Dixon Co. 4-H Beef Show Is A Family Affair

Ability to raise quality cattle must run in families.

At least that's one of the conclusions which could be reached after looking at the results of the 4-H beef show at the Dixon County Fair earlier this week.

The Erwins and McAfees won 11 of the top awards during that show, held Tuesday morning and afternoon at the fairgrounds at Concord.

Young Jon Erwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Erwin of Wakefield, showed a Charolais steer to overall championship honors in the competition.

He nosed out Greg Meyer for the top award in the steer division. Meyer, son of Mr. and Mrs.

Norman Meyer of rural Wakefield, showed a Hereford to reserve championship status.

Jon's sister, Jean, took championship prize in the Angus steer competition, beating out her brother for that recognition.

Jon made up for not getting top honors there by showing his animal to Angus Supreme status later in the day.

The Angus Supreme classification was started several years ago by Dixon County resident Jerome Hejerman. The award goes to the calf best displaying Angus characteristics.

The Erwins came in 1-2 in one other class during the show. Jon took top place, his sister second place in the competition among Charolais and Charolais crossbred steers.

The McAfee brothers, Stan and Scott, nearly matched the awards earned by the two young Erwins.

Stan's Angus heifer took overall championship honors and his Charolais took overall reserve championship honors.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry McAfee of rural Allen, he also showed the champion, a Hereford, and the champion among the Charolais — Charolais crossbred heifers.

His brother pulled down top award in the crossbred heifer class.

Showing the reserve champion.

in the Angus heifer class was Kent Saelen of Allen.

Champion and runner-up in the Hereford steer class, respectively, were Greg Meyer and Steven Lahr of Wakefield.

Champion Hereford heifer was shown by Duane Saelen of Concord. Coming in second behind him was Randy Kahl of Wakefield.

Jana Dahleron of Wakefield.

the champion and Denise Magnusson of Laurel showed the reserve champion in the Shorthorn steer competition.

Taking second place honors behind Stan McAfee in the Charolais-Charolais crossbred heifer competition was Tranny Nelson of Wakefield.

100 4-H Calves to Be Sold Tonight

Going up for sale tonight (Thursday) will be about 100 calves reared by Wayne County 4-H youths.

The occasion is the annual 4-H calf sale, scheduled for 8:30 at the local sale barn.

Youngsters in the county are planning on selling about 100 individual calves and about 10 pens of five during the auction. The individual calves have to be the ones shown at the recent county fair.

Calves will be sold in the order they are ranked according to a scoring system combining rate of gain and packer appraisal.

According to the county agent, Harold logalks, sales receipts from fed cattle bring far more gross income into Wayne County than all other agricultural commodities combined.

Annual sales of fed cattle total about $25 million, he notes, while annual value of all crops produced is about $7.5 million and annual dairy, hog, sheep and poultry sales total about $10 million.

The money paid for the calves above the packer bid is returned to the youngsters showing the animals, offering them incentive in raising cattle which bring top money when sold.

Firemen Misinformed

Of Fire's Location

Wayne volunteer firemen were unable to locate a car fire reported four miles west of town around 6:30 p.m. Monday.

Cliff Pinkelman, fire chief, said firemen were misinformed as to direction and returned to town after answering the call.

The burning car, a 1969 Chevrolet belonging to Francis Westerman of West Point, received about $105 damage and was actually located four miles south of town.

The fire chief said it has not yet been determined how the error was made in the directions given the firemen.

Unwelcome Visitor

Startles Housewife

A three-foot bullsnake wrapped around the door post of a car startled a rural Wayne housewife Saturday while she was shopping in Wayne.

After purchasing groceries, Mrs. Dick Sorenson, and a grocery boy, returned to the Sorenson auto parked in front of Arnie's around 12:30 p.m. Saturday to discover the snake around the door post on the passenger's side.

The snake was lured out of the car and killed.

Mrs. Sorenson said the snake probably entered the car while it was parked on their farm northwest of Wayne.

Foul Odor May Vanish When Lagoon Is Clean

Wayne residents may soon get some relief from having to occasionally smell the city's sewer lagoon located at the southeast edge of town.

Source of the unpleasant odor has been determined by city employees to be the 100-foot wide aerator lagoon, a receptacle for raw sewage and the first step in the lagoon process.

Mayor Kent Hall said Tuesday that the city council's sewer committee and city employees after measuring the depth of the aerator lagoon Friday—found the nine-foot deep lagoon filled with five-feet of sediment leaving room at the top for only four feet of liquid sewage.

Hall explained that the result of there being that much sediment built up over the last 10 years—reduced the efficiency of the lagoon to the point where sewage is not being properly aerated before flowing into the larger lagoon.

The State Health and Sanitation Department suggested that the smaller lagoon be manually passed, pumped out and dredged to its original depth.

Plans for following that procedure got underway Friday with sewage being pumped directly into the main lagoon.

The mayor said it is hoped that dredging the aerator lagoon to its original depth will take care of the odor problem.

"Some consideration may have to be given to installing a new aerator," Hall noted, pointing out that the present equipment has been running for 10 years and is obsolete.

"There is nothing wrong with the big lagoon," Hall said, explaining that it is the smaller sewage pool which is the source of the offensive odors.

2 Guided Tours At Wayne High Set for Friday

Students new to Wayne High School will be able to learn all they want to know during guided tours of the building Friday.

The tours, which are designed to help new students get acquainted with the building before the start of school, are scheduled for 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Friday.

All incoming freshmen and any students new to the high school are invited by school officials to take part in either tour. Conducting the tours will be members of the student council.

School starts for all students in the Wayne area on Wednesday, the latest start for a school in the Wayne area.

Parents with youngsters who will be riding a bus this fall have been mailed bus routes which show when the bus will make trips during the day.

Lunch tickets will cost the same as last year—$2 per week or 45 cents for a single meal.

Hoskins Driver Loses License In County Court

The driver's license of a Hoskins man was revoked in Wayne County Court recently.

Paying speeding fines and $6 court costs during the last week were Roger A. Lentz, 26, Wayne, $13; Rodney D. Krahmer, 17, Emerson, $15; James Todd, 23, Wayne, $15; and Harold Opplaker, 24, Norfolk, $14. Opplaker also paid a $10 fine for not having Nebraska license plates.

Clifford Smith, 37, Norfolk, paid a fine of $10 and $6 costs for not having a vehicle inspection.

Charged with being a minor in possession of alcoholic liquor, Thomas DeLong, 19, Pender, was fined $100 and costs of $5. Being overweight on capacity plates cost John Larson, 36, Carmichael, Calif., a fine of $10 and $6 costs.

Gary D. Meyer, 22, Hooper, was fined $10 and $6 costs for failing to obtain an annual permit for a mobile home.

Paying a $40 fine and $6 costs for intoxication was Thomas H. Stevenson, 52, of Wayne.

ASCS Helping Answer 'Freeze' Queries

All residents of Wayne County may obtain answers to questions about the Presidential order on prices, rents, wages and salaries from the Wayne County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) office, according to Harry Heinemann, chairman of the county ASCS committee.

County ASCS offices throughout the United States have been chosen as information centers to answer questions from all citizens on President Nixon's order, designed to stem inflation and strengthen the national economy.

The Wayne County office is receiving official answers to questions concerning the action, and any person who wants precise information should get in touch with the county office.

In charge of the office is Raymond Butts, county executive director. The office has a staff of three people—Irma Tvecht, Lilian Cronquist and Lynn Kramer.

degree in speech and theatre from Ball State University at Muncie, Ind., last week.

Mrs. Wachholtz graduated from Wayne High School in 1965. In 1968 she received a bachelor of arts in education degree from Wayne State College with a double major in English and music.

She taught for two years at Columbus, Ind., where she met her husband, Ronald. She and her husband, Ronald, will be instructors in the communication arts department in Wayne State college beginning in September.

Funny 'Arrows' Serving Purpose

Those funny-looking "arrows" appearing on many state highways in the Wayne area are serving a useful purpose.

According to Don Sanford, district maintenance supervisor at the Department of Roads office at Norfolk, the marks are those put down by a crew canvassing the state in an effort to mark the highways' for no passing zones.

Two cars make up the crew. As they travel along the highway 1,000 feet apart, the rear car marks the highway each time the lead car disappears. The marks are on concrete blocks at the point where the yellow no passing marks are to be started.

Two colors of paint are being used by the crew—yellow for the zones on the right lane and white for the zones on the left lane.

The crew can do the marking in one pass over a strip of highway.

Fund Raising Sale Planned by Kiwanis

Area residents will be able to discard unwanted items and at the same time help a worthwhile cause during a white elephant sale sponsored by the Kiwanis Club.

The sale—slated from 1 to 5 p.m. in the city auditorium on Sept. 12—will be held as a fund raising project by the club to support various youth activities.

Anyone in the area having items they would like to contribute to the sale should contact Don Wightman, general chairman.

Stamp Days Changed

Federal food stamps, usually sold at the county courthouse on Wednesday, will be sold Friday at the Wayne County welfare office, according to Mrs. Shirley Dargur, case aide.

The change in sale dates is for this one time only, the welfare office was closed Wednesday due to the death of Mrs. Dargur's brother in Michigan.

Easy Does It!

Three construction workers are all wrapped up in guiding the claw of a crane as it sets a concrete manhole in place during work on the Dixon sanitary sewer system. Work on the project, which will cost about $2,000, began Monday when men and machinery belonging to Christiansen Construction Co. of Pender moved into town. About $50,000 of the cost of the sewer system and the lagoon is being funded through a federal grant and loan. The lagoon will be located just south of the village.

Children's Carnival Set to Help Fight Crippling Disease

Holding a neighborhood carnival against muscular dystrophy is the way a group of Wayne youngsters will get into the action of fighting that disease.

The youths will sponsor the benefit carnival—slated for 2 to 5 p.m.—will feature such games as penny pitch, pin-knock-down, and a sponge throw. There will also be a book sale, a what-not sale and a refreshment stand.

All proceeds will go to aid the fight against dystrophy and related diseases.

The children got the idea for staging their carnival while watching TV personality Clarence the Kartoon Clown who is promoting such events on his children's show over a St. Louis City television station.

A Long Way to Go for Farming Tips

Looking over farming equipment on the Harold George farm north of Dixon are these farmers from South Africa. The group, which numbered 27, toured the George farm after seeing what goes on at the University of Nebraska Northeast Station near Concord Monday afternoon. Later in the day the visitors took part in the Dixon County Fair. Self-sponsored, the group spent two days in the Sioux City area, touring places where they could pick up ideas about new farming techniques and methods. Speaking to the group here is the Dixon County farmer (with white cap and hand extended). Behind and to his right is Cal Ward, superintendent of the UN research facility at Concord.

WSC Grid Corps Begins Practice Monday

Wayne State football for 1971 goes into action when 75 to 80 players arrive Sunday and begin practice Monday in preparation for the Sept. 18th opener at Emporia State.

Coach Del Stoltenberg expects about 28 letterman back plus a promising corps of non-lettered returnees, transfers and freshmen. He will have veterans at nearly every position on both offense and defense, though defense fares better in the number of returning starters.

Assisting Stoltenberg are Ralph Barclay, the defensive strategist, and Roger Bentley, offensive line coach. In leave of absence for doctoral studies is Don Pale, who has directed the defensive backs.

Joining the staff are Bob Kruse as an assistant instructor in physical education and Dave Bross, a graduate assistant, both graduates of Wayne State, in 1968 and 1969 respectively.

Kruse was a two-year All-American as an offensive guard, Bross an All-American honorable mention at defensive end. They will coach the freshman squad and assist with the varsity. Kruse also will coach wrestling, substituting for Pate.

Stoltenberg figures the 1971 Wildcats should pick up where the 1970 squad finished after the 2-3 campaign. Although he lost three starting offensive backs—Sam Singleton, Jerry Zmedek and Greg Walker—he expects the vacancies to be capably filled.

Also missing are four offensive line starters—Jon Roberts, Jack

Ferrin, Dean Truog and Pat Ivers—but replacements look promising. The defensive corps lost only Doug Radtke and Karl Charipar.

FB, VB Coaches to Meet Here

The meeting, which will probably attract 100 high school coaches and officials, will be held at the Wayne High School lecture hall.

Volleyball coaches and officials will meet here on Wednesday of next week.

Hoskins Auto Jockey Wins 5 Weekend Races

A Hoskins stock car driver had the kind of weekend on the oval that most drivers only dream about.

Gerald Bruggeman, racing at LeMars, Ia., Saturday night, finished first in his heat, found himself getting the winner's flag in the trophy dash and in the number one position at the end of the A feature. That kind of driving has earned Bruggeman the honor of being high point man at the LeMars track for several weeks.

Racing at Scotland, S.D., Sunday evening, Bruggeman continued his winning streak by nabbing first in his heat and winning the A feature.

Harold Brudigan, also of Hoskins, had other drivers eating his dust as he raced into first place for himself in his heat, won the trophy dash and took second in the A feature during action at Clearwater Aug. 18. That same evening, Gene Brudigan, of Hoskins, took third place in the B feature on the Clearwater track.

Both Brudigans competed in the oval action at Creighton Friday for the Sept. 18th opener at Emporia State.

Racing Sunday night at the Norfolk Riviera track, the Hoskins men stayed in the top scorers' ranks with Harold taking first in his heat and third in the A feature. Gene won a third place in both his heat and in the B feature.

Other area drivers getting their piece of action on the Creighton oval Friday included Dennis Crippen, who won first in his heat and placed fourth in the A feature, and Roy Korth, who finished sixth in the B feature. Crippen is from Wakefield; Korth lives in Wayne.

Crippen earned a third place in the B feature at LeMars on Saturday and was fifth in both his heat race and in the B feature at Raceway Park, South Sioux City, Sunday night.

Another Wakefieldan, Lyle Ekberg, won his heat race Sunday night at Raceway Park but wrecked his car and was unable to compete in the final races.

Logan Creek Bridges Are Being Widened

Work on widening two bridges across Logan Creek west of Laurel has begun, reports the Nebraska Department of Roads.

The bridges, both on Highway 20, are located two miles and four and a half miles west of Laurel. A total of 500 linear feet of guard rail will also be installed.

Although work on the project won't be completed until late December, traffic will be maintained over the bridges during the work.

Total cost of the work, which is being done by a Norfolk firm, is $111,744.

The strip of land being tried require that three-fourths of the six-man council—just over four—approve any change in zoning.

The strip of land being tried to have rezoned is a block and a half long and a half block deep on the north side of Seventh Street from Lincoln Street east to the present area zoned for business.

Planners Back Present Seventh Street Zoning

City councilmen meeting Tuesday night will receive a recommendation from the planning commission that zoning on Seventh Street remain mostly residential.

Planning commission members—five of the nine-member board were present—voted Monday night in a special meeting to recommend to the council that the zoning ordinance for Seventh Street from the east to the west city limits remain as it is. The recommendation also notes that the decision doesn't preclude any single request by a property owner for a change in zoning.

The action was taken in the wake of a controversy over whether or not to change the residential zoning to highway business zoning.

Planners voted to make the recommendation after reviewing results of a survey they made of property owners along Seventh Street who would be directly affected by a change to business zoning. The survey was conducted at the request of a council member. The commission started the survey in July asking those who own or live on property within 150 feet of Seventh Street their opinion of rezoning that property from residential to highway business use.

Early in August, commission members decided to extend the survey to each square block joining Seventh Street, a strip of land and property with an actual value of $2,051,380 and an assessed value of $716,585. At least 26 property owners and renters along the strip were not available to participate in the survey.

Morn Mordhorst, commission chairman, said that of the survey reports tallied Monday night—a 100 per cent of the survey reports were not turned in—66 per cent were against rezoning Seventh Street from residential to highway business use, 18 per cent were in favor and 16 per cent had no opinion.

An 8 p.m. hearing has been set by the planning commission for Sept. 7 to consider Gordon Shupe's request to have a strip of land along West Seventh Street—now zoned for residential—changed to straight business zoning.

Councilmen voted 4-2 early in June to change the zoning in the area to highway business but discovered later that its vote was apparently not legal.

The vote was considered not legal because a sign advertising the change in zoning had not been posted on the property and the favorable vote by the council was not large enough. City ordinances

Dishes at Dixon Co. Fair Look Appetizing

If dishes entered in this year's Dixon County Fair are any indication, there are some fine cooks in this county.

The open class competition, held Tuesday at the Concord fair grounds, attracted entries from across the county. And according to the judges, many of these dishes were highly appetizing.

Following are the ladies who won blue and red ribbons in the judging:

Blue Ribbon:
Mrs. Jack Hanson, Concord, blueberry Jollyjacks, Concord, 2 red; Paulette Hanson, Concord, red; Mrs. Willis Kahl, Wakefield, red; Mrs. Maybey Perry, Concord, 2 red; Hans Jahr, Wakefield, blue; Sheila Zach, Concord, blue.

Red Ribbon:

Local Soup O.K.

Managers of the four grocery stores in Wayne have checked their Campbell Soup stock and found none of it to be part of a shipment recalled by the company.

The Campbell Soup Co. recalled 120,000 cans of possibly contaminated chicken vegetable soup in 16 states, including Nebraska, earlier this week. Company chemists had said their contents might have been contaminated by botulism - poisoning resulting from improper canning or preserving.

The soup in question was canned at Campbell's Paris, Texas, plant. Frozen stock comes from another plant.

Sunflower Next Wonder Crop?

Will the sunflower be the next wonder crop in the United States?

That's the question asked by Harold Hagalis, Wayne County agricultural agent, in his column on the farm page in this issue of the Wayne Herald.

Other items in his column include information on the field days planned at the Northeast Station at Concord and the Field Laboratory at Mead.

You can find the column on page four of the second section of the newspaper.

Health Tips
Here is a health tip from the Nebraska State Medical Association:
Two thousand children die in home fires every year in this country. Yet, most children could walk swiftly away from death if they were given the most elementary fire instructions.

For the safety of your family, sit down with your children and work out a fire escape plan together. Map out the emergency route in your home or apartment, such as doors, windows and large vents. Plan two escape routes from every room.

A child should learn that if a usual exit is blocked, he should quickly use another. Many frightened youngsters have perished in burning buildings because they hid in their rooms. Instead of breaking out a window to escape.

Teach your children to escape at once. Do not let them try to put out the fire or stop to gather up possessions.

Once outside a burning home, the family should have a central meeting place where a head count can be taken.

Practice family fire drills regularly. Knowing what to do could save your child.

Those Big Yellow Buses

School days are here again and it means several dozen big yellow school buses in the area will be out on the road morning and evening Monday through Friday carrying their cargoes of children.

A school bus on the road is a special vehicle and therefore has special flashing lights and its own stop sign.

State laws require that approaching traffic from either direction must stop when a school bus is loading or unloading. Passing a school bus at such a time is a violation of the law.

School bus drivers are required to use the buses' flashing lights and stop signs when either loading or unloading passengers.

Reviewing the traffic regulations concerning the proper operation of a vehicle in the vicinity of a school bus makes good sense when so many lives are involved.

Driving skill is not inherited but it can be acquired. People learn to drive as they learn to play the piano or to ride a bicycle. The better driver is not satisfied just to get a driver's license; he continues to practice.

Nearly anyone sound in mind can learn to drive a car and get a driver's license. It takes a lot of practice to become really skilled in the art.

Driving is one of those things that must be learned on a share-the-street plan. In those days of dense traffic the individual driver cannot expect to have special privileges. Everyone must obey the law if safety is to exist for anyone.

Let's all remind ourselves when driving in the vicinity of a school bus to use added caution. Let's drive like professionals. —MMW

Senate Seeks Nebraskans' Rural Development Views

LINCOLN—The U. S. Senate wants to know how Nebraskans feel about rural development.

At least two senators will be in Lincoln Sept. 9 for a hearing to get Cornhusker views on the subject. Sen. Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska, the ranking Republican on the Senate Agriculture Committee, and former Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey, now a Democratic senator from Minnesota, are the other.

The hearing is scheduled for the afternoon in the auditorium of the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education on the University of Nebraska's East Campus.

Among those invited to be witnesses are Gov. F. L. Egan, a Democrat, and his Republican predecessor (and 1950 election victim) Norbert F. Tiemann.

Three staff members were in Nebraska recently to gather background information and to arrange for witnesses to appear at the hearing. Among them was Don Shastem, Curtis' administrative aide.

Jim Thornton, the consultant to the subcommittee on rural development, said Congress wants to get programs going which not only will help rural areas gain economic health but will take care of their youth, but they're not interested in reversing the flow from the cities.

Thornton said the people are coming with the population explosion and the most new babies, naturally, are going to be born in the big cities. There will have to be national policy, he said, to cope with the situation.

But Thornton said planning can make it work smoothly because the problems can be anticipated and dealt with in advance.

Joining Shastem and Thornton on the journey into Nebraska was Dan Spiegel, Humphrey's legislative assistant.

Laws Become Effective
As of Sunday (Friday, Aug. 27), motorists on Nebraska's highways won't have to slow down—assuming they weren't exceeding the 65 miles per hour daytime speed limit already.

The 1951 Legislature passed a law making the speed limits for highways 65 miles per hour day and night. That increases the nighttime limit by five miles per hour.

Interstate highways—limits—75 miles per hour day and night, except where posted otherwise—were unchanged by the law.

Truck speeds on "regular" highways were increased to 65 mph during the day and 60 mph at night.

The law becomes effective Aug. 27, along with all others adopted by the 1951 Legislature without the emergency clause. That clause makes a measure effective upon the governor's signature, while all the rest wait for three months after the Legislature's adjournment.

The 1951 session closed down May 27. The effective date of the non-emergency clause legislation is earlier this year than in 1949. That session didn't end until Sept. 24 and the effective date for measure without the "E-clause" was Christmas Eve.

In addition to the speed limit bill, another dealing with motorists becomes effective this week. It's the controversial motorcycle helmet bill. Cyclists will have to be wearing helmets when they are on their bikes, starting Friday.

Although it won't have an immediate effect, another motor vehicle bill which officials enter the lawbooks Friday is a change in the license-plate procedures. Nebraska has been issuing metal plates every three years—with stickers for intervening years—but the 1951 Legislature changed that to annual distribution of metal plates.

That law also permits the purchase for $50 each—so-called "prestige plates." Motorists who want a message instead of a number may buy the special plates with up to six letters on them.

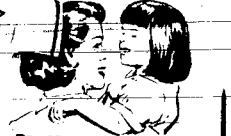

For such plates already manufactured as a sample at the Penal Complex says: J. J. Egan.

Another bill becoming effective this week removes 500 exemptions to the five-day waiting rule between the time a marriage license is applied for and the first day the ceremony may be performed. Previously, the waiting period could be waived for special reasons, such as a serviceman with a limited leave.

The "rock festival bill" also becomes effective Friday. That's the one which allows 50 or more residents in a county to protest to the county board if an entertainment program is scheduled that might endanger the public health and welfare. The board must hold a hearing and decide whether the protestors are right.

The bill reducing from 55 per cent to 35 per cent majority the vote needed to pass some types of public bond issues also is in the final days.

Another new entry in the lawbooks is a measure which permits holders of liquor licenses to pay fines instead of having their establishments closed for violations of liquor laws.

Out of Old

FRONTIER COUNTY PASTIMES

Fifty years after his arrival in Frontier County in 1870, Francis M. Marshall wrote of pioneer life in that county, which was published in the Maywood Eagle Reporter of June 15, 1929. Copies of this newspaper are in the collection of the Nebraska State Historical Society.

The town of Maywood was later started just south of Mr. Marshall's home-stead on Medicine Creek.

During that early period, money was hard to come by and the pioneer had to be clever to survive. Marshall wrote:

"There was much timber along the Medicine in the early days. I made a rack for my wagon and in spare time cut cedar posts and hauled the rack load of them to North Platte when I made a trip there. I got a good price for the posts, too, even in those days of low prices. I also hauled card wool, potatoes, onions and even fat fish caught in the creek to North Platte, and it all helped, for one had to do anything he could for a living. One year we raised 500 bushels of onions on the fertile Medicine bottom land and I believe it was $2 a bushel! I got for them in North Platte. I have raised many crops that brought me less than those onions did."

"Speaking of fish, I can tell you we had plenty. We built a dam across the creek back of our house and could close the dam, stretch a net and catch a wagon load of fish in a short time. Many times I have seen my wife sit below the dam and hold her hand in the water (ill a big old fish swam within reach and throw it on the bank. She could catch a mass of fish in a short time for harvest hands or hired men as well as for ordinary meals and many a fine meal of them she has served. People came from near and far to fish at our dam."

"For a time, Marshall also "cowboyed" for the farmers of Frontier, taking part in a roundup as well as driving a herd of cattle to near Gallalia, taking over the cooking when the regular cook quit. He handled the petition for organizing the Maywood school district and helped survey the first cemetery in that section. During the first years, Mr. Marshall often spent the winter of their old home in Aurora, leaving Mr. Marshall to batch in their half dug-out-half log house on the banks of the Medicine Creek. Like most pioneers, his was a varied life.

Good Morning Feeders & Hi Mom

By Eddie Collins

A typical mid-August morning in New York City, muggy with heat.

The refrigerated delivery trucks were jammed within 20 feet of the wholesale meat house (working and arm wrestling for position).

On the platform blood-specked employees moved from loading dock to the coolers with little concern. The "family" worked with feverish speed, the "clock-punchers" in a trance.

Isadore Finkler and Patrick Barry were co-owners. Shortly after their grandfathers had arrived from Russia and Ireland, this workable union was formed. First by hand cart, now as modern as a government laboratory.

The President had proclaimed a national economic emergency and announced a price freeze.

"Izzy, what can I charge hills on chicks?"

"Pat, the highest invoice was 79¢. That's our frozen."

"Seventy-nine? Izzy, I'm talking to the pros, not some flit off the street. They might go 85-3."

"I'll call Washington," he directed.

"Give me Mr. Schenberg please—Ma'am, he is the meat director on this frozen price thing." Pause. "You never hear of him?"

Izzy hung up. "Pat, there are no guidelines. I talked to IBP, to Illinois Pack, to Monfort-Pack, to seven bankers, two relatives. Not an expert know you printable thing. Von guy, Currier somebody, had a 74¢ calling because he sold a U. S. Good club calf to a restaurant."

"Oh, Izzy, let's mark tickets any way we want. Carlot beef is $2.00 on the street—but we rose money at $32 cattle."

"True, Pat, but Washington doesn't care that we worked three months for our health. But we oversell and get fined $5,000 and get our name in the Times."

"Izzy, we sold meat during the OPA & the OPE without stamps, and we sold for cash $10 a hundred over ceilings. Why, that black marketing was needed, we helped people. I can see why Capone liked bookkeeping."

"Okay, Pat, but nowadays we have these goofy consumer affairs nuts. Bess Myerson and her publicity hounding veridors."

"Izzy, are live cattle prices

"ER THE HOSS CARTWRIGHT MODEL DOES MAKE YOU LOOK TALLER."

Earns 3rd for Essay

John Watson, son of former Wayne residents Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Watson, earned third in the essay contest during the annual meeting of the American Society of Agronomy at New York recently.

Watson is a member of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Agronomy Club, which was recognized for outstanding achievement during the meeting.

Antique Class Set

A course titled Antique Appreciation is being offered this fall at Northeastern Nebraska at Norfolk as part of the adult education evening program.

It is scheduled to be held Tuesday evenings starting Sept. 14 and will run for 10 sessions. Registering can be done at the college office, by mail or at the first class session if the class is still open.

745 Cattle Being Primed for State Fair

According to preliminary entries, 745 beef animals in the state are being trained to lead, enjoy a hose bath and stand still for a fancy half-day in preparation for the Nebraska State Fair 4-H Beef Show.

Planning on showing their beef animals at the fair are four Wayne County boys: Jack, Jack, Jack and Susan Siewers and Leslie Thompson. Parents of those 4-H'ers are Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Siewers and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thompson all of rural Wakefield.

Dixon County has no entries in the beef show at Lincoln this year.

Judging in the beef show will take place over a two-day period, with Herefords leading off Sept. 6, followed by crossbreds. Judging of the Shortborns and Angus will be the next day and selection of reserve and grand champion market heifer and steer is expected before noon.

The showmanship contest will be held following the announcement.

Big Business

About 392 million tons of products are hauled from U.S. farms each year, nearly all of it requiring further handling by the food marketing system before being consumed.

The food marketing system has 700,000 firms. They employ the equivalent of 11 million workers. This includes 32,000 processing firms having 1.4 million workers; 30,000 wholesaling firms having 0.6 million workers; 294,000 retail stores having 1.4 million workers; and 334,000 eating places having 1.9 million workers.

Binding the food production networks into an organic whole are 200,000 miles of railroads, 2.3 million miles of interstate highways and 26,000 miles of improved waterways.

The food assembly line supplied the average consumer with 1,350 pounds of food. The farm value of these foods was $32.1 billion; value added by the marketing system was $63.2 billion. Total food expenditures, $114 billion, were 16.7 per cent of disposable consumer income.

About 81 of every $9 in the gross national product is accounted for by the food industry.

NI Field Days

The NE Northeast Station will host its annual Crops Field Day Sept. 9, and a Soybean Field Day at NE Field Laboratory at Mead is scheduled for Sept. 23.

The field day at Concord will center around observation of selected experimental sites around the station, according to Cal Ward, director at the Northeast Station.

Results of two types of terraces and their influence on water and soil conservation will be discussed, along with studies on row spacing and fertilization. Participants at the field day will also see corn planted directly in alfalfa sod with no ground preparation and a number of various weed

Yard & Garden Tips

Q. What can be done to get rid of rust on Manhattan Blue-grass?
A. Probably nothing should be done right now. Later this fall sulphur or a rusticide could be applied.

Q. Can violets be controlled without hurting other flowers or crops?
A. They can be controlled by Silvex and should be sprayed in October for the best results.

Q. How can I control bindweed in my garden and lawn?
A. It would probably be best to hoe out bindweed in your garden for a couple of years. In your lawn you may use 2,4-D or amine salts.

Q. Is it all right to cut rhubarb that is only a year old?
A. It would not be advisable to cut rhubarb until it has a full growth.
