

County Spending Is Up $200,000

Taxpayers in Wayne County will once again be asked to go deeper into their pockets to finance county government during the fiscal year which started July 1 and ends June 30, 1972.

Floyd Burt, Joe Wilton and Ken Eddle, county commissioners, have proposed an estimated budget of $981,635 for the current year—$279,377 above the actual expenses last year.

The proposed $981,635 combined with a necessary cash reserve fund of $233,463 amounts to a grand total of $1,215,118.

The 1971-72 budget will require raising through taxation about $441,593, approximately $41,155 more than was raised last year.

A public hearing has been set at 10 a.m. Aug. 10 in the Wayne County courthouse for the purpose of entering objections, suggestions or corrections to the proposed budget.

The proposed budget will require a levy of 11.78 mills based on a tentative valuation of $37,332,720. The latter figure represents an increase of $24,275 in valuation over that of a year ago.

The levy is 2.22 higher than last year's.

Actual general fund expenditures last year totaled $222,673. The new general fund budget will require $277,629.

Of the proposed 11.78 mill levy, 4.50 mills will be needed to raise the $169,568 for the general fund.

Bridge and road expenditures last year amounted to $377,851. The new budget calls for $597,400. Total to be raised for taxation for the road and bridge fund amounts to $157,924. A proposed 4.23 mill levy is expected to raise that amount.

County relief expenses last year were $33,718. A total budget of $38,260 is proposed this year, requiring a levy of .77 mill.

A levy of .82 mill is proposed to raise $30,472 for state institutions. Actual expenses last year were $21,651.

While county fair costs amount to $18,539 in 1970, the new budget calls for $22,385 amount requiring a .60 mill levy.

The Nodous Wood Control budget asks for a total of $29,915 to be raised with a .61 mill levy. The board's spending last year amounted to $22,768.

There is a cash balance of $399,144 in the Wayne County Improvement fund with expenses last year totaling $4,025. A .25 mill levy is proposed to raise an additional $9,333 by taxation.

A breakdown of the budget is included in a legal notice in this issue of The Wayne Herald.

Nearly 300 people in the Nebraska Polled Hereford Trail Drive, which started early Friday near Omaha, ended the day at Herevale Farms operated by Leland Harman northeast of Wayne. Guests were given a western style "by the boot" to observe 100 cows and their calves in the pasture. Visitors from northeast Nebraska, Iowa, Oklahoma and Kansas were then treated to roasting ears, Hereford burgers and beans while listening to music by the Hungry Five of Wayne. Trail drive guests spent the day Saturday at the Lori-Lee farm south of Wakefield with Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Sivers as hosts.

Youth Accepted for Chicago U Program

James Stevenson of Wayne will enroll in the undergraduate college of The University of Chicago this fall under the school's Small Talent Search Program.

The program, now entering its 12th year, is designed to encourage gifted students from small high schools, usually in smaller rural communities, to enroll at the University.

A 1971 graduate of Wayne High School, Stevenson is the second youth from Wayne to be accepted in the program. Leah Havener, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Havener of Carroll, was accepted under the program last year. Stevenson, salutatorian of his high school graduating class, is the son of Dr. and Mrs. T. H. Stevenson of Wayne. He recently received a scholarship worth $2,195 to attend the Chicago school this fall. He plans to study astrophysics.

The school provides financial assistance for each student based on need. The average financial aid for students enrolled under the program in 1971 will be $1,940. A year's undergraduate tuition (three academic quarters) at the University is $2,475. Approximately seven and a half per cent of the 2,200 students enrolled in the University's College are in the Small School Talent Search Program. Total enrollment is about 7,500.

A total of 33 freshmen will enroll under the program this fall. They come from 17 different states and Canada.

In recent years, students enrolled under the program have made notable contributions to the University. One was named a Rhodes Scholar, a large number have gone on to graduate study and 29 have been appointed to the University's Maroon Key Honor Society, which has a limited membership.

Jackpot Now at $250

A jackpot of $200 would have belonged to Raymond E. Kling of Wayne Thursday night had he been present in a participating business firm for the 6 p.m. weekly drawing.

Kling was not present to claim the money as the jackpot will be worth $250 this Thursday night.

Any area resident may become eligible for the drawing by registering in a participating Wayne business firm and being present at 8 p.m. on Thursday when the winning name is announced.

Trail Drivers Relax

Area residents wishing to join the "Walking Blood Bank" at the Wayne Hospital can find a form to fill out on page three of this issue of The Wayne Herald.

Numerous people are needed so their names can be added to that list, called such because people only donate blood when their specific type is needed.

Groups such as women's organizations or Lions Clubs are encouraged to sign up for the list. That way, a nurse can come to their regular meeting and take blood samples from all the people at once, saving considerable time for everybody.

The local Kiwanis Club is sponsoring this drive to enroll more people as "walking blood donors." Helping with the project are the Mrs. Jaycees.

The form can be filled out in your spare time and then taken to the booth at the Wayne County Fair this week. Manning the booth will be members of the local Kiwanis Club and Mrs. Jaycees. They will be able to answer any questions you may have about the program.

4-H Dress Revue Winners Named

Named dress revue champion of Wayne County at the annual revue Thursday evening at the Wayne city auditorium was Carol Spitzgerber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Spitzgerber of rural Wisner.

Reserve champion is Sandra Ekberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ekberg of rural Wayne.

The girls are now eligible for state competition which will be held at the State Fair in Lincoln. In the event they cannot attend, their alternates, Karla Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mable Miller of Madison, and LeAnn Owens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Owens of Carroll, can take their place.

About 250 attended the Thursday affair, with 115 4-H club members from approximately 12 clubs competing. The garments they had made for the competition had been judged a day earlier, but winners were not announced until the show Thursday.

Narrators for the evening were Carol Spitzgerber, the champion; Linda Baker, Mandy Anderson and Inace Kolesch.

Purple ribbon winners in the dress revue were Lisa Magnuson, Gloria Spitzgerber, Rita Weller, Sandra Bowers, Judy Janie, Beth Ostendorf, Diane Puls, Susan Rethwelech, Peggy Bowers, Sheryl Peterson, Sandra Ekberg, Jean Mann, Patty Mann, Joan Tietgen, Janet Hansen, Linda Holgrew, Vickie Holtgrew, Karla Miller, LeAnn Owens, Carol Spitzgerber, Ann Trullinger and Pat Dangberg.

Senior Citizens Take Over Lead In Glass Drive

By late Friday with only three days remaining, the Senior Citizens Center of Wayne was leading the race in The Wayne Herald's glass drive. Total glass collected by all groups in the drive amounted to 23,803 pounds.

Senior citizens had collected 7,004 pounds of the total, more than double the 3,810 pounds collected by the second-ranked Sunday school group from Wakefield's Salem Lutheran Church.

In third place was Carroll's 4-H Club of Carroll with 3,088 pounds of glass.

Deadline for bringing glass in to be weighed is 5 p.m. today (Monday).

Because the glass will be shipped off for recycling, it should have paper and metal removed. See GLASS DRIVE, page 8.

Youths to Get Spotlight At Wayne County Fair

There will be a lot of everything for everybody at the 1971 Wayne County Fair as it gets underway Thursday, but the central spotlight will be on the county's youths, their talents, work and awards.

Besides the many youths that will have horses and dairy cattle entered in the judging competition Thursday, there will be 13 home economics clubs displaying exhibits in the 4-H building.

Carol Ingalls, agricultural agent, said Friday that the method of exhibiting in the 4-H building is being changed this year. Formerly, similar items—such as cookies and clothes—from each club were grouped together for judging. This year each club will have its own display area to exhibit its own projects, Ingalls said.

The school exhibit building there will be 12 booths filled with approximately 400 posters and 150 other miscellaneous articles of handicraft made by students in the county's 25 rural schools and three town schools—Wayne, Winside and St. Mary's School in Wayne.

The School display items were judged Thursday in the county superintendent's office at the courthouse. Judges rated the items as excellent, superior or

Pender-Firm Is Low In Bidding at Dixon

Bids were opened Friday on the construction of Dixon's sanitary sewer system.

Low bidder (Christiansen Construction Co., Pender, submitted a $57,837.25 bid—about $640 more than the engineer's estimate of $57,000.

Other firms submitting bids were the Hammer Co. of South Sioux City, $61,741.25, and the Gerholt Co. of Columbus $63,998.40.

According to John Young, chairman of Dixon's village board, Pender is the lowest bidder. See LOW BID, page 8.

No One Injured In Auto Mishap

Five people escaped injury in an accident involving a car and truck around 11:30 a.m. Wednesday approximately five miles east of Wayne on Highway 35.

Mrs. Charlotte Baade of Wakefield was eastbound in a 1961 Chevrolet with three passengers, Colleen and Susan Baade and Kathy Tullberg.

A westbound truck driven by Donald R. Harshbarger Sr. of Omaha reportedly went over the center line while approaching the Baade auto. The Wayne County Board of Supervisors is investigating the accident. See MISHAP, page 8.

2 Local Teams Ousted From Area Tournament

Wayne's Migdets and Lexington got ousted from the area baseball tournaments—a protest ruling and not by whippings from other teams.

The two teams were forced out of the tourney before Friday's game when the Nebraska American Legion athletic committee ruled that several players were ineligible because their birth certificates failed to meet regulations.

The ruling came as a bitter blow to the Migdets, winners over Gretna in Thursday's opening round of the single-elimination tournament at Pender. The local club was scheduled to take on Dodge, upset winners over West Point in the other opening game, on Saturday night in the tourney finals to decide who could represent this area in the state meet at Aurora.

And it was probably especially bitter to one of those Migdets—Gayland Woodward. Wayne's big first baseman, he posted a grand slam home run in the bottom of the sixth to break a 3-3 tie with Gretna Thursday night and give the club its 7-3 first round win.

Wayne played the game against Gretna under protest after See LOCAL TEAMS, page 12.

Brandstetter Sings In University Opera

John Brandstetter, a senior at the University of Nebraska, played a leading role in a cast of 30 presenting the opera "Lost fan tute" Wednesday through Saturday at the Kimball Recital Hall in Lincoln.

Brandstetter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Brandstetter of Wayne, played the part of an old bachelor named Don Alfonso in the two-act comedy.

The Mozart production was presented by the opera department of the university. Brandstetter, a baritone, has had several singing roles in previous presentations of the department.

He recently served as musical director for the production of "Cops and Dolls" produced by the Lincoln Recreation Department.

Youth Wins State Tractor Driving Contest

A Wayne County 4-H'er won first place in the state 4-H Tractor Operators Contest held at Mead Thursday in conjunction with the 20th annual University of Nebraska Tractor Power and Safety Day.

Allen Finn, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Finn of Carroll, took top honors in a field of 18 county tractor driving champions. Second place winner overall was Dennis Stumpe of Hooper.

Finn will represent Nebraska at the Western United States 4-H Tractor Operators Contest in Phoenix on Oct. 31 to Nov. 2. If he cannot participate, Stumpe will be eligible to compete as alternate.

The contestants competed in four divisions: written (50 questions on tractor safety), driving with a two-wheel trailer, driving with a four-wheel trailer and practical.

In the practical division, contestants were required to check a tractor for routine maintenance. See YOUTH WINS, page 8.

Sioux City Children Visiting in Winside

Three Winside families have increased in number while participating in the Sioux Lutheran Share-In sponsored by the Sioux-Lutheran Men of Sioux City. Four youngsters from Sioux City are spending two weeks with the Winside families as a part of a program to get children in the city to share and observe life in the rural areas.

Sioux City guests include Joe Malcolm, 11, and Greg Loopp, 12, in the Gurney Hansen home; Paul Lanzowzids, 10, in the Clarence Peltzer home, and Robert Loopp, 10, in the Orville Lago home.

Allen Finn proudly displays the plaque he won in the state tractor-driving contest.

Two Winside Girls Attend Drug Clinic

Debbie Dahl and Jean Welbe, both of Winside, represented Winside High School at a youth workshop on drugs held in Lincoln July 23-25.

Nearly 200 youths from throughout the state attended the sessions held in the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education on the east campus of Nebraska University.

Program personnel included John Luce, director of the Flight-Ashbury Drug Clinic in San Francisco; Dr. Lee Smith, director of the Kearney Community Action Underway; Dr. Donald Parkison, director of Omaha's free drug clinic called Equilibrium; and Gov. J. J. Exon.

Several ex-drug addicts also appeared on the program and related their experiences.

Australia Is Next Stop For Wayne High Grad

Headed for a teaching job in Australia—that's the prospect for one Wayne State senior who will graduate Wednesday.

Pearl Hansen, a 1968 graduate of Wayne High and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hansen of rural Randolph, is the excited miss who will fly August 12 to Brisbane.

There she will have a reunion with Margot McKay, who spent the 1967-68 school year at Wayne High as an American Field Service student. The two were close friends, and Margot told Pearl she certainly should come to Australia some time.

Miss Hansen is about three months ago she wrote Pearl about teaching prospects in Brisbane. There was a shortage of teachers, See WHS GRAD, page 8.

Six Persons Appear Before County Judge

Six people from six towns were arraigned in Wayne County before Judge Luverna Hilton Wednesday through Friday.

Paying $6 court costs and fines for speeding were Jo Ann Stoltenberg, Carroll, $10; Robert L. Anderson, Pierce, $10; and Forrest Hansen, Wisner, $13.

Robert Svechna, Wayne, was fined $10 and costs of $6 for a parking violation.

Nicholas F. Klumborg, Laurel, was charged with making an improper turn and fined $10, plus $6 costs.

Neva Taylor, Allen, was fined $10 and $8.50 costs for leaving an insufficient fund check.

Stephanie Mendyk In Honor Band

A Wayne High School music student, Stephanie Mendyk, has been selected to participate in the Nebraska High School Honor Band as an obolist during the annual national convention of the American School Band Directors Association which will be held Thursday at the Conrad-Hilton Hotel in Omaha this week.

Students in the band were selected on the basis of musicianship and through audition. Only students of ASBDA members are eligible for the band.

Membership in the ASBDA is limited to band directors who have taught at least seven years and who have had successful, community-supported band programs.

Miss Mendyk is sponsored by Dr. Lee Mendyk of Wayne State College, who was elected to membership in 1967 while teaching music at Aurora. Stephanie, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Leo Mendyk, will be a sophomore at Wayne High in the fall.

The Nebraska honor band will present two concerts at the Conrad-Hilton on Wednesday and Thursday nights.

No Better Place?

The city council of Wayne is still considering the possibility of building tennis courts somewhere in the city. The subject was discussed again at last week's council meeting.

play the sport? They will have to ride or walk several blocks, some of them over a mile, to use the city courts.

There should be some more centrally located area available on which to build the courts. Even putting them at Bressler Park would make them more accessible to a greater number of people.

Because some people would like the city to build the courts and because a plot of land is available next to the swimming pool doesn't necessarily mean that the courts should be built there. —NLH.

It's County Fair Time

The 1971 version of the Wayne County Fair is slated to get underway Thursday and every effort has been made to make the program, scheduling, judging, shows and farm equipment displays better than ever.

Residents of Wayne County have had the opportunity of going to their own county fair for a good many years. As the years went by the fair increased in size and more buildings and improvements were added until the fairground became what it is today.

All work and no play, and all play and no work are extremes. How about mixing a little of both together and plan on including this year's fair into your schedule?

Many plans and a lot of work have gone into producing what is hoped will be the best of all fairs yet. The only thing left now is getting everyone onto the grounds to have the kind of good time that has made county fairs famous. —MMW.

It's No Easy Task, Bud

Although the city budget for the coming year was up for approval, not one private citizen appeared at the Wayne city council meeting last week.

concrete. Yet, there was nobody there to compliment them on that accomplishment. Had they been considering a budget which would have required a somewhat larger increase in the mill levy, however, you can bet they would have had a "audience."

Since no one else seems willing to do so, we'll offer our compliments for coming up with a budget which everyone can probably live with comfortably. —NLH.

Wakefield Does It Again

Few communities having an approximate population of 1,200 residents have likely been the source for as many success stories as has our neighboring town of Wakefield.

voted to build a swimming pool in the city park. It too continues operating successfully today.

More recently the Wakefield community saw fit to build a new elementary school building.

Last March Wakefield launched a financial campaign hoping to collect enough funds to purchase a rescue unit to be used in emergency situations.

Our editorial hat comes off in a salute to the evident enthusiasm in Wakefield for setting goals and then — with the majority working together — reaching them. Yes sir, Wakefield, you've done it again. Congratulations. —MMW.

Cartoon titled 'Herkimer' showing a man in a suit. Text: 'The city council ought to have the fun of helping me find a place to park my car.'

Advertisement for 'JUST WRIGHT' by Merlin Wright. Includes an illustration of a person sitting in a chair.

Just what do you do with all of your sit down time (SDT)? By sit down time mean the time you are seated some place doing something. For instance, a part of your sit down time is likely spent at the kitchen table eating three square meals each day. How else do you spend your SDT?

Just think of how many miles those three astronauts have covered during their SDT. They really do have room to stand up in the space ships; but one thing is for sure, they must remain seated during blast off and landings. Would you trade your old rocking chair for a trip like they are taking?

Somebody told I. W. the other day that he'd have to have a drink called the Old Factory Whistle before they'd ever get him into outer space. He went ahead to explain that the drink is one where you have one blast and you're through for the day.

Most of us do spend a considerable amount of our SDT in a church pew and therefore should have some very definite ideas as to things we appreciate in the man filling the pulpit, right?

One person said his minister was easy to listen to and another thought of the minister as a source of help. Did you spend an hour of your SDT in church Sunday? Do you remember what the sermon was about? Did you learn something during your sit down time that you can put into practice during your stand up time in the business world?

No doubt some of your SDT is spent in front of the electronic tube? As you know there are plenty of commercials on television; however, we happen to be one of those who think there aren't enough commercials.

After spending some SDT watching whatever else television offers, we have decided we'd much rather watch commercials. There is a problem, however. Every time we tune in on a good commercial, it is usually interrupted by a program. It was just the other evening when we were watching a delightful scene on the tube. You see there is this one girl and then there is this other girl. That alone is enough — a play isn't it? There was a young fellow with them and they work all in a swimming pool when the lad mistakenly flirted with his girl's mother instead of his girl! Gosh, isn't that exciting! We nearly crashed the popcorn pan due to the enthusiasm that middle aged gal had when she was mistaken for her daughter.

You know, middle age is that difficult period between juvenile delinquency and senior citizenship when you have to take care of yourself and this gal was doing just that at the time the whole thing was interrupted by a ball game.

Then there are those wonderful toothpaste commercials. You've seen them, haven't you, where they tell how half of the school used a certain brand of toothpaste and half of the school didn't?

The half that used the special toothpaste had fewer cavities, but they never show the half that just went on plugging away with some old brand "X". I. W. would like to know how the kids with all the cavities felt about being given the wrong toothpaste.

Do you suppose the kids with fewer cavities had some of their teeth knocked out by the kids who had to go to the dentist?

But you can always count on it that

Just as the commercial really gets going and suspense fills the air, somebody like Dan August or Dr. Marcus Welby, M. D. comes on and spoils the whole thing.

O—O—O

Maybe you spend some of your SDT watching deodorant advertisements on the tube? Just the other night there was this girl complaining because no one ever took her out on a date. Her friend intimately whispered the name of a deodorant in her ear, and sure enough, in the very next scene the gal is dancing at a prom with her favorite beau.

Do you suppose that guy will ask her to marry him? Will he ask her the name of her deodorant? Will he ask her for another date if she runs out of the deodorant? Golly, the suspense is enough to cause one to use the entire bottle of aspirin advertised next. But before you get into the exciting story about the aspirin you have to put up with the interruption of another movie of the week—or is it the movie of the week?

O—O—O

Walt Moseley stopped by the office the other day and gave us the yellowed remains of a tattered copy of The Wayne Herald printed Jan. 20, 1898. He said the paper was found in the wall of a house currently being dismantled.

The 73-year-old paper is real interesting to read and cause for a chuckle or two.

Among articles on the front page is a lengthy letter to the community from a public official pointing out the great need for a courthouse. That was not the only issue being kicked around on the front page, however. It seems the hottest issue of the day concerned which one of three newspapers—two in Wayne and one in Winfield—was giving the county the best price for printing legal material. Evidently there were few laws for libel as the front-page name calling got rather thick and heavy.

With no radio or television and without an automobile to run around in, it is our guess that more than one reader back then thoroughly enjoyed the newspapers feeding back and forth over issues. The hometown newspaper at that time was the central source of gossip and entertainment.

The 1898 paper advertised coffee at 12 pounds for $1. Regional news items were written in paragraph form in long columns on the front page. Evidently no one entered or left Wayne without it appearing in the paper.

One item even noted a mail clerk missing a train. Readers were warned of counterfeit half dollars being circulated. Another news item said, "The Juvenile Band played a few pieces of music on the street Saturday afternoon showing marked improvement."

A minstrel show was scheduled to perform in the local opera house. Admission prices were 15, 25 and 35 cents.

J. W. chuckled at one ad which noted: "It is easy to catch a cold and just as easy to get rid of it if you commence early to use One Minute Cough Cure. It cures coughs, colds, bronchitis, pneumonia and all throat and lung troubles. It is pleasant to take, safe to use and sure to cure." Evidently there were home remedies and shelf medicines that would cure just about anything except the urge to stretch the truth.

Furled among other news items was this comment by the editor: "Electric lights, a courthouse, and a beet sugar factory are the things that Wayne's businessmen should plan to secure. Procrastination may be the cause of permitting some other Northeast Nebraska town to forge ahead of Wayne."

Here we are in 1971 able to sit in the living room and watch men journey to and walk on the moon. It makes us wonder what the world will be like when another editor 73 years from now picks up this issue of the Wayne Herald to smile as he reads. If someone had the ability to tell us, we likely wouldn't or couldn't believe what people will be doing in the year 2141.

Be sure to lay aside all your cares and chores now and attend at least a portion of the Wayne County Fair later on this week. You've been working hard and deserve to take a day or two off to visit with old friends and enjoy all the displays. See you at the fair.

Yard & Garden Tips . . .

1. Will 2,4-D control bindweed in the lawn?

A. Yes, 2,4-D will control the bindweed, but only if much persistence is used and if proper application rules are followed. A good top growth is needed on the plant before the chemical is applied. It is best not to mow two weeks before and after application. Fall is the most favorable time to apply 2,4-D. It will usually take two to three years of annual applications to realize a good control of bindweed.

John D. Barrs Home From Wedding Trip

Making their home at 635 South 49th Street, Lincoln, are the John David Barrs, who were married July 10 in 2 p.m. rites at the Lincoln St. Paul's United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Barr, nee Deloris Jean Bull, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon C. Bull, Wayne. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. John F. Barr, also of Wayne.

The Rev. Clarence Forsberg of Lincoln officiated at the double ring ceremony and Owen and Carolyn Channer, Lincoln, sang, accompanied by Mr. Furr.

For her wedding the bride chose an empire styled, floor-length gown of white tulle over taffeta, fashioned with powder puff sleeves and worn with a lace edged, floor-length veil which was caught to a cluster of white mums. She carried yellow roses with a white Bible, a gift from the bridegroom.

The bride was attended by Marilyn Stokes of Wayne; Mrs. Steve Meyer of Norfolk and Mrs. Roy Rogers of Lincoln, who were identically gowned in floor-length fashions of mint green taffeta, styled with puffed sleeves. They wore yellow veils and carried single yellow roses.

Candles were lighted by Cleo and Martha Stokes, and flower-girl was Kristin Bull, all of Wayne. Ringbearer was Dennis Greening, Lincoln.

Robert Barr, Wayne, was best man and groomsmen were Ed Bull, also of Wayne, and Dennis Greening and Roy Rogers, Lincoln. Ushers were David Stevers, Dean Stevers and Randy Gathie, Wayne. Gift bearers were Rick and Donald Stokes, Wayne.

Mrs. Larry Porter, Lincoln, acted as hostess and guests and Juanita Shepard and Linda Lindner, Lincoln, acted as escorts for the ceremony which was held at the church parlors following the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Bull, Fairbury, Ill., served as hosts.

Mrs. Waldron Bull and Mrs. Howard Stokes, both of Wayne, cut and served the cake and Mrs. John Gathie, Wayne, poured. Mrs. La Frank Moore, Turlock, Calif., served punch. Cindy, Sandy and Judy Bull were waitresses.

The bride, a 1968 graduate of Wayne High School and a 1969 graduate of the Lincoln School of Commerce, is employed by the Social Security Administration in Lincoln. The bridegroom served in the U. S. Army and is employed in a Lincoln dry cleaning plant.

Making Plans for August Wedding

The Rev. and Mrs. S. K. de Freese, Wayne, announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Mary Beth de Freese, to Robert Glenn Teeter, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Teeter, Wayne, on Aug. 17, at Redeemer Lutheran Church, Wayne.

Mrs. de Freese and her fiancé, both 1970 graduates of Wayne High School, attended Wayne State college last year and will study at Arkansas University, Fayetteville, Ark., this fall, where he has been accepted to the Veterinary School.

R. Hammers Wed July 18 in Wayne

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Hammer, upon return from their wedding trip to Western Nebraska, Colorado and Wyoming, will make their home at 109 1/2 West 2nd St., Wayne.

The couple were married July 18 in 4 p.m. rites at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Wayne. The Rev. Donaver Peterson, Wayne, officiated at the 4 p.m. rites. Mrs. Curt Brudigan was vocal soloist and Corrine Hollmann, Leigh, was organist.

Mrs. Hammer, nee Lynette McDonald, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin McDonald, Laurel. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Willard Hammer, Wayne.

Maid of honor was Marlyce Smith, Laurel, and best man was Lee Brudigan, Pender. LaVerle McDonald, Laurel, and Curt Brudigan, Wayne, ushered.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride appeared in a toe-length gown of chiffon over taffeta, fashioned with high collar, Venice lace overlay bodice accented with satin bow at the empire waistline and long, sheer sleeves gathered at the wrists. Her bouffant hairstyle was caught to a pearl headpiece and she carried white daisies and yellow sweetest roses. Her attendant's gown, also in toe-length, was of yellow chiffon over taffeta, styled similarly to the bride's, and she carried yellow and white daisies and Stephanotis.

Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Reynolds, Laurel, served as hosts to the reception for 100 guests held afterward at the church parlors. Connie Hammer, Wayne, registered guests and Judy and Janice Hammer arranged gifts.

Mrs. Lon McDonald, Wayne, cut and served the cake which was baked by Mrs. Freda Swanson, Laurel. Sharon Hammer, Omaha, poured, and Karen Baker, Wayne, served punch. Waitresses were Marla Smith, Laurel, Kathy Fletcher, Wayne, and Nancy Hammer, Wayne.

The bride is a 1971 Laurel High School graduate. The bridegroom, a 1968 graduate of Wayne High School, is employed by the Farmer's Union in Wakefield.

The second standing row of the audience gave the group a three minute standing ovation.

With this early success as their background, the company reorganized with a professional cast of 12 for other public appearances. To date over 7100 persons have attended the performances

The performance, a concert for all ages, expresses the anguish, pain and suffering of Christ's last few days on earth, via vocal and instrumental selections and verse.

The company's performances originated at Midland College with a special Easter project for Good Friday. Playing to a standing room only crowd, the company was so successful in its initial effort that the program was repeated the following evening with no advance publicity.

Although classes are dismantled at 1, students seldom have jobs. "School is considered your assignment," said Kathryn.

"I found that I had an awful lot of free time," she added. Because many students commute to classes, it's difficult to get together after school. She said: "A lot of free time is spent with the family."

"The German family spends hours in front of the TV," she said. "Eight now 'The Flintstones' is a big fad among young people."

Shows are on from six in the morning until 11 at night. Every night at 7:45, commercials are broadcast for 15 minutes. No more are shown for the rest of the evening.

Each city usually has several private sport societies also. "Wherever your interest lies, you can join a private society," she said.

Bicycling is also popular among young and old alike. Even housewives put shopping baskets on their bikes and ride to market.

Dating, forbidden by many parents, isn't popular until students reach college age. High school students never go steady. Instead, teens usually go in large mixed groups to events. (Often a group of girls will go to a party or dance and meet the boys there.)

American pop singers are extremely popular among the German youth. "They really like our best," said Kathryn. Even the German rock groups sing in English.

What about the teenager's relationship with his family? "As a unit, the family is a lot closer and the companionship is stronger. Young people aren't allowed to spend hours away from the family group," she said.

In the area of politics most teens are inactive. "Children aren't encouraged by their parents to become politically involved," said Kathryn. The older generation, still accustomed to democracy, is content to leave the government alone. "Politics are also forbidden at school," she added, "because they aren't considered relevant to academic work."

However, Kathryn found several Germans who disapproved of America's involvement in Viet Nam, racial problems and exploitation of other countries. She said that much of the criticism results from the American soldiers stationed in Germany.

Kathryn, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Hepburn, attended her senior year of high school in Koentgen and Regensburg, Germany. A recipient of a State College Board of Trustees scholarship, she will enroll as a freshman at Wayne State next fall.

German Schools Much Different Than American

By Jane Owens and does it--no more and no less," said Kathryn. "This sort of puts the students against the teacher."

Kathryn observed a lot of cheating among German high school students. "They have a tremendous class spirit because they're with the same group all through high school," she said. "The class becomes very upset if one of its members is held back a year. They want to stay together, so cheating isn't frowned upon." She added: "The best students almost always cheat."

After going to school for 13 hours, students must take the Arbitr, a test over everything they've learned. The teachers, who have some idea of what will be included on the exam, start preparing students for the Arbitr in the first grade. "It's the most important goal," said Kathryn.

Because teens in the 12th and 13th grades must concentrate on studying for the final exam, Kathryn was placed in the 11th grade where students would have more time to spend with a foreigner.

When a German graduates from high school at the age of 20, he may go to a university at no cost. However, according to Kathryn, only 10 per cent continue their education.

Because it's difficult to support students until they're 25 years old, most parents encourage their children to start working instead.

Although classes are dismantled at 1, students seldom have jobs. "School is considered your assignment," said Kathryn.

Garlick: Composing Music Like Writing a Letter

By Jane Owens

"Composing music is sort of like writing a letter. You sit down to begin and then ideas just come to you," says Antony Garlick of Wayne.

One of the major requirements for writing music is the ability to "concentrate and peacefully think," according to Garlick, a member of Wayne State College's music faculty.

Garlick, who has composed for as long as he can remember, has written pieces for the organ, saxophone, piano and clarinet. In addition, he has composed for vocal ensembles, clarinet trios, string quartets, brass quintets and bands.

"But there's no point in writing music if no one will ever play it," said Garlick. "Some composers will write a piece and then stick it away on a shelf. I don't think that's the purpose of composing."

To prove his point, Garlick has had 39 of his compositions published by eight different companies.

What steps are involved in writing music and having it published? First, he decides what instruments he will use, keeping in mind the characteristics of those instruments and their unique sounds.

When he is ready to compose, he sits at the piano or at his desk, trying to imagine how the instruments will sound playing their parts. A rough draft is made and usually revised several times.

Next, musical parts for each of the instruments must be transposed and arranged.

Before the piece is sent to the publisher, Garlick copies it on special onion-skin paper, using India ink and an erasing pen. He admits that the work is "painstaking," but it's necessary because some companies print directly from the handwritten copy. Other publishers make engraved plates for printing.

Hoping that a publisher will accept one of his pieces, Garlick sometimes sends copies to several companies. And they usually send them right back to me," he quipped.

According to the WS teacher, publishers view unknown composers with great suspicion. "They're just like hitlers," he said. "They won't let you get them right away. You have to get to know them first."

However, one publishing company has become familiar with Garlick's style and will accept his compositions "sight unseen," an unusual agreement for an unknown composer.

Garlick, who spends time every day writing, copying or playing music, feels that a composer should write music at regular intervals. He once set a goal for himself at a page per day. However, when he realized it meant 365 pages per year, he decided the plan was too ambitious.

So he can hear how the piece will sound when it is performed, Garlick often writes for his friends who play instruments. Otherwise, the composer "drafts" a student to play his music or simply imagines how it will sound when performed.

According to Garlick, unknown composers earn little money for their music. "You're probably going to ask why I compose," he said. "Well, I like to feel I'm creating something new. When I hear others interpret my work, it's one of the most rewarding things that can happen."

A native of England, Garlick has studied music in three countries—England, Italy and Canada. He holds masters degrees from the Conservatory of St. Cecilia in Rome and the University of Toronto. In addition, he received a post graduate diploma in Italy.

Since 1960, Garlick, his wife, Florella, and two children, Marco, 11, and David, 5, have lived in Wayne. An associate professor of music, he teaches organ, theory and music history at Wayne State.

Forty-five at Bridge

Forty-five turned out for the Ladies Day bridge luncheon Tuesday at the Country Club. Prizes were won by Harriet Wright, Pauline Suhrbecker, Florence Wilse, Mrs. Imkeating and Alice Wagner, Carroll. Hostesses this week will be Minnie Rice and Edith Dale.

Garlick concentrates on real and imagined sounds during original music composition, something he's been doing for as long as he can remember.

Yard & Garden Tips

Q—What is a good treatment for nimble will and nut sedge in the lawn?

A—Both of these problems are very hard to combat once they are present in the lawn. The most effective treatment is a commercial arsenate. But it must be used in the exact amount specified on the label as it can very easily harm the blue grass in the lawn.

Q—What causes the browning of grass along the curbs of the street?

A—It is drier along the curbs and also hotter next to the cement which, in turn, increases the tendency for burning. Increased watering and edging along the curb should restore it to a normal state.

New Radio Station
Now Serving NEN

A new broadcasting service was made available to northeast Nebraskans Sunday when WJAG-FM began broadcasting.

WJAG-FM will operate from 6 a.m. to 11:05 p.m. every day except Sunday when sign-on will be at 7:15 a.m.

WJAG-FM is at 106.7 on the FM dial. It will radiate 43,000 watts of power, giving the station coverage in a radius of 100 miles when an outside antenna is used.

It is expected that home receivers will easily pick up the station without outside antenna within 30 miles of our FM tower. WJAG-FM will give northeast Nebraskans local coverage early in the morning, and at night, that its companion station, WJAG-AM, could not provide as it has limited broadcast hours.

The FM station will be one of the Midwest's most effective stations. Its antenna is so constructed that automobile reception will be possible at far greater distance from Norfolk than is usually possible.

Protest Ousts Local Teams from Area Tourney

The Wayne Midgets won—but still lost—in the opening round of the area baseball tournaments at Pender Thursday night.

And the Wayne Legion players lost twice even though they played only one game.

The extra defeats for the teams came when the Nebraska American Legion Athletic committee ruled that several local players had ineligible birth certificates.

Result: Wayne's teams were forced out of the area tournament.

The Midgets, playing against Gretna under protest Thursday night, rallied in the bottom of the sixth inning to break a 3-2 tie and sew up their win in the single-elimination meet, 7-3.

The rally came when Gretna's hurler walked three straight, got one man out on an infield fly and then drove up a grand slam homer to first baseman Gayland Woodward.

The Wayne team played slug-fest in the opening innings, possibly as a result of the official protest lodged by the Gretna coach when he spotted the ineligible birth certificates before the game.

Gretna moved into a 3-0 lead in the top of the first on a walk by Charlie Roland, an infield error and a home run over the short outfield fence.

Wayne tied the game in the third when Terry Pfeiffer singled home two runs and Roger Squitelli to the outfield to bring in another.

Earle Overlin, Bob Nelson and Marty Hansen drew walks in the bottom of the sixth, loading the bases and setting the stage for Woodward's heroics.

Woodward ended the game with two hits, a single in the third to go with his homer. Also striking were Pfeiffer, Bob Nelson and Roland.

Roland and Saul shared mound duties to pitch the local club to the win.

Wayne's Legion team lost by a 5-3 mark to a strong Arlington-Elkhorn Valley team in Wednesday's opening game of the double-elimination meet.

Wayne scored three runs in the bottom of the first inning to tie the score at 2-2 after two Arlington players homered off Wayne's Rod Cook.

Mike Ginn homered with two on in the bottom of the first to even the score.

Another homer over those short fences in the third with one on gave Arlington its winning margin in the contest.

Burgess struck out an even dozen Wayne batters as he stifled Wayne's offense much of the evening. Cook fanned three and gave up five hits, two more than Burgess allowed.

Wayne's Legion would have played Friday night in the second round of the tourney had not the Friday ruling forced the club from the meet. The Midgets were scheduled to play in Saturday's finals to decide this area's representative in the state tourney at Aurora.

Rounds of 38 For Night In Golf League

Darrell Euelbert, Del Stoltenberg and Sid Miller turned in rounds of 38 for low scores during last week's Wednesday-Night Golf League at the Wayne Country Club.

Right behind them were Jim Scheffer and Bob Reeg with rounds of 39. All five are A players.

Low rounds in the B group were turned in by Bill Workman, 40, Jim Potts, 41, and Maurey Vogel, 42.

Dale Anderson with a 42, Jim Keating and Peck Prather with 45's and Don Reed with a 46 were low scorers among the C players.

Leading the National League with 27 points going into this Wednesday's round are Del Stoltenberg, Lyle Garvin and Herb Hoyert. In second place with 26 points is the trio of George Thorbeck, Joe Nuss and Bud Froehlich.

Leading in the American League with 30 points is the squad of Kenny Whorlow, John Mohr and Cal Ward. Close behind with 28 points are Bob Reeg, Tom Johnson and Ron Dalton.

Town Team Whips League Leaders

Wayne's town team kept near the top in the race for the Tri-County League championship by polishing off league leading Verdigris Thursday night.

The local team collected a 7-2 win over the visitors, thanks to some balanced hitting.

Larry Meier led that hitting offense with three singles in four trips to the plate. Getting singles off Verdigris' hurler were Handy Jacobsen, Denny Bo-and should be cleaned before it is brought to the newspaper for weighing.

Winer in the drive to collect the most glass will receive a $25 dollar cash prize from The Wayne Herald. First runner-up will receive a $15 cash prize, with $10 being awarded to the person or group in third place.

The two banks in Wayne, First National and State National, are making the second and third place cash prizes possible.

The six-week contest was started by the newspaper as a public service campaign. Owners of the newspaper hope the drive will clean up the environment, as well as focus attention of the public on the problems of pollution in and around Wayne.

Following are the contestants in the drive and the amounts they had collected by late Friday:

- Senior Citizens Center of Wayne, 7,004 pounds.
- Salem Lutheran Church Sunday School of Wakefield, 3,310 pounds.
- Carrollers 4-H Club of Carrollers, 3,088 pounds.
- Nora Powers and Brian Magnus of Wayne, 2,950 pounds.
- Robert Waterhouse of Winslow, 2,780 pounds.
- Travelers of Christian Church of Wakefield, 2,120 pounds.
- Tracy Baler of Wayne, 839 pounds.
- IHA of Wayne High School, 812 pounds.
- Walnut Street Gang of Wayne, 650 pounds.
- Steve Hall of Wayne, 287 pounds.
- Fna Adams of Wayne, 9 pounds.

and possible malfunction as would customarily be done before beginning a day's work in the field.

Using this year's first place plaque in the written division, he competed in the 1429 contest but did not place high. He recalled that it rained hard when the contest was held at the NE East Campus in Lincoln last year, making it necessary to move the two-wheel trailer competition to a crushed rock parking lot. In addition he'd had his tensils removed about a week before the contest.

Finn started practicing seriously in June and practiced the written questions daily. He labored the four-wheel trailer portion of the contest as the most difficult of the competition. He will be a junior at Laurel High School this fall.

she said, and she had talked to a school official about her friend in America. Pearl should apply. Margot didn't quit at that. Two weeks later she telephoned half way around the world to inquire whether Pearl had applied yet.

"She really talked fast telling me about it, and the call cost about $25 for three minutes," Miss Hansen said.

Then came a decision—whether to continue plans for graduate study at Kansas State University or to pursue Australia. She spent the summer at KSI on scholarship and was to receive a fellowship for the coming year. Finally, Australia won.

"Chances to work in another country don't come too often," said Miss Hansen, who is graduating next June with an art major from Wayne State.

Next problem: mustering up travel money for the flight fare of more than $600. Luckily, she has been a prolific artist, and now she plans a yard sale of her works Tuesday at 820 Logan St. in Wayne. Her art includes ceramics, sculpture, jewelry, paintings.

After a year or so in Australia she plans to return and continue graduate study.

"Cheerfully she says she may have to stay there until I save enough to fly home."

Traffic Problem. Possibly Over

The pedestrian-traffic problem at Seventh and Sherman in Wayne may be over now. Thanks to traffic lights installed at the corner last week. The lights can be activated by people crossing Seventh Street, possibly doing away with the danger to the large number of children crossing that street during the school year. Last year a policeman had to be at the corner some times during the day to help the youths across safely. Now that will probably not be necessary according to Dan Sherry, city clerk. Putting up the lights Friday were, from left: Bill Miller, Don Neisius (hidden behind Miller), Al Grayson and George Henderson.

Yard & Garden Tips

Q. When should you dig potatoes?
A. You should dig potatoes when the vines are green and the leaves are dead.

Q. How do you store cabbages in the winter?
A. Remove them from the soil, leaving soil on the roots, and place them in the basement where they will not freeze. They could be divided and clipped, but leaving them together in a basket or pall is more convenient.

Teachers All Hired At Winside

Winside Public Schools now has a full staff of teachers, according to Don Leighton, superintendent, and the new school term is slated to get underway Aug. 25. Leighton, said Thursday that there will be a workshop for the teaching staff Aug. 23 and 24 preceding the opening of school.

New members of the Winside teaching staff and their departments include Duane Mackey, guidance; Marge Kinney, speech, English and Fine Arts Club director; Kathleen Erickson, math and girls physical education; Calvin Spahrmer, science and math; Roger May, commercial, sponsor of school annual and paper; Marcel Kramer, science; Douglas Barclay, physical education, science, wrestling coach and assistant football coach; Marilyn Rethwisch, second grade, and Sharon Scott, elementary physical education and team teacher.

High school teachers returning and their teaching field are Nancy Powers, librarian; Glenda Hammer, Spanish; Lee Johnson, social studies; Marian Iversen, English and social studies; Jim Winch, industrial arts, driver's education, girls' track, head basketball coach and athletic director; Carol Hansen, social studies; Doug Barty, science and head football coach; Doris Siefen, home economics; Dallas Puts, math and commercial; Alice Rohde, art, and Ruth Puls, vocal music.

Administrators include Supt. Leighton; Ron Kramer, high school principal, and Allen Schuber, elementary principal and band instructor.

Elementary teachers returning are Beba Mann, kindergarten;

Assault Charge Filed Against Pierce Youth

An 18-year-old Pierce youth was arrested Thursday and arraigned in Wayne County Court where he was charged with felonious assault with intent to inflict great bodily injury upon David Tietgen of Wayne.

Kim Thomas of Pierce faced that charge before Judge Laverna Nilson who set bond at $1,000. Thomas posted bond and was released.

A preliminary hearing date was set for Aug. 6.

The complaint against Thomas was filed in county court on Monday. The alleged assault reportedly took place in Winside sometime during the night of Old Settlers Picnic on July 22.

Tietgen suffered a broken jaw and possible concussion when reportedly kicked in the face by Thomas.

Firemen Extinguish House Fire

Wayne firemen were called to the Harold Maciejowski home, 1210 Douglas St., Friday morning to put out a fire reportedly started by a cigarette.

Linda Forbes of Coleridge, a Wayne State College student returning from an overnight visit, opened the back door to her apartment about 7:40 a.m. in Maciejowski's basement and found the home filled with heavy smoke.

Fire Chief Cliff Pinskielmann said the fire apparently started by a cigarette smoldering in a sofa for over 10 hours. The fire was confined to the basement living room which was gutted. Pinskielmann reported severe smoke damage throughout the rest of the one-story house.

The Maciejowski family was not home when the fire occurred. Maciejowski has been working as an insurance company hall adjuster during the summer, while his family has been visiting relatives.

The four college girls living in Maciejowski's basement—Linda Forbes, Coleridge; Carol Tunik, Butte; Carolyn Thalken, Lehigh; and Nancy Sleight, Ulysses—were also gone Thursday night when the fire first smoldered in the sofa.

Later in the evening youngsters will be given the opportunity of trying to catch a greased pig. A cash prize awaits the winner. There will also be prizes for any member of the younger set able to climb to the top of a greased pole. All of these activities will also be in front of the grandstand.

Friday morning there will be the judging of hogs, sheep and 4-H beef. At 2 p.m. Friday afternoon the Wayne County Jaycees are sponsoring a kiddies parade in downtown Wayne. Cash prizes will be given to those judged best in the pet division and to the boy or girl having the best costume. Prizes will also be awarded to the youngster with the most original idea and to the best family group. The family group category consists of a parade entry including two or more brothers and sisters.

Later Friday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. the Jaycees will hold various types of races including sack races, potato races and an egg and spoon race for youngsters competing in at least four age groups. Winners will receive cash prizes.

Friday and Saturday at the fair have been designated as children's days and all youths up to 15 years of age will be admitted free of charge. There will be a 75 cent charge for children attending the fair in the evening.

All of the midway rides Friday and Saturday afternoon until 5 p.m. will have reduced ticket prices for children.

There will be plenty of action on the fairground all three days for both children and adults including farm equipment displays, a Kansas City Lucky Stars stage show at 8:15 p.m. Friday, a market hog show and 4-H horse show Saturday morning, horsehoe pitching contest at 1 p.m. Saturday, exhibits of household goods, and a tractor pull at 7 p.m. Saturday which has a purse of $1,200.

208 to Graduate On Wednesday At Wayne State

Summer commencement at Wayne State College Wednesday will mark an academic milestone for 208 students. Among them are 27 candidates for master's degrees.

Speaker for the 10 a.m. ceremony in the college Willow Bowl will be John L. Sullivan, administrative assistant to Gov. J. J. Exon, a 1963 graduate of Wayne State.

In case of inclement weather, commencement will move to Rice Auditorium.

The college's annual alumni reunion will be another feature of graduation day. The class of 1920 will be honored at a luncheon in the Student Center.

Alumni Secretary Freeman Decker said the program will be informal to allow plenty of time for swapping stories. Registration for the luncheon will begin at 9:30 a.m. in the Student Center.

Yard & Garden Tips . . .

Q. Corn plants about three inches tall in a garden have been eaten off about an inch and a half below the ground. What could be doing this?

A. It could be cutworms or possibly ground squirrels, although ground squirrels usually only eat the seed. Replanting and use of a preemergent pesticide should help.

Q. Crabgrass is growing in the lawn. What can be used to control it?

A. If the crabgrass is not too large an area, the best control method is pulling it. If it is more abundant, any of the liquid crabgrass killers will control the spread with several treatments. Another possibility is doing nothing, because crabgrass will not kill the bluegrass lawn. Then, apply a preemergence material next spring.

the Grana coach spotted the illegible birth certificates and lodged the official complaint.

Reason the Grana coach spotted the certificates, according to reports, was that he had taken the same kind of illegible certificates into his district tournament. He received a warning, however, and had time to get the error corrected.

Wayne did not have time to get the certificates stamped by the state and signed by an official at the state office of vital statistics.

Wayne Tietgen of Wayne, district athletic officer who had charge of the district tournament here, said it was partly his fault and partly the fault of others that the certificates did not meet state Legion requirements.

Tietgen said there were probably certificates from some players on all the district teams which did not have the seal and signature, something which is put on the certificates received from the state only by request.

Consequently, any team in the district which made it to the area meet at Pender probably would have been disqualified.

The Legion team suffered a defeat in its first game at Pender Wednesday night. However, since that was a double-elimination affair, they had a chance to win in Friday's second round to stay in the running for the state berth.

There has been a lot of talk about interest rates lately, and most of it is pretty confusing. Well, here are the facts: A savings and loan institution pays higher interest dividends on savings than a commercial bank. We're a savings and loan institution, and we're happy to be able to give our many customers extra dividends. We compound interest dividends, and they really add up to more than just peanuts. A lot more than just peanuts.
