Rebuilding of Highway 15 To Cost Over $2 Million

by Norvin Hansen

The stretch of highway between Wayne and Laurel will be completely redone at a cost of just over $2 million dollars sometime during the next six years, according to the Nebraska Department of Roads.

Another $1 million will be spent in hard-surfacing Highway 57 from Carroll north to Highway 20 during the same period of time, the DOR reports.

The two major road construction projects are included in a $309 million five-year building program favored by the Department this week.

Work on the 2,310 miles of improvements on the state and federal road system in Nebraska is scheduled to start before the end of fiscal year 1977 (June 30, 1977). However, projects let during a fiscal year may not be completed within that year, since larger projects may take a year or longer to finish, according to State Engineer Thomas D. Doyle.

There are a total of 11 road building projects in Wayne, Dixon and Cedar Counties which are scheduled to start before June 30, 1977.

Making the 14.5 mile stretch of road between Wayne and Laurel more driveable is the most costly project. It will take an estimated $2,090,000 to complete.

The next costliest to do in the tri-county area will be the completion of resurfacing of Highway 81 between Norfolk and Yanika. That project, although only 8.4 miles in length, will cost an estimated $1,730,000.

Expected to cost $1,380,000 is work on Highway 57 for 10 miles north of Laurel.

The second offense involved stealing goods of less than $100 value, property of Wayne Auto Salvage. Hank was charged with the theft in mid-March. He was previously convicted of petit larceny in the Wayne County Court in November 1967.

The youth will be on probation to Herb Hansen of Wayne, chief adult probation officer.

Plenty of Aerial Fireworks Planned

There'll be over an hour of aerial displays during the Wayne County Jaycees' second annual Fourth of July fireworks celebration, according to one of the men helping promote the affair.

Dick Diltman of Wayne said that the display, scheduled for dusk at the Wayne ball park, will include only three grand displays.

"The rest will be all aerial fireworks and will last between an hour and an hour and a half," he said.

The aerial fireworks will include large salutes and large shells which explode into a variety of colored patterns, according to Diltman.

The grand displays will be a welcome, an American flag and a good night.

Grant Will Help Area Alcoholics

Low income residents of Wayne and Cedar Counties are among the people who will be eligible to take part in a program to help alcoholics in northeast Nebraska.

The program will be made possible through the help of a federal grant to a halfway house for alcoholics at Wakefield.

Congressman Charles Thone of Nebraska announced the grant last week. For a two-year period, the $50,000 grant will go to the Goldenrod Community Action Council. The grant will be matched with $21,052 of local funds.

The program has received no previous federal aid.

Fines Awaiting Some Dog Owners

Dog owners in Wayne who haven't had their dogs vaccinated for rabies are running the risk of being fined in court.

Owners of dogs who have not had their dogs vaccinated will be sent official notices by the city to do so as soon as possible because of a state law which requires dogs to receive rabies shots every two years.

Those who fail to comply with the notice can be fined.

The decision to get tough on those dog owners was made during Tuesday night's regular council meeting.

Dan Sherry, city administrator, told the council that numerous dog owners are refusing to have their dogs licensed, something they should have done by May 10th.

Licenses for the dogs cost $1 for males and spayed females, $3 for females. Vaccination for rabies costs about $4.

Sherry said he will start compiling a list of the dog owners so they can be sent notices. Those who get their dogs vaccinated voluntarily will not be fined.

Lindahl's Store Bucking the Trend

Mr. and Mrs. Lindahl work daily in their general store at Allen.

By Jane Owens

"We've got it, can get it or it isn't" that's the pretty well describes Lindahl's store in Allen.

One of the few general stores still in existence, it handles everything from stiff collars and long cotton stockings worn in the 1920's to electric toasters and steam irons. The store even has a famous mirror similar to those used at carnivals and county fairs.

Lindahl's store is actually a hardware, drug, clothing, grocery, appliance and feed store and stocks almost everything that can be found in those stores.

Laurence "Swede" Lindahl of Allen, the store's owner, handles picnic jugs, scrub pails, work boots, Metrecol, toasters, overalls, aspirin, horse harnesses, vinegar, feed and catsup.

When asked about the future of the general store, Lindahl answered, "In five years most of the remaining stores can't help but die out." He noted that local people patronize the bigger, more specialized stores and small businesses can't sell their goods as cheaply.

"When people get their wages, they go to the city to spend it," he said.

No matter how cheaply small stores sell something, they are unable to attract customers who live in larger cities, according to Lindahl.

The Lindahl family has owned the business since 1905. Eight years after it opened, the store was destroyed by fire when a kerosene barrel upset. The store was built again in 1914.

Lindahl and his wife inherited the business from his parents about 25 years ago. "But I start- See LINDAHL'S STORE, page 7

Local Developer Charges Sloppy City Engineering

Criticism of Wayne's engineering firm sparked exchanges between a local housing developer and a representative of that firm during Tuesday night's council meeting.

Voting the criticism was Bob Vahok, developer of the Knolls addition to the west edge of Wayne.

Citing what he called several engineering mistakes in the addition, he asked the council if the city has "put up with this kind of engineering."

He told the council that it should begin checking into the engineering done by the firm before authorizing the work to be done.

The firm which has the contract for the engineering of city construction jobs is Consolidated Engineers, An Omaha business, it has an office in Wayne. It serves several other towns in northeast Nebraska.

Vahok noted several instances of what he called poor See Developer Charges, page 7

Members of the Wayne Saddle Club are inviting the public to the ninth annual horse show set for get underway at 10 a.m. Sunday at the Wayne County Fairgrounds. Rain date is July 11.

Following the open-at-halter competition Sunday morning, the afternoon program will include such things as pole bending, hat races, clover leaf barrels, trail horse class and key hole races.

An hour-long display of colorful fireworks is slated at the ball park in Wayne at dusk Sunday night. The fireworks program is being planned by the Wayne County Jaycees and financed through contributions of local businessmen. The Jaycees kicked off the drive with a $50 donation several weeks ago.

Public is invited to see the giant fireworks exhibit at no charge.

All interested persons are invited to attend the annual potluck picnic at Carroll Sunday noon in Grandfield's Grove three and three-quarter miles west and one mile north of Carroll.

The picnic is sponsored by the Presbyterian and Congregational rural churches near Carroll. An afternoon of games will follow the dinner.

Wakefield has several events on the holiday calendar for Monday. A swimming meet is planned Monday afternoon at the city pool. Wakefield and Wayne Legion teams will play ball under the lights Monday night.

Members of the Wakefield Lions Club are sponsoring an hour-long fireworks display after the ball games.

Employees to Get Vacation

Since there will be no Monday newspaper next week, employees of The Wayne Herald will be able to enjoy the long Fourth of July weekend along with others in the area.

Subscribers to the newspaper will receive this Thursday's newspaper and next Thursday's paper as usual. However, there would be too much difficulty in getting Monday's newspaper mailed and distributed promptly to justify printing it, according to Jim Marsh, general manager of the newspaper. The newspaper offices will not be open Saturday or Monday.

City Councilmen OK Trailer Court Request

Cecil Wriedt's request for a special land use permit in order to expand his trailer court in the east part of Wayne was approved by the council Tuesday night by a 5-1 vote.

The council obeyed the request, the only way trailer courts are permitted to enter the city, after reading of a petition signed by 10 people opposed to letting the trailer court be placed along the north side of East Sixth Street.

Wriedt has plans to put in some more trailers in the 600 block on East Sixth.

Council also heard read a petition signed by 35 people opposed to the city's recent decision to rezone a strip of land along West Seventh Street.

The council's decision to rezone the strip from residential to highway business was voided shortly after it was made when the city learned that it had not followed proper procedure in changing the zoning in the area.

The city had not posted a sign in the area and did not have three-fourths majority approval for the change, both required by law, according to city officials.

The request, made by Gordon Slupe of Wayne, has been sent back to the city planning commission. The planners may consider it in July. If so, it could possibly come back to the council once again in September.

Approved during the meeting were low bids for gas and diesel fuel for the city for the next 12 months.

Merchant Oil's bid of 21.45 cents per gallon for gas and Standard Oil's bid of 11.85 cents per gallon for diesel fuel were the low bids turned in by local firms.

Hired for another year of service during the night was the city's planning commissioner, Richard Wozniak. He will receive $800 for his services, which include attending several planning commission meetings and being available for consultation.

Considerable time was spent by the council on the question of whether to permit septictanks See COUNCILMEN, page 7

Midgets, Legion to Play at Pender Friday

Pender's Midgets and Legion will host Wayne Friday in Ralph Bishop League action. The Wayne Legion team will meet Walthill at Wayne on Monday at 8 p.m. to make up on other towns for Tuesday night. Slated for the same time next Thursday, July 8, will be North Bend-Wayne Legion game at home.

Hank Overlin, manager of the local teams, said he is trying to line up Midget games with other towns for those two nights. The Legion posted a convincing, 10-0 win over Schuyler at Wayne Sunday when Mike Ginn came within inches of posting a no-hitter.

Ginn collected nine strikeouts but gave up a double to the lead-off hitter in the fifth frame to mar his fine performance.

Wayne hung up three runs in the opening frame on singles by Jim Kenny, Breck Gleason and Mike Creighton and a double by Glin, then added one more in the third and six in the bottom of the eighth. The game was called after Schuyler batted in the fifth because of the 10-run rule.

The Legion came up with a bunting squeeze play in extra innings to post a 3-2 victory over Laurel last Friday. Kenny laid down the bunt with one out to drive in Ron Ring, running for Chuck Weible, in the bottom of the eighth frame. Weible got on with a fielder's choice, advanced to second on a passed ball to set the stage for the thriller.

Rod Cook won that game, giving up six hits and striking out 15 batters—including all three in the top of the eighth. Laurel's George Schroeder was credited with the defeat.

In the Midgets' game with Laurel, Randy Nelson struck out an even dozen and held Laurel hitless to collect the victory. Getting hits for Wayne were Chuck Roland with a double and Doug Sturm, Ron Janke and Bob Nelson with singles.

Both local teams dropped their games with Norfolk earlier last week—the Legion by a 10-0 score, the Midgets by a 5-0 mark. Pitcher Mike Ginn and third baseman Dave Langenberg got the only Wayne hits in the Legion contest, both singles. Getting the Midgets' two hits were Roger Saul, losing pitcher, and Gordon Cook, right fielder. Both got singles.

Nebraska Anglers Now Eyeing Catfish

With the passing of spring, Nebraska anglers will have to shift their sights to other species of fish and adopt new tactics in order to be successful, say Game Commission fisheries biologists. Among summertime favorites in Nebraska is the catfish, and the state's many rivers are tailor-made for catfishing. Channel catfish should soon end their spawning activities and congregate in the streams' deeper holes. Here, they find easy living, as the current's eddies and swirls gather a smorgasbord of natural delicacies and serve them up to the cats. The wise catfisherman drops his offerings among those of the river and is usually rewarded with a stringer of tasty fish, say the experts. Channel catfish are also abundant in Nebraska's reservoirs. There, they generally feed in the shallows and mud flats at the upper end of the lake, near the inlets of feeder streams and in the streams themselves. Even many farm ponds offer occasional cats. A few standard baits are good for catfish throughout the state. These include night crawlers, minnows, frogs, crickets, liver, commercial baits and even chicken entrails. However, each locality usually has a favorite bait, and these are often quite unusual. In one part of central Nebraska, for instance, the old-timers swear by a certain brand of old-fashioned bar laundry soap as a sure-fire cat-catcher. No matter what the bait, catfishermen can get by with a minimum of tackle. Usually all that is needed is a rod with a stout line, bait, enough weight to take it to the bottom and keep it there, and the proper hook. Large, single hooks will do the trick most of the time, but anglers using liver or prepared baits will find that a No. 2 or 4 treble hook will hold the bait better. In reservoirs and backwaters, where current is not a factor, less weight should be used. Often, slip sinkers are recommended so the whiskered quarry does not feel any drag as he runs off with the "free" meal. Most of the rules that apply to fishing for channel catfish also go for his cousin, the flathead cat. Also called the yellow or mud catfish, they are found in many waters where channel cats live and can be caught in much the same way.

A- Barclay, M. Duffy Win Golfing Honors

Ann Barclay of Wayne and Mary Duffy of Laurel copped top honors in Tuesday's open golf tournament for women at the Wayne Country Club.

The local golfers defeated all others entered from the Wayne club and was eight strokes ahead of runner-up Tracy Arett after completion of the nine holes of play.

Margaret Meyer of Plainview ended the meet with a 44 to take runner-up honors to the Laurel golfer in the out-of-town bracket. There were about 90 women who turned out for the golfing and cards during the day. The golfers made up six flights.

Flight winners, in low listed first and out of town listed second: First—Lella Maynard, Bonnie McGinnis of Beemer. Second—Jackie Williams and Carolyn Urwiler of Laurel. Third—Vi Rickers and Verlyn Fater of Tilden. Fourth—Mary Godsey and Evelyn Peterson of Hartington. Fifth—Mary Suchan and Ronnie Lindsteadt of Norfolk. Sixth—Shirley Fredrickson and Margaret Meyer of Stanton. Other towns represented at the tourney, which will be held again in two years, were Oakland, Pender, Wakefield, Pender, South Sioux City, Sioux City, Wisner, Scribner and Lincoln.

Winning the chipping prizes were Minnie Rice of Wayne, Jan Johanson of Wayne, Dorothy Wentworth of Laurel, Mary Ann Weeks of Wakefield and Dee Wolslager of Scribner. Taking the other prizes were Jackie Williams of Allen for the longest drive on 15, Marcy Kane of Wisner for the longest drive on 4, Elle McGregor of Hartington for closest to pin on 8, Pat Schaefer of Laurel for closest to pin on 12, and Dee Stoltenberg of Wayne and Norma Elmquist of Oakland for low putts in the action. Bridge winners included Florence Witse, Harriett Wright and Esther Dunklau. Connie Decker won the traveling prize. Door prize winners included Allen Pee Wees, Midgets Get By Newcastle Clubs.

Allen's Pee Wees hiked their season record to 4-2 with a drubbing of their counterparts from Newcastle in a game called after four innings by the 10-run rule. Steve Short led all batters with a perfect night at the plate, including two home runs, one with the sacks full, and one single. Jeff Creamer was the winning pitcher. The Midgets kept their win string intact by nudging Newcastle, 4-3 in nine innings. Allen led 3-0 after five innings, but Newcastle noted the score in the sixth on three walks, one error and two doubles. Fine offensive play by the locals kept Newcastle from crossing the plate the remainder of the way. The winning run crossed the plate in the ninth when Duane Mitchell received a free pass, went to third on a single by Brian Linafelter and scored on a passed ball. Linafelter led the locals both offensively and defensively with four for five at the plate and a fine over the shoulder catch in the sixth to cut short what may have been a big inning for Newcastle. Allen is idle this week and meet Martinsburg next Thursday night, July 8.

Wayne Still Leads Tri-County League

Wayne's 5-1 mark in Tri-County League play is still good enough for the local team to hold down top spot in the loop.

The homeowners lead Orchard and Pierce, tied for second with 5-2 marks after Sunday's games. The rest of the field: Wausa, 4-2, Verdigre, 3-3, Coleridge, 2-4, Laurel, 2-5, Randolph 1-1, and Bloomfield, 1-5.

Sunday saw Wayne dropping its first game of the season, 6-5 to Orchard. Winning that night for the first time this year was Bloomfield, 7-6 victors over Verdigre. Also winning: Wausa, 13-2 over Randolph, and Pierce, 9-6 over Laurel.

Winning on Thursday of last week: Wayne, 11-1 over Randolph; Orchard, 5-3 over Coleridge; Pierce, 2-0 over Bloomfield, and Verdigre, 9-0 over Laurel.

19 Top Finishes Not Enough for Wayne Swimmers

Wayne swimmers pulled down 19 first places but still lost the swimming meet at Elgin Tuesday night, 230 to 206. It was the first meet of the year for the local swimmers. Friday they host Wakefield. Gaining three firsts in the meet was Lesa Barclay—in the freestyle, backstroke and breaststroke.

In addition to operating his store, Lindahl trucked for twenty years as a side line. He once owned seven trucks which operated out of Allen to serve the surrounding area.

Lindhahl's opinion of the modern stores and what they have to offer? "They offer the biggest pilfering and stealing there is," he answered. "They don't care who people are and the owners aren't interested in the community."

Lindhahl has three children of his own. Larry, 17, and John, 19, both live in Allen and work for a feed company. His daughter, Della, 21, works in Pender as a bookkeeper.

Lindhahl is uncertain if his store will continue to stay in his family but thinks that one of his sons might some day take over.

"I don't think our store will go because I've got a good following," he said. "The small town of Allen will be here a long time. You bet 'cha."

Youths Treated For Minor Cuts After Accident

Two Wayne teenagers were treated for minor lacerations at the Wayne Hospital and released early Sunday morning after the car in which they were riding struck a bridge three miles west and slightly less than a half-mile north of Wayne about 1 a.m.

Temper Douglas Rother of Wayne investigated the mishap and said Douglas E. Pihelmen, 19 of Wayne was driving a 1967 Pontiac north on the county road when he lost control and hit the east bridge railing. Terry Meyer, 17 was a passenger.

Rother said the auto took out the last 40 feet of the bridge railing, causing the 80-foot bridge to collapse. The auto came to rest of the north approach to the bridge and received considerable damage.

Coach Tells Kiwanians Of WS Football Lineup

"We're going to have a better ball team this year," DelStollenberg told Wayne Kiwanians Monday noon following a luncheon in the Woman's Club room. Stollenberg, head football coach at Wayne State College, gave the club a preview of the 1971 football lineup at the college.
He said last year was a good one with the Wildcats gaining invaluable experience playing Franklin College in the Mineral Bowl at Excelsior Springs, Mo.
The coach noted several Wildcats lost through graduation include Doug Radtke, a defensive back; Carl Charbar, defensive middle guard; Jan Roberts, offensive end, and Dean Trogg, a tackle. Guards either graduating or using their eligibility are Mike Houghlan, Jack Ferrin and Pat Ivers.

"We've lost three-fourths of the backfield," Stollenberg said, pointing out that it is "going to be difficult to replace Sam Singleton." He said Singleton had rushed 2,000 yards in two years. Others in the backfield who will not be playing since they have used their eligibility, include Jerry Leadtke and Greg Walker.
Stollenberg told Kiwanians that he has high hopes for the forthcoming season. He said that among others making up the Wildcat squad will be Jim Kearney of David City, a player he described as having good potential as a quarterback, Mike Backfield this season will be Bill Volk of Indianopolis playing either as fullback or halfback, and Mel Tarpley of Lincoln as a running back. Linemen will include Ron Coles of Indianopolis and two Omaha men, John Vandembrook

We Have Company

Wayne's population will soon include a total of 65 guests from overseas. Thirty-three Danish educators are presently guests of Wayne State College and will remain here until July 11. Thirty-two American Field Service students on a tour of the United States are expected to arrive in Wayne tonight (Thursday) for a four-day visit.

When they all arrive, Wayne will be hosting guests from Denmark, Switzerland, Chile, Norway, Austria, Netherlands, Guatemala, Italy, Germany, Australia, Paraguay, New Zealand, Argentina, South Africa, England, Spain, France, Costa Rica, Colombia and Ecuador.

Better Safe Than Sorry

Summer campers are being advised by the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission to watch out for people who steal camping gear, picnic food, tents or almost anything else.

Let's make sure these guests from overseas, or an visitor at any time, get the red-carpet treatment and the opportunity to see a lot of rural America.

A True Story

Once there was a community, Xville, which decided that if it was to thrive and grow, it must attract new industry.

The little really prosperous institution in town was the Industrial Development Corporation, presiding over a vacant industrial park and an idle manufacturing plant.

Senators Can't Drag Feet As Yearly Sessions Begin

LINCOLN — The annual sessions format will force state senators to step lively with their interim studies.

Environmental Council Named Gov. J. J. Exon says the 16-member environmental protection council he named last week will hold its first meeting early in July.

There are 18 committees. These are the chairmen: State school aid, Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly; education, Sen. Orval Reves of Papillion; welfare, Sen. Fern Hubbard of Omaha; mental health, Sen. Thomas Kennedy of Newman Grove; drugs, Sen. Eugene T. Mahoney of Omaha; taxation, Sen. J. W. Purbaugh of Crofton.

The first job of the new council will be to screen applicants for director of the agency, which will combine the air and water anti-pollution efforts.

Capital construction, Sen. William F. Swanson of Lincoln; tele-communications, Sen. Robert L. Clark of Sidney; law enforcement, Sen. Roland A. Luedtke of Lincoln; departmental rules and regulations, Sen. Herbert Puls of Gothenburg; retirement systems, Sen. C. W. Holmquist of Oakland, and appropriations, Sen. Richard D. Marvel of Hastings.

The governor says the persons he selected to represent the 16 categories listed in the 1971 law are sincerely interested in preserving the environment. They will move rapidly, but reasonably, he said.

Kokes Considering Congress One legislator has announced he may seek a seat in Congress. Sen. Rudolf Kokes of Ord says he is considering running for the Democratic nomination in the third district if he decides against seeking a third term in the legislature.

Good Morning Feeders & Hi Mom

By Eddie Collins

Today let's reminisce a little on some old-fashioned cross-breeders who mixed blood lines for immediate grass income, not excitements. These cowmen selected individual cows by trial, intuition and error and were advanced a full generation ahead of the college boys.

Today the F-1, F-2 and higher mathematics promotions are producing cows similar to those I watched being culled in Texas with every drought.

I remember individuals like Jim Burroughs as country as Jim Staples and 10 times as philosophical. No college professor I ever met has shown the innate knowledge and common sense that Jim bashfully displayed.

A superior butcher calf, more money in the bank account, but most important a baby calf born on such heavy winter clover on the Colorado River bottom could never finish off even one popping quarter, let alone four. And for that big brother, it was like 30 days of concentrated finish.

On cows bearing babies on such bottom clover, most baby calves were unable to mouth the sore, inflated teats. Good cows would end up with broken down bags, ruined quarters.

These were solid cowmen, not convention attenders. They made a solid living because butcher calves sold at a premium in an area that had slaughtered calves since Sam Houston.

In no way were these calves suitable as replacement feeders. These perfect 900 to 1,000-pound, creep-fed slaughtered calves if sent to a feedlot became an 800-pound misfit in 30 days.

Meantime, the same basic blood lines along the Gulf Coast—125 miles downstream—we're raising 250 to 350-pound teena, nervous California or Arizona bound feeders. These calves, raised on either prairie or salt grass, in five months would suckle the cow down 100 to 200 pounds.

(A rule of thumb—half the weight in cow loss that the calf gained. A Montana cow will gain half the calves gain.)

Seldom facing a nipple larger than a milking Swede's small finger, that calf at birth neither needed or wanted competition.

Reverse the pasture on those cattle and the Colorado River Bottom cows would perish on the salt grass.

The salt grass cow would develop with a second growth, but her first three or four calves raised would never be penned by an ordinary cowman. In fact, to hear them crashing through the brush might be an achievement.

The Moore Brothers raised off straight pasture the finest 450-pound butcher calves I have ever seen. Chicago prime but a Mighty Mouse proportion. They used technique and inventiveness 10 years in advance of nearby Texas A & M or any other college.

Unfortunately, these expert cowmen could not explain their theories or practices, nor share their common sense. They would have said: "Raise what your area must produce and can sell best."

Surprisingly, neighbors of the people I mentioned never could begin to duplicate these masterful operations.

A butcher calf in Houston and Dallas is accepted like caviar in Moscow, but that same 550 to 600-pound near veal in Texas produces Grade AA eggs. They did not believe that all calves should be weaned in six to nine months. Some were, but I've seen many a thousand-pound suckling yearling calf sharing at least one nozzle with a wobbly 70-pound brother. And this for several reasons.

These were solid cowmen, not convention attenders. They made a solid living because butcher calves sold at a premium in an area that had slaughtered calves since Sam Houston.

In no way were these calves suitable as replacement feeders. These perfect 900 to 1,000-pound, creep-fed slaughtered calves if sent to a feedlot became an 800-pound misfit in 30 days.

ture will not be accepted in New York City, Boston or Washington. Beef with a beef taste is still the desired Eastern product.

The overall future in beef must not be measured in protein value—an unfavorable comparison of $8 a pound to 15¢ of soybean—nor in the lean beef as advocated for housewives, but in taste, uniformity and quality.

We must develop a superior beef taste animal. We must be in a position to promote a superior product, then promote a superior product, then promote for each area as to their individual whims.

While attending Georgetown University and selling hotel supply cuts, I've watched the great French chefs as they cooked. Explosive by nature, they showed great patience in tasting. They spiced by small shakes or by pinches, not by backing up a gravel truck and dumping.

Farm Mom, gentlemen, do not shovel in your spices. Taste a little as you go along. Please. Go easy on the sire selection.

We're Doing Something

Mark Twain once said, "Every-one talks about the weather but no one does anything about it."

Such is not the case in the Department of Horticulture and Forestry where efforts of weather on Nebraska's agriculture are receiving major emphasis.

For example, six 36-acre fields at the Agricultural Field Laboratory at Mead have been planted with trees, each in a tie-tac arrangement to study effects of windbreaks on crops. This 216-acre experiment is the largest single experimental tree windbreak study in the U.S. if not the world.

Wind studies are also important in the U.S.S.R., which has large areas with climate like Nebraska. We don't know too much about their work, however.

Also at Mead is the most sophisticated agricultural weather station in the Great Plains and one of the best stations of its kind in the U.S.

Literally thousands of complex measurements of the plant's environment are automatically recorded each week during the growing seasons. These instruments communicate with a computer that not only does arithmetic but makes graphs of results of different experiments with factors changing the crop's weather.

We are also helping in a study of accounting of the state's primary natural resources—water in the Platte Valley. These studies by Professors Rosenbergs, Bailey and Blad aimed at growing more crop with less water are directly or indirectly important to all Nebraskians.

Results of experiments involving mulches and plant protection to obtain earlier melons, tomatoes, cucumbers and other vegetables to be reported later will be of interest to home gardeners.

The following tips may be useful to gardeners during June. Grapes, red bud, tomatoes and box elder trees are particularly sensitive to drift injury from 2-4-d. The appearance of abnormally crinkled cup-shaped leaves on twisted stems is a symptom that you or someone in your area has been careless.

Annual plants with white or light colored flowers provide beauty for the garden or patio at night as well as during the day.

Nebraska's rainfall is usually not sufficient for newly planted trees. Water to make up the difference during periods receiving less than two inches in 10 days.

4-H Club News

—Wednesday Workers 4-H—

Wednesday Workers 4-H Club met June 22 in the Arnold Garrison home. A cooking demonstration was given by Sandy Carson and Nancy Taylor who made tuna fish sandwiches which were served for lunch.

Sewing projects were discussed and Nancy and Sandy gave a demonstration on threading a needle. A special meeting for those who are taking sewing will be held July 7 at 3:15 at the home of Julie Mavis. Club members not taking sewing may attend if they wish.

Lorraine Woodward, news reporter.

—Modern Misses 4-H—

Modern Misses 4-H Club met June 15 in the home of Dawn Carstens. Ten members, two leaders and two guests, Tammy Dohren and Linda Woodward were present. Roll call was answered with comments on the roadside picnic June 8. Nine people had participated in the event.

A demonstration on setting the table was given by Dawn. Members are to work on projects for the fair.

Next meeting will be in the home of Julie Hagemann June 29 at 1:30 p.m. to decide on songs for the music contest July 29. Gail Greco, news reporter.

Hosing down jumpers and other evergreen plants with a strong jet of water during hot dry weather discourages spider mites.

Two to four pounds of complete fertilizer for each inch diameter of trunk at breast height is a safe application for trees. (Example 20-40 pounds for 10 inch trees). Use only 1/2 dosage for evergreen or trees less than six-inch diameter.

Broadcast or apply in holes two feet apart or 18 inches apart in a circular area beginning at the drip line of outside branches but not within 1 1/2 distance this distance to the trunk. To avoid winter injury do not fertilize trees between July 1 and Nov. 15.

Cut Cuts Early

Cut outs in the boot stage if you plan to make out silage. Let the oats wilt in the field after cutting because the plants contain considerable moisture at this stage of maturity. Start chopping and filling the silo when the moisture content of the forage drops to about 50 to 60 per cent. Chop oats as short as possible and distribute the silage evenly during filling.
