are you up to, over to or down to this summer? Are you by any chance up to your ears in work, over to coffee and down to business? Our language really gets directional, doesn't it?
 When you call up someone, it usually means you telephoned, but when you call someone down, it usually means a scolding.
 Do you go up town, down town, across town or over to town? New Yorkers may even go under town if traveling by subway.
 O-O-O
 Your lawn needs mowing, but do you feel up to it? Have you ever noticed feeling across or down to mowing the yard? Likely not. Some directions work and some don't.
 Surely there have been times when you have felt like speaking up in a meeting? Did you ever speak down? You may have talked up to someone and bragged about it, but do you like for anyone to try talking down to you?
 O-O-O
 We burn up the roads but buildings may either burn up or down. When you go out driving, do you go up the road, down the road, or both?
 Isn't it directionally strange that you go up to your boss and tell him to put things down in writing rather than going down to your boss and telling him to put things up in writing?
 Bu'nesses may be closed up or down. Rivers have lots of ups and downs because you see that fisherman up the river is coming down where you're catching some goodies and you don't want him up by you or down by you or across from you.
 O-O-O
 If a child prays, "Now I lay me down to sleep," should an astronaut pray, "Now I lay me up to sleep?" You can get up in the morning but may find you're down in the back with a hitch in your get-along.
 Then, of course, there are the many things that are ahead or behind us. The fellow who says his troubles are all behind him is very likely a school bus driver.
 O-O-O
 As one takes a look at the language we attempt to use in expressing our thoughts, it is a wonder—no, a miracle—

by Merlin Wright

that we ever understand each other.
 Most of the time we do such a good job of understanding each other, in spite of the verbal stumbling blocks, that it is as plain as day. What the latter phrase means is your guess. It is a simile but the meaning is vague.
 O-O-O
 What is a simile? A simile is a figure of speech in which one thing is likened to another. There are lots of them floating around the sea of daily conversation. Take a look at some of the following.
 —As quick as a wink. That may or may not be very quick with all of the mini-skirts on the streets these days.
 —As white as a sheet. Perhaps this white made sense years ago but not in this day and age when bed linen departments have sheets of every color on the counter including candy stripes and psychedelic prints.
 —As easy as pie. J. W. would change this to as easy as thawing out a frozen pie—the best pie you ever thaw.
 —As cute as a bug. Well, I sure hope that new baby doesn't look like that little varmint I saw crawling around on a hat just in front of me in church last Sunday!
 —As brown as a berry. Is the gooseberry brown? Strawberries and raspberries aren't brown. Hey out there, does anybody know what kind of berry is brown?
 —As right as rain. Are you kidding? Try telling your family that while emptying the rain water out of the potato salad on your next picnic.
 —As pretty as a picture. What do you suppose that means?
 —As easy as taking candy from a baby. Shame on you!
 O-O-O
 How many more of those goodies can you remember? There are lots of them in use including: as warm as toast, as sure as shootin', as blind as a bat, a memory like an elephant's, as dry as dust, as bright as a new penny, as free as a breeze, and as snug as a bug in a rug.
 What is your favorite expression? Do you have one? Could it possibly be something, "Gee, I'd sure like to own one of those!" Abbreviated by using the first letter of each word, that expression becomes GISLTOOOT which is probably just about what you'd like to say on more than one occasion.
 For instance, the next time you see a beauty of a boat, auto, dune buggy, motorbike or spectacular home, bite your tongue, hold onto your bilfold, and holler GISLTOOOT.
 Who knows, maybe it is a magic word that might help you get it.
 Say, did you get over to Wakefield's 90th anniversary celebration? Hundreds of people took in the big birthday party which appeared to be well organized.
 One thing that was obvious about the big parades on Tuesday and Wednesday nights. That was how well area towns joined in the parade. As one Wakefielder pointed out, it is really great when people from surrounding towns will join in helping a community celebrate an anniversary.

 Well, that spirit of cooperation is what has always made the west a great place to live, isn't it? Maybe you don't think of yourself as living "out west" but that is where you live and if you don't believe it, just ask someone in Chicago. They'll tell you these rolling plains and sprawling hills are definitely "out west" where thousands of cattle are fed and where one can still go deer hunting.
 O-O-O

Believe it or not, there are many people living in eastern cities who, upon seeing your humble abode out here in this cattle country, would be sure to holler GISLTOOOT.
 One reason northeastern Nebraska is a good place to live is that we still haven't forgotten how to take the time to help each other as communities. The days when one community can isolate itself, and feel that it can get along without any of the other towns around it, are gone forever. The auto has made north-east Nebraska just one big community.
 For this reason, J. W. believes Chambers of Commerce, city councils and even county administrators should constantly be searching for ways to develop the entire area by working together.
 What affects Wayne affects Wayne and what affects Wayne affects Wakefield and Laurel. That which affects those towns affects the next town beyond them. And so it goes.
 O-O-O

It appears to be obvious that even as large and universities, not in every town which would be ridiculous, but in one place accessible to an area; likewise areas should work together in seeking modern roads, hospitals, recreational spots, airports, controlling pollution and a myriad other things.
 For instance, if residents of north-east Nebraska would get up on their high horses—whatever that means—and insist the state put in up-to-date highway systems in our area, perhaps we'd get some roads that do not shake the family car apart.
 If you want to hear a big laugh, next time you have company from an area where people are used to driving on good highways, take them for a ride on Highway 35 and call it a "highway." They'll think you've really lost your marbles. And you probably will have due to the rough ride.
 O-O-O
 Meanwhile, back here on the ranch, let's make every effort to unite in making our little spot on the globe one in which it is fun to live. It can only happen through lots of hard work.
 For the time being all we can do is dream of super highways and wish GISLTOOOT.

Wakefield to Have New Water Tower

City councilmen at Wakefield adopted plans for a new 200,000 gallon steel water storage tower two years ago and recently awarded the Pittsburg-Des Moines Steel Company of Des Moines, Ia. a contract for $77,750 to build the structure.

Fred Salmon, councilman, said the new water tower will stand on four 100-foot tubular legs and will have a total height of 130 feet. The tower will be located a half block east of Main Street and about 100 feet north of Third Street.

Salmon said work is expected to get underway yet this year. Plans are to put the new tank into service next spring, he said. The tower is expected to add another 20 pounds of water pressure in the water mains. A decision has not as yet been made regarding color of the tank.

Need arose for a new tank, according to Salmon, since the present storage tank built in 1895 no longer provides enough water pressure in certain parts

Supt. Rickers said that if sufficient monies are not available to pay the full amount of tuition claims, then payment will be made on a prorated basis with final payments being made later.

A law suit regarding the 1970-71 county tax levy for non-resident high school tuition was filed last November against the county board of equalization.

Plaintiffs include Roland Victor, Merlin Reinhardt, L. E. Hugelman, John Heinemann, Robert Thomsen, Bernard Kinney, Leslie Youngmeyer, Bernard Barelain, Julius Baier, Dean Sorenson, Gerald Green, Glen Loberg, Lester Menke, William Hansen, Frederick Mann and Cornelius Leonard.

In their petition plaintiffs asked that $97,641.50 of the 1970-71 non-resident high school tuition levies be held in a special fund without distribution.

County Attorney Don Reed said no funds have been held back as yet and that, "We hope to have a final disposition of the appeal at the judge's next visit to Wayne." Reed referred to Judge George District of Norfolk being in Wayne July 14.

Jordanian AFS Youth Prepares to Fly Home

By Merlin Wright

Looking very much like an American teenager, 17-year-old Abdallah K. Khawaldeh of Jordan visited Monday about his past school year as a member of the Herb Niemann family of rural Carroll and attending Wayne High School as an American Field Service student.

Khawaldeh, dressed in a muscle shirt and blue denim jeans, received his last allowance check from the AFS International that will take him home to Amman, Jordan on July 17.

Family life in the Niemann home will not be quite the same again after Abdallah leaves. Mrs. Niemann said concerning having the AFS student as a son, "It is an experience every family should have—to share one's home with someone else—and you really become as one family."

Six-year-old Shaun, youngest of the four Niemann children, summed up the family's feelings by climbing on Abdallah's lap, giving him a hug and saying, "I love Abdallah—he's my brother."

The Jordanian youth arrived at the Niemann farm, three miles east and one and a half miles south of Carroll, last August and is the fifth AFS student to attend Wayne High School. He is the first such student to have a farm family as host.

Abdallah's parents in Jordan also farm so the youth found himself right at home with the Niemanns and their sons, Monte, a student at Wayne State College; Scott, a senior at Wayne High School, and Shaun.

Visiting about some of his favorite American foods, Abdallah said chicken and salads containing lots of fruit were among his favorites. "I've gained about 15 pounds this year," he said.

When asked what he will remember most about America, he said it will be the nation's youth. The thing about this country that surprised him the most, he said, was the number of problems in America. "Most surprise for me are American problems," he noted, pointing out that before coming here he thought, "No problems in America." Khawaldeh said he is now able to see his own country in a different way and sees problems in Jordan that need correcting.

If he had to do it all over again, would he want to repeat the experience of coming to the United States? "I would like to come back here to school. America is a place where you can have freedom to do what you want to do," said Abdallah. Quickly, he added, "It is most enjoyable year of my life. I would like to come back here to exchange ideas."

Impressions made upon him living here include Americans spend money very fast. He said it appears that people here make a lot of money and also spend a lot due to the high level of the economy.

In Jordan boys and girls attend separate schools until they reach college. Asked what he thinks of co-education in America, Abdallah said he thinks it is a good idea to have boys and girls attend school together as each have different ideas and ways of thinking. School is an opportunity to share those ideas, he said.

The AFS pupil believes that students and teachers in Jordan must work harder, and there is less emphasis on sports in schools there.

Does he have any advice for the new in-coming AFS pupil from Venezuela? He said he would advise getting deeply involved with the American family and having a close association.

After being told that the new AFS student is a girl, Khawaldeh quipped, "It will be very nice for American boys."

Speaking of future plans, Abdallah said he hopes that after finishing his senior year in Jordan next term he will be able to earn a bachelor degree in England and then return to the United States to work on a doctorate in political science. "I don't work for money but for ideas," he said, adding, "An exchange of ideas will settle a lot of problems in the world."

In looking back over the past year, Niemann talked of the family's experiences in having an AFS student in the home. She said, "It is a tremendous geography lesson. Things you thought were a million miles away are actually next door. We've met so many interesting people in AFS, including students from other lands." She concluded, "It is an experience every family should have."
